and the word of the lord came to me, saying: son of man, set thy face against gog, the land of magog, the chief prince of mosoch and thubal: and prophesy of him, and say to him: thus saith the lord god: behold, i come against thee, o gog, the chief prince of mosoch and thubal. and i will turn thee about, and i will put a bit in thy jaws: and i will bring thee forth, and ail thy army, horses and horsemen all clothed with coats of mail, a great multitude, armed with spears and shields and swords. the persians, ethiopians, and libyans with them, all with shields and helmets. gomer, and all his bands, the house of thogorma, the northern parts and all his strength, and many peoples with thee. prepare and make thyself ready, and all thy multitude that is assembled about thee, and be thou commander over them. after many days thou shalt be visited: at the end of years thou shalt come to the land that is returned from the sword, and is gathered out of many nations, to the mountains of israel which have been continually waste: but it hath been brought forth out of the nations, and they shall all of them dwell securely in and thou shalt go up and come like a storm, and like a cloud to cover the land, thou and all thy bands and many people with thee. thus saith the lord god: in that day projects shall enter into thy heart, and thou shalt conceive a mischievous design. and thou shalt say: i will go up to the land which is without a wall, i will come to them that are at rest, and dwell securely: all these dwell without a wall, they have no bars nor gates: to take spoils, and lay hold on the prey, to lay thy hand upon them that had been wasted, and afterwards restored, and upon the people that is gathered together out of the nations, which hath begun to possess and to dwell in the midst of the earth. saba, and dedan, and the merchants of tharsis, and all the lions thereof shall say to thee: art thou come to take spoils? behold, thou hast gathered thy multitude to take a prey, to take silver, and gold, and to carry away goods and substance, and to take rich spoils. therefore, thou son of man, prophesy and say to cog: thus saith the lord god: shalt thou not know, in that day, when my people of israel shall dwell securely? and then shalt come out of thy place from the northern parts, thou and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horses, a great company and a mighty army. and thou shalt come upon my people of israel like a cloud, to cover the earth. thou shalt be in the latter days, and i will bring thee upon my land: that the nations may know me, when i shall be sanctified in thee, o cog, before their eyes. thus saith the lord god: thou then art he, of whom i have spoken in the days of old, by my servants the prophets of israel, who prophesied in the days of those times that i would bring thee upon them. and it shall come to pass in that day, in the day of the coming of gog upon the land of israel, saith the lord god, that my indignation shall come up in my wrath. and i have spoken in my zeal, and in the fire of my anger, that in that day there shall be a great commotion upon the land of israel: so that the fishes of the sea, and the birds of the air, and the beasts of the field, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the ground, and all men that are upon the face of the earth, shall be moved at my presence: and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the hedges shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground. and i will call in the sword against him in all my mountains, saith the lord god: every man's sword shall be pointed against his brother. and i will judge him with pestilence, and with blood, and with violent rain, and vast hailstones: i will rain fire and brimstone upon him, and upon his army, and upon the many nations that are with him. and i will be magnified, and i will be sanctified: and i will be known in the eyes of many nations: and they shall know that i am the lord.

and thou, son of man, prophesy against cog, and say: thus saith the lord god: behold, i come against thee, o cog, the chief prince of mosoch and thubal. and i will turn thee round, and i will lead thee out, and will make thee go up from the northern parts: and will bring thee upon the mountains of israel. and i will break thy bow in thy left hand, and i will cause thy arrows to fall out of thy right hand. thou shalt fall upon the mountains of israel, thou and all thy bands, and thy nations that are with thee: i have given thee to the wild beasts, to the birds, and to every fowl, and to the beasts of the earth to be devoured. thou shalt fall upon the face of the field: for i have spoken it, saith the lord god. and i will send a fire on magog, and on them that dwell confidently in the islands: and they shall know that i am the lord. and i will make my holy name known in the midst of my people israel, and my holy name shall be profaned no more: and the gentiles shall know that i am the lord, the holy one of israel. behold it cometh, and it is done, saith the lord god: this is the day whereof i have spoken. and the inhabitants shall go forth of the cities of israel, and shall set on fire and burn the weapons, the shields, and the spears, the bows and the arrows, and the hand-staves and the pikes: and they shall burn them with fire seven years. and they shall not bring wood out of the countries, nor cut down out of the forests: for they shall burn the weapons with fire, and shall make a prey of them to whom they had been a prey, and they shall rob those that robbed them, saith the lord god. and it shall come to pass in that day, that i will give cog a noted place for a sepulchre in israel: the valley of the passengers on the east of the sea, which shall cause astonishment in them that pass by: and there shall they bury cog, and all his multitude, and it shall be called the valley of the multitude of cog. and the house of israel shall bury them for seven months to cleanse the land. and all the people of the land shall bury him, and it shall be unto them a noted day, wherein i was glorified, saith the lord god. and they shall appoint men to go continually about the land, to bury and to seek out them that were remaining upon the face of the earth, that they may cleanse it: and after seven months they shall begin to seek. and they shall go about passing through the land: and when they shall see the bone of a man, they shall set up a sign by it, till the buriers bury it in the valley of the multitude of cog. and the name of the city shall be amona, and they shall cleanse the land. and thou, o son of man, saith the lord god, say to every fowl, and to all the birds, and to all the beasts of the field: assemble yourselves, make haste, come together from every side to my victim, which i slay for you, a great victim upon the mountains of israel: to eat flesh, and drink blood. you shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and you shall drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of rams, and of lambs, and of he goats, and bullocks, and of all that are well fed and fat. and you shall eat the fat till you be full, and shall drink blood till you be drunk of the victim which i shall slay for you. and you shall be filled at my table with horses, and mighty horsemen, and all the men of war, saith the lord god. and i will set my glory among the nations: and all nations shall see my judgment that i have executed, and my hand that i have laid upon them. and the house of israel shall know that i am the lord their god from that day and forward. and the nations shall know that the house of israel were made captives for their iniquity, because they forsook me, and i hid my face from them: and i delivered them into the hands of their enemies, and they fell all by the sword. i have dealt with them according to their uncleanness, and wickedness, and hid my face from them. therefore, thus saith the lord god: now will i bring back the captivity of jacob, and will have mercy on all the house of israel: and i will be jealous for my holy name. and they shall bear their confusion, and all the transgressions wherewith they have transgressed against me, when they shall dwell in their land securely fearing no man: and i shall have brought them back from among the nations, and shall have gathered them together out of the lands of their enemies, and shall be sanctified in them, in the sight of many nations. and they shall know that i am the lord their god, because i caused them to be carried away among the nations; and i have gathered them together unto their own land, and have not left any of them there. and i will hide my face no more from them, for i have poured out my spirit upon all the house of israel, saith the lord god.

in the five and twentieth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, the tenth day of the month, the fourteenth year after the city was destroyed: in the selfsame day the hand of the lord was upon me, and he brought me thither. in the visions of god he brought me into the land of israel, and set me upon a very high mountain: upon which there was as the building of a city, bending towards the south. and he brought me in thither, and behold a man, whose appearance was like the appearance of brass, with a line of flax in his hand, and a measuring reed in his hand, and he stood in the gate. and this man said to me: son of man, see with thy eyes, and hear with thy ears, and set thy heart upon all that i shall shew thee: for thou art brought hither that they may be shewn to thee: declare all that thou seest, to the house of israel. and behold there was a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits and a handbreadth: and he measured the breadth of the building one reed, and the height one reed. and he came to the gate that looked toward the east, and he went up the steps thereof: and he measured the breadth of the threshold of the gate one reed, that is, one threshold was one reed broad: and every little chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad: and between the little chambers were five cubits: and the threshold of the gate by the porch of the gate within, was one reed. and he measured the porch of the gate eight cubits, and the front thereof two cubits: and the porch of the gate was inward. and the little chambers of the gate that looked eastward were three on this side, and three on that side: all three were of one measure, and the fronts of one measure, on both parts. and he measured the breadth of the threshold of the gate ten cubits: and the length of the gate thirteen cubits: and the border before the little chambers one cubit: and one cubit was the border on both sides: and the little chambers were six cubits on this side and that side. and he measured the gate from the roof of one little chamber to the roof of another, in breadth five and twenty cubits: door against door. he made also fronts of sixty cubits: and to the front the court of the gate on every side round about. and before the face of the gate which reached even to the face of the porch of the inner gate, fifty cubits. and slanting windows in the little chambers, and in their fronts, which were within the gate on every side round about: and in like manner there were also in the porches windows round about within, and before the fronts the representation of palm trees. and he brought me into the outward court, and behold there were chambers, and a pavement of stone in the court round about: thirty chambers encompassed the pavement. and the pavement in the front of the gates according to the length of the gates was lower. and he measured the breadth from the face of the lower gate to the front of the inner court without, a hundred cubits to the east, and to the north. he measured also both the length and the breadth of the gate of the outward court, which looked northward. and the little chambers thereof three on this side, and three on that side: and the front thereof, and the porch thereof according to the measure of the former gate, fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad. and the windows thereof, and the porch, and the gravings according to the measure of the gate that looked to the east, and they went up to it by seven steps, and a porch was before it. and the gate of the inner court was over against the gate of the north, and that of the ease: and he measured from gate to gate a hundred cubits. and he brought me out to the way of the south, and behold the gate that looked to the south: and he measured the front thereof, and the porch thereof according to the former measures. and the windows thereof, and the porches round about, as the other windows: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. and there were seven steps to go up to it: and a porch before the doors thereof: and there were graven palm trees, one on this side, and another on that side in the front thereof. and there was a gate of the inner court towards the south: and he measured from gate to gate towards the south, a hundred cubits. and he brought me into the inner court at the south gate: and he measured the gate according to the former measures. the little chamber thereof, and the front thereof, and the porch thereof with the same measures: and the windows thereof, and the porch thereof round about it was fifty cubits in length, and five and twenty cubits in breadth. and the porch round about was five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad. and the porch thereof to the outward court, and the palm trees thereof in the front: and there were eight steps to go up to it. and he brought me into the inner court by the way of the east: and he measured the gate according to the former measures. the little chamber thereof, and the front thereof, and the porch thereof as before: and the windows thereof, and the porches thereof round about it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad. and the porch thereof, that is, of the outward court: and the graven palm trees in the front thereof on this side and on that side: and the going up thereof was by eight steps. and he brought me into the gate that looked to the north: and he measured according to the former measures. the little chamber thereof, and the front thereof, and the porch thereof, and the windows thereof round about it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad. and the porch thereof looked to the outward court: and the graving of palm trees in the front thereof was on this side and on that side: and the going up to it was by eight steps. and at every chamber was a door in the forefronts of the gates: there they washed the holocaust. and in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side, and two tables on that side: that the holocaust, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering might be slain thereon. and on the outward side, which goeth up to the entry of the gate that looketh toward the north, were two tables. and at the other side before the porch of the gate were two tables. four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side: at the sides of the gate were eight tables, upon which they slew the victims. and the four tables for the holocausts were made of square stones: one cubit and a half long, and one cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high: to lay the vessels upon, in which the holocaust and the victim is slain. and the borders of them were of one handbreadth, turned inwards round about: and upon the tables was the flesh of the offering. and without the inner gate were the chambers of the singing men in the inner court, which was on the side of the gate that looketh to the north: and their prospect was towards the south, one at the side of the east gate, which looketh toward the north. and he said to me: this chamber, which looketh toward the south shall be for the priests that watch in the wards of the temple. but the chamber that looketh towards the north shall be for the priests that watch over the ministry of the altar. these are the sons of sadoq, who among the sons of levi, come near to the lord, to minister to him. and he measured the court a hundred cubits long, and a hundred cubits broad foursquare: and the altar that was before the face of the temple. and he brought me into the porch of the temple: and he measured the porch five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side. and the length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits, and there were eight steps to go up to it. and there were pillars in the fronts: one on this side, and another on that side.

and he brought me into the temple, and he measured the fronts six cubits broad on this side, and six cubits on that side, the breadth of the tabernacle. and

the breadth of the gate was ten cubits: and the sides of the gate five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and he measured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. then going inward he measured the front of the gate two cubits: and the gate six cubits, and the breadth of the gate seven cubits. and he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits, before the face of the temple: and he said to me: this is the holy of holies. and he measured the wall of the house six cubits: and the breadth of every side chamber four cubits round about the house on every side. and the side chambers one by another, were twice thirty-three: and they bore outwards, that they might enter in through the wall of the house in the sides round about, to hold in, and not to touch the wall of the temple. and there was a broad passage round about, going up by winding stairs, and it led into the upper loft of the temple all round: therefore was the temple broader in the higher parts: and so from the lower parts they went to the higher by the midst. and i saw in the house the height round about, the foundations of the side chambers which were the measure of a reed the space of six cubits: and the thickness of the wall for the side chamber without, which was five cubits: and the inner house was within the side chambers of the house. and between the chambers was the breadth of twenty cubits round about the house on every side. and the door of the side chambers was turned towards the place of prayer: one door was toward the north, and another door was toward the south: and the breadth of the place for prayer, was five cubits round about. and the building that was separate, and turned to the way that looked toward the sea, was seventy cubits broad: and the wall of the building, five cubits thick round about: and ninety cubits long. and he measured the length of the house, a hundred cubits: and the separate building, and the walls thereof, a hundred cubits in length. and the breadth before the face of the house, and of the separate place toward the east, a hundred cubits. and he measured the length of the building over against it, which was separated at the back of it: and the galleries on both sides a hundred cubits: and the inner temple, and the porches of the court. the thresholds, and the oblique windows, and the galleries round about on three sides, over against the threshold of every one, and floored with wood all round about: and the ground was up to the windows, and the windows were shut over the doors. and even to the inner house, and without all the wall round about within and without, by measure. and there were cherubims and palm trees wrought, so that a palm tree was between a cherub and a cherub, and every cherub had two faces. the face of a man was toward the palm tree on one side, and the face of a lion was toward the palm tree on the other side: set forth through all the house round about. from the ground even to the upper parts of the gate, were cherubims and palm trees wrought in the wall of the temple. the threshold was foursquare, and the face of the sanctuary, sight to sight. the altar of wood was three cubits high: and the length thereof was two cubits: and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof were of wood. and he said to me: this is the table before the lord. and there were two doors in the temple, and in the sanctuary. and in the two doors on both sides were two little doors, which were folded within each other: for there were two wickets on both sides of the doors. and there were cherubims also wrought in the doors of the temple, and the figures of palm trees, like as were made on the walls: for which cause also the planks were thicker in the front of the porch without. upon which were the oblique windows, and the representation of palm trees on this side, and on that side in the sides of the porch, according to the sides of the house, and the breadth of the walls.

and he brought me forth into the outward court by the way that leadeth to the north, and he brought me into the chamber that was over against the separate building, and over against the house toward the north. in the face of the north door was the length of a hundred cubits, and the breadth of fifty cubits. over against the twenty cubits of the inner court, and over against the pavement of the outward court that was paved with stone, where there was a gallery joined to a triple gallery. and before the chambers was a walk ten cubits broad, looking to the inner parts of a way of one cubit. and their doors were toward the north. where were the store chambers lower above: because they bore up the galleries, which appeared above out of them from the lower parts, and from the midst of the building. for they were of three stories, and had not pillars, as the pillars of the courts: therefore did they appear above out of the lower places, and out of the middle places, fifty cubits from the ground. and the outward wall that went about by the chambers, which were towards the outward court on the forepart of the chambers, was fifty cubits long. for the length of the chambers of the outward court was fifty cubits: and the length before the face of the temple, a hundred cubits. and there was under these chambers, an entrance from the east, for them that went into them out of the outward court. in the breadth of the outward wall of the court that was toward the east, over against the separate building, and there were chambers before the building. and the way before them was like the chambers which were toward the north: they wore as long as they, and as broad as they: and all the going is to them, and their fashions, and their doors were alike. according to the doors of the chambers that were towards the south: there was a door in the head of the way, which way was before the porch, separated towards the east as one entereth in. and he said to me: the chambers of the north, and the chambers of the south, which are before the separate building: they are holy chambers, in which the priests shall eat, that approach to the lord into the holy of holies: there they shall lay the most holy things, and the offering for sin, and for trespass: for it is a holy place. and when the priests shall have entered in, they shall not go out of the holy places into the outward court: but there they shall lay their vestments, wherein they minister, for they are holy: and they shall put on other garments, and so they shall go forth to the people. now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me out by the way of the gate that looked toward the east: and he measured it on every side round about. and he measured toward the east with the measuring reed, five hundred reeds with the measuring reed round about. and he measured toward the north five hundred reeds with the measuring reed round about. and towards the south he measured five hundred reeds with the measuring reed round about. and toward the west he measured five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed. by the four winds he measured the wall thereof on every side round about, five hundred cubits long and five hundred cubits broad, making a separation between the sanctuary and the place of the people.

and he brought me to the gate that looked towards the east. and behold the glory of the god of israel came in by the way of the east: and his voice was like the noise of many waters, and the earth shone with his majesty. and i saw the vision according to the appearance which i had seen when he came to destroy the city: and the appearance was according to the vision which i had seen by the river chobar: and i fell upon my face. and the majesty of the lord went into the temple by the way of the gate that looked to the east. and the spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court: and behold the house was filled with the glory of the lord. and i heard one speaking to me out of the house, and the man that stood by me, said to me: son of man, the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, where i dwell in the midst of the children of israel for ever: and the house of israel shall no more profane my holy name, they and their kings by their fornications, and by the carcasses of their kings, and by the high places. they who have set their threshold by my threshold, and their posts by my posts: and there was but a wall between me and them: and they profaned my holy name by the abominations which they committed: for which reason i consumed them in my wrath. now therefore let them put away their fornications, and the carcasses of their kings far from me: and i will dwell in the midst of them for ever. but thou, son of man, shew to the house of israel the temple, and let them be ashamed of their iniquities, and let them measure the building: and be ashamed of all that they have done. shew them the form of the house, and of the fashion thereof, the goings out and the comings in, and the whole plan thereof, and all its ordinances, and all its order, and all its laws, and thou shalt write it in their sight: that they may keep the whole form thereof, and its ordinances, and do them. this is the law of the house upon the top of the mountain: all its border round about is most holy: this then is the law of the house. and these are the measures of the altar by the truest cubit, which is a cubit and a handbreadth: the bottom thereof was a cubit, and the breadth a cubit: and the border thereof unto its edge, and round about, one

handbreadth: and this was the trench of the altar. and from the bottom of the ground to the lowest brim two cubits, and the breadth of one cubit: and from the lesser brim to the greater brim four cubits, and the breadth of one cubit. and the ariel itself was four cubits: and from the ariel upward were four horns. and the ariel was twelve cubits long, and twelve cubits broad, foursquare, with equal sides. and the brim was fourteen cubits long, and fourteen cubits broad in the four corners thereof: and the crown round about it was half a cubit, and the bottom of it one cubit round about: and its steps turned toward the east. and he said to me: son of man, thus saith the lord god: these are the ceremonies of the altar, in what day soever it shall be made: that holocausts may be offered upon it, and blood poured out. and thou shalt give to the priests, and the levites, that are of the race of sadoc, who approach to me, saith the lord god, to offer to me a calf of the herd for sin. and thou shalt take of his blood, and shalt put it upon the four horns thereof, and upon the four corners of the brim, and upon the crown round about: and thou shalt cleanse, and expiate it. and thou shalt take the calf, that is offered for sin: and thou shalt burn him in a separate place of the house without the sanctuary. and in the second day thou shalt offer a he goat without blemish for sin: and they shall expiate the altar, as they expiated it with the calf. and when thou shalt have made an end of the expiation thereof, thou shalt offer a calf of the herd without blemish, and a ram of the flock without blemish. and thou shalt offer them in the sight of the lord: and the priests shall put salt upon them, and shall offer them a holocaust to the lord. seven days shalt thou offer a he goat for sill daily: they shall offer also a calf of the herd, and a ram of the flock without blemish. seven days shall they expiate the altar, and shall cleanse it: and they shall consecrate it. and the days being, expired, on the eighth day and thenceforward, the priests shall offer your holocausts upon the altar, and the peace offerings: and i will be pacified towards you, saith the lord god.

and he brought me back to the way of the gate of the outward sanctuary, which looked towards the east: and it was shut. and the lord said to me: this gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and no man shall pass through it: because the lord the god of israel hath entered in by it, and it shall be shut for the prince. the prince himself shall sit in it, to eat bread before the lord: he shall enter in by the way of the porch of the gate, and shall go out by the same way. and he brought me by the way of the north gate, in the sight of the house: and i saw, and behold the glory of the lord filled the house of the lord: and i fell on my face. and the lord said to me: son of man, attend with thy heart, and behold with thy eyes, and hear with thy ears, all that i say to thee concerning all the ceremonies of the house of the lord, and concerning all the laws thereof: and mark well the ways of the temple, with all the goings out of the sanctuary. and thou shalt say to the house of israel that provoketh me: thus saith the lord god: let all your wicked doings suffice you, O house of israel: in that you have brought in strangers uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, and to defile my house: and you offer my bread, the fat, and the blood: and you have broken my covenant by all your wicked doings. and you have not kept the ordinances of my sanctuary: but you have set keepers of my charge in my sanctuary for yourselves. thus saith the lord god: no stranger uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, no stranger that is in the midst of the children of israel. moreover the levites that went away far from me, when the children of israel went astray, and have wandered from me after their idols, and have borne their iniquity: they shall be officers in my sanctuary, and doorkeepers of the gates of the house, and ministers to the house: they shall slay the holocausts, and the victims of the people: and they shall stand in their sight, to minister to them. because they ministered to them before their idols, and were a stumblingblock of iniquity to the house of israel: therefore have i lifted up my hand against them, saith the lord god, and they shall bear their iniquity: and they shall not come near to me to do the office of priest to me, neither shall they come near to any of my holy things that are by the holy of holies: but they shall bear their shame, and their wickednesses which they have committed. and i will make them doorkeepers of the house, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein. but the priests, and levites, the sons of sadoc, who kept the ceremonies of my sanctuary, when the children of israel went astray from me, they shall come near to me, to minister to me: and they shall stand before me, to offer me the fat, and the blood, saith the lord god. they shall enter into my sanctuary, and they shall come near to my table, to minister unto me, and to keep my ceremonies. and when they shall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they shall be clothed with linen garments: neither shall any woollen come upon them, when they minister in the gates of the inner court and within. they shall have linen mitres on their heads, and linen breeches on their loins, and they shall not be girded with any thing that causeth sweat. and when they shall go forth to the outward court to the people, they shall put off their garments wherein they ministered, and lay them up in the store chamber of the sanctuary, and they shall clothe themselves with other garments: and they shall not sanctify the people with their vestments. neither shall they shave their heads, nor wear long hair: but they shall only poll their heads. and no priest shall drink wine when he is to go into the inner court. neither shall they take to wife a widow, nor one that is divorced, but they shall take virgins of the seed of the house of israel: but they may take a widow also, that is, the widow of a priest. and they shall teach my people the difference between holy and profane, and shew them how to discern between clean and unclean. and when there shall be a controversy, they shall stand in my judgments, and shall judge: they shall keep my laws, and my ordinances in all my solemnities, and sanctify my sabbaths. and they shall come near no dead person, lest they be defiled, only their father and mother, and son and daughter, and brother and sister, that hath not had another husband: for whom they may become unclean. and after one is cleansed, they shall reckon unto him seven days. and in the day that he goeth into the sanctuary, to the inner court, to minister unto me in the sanctuary, he shall offer for his sin, saith the lord god. and they shall have no inheritance, i am their inheritance: neither shall you give them any possession in israel, for i am their possession. they shall eat the victim both for sin and for trespass: and every vowed thing in israel shall be theirs. and the firstfruits of all the firstborn, and all the libations of all things that are offered, shall be the priest's: and you shall give the firstfruits of your meats to the priest, that he may return a blessing upon thy house. the priests shall not eat of any thing that is dead of itself or caught by a beast, whether it be fowl or cattle.

and when you shall begin to divide the land by lot, separate ye firstfruits to the lord, a portion of the land to be holy, in length twenty-five thousand and in breadth ten thousand: it shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about. and there shall be for the sanctuary on every side five hundred by five hundred, foursquare round about: and fifty cubits for the suburbs thereof round about. and with this measure thou shalt measure the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand, and in it shall be the temple and the holy of holies. the holy portion of the land shall be for the priests the ministers of the sanctuary, who come near to the ministry of the lord: and it shall be a place for their houses, and for the holy place of the sanctuary. and five and twenty thousand of length, and ten thousand of breadth shall be for the levites, that minister in the house: they shall possess twenty store chambers. and you shall appoint the possession of the city five thousand broad, and five and twenty thousand long, according to the separation of the sanctuary, for the whole house of israel. for the prince also on the one side and on the other side, according to the separation of the sanctuary, and according to the possession of the city, over against the separation of the sanctuary, and over against the possession of the city: from the side of the sea even to the sea, and from the side of the east; even to the east. and the length according to every part from the west border to the east border. he shall have a portion of the lead in israel: and the princes shall no more rob my people: but they shall give the land to the house of israel according to their tribes: thus saith the lord god: let it suffice you, o princes of israel: cease from iniquity and robberies, and execute judgment and justice, separate your confines from my people, saith the lord god. you shall have just balances, and a just ephi, and a just bate. the ephi and the bate shall be equal, and of one measure: that the bate may contain the tenth part of a core, and the ephi the tenth part of a core: their weight shall be equal according to the measure of a core. and the sicle hath twenty obols. now twenty sides, and five and twenty sides, and fifteen sides make a mna. and these are the firstfruits, which you shall take: the sixth part of an ephi of a core of wheat, and the sixth part of an ephi of a core of barley. the measure of oil also, a bate of oil is the tenth part of a core: and ten bates make a core: for ten bates fill a core. and one ram out of a flock of two hundred, of those that israel feedeth for sacrifice, and for holocausts, and for peace offerings, to make atonement for them, saith the lord god. all the people of the land shall be bound to these firstfruits for the prince in israel. and the prince shall give the holocaust, and the sacrifice, and the libations on the feasts, and on the new moons, and on the sabbaths, and on all the solemnities of the house of israel: he shall offer the sacrifice for sin, and the holocaust, and the peace offerings to make expiation for the house of israel. thus saith the lord god: in the first month, the first of the month, thou shalt take a calf of the herd without blemish, and thou shalt expiate the sanctuary. and the priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering: and he shall put it on the posts of the house, and on the four corners of the brim of the altar, and on the posts of the gate of the inner court. and so shalt thou do in the seventh day of the month, for every one that hath been ignorant, and hath been deceived by error, and thou shalt make expiation for the house. in the first month, the fourteenth day of the month, you shall observe the solemnity of the pasch: seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten. and the prince on that day shall offer for himself, and for all the people of the land, a calf for sin. and in the solemnity of the seven days he shall offer for a holocaust to the lord, seven calves, and seven rams without blemish daily for seven days: and for sin a he goat daily. and he shall offer the sacrifice of an ephi for every calf, and an ephi for every ram: and a hin of oil for every ephi. in the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, in the solemn feast, he shall do the like for the seven days: as well in regard to the sin offering, as to the holocaust, and. the sacrifice, and the

thus saith the lord god: the gate of the inner court that looketh toward the east, shall be shut the six days, on which work is done; but on the sabbath day it shall be opened, yea and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened. and the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of the gate from without, and he shall stand at the threshold of the gate: and the priests shall offer his holocaust, and his peace offerings: and he shall adore upon the threshold of the gate, and shall go out: but the gate shall not be shut till the evening. and the people of the land shall adore at the door of that gate before the lord on the sabbaths, and on the new moons. and the holocaust that the prince shall offer to the lord on the sabbath day, shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish. and the sacrifice of an ephi for a ram: but for the lambs what sacrifice his hand shall allow: and a hin of oil for every ephi. and on the day of the new moon a calf of the herd without blemish: and the six lambs, and the

rams shall be without blemish. and he shall offer in sacrifice an ephi for a calf, an ephi also for a ram: but for the lambs, as his hand shall find : and a hin of oil for every ephi. and when the prince is to go in, let him go in by the way of the porch of the gate, and let him go out the same way. but when the people of the land shall go in before the lord in the solemn feasts, he that goeth in by the north gate to adore, shall go out by the way of the south gate : and he that; goeth in by the way of the south gate, shall go out by the way of the north gate: he shall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but shall go out at that over against it. and the prince in the midst of them, shall go in when they go in, and go out when they go out. and in the fairs, and in the solemnities there shall be the sacrifice of an ephi to a calf, and an ephi to a ram: and to the lambs, the sacrifice shall be as his hand shall find: and a hin of oil to every ephi. but when the prince shall offer a voluntary holocaust, or voluntary peace offerings to the lord : the gate that looketh towards the east shall be opened to him, and he shall offer his holocaust, and his peace offerings, as it is wont to be done on the sabbath day: and he shall go out, and the gate shall be shut after he is gone forth. and he shall offer every day for a holocaust to the lord, a lamb of the same year without blemish: he shall offer it always in the morning. and he shall offer the sacrifice for it morning by morning, the sixth part of ephi: and the third part of a bin of oil be mingled with the fine hour: a to the lord by ordinance continual and everlasting. he shall offer the lamb, and the sacrifice, and the oil morning by morning: an everlasting holocaust. thus saith the lord god: if the prince give a gift to any of his sons: the inheritance of it shall go to his children, they shall possess it by inheritance. but if he give a legacy out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his until the year of release, and it shall return to the prince: but his inheritance shall go to his sons. and the prince shall not take of the people's inheritance by violence, nor of their possession : but out of his own possession he shall give an inheritance to his sons: that my people be not dispersed every man from his possession. and he brought me in by the entry that was at the side of the gate, into the chambers of the sanctuary that were for the priests, which looked toward the north. and there was a place bending to the west. and he said to me: this is the place where the priests shall boil the sin offering, and the trespass offering: where they shall dress the sacrifice, that they may not bring it out into the outward court, and the people be sanctified. and he brought me into the outward court, and he led me about by the four corners of the court: and behold there was a little court in the corner of the court, to every corner of the court there was a little court. in the four corners of the court were little courts disposed, forty cubits long, and thirty broad, all the four were of one measure. and there was a wall round about compassing the four little courts, and there were kitchens built under the rows round about. and he said to me: this is the house of the kitchens wherein the ministers of the house of the lord shall boil the victims of the people.

and he brought me again to the gate of the house, and behold waters issued out from under the threshold of the house toward the east: for the forefront, of the house looked toward the east: but the waters came down to the right side of the temple to the south part of the altar. and he led me out by the way of the north gate, and he caused me to turn to the way without the outward gate to the way that looked toward the east: and behold there ran out waters on the right side. and when the man that had the line in his hand went out towards the east, he measured a thousand cubits: and he brought me through the water up to the ankles. and again he measured a thousand, and he brought me through the water up to the knees. and he measured a thousand. and he brought me through the water up to the loins. and he measured a thousand, and it was a torrent, which i could not pass over: for the waters were risen so as to make a deep torrent, which could not be passed over. and he said to me: surely thou hast seen, o son of man. and he brought me out, and he caused me to turn to the bank of the torrent. and when i had turned myself, behold on the bank of the torrent were very many trees on both sides. and he said to me: these waters that issue forth toward the hillocks of sand to the east, and go down to the plains of the desert, shall go into the sea, and shall go out, and the waters shall be healed. and every living creature that creepeth whithersoever the torrent shall come, shall live: and there shall be fishes in abundance after these waters shall come thither, and they shall be healed, and all things shall live to which the torrent shall come. and the fishers shall stand over these waters, from engaddi even to engallim there shall be drying of nets: there shall be many sorts of the fishes thereof, as the fishes of the great sea, a very great multitude : but on the shore thereof, and in the fenny places they shall not be healed, because they shall be turned into salt-pits. and by the torrent on the banks thereof on both sides shall grow all trees that bear fruit: their leaf shall not fall off, and their fruit shall not fail: every month shall they bring forth firstfruits, because the waters thereof shall issue out of the sanctuary: and the fruits thereof shall be for food, and the leaves thereof for medicine. thus saith the lord god: this is the border, by which you shall possess the land according to the twelve tribes of israel: for joseph hath a double portion. and you shall possess it, every man in like manner as his brother: concerning which i lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers: and this land shall fall unto you for a possession. and this is the border of the land: toward the north side, from the great sea by the way of hethalon, as men go to sedada, emath, berotha, sabarim, which is between the border of damascus and the border of emath, the house of tichon, which is by the border of auran. and the border from the sea even to the court of enan, shall be the border of damascus, and from the north to the north: the border of emath, this is the north side. and the east side is from the midst of auran, and from the midst of damascus, and from the midst of galaad, and from the midst of the land of israel, jordan making the bound to the east sea, and thus you shall measure the east side. and the south side southward is from thamar even to the waters of contradiction of cades: and the torrent even to the great sea: and this is the south side southward. and the side toward the sea, is the great sea from the borders straight on, till thou come to emath: this is the side of the sea. and you shall divide this land unto you by the tribes of israel: and you shall divide it by lot for an inheritance to you, and to the strangers that shall come over to you, that shall beget children among you: and they shall be unto you as men of the same country born among the children of israel: they shall divide the possession with you in the midst of the tribes of israel. and in what tribe soever the stranger shall be, there shall you give him possession, saith the lord god.

and these are the names of the tribes from the borders of the north, by the way of hethalon, as they go to emath, the court of enan the border of damascus northward, by the way of emath. and from the east side thereof to the sea, shall be one portion for dan. and by the border of dan, from the east side even to the side of the sea, one portion for aser: and by the border of aser, from the east side even to the side of the sea, one portion for nephthali. and by the border of nephthali, from the east side even to the side of the sea, one portion for manasses. and by the border of manasses, from the east side even to the side of the sea, one portion for ephraim. and by the border of ephraim, from the east side even to the side of the sea, one portion for ruben. and by the border of ruben, from the east side even to the side of the sea, one portion for juda. and by the border of juda, from the east side even to the side of the sea, shall be the firstfruits which you shall set apart, five and twenty thousand in breadth, and in length, as every one of the portions from the east side to the side of the sea: and the sanctuary shall be in the midst thereof. the firstfruits which you shall set apart for the lord : shall be the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand. and these shall be the firstfruits of the sanctuary for the priests: toward the north five and twenty thousand in length, and toward the sea ten thousand in breadth, and toward the east also ten thousand in breadth, and toward the south five and twenty thousand in length: and the sanctuary of the lord shall be in the midst thereof. the sanctuary shall be for the priests of the sons of sadoc, who kept my ceremonies, and went not astray when the children of israel went astray, as the levites also went astray. and for them shall be the firstfruits of the firstfruits of the land holy of holies, by the border of the levites. and the levites in like manner shall have by the borders of the priests five and twenty thousand in length, and ten thousand in breadth. all the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand. and they shall not sell thereof, nor exchange, neither shall the firstfruits of the land be alienated, because they are sanctified to the lord. but the five thousand that remain in the breadth over against the five and twenty thousand, shall be a profane place for the city for dwelling, and for suburbs: and the city shall be in the midst thereof. and these are the measures thereof: on the north side four thousand and five hundred: and on the south side four thousand and five hundred: and on the east side four thousand and five hundred: and on the west side four thousand and five hundred. and the suburbs of the city shall be to the north two hundred and fifty, and to the south two hundred and fifty, and to the east two hundred and fifty, and to the sea two hundred and fifty. and the residue in length by the firstfruits of the sanctuary, ten thousand toward the east, and ten thousand toward the west, shall be as the firstfruits of the sanctuary: and the fruits thereof shall be for bread to them that serve the city. and they that serve the city, shall serve it out of all the tribes of israel. all the firstfruits, of five and twenty thousand, by five and twenty thousand foursquare, shall be set apart for the firstfruits of the sanctuary, and for the possession of the city. and the residue shall be for the prince on every side of the firstfruits of the sanctuary, and of the possession of the city over against the five and twenty thousand of the firstfruits unto the east border: toward the sea also over against the five and twenty thousand, unto the border of the sea, shall likewise be the portion of the prince: and the firstfruits of the sanctuary, and the sanctuary of the temple shall be in the midst thereof. and from the possession of the levites, and from the possession of the city which ale in the midst of the prince's portions: what shall be to the border of juda, and to the border of benjamin, shall also belong to the prince. and for the rest of the tribes: from the east side to the west side, one portion for benjamin. and over against the border of benjamin, from the east side to the west side, one portion for simeon. and by the border of simeon, from the east side to the west side, one portion for issachar. and by the border of issachar, from the east side to the west side, one portion for zabulon. and by the border of zabulon, from the east side to the side of the sea, one portion for gad. and by the border of gad, the south side southward: and the border shall be from thamar, even to the waters of contradiction of cades, the inheritance over against the great sea. this is the land which you shall divide by lot to the tribes of israel: and these are the portions of them, saith the lord god. and these are the goings out of the city: on the north side thou shalt measure four thousand and five hundred. and the gates of the city according to the names of the tribes of israel, three gates on the north side, the gate of ruben one, the gate of juda one, the gate of levi one. and at the east side, four thousand and five hundred: and three gates, the gate of joseph one, the gate of benjamin one, the gate of dan one. and at the south side, thou shalt measure four thousand and five hundred: and three gates, the gate of simeon one, the gate of issachar one, the gate of zabulon one. and at the west side, four thousand and five hundred, and their three gates, the gate of gad one, the gate of aser one, the gate of nephthali one. its circumference was eighteen thousand: and the name of the city from that the word of the lord, that came to osee the son of beeri, in the days of ozias, joathan, achaz, and ezechias kings of juda, and in the days of jeroboam the son of joas king of israel. the beginning of the lord's speaking by osse: and the lord said to osee: go, take thee a wife of fornications, and have of her children of fornications: for the land by fornication shall depart from the lord. so he went, and took gomer the daughter of debelaim: and she conceived and bore him a son. and the lord said to him: call his name jezzrahel: for yet a little while, and i will visit the blood of jezzrahel upon the house of jehu, and i will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of israel. and in that day i will break in pieces the bow of israel in the valley of jezzrahel. and she conceived again, and bore a daughter, and he said to him: call her name, without mercy: for i will not add any more to have mercy on the house of israel, but i will utterly forget them. and i will have mercy on the house of juda, and i will save them by the lord their god: and i will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, nor by horses, nor by horsemen. and she weaned her that was called without mercy. and she conceived, and bore a son. and he said: call his name, not my people: for you are not my people, and i will not be yours. and the number of the children of israel shall be as the sand of the sea, that is without measure, and shall not be numbered. and it shall be in the place where it shall be said to them: you are not my people: it shall be said to them: ye are the sons of the living god. and the children of juda, and the children of israel shall be gathered together: and they shall appoint themselves one head, and shall come up out of the land: for great is the day of jezzrahel.

say ye to your brethren: you are my people, and to your sister: thou hast obtained mercy. judge your mother, judge her: because she is not my wife, and i am not her husband. let her put away her fornications from her face, and her adulteries from between her breasts. lest i strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was born: and i will make her as a wilderness, and will set her as a land that none can pass through, and will kill her with drought. and i will not have mercy on her children: for they are the children of fornications. for their mother hath committed fornication, she that conceived them is covered with shame: for she said: i will go after my lovers, that give me my bread, and my water, my wool, and my flax, my oil, and my drink. wherefore behold i will hedge up thy way with thorns, and i will stop it up with a wall, and she shall not find her paths. and she shall follow after her lovers, and shall not overtake them: and she shall seek them, and shall not find, and she shall say: i will go, and return to my first husband, because it was better with me then, than now. and she did not know that i gave her corn and wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver, and gold, which they have used in the service of baal. therefore will i return, and take away my corn in its season, and my wine in its season, and i will set at liberty my wool, and my flax, which covered her disgrace. and now i will lay open her folly in the eyes of her lovers: and no man shall deliver her out of my hand: and i will cause all her mirth to cease, her solemnities, her new moons, her sabbaths, and all her festival times. and i will destroy her vines, and her fig trees, of which she said: these are my rewards, which my lovers have given me: and i will make her as a forest, and the beasts of the field shall devour her. and i will visit upon her the days of baalim, to whom she burnt incense, and decked herself out with her earrings, and with her jewels, and went after her lovers, and forgot me, saith the lord. therefore, behold i will allure her, and will lead her into the wilderness: and i will speak to her heart. and i will give her vinedressers out of the same place, and the valley of achor for an opening of hope: and she shall sing there according to the days of her youth, and according to the days of her coming up out of the land of egypt. and it shall be in that day, saith the lord, that she shall call me: my husband, and she shall call me no more baali. and i will take away the names of baalim out of her mouth, and she shall no more remember their name. and in that day i will make a covenant with them, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of the air, and with the creeping things of the earth: and i will destroy the bow, and the sword, and war out of the land: and i will make them sleep secure. and i will espouse thee to me for ever: and i will espouse thee to me in justice, and judgment, and in mercy, and in commiserations. and i will espouse thee to me in faith: and thou shalt know that i am the lord. and it shall come to pass in that day: i will hear, saith the lord, i will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth. and the earth shall hear the core, and the wine, and the oil, and these shall hear jezzrahel. and i will sow her unto me in the earth, and i will have mercy on her that was without mercy. and i will say to that which was not my people: thou art my people: and they shall say: thou art my god.

and the lord said to me: go yet again, and love a woman beloved of her friend, and an adulteress: as the lord loveth the children of israel, and they look to strange gods, and love the husks of the grapes. and i bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for a core of barley, and for half a core of barley. and i said to her: thou shalt wait for me many days: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be no man's, and i also will wait for thee. for the children of israel shall sit many days without king, and without prince, and without sacrifice, and without altar, and without ephod, and without theraphim. and after this the children of israel shall return, and shall seek the lord their god, and david their king: and they shall fear the lord, and his goodness in the last days.

hear the word of the lord, ye children of israel, for the lord shall enter into judgment with the inhabitants of the land: for there is no truth, and there is no mercy, and there is no knowledge of god in the land. cursing, and lying, and killing, and theft, and adultery have overflowed, and blood hath touched blood. therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth in it shall languish with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of the air: yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be gathered together. but yet let not any man judge: and let not a man be rebuked: for thy people are as they that contradict the priest. and thou shalt fall to day, and the prophet also shall fall with thee: in the night i have made thy mother to be silent. my people have been silent, because they had no knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, i will reject thee, that thou shalt not do the office of priesthood to me: and thou hast forgotten the law of thy god, i also will forget thy children. according to the multitude of them so have they sinned against me: i will change their glory into shame. they shall eat the sins of my people, and shall lift up their souls to their iniquity. and there shall be like people like priest: and i will visit their ways upon them, and i will repay them their devices. and they shall eat and shall not be filled: they have committed fornication, and have not ceased: because they have forsaken the lord in not observing his law. fornication, and wine, and drunkenness take away the understanding. my people have consulted their stocks, and their staff hath declared unto them: for the spirit of fornication hath deceived them, and they have committed fornication against their god. they offered sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burnt incense upon the hills: under the oak, and the poplar, and the turpentine tree, because the shadow thereof was good: therefore shall your daughters commit fornication, and your spouses shall be adulteresses. i will not visit upon your daughters when they shall commit fornication, and upon your spouses when they shall commit adultery: because themselves conversed with harlots, and offered sacrifice with the effeminate, and the people that doth not understand shall be beaten. if thou play the harlot, o israel, at least let not juda offend: and go ye not into galgal, and come not up into bethaven, and do not swear: the lord liveth. for israel hath gone astray like a wanton heifer: now will the lord feed them, as a lamb in a spacious place. ephraim is a partaker with idols, let him alone. their banquet is separated, they have gone astray by fornication: they that should have protected them have loved to bring shame upon them. the wind hath bound them up in its wings, and they shall be confounded because of their sacrifices.

hear ye this, o priests, and hearken, o ye house of israel, and give ear, o house of the king: for there is a judgment against you, because you have been a snare to them whom you should have watched over, and a

net spread upon thabor. and you have turned aside victims into the depth: and i am, the teacher of them all. i know ephraim, and israel is not hid from me: for now ephraim hath committed fornication, israel is defiled. they will not set their thoughts to return to their god: for the spirit of fornication is in the midst of them, and they have not known the lord. and the pride of israel shall answer in his face: and israel and ephraim shall fall in their iniquity, juda also shall fall with them. with their flocks, and with their herds, they shall go to seek the lord, and shall not find him: he is withdrawn from them. they have transgressed against the lord, for they have begotten children that are strangers: now shall a month devour them with their portions. blow ye the cornet in gaba, the trumpet in rama: howl ye in bethaven, behind thy back, o benjamin. ephraim shall be in desolation in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of israel i have shewn that which shall surely be. the princes of juda are become as they that take up the bound: i will pour out my wrath upon them like water. ephraim is under oppression, and broken in judgment: because he began to go after filthiness. and i will be like a moth to ephraim: and like rottenness to the house of juda. and ephraim saw his sickness, and juda his band: and ephraim went to the assyrian, and sent to the avenging king: and he shall not be able to heal you, neither shall he be able to take off the band from you. for i will be like a lioness to ephraim, and like a lion's whelp to the house of juda: i, i will catch, and go: i will take away, and there is none that can rescue. i will go and return to my place: until you are consumed, and seek my face.

in their affliction they will rise early to me: come, and let us return to the lord: for he hath taken us, and he will heal us: he will strike, and he will cure us. he will revive us after two days: on the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. we shall know, and we shall follow on, that we may know the lord. his going forth is prepared as the morning light, and he will come to us as the early and the latter rain to the earth. what shall i do to thee, o ephraim? what shall i do to thee, o juda? your mercy is as a morning cloud, and as the dew that goeth away in the morning, for this reason have i hewed them by the prophets, i have slain them by the words of my mouth: and thy judgments shall go forth as the light. for i desired mercy, and not sacrifice: and the knowledge of god more than holocausts. but they, like adam, have transgressed the covenant, there have they dealt treacherously against me. galaad is a city of workers of idols, supplanted with blood. and like the jaws of highway robbers, they conspire with the priests who murder in the way those that pass out sicheim: for they have wrought wickedness. i have seen a horrible thing in the house of israel: the fornications of ephraim there: israel is defiled. and thou also, o juda, set thee a harvest, when i shall bring back captivity of my people.

when i would have healed israel, the iniquity of ephraim was discovered, and the wickedness of samaria, for they have committed falsehood, and the thief is come in to steal, the robber is without, and lest they may say in their hearts, that i remember all their wickedness: their own devices now have beset them about, they have been done before my face. they have made the king glad with their wickedness: and the princes with their lies. they are all adulterers, like an oven heated by the baker: the city rested a little from the mingling of the leaven, till the whole was leavened. the day of our king, the princes began to be mad with wine: he stretched out his hand with scorners. because they have applied their heart like an oven, when he laid snares for them: he slept all the night baking them, in the morning he himself was heated as a flaming fire. they were all heated like an oven, and have devoured their judges: all their kings have fallen: there is none amongst them that calleth unto me. ephraim himself is mixed among the nations: ephraim is become as bread baked under the ashes, that is not turned. strangers have devoured his strength, and he knew it not: yea, grey hairs also are spread about upon him, and he is ignorant of it. and the pride of israel shall be humbled before his face: and they have not returned to the lord their god, nor have they sought him in all these. and ephraim is become as a dove that is decoyed, not having a heart: they called upon egypt, they went to the assyrians. and when they shall go, i will spread my net upon them: i will bring them down as the fowl of the air, i will strike them as their congregation hath heard. woe to them, for they have departed from me: they shall be wasted because they have transgressed against me: and i redeemed them: and they have spoken lies against me. and they have not cried to me with their heart, but they howled in their beds: they have thought upon wheat and wine, they are departed from me. and i have chastised them, and strengthened their arms: and they have imagined evil against me. they returned, that they might be without yoke: they became like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage of their tongue. this is their derision in the land of egypt.

let there be a trumpet in thy throat like an eagle upon the house of the lord: because they have transgressed my covenant, and have violated my law. they shall call upon me: o my god, we, israel, know thee. israel hath cast off the thing that is good, the enemy shall pursue him. they have reigned, but not by me: they have been princes, and i knew not: of their silver, and their gold they have made idols to themselves, that they might perish. thy calf, o samaria, is cast off, my wrath is kindled against them. how long will they be incapable of being cleansed? for itself also is the invention of israel: a workman made it, and it is no god: for the calf of samaria shall be turned to spiders' webs. for they shall sow wind, and reap a whirlwind, there is no standing stalk in it, the bud shall yield no meal; end if it should yield, strangers shall eat it. israel is swallowed up: now is he become among the nations like an unclean vessel. for they are gone up to assyria, a wild ass alone by himself: ephraim hath given gifts to his lovers. but even though they shall have hired the nations, now will i gather them together: and they shall rest a while from the burden of the king, and the princes. because ephraim hath made many altars to sin: altars are become to him unto sin. i shall write to him my manifold laws, which have been accounted as foreign. they shall offer victims, they shall sacrifice flesh, and shall eat it, and the lord will not receive them: now will he remember their iniquity, and will visit their sins: they shall return to egypt. and israel hath forgotten his maker, and hath built temples: and juda hath built many fenced cities: and i will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the houses thereof.

rejoice not, o israel: rejoice not as the nations do: for thou hast committed fornication against thy god, thou hast loved a reward upon every cornfloor. the floor and the winepress shall not feed them, and the wine shall deceive them. they shall not dwell in the lord's land: ephraim is returned to egypt, and hath eaten unclean things among the assyrians. they shall not offer wine to the lord, neither shall they please him: their sacrifices shall be like the bread of mourners: all that shall eat it shall be defiled: for their bread is life for their soul, it shall not enter into the house of the lord. what will you do in the solemn day, in the day of the feast of the lord? for behold they are gone because of destruction: egypt shall gather them together, memphis shall bury them: nettles shall inherit their beloved silver, the bur shall be in their tabernacles. the days of visitation are come, the days of repaying are come: know ye, o israel, that the prophet was foolish, the spiritual man was mad, for the multitude of thy iniquity, and the multitude of thy madness. the watchman of ephraim was with my god: the prophet is become a snare of ruin upon all his ways, madness is in the house of his god. they have sinned deeply, as in the days of gabaa: he will remember their iniquity, and will visit their sin. i found israel like grapes in the desert, i saw their fathers like the first-fruits of the fig tree in the top thereof: but they went in to beelphegor, and alienated themselves to that confusion, and became abominable, as those things were, which they loved. as for ephraim, their glory hath flown away like a bird from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception. and though they should bring up their children, i will make them without children among men: yea, and woe to them, when i shall depart from them. ephraim, as i saw, was a tyre founded in beauty: and ephraim shall bring out his children to the murderer. give them, o lord. what wilt thou give them? give them a womb without children, and dry breasts. all their wickedness is in galgal, for there i hated them: for the wickedness of their devices i will cast them forth out of my house: i will love them no more, all their princes are revolvers. ephraim is struck, their root is dried up, they shall yield no fruit. and if they should have issue, i will slay the best beloved fruit of their womb. my god will cast them away, because they hearkened not to him: and they shall be wanderers among the nations.

israel a vine full of branches, the fruit is agreeable to it: according to the multitude of his fruit he hath multiplied altars, according to the plenty of his land he hath abounded with idols. their heart is divided: now they shall perish: he shall break down their idols, he shall destroy their altars. for now they shall say: we have no king: because we fear not the lord: and what shall a king do to us? you speak words of an unprofitable vision, and you shall make a covenant: and judgment shall spring up as bitterness in the furrows of the field. the inhabitants of samaria have worshipped the king of bethaven: for the people thereof have mourned over it, and the wardens of its temple that rejoiced over it in its glory because it is departed from it. for itself also is carried into assyria, a present to the avenging king: shame shall fall upon ephraim, and israel shall be confounded in his own will. samaria hath made her king to pass as froth upon the face of the water. and the high places of the idol, the sin of israel shall be destroyed: the bur and the thistle shall grow up over their altars: and they shall say to the mountains: cover us; and to the hills: fall upon us. from the days of gabaa, israel hath sinned, there they stood: the battle in gabaa against the children of iniquity shall not overtake them. according to my desire i will chastise them: and the nations shall be gathered together against them, when they shall be chastised for their two iniquities. ephraim is a heifer taught to love to tread out corn, but i passed over upon the beauty of her neck: i will ride upon ephraim, juda shall plough, jacob shall break the furrows for himself. sow for yourselves in justice, and reap in the mouth of mercy, break up your fallow ground: but the time to seek the lord is, when he shall come that shall teach you justice. you have ploughed wickedness, you have reaped iniquity, you have eaten the fruit of lying: because thou hast trusted in thy ways, in the multitude of thy strong ones. a tumult shall arise among thy people: and all thy fortresses shall be destroyed as salmana was destroyed, by the house of him that judged baal in the day of battle, the mother being dashed in pieces upon her children. so hath bethel done to you, because of the evil of your iniquities.

as the morning passeth, so hath the king of israel israel a child, and i loved him: and i called my son out of egypt. as they called them, they went away from before their face: they offered victims to baalim, and sacrificed to idols. and i was like a foster father to ephraim, i carried them in my arms: and they knew not that i healed them. i will draw them with the cords of adam, with the bands of love: and i will be to them as one that taketh off the yoke on their jaws: and i put his meat to him that he might eat. he shall not return into the land of egypt, but the assyrian shall be his king: because they would not be converted. the sword hath begun in his cities, and it shall consume his chosen men, and shall devour their heads. and my people shall long for my return: but a yoke shall be put upon them together, which shall not be taken off. how shall i deal with thee, o ephraim, shall i protect thee, o israel? how shall i make thee as adama, shall i set thee as seboim? my heart is turned within me, my repentance is stirred up. i will not execute the fierceness of my wrath: i will not return to destroy ephraim: because i am god, and not man: the holy one in the midst of thee, and i will not enter into the city. they shall walk after the lord, he shall roar as a lion: because he shall roar, and the children of the sea shall fear. and they shall fly away like a bird out of egypt, and like a dove out of the land of the assyrians: and i will place them in their own houses, saith the lord. ephraim hath compassed me about with denials, and the house of israel with deceit: but juda went down as a witness with god, and is faithful with the saints.

ephraim feedeth on the wind, and followeth the burning heat: all the day long he multiplied lies and desolation: and he hath made a covenant with the assyrians, and carried oil into egypt. therefore there is a judgment of the lord with juda, and a visitation for jacob: he will render to him according to his ways, and according to his devices. in the womb he supplanted his brother: and by his strength he had success with an angel. and he prevailed over the angel, and was strengthened: he wept, and made supplication to him: he found him in bethel, and there he spoke with us. even the lord the god of hosts, the lord is his memorial. therefore turn thou to thy god: keep mercy and judgment, and hope in thy god always. he is like chanaan, there is a deceitful balance in his hand, he hath loved oppression. and ephraim said: but yet i am be- come rich, i have found me an idol: all my labours shall not find me the iniquity that i have committed. and i that am the lord thy god from the land of egypt, will yet cause thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the feast. and i have spoken by the prophets, and i have multiplied visions, and i have used similitudes by the ministry of the prophets. if galaad be an idol, then in vain were they in galgal offering sacrifices with bullocks: for their altars also are as heaps in the furrows of the field. jacob fled into the country of syria, and israel served for a wife, and was a keeper for a wife. but the lord by a prophet brought israel out of egypt: and he was preserved by a prophet. ephraim hath provoked me to wrath with his bitterness, and his blood shall come upon him, and his lord will render his reproach unto him.

when ephraim spoke, a horror seized israel: and he sinned in baal and died. and now they have sinned more and more : and they have made to themselves a molten thing of their silver as the likeness of idols: the whole is the work of craftsmen: to these that say: sacrifice men, ye that adore calves. therefore they shall be as a morning aloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the dust that is driven with a whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney. but i am the lord thy god from the land of egypt: and thou shalt know no god but me, and there is no saviour beside me. i knew thee in the desert, in the land of the wilderness. according to their pastures they were filled, and were made full: and they lifted up their heart, and have forgotten me. and i will be to them as a lioness, as a leopard in the way of the assyrians. i will meet them as a bear that is robbed of her whelps, and i will rend the inner parts of their liver: and i will devour them there as a lion, the beast of the field shall tear them. destruction is thy own, O israel: thy help is only in me. where is thy king? now especially let him save thee in all thy cities: and thy judges, of whom thou saidst: q give me kings and princes. i will give thee a king in my wrath, and will take him away in my indignation. the iniquity of ephraim is bound up, his sin is hidden. the sorrows of a woman in labour snail come upon him, he is an unwise son: for now he shall not stand in the breach of the children. i will deliver them out of the hand of death. i will redeem them from death : o death, i will be thy death; o hell, i will be thy bite: comfort is hidden from my eyes. because he shall make a separation between brothers: s the lord will bring a burning wind that shall rise from the desert, and it shall dry up his springs, and shall make his fountain desolate, and he shall carry off the treasure of every desirable vessel. let samaria perish, because she hath stirred up her god to bitterness: let them perish by the sword, let their little ones be dashed, and let the women with child be ripped up.

return, o israel, to the lord thy god: for thou hast fallen down by thy iniquity. take with you words, and return to the lord, and say to him: take away all iniquity, and receive the good: and we will render the calves of our lips. assyria shall not save us, we will not ride upon horses, neither will we say any more: the works of our hands are our gods, for thou wilt have mercy on the fatherless that is in thee. i will heal their breaches, i will love them freely: for my wrath is turned away from them. i will be as the dew, israel shall spring as the lily, and his root shall shoot forth as that of libanus. his branches shall spread, and his glory shall be as the olive tree: and his smell as that of libanus. they shall be converted that sit under his shadow: they shall live upon wheat, and they shall blossom as a vine: his memorial shall be as the wine of libanus. ephraim shall say, what have i to do any more with idols? i will hear him, and i will make him flourish like a green fir tree: from me is thy fruit found. who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know these things? for the ways of the lord are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall in them.

the word of the lord that came to joel the son of phat-uel. hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land: did this ever happen in your days, or in the days of your fathers? tell ye of this to your children, and let your children tell their children, and their children to another generation. that which the palmerworm hath left, the locust hath eaten: and that which the locust hath left, the bruchus hath eaten: and that which the bruchus hath left, the mildew hath destroyed. awake, ye that are drunk, and weep, and mourn all ye that take delight in drinking sweet wine: for it is cut off from your mouth. for a nation is come up upon my land, strong and without number: his teeth are like the teeth of a lion: and his cheek teeth as of a lion's whelp. he hath laid my vineyard waste, and hath pill'd off the bark of my fig tree: he hath stripped it bare, and cast it away; the branches thereof are made white. lament like a virgin girded with sackcloth for the husband of her youth. sacrifice and libation is cut off from the house of the lord: the priests, the lord's ministers, have mourned: the country is destroyed, the ground hath mourned: for the corn is wasted, the wine is confounded, the oil hath languished. the husbandmen are ashamed, the vinedressers have howled for the wheat, and for the barley, because the harvest of the field is perished. the vineyard is confounded, and the fig tree hath languished: the pomegranate tree, and the palm tree, and the apple tree, and all the trees of the field are withered: because joy is withdrawn from the children of men. gird yourselves, and lament, o ye priests, howl, ye ministers of the altars: go in, lie in sackcloth, ye ministers of my god: because sacrifice and libation is cut off from the house of your god. sanctify ye a fast, call an assembly; gather together the ancients, all the inhabitants of the land into the house of your god: and cry ye to the lord: ah, ah, ah, for the day: because the day of the lord is at hand, and it shall come like destruction from the mighty. is not your food cut off before your eyes, joy and gladness from the house of our god? the beasts have rotted in their dung, the barns are destroyed, the storehouses are broken down: because the corn is confounded. why did the beast groan, why did the herds of cattle low? because there is no pasture for them: yea, and the flocks of sheep are perished. to thee, O lord, will i cry: because fire hath devoured the beautiful places of the wilderness, and the flame hath burnt all the trees of the country. yea and the beasts of the field have looked up to thee, as a garden bed that thirsteth after rain, for the springs of waters are dried up, and fire hath devoured the beautiful places of the wilderness.

blow ye the trumpet in sion, sound an alarm in my holy mountain, let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: because the day of the lord cometh, because it is nigh at hand, a day of darkness, and of gloominess, a day of clouds and whirlwinds: a numerous and strong people as the morning spread upon the mountains: the like to it hath not been from the beginning, nor shall be after it even to the years of generation and generation. before the face thereof a devouring fire, and behind it a burning flame: the land is like a garden of pleasure before it, and behind it a desolate wilderness, neither is there any one that can escape it. the appearance of them is as the appearance of horses, and they shall run like horsemen. they shall leap like the noise of chariots upon the tops of mountains, like the noise of a flame of fire devouring the stubble, as a strong people prepared to battle. at their presence the people shall be in grievous pains: all faces shall be made like a kettle. they shall run like valiant men: like men of war they shall scale the wall: the men shall march every one on his way, and they shall not turn aside from their ranks. no one shall press upon his brother: they shall walk every one in his path: yea, and they shall fall through the windows, and shall take no harm. they shall enter into the city: they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up the houses, they shall come in at the windows as a thief. at their presence the earth hath trembled, the heavens are moved: the sun and moon are darkened, and the stars have withdrawn their shining. and the lord hath uttered his voice before the face of his army: for his armies are exceeding great, for they are strong and execute his word: for the day of the lord is great and very terrible: and who can stand it? now therefore saith the lord: be converted to me with all your heart, in fasting, and in weeping, and in mourning. and rend your hearts, and not your garments, and turn to the lord your god: for he is gracious and merciful, patient and rich in mercy, and ready to repent of the evil. who knoweth but he will return, and forgive, and leave a blessing behind him, sacrifice and libation to the lord your god? blow the trumpet in sion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly, gather together the people, sanctify the church, assemble the ancients, gather together the little ones, and them that suck at the breasts: let the bridegroom go forth from his bed, and the bride out of her bride chamber. between the porch and the altar the priests the lord's ministers shall weep, and shall say: spare, o lord, spare thy people: and give not thy inheritance to reproach, that the heathen should rule over them. why should they say among the nations: where is their god? the lord hath been zealous for his land, and hath spared his people. and the lord answered and said to his people: behold i will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and you shall be filled with them: and i will no more make you a reproach among the nations. and i will remove far off from you the northern enemy: and i will drive him into a land unpassable, and desert, with his face towards the east sea, and his hinder part towards the utmost sea: and his stench shall ascend, and his rottenness shall go up, because he hath done proudly. fear not, o land, be glad and rejoice: for the lord hath done great things. fear not, ye beasts of the fields: for the beautiful places of the wilderness are sprung, for the tree hath brought forth its fruit, the fig tree, and the vine have yielded their strength. and you, o children of sion, rejoice, and be joyful in the lord your god: because he hath given you a teacher of justice, and he will make the early and the latter rain to come down to you as in the beginning. and the floors shall be filled with wheat, and the presses shall overflow with wine and oil. and i will restore to you the ears which the locust, and the bruchus, and the mildew, and the palmerworm have eaten; my great host which i sent upon you. and you shall eat in plenty, and shall be filled: and you shall praise the name of the lord your god, who hath done wonders with you, and my people shall not be confounded for ever. and you shall know that i am in the midst of israel: and i am the lord your god, and there is none besides: and my people shall not be confounded for ever. and it shall come to pass after this, that i will pour out my spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy: your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions. moreover upon my servants and handmaids in those days i will pour forth my spirit. and i will shew wonders in heaven; and in earth, blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke. the sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood: before the great and dreadful day of the lord doth come. and it shall come to pass, that every one that shall call upon the name of the lord shall be saved: for in mount sion, and in jerusalem shall be salvation, as the lord hath said, and in the residue whom the lord shall call.

for behold in those days, and in that time when i shall bring back the captivity of juda and jerusalem: i will gather together all nations, and will bring them down into the valley of josaphat: and i will plead with them there for my people, and for my inheritance israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and have parted my land. and they have cast lots upon my people: and the boy they have put in the stews, and the girl they have sold for wine, that they might drink. but what have you to do with me, o tyre, and sidon, and all the coast of the philistines? will you revenge yourselves on me? and if you revenge yourselves on me, i will very soon return you a recompense upon your own head. for you have taken away my silver and my gold: and my desirable and most beautiful things you have carried into your temples. and the children of juda, and the children of jerusalem you have sold to the children of the greeks, that you might remove them far off from their own country. behold, i will raise them up out of the place wherein you have sold them: and i will return your recompense upon your own heads. and i will sell your sons, and your daughters by the hands of the children of juda, and they shall sell them to the sabeans, a nation far off, for the lord hath spoken it. proclaim ye this among the nations: prepare war, rouse up the strong: let them come, let all the men of war come up. cut your ploughshares into swords, and your spades into spears. let the weak say: i am strong. break forth, and come, all ye nations, from round about, and gather yourselves together: there will the lord cause all thy strong ones to fall down. let them arise, and let the nations come up into the valley of josaphat: for there

i will sit to judge all nations round about. put ye in the sickles, for the harvest is ripe: come and go down, for the press is full, the fats run over: for their wickedness is multiplied. nations, nations in the valley of destruction: for the day of the lord is near in the valley of destruction. the sun and the moon are darkened, and the stars have withdrawn their shining. and the lord shall roar out of sion, and utter his voice from jerusalem: and the heavens and the earth shall be moved, and the lord shall be the hope of his people, and the strength of the children of israel. and you shall know that i am the lord your god, dwelling in sion my holy mountain: and jerusalem shall be holy and strangers shall pass through it no more. and it shall come to pass in that day, that the mountains shall drop down sweetness, and the hills shall flow with milk: and waters shall flow through all the rivers of juda: and a fountain shall come forth of the house of the lord, and shall water the torrent of thorns. egypt shall be a desolation, and edom a wilderness destroyed: because they have done unjustly against the children of juda, and have shed innocent blood in their land. and juda shall be inhabited for ever, and jerusalem to generation and generation. and i will cleanse their blood which i had not cleansed: and the lord will dwell in sion.

the words of amos, who was among herdsmen of the-cua: which he saw concerning israel in the days of ozias king of juda, and in the days of jeroboam the son of joas king of israel two years before the earthquake. and he said: the lord will roar from sion, and utter his voice from jerusalem: and the beautiful places of the shepherds have mourned, and the top of carmel is withered. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of damascus, and for four i will not convert it: because they have thrashed galaad with iron wains. and i will send a fire into the house of azael, and it shall devour the houses of benadad. and i will break the bar of damascus: and i will cut off the inhabitants from the plain of the idol, and him that holdeth the sceptre from the house of pleasure: and the people of syria shall be carried away to cyrene, saith the lord. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of gaza, and for four i will not convert it: because they have carried away a perfect captivity to shut them up in edom. and i will send a fire on the wall of gaza, and it shall devour the houses thereof. and i will cut off the inhabitant from azotus, and him that holdeth the sceptre from ascalon: and i will turn my hand against accaron, and the rest of the philistines shall perish, saith the lord god. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of tyre, and for four i will not convert it: because they have shut up an entire captivity in edom, and have not remembered the covenant of brethren. and i will send a fire upon the wall of tyre, and it shall devour the houses thereof. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of edom, and for four i will not convert him: because he hath pursued his brother with the sword, and hath cast off all pity, and hath carried on his fury, and hath kept his wrath to the end. i will send a fire into theman: and it shall devour the houses of bosra. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of the children of ammon, and for four i will not convert him: because he hath ripped up the women with child of galaad to enlarge his border, and i will kindle a fire in the wall of rabba: and it shall devour the houses thereof with shouting in the day of battle, and with a whirlwind in the day of trouble. and melchom shall go into captivity, both he, and his princes together, saith the lord.

thus saith the lord: for three crimes of moab, and for four i will not convert him: because he hath burnt the bones of the king of edom even to ashes. and i will seed a fire into moab, and it shall devour the houses of carioth: and moab shall die with a noise, with the sound of the trumpet: and i will cut off the judge from the midst thereof, and will slay all his princes with him, saith the lord. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of juda, and for four i will not convert him: because he hath cast away the law of the lord, and hath not kept his commandments: for their idols have caused them to err, after which their fathers have walked. and i will send a fire into juda, and it shall devour the houses of jerusalem. thus saith the lord: for three crimes of israel, and for four i will not convert him: because he hath sold the just man for silver, and the poor man for a pair of shoes. they bruise the heads of the poor upon the dust of the earth, and turn aside the way of the humble: and the son and his father have gone to the same young woman, to profane my holy name. and they sat down upon garments laid to pledge by every altar: and drank the wine of the condemned in the house of their god. yet i cast out the amorrhite before their face: whose height was like the height of cedars, and who was strong as an oak: and i destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots beneath. it is i that brought you up out of the land of egypt, and i led you forty years through the wilderness, that you might possess the land of the amorrhite. and i raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for nazarites. is it not so, o ye children of israel, saith the lord? and you will present wine to the nazarites: and command the prophets, saying: prophesy not. behold, i will scream under you as a wain squealeth that is laden with hay. and flight shall perish from the swift, and the valiant shall not possess his strength, neither shall the strong save his life. and he that holdeth the bow shall not stand, and the swift of foot shall not escape, neither shall the rider of the horse save his life. and the stout of heart among the valiant shall flee away naked in that day, saith the lord.

hear the word that the lord hath spoken concerning you, o ye children of israel: concerning the whole family that i brought up out of the land of egypt, saying: you only have i known of all the families of the earth: therefore will i visit upon you all your iniquities. shall two walk together except they be agreed? will a lion roar in the forest, if he have no prey? will the lion's whelp cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing? will the bird fall into the snare upon the earth, if there be no fowler? shall the snare be taken up from the earth, before it hath taken somewhat? shall the trumpet sound in a city, and the people not be afraid? shall there be evil in a city, which the lord hath not done? for the lord god doth nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets. the lion shall roar, who will not fear? the lord god hath spoken, who shall not prophesy? publish it in the houses of azotus, and in the houses of the land of egypt, and say: assemble yourselves upon the mountains of samaria, and behold the many follies in the midst thereof, and them that suffer oppression in the inner rooms thereof. and they have not known to do the right thing, saith the lord, storing up iniquity, and robberies in their houses. therefore thus saith the lord god: the land shall be in tribulation, and shall be compassed about: and thy strength shall be taken away from thee, and thy houses shall be spoiled. thus saith the lord: as if a shepherd should get out of the lion's mouth two legs, or the tip of the ear: so shall the children of israel be taken out that dwell in samaria, in a piece of a bed, and in the couch of damascus. hear ye, and testify in the house of jacob, saith the lord the god of hosts: that in the day when i shall begin to visit the transgressions of israel, i will visit upon him, and upon the altars of bethel: and the horns of the altars shall be cut off, and shall fall to the ground. and i will strike the winter house with the summer house: and the houses of ivory shall perish, and many houses shall be destroyed, saith the lord.

hear this word, ye fat kine that are in the mountains of samaria: you that oppress the needy, and crush the poor: that say to your masters: bring, and we will drink. the lord god hath sworn by his holiness, that lo, the days shall come upon you, when they shall lift you up on pikes, and what shall remain of you in boiling pots. and you shall go out at the breaches one over against the other, and you shall be cast forth into armon, saith the lord. come ye to bethel, and do wickedly: to galgal, and multiply transgressions: and bring in the morning your victims, your tithes in three days. and offer a sacrifice of praise with leaven: and call free offerings, and proclaim it: for so you would do, o children of israel, saith the lord god. whereupon i also have given you dulness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet you have not returned to me, saith the lord. i also have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and i caused it to rain upon one city, and caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon: and the piece whereupon i rained not, withered. and two and three cities went to one city to drink water, and were not filled: yet you returned not to me, saith the lord. i struck you with a burning wind, and with mildew, the palmerworm hath eaten up your many gardens, and your vineyards: your olive groves, and fig groves: yet you returned not to me, saith the lord. i sent death upon you in the way of egypt, i slew your young men with the sword, even to the captivity of your horses: and i made the stench of your camp to come up into your nostrils: yet you returned not to me, saith the lord. i destroyed some of you, as god destroyed sodom and gomorrha, and you were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet you returned not to me, saith the lord. therefore i will do these things to thee, o israel: and after i shall have done these things to thee, be prepared to meet thy god, o israel. for behold he that formeth the mountains and createth the wind, and declareth his word to man, he that maketh the morning mist, and walketh upon the high places of the earth: the lord the god of hosts is his name.

hear ye this word, which i take up concerning you for a lamentation. the house of israel is fallen, and it shall rise no more. the virgin of israel is cast down upon her land, there is none to raise her up. for thus saith the lord god: the city, out of which came forth a thousand, there shall be left in it a hundred: and out of which there came a hundred, there shall be left in it ten, in the house of israel. for thus saith the lord to the house of israel: seek ye me, and you shall live. but seek not bethel, and go not into galgal, neither shall you pass over to bersabee: for galgal shall go into captivity, and bethel shall be unprofitable. seek ye the lord, and live: lest the house of joseph be burnt with fire, and it shall devour, and there shall be none to quench bethel. you that turn judgment into wormwood, and forsake justice in the land, seek him that maketh arcturus, and orion, and that turneth darkness into morning, and that changeth day into night: that calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: the lord is his name. he that with a smile bringeth destruction upon the strong, and waste upon the mighty. they have hated him that rebuketh in the gate: and have abhorred him that speaketh perfectly. therefore because you robbed the poor, and took the choice prey from him: you shall build houses with square stone, and shall not dwell in them: you shall plant most delightful vineyards, and shall not drink the wine of them. because i know your manifold crimes, and your grievous sine: enemies of the just, taking bribes, and oppressing the poor in the gate. therefore the prudent shall keep silence at that time, for it is an evil time. seek ye good, and not evil, that you may live: and the lord the god of hosts will be with you, as you have said. hate evil, and love good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be the lord the god of hosts may have mercy on the remnant of joseph. therefore thus saith the lord the god of hosts the sovereign lord: in every street there shall be wailing: and in all places that are without, they shall say: alas, alas! and they shall call the husbandman to mourning, and such as are skilful in lamentation to lament. and in all vineyards there shall be wailing: because i will pass through in the midst of thee, saith the lord. woe to them that desire the day of the lord: to what end is it for you? the day of the lord is darkness, and not light. as if a man should flee from the face of a lion, and a bear should meet him: or enter into the house, and lean with his hand upon the wall, and a serpent should bite him. shall not the day of the lord be darkness, and not light: and obscurity, and no brightness in it? i hate, and have rejected your festivities: and i will not receive the odour of your assemblies. and if you offer me holocausts, and your gifts, i will not receive them: neither will i regard the vows of your fat beasts. take away from me the tumult of thy songs: and i will not hear the canticles of thy harp. but judgment shall be revealed as water, and justice as a mighty torrent. did you offer victims and sacrifices to me in the desert for forty years, o house of israel? but you carried a tabernacle for your moloch, and the image of your idols, the star of your god, which you made to yourselves. and i will cause you to go into captivity beyond damascus, saith the lord, the god of hosts is his name.

woe to you that are wealthy in sion, and to you that have confidence in the mountain of samaria: ye great men, heads of the people, that go in with state into the house of israel. pass ye over to chalane, and see, and go from thence into emath the great: and go down into geth of the philistines, and to all the best kingdoms of these: if their border be larger than your border. you that are separated unto the evil day: and that approach to the throne of iniquity; you that sleep upon beds of ivory, and are wanton on your couches: that eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the herd; you that sing to the sound of the psaltery: they have thought themselves to have instruments of music like david; that drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the best ointments: and they are not concerned for the affliction of joseph. wherefore now they shall go captive at the head of them that go into captivity: and the faction of the luxurious ones shall be taken away. the lord god hath sworn by his own soul, saith the lord the god of hosts: i detest the pride of jacob, and i hate his houses, and i will deliver up the city with the inhabitants thereof. and if there remain ten men in one house, they also shall die. and a man's kinsman shall take him up, and shall burn him, that he may carry the bones out of the house; and he shall say to him that is in the inner rooms of the house: is there yet any with thee? and he shall answer: there is an end. and he shall any to him: hold thy peace, and mention not the name of the lord. for behold the lord hath commanded, and he will strike the greater house with breaches, and the lesser house with clefts. can horses run upon the rocks, or can any one plough with buffles? for you have turned judgment into bitterness, and the fruit of justice into wormwood. you that rejoice in a thing of nought: you that say: have we not taken unto us horns by our own strength? but behold, i will raise up a nation against you, o house of israel, saith the lord the god of hosts; and they shall destroy you from the entrance of emath, even to the torrent of the desert.

these things the lord god shewed to me: and behold the locust was formed in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter rain, and lo, it was the latter rain after the king's mowing. and it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, i said: o lord god, be merciful, i beseech thee: who shall raise up jacob, for he is very little? the lord had pity upon this: it shall not be, said the lord. these things the lord god shewed to me: and behold the lord called for judgment unto fire, and it devoured the great deep, and ate up a part at the same time. and i said: o lord god, cease, i beseech thee, who shall raise up jacob, for he is a little one? the lord had pity upon this. yea this also shall not be, said the lord god. these things the lord shewed to me: and behold the lord was standing upon a plastered wall, and in his hand a mason's trowel. and the lord said to me: what seest thou, amos? and i said: a mason's trowel. and the lord said: behold, i will lay down the trowel in the midst of my people israel. i will plaster them over no more. and the high places of the idol shall be thrown down, and the sanctuaries of israel shall be laid waste: and i will rise up against the house of jeroboam with the sword. and amasias the priest of bethel sent to jeroboam king of israel, saying: amos hath rebelled against thee in the midst of the house of israel: the land is not able to bear all his words. for thus saith amos: jeroboam shall die by the sword, and israel shall be carried away captive out of their own land. and amasias said to amos: thou seer, go, flee away into the land of juda: and eat bread there, and prophesy there. but prophesy not again any more in bethel: because it is the king's sanctuary, and it is the house of the kingdom. and amos answered and said to amasias: i am not a prophet, nor am i the son of a prophet: but i am a herdsman plucking wild figs. and the lord took me when i followed the flock, and the lord said to me: go, prophesy to my people israel. and now hear thou the word of the lord: thou sayest, thou shalt not prophesy against israel, and thou shalt not drop thy word upon the house of the idol. therefore thus saith the lord: thy wife shall play the harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be measured by a line: and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and israel shall go into captivity out of their land.

these things the lord shewed to me: and behold a hook to draw down the fruit. and he said: what seest thou, amos? and i said: a hook to draw down fruit. and the lord said to me: the end is come upon my people israel: i will not again pass by them any more. and the hinges of the temple shall scream in that day, saith the lord god: many shall die: silence shall be cast in every place. hear this, you that crush the poor, and make the needy of the land to fail, saying: when will the month be over, and we shall sell our wares: and the sabbath, and we shall open the corn: that we may lessen the measure, and increase the sicke, and may convey in deceitful balances, that we may possess the needy for money, and the poor for a pair of shoes, and may sell the refuse of the corn? the lord hath sworn against the pride of jacob: surely i will never forget all their works. shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein: and rise up altogether as a river, and be cast out, and run down as the river of egypt? and it shall come to pass in that day, saith the lord god, that the sun shall go down at midday, and i will make the earth dark in the day of light: and i will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation: and i will bring up sackcloth upon every back of yours, and baldness upon every head: and i will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the latter end thereof as a bitter day. behold the days come, saith the lord, and i will send forth a famine into the land: not a famine of bread, nor a thirst of water, but of hearing the word of the lord. and they shall move from sea to sea, and from the north to the east: they shall go about seeking the word of the lord, and shall not find it. in that day the fair virgins, and the young men shall faint for thirst. they that swear by the sin of samaria, and say: thy god, o dan, liveth: and the way of bersabee liveth: and they shall fall, and shall rise no more.

i saw the lord standing upon the altar, and he said: strike the hinges, and let the lintels be shook: for there is covetousness in the head of them all, and i will slay the last of them with the sword: there shall be no flight for them: they shall flee, and he that shall flee of them shall not be delivered. though they go down even to hell, thence shall my hand bring them out: and though they climb up to heaven, thence will i bring them down. and though they be hid in the top of carmel, i will search and take them away from thence : and though they hide themselves from my eyes in the depth of the sea, there will i command the serpent and he shall bite them. and if they go into captivity before their enemies, there will i command the sword, and it shall kill them. and i will set my eyes upon them for evil, and not for good. and the lord the god of hosts is he who toucheth the earth, and it shall melt: and all that dwell therein shall mourn: and it shall rise up as a river, and shall run down as the river of egypt. he that buildeth his ascension in heaven, and hath founded his bundle upon the earth: who calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth, the lord is his name. are not you as the children of the ethiopians unto me, o children of israel, saith the lord? did not i bring up israel, out of the land of egypt: and the philistines out of cappadocia, and the syrians out of cyrene? behold the eyes of the lord god are upon the sinful kingdom, and i will destroy it from the face of the earth: but yet i will not utterly destroy the house of jacob, saith the lord. for behold i will command, and i will sift the house of israel among all nations, as corn is sifted in a sieve: and there shall not a little stone fall to the ground. all the sinners of my people shall fall by the sword: who say: the evils shall not approach, and shall not come upon us. in that day i will raise up the tabernacle of david, that is fallen: and i will close up the breaches of the walls thereof, and repair what was fallen: and i will rebuild it as in the days of old. that they may possess the remnant of edom, and all nations, because my name is invoked upon them: saith the lord that doth these things. behold the days come, saith the lord, when the ploughman shall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that soweth seed: and the mountains shall drop sweetness, and every hill shall be tilled. and i will bring back the captivity of my people israel: and they shall build the abandoned cities, and inhabit them: and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine of them: and shall make gardens, and eat the fruits of them. and i will plant them upon their own land: and i will no more pluck them out of their land which i have given them, saith the lord thy god.

the vision of abdias. thus saith the lord god to edom: we have heard a rumour from the lord, and he hath sent an ambassador to the nations: arise, and let us rise up to battle against him. behold i have made thee small among the nations: thou art exceeding contemptible. the pride of thy heart hath lifted thee up, who dwellest in the clefts of the rocks, and settest up thy throne on high: who sayest in thy heart: who shall bring me down to the ground? though thou be exalted as an eagle, and though thou set thy nest among the stars: thence will i bring thee down, saith the lord. if thieves had gone in to thee, if robbers by night, how wouldst thou have held thy peace? would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grapegatherers had come in to thee, would they not have left thee at the least a cluster? how have they searched esau, how have they sought out his hidden things? they have sent thee out even to the border: all the men of thy confederacy have deceived thee: the men of thy peace have prevailed against thee: they that eat with thee shall lay snares under thee: there is no wisdom in him. shall not i in that day, saith the lord, destroy the wise out of edom, and understanding out of the mount of esau? and thy valiant men of the south shall be afraid, that man may be cut off from the mount of esau. for the slaughter, and for the iniquity against thy brother jacob, confusion shall cover thee, and thou shalt perish for ever. in the day when thou stoodest against him, when strangers carried away his army captive, and foreigners entered into his gates, and cast lots upon jerusalem: thou also wast as one of them. but thou shalt not look on in the day of thy brother, in the day of his leaving his country: and thou shalt not rejoice over the children of juda, in the day of their destruction: and thou shalt not magnify thy mouth in the day of distress. neither shalt thou enter into the gate of my people in the day of their ruin: neither shalt thou also look on in his evils in the day of his calamity: and thou shalt not be sent out against his army in the day of his desolation. neither shalt thou stand in the crossways to kill them that flee: and thou shalt not shut up them that remain of him in the day of tribulation. for the day of the lord is at hand upon all nations: as thou hast done, so shall it be done to thee: he will turn thy reward upon thy own head. for as you have drunk upon my holy mountain, so all nations shall drink continually: and they shall drink, and sup up, and they shall be as though they were not. and in mount sion shall be salvation, and it shall be holy, and the house of jacob shall possess those that possessed them. and the house of jacob shall be a fire, and the house of joseph a flame, and the house of esau stubble: and they shall be kindled in them, and shall devour them: and there shall be no remains of the house of esau, for the lord hath spoken it. and they that are toward the south, shall inherit the mount of esau, and they that are in the plains, the philistines: and they shall possess the country of ephraim, and the country of samaria: and benjamin shall possess galaad. and the captivity of this host of the children of israel, all the places of the chanaanites even to sarepta: and the captivity of jerusalem that is in bosphorus, shall possess the cities of the south. and saviours shall come up into mount sion to judge the mount of esau: and the kingdom shall be for the lord.

now the word of the lord came to jonas the son of amathi, saying: arise, and go to ninive the great city, and preach in it: for the wickedness thereof is come up before me. and jonas rose up to flee into tharsis from the face of the lord, and he went down to joppe, and found a ship going to tharsis: and he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them to tharsis from the face of the lord. but the lord sent a great wind into the sea: and a great tempest was raised in the sea, and the ship was in danger to be broken. and the mariners were afraid, and the men cried to their god: and they cast forth the wares that were in the ship, into the sea, to lighten it of them: and jones went down into the inner part of the ship, and fell into a deep sleep. and the shipmaster came to him, and said to him: why art thou fast asleep? rise up, call upon thy god, if so be that god will think of us, that we may not perish. and they said every one to his fellow: come, and let us cast lots, that we may know why this evil is upon us. and they cast lots, and the lot fell upon jonas. and they said to him: tell us for what cause this evil is upon us, what is thy business? of what country art thou? and whither goest thou? or of what people art thou? and he said to them: i am a hebrew, and i fear the lord the god of heaven, who made both the sea and the dry land. and the men were greatly afraid, and they said to him: why hast thou done this? (for the men knew that he fled from the face of the lord: because he had told them.) and they said to him: what shall we do to thee, that the sea may be calm to us? for the sea flowed and swelled. and he said to them: take me up, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall be calm to you: for i know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you. and the men rowed hard to return to land, but they were not able: because the sea tossed and swelled upon them. and they cried to the lord, and said: we beseech thee, o lord, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, o lord, hast done as it pleased thee. and they took jonas, and cast him into the sea, and the sea ceased from raging. and the men feared the lord exceedingly, and sacrificed victims to the lord, and made vows. now the lord prepared a great fish to swallow up jonas: and jonas was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

and jonas prayed to the lord his god out of the belly of the fish. and he said: i cried out of my affliction to the lord, and he heard me: i cried out of the belly of hell, and thou hast heard my voice. and thou hast cast me forth into the deep in the heart of the sea, and a flood hath compassed me: all thy billows, and thy waves have passed over me. and i said: i am cast away out of the sight of thy eyes: but yet i shall see thy holy temple again. the waters compassed me about even to the soul: the deep hath closed me round about, the sea hath covered my head. i went down to the lowest parts of the mountains: the bars of the earth have shut me up for ever: and thou wilt bring up my life from corruption, o lord my god. when my soul was in distress within me, i remembered the lord: that my prayer may come to thee, unto thy holy temple. they that are vain observe vanities, forsake their own mercy. but i with the voice of praise will sacrifice to thee: i will pay whatsoever i have vowed for my salvation to the lord. and the lord spoke to the fish: and it vomited out jonas upon the dry land.

and the word of the lord came to jonas the second time, saying: arise, and go to ninive the great city: and preach in it the preaching that i bid thee. and jonas arose, and went to ninive, according to the word of the lord: now ninive was a great city of three days' journey. and jonas began to enter into the city one day's journey: and he cried, and said: yet forty days, and ninive shall be destroyed. and the men of ninive believed in god: and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest to the least. and the word came to the king of ninive; and he rose up out of his throne, and cast away his robe from him, and was clothed with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. and he caused it to be proclaimed and published in ninive from the mouth of the king and of his princes, saying: let neither men nor beasts, oxen nor sheep, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water. and let men and beasts be covered with sackcloth, and cry to the lord with all their strength, and let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the iniquity that is in their hands. who can tell if god will turn, and forgive: and will turn away from his fierce anger, and we shall not perish? and god saw their works, that they were turned from their evil way: and god had mercy with regard to the evil which he had said that he would do to them, and he did it not.

and jonas was exceedingly troubled, and was angry: and he prayed to the lord, and said: i beseech thee, o lord, is not this what i said, when i was yet in my own country? therefore i went before to flee into tharsis: for i know that thou art a gracious and merciful god, patient, and of much compassion, and easy to forgive evil. and now, o lord, i beseech thee take my life from me: for it is better for me to die than to live. and the lord said: dost thou think thou hast reason to be angry? then jonas went out of the city, and sat toward the east side of the city: and he made himself a booth there, and he sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would befall the city. and the lord god prepared an ivy, and it came up over the head of jonas, to be a shadow over his head, and to cover him (for he was fatigued): and jonas was exceeding glad of the ivy. but god prepared a worm, when the morning arose on the following day: and it struck the ivy and it withered. and when the sun was risen, the lord commanded a hot and burning wind: and the sun beat upon the head of jonas, and he broiled with the heat: and he desired for his soul that he might die, and said:

it is better for me to die than to live. and the lord said to jonas: dost thou think thou hast reason to be angry, for the ivy? and he said: i am angry with reason even unto death. and the lord said: thou art grieved for the ivy, for which thou hast not laboured, nor made it to grow, which in one night came up, and in one night perished. and shall not i spare ninive, that great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons that know not how to distinguish between their right hand and their left, and many beasts?

the word of the lord that came to micheas the morasthite, in the days of joathan, achaz, and ezechias, kings of juda: which he saw concerning samaria and jerusalem. hear, all ye people: and let the earth give ear, and all that is therein: and let the lord god be a witness to you, the lord from his holy temple. for behold the lord will come forth out of his place: and he will come down, and will tread upon the high places of the earth. and the mountains shall be melted under him: and the valleys shall be cleft, as wax before the fire, and as waters that run down a steep place. for the wickedness of jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of israel. what is the wickedness of jacob? is it not samaria? and what are the high places of juda? are they not jerusalem? and i will make samaria as a heap of stones in the field when a vineyard is planted: and i will bring down the stones thereof into the valley, and will lay her foundations bare. and all her graven things shall be cut in pieces, and all her wages shall be burnt with fire, and i will bring to destruction all her idols: for they were gathered together of the hire of a harlot, and unto the hire of a harlot they shall return. therefore will i lament and howl: i will go stripped and naked: i will make a wailing like the dragons, and a mourning like the ostriches. because her wound is desperate, because it is come even to juda, it hath touched the gate of my people even to jerusalem. declare ye it not in geth, weep ye not with tears: in the house of dust sprinkle yourselves with dust. and pass away, o thou that dwellest in the beautiful place, covered with thy shame: she went not forth that dwelleth in the confines: the house adjoining shall receive mourning from you, which stood by herself. for she is become weak unto good that dwelleth in bitterness: for evil is come down from the lord into the gate of jerusalem. a tumult of chariots hath astonished the inhabitants of lachis: it is the beginning of sin to the daughter of sion, for in thee were found the crimes of israel. therefore shall she send messengers to the inheritance of geth: the houses of lying to deceive the kings of israel. yet will i bring an heir to thee that dwellest in maresa: even to odollam shall the glory of israel come. make thee bald, and be polled for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldness as the eagle: for they are carried into captivity from thee.

woe to you that devise that which is unprofitable, and work evil in your beds: in the morning light they execute it, because their hand is against god. and they have coveted fields, and taken them by violence, and houses they have forcibly taken away: and oppressed a man and his house, a man and his inheritance. therefore thus saith the lord: behold, i devise an evil against this family: from which you shall not withdraw your necks, and you shall not walk haughtily, for this is a very evil time. in that day a parable shall be taken up upon you, and a song shall be sung with melody by them that say: we are laid waste and spoiled: the portion of my people is changed: how shall he depart from me, whereas he is returning that will divide our land? therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast the cord of a lot in the assembly of the lord. speak ye not, saying: it shall not drop upon these, confusion shall not take them. the house of jacob saith: is the spirit of the lord straitened, or are these his thoughts? are not my words good to him that walketh uprightly? but my people, on the contrary, are risen up as an enemy: you have taken away the cloak off from the coat: and them that passed harmless you have turned to war. you have cast out the women of my people from their houses, in which they took delight: you have taken my praise for ever from their children. arise ye, and depart, for there is no rest here for you. for that uncleanness of the land, it shall be corrupted with a grievous corruption. would god i were not a man that hath the spirit, and that i rather spoke a lie: i will let drop to thee of wine, and of drunkenness: and it shall be this people upon whom it shall drop. i will assemble and gather together all of thee, o jacob: i will bring together the remnant of israel, i will put them together as a flock in the fold, as the sheep in the midst of the sheeppotes, they shall make a tumult by reason of the multitude of men. for he shall go up that shall open the way before them: they shall divide, and pass through the gate, and shall come in by it: and their king shall pass before them, and the lord at the head of them.

and i said: hear, o ye princes of jacob, and ye chiefs of the house of israel: is it not your part to know judgment, you that hate good, and love evil: that violently pluck off their skins from them, and their flesh from their bones? who have eaten the flesh of my people, and have flayed their skin from off them: and have broken, and chopped their bones as for the kettle, and as flesh in the midst of the pot. then shall they cry to the lord, and he will not hear them: and he will hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved wickedly in their devices. thus saith the lord concerning the prophets that make my people err: that bite with their teeth, and preach peace: and if a man give not something into their mouth, they prepare war against him. therefore night shall be to you instead of vision, and darkness to you instead of divination; and the sun shall go down upon the prophets, and the day shall be darkened over them. and they shall be confounded that see visions, and the diviners shall be confounded: and they shall all cover their faces, because there is no answer of god. but yet i am filled with the strength of the spirit of the lord, with judgment, and power: to declare unto jacob his wickedness, and to israel his sin. hear this, ye princes of the house of jacob, and ye judges of the house of israel: you that abhor judgment, and pervert all that is right. you that build up sion with blood, and jerusalem with iniquity. her princes have judged for bribes, and her priests have taught for hire, and her prophets divined for money: and they leaned upon the lord, saying: is not the lord in the midst of us? no evil shall come upon us. therefore, because of you, sion shall be ploughed as a field, and jerusalem shall be as a heap of stones, and the mountain of the temple as the high places of the forests.

and it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the house of the lord shall be prepared in the top of mountains, and high above the hills: and people shall flow to it. and many nations shall come in haste, and say: come, let us go up to the mountain of the lord, and to the house of the god of jacob: and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth out of sion, and the word of the lord out of jerusalem. and he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off: and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into spades: nation shall not take sword against nation: neither shall they learn war any more. and every man shall sit under his vine, and under his fig tree, and there shall be none to make them afraid: for the mouth of the lord of hosts hath spoken. for all people will walk every one in the name of his god: but we will walk in the name of the lord our god for ever and ever. in that day, saith the lord, i will gather up her that halteth: and her that i had cast out, i will gather up: and her whom i had afflicted. and i will make her that halted, a remnant: and her that hath been afflicted, a mighty nation: and the lord will reign over them in mount sion, from this time now and for ever. and thou, o cloudy tower of the flock, of the daughter of sion, unto thee shall it come: yea the first power shall come, the kingdom to the daughter of jerusalem. now, why art thou drawn together with grief? hast thou no king in thee, or is thy counsellor perished, because sorrow hath taken thee as a woman in labour? be in pain and labour, o daughter of sion, as a woman that bringeth forth: for now shalt thou go out of the city, and shalt dwell in the country, and shalt come even to babylon, there thou shalt be delivered: there the lord will redeem thee out of the hand of thy enemies. and now many nations are gathered together against thee, and they say: let her be stoned: and let our eye look upon sion. but they have not known the thoughts of the lord, and have not understood his counsel: because he hath gathered them together as the hay of the floor. arise, and tread, o daughter of sion: for i will make thy horn iron, and thy hoofs i will make brass: and thou shalt beat in pieces many peoples, and shalt immolate the spoils of them to the lord, and their strength to the lord of the whole earth.

now shalt thou be laid waste, o daughter of the robber: they have laid siege against us, with a rod shall they strike the cheek of the judge of israel. and thou, bethlehem ephrata, art a little one among the thousands of juda: out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be the ruler in israel: and his going forth is

from the beginning, from the days of eternity. therefore will he give them up even till the time wherein she that travaileth shall bring forth: and the remnant of his brethren shall be converted to the children of israel. and he shall stand, and feed in the strength of the lord, in the height of the name of the lord his god: and they shall be converted, for now shall he be magnified even to the ends of the earth. and this man shall be our peace, when the assyrian shall come into our land, and when he shall set his foot in our houses: and we shall raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principal men. and they shall feed the land of assyria with the sword, and the land of nemrod with the spears thereof: and he shall deliver us from the assyrian, when he shall come into our land, and when he shall tread in our borders. and the remnant of jacob shall be in the midst of many peoples as a dew from the lord, and as drops upon the grass, which waiteth not for man, nor tarrieth for the children of men. and the remnant of jacob shall be among the gentiles in the midst of many peoples as a lion among the beasts of the forests, and as a young lion among the docks of sheep: who when he shall go through and tread down, and take, there is none to deliver. thy hand shall be lifted up over thy enemies, and all thy enemies shall be cut off. and it shall come to pass in that day, saith the lord, that i will take away thy horses out of the midst of thee, and will destroy thy chariots. and i will destroy the cities of thy land, and will throw down all thy strong holds, and i will take away sorceries out of thy hand, and there shall be no divinations in thee. and i will destroy thy graven things, and thy statues out of the midst of thee: and thou shalt no more adore the works of thy hands. and i will pluck up thy groves out of the midst of thee: and will crush thy cities. and i will execute vengeance in wrath and in indignation among all the nations that have not given ear.

hear ye what the lord saith: arise, contend thou in judgment against the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice. let the mountains hear the judgment of the lord, and the strong foundations of the earth: for the lord will enter into judgment with his people, and he will plead against israel. o my people, what have i done to thee, or in what have i molested thee? answer thou me. for i brought thee up out of the land of egypt, and delivered thee out of the house of slaves: and i sent before thy face mooses, and aaron, and mary. o my people, remember, i pray thee, what balach the king of moab purposed: and what balaam the son of beor answered him, from setim to galgal, that thou mightest know the justices of the lord. what shall i offer to the lord that is worthy? wherewith shall i kneel before the high god? shall i offer holocausts unto him, and calves of a year old? may the lord be appeased with thousands of rams, or with many thousands of fat he goats? shall i give my firstborn for my wickedness, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? i will shew thee, o man, what is good, and what the lord requireth of thee: verily, to do judgment, and to love mercy, and to walk solicitous with thy god.

the voice of the lord crieth to the city, and salvation shall be to them that fear thy name: hear, o ye tribes, and who shall approve it? as yet there is a fire in the house of the wicked, the treasures of iniquity, and a scant measure full of wrath. shall i justify wicked balances, and the deceitful weights of the bag? by which her rich men were filled with iniquity, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue was deceitful in their mouth. and i therefore began to strike thee with desolation for thy sins. thou shalt eat, but shalt not be filled: and thy humiliation shall be in the midst of thee: and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not save: and those whom thou shalt save, i will give up to the sword. thou shalt sow, but shalt not reap: thou shalt tread the olives, but shalt not be anointed with the oil: and the new wine, but shalt not drink the wine. for thou hast kept the statutes of amri, and all the works of the house of achab: and thou hast walked according to their wills, that i should make thee a desolation, and the inhabitants thereof a hissing, and you shall bear the reproach of my people.

woe is me, for i am become as one that gleaneth in autumn the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat, my soul desired the firstripe figs. the holy man is perished out of the earth, and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood, every one hunteth his brother to death. the evil of their hands they call good: the prince requireth, and the judge is for giving: and the great man hath uttered the desire of his soul, and they have troubled it. he that is best among them, is as a brier: and he that is righteous, as the thorn of the hedge. the day of thy inspection, thy visitation cometh: now shall be their destruction. believe not a friend, and trust not in a prince: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that sleepeth in thy bosom. for the son dishonoureth the father, and the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in law: and a man's enemies are they of his own household. but i will look towards the lord, i will wait for god my saviour: my god will hear me. rejoice not, thou, my enemy, over me, because i am fallen: i shall arise, when i sit in darkness, the lord is my light. i will bear the wrath of the lord, because i have sinned against him; until he judge my cause and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth into the light, i shall behold his justice. and my enemy shall behold, and she shall be covered with shame, who saith to me: where is the lord thy god? my eyes shall look down upon her: now shall she be trodden under foot as the mire of the streets. the day shall come, that thy walls may be built up: in that day shall the law be far removed. in that day they shall come even from assyria to thee, and to the fortified cities: and from the fortified cities even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain. and the land shall be made desolate, because of the inhabitants thereof, and for the fruit of their devices. feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thy inheritance, them that dwell alone in the forest, in the midst of carmel: they shall feed in basan and galaad according to the days of old. according to the days of thy coming out of the land of egypt i will shew him wonders. the nations shall see, and shall be confounded at all their strength: they shall put the hand upon the mouth, their ears shall be deaf. they shall lick the dust like serpents, as the creeping things of the earth, they shall be disturbed in their houses: they shall dread the lord our god, and shall fear thee. who is a god like to thee, who takest away iniquity, and passest by the sin of the remnant of thy inheritance? he will send his fury in no more, because he delighteth in mercy. he will turn again, and have mercy on us: he will put away our iniquities: and he will cast all our sins into the bottom of the sea. thou wilt perform the truth of jacob, the mercy to abraham: which thou hast sworn to our fathers from the days of old.

the burden of ninive. the book of the vision of nahum the elcesite. the lord is a jealous god, and a revenger: the lord is a revenger, and hath wrath: the lord taketh vengeance on his adversaries, and he is angry with his enemies. the lord is patient, and great in power, and will not cleanse and acquit the guilty. the lord's ways are in a tempest, and a whirlwind, and clouds are the dust of his feet. he rebuketh the sea, and drieth it up: and bringeth all the rivers to be a desert. basan languisheth and carmel: and the dower of libanus fadeth away. the mountains tremble at him, and the hills are made desolate: and the earth hath quaked at his presence, and the world, and all that dwell therein. who can stand before the face of his indignation? and who shall resist in the fierceness of his anger? his indignation is poured out like fire: and the rocks are melted by him. the lord is good and giveth strength in the day of trouble: and knoweth them that hope in him. but with a flood that passeth by, he will make an utter end of the place thereof: and darkness shall pursue his enemies. what do ye devise against the lord? he will make an utter end: there shall not rise a double affliction. for as thorns embrace one another: so while they are feasting and drinking together, they shall be consumed as stubble that is fully dry. out of thee shall come forth one that imagineth evil against the lord, contriving treachery in his mind. thus saith the lord: though they were perfect: and many of them so, yet thus shall they be cut off, and he shall pass: i have afflicted thee, and i will afflict thee no more. and now i will break in pieces his rod with which he struck thy back, and i will burst thy bonds asunder. and the lord will give a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name shall be sown: i will destroy the graven and molten thing out of the house of thy god, i will make it thy grave, for thou art disgraced. behold upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, and that preacheth peace: o juda, keep thy festivals, and pay thy vows: for belial shall no more pass through thee again, he is utterly cut off.

he is come up that shall destroy before thy face, that shall keep the siege: watch the way, fortify thy loins, strengthen thy power exceedingly. for the lord hath rendered the pride of jacob, as the pride of israel: because the spoilers have laid them waste, and have marred their vine branches. the shield of his mighty men is like fire, the men of the army are clad in scarlet, the reins of the chariot are flaming in the day of his preparation, and the drivers are stupefied. they are in confusion in the ways, the chariots jostle one against another in the streets: their looks are like torches, like lightning running to and fro. he will muster up his valiant men, they shall stumble in their march: they shall quickly get upon the walls thereof: and a covering shall be prepared. the gates of the rivers are opened, and the temple is thrown down to the ground. and the soldier is led away captive: and her

bondwomen were led away mourning as doves, murmuring in their hearts. and as for ninive, her waters are like a great pool, but the men flee away. they cry: stand, stand, but there is none that will return back. take ye the spoil of the silver, take the spoil of the gold: for there is no end of the riches of all the precious furniture. she is destroyed, and rent, and torn: the heart melteth, and the knees fail, and all the loins lose their strength: and the faces of them all are as the blackness of a kettle. where is now the dwelling of the lions, and the feeding place of the young lions, to which the lion went, to enter in thither, the young lion, and there was none to make them afraid? the lion caught enough for his whelps, and killed for his lionesses: and he filled his holes with prey, and his den with rapine. behold i come against thee, saith the lord of hosts, and i will burn thy chariots even to smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions: and i will cut off thy prey out of the land, and the voice of thy messengers shall be heard no more.

woe to thee, o city of blood, all full of lies and violence: rapine shall not depart from thee. the noise of the whip, and the noise of the rattling of the wheels, and of the neighing horse, and of the running chariot, and of the horsemen coming up, and of the shining sword, and of the glittering spear, and of a multitude slain, and of a grievous destruction: and there is no end of carcasses, and they shall fall down on their dead bodies. because of the multitude of the fornications of the harlot that was beautiful and agreeable, and that made use of witchcraft, that sold nations through her fornications, and families through her witchcrafts. behold i come against thee, saith the lord of hosts: and i will discover thy shame to thy face, and will shew thy nakedness to the nations, and thy shame to kingdoms. and i will cast abominations upon thee, and will disgrace thee, and will make an example of thee. and it shall come to pass that every one that shall see thee, shall flee from thee, and shall say: ninive is laid waste: who shall bemoan thee? whence shall i seek a comforter for thee? art thou better than the populous alexandria, that dwelleth among the rivers? waters are round about it: the sea is its riches, the waters are its walls. ethiopia and egypt were the strength thereof, and there is no end: africa and the libyans were thy helpers. yet she also was removed and carried into captivity: her young children were dashed in pieces at the top of every street, and they cast lots upon her nobles, and all her great men were bound in fetters. therefore thou also shalt be made drunk, and shalt be despised: and thou shalt seek help from the enemy. all thy strong holds shall be like fig trees with their green figs: if they be shaken, they shall fall into the mouth of the eater. behold thy people in the midst of thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be set wide open to thy enemies, the fire shall devour thy bars. draw thee water for the siege, build up thy bulwarks: go into the clay, and tread, work it and make brick. there shall the fire devour thee: thou shalt perish by the sword, it shall devour thee like the

bruchus: assemble together like the bruchus, make thyself many like the locust. thou hast multiplied thy merchandises above the stars of heaven: the bruchus hath spread himself and flown away. thy guards are like the locusts: and thy little ones like the locusts of locusts which swarm on the hedges in the day of cold: the sun arose, and they flew away, and their place was not known where they were. thy shepherds have slumbered, o king of assyria, thy princes shall be buried: thy people are hid in the mountains, and there is none to gather them together. thy destruction is not hidden, thy wound is grievous: all that have heard the fame of thee, have clapped their hands over thee: for upon whom hath not thy wickedness passed continually?

the burden that habacuc the prophet saw. how long, o lord, shall i cry, and thou wilt not hear? shall i cry out to thee suffering violence, and thou wilt not save? why hast thou shewn me iniquity and grievance, to see rapine and injustice before me? and there is a judgment, but opposition is more powerful. therefore the law is torn in pieces, and judgment cometh not to the end: because the wicked prevaileth against the just, therefore wrong judgment goeth forth. behold ye among the nations, and see: wonder, and be astonished: for a work is done in your days, which no man will believe when it shall be told. for behold, i will raise up the chaldeans, a bitter and swift nation, marching upon the breadth of the earth, to possess the dwelling places that are not their own. they are dreadful, and terrible: from themselves shall their judgment, and their burden proceed. their horses are lighter than leopards, and swifter than evening wolves; and their horsemen shall be spread abroad: for their horsemen shall come from afar, they shall fly as an eagle that maketh haste to eat. they shall all come to the prey, their face is like a burning wind: and they shall gather together captives as the sand. and their prince shall triumph over kings, and princes shall be his laughingstock: and he shall laugh at every strong hold, and shall cast up a mount, and shall take it. then shall his spirit be changed, and he shall pass, and fall: this is his strength of his god. wast thou not from the beginning, o lord my god, my holy one, and we shall not die? lord, thou hast appointed him for judgment: and made him strong for correction. thy eyes are too pure to behold evil, and thou canst not look on iniquity. why lookest thou upon them that do unjust things, and holdest thy peace when the wicked devoureth the man that is more just than himself? and thou wilt make men as the fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things that have no ruler. he lifted up all them with his hook, he drew them in his drag, and gathered them into his net: for this he will be glad and rejoice. therefore will he offer victims to his drag, and he will sacrifice to his net: because through them his portion is made fat, and his meat dainty. for this cause therefore he spreadeth his net, and will not spare continually to slay the nations.

i will stand upon my watch, and fix my foot upon the tower: and i will watch, to see what will be said to me, and what i may answer to him that reproveth me. and the lord answered me, and said: write the vision, and make it plain upon tables: that he that readeth it may run over it. for as yet the vision is far off, and it shall appear at the end, and shall not lie: if it make any delay, wait for it: for it shall surely come, and it shall not be slack. behold, he that is unbelieving, his soul shall not be right in himself: but the just shall live in his faith. and as wine deceiveth him that drinketh it: so shall the proud man be, and he shall not be honoured: who hath enlarged his desire like hell: and is himself like death, and he is never satisfied: but will gather together unto him all nations, and heap together unto him all people. shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a dark speech concerning him: and it shall be said: woe to him that heapeth together that which is not his own? how long also doth he load himself with thick clay? shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee: and they be stirred up that shall tear thee, and thou shalt be a spoil to them? because thou hast spoiled many nations, all that shall be left of the people shall spoil thee: because of men's blood, and for the iniquity of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein. woe to him that gathereth together an evil covetousness to his house, that his nest may be on high, and thinketh he may be delivered out of the hand of evil. thou hast devised confusion to thy house, thou hast cut off many people, and thy soul hath sinned. for the stone shall cry out of the wall: and the timber that is between the joints of the building, shall answer. woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and prepareth a city by iniquity. are not these things from the lord of hosts? for the people shall labour in a great fire: and the nations in vain, and they shall faint. for the earth shall be filled, that men may know the glory of the lord, as waters covering the sea. woe to him that giveth drink to his friend, and presenteth his gall, and maketh him drunk, that he may behold his nakedness. thou art filled with shame instead of glory: drink thou also, and fall fast asleep: the cup of the right hand of the lord shall compass thee, and shameful vomiting shall be on thy glory. for the iniquity of libanus shall cover thee, and the ravaging of beasts shall terrify them because of the blood of men, and the iniquity of the land, and of the city, and of all that dwell therein. what doth the graven thing avail, because the maker thereof hath graven it, a molten, and a false image? because the forger thereof hath trusted in a thing of his own forging, to make dumb idols. woe to him that saith to wood: awake: to the dumb stone: arise: can it teach? behold, it is laid over with gold, and silver, and there is no spirit in the bowels thereof. but the lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him.

a prayer of habacuc the prophet for ignorances. o lord, i have heard thy hearing, and was afraid. o lord, thy work, in the midst of the years bring it to life: in the midst of the years thou shalt make it known: when thou art angry, thou wilt remember mercy. god will come from the south, and the holy one from mount paran: his glory covered the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise. his brightness shall be as the light; horns are in his hands: there is his strength hid: death shall go before his face. and the devil shall go forth before his feet. he stood and measured the earth. he beheld, and melted the nations: and the ancient mountains were crushed to pieces. the hills of the world were bowed down by the journeys of his eternity. i saw the tents of ethiopia for their iniquity, the curtains of the land of madian shall be troubled. wast thou angry, o lord, with the rivers? or was thy wrath upon the rivers? or thy indignation in the sea?

who will ride upon thy horses: and thy chariots are salvation. thou wilt surely take up thy bow: according to the oaths which thou hast spoken to the tribes. thou wilt divide the rivers of the earth. the mountains saw thee, and were grieved: the great body of waters passed away. the deep put forth its voice: the deep lifted up its hands. the sun and the moon stood still in their habitation, in the light of thy arrows, they shall go in the brightness of thy glittering spear. in thy anger thou wilt tread the earth under foot: in thy wrath thou wilt astonish the nations. thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people: for salvation with thy christ. thou struckest the head of the house of the wicked: thou hast laid bare his foundation even to the neck. thou hast cursed his sceptres, the head of his warriors, them that came out as a whirlwind to scatter me. their joy was like that of him that devoureth the poor man in secret. thou madest a way in the sea for thy horses, in the mud of many waters. i have heard and my bowels were troubled: my lips trembled at the voice. let rottenness enter into my bones, and swarm under me. that i may rest in the day of tribulation: that i may go up to our people that are girded. for the fig tree shall not blossom: and there shall be no spring in the vines. the labour of the olive tree shall fail: and the fields shall yield no food: the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls. but i will rejoice in the lord: and i will joy in god my jesus. the lord god is my strength: and he will make my feet like the feet of harts: and he the conqueror will lead me upon my high places singing psalms.

the word of the lord that came to sophonias the son of chusi, the son of godolias, the son of amarias, the son of ezechias, in the days of josias the son of amon king of juda. gathering, i will gather together all things from off the face of the land, saith the lord: i will gather man, and beast, i will gather the birds of the air, and the fishes of the sea: and the ungodly shall meet with ruin: and i will destroy men from off the face of the land, saith the lord. and i will stretch out my hand upon juda, and upon all the inhabitants of jerusalem: and i will destroy out of this place the remnant of baal, and the names of the wardens of the temples with the priests: and them that worship the host of heaven upon the tops of houses, and them that adore, and swear by the lord, and swear by melchom. and them that turn away from following after the lord, and that have not sought the lord, nor searched after him. be silent before the face of the lord god: for the day of the lord is near, for the lord hath prepared a victim, he hath sanctified his guests. and it shall come to pass in the day of the victim of the lord, that i will visit upon the princes, and upon the king's sons, and upon all such as are clothed with strange apparel. and i will visit in that day upon every one that entereth arrogantly over the threshold: them that fill the house of the lord their god with iniquity and deceit. and there shall be in that day, saith the lord, the noise of a cry from the fish gate, and a howling from the second, and a great destruction from the hills. howl, ye inhabitants of the mortar. all the people of chanaan is hush, all are cut off that were wrapped up in silver. and it shall come to pass at that time, that i will search jerusalem with lamps, and will visit upon the men that are settled on their lees: that say in their hearts: the lord will not do good, nor will he do evil. and their strength shall become a booty, and their houses as a desert: and they shall build houses, and shall not dwell in them: and they shall plant vineyards, and shall not drink the wine of them. the great day of the lord is near, it is near and exceeding swift: the voice of the day of the lord is bitter, the mighty man shall there meet with tribulation. that day is a day of wrath, a day of tribulation and distress, a day of calamity and misery, a day of darkness and obscurity, a day of clouds and whirlwinds, a day of the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high bulwarks. and i will distress men, and they shall walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the lord: and their blood shall be poured out as earth, and their bodies as dung. neither shall their silver and their gold be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the lord: all the land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy, for he shall make even a speedy destruction of all them that dwell in the land.

assemble yourselves together, be gathered together, o nation not worthy to be loved: before the decree bring forth the day as dust passing away, before the fierce anger of the lord come upon you, before the day of the lord's indignation come upon you. seek the lord, all ye meek of the earth, you that have wrought his judgment: seek the just, seek the meek: if by any means you may be hid in the day of the lord's indignation. for gaza shall be destroyed, and ascalon shall be a desert, they shall cast out azotus at noonday, and accaron shall be rooted up. woe to you that inhabit the sea coast, o nation of reprobates: the word of the lord upon you, o chanaan, the land of the philistines, and i will destroy thee, so that there shall not be an inhabitant. and the sea coast shall be the resting place of shepherds, and folds for cattle: and it shall be the portion of him that shall remain of the house of juda, there they shall feed: in the houses of ascalon they shall rest in the evening: because the lord their god will visit them, and bring back their captivity. i have heard the reproach of moab, and the blasphemies of the children of ammon, with which they reproached my people, and have magnified themselves upon their borders. therefore as i live, saith the lord of hosts the god of israel, moab shall be as sodom, and the children of ammon as gomorrhah, the dryness of thorns, and heaps of salt, and a desert even for ever: the remnant of my people shall make a spoil of them, and the residue of my nation shall possess them. this shall befall them for their pride: because they have blasphemed, and have been magnified against the people of the lord of hosts. the lord shall be terrible upon them, and shall consume all the gods of the earth: and they shall adore him every man from his own place, all the islands of the gentiles. you ethiopians, also shall be slain with my sword. and he will stretch out his hand upon the north, and will destroy assyria: and he will make the beautiful city a wilderness, and as a place not passable, and as a desert. and flocks shall lie down in the midst thereof, all the beasts of the nations: and the bittren and the urchin shall lodge in the threshold thereof: the voice of the singing bird in the window, the raven on the upper post, for i will consume her strength. this is the glorious city that dwelt in security: that said in her heart: i am, and there is none beside me: how is she become a desert, a place for beasts to lie down in? every one that passeth by her, shall hiss, and wag his hand.

woe to the provoking, and redeemed city, the dove. she hath not hearkened to the voice, neither hath she received discipline: she hath not trusted in the lord, she drew not near to her god. her princes are in the midst of her as roaring lions: her judges are evening wolves, they left nothing for the morning. her prophets are senseless men without faith: her priests have polluted the sanctuary, they have acted unjustly against the law. the just lord is in the midst thereof, he will not do iniquity: in the morning, in the morning he will bring his judgment to light, and it shall not be hid: but the wicked man hath not known shame. i have destroyed the nations, and their towers are beaten down: i have made their ways desert, so that there is none that passeth by: their cities are desolate, there is not a man remaining, nor any inhabitant. i said: surely thou wilt fear me, thou wilt receive correction: and her dwelling shall not perish, for all things wherein i have visited her: but they rose early and corrupted all their thoughts. wherefore expect me, saith the lord, in the day of my resurrection that is to come, for my judgment is to assemble the gentiles, and to gather the kingdoms: and to pour upon them my indignation, all my fierce anger: for with the fire of my jealousy shall all the earth be devoured. because then i will restore to the people a chosen lip, that all may call upon the name of the lord, and may serve him with one shoulder. from beyond the rivers of ethiopia, shall my suppliants the children of my dispersed people bring me an offering. in that day thou shalt not be ashamed for all thy doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then i will take away out of the midst of thee thy proud boasters, and thou shalt no more be lifted up because of my holy mountain. and i will leave in the midst of thee a poor and needy people: and they shall hope in the name of the lord. the remnant of israel shall not do iniquity, nor speak lies, nor shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for they shall feed, and shall lie down, and there shall be none to make them afraid. give praise, o daughter of sion: shout, o israel: be glad, and rejoice with all thy heart, o daughter of jerusalem. the lord hath taken away thy judgment, he hath turned away thy enemies: the king of israel the lord is in the midst of thee, thou shalt fear evil no more. in that day it shall be said to jerusalem: fear not: to sion: let not thy hands be weakened. the lord thy god in the midst of thee is mighty, he will save: he will rejoice over thee with gladness, he will be silent in his love, he will be joyful over thee in praise. the triflers that were departed from the law, i will gather together, because they were of thee: that thou mayest no more suffer reproach for them. behold i will cut off all that have afflicted thee at that time: and i will save her that halteth, and will gather her that was cast out: and i will get them praise, and a name, in all the land where they had been put to confusion. at that time, when i will bring you: and at the time that i will gather you: for i will give you a name, and praise among all the people of the earth, when i shall have brought back your captivity before your eyes, saith the lord.

in the second year of darius the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, the word of the lord came by the hand of agegeus the prophet, to zorobabel the son of salathiel, governor of juda, and to jesus the son of josedec the high priest, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts, saying: this people saith: the time is not yet come for building the house of the lord. and the word of the lord came by the hand of agegeus the prophet, saying: is it time for you to dwell in ceiled houses, and this house lie desolate? and now thus saith the lord of hosts: set your hearts to consider your ways. you have sowed much, and brought in little: you have eaten, but have not had enough: you have drunk, but have not been filled with drink: you have clothed yourselves, but have not been warmed: and he that hath earned wages, put them into a bag with holes. thus saith the lord of hosts: set your hearts upon your ways: go up to the mountain, bring timber, and build the house: and it shall be acceptable to me, and i shall be glorified, saith the lord. you have looked for more, and behold it became less, and you brought it home, and i blowed it away: why, saith the lord of hosts? because my house is desolate, and you make haste every man to his own house. therefore the heavens over you were stayed from giving dew, and the earth was hindered from yielding her fruits: and i called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the wine, and upon the oil, and upon all that the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon beasts, and upon all the labour of the hands. then zorobabel the son of salathiel, and jesus the son of josedec the high priest, and all the remnant of the people hearkened to the voice of the lord their god, and to the words of agegeus the prophet, as the lord their god sent him to them: and the people feared before the lord. and agegeus the messenger of the lord, as one of the messengers of the lord, spoke, saying to the people: i am with you, saith the lord. and the lord stirred up the spirit of zorobabel the son of salathiel governor of juda, and the spirit of jesus the son of josedec the high priest, and the spirit of all the rest of the people: and they went in, and did the work in the house of the lord of hosts their god. in the four and twentieth day of the month, in the sixth month, in the second year of darius the king, they began.

and in the seventh month, the word of the lord came by the hand of agegeus the prophet, saying: speak to zorobabel the son of salathiel the governor of juda, and to jesus the son of josedec the high priest, and to the rest of the people, saying: who is left among you, that saw this house in its first glory? and how do you see it now? is it not in comparison to that as nothing in your eyes? yet now take courage, o zorobabel, saith the lord, and take courage, o jesus the son of josedec the high priest, and take courage, all ye people of the land, saith the lord of hosts: and perform (for i am with you, saith the lord of hosts) the word that i covenanted with you when you came out of the land of egypt: and my spirit shall be in the midst of you: fear not. for thus saith the lord of hosts: yet one little while, and i will move the heaven and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land. and i will move all nations: and the desired of all nations shall come: and i will fill this house with glory: saith the lord of hosts. the silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the lord of hosts. great shall be the glory of this last house more than of the first, saith the lord of hosts: and in this place i will give peace, saith the lord of hosts. in the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of darius the king, the word of the lord came to agegeus the prophet, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: ask the priests the law, saying: if a man carry sanctified flesh in the skirt of his garment, and touch with his skirt, bread, or pottage, or wine, or oil, or any meat: shall it be sanctified? and the priests answered, and said: no. and agegeus said: if one that is unclean by occasion of a soul touch any of all these things, shall it be defiled? and the priests answered, and said: it shall be defiled. and agegeus answered, and said: so is this people, and so is this nation before my face, saith the lord, and so is all the work of their hands: and all that they have offered there, shall be defiled. and now consider in your hearts, from this day and upward, before there was a stone laid upon a stone in the temple of the lord. when you went to a heap of twenty bushels, and they became ten: and you went into the press, to press out fifty vessels, and they became twenty. i struck you with a blasting wind, and all the works of your hand with the mildew and with hail, yet there was none among you that returned to me, saith the lord. set your hearts from this day, and henceforward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month: from the day that the foundations of the temple of the lord were laid, and lay it up in your hearts. is the seed as yet sprung up? or hath the vine, and the fig tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree as yet flourished? from this day i will bless you. and the word of the lord came a second time to agegeus in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying: speak to zorobabel the governor of juda, saying: i will move both heaven and earth. and i will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and will destroy the strength of the kingdom of the gentiles: and i will overthrow the chariot, and him that rideth therein: and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother. in that day, saith the lord of hosts, i will take thee, o zorobabel the son of salathiel, my servant, saith the lord, and will make thee as a signet, for i have chosen thee, saith the lord of hosts.

in the eighth month, in the second year of king darius, the word of the lord came to zacharias the son of barachias, the son of addo, the prophet, saying: the lord hath been exceeding angry with your fathers. and thou shalt say to them: thus saith the lord of hosts: turn ye to me, saith the lord of hosts: and i will turn to you, saith the lord of hosts. be not as your fathers, to whom the former prophets have cried, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: turn ye from your evil ways, and from your wicked thoughts: but they did not give ear, neither did they hearken to me, saith the lord. your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, shall they live always? but yet my words, and my ordinances, which i gave in charge to my servants the prophets, did they not take hold of your fathers, and they returned, and said: as the lord of hosts thought to do to us according to our ways, and according to our devices, so he hath done to us. in the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month which is called sabbath, in the second year of darius, the word of the lord came to zacharias the son of barachias, the son of addo, the prophet, saying: i saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees, that were in the bottom: and behind him were horses, red, speckled, and white. and i said: what are these, my lord? and the angel that spoke in me, said to me: i will shew thee what these are: and the man that stood among the myrtle trees answered, and said: these are they, whom the lord hath sent to walk through the earth. and they answered the angel of the lord, that stood among the myrtle trees, and said: we have walked through the earth, and behold all the earth is inhabited, and is at rest. and the angel of the lord answered, and said: o lord of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on jerusalem, and on the cities of juda, with which thou hast been angry? this is now the seventieth year. and the lord answered the angel, that spoke in me, good words, comfortable words. and the angel that spoke in me, said to me: cry thou, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: i am zealous for jerusalem, and sion with a great zeal. and i am angry with a great anger with the wealthy nations: for i was angry a little, but they helped forward the evil. therefore thus saith the lord: i will return to jerusalem in mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the lord of hosts: and the building line shall be stretched forth upon jerusalem. cry yet, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: my cities shall yet flow with good things: and the lord will yet comfort sion, and he will yet choose jerusalem. and i lifted up my eyes, and saw: and behold four horns. and i said to the angel that spoke to me: what are these? and he said to me: these are the horns that have scattered juda, and israel, and jerusalem. and the lord shewed me four smiths. and i said: what come these to do? and he spoke, saying: these are the horns which have scattered juda every man apart, and none of them lifted up his head: and these are come to fray them, to cast down the horns of the nations, that have lifted up the horn upon the land of juda to scatter it.

and i lifted up my eyes, and saw, and behold a man, with a measuring line in his hand. and i said: whither goest thou? and he said to me: to measure jerusalem, and to see how great is the breadth thereof, and how great the length thereof. and behold the angel that spoke in me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him. and he said to him: run, speak to this young man, saying: jerusalem shall be inhabited without walls, by reason of the multitude of men, and of the beasts in the midst thereof. and i will be to it, saith the lord, a wall of fire round about: and i will be in glory in the midst thereof. o, o flee ye out of the land of the north, saith the lord, for i have scattered you into the four winds of heaven, saith the lord. o sion, flee, thou that dwellest with the daughter of babylon: for thus saith the lord of hosts: after the glory he hath sent me to the nations that have robbed you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of my eye: for behold i lift up my hand upon them, and they shall be a prey to those that served them: and you shall know that the lord of hosts sent me. sing praise, and rejoice, o daughter of sion: for behold i come, and i will dwell in the midst of thee: saith the lord. and many nations shall be joined to the lord in that day, and they shall be my people, and i will dwell in the midst of thee: and thou shalt know that the lord of hosts hath sent me to thee. and the lord shall possess juda his portion in the sanctified land: and he shall yet choose jerusalem. let all flesh be silent at the presence of the lord: for he is risen up out of his .holy habitation.

and the lord shewed me jesus the high priest standing before the angel of the lord: and satan stood on his right hand to be his adversary. and the lord said to satan: the lord rebuke thee, o satan: and the lord that chose jerusalem rebuke thee: is not this a brand plucked out of the fire? and jesus was clothed with filthy garments: and he stood before the face of the angel. who answered, and said to them that stood before him, saying: take away the filthy garments from him. and he said to him: behold i have taken away thy iniquity, and have clothed thee with change of garments. and he said: put a clean mitre upon his head: and they put a clean mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments, and the angel of the lord stood. and the angel of the lord protested to jesus, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: if thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my charge, thou also shalt judge my house, and shalt keep my courts, and i will give thee some of them that are now present here to walk with thee. hear, o jesus thou high priest, then and thy friends that dwell before thee, for they are portending men: for behold i will bring my servant the orient. for behold the stone that i have laid before jesus: upon one stone there are seven eyes: behold i will grave the graving thereof, saith the lord of hosts: and i will take away the iniquity of that land in one day. in that day, saith the lord of hosts, every man shall call his friend

and the angel that spoke in me came again: and he waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his sleep. and he said to me: what seest thou? and i said: i have looked, and behold a candlestick all of gold, and its lamp upon the top of it: and the seven lights thereof upon it: and seven funnels for the lights that were upon the top thereof. and two olive trees over it: one upon the right side of the lamp, and the other upon the left side thereof. and i answered, and said to the angel that spoke in me, saying: what are these things, my lord? and the angel that spoke in me answered, and said to me: knowest thou not what these things are? and i said: no, my lord. and he answered, and spoke to me, saying: this is the word of the lord to zorobabel, saying: not with an army, nor by might, but by my spirit, saith the lord of hosts. who art thou, o great mountain, before zorobabel? thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring out the chief stone, and shall give equal grace to the grace thereof. and the word of the lord came to me, saying: the hands of zorobabel have laid the foundations of this house, and his hands shall finish it: and you shall know that the lord of hosts hath sent me to you. for who hath despised little days? and they shall rejoice, and shall see the tin plummet in the hand of zorobabel. these are the seven eyes of the lord, that run to and fro through the whole earth. and i answered, and said to him: what are these two olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick, and upon the left side thereof? and i answered again, and said to him: what are the two olive branches, that are by the two golden beaks, in which are the funnels of gold? and he spoke to me, saying: knowest thou not what these are? and i said: no, my lord. and he said: these are two sons of oil who stand before the lord of the whole earth.

and i turned and lifted up my eyes: and i saw, and behold a volume flying. and he said to me: what seest thou? and i said: i see a volume flying: the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits. and he said to me: this is the curse that goeth forth over the face of the earth: for every thief shall be judged as is there written: and every one that sweareth in like manner shall be judged by it. i will bring it forth, saith the lord of hosts: and it shall come to the house of the thief, and to the house of him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and the stones thereof. and the angel went forth that spoke in me, and he said to me: lift up thy eyes, and see what this is, that goeth forth. and i said: what is it? and he said: this is a vessel going forth. and he said: this is their eye in all the earth. and behold a talent of lead was carried, and behold a woman sitting in the midst of the vessel. and he said: this is wickedness. and he cast her into the midst of the vessel, and cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof. and i lifted up my eyes and looked: and behold there came out two women, and wind was in their wings, and they had wings like the wings of a kite: and they lifted up the vessel between the earth and the heaven. and i said to the angel that spoke in me: whither do these carry the vessel? and he said to me: that a house may be built for it in the land of sennaar, and that it may be established, and set there upon its own basis.

and i turned, and lifted up my eyes, and saw: and behold four chariots came out from the midst of two mountains: and the mountains were mountains of brass. in the first chariot were red horses, and in the second chariot black horses. and in the third chariot white horses, and in the fourth chariot grisled horses, and strong ones. and i answered, and said to the angel that spoke in me: what are these, my lord? and the angel answered, and said to me: these are the four winds of the heaven, which go forth to stand before the lord of all the earth. that in which were the black horses went forth into the land of the north, and the white went forth after them: and the grisled went forth to the land of the south. and they that were most strong, went out, and sought to go, and to run to and fro through all the earth. and he said: go, walk throughout the earth: and they walked throughout the earth. and he called me, and spoke to me, saying: behold they that go forth into the land of the north, have quieted my spirit in the land of the north, and the word of the lord came to me, saying: take of them of the captivity, of holdai, and of tobias, and of idaias; thou shalt come in that day, and shalt go into the house of josias, the son of sophonias, who came out of babylon. and thou shalt take gold and silver: and shalt make crowns, and thou shalt set them on the head of jesus the son of josedec, the high priest. and thou shalt speak to him, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts, saying: behold a man, the orient is his name: and under him shall he spring up, and shall build a temple to the lord. yea, he shall build a temple to the lord: and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit, and rule upon his throne: and he shall be a priest upon his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both. and the crowns shall be to helem, and tobias, and idaias, and to hem, the son of sophonias, a memorial in the temple of the lord. and they that are far off, shall come and shall build in the temple of the lord: and you shall know that the lord of hosts sent me to you. but this shall come to pass, if hearing you will hear the voice of the lord your god.

and it came to pass in the fourth year of king darius, that the word of the lord came to zacharias, in the fourth day of the ninth month, which is casleu. when sarasar, and rogommelech, and the men that were with him, sent to the house of god, to entreat

the face of the lord: to speak to the priests of the house of the lord of hosts, and to the prophets, saying: must i weep in the fifth month, or must i sanctify myself as i have now done for many years? and the word of the lord of hosts came to me, saying: speak to all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying: when you fasted, and mourned in the fifth and the seventh month for these seventy years: did you keep a fast unto me? and when you did eat and drink, did you not eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves? are not these the words which the lord spoke by the hand of the former prophets, when jerusalem as yet was inhabited, and was wealthy, both itself and the cities round about it, and there were inhabitants towards the south, and in the plain? and the word of the lord came to zacharias, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts, saying: judge ye true judgment, and shew ye mercy and compassion every man to his brother. and oppress not the widow, and the fatherless, and the stranger, and the poor: and let not a man devise evil in his heart against his brother. but they would not hearken, and they turned away the shoulder to depart: and they stopped their ears, not to hear. and they made their heart as the adamant stone, lest they should hear the law, and the words which the lord of hosts sent in his spirit by the hand of the former prophets: so a great indignation came from the lord of hosts. and it came to pass that as he spoke, and they heard not: so shall they cry, and i will not hear, saith the lord of hosts. and i dispersed them throughout all kingdoms, which they know not: and the land was left desolate behind them, so that no man passed through or returned: and they changed the delightful land into a wilderness.

and the word of the lord of hosts came to me, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: i have been jealous for sion with a great jealousy, and with a great indignation have i been jealous for her. thus saith the lord of hosts: i am returned to sion, and i will dwell in the midst of jerusalem: and jerusalem shall be called the city of truth, and the mountain of the lord of hosts, the sanctified mountain. thus saith the lord of hosts: there shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of jerusalem: and every man with his staff in his hand through multitude of days. and the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof. thus saith the lord of hosts: if it seem hard in the eyes of the remnant of this people in those days: shall it be hard in my eyes, saith the lord of hosts? thus saith the lord of hosts: behold i will save my people from the land of the east, and from the land of the going down of the sun. and i will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of jerusalem: and they shall be my people, and i will be their god in truth and in justice. thus saith the lord of hosts: let your hands be strengthened, you that hear in these days these words by the mouth of the prophets, in the day that the house of the lord of hosts was founded, that the temple might be built. for before those days there was no hire for men, neither was there hire for beasts, neither was there peace to him that came in, nor to him that went out, because of the tribulation: and i let all men go every one against his neighbour. but now i will not deal with the remnant of this people according to the former days, saith the lord of hosts. but there shall be the seed of peace: the vine shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew: and i will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things. and it shall come to pass, that as you were a curse among the gentiles, o house of juda, and house of israel: so will i save you, and you shall be a blessing: fear not, let your hands be strengthened. for thus saith the lord of hosts: as i purposed to afflict you, when your fathers had provoked me to wrath, saith the lord, and i had no mercy: so turning again i have thought in these days to do good to the house of juda, and jerusalem: fear not. these then are the things, which you shall do: speak ye truth every one to his neighbour: judge ye truth and judgment of peace in your gates. and let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his friend: and love not a false oath: for all these are the things that i hate, saith the lord. and the word of the lord of hosts came to me, saying: thus saith the lord of hosts: the fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth shall be to the house of juda, joy, and gladness, and great solemnities: only love ye truth and peace. thus saith the lord of hosts, until people come, and dwell in many cities, and the inhabitants go one to another, saying: let us go, and entreat the face of the lord, and let us seek the lord of hosts: i also will go. and many peoples, and strong nations shall come to seek the lord of hosts in jerusalem, and to entreat the face of the lord. thus saith the lord of hosts: in those days, wherein ten men of all languages of the gentiles shall take hold, and shall hold fast the shirt of one that is a jew, saying: we will go with you: for we have heard that god is with you.

the burden of the word of the lord in the land of hadrach, and of damascus the rest thereof: for the eye of man, and of all the tribes of israel is the lord's. emath also in the borders thereof, and tyre, and sidon: for they have taken to themselves to be exceeding wise. and tyre hath built herself a strong hold, and heaped together silver as earth, and gold as the mire of the streets. behold the lord shall possess her, and shall strike her strength in the sea, and she shall be devoured with fire. ascalon shall see, and shall fear, and gaza, and shall be very sorrowful: and accaron, because her hope is confounded: and the king shall perish from gaza, and ascalon shall not be inhabited. and the divider shall sit in azotus, and i will destroy the pride of the philistines. and i will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: and even he shall be left to our god, and he shall be as a governor in juda, and accaron as a jebusite. and i will encompass my house with them that serve me in war, going and returning, and the oppressor shall no more pass through them: for now i have seen with my eyes. rejoice greatly, o daughter of sion, shout for joy, o daughter of jerusalem: behold thy king will come to thee, the just and saviour: he is poor, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass. and i will destroy the chariot out of ephraim, and the horse out of jerusalem, and the bow for war shall be broken: and he shall speak peace to the gentiles, and his power shall be from sea to sea, and from the rivers even to the end of the earth. thou also by the blood of thy testament hast sent forth thy prisoners out of the pit, wherein is no water. return to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope, i will render thee double at, i declare to day. because i have bent juda for me as a bow, i have filled ephraim: and i will raise up thy sons, o sion, above thy sons, o greece, and i will make thee as the sword of the mighty. and the lord god shall be seen over them, and his dart shall go forth as lightning: and the lord god will sound the trumpet, and go in the whirlwind of the south. the lord of hosts will protect them: and they shall devour, and subdue with the stones of the sling: and drinking they shall be inebriated as it were with wine, and they shall be filled as bowls, and as the horns of the altar. and the lord their god will save them in that day, as the dock of his people: for holy stones shall be lifted up over his land. for what is the good thing of him, and what is his beautiful thing, but the corn of the elect, and wine springing forth virgins?

ask ye of the lord rain in the latter season, and the lord will make snows, and will give them showers of rain, to every one grass in the field. for the idols have spoken what was unprofitable, and the diviners have seen a lie, and the dreamers have spoken vanity: they comforted in vain: therefore they were led away as a dock: they shall be afflicted, because they have no shepherd. my wrath is kindled against the shepherds, and i will visit upon the buck goats: for the lord of hosts hath visited his flock, the house of juda, and hath made them as the horse of his glory in the battle. out of him shall come forth the corner, out of him the pin, out of him the bow of battle, out of him every exacter together. and they shall be as mighty men, treading under foot the mire of the ways in battle: and they shall fight, because the lord is with them, and the riders of horses shall be confounded. and i will strengthen the house of juda, and save the house of joseph: and i will bring them back again, because i will have mercy on them: and they shall be as they were when i had cast them off, for i am the lord their god, and will hear them. and they shall be as the valiant men of ephraim, and their heart shall rejoice as through wine: and their children shall see, and shall rejoice, and their heart shall be joyful in the lord. i will whistle for them, and i will gather them together, because i have redeemed them: and i will multiply them as they were multiplied before. and i will sow them among peoples: and from afar they shall remember me: and they shall live with their children, and shall return. and i will bring them back out of the land of egypt, and will gather them from among the assyrians: and will bring them to the land of galaad, and libanus, and place shall not be found for them. and he shall pass over the strait of the sea, and shall strike the waves in the sea, and all the depths of the river shall be confounded, and the pride of assyria shall be humbled, and the sceptre of egypt shall depart. i will strengthen them in the lord, and they shall walk in his name, saith the lord.

open thy gates, O libanus, and let fire devour thy cedars. howl, thou fir tree, for the cedar is fallen, for the mighty are laid waste: howl, ye oaks of basan, because the fenced forest is cut down. the voice of the howling of the shepherds, because their glory is laid waste: the voice of the roaring of the lions, because the pride of the jordan is spoiled. thus saith the lord my god: feed the flock of the slaughter, which they that possessed, slew, and repented not, and they sold them, saying: blessed be the lord, we are become rich: and their shepherds spared them not. and i will no more spare the inhabitants of the land, saith the lord: behold i will deliver the men, every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall destroy the land, and i will not deliver it out of their hand. and i will feed the hock of slaughter for this, o ye poor of the dock. and i took unto me two rods, one i called beauty, and the other i called a cord, and i fed the flock. and i cut off three shepherds in one month, and my soul was straitened in their regard: for their soul also varied in my regard. and i said: i will not feed you: that which dieth, let it die: and that which is cut off, let it be cut off: and let the rest devour every one the flesh of his neighbour. and i took my rod that was called beauty, and i cut it asunder to make void my covenant, which i had made with all people. and it was made void in that day: and so the poor of the flock that keep for me, understood that it is the word of the lord. and i said to them: if it be good in your eyes, bring hither my wages: and if not, be quiet. and they weighed for my wages thirty pieces of silver. and the lord said to me: cast it to the statuary, a handsome price, that i was prized at by them. and i took the thirty pieces of silver, and i cast them into the house of the lord to the statuary. and i cut off my second rod that was called a cord, that i might break the brotherhood between juda and israel. and the lord said to me: take to thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd. for behold i will raise up a shepherd in the land, who shall not visit what is forsaken, nor seek what is scattered, nor heal what is broken, nor nourish that which standeth, and he shall eat the flesh of the fat ones, and break their hoofs. o shepherd, and idol, that forsaketh the flock: the sword upon his arm and upon his right eye: his arm shall quite wither away, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

the burden of the word of the lord upon israel. thus saith the lord, who stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundations of the earth, and formeth the spirit of man in him : behold i will make jerusalem a lintel of surfeiting to all the people round about: and juda also shall be in the siege against jerusalem. and it shall come to pass in that day, that i will make jerusalem a burdensome stone to all people: all that shall lift it up shall be rent and torn, and all the kingdoms of the earth shall be gathered together against her. in that day, saith the lord, i will strike every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and i will open my eyes upon the house of juda, and will strike every horse of the nations with blindness. and the governors of juda shall say in their heart: let the inhabitants of jerusalem be strengthened for me in the lord of hosts, their god. in that day i will make the governors of juda like a furnace of fire amongst wood, and as a firebrand amongst hay: and they shall devour all the people round about, to the right hand, and to the left: and jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place in jerusalem. and the lord shall save the tabernacles of juda, as in the beginning: that the house of david, and the glory of the inhabitants of jerusalem, may not boast and magnify themselves against juda. in that day shall the lord protect the inhabitants of jerusalem, and he that hath offended among them in that day shall be as david: and the house of david, as that of god, as an angel of the lord in their sight. and it shall come to pass in that day, that i will seek to destroy all the nations that come against jerusalem. and i will pour out upon the house of david, and upon the inhabitants of jerusalem, the spirit of grace, and of prayers: and they shall look upon me, whom they have pierced: and they shall mourn for him as one mourneth for an only son, and they shall grieve over him, as the manner is to grieve for the death of the firstborn. in that day there shall be a great lamentation in jerusalem like the lamentation of adadremmon in the plain of mageddon. and the land shall mourn: families and families apart: the families of the house of david apart, and their women apart: the families of the house of nathan apart, and their women apart: the families of the house of levi apart, and their women apart: the families of semei apart, and their women apart. all the rest of the families, families and families apart, and their women apart.

in that day there shall be a fountain open to the house of david, and to the inhabitants of jerusalem: for the washing of the sinner, and of the unclean woman. and it shall come to pass in that day, saith the lord of hosts, that i will destroy the names of idols out of the earth, and they shall be remembered no more: and i will take away the false prophets, and the unclean spirit out of the earth. and it shall come to pass, that when any man shall prophesy any more, his father and his mother that brought him into the world, shall say to him: thou shalt not live: because thou best spoken a lie in the name of the lord. and his father, and his mother, his parents, shall thrust him through, when he shall prophesy. and it shall come to pass in that day, that the prophets shall be confounded, every one by his own vision, when he shall prophesy, neither shall they be clad with a garment of sackcloth, to deceive : but he shall say: i am no prophet, i am a husbandman: for adam is my example from my youth. and they shall say to him: what are these wounds in the midst of thy hands? and he shall say: with these i was wounded in the house of them that loved me. awake, o sword, against my shepherd, and against the man that cleaveth to me, saith the lord of hosts: strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and i will turn my hand to the little ones. and there shall be in all the earth, saith the lord, two parts in it shall be scattered, and shall perish: but the third part shall be left therein. and i will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as silver is refined: and i will try them as gold is tried. they shall call on my name, and i will hear them. i will say: thou art my people: and they shall say: the lord is my god.

behold the days of the lord shall come, and thy spoils shall be divided in the midst of thee. and i will gather all nations to jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken, and the houses shall be rifled, and the women shall be defiled: and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the rest of the people shall not be taken away out of the city. then the lord shall go forth, and shall fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle. and his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of olives, which is over against jerusalem toward the east: and the mount of olives shall be divided in the midst thereof to the east, and to the west with a very great opening, and half of the mountain shall be separated to the north, and half thereof to the south. and you shall flee to the valley of those mountains, for the valley of the mountains shall be joined even to the next, and you shall flee as you fled from the face of the earthquake in the days of ozias king of juda: and the lord my god shall come, and all the saints with him. and it shall come to pass in that day, that there shall be no light, but cold and frost. and there shall be one day, which is known to the lord, not day nor night : and in the time of the evening there shall be light. and it shall come to pass in that day, that living waters shall go out from jerusalem: half of them to the east sea, and half of them to the last sea: they shall be in summer and in winter. and the lord shall be king over all the earth: in that day there shall be one lord, and his name shall be one. and all the land shall return even to the desert, from the hill to remmon to the south of jerusalem: and she shall be exalted, and shall dwell in her own place, from the gate of benjamin even to the place of the former gate, and even to the gate of the corners: and from the tower of hananeel even to the king's wine- presses. and people shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more an anathema: but jerusalem shall sit secure. and this shall be the plague where with the lord shall strike all nations that have fought against jerusalem: the flesh of every one shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth. in that day there shall be a great tumult from the lord among them: and a man shall take the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall be clasped upon his neighbour's hand. and even juda shall fight against jerusalem: and the riches of all nations round about shall be gathered together, gold, and silver, and garments in great abundance. and the destruction of the horse, and of the mule, and of the camel, and of the ass, and of all the beasts, that shall be in those tents, shall be like this destruction. and all they that shall be left of all nations that came against jerusalem, shall go up from year to year, to adore the king, the lord of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles. and it shall come to pass, that he that shall not go up of the families of the land to jerusalem, to adore the king, the lord of hosts, there shall be no rain upon them. and if the family of egypt go not up nor come: neither shall it be upon them, but there shall be destruction wherewith the lord will strike all nations that will not go up to keep the feast of tabernacles. this shall be the sin of egypt, and this the sin of all nations, that will not go up to keep the feast of tabernacles. in that day that which is upon the bridle of the horse shall be holy to the lord: and the caldrons in the house of the lord shall be as the phials before the altar. and every caldron in jerusalem and juda shall be sanctified to the lord of hosts: and all that sacrifice shall come, and take of them, and shall seethe in them: and the merchant shall be no more in the house of the lord of hosts in that day.

the burden of the word of the lord to israel by the hand of malachias. i have loved you, saith the lord: and you have said: wherein hast thou loved us? was not esau brother to jacob, saith the lord, and i have loved jacob, but have hated esau? and i have made his mountains a wilderness, and given his inheritance to the dragons of the desert. but if edom shall say: we are destroyed, but we will return and build up what hath been destroyed: thus saith the lord of hosts: they shall build up, and i will throw down: and they shall be called the borders of wickedness, and the people with whom the lord is angry for ever. and your eyes shall see, and you shall say: the lord be magnified upon the border of israel. the son honoureth the father, and the servant his master: if then i be a father, where is my honour? and if i be a master, where is my fear? saith the lord of hosts. to you, o priests, that despise my name, and have said: wherein have we despised thy name? you offer polluted bread upon my altar, and you say: wherein have we polluted thee? in that you say: the table of the lord is contemptible. if you offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if you offer the lame and the sick, is it not evil? offer it to thy prince, if he will be pleased with it, or if he will regard thy face, saith the lord of hosts. and now beseech ye the face of god, that he may have mercy on you, (for by your hand hath this been done,) if by any means he will receive your faces, saith the lord of hosts. who is there among you, that will shut the doors, and will kindle the fire on my altar gratis? i have no pleasure in you, saith the lord of hosts: and i will not receive a gift of your hand. for from the rising of the sun even to the going down, my name is great among the gentiles, and in every place there is sacrifice, and there is offered to my name a clean oblation: for my name is great among the gentiles, saith the lord of hosts. and you have profaned it in that you say: the table of the lord is defiled: and that which is laid thereupon is contemptible with the fire that devoureth it. and you have said: behold of our labour, and you puffed it away, saith the lord of hosts, and you brought in of rapine the lame, and the sick, and brought in an offering: shall i accept it at your hands, saith the lord? cursed is the deceitful man that hath in his flock a male, and making a vow offereth in sacrifice that which is feeble to the lord: for i am a great king, saith the lord of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the gentiles.

and now, o ye priests, this commandment is to you. if you will not hear, and if you will not lay it to heart, to give glory to my name, saith the lord of hosts: i will send poverty upon you, and will curse your blessings, yea i will curse them, because you have not laid it to heart. behold, i will cast the shoulder to you, and i will scatter upon your face the dung of your solemnities, and it shall take you away with it. and you shall know that i sent you this commandment, that my covenant might be with levi, saith the lord of hosts. my covenant was with him of life and peace: and i gave him fear: and he feared me, and he was afraid before my name. the law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace, and in equity, and turned many away from iniquity. for the lips of the priest shall keep knowledge, and they shall seek the law at his mouth: because he is the angel of the lord of hosts. but you have departed out of the way, and have caused many to stumble at the law: you have made void the covenant of levi, saith the lord of hosts. therefore have i also made you contemptible, and base before all people, as you have not kept my ways, and have accepted persons in the law. have we not all one father? hath not one god created us? why then doth every one of us despise his brother, violating the covenant of our fathers? juda hath transgressed, and abomination hath been committed in israel, and in jerusalem: for juda hath profaned the holiness of the lord, which he loved, and hath married the daughter of a strange god. the lord will cut off the man that hath done this, both the master, and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of jacob, and him that offereth an offering to the lord of hosts. and this again have you done, you have covered the altar of the lord with tears, with weeping, and bellowing, so that i have no more a regard to sacrifice, neither do i accept any atonement at your hands. and you have said: for what cause? because the lord hath been witness between thee, and the wife of thy youth, whom thou hast despised: yet she was thy partner, and the wife of thy covenant. did not one make her, and she is the residue of his spirit? and what doth one seek, but the seed of god? keep then your spirit, and despise not the wife of thy youth. when thou shalt hate her put her away, saith the lord the god of israel: but iniquity shall cover his garment, saith the lord of hosts, keep your spirit, and despise not. you have wearied the lord with your words, and you said: wherein have we wearied him? in that you say: every one that doth evil, is good in the sight of the lord, and such please him: or surely where is the god of judgment?

behold i send my angel, and he shall prepare the way before my face. and presently the lord, whom you seek, and the angel of the testament, whom you desire, shall come to his temple. behold he cometh, saith the lord of hosts. and who shall be able to think of the day of his coming? and who shall stand to see him? for he is like a refining fire, and like the fuller's herb: and he shall sit refining and cleansing the silver, and he shall purify the sons of levi, and shall refine them as gold, and as silver, and they shall offer sacrifices to the lord in justice. and the sacrifice of juda and of jerusalem shall please the lord, as in the days of old, and in the ancient years. and i will come to you in judgment, and will be a speedy witness against sorcerers, and adulterers, and false swearers, and them that oppress the hireling in his wages; the widows, and the fatherless: and oppress the stranger, and have not feared me, saith the lord of hosts. for i am the lord, and i change not: and you the sons of jacob are not consumed. for from the days of your fathers you have departed from my ordinances, and have not kept them: return to me, and i will return to you, saith the lord of hosts. and you have said: wherein shall we return? shall a man afflict god? for you afflict me. and you have said: wherein do we afflict thee? in tithes and in firstfruits. and you are cursed with want, and you afflict me, even the whole nation of you. bring all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in my house, and try me in this, saith the lord: if i open not unto you the flood-gates of heaven, and pour you out a blessing even to abundance. and i will rebuke for your sakes the devourer, and he shall not spoil the fruit of your land: neither shall the vine in the field be barren, saith the lord of hosts. and all nations shall call you blessed: for you shall be a delightful land, saith the lord of hosts. your words have been unsufferable to me, saith the lord. and you have said: what have we spoken against thee? you have said: he laboureth in vain that serveth god, and what profit is it that we have kept his ordinances, and that we have walked sorrowful before the lord of hosts? wherefore now we call the proud people happy, for they that work wickedness are built up, and they have tempted god and are preserved. then they that feared the lord spoke every one with his neighbour: and the lord gave ear, and heard it: and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that fear the lord, and think on his name. and they shall be my special possession, saith the lord of hosts, in the day that i do judgment: and i will spare them, as a man spareth his son that serveth him. and you shall return, and shall see the difference between the just and the wicked: and between him that serveth god, and him that serveth him not.

for behold the day shall come kindled as a furnace: and all the proud, and all that do wickedly shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall set them on fire, saith the lord of hosts, it shall not leave them root, nor branch. but unto you that fear my name, the sun of justice shall arise, and health in his wings: and you shall go forth, and shall leap like calves of the herd. and you shall tread down the wicked when they shall be ashes under the sole of your feet in the day that i do this, saith the lord of hosts. remember the law of moyses my servant, which i commanded him in horeb for all israel, the precepts, and judgments. behold i will send you elias the prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the lord. and he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers: lest i come, and strike the earth with anathema.

blessed is the man who hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stood in the way of sinners, nor sat in the chair of pestilence. but his will is in the law of the lord, and on his law he shall meditate day and night. and he shall be like a tree which is planted near the running waters, which shall bring forth its fruit, in due season. and his leaf shall not fall off: and all whosoever he shall do shall prosper. not so the wicked, not so: but like the dust, which the wind driveth from the face of the earth. therefore the wicked shall not rise again in judgment: nor sinners in the council of the just. for the lord knoweth the way of the just: and the way of the wicked shall perish.

why have the gentiles raged, and the people devised vain things? the kings of the earth stood up, and the princes met together, against the lord and against his christ. let us break their bonds asunder: and let us cast away their yoke from us. he that dwelleth in heaven shall laugh at them: and the lord shall deride them. then shall he speak to them in his anger, and trouble them in his rage. but i am appointed king by him over sion his holy mountain, preaching his commandment. the lord hath said to me: thou art my son, this day have i begotten thee. ask of me, and i will give thee the gentiles for thy inheritance, and the utmost parts of the earth for thy possession. thou shalt rule them with a rod of iron, and shalt break them in pieces like a potter's vessel. and now, o ye kings, understand: receive instruction, you that judge the earth. serve ye the lord with fear: and rejoice unto him with trembling. embrace discipline, lest at any time the lord be angry, and you perish from the just way. when his wrath shall be kindled in a short time, blessed are all they that trust in him.

the psalm of david when he fled from the face of his son absalom: why, o lord, are they multiplied that afflict me? many are they who rise up against me. many say to my soul: there is no salvation for him in his god. but thou, o lord art my protector, my glory, and the lifter up of my head. i have cried to the lord with my voice: and he hath heard me from his holy hill. i have slept and taken my rest: and i have risen up, because the lord hath protected me. i will not fear thousands of the people, surrounding me: arise, o lord; save me, o my god. for thou hast struck all them who are my adversaries without cause: thou hast broken the teeth of sinners. salvation is of the lord: and thy blessing is upon thy people.

unto the end, in verses. a psalm of david: when i called upon him, the god of my justice heard me: when i was in distress, thou hast enlarged me. have mercy on me: and hear my prayer. o ye sons of men, how long will you be dull of heart? why do you love vanity, and seek after lying? know ye also that the lord hath made his holy one wonderful: the lord will hear me when i shall cry unto him. be angry, and sin not: the things you say in your hearts, be sorry for them upon your beds. offer up the sacrifice of justice, and trust in the lord: many say, who sheweth us good things? the light of thy countenance o lord, is signed upon us: thou hast given gladness in my heart. by the fruit of their corn, their wine and oil, they are multiplied. in peace in the selfsame i will sleep, and i will rest: for thou, o lord, singularly hast settled me in hope.

unto the end, for her that obtaineth the inheritance. a psalm of david: give ear, o lord, to my words, understand my cry. hearken to the voice of my prayer, o my king and my god. for to thee will i pray: o lord, in the morning thou shalt hear my voice. in the morning i will stand before thee, and will see: because thou art not a god that willest iniquity. neither shall the wicked dwell near thee: nor shall the unjust abide before thy eyes. thou hatest all the workers of iniquity: thou wilt destroy all that speak a lie. the bloody and the deceitful man the lord will abhor. but as for me in the multitude of thy mercy, i will come into thy house; i will worship towards thy holy temple, in thy fear. conduct me, o lord, in thy justice: because of my enemies, direct my way in thy sight. for there is no truth in their mouth; their heart is vain. their throat is an open sepulchre: they dealt deceitfully with their tongues: judge them, o god. let them fall from their devices: according to the multitude of their wickedness cast them out: for they have provoked thee, o lord. but let all them be glad that hope in thee: they shall rejoice for ever, and thou shalt dwell in them. and all they that love thy name shall glory in thee: for thou wilt bless the just. o lord, thou hast crowned us, as with a shield of thy good will.

unto the end, in verses, a psalm of david, for the octave. o lord, rebuke me not in thy indignation, nor chastise me in thy wrath. have mercy on me, o lord, for i am weak: heal me, o lord, for my bones are troubled. and my soul is troubled exceedingly: but thou, o lord, how long? turn to me, o lord, and deliver my soul: o save me for thy mercy's sake. for there is no one in death, that is mindful of thee: and who shall confess to thee in hell? i have laboured in my groanings, every night i will wash my bed: i will water my couch with my tears. my eye is troubled through indignation: i have grown old amongst all my enemies. depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity: for the lord hath heard the voice of my weeping. the lord hath heard my supplication: the lord hath received my prayer. let all my enemies be ashamed, and be very much troubled: let them be turned back, and be the psalm of david which he sung to the lord for the words of chusi the son of jemini: o lord my god, in thee have i put my trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me. lest at any time he seize upon my soul like a lion, while there is no one to redeem me, nor to save. o lord my god, if i have done this thing, if there be iniquity in my hands: if i have rendered to them that repaid me evils, let me deservedly fall empty before my enemies. let the enemy pursue my soul, and take it, and tread down my life on the earth, and bring down my glory to the dust. rise up, o lord, in thy anger: and be thou exalted in the borders of my enemies. and arise, o lord my god, in the precept which thou hast commanded: and a congregation of people shall surround thee. and for their sakes return thou on high. the lord judgeth the people. judge me, o lord, according to my justice, and according to my innocence in me. the wickedness of sinners shall be brought to nought: and thou shalt direct the just: the searcher of hearts and reins is god. just is my help from the lord: who saveth the upright of heart. god is a just judge, strong and patient: is he angry every day? except you will be converted, he will brandish his sword: he hath bent his bow and made it ready. and in it he hath prepared the instruments of death, he hath made ready his arrows for them that burn. behold he hath been in labour with injustice; he hath conceived sorrow, and brought forth iniquity. he hath opened a pit and dug it; and he is fallen into the hole he made. his sorrow shall be turned on his own head: and his iniquity shall comedown upon his crown. i will give glory to the lord according to his justice: and will sing to the name of the lord the most high.

unto the end, for the presses: a psalm of david: o lord our lord, how admirable is thy name in the whole earth! for thy magnificence is elevated above the heavens. out of the mouth of infants and of sucklings thou hast perfected praise, because of thy enemies, that thou mayst destroy the enemy and the avenger. for i will behold thy heavens, the works of thy fingers: the moon and the stars which thou hast founded. what is man that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man that thou visitest hi? thou hast made him a little less than the angels, thou hast crowned him with glory and honour: and hast set him over the works of thy hands. thou hast subjected all things under his feet, all sheep and oxen: moreover the beasts also of the fields. the birds of the air, and the fishes of the sea, that pass through the paths of the sea. o lord our lord, how admirable is thy name in all the earth!

unto the end, for the hidden things of the son. a psalm for david: i will give praise to thee, o lord, with my whole heart: i will relate all thy wonders. i will be glad and rejoice in thee: i will sing to thy name, o thou most high. when my enemy shall be turned back: they shall be weakened and perish before thy face. for thou hast maintained my judgment and my cause: thou hast sat on the throne, who judgest justice. thou hast rebuked the gentiles, and the wicked one hath perished: thou hast blotted out their name for ever and ever. the swords of the enemy have failed unto the end: and their cities thou hast destroyed. their memory hath perished with a noise. but the lord remaineth for ever. he hath prepared his throne in judgment: and he shall judge the world in equity, he shall judge the people in justice. and the lord is become a refuge for the poor: a helper in due time in tribulation. and let them trust in thee who know thy name: for thou hast not forsaken them that seek thee, o lord. sing ye to the lord, who dwelleth in sion: declare his ways among the gentiles: for requiring their blood he hath remembered the: he hath not forgotten the cry of the poor. have mercy on me, o lord: see my humiliation which i suffer from my enemies. thou that liftest me up from the gates of death, that i may declare all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of sion. i will rejoice in thy salvation: the gentiles have stuck fast in the destruction which they have prepared. their foot hath been taken in the very snare which they hid. the lord shall be known when he executeth judgments: the sinner hath been caught in the works of his own hands; the wicked shall be turned into hell, all the nations that forget god. for the poor man shall not be forgotten to the end: the patience of the poor shall not perish for ever. arise, o lord, let not man be strengthened: let the gentiles be judged in thy sight. appoint, o lord, a lawgiver over them: that the gentiles may know themselves to be but men.

why, o lord, hast thou retired afar off? why dost thou slight us in our wants, in the time of trouble? whilst the wicked man is proud, the poor is set on fire: they are caught in the counsels which they devise. for the sinner is praised in the desires of his soul: and the unjust man is blessed. the sinner hath provoked the lord according to the multitude of his wrath he will not seek him: god is not before his eyes: his ways are filthy at all times. thy judgments are removed from his sight: he shall rule over all his enemies. for he hath said in his heart: i shall not be moved from generation to generation, and shall be without evil. his mouth is full of cursing, and of bitterness, and of deceit: under his tongue are labour and sorrow. he sitteth in ambush with the rich in private places, that he may kill the innocent. his eyes are upon the poor man: he lieth in wait in secret like a lion in his den. he lieth in ambush that he may catch the poor man: to catch the poor, whilst he draweth him to him. in his net he will bring him down, he will crouch and fall, when he shall have power over the poor. for he hath said in his heart: god hath forgotten, he hath turned away his face not to see to the end. arise, o lord god, let thy hand be exalted: forget not the poor. wherefore hath the wicked provoked god? for he hath said in his heart: he will not require it. thou seest it, for thou considerest labour and sorrow: that thou mayst deliver them into thy hands. to thee is the poor man left: thou wilt be a helper to the orphan. break thou the arm of the sinner and of the malignant: his sin shall be sought, and shall not be found. the lord shall reign to eternity, yea, for ever and ever: ye gentiles shall perish from his land. the lord hath heard the desire of the poor: thy ear hath heard the preparation of their heart. to judge for the fatherless and for the humble, that man may no more presume to magnify himself upon earth.

unto the end. a psalm for david: in the lord i put my trust: how then do you say to my soul: get thee away from hence to the mountain like a sparrow? for, lo, the wicked have bent their bow; they have prepared their arrows in the quiver; to shoot in the dark the upright of heart. for they have destroyed the things which thou hast made: but what has the just man done? the lord is in his holy temple, the lord's throne is in heaven. his eyes look on the poor man: his eyelids examine the sons of men. the lord trieth the just and the wicked: but he that loveth iniquity hateth his own soul. he shall rain snares upon sinners: fire and brimstone and storms of winds shall be the portion of their cup. for the lord is just, and hath loved justice: his countenance hath beheld righteousness.

unto the end; for the octave, a psalm for david: save me, o lord, for there is now no saint: truths are decayed from among the children of men. they have spoken vain things every one to his neighbour: with deceitful lips, and with a double heart have they spoken. may the lord destroy all deceitful lips, and the tongue that speaketh proud things. who have said: we will magnify our tongue; our lips are our own; who is lord over us? by reason of the misery of the needy, and the groans of the poor, now will i arise, saith the lord. i will set him in safety; i will deal confidently in his regard. the words of the lord are pure words: as silver tried by the fire, purged from the earth refined seven times. thou, o lord, wilt preserve us.: and keep us from this generation for ever. the wicked walk round about: according to thy highness, thou hast multiplied the children of men.

unto the end, a psalm for david: how long, o lord, wilt thou forget me unto the end? how long dost thou turn away thy face from me? how long shall i take counsels in my soul, sorrow in my heart all the day? how long shall my enemy be exalted over me? consider, and hear me, o lord my god. enlighten my eyes that i never sleep in death: lest at any time my enemy say: i have prevailed against him. they that trouble me will rejoice when i am moved: but i have trusted in thy mercy. my heart shall rejoice in thy salvation: i will sing to the lord, who giveth me good things: yea i will sing to the name of the lord the most high.

unto the end, a psalm for david. the fool hath said in his heart: there is no god, they are corrupt, and are become abominable in their ways: there is none that doth good, no not one. the lord hath looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there be any that understand and seek god. they are all gone aside, they are become unprofitable together: there is none that doth good, no not one. their throat is an open sepulchre: with their tongues they acted deceitfully; the poison of asps is under their lips. their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness; their feet are swift to shed blood. destruction and unhappiness in their ways: and the way of peace they have not known: there is no fear of god before their eyes. shall not all they know that work iniquity, who devour my people as they eat bread? they have not called upon the lord: there have they trembled for fear, where there was no fear. for the lord is in the just generation: you have confounded the counsel of the poor man, but the lord is his hope. who shall give out of sion the salvation of israel? when the lord shall have turned away the captivity of his people, jacob shall rejoice and israel shall be glad.

a psalm of david. lord, who shall dwell in thy tabernacle? or who shall rest in thy holy hill? he that walketh without blemish, and worketh justice: he that speaketh truth in his heart, who hath not used deceit in his tongue: nor hath done evil to his neighbour: nor taken up a reproach against his neighbours. in his sight the malignant is brought to nothing: but he glorifieth them that fear the lord. he that sweareth to his neighbour, and deceiveth not; he that hath not put out his money to usury, nor taken bribes against the innocent: he that doth these things shall not be moved for ever.

the inscription of a title to david himself. preserve me, o lord, for i have put trust in thee. i have said to the lord, thou art my god, for thou hast no need of my goods. to the saints, who are in his land, he hath made wonderful all my desires in them. their infirmities were multiplied: afterwards they made haste. i will not gather together their meetings for blood offerings: nor will i be mindful of their names by my lips. the lord is the portion of my inheritance and of my cup: it is thou that wilt restore my inheritance to me. the lines are fallen unto me in goodly places: for my inheritance is goodly to me. i will bless the lord, who hath given me understanding: moreover my reins also have corrected me even till night. i set the lord always in my sight: for he is at my right hand, that i be not moved. therefore my heart hath been glad, and my tongue hath rejoiced: moreover my flesh also shall rest in hope. because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell; nor wilt thou give thy holy one to see corruption. thou hast made known to me the ways of life, thou shalt fill me with joy with thy countenance: at thy right hand are delights even to the end.

the prayer of david. hear, o lord, my justice: attend to my supplication. give ear unto my prayer, which proceedeth not from deceitful lips. let my judgment come forth from thy countenance: let thy eyes behold the things that are equitable. thou hast proved my heart, and visited it by night, thou hast tried me by fire: and iniquity hath not been found in me. that my mouth may not speak the works of men: for the sake of the words of thy lips, i have kept hard ways. perfect thou my goings in thy paths: that my footsteps be not moved. i have cried to thee, for thou, o god, hast heard me: o incline thy ear unto me, and hear my words. shew forth thy wonderful mercies; thou who savest them that trust in thee. from them that resist thy right hand keep me, as the apple of thy eye. protect me under the shadow of thy wings. from the face of the wicked who have afflicted me. my enemies have surrounded my soul: they have shut up their fat: their mouth hath spoken proudly. they have cast me forth and now they have surrounded me: they have set their eyes bowing down to the earth. they have taken me, as a lion prepared for the prey; and as a young lion dwelling in secret places. arise, o lord, disappoint him and supplant him; deliver my soul from the wicked one: thy sword from the enemies of thy hand. o lord, divide them from the few of the earth in their life: their belly is filled from thy hidden stores. they are full of children: and they have left to their little ones the rest of their substance. but as for me, i will appear before thy sight in justice: i shall be satisfied when thy glory shall appear.

unto the end, for david the servant of the lord, who spoke to the lord the words of this canticle, in the day that the lord delivered him from the hands of all his enemies, and from the hand of saul. i will love thee, o lord, my strength: the lord is my firmament, my refuge, and my deliverer. my god is my helper, and in him will i put my trust. my protector and the horn of my salvation, and my support. praising i will call upon the lord: and i shall be saved from my enemies. the sorrows of death surrounded me: and the torments of iniquity troubled me. the sorrows of hell encompassed me: and the snares of death prevented me. in my affliction i called upon the lord, and i cried to my god: and he heard my voice from his holy temple: and my cry before him came into his ears. the earth shook and trembled: the foundations of the mountains were troubled and were moved, because he was angry with them. there went up a smoke in his wrath: and a fire flamed from his face: coals were kindled by it. he bowed the heavens, and came down: and darkness was under his feet. and he ascended upon the cherubim, and he flew; he flew upon the wings of the winds. and he made darkness his covert, his pavilion round about him: dark waters in the clouds of the air. at the brightness that was before him the clouds passed, hail and coals of fire. and the lord thundered from heaven, and the highest gave his voice: hail and coals of fire. and he sent forth his arrows, and he scattered them: he multiplied lightnings, and troubled them. then the fountains of waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were discovered: at thy rebuke, o lord, at the blast of the spirit of thy wrath. he sent from on high, and took me: and received me out of many waters. he delivered me from my strongest enemies, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me. they prevented me in the day of my affliction: and the lord became my protector. and he brought me forth into a large place: he saved me, because he was well pleased with me. and the lord will reward me according to my justice; and will repay me according to the cleanness of my hands: because i have kept the ways of the lord; and have not done wickedly against my god. for till his judgments are in my sight: and his justices i have not put away from me. and i shall be spotless with him: and shall keep myself from my iniquity. and the lord will reward me according to my justice; and according to the cleanness of my hands before his eyes. with the holy, thou wilt be holy; and with the innocent man thou wilt be innocent. and with the elect thou wilt be elect: and with the perverse thou wilt be perverted. for thou wilt save the humble people; but wilt bring down the eyes of the proud. for thou lightest my lamp, o lord: o my god enlighten my darkness. for by thee i shall be delivered from temptation; and through my god i shall go over a wall. as for my god, his way is undefiled: the words of the lord are fire tried: he is the protector of all that trust in him. for who is god but the lord? or who is god but our god? god who hath girt me with strength; and made my way blameless. who hath made my feet like the feet of harts: and who setteth me upon high places. who teacheth my hands to war: and thou hast made my arms like a brazen bow. and thou hast given me the protection of thy salvation: and thy right hand hath held me up: and thy discipline hath corrected me unto the end: and thy discipline, the same shall teach me. thou hast enlarged my steps under me; and my feet are not weakened. i will pursue after my enemies, and overtake them: and i will not turn again till they are consumed. i will break them, and they shall not be able to stand: they shall fall under my feet. and thou hast girded me with strength unto battle; and hast subdued under me them that rose up against me. and thou hast made my enemies turn their back upon me, and hast destroyed them that hated me. they cried, but there was none to save them, to the lord: but he heard them not. and i shall beat them as small as the dust before the wind; i shall bring them to nought, like the dirt in the streets. thou wilt deliver me from the contradictions of the people: thou wilt make me head of the gentiles. a people, which i knew not, hath served me: at the hearing of the ear they have obeyed me. the children that are strangers have lied to me, strange children have faded away, and have halted from their paths. the lord liveth, and blessed be my god, and let the god of my salvation be exalted : o god, who avengest me, and subduest the people under me, my deliverer from my enemies. and thou wilt lift me up above them that rise up against me: from the unjust man thou wilt deliver me. therefore will i give glory to thee, o lord, among the nations, and i will sing a psalm to thy name. giving great deliverance to his king, and shewing mercy to david his anointed : and to his seed for ever.

unto the end. a psalm for david: the heavens shew forth the glory of god, and the firmament declareth the work of his hands. day to day uttereth speech, and night to night sheweth knowledge. there are no speeches nor languages, where their voices are not heard. their sound hath gone forth into all the earth: and their words unto the ends of the world. he hath set his tabernacle in the sun: and he, as a bridegroom coming out of his bride chamber, hath rejoiced as a giant to run the way: his going out is from the end of heaven, and his circuit even to the end thereof: and there is no one that can hide himself from his heat. the law of the lord is unspotted, converting souls: the testimony of the lord is faithful, giving wisdom to little ones. the justices of the lord are right, rejoicing hearts: the commandment of the lord is lightsome, enlightening the eyes. the fear of the lord is holy, enduring for ever and ever: the judgments of the lord are true, justified in themselves. more to be desired than gold and many precious stones: and sweeter than honey and the honeycomb. for thy servant keepeth them, and in keeping them there is a great reward. who can understand sins? from my secret ones cleanse me, o lord: and from those of others spare thy servant. if they shall have no dominion over me, then shall i be without spot: and i shall be cleansed from the greatest sin. and the words of my mouth shall be such as may please: and the meditation of my heart always in thy sight. o lord, my helper, and my redeemer.

unto the end. a psalm for david: may the lord hear thee in the day of tribulation: may the name of the god of jacob protect thee. may he send thee help from the sanctuary: and defend thee out of sion. may he be mindful of all thy sacrifices: and may thy whole burnt offering be made fat. may he give thee according to thy own heart; and confirm all thy counsels. we will rejoice in thy salvation; and in the name of our god we shall be exalted. the lord fulfil all thy petitions: now have i known that the lord hath saved his anointed. he will hear him from his holy heaven: the salvation of his right hand is in powers. some trust in chariots, and some in horses: but we will call upon the name of the lord our god. they are bound, and have fallen; but we are risen, and are set upright. o lord, save the king: and hear us in the day that we shall call upon thee.

unto the end. a psalm for david: in thy strength, o lord, the king shall joy; and in thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly. thou hast given him his heart's desire: end hast not withheld from him the will of his lips. for thou hast prevented him with blessings of sweetness: thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones. he asked life of thee: and thou hast given him length of days for ever and ever. his glory is great in thy salvation: glory and great beauty shalt thou lay upon him. for thou shalt give him to be a blessing for ever and ever: thou shalt make him joyful in gladness with thy countenance. for the king hopeth in the lord: and through the mercy of the most high he shall not be moved. let thy hand be found by all thy enemies: let thy right hand find out all them that hate thee. thou shalt make them as an oven of fire, in the time of thy anger: the lord shall trouble them in his wrath, and fire shall devour them. their fruit shalt thou destroy from the earth: and their seed from among the children of men. for they have intended evils against thee: they have devised counsels which they have not been able to establish. for thou shalt make them turn their back: in thy remnants thou shalt prepare their face. be thou exalted, o lord, in thy own strength: we will sing and praise thy power.

unto the end, for the morning protection, a psalm for david: o god my god, look upon me: why hast thou forsaken me? far from my salvation are the words of my sins. o my god, i shall cry by day, and thou wilt not hear: and by night, and it shall not be reputed as folly in me. but thou dwellest in the holy place, the praise of israel. in thee have our fathers hoped: they have hoped, and thou hast delivered them. they cried to thee, and they were saved: they trusted in thee, and were not confounded. but i am a worm, and no man: the reproach of men, and the outcast of the people. all they that saw me have laughed me to scorn: they have spoken with the lips, and wagged the head. he hoped in the lord, let him deliver him: let him save him, seeing he delighteth in him. for thou art he that hast drawn me out of the womb: my hope from the breasts of my mother. i was cast upon thee from the womb. from my mother's womb thou art my god, depart not from me. for tribulation is very near: for there is none to help me. many calves have surrounded me: fat bulls have besieged me. they have opened their mouths against me, as a lion raven-

ing and roaring. i am poured out like water; and all my bones are scattered. my heart is become like wax melting in the midst of my bowels. my strength is dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue hath cleaved to my jaws: and thou hast brought me down into the dust of death. for many dogs have encompassed me: the council of the malignant hath besieged me. they have dug my hands and feet. they have numbered all my bones. and they have looked and stared upon me. they parted my garments amongst them; and upon my vesture they cast lots. but thou, o lord, remove not thy help to a distance from me; look towards my defence. deliver, o god, my soul from the sword: my only one from the hand of the dog. save me from the lion's mouth; and my lowness from the horns of the unicorns. i will declare thy name to my brethren: in the midst of the church will i praise thee. ye that fear the lord, praise him: all ye the seed of jacob, glorify him. let all the seed of israel fear him: because he hath not slighted nor despised the supplication of the poor man. neither hath he turned away his face from me: and when i cried to him he heard me. with thee is my praise in a great church: i will pay my vows in the sight of them that fear him. the poor shall eat and shall be filled: and they shall praise the lord that seek him: their hearts shall live for ever and ever. all the ends of the earth shall remember, and shall be converted to the lord: and all the kindreds of the gentiles shall adore in his sight. for the kingdom is the lord's; and he shall have dominion over the nations. all the fat ones of the earth have eaten and have adored: all they that go down to the earth shall fall before him. and to him my soul shall live: and my seed shall serve him. there shall be declared to the lord a generation to come: and the heavens shall shew forth his justice to a people that shall be born, which the lord hath made.

a psalm for david. the lord ruleth me: and i shall want nothing: he hath set me in a place of pasture. he hath brought me up, on the water of refreshment: he hath converted my soul. he hath led me on the paths of justice, for his own name's sake. for though i should walk in the midst of the shadow of death, i will fear no evils, for thou art with me. thy rod and thy staff, they have comforted me. thou hast prepared a table before me against them that afflict me. thou hast anointed my head with oil; and my chalice which inebrieth me, how goodly is it! and thy mercy will follow me all the days of my life. and that i may dwell in the house of the lord unto length of days.

on the first day of the week, a psalm for david. the earth is the lord's and the fulness thereof: the world, and all they that dwell therein. for he hath founded it upon the seas; and hath prepared it upon the rivers. who shall ascend into the mountain of the lord: or who shall stand in his holy place? the innocent in hands, and clean of heart, who hath not taken his soul in vain, nor sworn deceitfully to his neighbour. he shall receive a blessing from the lord, and mercy from god his saviour. this is the generation of them that seek him, of them that seek the face of the god of jacob. lift up your gates, o ye princes, and be ye lifted up, o eternal gates: and the king of glory shall enter in. who is this king of glory? the lord who is strong and mighty: the lord mighty in battle. lift up your gates, o ye princes, and be ye lifted up, o eternal gates: and the king of glory shall enter in. who is this king of glory? the lord of hosts, he is the king of glory.

unto the end, a psalm for david. to thee, o lord, have i lifted up my soul. in thee, o my god, i put my trust; let me not be ashamed. neither let my enemies laugh at me: for none of them that wait on thee shall be confounded. let all them be confounded that act unjust things without cause. shew, o lord, thy ways to me, and teach me thy paths. direct me in thy truth, and teach me; for thou art god my saviour; and on thee have i waited all the day long. remember, o lord, thy bowels of compassion; and thy mercies that are from the beginning of the world. the sins of my youth and my ignorances do not remember. according to thy mercy remember thou me: for thy goodness' sake, o lord. the lord is sweet and righteous: therefore he will give a law to sinners in the way. he will guide the mild in judgment: he will teach the meek his ways. all the ways of the lord are mercy and truth, to them that seek after his covenant and his testimonies. for thy name's sake, o lord, thou wilt pardon my sin: for it is great. who is the man that feareth the lord? he hath appointed him a law in the way he hath chosen. his soul shall dwell in good things: and his seed shall inherit the land. the lord is a firmament to them that fear him: and his covenant shall be made manifest to them. my eyes are ever towards the lord: for he shall pluck my feet out of the snare. look thou upon me, and have mercy on me; for i am alone and poor. the troubles of my heart are multiplied: deliver me from my necessities. see my abjection and my labour; and forgive me all my sins. consider my enemies for they are multiplied, and have hated me with an unjust hatred. keep thou my soul, and deliver me: i shall not be ashamed, for i have hoped in thee. the innocent and the upright have adhered to me: because i have waited on thee. deliver israel, o god, from all his tribulations.

unto the end, a psalm for david. judge me, o lord, for i have walked in my innocence: and i have put my trust in the lord, and shall not be weakened. prove me, o lord, and try me; burn my reins and my heart. for thy mercy is before my eyes; and i am well pleased with thy truth. i have not sat with the council of vanity: neither will i go in with the doers of unjust things. i have hated the assembly of the malignant; and with the wicked i will not sit. i will wash my hands among the innocent; and will compass thy altar, o lord: that i may hear the voice of thy praise: and tell of all thy wondrous works. i have loved, o lord, the beauty of thy house; and the place where thy glory dwelleth. take not away my soul, o god, with the wicked: nor my life with bloody men: in whose hands are iniquities: their right hand is filled with gifts. but as for me, i have walked in my innocence: redeem me, and have mercy on me. my foot hath stood in the direct way: in the churches i will bless thee, o lord.

the psalm of david before he was anointed. the lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall i fear? the lord is the protector of my life: of whom shall i be afraid? whilst the wicked draw near against me, to eat my flesh. my enemies that trouble me, have themselves been weakened, and have fallen. if armies in camp should stand together against me, my heart shall not fear. if a battle should rise up against me, in this will i be confident. one thing i have asked of the lord, this will i seek after; that i may dwell in the house of the lord all the days of my life. that i may see the delight of the lord, and may visit his temple. for he hath hidden me in his tabernacle; in the day of evils, he hath protected me in the secret place of his tabernacle. he hath exalted me upon a rock: and now he hath lifted up my head above my enemies. i have gone round, and have offered up in his tabernacle a sacrifice of jubilation: i will sing, and recite a psalm to the lord. hear, o lord, my voice, with which i have cried to thee: have mercy on me and hear me. my heart hath said to thee: my face hath sought thee: thy face, o lord, will i still seek. turn not away thy face from me; decline not in thy wrath from thy servant. be thou my helper, forsake me not; do not thou despise me, o god my saviour. for my father and my mother have left me: but the lord hath taken me up. set me, o lord, a law in thy way, and guide me in the right path, because of my enemies. deliver me not over to the will of them that trouble me; for unjust witnesses have risen up against me; and iniquity hath lied to itself. i believe to see the good things of the lord in the land of the living. expect the lord, do manfully, and let thy heart take courage, and wait thou for the lord.

a psalm for david himself. unto thee will i cry, o lord: o my god, be not thou silent to me: lest thou be silent to me, i become like them that go down into the pit. hear, o lord, the voice of my supplication, when i pray to thee; when i lift up my hands to thy holy temple. draw me not away together with the wicked; and with the workers of iniquity destroy me not: who speak peace with their neighbour, but evils are in their hearts. give them according to their works, and according to the wickedness of their inventions. according to the works of their hands give thou to them: render to them their reward. because they have not understood the works of the lord, and the operations of his hands: thou shalt destroy them, and shalt not build them up. blessed be the lord, for he hath heard the voice of my supplication. the lord is my helper and my protector: in him hath my heart confided, and i have been helped. and my flesh hath flourished again, and with my will i will give praise to him. the lord is the strength of his people, and the protector of the salvation of his anointed. save, o lord, thy people, and bless thy inheritance: and rule them and exalt them for ever.

a psalm for david, at the finishing of the tabernacle. bring to the lord, o ye children of god: bring to the lord the offspring of rams. bring to the lord glory and honour: bring to the lord glory to his name: adore ye the lord in his holy court. the voice of the lord is upon the waters; the god of majesty hath thundered, the lord is upon many waters. the voice of the lord is in power; the voice of the lord in magnificence. the voice of the lord breaketh the cedars: yea, the lord shall break the cedars of libanus. and shall reduce them to pieces, as a calf of libanus, and as the beloved son of unicorns. the voice of the lord divideth the flame of fire: the voice of the lord shaketh the desert: and the lord shall shake the desert of cades. the voice of the lord prepareth the stags: and he will discover the thick woods: and in his temple all shall speak his glory. the lord maketh the hood to dwell: and the lord shall sit king for ever. the lord will give strength to his people: the lord will bless his people with peace.

a psalm of a canticle, at the dedication of david's house: i will extol thee, o lord, for thou hast upheld me: and hast not made my enemies to rejoice over me. o lord my god, i have cried to thee, and then hast healed me. thou hast brought forth, o lord, my soul from hell: thou hast saved me from them that go down into the pit. sing to the lord, o ye his saints: and give praise to the memory of his holiness. for wrath is in his indignation; and life in his good will. in the evening weeping shall have place, and in the morning gladness. and in my abundance i said: i shall never be moved. o lord, in thy favour, thou gavest strength to my beauty. thou turnedst away thy face from me, and i became troubled. to thee, o lord, will i cry: and i will make supplication to my god. what profit is there in my blood, whilst i go down to corruption? shall dust confess to thee, or declare thy truth? the lord hath heard, and hath had mercy on me: the lord became my helper. thou hast turned for me my mourning into joy: thou hast cut my sackcloth, and hast compassed me with gladness: to the end that my glory may sing to thee, and i may not regret: o lord my god, i will give praise to thee for ever.

unto the end, a psalm for david, in an ecstasy: in thee, o lord, have i hoped, iet me never be confounded: deliver me in thy justice. bow down thy ear to me: make haste to deliver me. be thou unto me a god, a protector, and a house of refuge, to save me. for thou art my strength and my refuge; and for thy name's sake thou wilt lead me, and nourish me. thou wilt bring me out of this snare, which they have hidden for me: for thou art my protector. into thy hands i commend my spirit: thou hast redeemed me, o lord, the god of truth. thou hast hated them that regard vanities, to no purpose. but i have hoped in the lord: i will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy. for thou best regarded my humility, thou hast saved my soul out of distresses. and thou hast not shut me up in the hands of the enemy: thou hast set my feet in a spacious place. have mercy on me, o lord, for i am afflicted: my eye is troubled with wrath, my soul, and my belly: for my life is wasted with grief: and my years in sighs. my strength is weakened through poverty and my bones are disturbed. i am become a reproach among all my enemies, and very much to my neighbours; and a fear to my acquaintance. they that saw me without fled from me. i am forgotten as one dead from the heart. i am become as a vessel that is destroyed. for i have heard the blame of many that dwell round about. while they assembled together against me, they consulted to take away my life. but i have put my trust in thee, o lord: i said: thou art my god. my lots are in thy hands. deliver me out of the hands of my enemies; and from them that persecute me. make thy face to shine upon thy servant; save me in thy mercy. let me not be confounded, o lord, for i have called upon thee. let the wicked be ashamed, and be brought down to hell. let deceitful lips be made dumb. which speak iniquity against the just, with pride and abuse. o how great is the multitude of thy sweetness, o lord, which thou hast hidden for them that fear thee! which thou hast wrought for them that hope in thee, in the sight of the sons of men. thou shalt hide them in the secret of thy face, from the disturbance of men. thou shalt protect them in thy tabernacle from the contradiction of tongues. blessed be the lord, for he hath shewn his wonderful mercy to me in a fortified city. but i said in the excess of my mind: i am cast away from before thy eyes. therefore thou hast heard the voice of my prayer, when i cried to thee. o love the lord, all ye his saints: for the lord will require truth, and will repay them abundantly that act proudly. do ye manfully, and let your heart be strengthened, all ye that hope in the lord.

to david himself, understanding. blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered. blessed is the man to whom the lord hath not imputed sin, and in whose spirit there is no guile. because i was silent my bones grew old; whilst i cried out all the day long. for day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: i am turned in my anguish, whilst the thorn is fastened. i have acknowledged my sin to thee, and my injustice i have not concealed. i said i will confess against myself my injustice to the lord: and thou hast forgiven the wickedness of my sin. for this shall every one that is holy pray to thee in a seasonable time. and yet in a flood of many waters, they shall not come nigh unto him. thou art my refuge from the trouble which hath encompassed me: my joy, deliver me from them that surround me. i will give thee understanding, and i will instruct thee in this way, in which thou shalt go: i will fix my eyes upon thee. do not become like the horse and the mule, who have no understanding. with bit and bridle bind fast their jaws, who come not near unto thee. many are the scourges of the sinner, but mercy shall encompass him that hopeth in the lord. be glad in the lord, and rejoice, ye just, and glory, all ye right of heart.

a psalm for david. rejoice in the lord, o ye just: praise becometh the upright. give praise to the lord on the harp; sing to him with the psaltery, the instrument of ten strings. sing to him a new canticle, sing well unto him with a loud noise. for the word of the lord is right, and all his works are done with faithfulness. he loveth mercy and judgment; the earth is full of the mercy of the lord. by the word of the lord the heavens were established; and all the power of them by the spirit of his mouth: gathering together the waters of the sea, as in a vessel; laying up the depths in store-houses. let all the earth fear the lord, and let all the inhabitants of the world be in awe of him. for he spoke and they were made: he commanded and they were created. the lord bringeth to naught the counsels of nations; and he rejecteth the devices of people, and casteth away the counsels of princes. but the counsel of the lord standeth for ever: the thoughts of his heart to all generations. blessed is the nation whose god is the lord: the people whom he hath chosen for his inheritance. the lord hath looked from heaven: he hath beheld all the sons of men. from his habitation which he hath prepared, he hath looked upon all that dwell on the earth. he who hath made the hearts of every one of them: who understandeth all their works. the king is not saved by a great army: nor shall the giant be saved by his own great strength. vain is the horse for safety: neither shall he be saved by the abundance of his strength. behold the eyes of the lord are on them that fear him: and on them that hope in his mercy. to deliver their souls from death; and feed them in famine. our soul waiteth for the lord: for he is our helper and protector. for in him our heart shall rejoice: and in his holy name we have trusted. let thy mercy, o lord, be upon us, as we have hoped in thee.

for david, when he changed his countenance before achimelech, who dismissed him, and he went his way. i will bless the lord at all times, his praise shall be always in my mouth. in the lord shall my soul be praised: let the meek hear and rejoice. o magnify the lord with me; and let us extol his name together. i sought the lord, and he heard me; and he delivered me from all my troubles. come ye to him and be enlightened: and your faces shall not be confounded. this poor man cried, and the lord heard him: and saved him out of all his troubles. the angel of the lord shall encamp round about them that fear him: and shall deliver them. o taste, and see that the lord is sweet: blessed is the man that hopeth in him. fear the lord, all ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him. the rich have wanted, and have suffered hunger: but they that seek the lord shall not be deprived of any good. come, children, hearken to me: i will teach you the fear of the lord. who is the man that desireth life: who loveth to see good days? keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking guile. turn away from evil and do good: seek after peace and pursue it. the eyes of the lord are upon the just: and his ears unto their prayers. but the countenance of the lord is against them that do evil things: to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth. the just cried, and the lord heard them: and delivered them out of all their troubles. the lord is nigh unto them that are of a contrite heart: and he will save the humble of spirit. many are the afflictions of the just; but out of them all will the lord deliver them. the lord keepeth all their bones, not one of them shall be broken. the death of the wicked is very evil: and they that hate the just shall be guilty. the lord will redeem the souls of his servants: and none of them that trust in him shall offend.

for david himself. judge thou, o lord, them that wrong me : overthrow them that fight against me. take hold of arms and shield : and rise up to help me. bring out the sword, and shut up the way against them that persecute me : say to my soul : i am thy salvation. let them be confounded and ashamed that seek after my soul. let them be turned back and be confounded that devise against me. let them become as dust before the wind : and let the angel of the lord straiten them. let their way become dark and slippery; and let the angel of the lord pursue them. for without cause they have hidden their net for me unto destruction : without cause they have upbraided my soul. let the snare which he knoweth not come upon him : and let the net which he hath hidden catch him : and let the net which he hath hidden catch him : and into that very snare let them fall. but my soul shall rejoice in the lord; and shall be delighted in his salvation. all my bones shall say : lord, who is like to thee? who deliverest the poor from the hand of them that are stronger than he; the needy and the poor from them that strip him. unjust witnesses rising up have asked me things i knew not. they repaid me evil for good : to the depriving me of my soul. but as for me, when they were troublesome to me, i was clothed with hair-cloth. i humbled my soul with fasting; and my prayer shall be turned into my bosom. as a neighbour and as an own brother, so did i please : as one mourning and sorrowful so was i humbled. but they rejoiced against me, and came together : scourges were gathered together upon me, and i knew not. they were separated, and repented not : they tempted me, they scoffed at me with scorn : they gnashed upon me with their teeth. lord, when wilt thou look upon me? rescue thou soul from their malice : my only one from the lions. i will give thanks to thee in a great church; i will praise thee in a strong people. let not them that are my enemies wrongfully rejoice over me : who have hated me without cause, and wink with the eyes. for they spoke indeed peaceably to me; and speaking in the anger of the earth they devised guile. and they opened their mouth wide against me; they said : well done, well done, our eyes have seen it. thou hast seen, o lord, be not thou silent : o lord, depart not from me. arise, and be attentive to my judgment : to my cause, my god, and my lord. judge me, o lord my god according to thy justice, and let them not rejoice over me. let them not say in their hearts : it is well, it is well, to our mind : neither let them say : we have swallowed him up. let them blush : and be ashamed together, who rejoice at my evils. let them be clothed with confusion and shame, who speak great things against me. let them rejoice and be glad, who are well pleased with my justice, and let them say always : the lord be magnified, who delights in the peace of his servant. any my tongue shall meditate thy justice, thy praise all the day long.

unto the end, for the servant of god, david himself. the unjust hath said within himself, that he would sin : there is no fear of god before his eyes. for in his sight he hath done deceitfully, that his iniquity may be found unto hatred. the words of his mouth are iniquity and guile : he would not understand that he might do well. he hath devised iniquity on his bed, he hath set himself on every way that is not good : but evil he hath not hated. o lord, thy mercy is in heaven, and thy truth reacheth, even to the clouds. thy justice is as the mountains of god, thy judgments are a great deep. men and beasts thou wilt preserve, o lord : o how hast thou multiplied thy mercy, o god! but the children of men shall put their trust under the covert of thy wings. they shall be inebriated with the plenty of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the torrent of thy pleasure. for with thee is the fountain of life; and in thy light we shall see light. extend thy mercy to them that know thee, and thy justice to them that are right in heart. let not the foot of pride come to me, and let not the hand of the sinner move me. there the workers of iniquity are fallen, they are cast out, and could not stand.

a psalm for david himself. be not emulous of evildoers; nor envy them that work iniquity. for they shall shortly wither away as grass, and as the green herbs shall quickly fall. trust in the lord, and do good, and dwell in the land, and thou shalt be fed with its riches. delight in the lord, and he will give thee the requests of thy heart. commit thy way to the lord, and trust in him, and he will do it. and he will bring forth thy justice as the light, and thy judgment as the noonday. be subject to the lord and pray to him envy not the man who prospereth in his way; the man who doth unjust things. cease from anger, and leave rage; have no emulation to do evil. for the evildoers shall be cut off : but they that wait upon the lord shall inherit the land. for yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be : and thou shalt seek his place, and shalt not find it. but the meek shall inherit the land, and shall delight in abundance of peace. the sinner shall watch the just man : and shall gnash upon him with his teeth. but the lord shall laugh at him : for he foreseeth that his day shall come. the wicked have drawn out the sword : they have bent their bow. to cast down the poor and needy, to kill the upright of heart. let their sword enter into their own hearts, and let their bow be broken. better is a little to the just, than the great riches of the wicked. for the arms of the wicked shall be broken in pieces; but the lord strengtheneth the just. the lord knoweth the days of undefiled; and their inheritance shall be for ever. they shall not be confounded in the evil time; and in the days of famine they shall be filled : because the wicked shall perish. and the enemies of the lord, presently after they shall be honoured and exalted, shall come to nothing and vanish like smoke. the sinner shall borrow, and not pay again; but the just sheweth mercy and shall give. for such as bless him shall inherit the land : but such as curse him shall perish. with the lord shall the steps of a man be directed, and he shall like well his way. when he shall fall he shall not be bruised, for the lord putteth his hand under him. i have been young, and now am old; and i have not seen the just forsaken, nor his seed seeking bread. he sheweth mercy, and lendeth all the day long; and his seed shall be in blessing. decline from evil and do good, and dwell for ever and ever. for the lord loveth judgment, and will not forsake his saints : they shall be preserved for ever. the unjust shall be punished, and the seed of the wicked shall perish. but the just shall inherit the land, and shall dwell therein for evermore. the mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom : and his tongue shall speak judgment. the law of his god is in his heart, and his steps shall not be supplanted. the wicked watcheth the just man, and seeketh to put him to death, but the lord will not leave in his hands; nor condemn him when he shall be judged. expect the lord and keep his way : and he will exalt thee to inherit the land : when the sinners shall perish thou shalt see. i have seen the wicked highly exalted, and lifted up like the cedars of libanus. and i passed by, and lo, he was not : and i sought him and his place was not found. keep innocence, and behold justice : for there are remnants for the peaceable man. but the unjust shall be destroyed together : the remnants of the wicked shall perish. but the salvation of the just is from the lord, and he is their protector in the time of trouble. and the lord will help them and deliver them : and he will rescue them from the wicked, and save them, because they have hoped in him.

a psalm for david, for a remembrance of the sabbath. rebuke me not, o lord, in thy indignation; nor chastise me in thy wrath. for thy arrows are fastened in me : and thy hand hath been strong upon me. there is no health in my flesh, because of thy wrath : there is no peace for my bones, because of my sins. for my iniquities are gone over my head : and as a heavy burden are become heavy upon me. my sores are putrified and corrupted, because of my foolishness. i am become miserable, and am bowed down even to the end : i walked sorrowful all the day long. for my loins are filled with illusions; and there is no health in my flesh. i am afflicted and humbled exceedingly : i roared with the groaning of my heart. lord, all my desire is before thee, and my groaning is not hidden from thee. my heart is troubled, my strength hath left me, and the light of my eyes itself is not with me. my friends and my neighbours have drawn near, and stood against me. and they that were near me stood afar off : and they that sought my soul used violence. and they that sought evils to me spoke vain things, and studied deceits all the day long. but i, as a deaf man, heard not : and as a dumb man not opening his mouth. and i became as a man that heareth not : and that hath no reproofs in his mouth. for in thee, o lord, have i hoped : thou wilt hear me, o lord my god. for i said: lest at any time my enemies rejoice over me : and whilst my feet are moved, they speak great things against me. for i am ready for scourges : and my sorrow is continually before me. for i will declare my iniquity : and i will think for my sin. but my enemies live, and are stronger than i : and they hate me wrongfully are multiplied. they that render evil for good, have detracted me, because i followed goodness. forsake me not, o lord my god : do not thou depart from me. attend unto my help, o lord, the god of my salvation.

unto the end, for idithun himself, a canticle of david. i said: i will take heed to my ways : that i sin not with my tongue. i have set guard to my mouth, when the sinner stood against me. i was dumb, and was humbled, and kept silence from good things : and my sorrow was renewed. my heart grew hot within me : and in my meditation a fire shall flame out. i spoke with my tongue : o lord, make me know my end. and what is the number of my days : that i may know what is wanting to me. behold thou hast made my days measurable : and my substance is as nothing before thee. and indeed all things are vanity : every man living. surely man passeth as an image : yea, and he is disquieted in vain. he storeth up : and he knoweth not for whom he shall gather these things. and now what is my hope? is it not the lord? and my substance is with thee. deliver thou me from all my iniquities : thou hast made me a reproach to the fool. i was dumb, and i opened not my mouth, because thou hast done it. remove thy scourges from me. the strength of thy hand hath made me faint in rebukes: thou hast corrected man for iniquity. and thou hast made his soul to waste away like a spider : surely in vain is any man disquieted. hear my prayer, o lord, and my supplication : give ear to my tears. be not silent : for i am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner as all my fathers were. o forgive me, that i may be refreshed, before i go hence, and be no more.

unto the end, a psalm for david himself. with expectation i have waited for the lord, and he was attentive to me. and he heard my prayers, and brought me out of the pit of misery and the mire of dregs. and he set my feet upon a rock, and directed my steps. and he put a new canticle into my mouth, a song to our god. many shall see, and shall fear : and they shall hope in the lord. blessed is the man whose trust is in the name of the lord; and who hath not had regard to vanities, and lying follies. thou hast multiplied thy wonderful works, o lord my god : and in thy thoughts there is no one like to thee. i have declared and i have spoken they are multiplied above number. sacrifice and oblation thou didst not desire; but thou hast pierced ears for me. burnt offering and sin offering thou didst not require : then said i, behold i come. in the head of the book it is written of me that i should do thy will : o my god, i have desired it, and thy law in the midst of my heart. i have declared thy justice in a great church, lo, i will not restrain my lips : o lord, thou knowest it. i have not hid thy justice within my heart : i have declared thy truth and thy salvation. i have not concealed thy mercy and thy truth from a great council. withhold not thou, o lord, thy tender mercies from me : thy mercy and thy truth have always upheld me. for evils without number have surrounded me; my iniquities have overtaken me, and i was not able to see. they are multiplied above the hairs of my head : and my heart hath forsaken me. be pleased, o lord, to deliver me, look down, o lord, to help me. let them be confounded and ashamed together, that seek after my soul to take it away. let them be turned backward and be ashamed that desire evils to me. let them immediately bear their confusion, that say to me : 't is well, 't is well. let all that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee : and let such as love thy salvation say always : the lord be magnified. but i am a beggar and poor : the lord is careful for me. thou art my helper and my protector : o my god, be not slack.

unto the end, a psalm for david himself. blessed is he that understandeth concerning the needy and the poor : the lord will deliver him in the evil day. the lord preserve him and give him life, and make him blessed upon the earth : and deliver him not up to the will of his enemies. the lord help him on his bed of sorrow : thou hast turned all his couch in his sickness. i said: o lord, be thou merciful to me : heal my soul, for i have sinned against thee. my enemies have spoken evils against me: when shall he die and his name perish? and if he came in to see me, he spoke vain things : his heart gathered together iniquity to itself. he went out and spoke to the same purpose. all my enemies whispered together against me : they devised evils to me. they determined against me an unjust word : shall he that sleepeth rise again no more? for even the man of peace, in whom i trusted, who ate my bread, hath greatly supplanted me. but thou, o lord, have mercy on me, and raise me up again : and i will requite them. by this i know, that thou hast had a good will for me : because my enemy shall not rejoice over me. but thou hast upheld me by reason of my innocence : and hast established me in thy sight for ever. blessed by the lord the god of israel from eternity to eternity. so be it. so be it.

unto the end, understanding for the sons of core. as the hart panteth after the fountains of water; so my soul panteth after thee, o god. my soul hath thirsted after the strong living god; when shall i come and appear before the face of god? my tears have been any bread day and night, whilst it is said to me daily : where is thy god? these things i remembered, and poured out my soul in me : for i shall go over into the place of the wonderful tabernacle, even to the house of god : with the voice of joy and praise; the noise of one feasting. why art thou sad, o my soul? and why dost thou trouble me? hope in god, for i will still give praise to him : the salvation of my countenance, and my god. my soul is troubled within myself : therefore will i remember thee from the land of jordan and hermonim, from the little hill. deep calleth on deep, at the noise of thy flood-gates. all thy heights and thy billows have passed over me. in the daytime the lord hath commanded his mercy; and a canticle to him in the night. with me is prayer to the god of my life. i will say to god : thou art my support. why hast thou forgotten me? and why go i mourning, whilst my enemy afflicteth me? whilst my bones are broken, my enemies who trouble me have reproached me; whilst they say to me day by day : where is thy god? why art thou cast down, o my soul? and why dost thou disquiet me? hope thou in god, for i will still give praise to him : the salvation of my countenance, and my god.

a psalm for david. judge me, o god, and distinguish my cause from the nation that is not holy : deliver me from the unjust and deceitful man. for thou art god my strength : why hast thou cast me off? and why do i go sorrowful whilst the enemy afflicteth me? send forth thy light and thy truth : they have conducted me, and brought me unto thy holy hill, and into thy tabernacles. and i will go in to the altar of god : to god who giveth joy to my youth. to thee, o god my god, i will give praise upon the harp : why art thou sad, o my soul? and why dost thou disquiet me? hope in god, for i will still give praise to him : the salvation of my countenance, and my god.

unto the end, for the sons of core, to give understanding. we have heard, o god, with our ears : our fathers have declared to us, the work, thou hast wrought in their days, and in the days of old. thy hand destroyed the gentiles, and thou plantest them : thou didst afflict the people and cast them out. for they got not the possession of the land by their own sword : neither did their own arm save them. but thy right hand and thy arm, and the light of thy countenance : because thou wast pleased with them. thou art thyself my king and my god, who commandest the saving of jacob. through thee we will push down our enemies with the horn : and through thy name we will despise them that rise up against us. for i will not trust in my bow : neither shall my sword save me. but thou hast saved us from them that afflict us : and hast put them to shame that hate us. in god shall we glory all the day long : and in thy name we will give praise for ever. but now thou hast cast us off, and put us to shame : and thou, o god, wilt not go out with our armies. thou hast made us turn our back to our enemies : and they that hated us plundered for themselves. thou hast given us up like sheep to be eaten : thou hast scattered us among the nations. thou hast sold thy people for no price : and there was no reckoning in the exchange of them. thou hast made us a reproach to our neighbours, a scoff and derision to them that are round about us. thou hast made us a byword among the gentiles : a shaking of the head among the people. all the day long my shame is before me : and the confusion of my face hath covered me, at the voice of him that reproacheth and detracteth me : at the face of the enemy and persecutor. all these things have come upon us, yet we have not forgotten thee : and we have not done wickedly in they covenant. and our heart hath not turned back : neither hast thou turned aside our steps from thy way. for thou hast humbled us in the place of affliction : and the shadow of death hath covered us. if we have forgotten the name of our god, and if we have spread forth our hands to a strange god : shall not god search out these things : for he knoweth the secrets of the heart. because for thy sake we are killed all the day long : we are counted as sheep for the slaughter. arise, why sleepest thou, o lord? arise, and cast us not off to the end. why turnest thou face away? and forgettest our want and our trouble? for our soul is humbled down to the dust : our belly cleaveth to the earth. arise, o lord, help us and redeem us for thy name's sake.

unto the end, for them that shall be changed, for the sons of core, for understanding. a canticle for the beloved. my heart hath uttered a good word i speak my works to the king; my tongue is the pen of a scrivener that writeth swiftly. thou art beautiful above the sons of men: grace is poured abroad in thy lips; therefore hath god blessed thee for ever gird thy sword upon thy thigh, o thou most mighty. with thy comeliness and thy beauty set out, proceed prosperously, and reign. because of truth and meekness and justice: and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully. thy arrows are sharp: under thee shall people fall, into the hearts of the king's enemies. thy throne, o god, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a sceptre of uprightness. thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity: therefore god, thy god, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. myrrh and stacte and cassia perfume thy garments, from the ivory houses: out of which the daughters of kings have delighted thee in thy glory. the queen stood on thy right hand, in gilded clothing; surrounded with variety. hearken, o daughter, and see, and incline thy ear: and forget thy people and thy father's house. and the king shall greatly desire thy beauty; for he is the lord thy god, and him they shall adore. and the daughters of tyre with gifts, yea, all the rich among the people, shall entreat thy countenance. all the glory of the king's daughter is within in golden borders, clothed round about with varieties. after her shall virgins be brought to the king: her neighbours shall be brought to thee. they shall be brought with gladness and rejoicing: they shall be brought into the temple of the king. instead of thy fathers, sons are born to thee: thou shalt make them princes over all the earth. they shall remember thy name throughout all generations. therefore shall people praise thee for ever; yea, for ever and ever.

unto the end, for the sons of core, for the hidden. our god is our refuge and strength: a helper in troubles, which have found us exceedingly. therefore we will not fear, when the earth shall be troubled; and the mountains shall be removed into the heart of the sea. their waters roared and were troubled: the mountains were troubled with his strength. the stream of the river maketh the city of god joyful: the most high hath sanctified his own tabernacle. god is in the midst thereof, it shall not be moved: god will help it in the morning early. nations were troubled, and kingdoms were bowed down: he uttered his voice, the earth trembled. the lord of armies is with us: the god of jacob is our protector. come and behold ye the works of the lord: what wonders he hath done upon earth, making wars to cease even to the end of the earth. he shall destroy the bow, and break the weapons: and the shield he shall burn in the fire. be still and see that i am god; i will be exalted among the nations, and i will be exalted in the earth. the lord of armies is with us: the god of jacob is our protector.

unto the end, for the sons of core. o clap your hands, all ye nations: shout unto god with the voice of joy, for the lord is high, terrible: a great king over all the earth. he hath subdued the people under us; and the nations under our feet. he hath chosen for us his inheritance the beauty of jacob which he hath loved. god is ascended with jubilee, and the lord with the sound of trumpet. sing praises to our god, sing ye: sing praises to our king, sing ye. for god is the king of all the earth: sing ye wisely. god shall reign over the nations: god sitteth on his holy throne. the princes of the people are gathered together, with the god of abraham: for the strong gods of the earth are exceedingly exalted.

a psalm of a canticle, for the sons of core, on the second day of the week. great is the lord, and exceedingly to be praised in the city of our god, in his holy mountain. with the joy of the whole earth is mount sion founded, on the sides of the north, the city of the great king. in her houses shall god be known, when he shall protect her. for behold the kings of the earth assembled themselves: they gathered together. so they saw, and they wondered, they were troubled, they were moved: trembling took hold of them. there were pains as of a woman in labour. with a vehement wind thou shalt break in pieces the ships of tharsis. as we have heard, so have we seen, in the city of the lord of hosts, in the city of our god: god hath founded it for ever. we have received thy mercy, o god, in the midst of thy temple. according to thy name, o god, so also is thy praise unto the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of justice. let mount sion rejoice, and the daughters of juda be glad; because of thy judgments, o lord. surround sion, and encompass her: tell ye in her towers. set your hearts on her strength; and distribute her houses, that ye may relate it in another generation. for this is god, our god unto eternity, and for ever and ever: he shall rule us for evermore.

unto the end, a psalm for the sons of core. hear these things, all ye nations: give ear, all ye inhabitants of the world. all you that are earthborn, and you sons of men: both rich and poor together. my mouth shall speak wisdom: and the meditation of my heart understanding. i will incline my ear to a parable; i will open my proposition on the psalter. why shall i fear in the evil day? the iniquity of my heel shall encompass me. they that trust in their own strength, and glory in the multitude of their riches, no brother can redeem, nor shall man redeem: he shall not give to god his ransom, nor the price of the redemption of his soul: and shall labour for ever, and shall still live unto the end. he shall not see destruction, when he shall see the wise dying: the senseless and the fool shall perish together: and they shall leave their riches to strangers: and their sepulchres shall be their houses for ever. their dwelling places to all generations: they have called their lands by their names. and man when he was in honour did not understand; he is compared to senseless beasts, and is become like to them. this way of theirs is a stumblingblock to them: and afterwards they shall delight in their mouth. they are laid in hell like sheep: death shall feed upon them. and the just shall have dominion over them in the morning; and their help shall decay in hell from their glory. but god will redeem my soul from the hand of hell, when he shall receive me. be not thou afraid, when a man shall be made rich, and when the glory of his house shall be increased. for when he shall die he shall take nothing away; nor shall his glory descend with him. for in his lifetime his soul will be blessed: and he will praise thee when thou shalt do well to him. he shall go in to the generations of his fathers: and he shall never see light. man when he was in honour did not understand: he hath been compared to senseless beasts, and made like to them.

a psalm for asaph. the god of gods, the lord hath spoken: and he hath called the earth. from the rising of the sun, to the going down thereof: out of sion the loveliness of his beauty. god shall come manifestly: our god shall come, and shall not keep silence. a fire shall burn before him: and a mighty tempest shall be round about him. he shall call heaven from above, and the earth, to judge his people. gather ye together his saints to him: who set his covenant before sacrifices. and the heavens shall declare his justice: for god is judge. hear, o my people, and i will speak: o israel, and i will testify to thee: i am god, thy god. i will not reprove thee for thy sacrifices: and thy burnt offerings are always in my sight. i will not take calves out of thy house: nor he goats out of thy flocks. for all the beasts of the woods are mine: the cattle on the hills, and the oxen. i know all the fowls of the air: and with me is the beauty of the field. if i should be hungry, i would not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fulness thereof. shall i eat the flesh of bullocks? or shall i drink the blood of goats? offer to god the sacrifice of praise: and pay thy vows to the most high. and call upon me in the day of trouble: i will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me. but to the sinner god hath said: why dost thou declare my justices, and take my covenant in thy mouth? seeing thou hast hated discipline: and hast cast my words behind thee. if thou didst see a thief thou didst run with him: and with adulterers thou hast been a partaker. thy mouth hath abounded with evil, and thy tongue framed deceits. sitting thou didst speak against thy brother, and didst lay a scandal against thy mother's son: these things hast thou done, and i was silent. thou thoughtest unjustly that i should be like to thee: but i will reprove thee, and set before thy face. understand these things, you that forget god; lest he snatch you away, and there be none to deliver you. the sacrifice of praise shall glorify me: and there is the way by which i will shew him the salvation of god.

unto the end, a psalm of david, when nathan the prophet came to him after he had sinned with bethsabee. have mercy on me, o god, according to thy great mercy. and according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my iniquity. wash me yet more from my iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin. for i know my iniquity, and my sin is always before me. to thee only have i sinned, and have done evil before thee: that thou mayst be justified in thy words and mayst overcome when thou art judged. for behold i was conceived in iniquities; and in sins did my mother conceive me. for behold thou hast loved truth: the uncertain and hidden things of thy wisdom thou hast made manifest to me. thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, and i shall be cleansed: thou shalt wash me, and i shall be made whiter than snow. to my hearing thou shalt give joy and gladness: and the bones that have been humbled shall rejoice. turn away thy face from my sins, and blot out all my iniquities. create a clean heart in me, o god: and renew a right spirit within my bowels. cast me not away from thy face; and take not thy holy spirit from me. restore unto me the joy of thy salvation, and strengthen me with a perfect spirit. i will teach the unjust thy ways: and the wicked shall be converted to thee. deliver me from blood, o god, thou god of my salvation: and my tongue shall extol thy justice. o lord, thou wilt open my lips: and my mouth shall declare thy praise. for if thou hadst desired sacrifice, i would indeed have given it: with burnt offerings thou wilt not be delighted. a sacrifice to god is an afflicted spirit: a contrite and humbled heart, o god, thou wilt not despise. deal favourably, o lord, in thy good will with sion; that the walls of jerusalem may be built up. then shalt thou accept the sacrifice of justice, oblations and whole burnt offerings: then shall they lay calves upon thy altar.

unto the end, understanding for david, when doeg the edomite came and told saul david went to the house of achimelech. why dost thou glory in malice, thou that art mighty in iniquity? all the day long thy tongue hath devised injustice: as a sharp razor, thou hast wrought deceit. thou hast loved malice more than goodness: and iniquity rather than to speak righteousness. thou hast loved all the words of ruin, o deceitful tongue. therefore will god destroy thee for ever: he will pluck thee out, and remove thee from thy dwelling place: and thy root out of the land of the living. the just shall see and fear, and shall laugh at him, and say: behold the man that made not god his helper: but trusted in the abundance of his riches: and prevailed in his vanity. but i, as a fruitful olive tree in the house of god, have hoped in the mercy of god for ever, yea for ever and ever. i will praise thee for ever, because thou hast done it: and i will wait on thy name, for it is good in the sight of thy saints.

unto the end, for maeleth, understandings to david. the fool said in his heart: there is no god. they are corrupted, and become abominable in iniquities: there is none that doth good. god looked down from heaven on the children of men: to see if there were any that did understand, or did seek god. all have gone aside, they are become unprofitable together, there is none that doth good, no not one. shall not all the workers of iniquity know, who eat up my people as they eat bread? they have not called upon god: there have they trembled for fear, where there was no fear. for god hath scattered the bones of them that please men: they have been confounded, because god hath despised them. who will give out of sion the salvation of israel? when god shall bring back the captivity of his people, jacob shall rejoice, and israel shall be glad.

unto the end, in verses, understanding for david. when the men of ziph had come and said to saul: is not david hidden with us? save me, o god, by thy name, and judge me in thy strength. o god, hear my prayer: give ear to the words of my mouth. for strangers have risen up against me; and the mighty have sought after my soul: and they have not set god before their eyes. for behold god is my helper: and the lord is the protector of my soul. turn back the evils upon my enemies; and cut them off in thy truth. i will freely sacrifice to thee, and will give praise, o god, to thy name: because it is good: for thou hast delivered me out of all trouble: and my eye hath looked down upon my enemies.

unto the end, in verses, understanding for david. hear, o god, my prayer, and despise not my supplication: be attentive to me and hear me. i am grieved in my exercise; and am troubled, at the voice of the enemy, and at the tribulation of the sinner. for they have cast iniquities upon me: and in wrath they were troublesome to me. my heart is troubled within me: and the fear of death is fallen upon me. fear and trembling are come upon me: and darkness hath covered me. and i said: who will give me wings like a dove, and i will fly and be at rest? lo, i have gone far off flying away; and i abide in the wilderness. i waited for him that hath saved me from pusillanimity of spirit, and a storm. cast down, o lord, and divide their tongues; for i have seen iniquity and contradiction in the city. day and night shall iniquity surround it upon its walls: and in the midst thereof are labour, and injustice. and usury and deceit have not departed from its streets. for if my enemy had reviled me, i would verily have borne with it. and if he that hated me had spoken great things against me, i would perhaps have hidden myself from him. but thou a man of one mind, my guide, and my familiar, who didst take sweetmeats together with me: in the house of god we walked with consent. let death come upon them, and let them go down alive into hell. for there is wickedness in their dwellings: in the midst of them. but i have cried to god: and the lord will save me. evening and morning, and at noon i will speak and declare: and he shall hear my voice. he shall redeem my soul in peace from them that draw near to me: for among many they were with

me. god shall hear, and the eternal shall humble them. for there is no change with them, and they have not feared god: he hath stretched forth his hand to repay. they have defiled his covenant, they are divided by the wrath of his countenance, and his heart hath drawn near. his words are smoother than oil, and the same are darts. cast thy care upon the lord, and he shall sustain thee: he shall not suffer the just to waver for ever. but thou, o god, shalt bring them down into the pit of destruction. bloody and deceitful men shall not live out half their days; but i will trust in thee, o lord.

unto the end, for a people that is removed at a distance from the sanctuary for david, for an inscription of a title (or pillar) when the philistines held him in geth. have mercy on me, o god, for man hath trodden me under foot; all the day long he hath afflicted me fighting against me. my enemies have trodden on me all the day long; for they are many that make war against me. from the height of the day i shall fear: but i will trust in thee. in god i will praise my words, in god i have put my trust: i will not fear what flesh can do against me. all the day long they detested my words: all their thoughts were against me unto evil. they will dwell and hide themselves: they will watch my heel. as they have waited for my soul, for nothing shalt thou save them: in thy anger thou shalt break the people in pieces, o god, i have declared to thee my life: thou hast set my tears in thy sight, as also in thy promise. then shall my enemies be turned back. in what day soever i shall call upon thee, behold i know thou art my god. in god will i praise the word, in the lord will i praise his speech. in god have i hoped, i will not fear what man can do to me. in me, o god, are vows to thee, which i will pay, praises to thee: because thou hast delivered my soul from death, my feet from falling: that i may please in the sight of god, in the light of the living.

unto the end, destroy not, for david, for an inscription of a title, when he fled from saul into the cave. have mercy on me, o god, have mercy on me: for my soul trusteth in thee. and in the shadow of thy wings will i hope, until iniquity pass away. i will cry to god the most high; to god who hath done good to me. he hath sent from heaven and delivered me: he hath made them a reproach that trod upon me. god hath sent his mercy and his truth, and he hath delivered my soul from the midst of the young lions. i slept troubled. the sons of men, whose teeth are weapons and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword. be thou exalted, o god, above the heavens, and thy glory above all the earth. they prepared a snare for my feet; and they bowed down my soul. they dug a pit before my face, and they are fallen into it. my heart is ready, o god, my heart is ready: i will sing, and rehearse a psalm. arise, o my glory, arise psalter and harp: i will arise early. i will give praise to thee, o lord, among the people: i will sing a psalm to thee among the nations. for thy mercy is magnified even to the heavens: and thy truth unto the clouds. be thou exalted, o god, above the heavens: and thy glory above all the earth.

unto the end, destroy not, for david, for an inscription of a title. if in very deed you speak justice: judge right things, ye sons of men. for in your heart you work iniquity: your hands forge injustice in the earth. the wicked are alienated from the womb; they have gone astray from the womb: they have spoken false things. their madness is according to the likeness of a serpent: like the deaf asp that stoppeth her ears: which will not hear the voice of the charmers; nor of the wizard that charmeth wisely. god shall break in pieces their teeth in their mouth: the lord shall break the grinders of the lions. they shall come to nothing, like water running down; he hath bent his bow till they be weakened. like wax that melteth they shall be taken away: fire hath fallen on them, and they shall not see the sun. before your thorns could know the brier; he swalloweth them up, as alive, in his wrath. the just shall rejoice when he shall see the revenge: he shall wash his hands in the blood of the sinner. and man shall say: if indeed there be fruit to the just: there is indeed a god that judgeth them on the earth.

unto the end, destroy not, for david for an inscription of it title, when saul sent and watched his house to kill him. deliver me from my enemies, o my god; and defend me from them that rise up against me. deliver me from them that work iniquity, and save me from bloody men. for behold they have caught my soul: the mighty have rushed in upon me: neither is it my iniquity, nor my sin, o lord: without iniquity have i run, and directed my steps. rise up thou to meet me, and behold: even thou, o lord, the god of hosts, the god of israel. attend to visit all the nations: have no mercy on all them that work iniquity. they shall return at evening, and shall suffer hunger like dogs: and shall go round about the city. behold they shall speak with their mouth, and a sword is in their lips: for who, say they, hath heard us? but thou, o lord, shalt laugh at them: thou shalt bring all the nations to nothing. i will keep my strength to thee: for thou art my protector: my god, his mercy shall prevent me. god shall let me see over my enemies: slay them not, lest at any time my people forget. scatter them by thy power; and bring them down, o lord, my protector: for the sin of their mouth, and the word of their lips: and let them be taken in their pride. and for their cursing and lying they shall be talked of, when they are consumed: when they are consumed by thy wrath, and they shall be no more. and they shall know that god will rule jacob, and all the ends of the earth. they shall return at evening and shall suffer hunger like dogs: and shall go round about the city. they shall be scattered abroad to eat, and shall murmur if they be not filled. but i will sing thy strength: and will extol thy mercy in the morning. for thou art become my support, and my refuge, in the day of my trouble. unto thee, o my helper, will i sing, for thou art god my defence: my god my mercy.

unto the end, for them that shall be changed, for the inscription of a title, to david himself, for doctrine, when he set fire to mesopotamia of syria and sobal and joab returned and slew of edom, in the vale of the saltpits, twelve thousand men. o god, thou hast cast us off, and hast destroyed us; thou hast been angry, and hast had mercy on us. thou hast moved the earth, and hast troubled it: heal thou the breaches thereof, for it has been moved. thou hast shewn thy people hard things; thou hast made us drink wine of sorrow. thou hast given a warning to them that fear thee: that they may flee from before the bow: that thy beloved may be delivered. save me with thy right hand, and hear me. god hath spoken in his holy place: i will rejoice, and i will divide sichem; and will mete out the vale of tabernacles. galaad is mine, and manasses is mine: and ephraim is the strength of my head. juda is my king: moab is the pot of my hope. into edom will i stretch out my shoe: to me the foreigners are made subject. who will bring me into the strong city? who will lead me into edom? wilt not thou, o god, who hast cast us off? and wilt not thou, o god, go out with our armies? give us help from trouble: for vain is the salvation of man. through god we shall do mightily: and he shall bring to nothing them that afflict us.

unto the end, in hymns, for david. hear, o god, my supplication: be attentive to my prayer, to thee have i cried from the ends of the earth: when my heart was in anguish, thou hast exalted me on a rock. thou hast conducted me; for thou hast been my hope; a tower of strength against the face of the enemy. in thy tabernacle i shall dwell for ever: i shall be protected under the covert of thy wings. for thou, my god, hast heard my prayer: thou hast given an inheritance to them that fear thy name. thou wilt add days to the days of the king: his years even to generation and generation. he abideth for ever in the sight of god: his mercy and truth who shall search? so will i sing a psalm to thy name for ever and ever: that i may pay my vows from day to day.

unto the end, for idithun, a psalm of david. shall not my soul be subject to god? for from him is my salvation. for he is my god and my saviour: he is my protector, i shall be moved no more. how long do you rush in upon a man? you all kill, as if you were thrusting down a leaning wall, and a tottering fence. but they have thought to cast away my price; i ran in thirst: they blessed with their mouth, but cursed with their heart. but be thou, o my soul, subject to god: for from him is my patience. for he is my god and my saviour: he is my helper, i shall not be moved. in god is my salvation and my glory: he is the god of my help, and my hope is in god. trust in him, all ye congregation of people: pour out your hearts before him. god is our helper for ever. but vain are the sons of men, the sons of men are liars in the balances: that by vanity they may together deceive. trust not in iniquity, and cover not robberies: if riches abound, set not your heart upon them. god hath spoken once, these two things have i heard, that power belongeth to god, and mercy to thee, o lord; for thou wilt render to every man according to his works.

a psalm of david when he was in the desert of edom. o god, my god, to thee do i watch at break of day. for thee my soul hath thirsted; for thee my flesh, o how many ways! in a desert land, and where there is no way, and no water: so in the sanctuary have i come before thee, to see thy power and thy glory. for thy mercy is better than lives: thee my lips shall praise. thus will i bless thee all my life long: and in thy name i will lift up my hands. let my soul be filled as with marrow and fatness: and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips. if i have remembered thee upon my bed, i will meditate on thee in the morning: because thou hast been my helper. and i will rejoice under the covert of thy wings: my soul hath stuck close to thee: thy right hand hath received me. but they have sought my soul in vain, they shall go into the lower parts of the earth: they shall be delivered into the hands of the sword, they shall be the portions of foxes. but the king shall rejoice in god, all they shall be praised that swear by him: because the mouth is stopped of them that speak wicked things.

unto the end, a psalm for david. hear, o god, my prayer, when i make supplication to thee: deliver my soul from the fear of the enemy. thou hast protected me from the assembly of the malignant; from the multitude of the workers of iniquity. for they have whetted their tongues like a sword; they have bent their bow a bitter thing, to shoot in secret the undefiled. they will shoot at him on a sudden, and will not fear: they are resolute in wickedness. they have talked of hiding snares; they have said: who shall see them? they have searched after iniquities: they have failed in their search. man shall come to a deep heart: and god shall be exalted. the arrows of children are their wounds: and their tongues against them are made weak. all that saw them were troubled; and every man was afraid. and they declared the works of god: and understood his doings. the just shall rejoice in the lord, and shall hope in him: and all the upright in heart shall be praised.

to the end, a psalm of david. the canticle of jeremias and ezechiel to the people of the captivity, when they began to go out. a hymn, o god, becometh thee in sion: and a vow shall be paid to thee in jerusalem. o hear my prayer: all flesh shall come to thee. the words of the wicked have prevailed over us: and thou wilt pardon our transgressions. blessed is he whom thou hast chosen and taken to thee: he shall dwell in thy courts. we shall be filled with the good things of thy house; holy is thy temple, wonderful in justice. hear us, o god our saviour, who art the hope of all the ends of the earth, and in the sea afar off. thou who preparest the mountains by thy strength, being girded with power: who troublest the depth of the sea, the noise of its waves. the gentiles shall be troubled, and they that dwell in the uttermost borders shall be afraid at thy signs: thou shalt make the outgoings of the morning and of the evening to be joyful. thou hast visited the earth, and hast plentifully watered it; thou hast many ways enriched it. the river of god is filled with water, thou hast prepared their food: for so is its preparation. fill up plentifully the streams thereof, multiply its fruits; it shall spring up and rejoice in its showers. thou shalt bless the crown of the year of thy goodness: and thy fields shall be filled with plenty. the beautiful places of the wilderness shall grow fat: and the hills shall be girded about with joy, the rams of the flock are clothed, and the vales shall abound with corn: they shall shout, yea they shall sing a hymn.

unto the end, a canticle of a psalm of the resurrection. shout with joy to god, all the earth, sing ye a psalm to his name; give glory to his praise. say unto god, how terrible are thy works, o lord! in the multitude of thy strength thy enemies shall lie to thee. let all the earth adore thee, and sing to thee: let it sing a psalm to thy name. come and see the works of god; who is terrible in his counsels over the sons of men. who turneth the sea into dry land, in the river they shall pass on foot: there shall we rejoice in him. who by his power ruleth for ever: his eyes behold the nations; let not them that provoke him be exalted in themselves. o bless our god, ye gentiles: and make the voice of his praise to be heard. who hath set my soul to live: and hath not suffered my feet to be moved: for thou, o god, hast proved us: thou hast tried us by fire, as silver is tried. thou hast brought us into a net, thou hast laid afflictions on our back: thou hast set men over our heads. we have passed through tire and water, and thou hast brought us out into a refreshment. i will go into thy house with burnt offerings: i will pay thee my vows, which my lips have uttered, and my mouth hath spoken, when i was in trouble. i will offer up to thee holocausts full of marrow, with burnt offerings of rams: i will offer to thee bullocks with goats. come and hear, all ye that fear god, and i will tell you what great things he hath done for my soul. i cried to him with my mouth: and i extolled him with my tongue.

if i have looked at iniquity in my heart, the lord will not hear me. therefore hath god heard me, and hath attended to the voice of my supplication. blessed be god, who hath not turned away my prayer, nor his mercy from me.

unto the end, in, hymns, a psalm of a canticle for david. may god have mercy on us, and bless us: may he cause the light of his countenance to shine upon us, and may he have mercy on us. that we may know thy way upon earth: thy salvation in all nations. let people confess to thee, o god: let all people give praise to thee. let the nations be glad and rejoice: for thou judgest the people with justice, and directest the nations upon earth. let the people, o god, confess to thee: let all the people give praise to thee: the earth hath yielded her fruit. may god, our god bless us, may god bless us: and all the ends of the earth fear him.

unto the end, a psalm of a canticle for david himself. let god arise, and let his enemies be scattered: and let them that hate him flee from before his face. as smoke vanisheth, so let them vanish away: as wax melteth before the fire, so let the wicked perish at the presence of god. and let the just feast, and rejoice before god: and be delighted with gladness. sing ye to god, sing a psalm to his name, make a way for him who ascendeth upon the west: the lord is his name. rejoice ye before him: but the wicked shall be troubled at his presence, who is the father of orphans, and the judge of widows. god in his holy place: god who maketh men of one manner to dwell in a house: who bringeth out them that were bound in strength; in like manner them that provoke, that dwell in sepulchres. o god, when thou didst go forth in the sight of thy people, when thou didst pass through the desert: the earth was moved, and the heavens dropped at the presence of the god of sina, at the presence of the god of israel. thou shalt set aside for thy inheritance a free rain, o god: and it was weakened, but thou hast made it perfect. in it shall thy animals dwell; in thy sweetness, o god, thou hast provided for the poor. the lord shall give the word to them that preach good tidings with great power. the king of powers is of the beloved, of the beloved; and the beauty of the house shall divide spoils. if you sleep among the midst of lots, you shall be as the wings of a dove covered with silver, and the hinder parts of her back with the paleness of gold. when he that is in heaven appointeth kings over her, they shall be whited with snow in selmon. the mountain of god is a fat mountain. a curdled mountain, a fat mountain. why suspect, ye curdled mountains? a mountain in which god is well pleased to dwell: for there the lord shall dwell unto the end. the chariot of god is attended by ten thousands; thousands of them that rejoice: the lord is among them in sina, in the holy place. thou hast ascended on high, thou hast led captivity captive; thou hast received gifts in men. yea

for those also that do not believe, the dwelling of the lord god. blessed be the lord day by day: the god of our salvation will make our journey prosperous to us. our god is the god of salvation: and of the lord, of the lord are the issues from death. but god shall break the heads of his enemies: the hairy crown of them that walk on in their sins. the lord said: i will turn them from basan, i will turn them into the depth of the sea: that thy foot may be dipped in the blood of thy enemies; the tongue of thy dogs be red with the same. they have seen thy goings, o god, the goings of my god: of my king who is in his sanctuary. princes went before joined with singers, in the midst of young damsels playing on timbrels. in the churches bless ye god the lord, from the fountains of israel. there is benjamin a youth, in ecstasy of mind. the princes of juda are their leaders: the princes of zabulon, the princes of nephthali. command thy strength, o god: confirm, o god, what thou hast wrought in us. from thy temple in jerusalem, kings shall offer presents to thee. rebuke the wild beasts of the reeds, the congregation of bulls with the kine of the people; who seek to exclude them who are tried with silver. scatter thou the nations that delight in wars: ambassadors shall come out of egypt: ethiopia shall soon stretch out her hands to god. sing to god, ye kingdoms of the earth: sing ye to the lord: sing ye to god, who mounteth above the heaven of heavens, to the east. behold he will give to his voice the voice of power: give ye glory to god for israel, his magnificence, and his power is in the clouds. god is wonderful in his saints: the god of israel is he who will give power and strength to his people. blessed be god.

unto the end, for them that shall be changed; for david. save me, o god: for the waters are come in even unto my soul. i stick fast in the mire of the deep: and there is no sure standing. i am come into the depth of the sea: and a tempest hath overwhelmed me. i have laboured with crying; my jaws are become hoarse: my eyes have failed, whilst i hope in my god. they are multiplied above the hairs of my head, who hate me without cause. my enemies are grown strong who have wrongfully persecuted me: then did i pay that which i took not away. o god, thou knowest my foolishness; and my offences are not hidden from thee: let not them be ashamed for me, who look for thee, o lord, the lord of hosts. let them not be confounded on my account, who seek thee, o god of israel. because for thy sake i have borne reproach; shame hath covered my face. i am become a stranger to my brethren, and an alien to the sons of my mother. for the zeal of thy house hath eaten me up: and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me. and i covered my soul in fasting: and it was made a reproach to me. and i made haircloth my garment: and i became a byword to them. they that sat in the gate spoke against me: and they that drank wine made me their song. but as for me, my prayer is to thee, o lord; for the time of thy good pleasure, o god. in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation. draw me out of the mire, that i may not stick fast: deliver me from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters. let not the tempest of water drown me, nor the deep swallow me up: and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me. hear me, o lord, for thy mercy is kind; look upon me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies. and turn not away thy face from thy servant: for i am in trouble, hear me speedily. attend to my soul, and deliver it: save me because of my enemies. thou knowest my reproach, and my confusion, and my shame. in thy sight are all they that afflict me; my heart hath expected reproach and misery. and i looked for one that would grieve together with me, but there was none: and for one that would comfort me, and i found none. and they gave me gall for my food, and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink. let their table become as a snare before them, and a recompense, and a stumblingblock. let their eyes be darkened that they see not; and their back bend thou down always. pour out thy indignation upon them: and let thy wrathful anger take hold of them. let their habitation be made desolate: and let there be none to dwell in their tabernacles. because they have persecuted him whom thou hast smitten; and they have added to the grief of my wounds. add thou iniquity upon their iniquity: and let them not come into thy justice. let them be blotted out of the book of the living; and with the just let them not be written. but i am poor and sorrowful: thy salvation, o god, hath set me up. i will praise the name of god with a canticle: and i will magnify him with praise. and it shall please god better than a young calf, that bringeth forth horns and hoofs. let the poor see and rejoice: seek ye god, and your soul shall live. for the lord hath heard the poor: and hath not despised his prisoners. let the heavens and the earth praise him; the sea, and every thing that creepeth therein. for god will save sion, and the cities of juda shall be built up. and they shall dwell there, and acquire it by inheritance. and the seed of his servants shall possess it; and they that love his name shall dwell therein.

unto the end, a psalm for david, to bring to remembrance that the lord saved him. o god, come to my assistance; o lord, make haste to help me. let them be confounded and ashamed that seek my soul: let them be turned backward, and blush for shame that desire evils to me: let them be presently turned away blushing for shame that say to me: 't is well, 't is well. let all that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee; and let such as love thy salvation say always: the lord be magnified. but i am needy and poor; o god, help me. thou art my helper and my deliverer: o lord, make no delay.

a psalm for david. of the sons of jonadab, and the former captives. in thee, o lord, i have hoped, let me never be put to confusion: deliver me in thy justice, and rescue me. incline thy ear unto me, and save me.

be thou unto me a god, a protector, and a place of strength: that thou mayst make me safe. for thou art my firmament and my refuge. deliver me, o my god, out of the hand of the sinner, and out of the hand of the transgressor of the law and of the unjust. for thou art my patience, o lord: my hope, o lord, from my youth; by thee have i been confirmed from the womb: from my mother's womb thou art my protector. of thee shall i continually sing: i run become unto many as a wonder, but thou art a strong helper. let my mouth be filled with praise, that i may sing thy glory; thy greatness all the day long. cast me not off in the time of old age: when my strength shall fail, do not thou forsake me. for my enemies have spoken against me; and they that watched my soul have consorted together, saying: god hath forsaken him: pursue and take him, for there is none to deliver him. o god, be not thou far from me: o my god, make haste to my help. let them be confounded and come to nothing that detract my soul; let them be covered with confusion and shame that seek my hurt. but i will always hope; and will add to all thy praise. my mouth shall shew forth thy justice; thy salvation all the day long. because i have not known learning, i will enter into the powers of the lord: o lord, i will be mindful of thy justice alone. thou hast taught me, o god, from my youth: and till now i will declare thy wonderful works. and unto old age and grey hairs: o god, forsake me not, until i shew forth thy arm to all the generation that is to come: thy power, and thy justice, o god, even to the highest great things thou hast done: o god, who is like to thee? how great troubles hast thou shewn me, many and grievous: and turning thou hast brought me to life, and hast brought me back again from the depths of the earth: thou hast multiplied thy magnificence; and turning to me thou hast comforted me. for i will also confess to thee thy truth with the instruments of psaltery: o god, i will sing to thee with the harp, thou holy one of israel. my lips shall greatly rejoice, when i shall sing to thee; and my soul which thou hast redeemed. yea and my tongue shall meditate on thy justice all the day; when they shall be confounded and put to shame that seek evils to me.

a psalm on solomon. give to the king thy judgment, o god: and to the king's son thy justice: to judge thy people with justice, and thy poor with judgment. let the mountains receive peace for the people: and the hills justice. he shall judge the poor of the people, and he shall save the children of the poor: and he shall humble the oppressor. and he shall continue with the sun, and before the moon, throughout all generations. he shall come down like rain upon the fleece; and as showers falling gently upon the earth. in his days shall justice spring up, and abundance of peace, till the moon be taken sway. and he shall rule from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth. before him the ethiopians shall fall down: and his enemies shall lick the ground. the kings of tharsis and the islands shall offer presents: the kings of the arabs and of saba shall bring gifts: and all kings of the earth shall adore him: all nations shall serve him. for he shall deliver the poor from the mighty: and the needy that had no helper. he shall spare the poor and needy: and he shall save the souls of the poor. he shall redeem their souls from usuries and iniquity: and their names shall be honourable in his sight. and he shall live, and to him shall be given of the gold of arabia, for him they shall always adore: they shall bless him all the day. and there shall be a firmament on the earth on the tops of mountains, above libanus shall the fruit thereof be exalted: and they of the city shall flourish like the grass of the earth. let his name be blessed for evermore: his name continueth before the sun. and in him shall all the tribes of the earth be blessed: all nations shall magnify him. blessed be the lord, the god of israel, who alone doth wonderful things. and blessed be the name of his majesty for ever: and the whole earth shall be filled with his majesty. so be it. so be it. the praises of david, the son of jesse, are ended.

a psalm for asaph. how good is god to israel, to them that are of a right heart! but my feet were almost moved; my steps had well nigh slipped. because i had a zeal on occasion of the wicked, seeing the prosperity of sinners. for there is no regard to their death, nor is there strength in their stripes. they are not in the labour of men: neither shall they be scourged like other men. therefore pride hath held them fast: they are covered with their iniquity and their wickedness. their iniquity hath come forth, as it were from fatness: they have passed into the affection of the heart. they have thought and spoken wickedness: they have spoken iniquity on high. they have set their mouth against heaven: and their tongue hath passed through the earth. therefore will my people return here and full days shall be found in them. and they said: how doth god know? and is there knowledge in the most high? behold these are sinners; and yet abounding in the world they have obtained riches. and i said: then have i in vain justified my heart, and washed my hands among the innocent. and i have been scourged all the day; and my chastisement hath been in the mornings. if i said: i will speak thus; behold i should condemn the generation of thy children. i studied that i might know this thing, it is a labour in my sight: until i go into the sanctuary of god, and understand concerning their last ends. but indeed for deceits thou hast put it to them: when they were lifted up thou hast cast them down. how are they brought to desolation? they have suddenly ceased to be: they have perished by reason of their iniquity. as the dream of them that awake, o lord; so in thy city thou shalt bring their image to nothing. for my heart hath been inflamed, and my reins have been changed: and i am brought to nothing, and i knew not. i am become as a beast before thee: and i am always with thee. thou hast held me by my right hand; and by thy will thou hast conducted me, and with thy glory thou hast received me. for what have i in heaven? and besides thee what do i desire upon earth? for thee my flesh and my heart hath fainted away: thou art the god of my heart, and the god that is my portion for ever. for behold they that go far from thee shall perish: thou hast destroyed all them that are disloyal to thee. but it is good for me to adhere to my god, to put my hope in the lord god: that i may declare all thy praises, in the gates of the daughter of sion.

understanding for asaph. o god, why hast thou cast us off unto the end: why is thy wrath enkindled against the sheep of thy pasture? remember thy congregation, which thou hast possessed from the beginning. the sceptre of thy inheritance which thou hast redeemed: mount sion in which thou hast dwelt. lift up thy hands against their pride unto the end; see what things the enemy hath done wickedly in the sanctuary. and they that hate thee have made their boasts, in the midst of thy solemnity. they have set up their ensigns for signs, and they knew not both in the going out and on the highest top. as with axes in a wood of trees, they have cut down at once the gates thereof, with axe and hatchet they have brought it down. they have set fire to thy sanctuary: they have defiled the dwelling place of thy name on the earth. they said in their heart, the whole kindred of them together: let us abolish all the festival days of god from the land. our signs we have not seen, there is now no prophet: and he will know us no more. how long, o god, shall the enemy reproach: is the adversary to provoke thy name for ever? why dost thou turn away thy hand: and thy right hand out of the midst of thy bosom for ever? but god is our king before ages: he hath wrought salvation in the midst of the earth. thou by thy strength didst make the sea firm: thou didst crush the heads of the dragons in the waters. thou hast broken the heads of the dragon: thou hast given him to be meat for the people of the ethiopians. thou hast broken up the fountains and the torrents: thou hast dried up the ethan rivers. thine is the day, and thine is the night: thou hast made the morning light and the sun. thou hast made all the borders of the earth: the summer and the spring were formed by thee. remember this, the enemy hath reproached the lord: and a foolish people hath provoked thy name. deliver not up to beasts the souls that confess to thee: and forget not to the end the souls of thy poor. have regard to thy covenant: for they that are the obscure of the earth have been filled with dwellings of iniquity. let not the humble be turned away with confusion: the poor and needy shall praise thy name. arise, o god, judge thy own cause: remember thy reproaches with which the foolish man hath reproached thee all the day. forget not the voices of thy enemies: the pride of them that hate thee ascendeth continually.

unto the end, corrupt not, a psalm of a canticle for asaph. we will praise thee, o god: we will praise, and we will call upon thy name. we will relate thy wondrous works: when i shall take a time, i will judge justices. the earth is melted, and all that dwell therein: i have established the pillars thereof. i said to the wicked: do not act wickedly: and to the sinners: lift not up the horn. lift not up your horn on high: speak not iniquity against god. for neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the desert hills: for god is the judge. one he putteth down, and another he lifeth up: for in the hand of the lord there is a cup of strong wine full of mixture. and he hath poured it out from this to that: but the dregs thereof are not emptied: all the sinners of the earth shall drink. but i will declare for ever: i will sing to the god of jacob. and i will break all the horns of sinners: but the horns of the just shall be exalted.

unto the end, in praises, a psalm for asaph: a canticle to the assyrians. in judea god is known: his name is great in israel. and his place is in peace: and his abode in sion: there hath he broken the powers of bows, the shield, the sword, and the battie. thou enlightenest wonderfully from the everlasting hills. all the foolish of heart were troubled. they have slept their sleep; and all the men of riches have found nothing in their hands. at thy rebuke, o god of jacob, they have all slumbered that mounted on horseback. thou art terrible, and who shall resist thee? from that time thy wrath. thou hast caused judgment to be heard from heaven: the earth trembled and was still, when god arose in judgment, to save all the meek of the earth. for the thought of man shall give praise to thee: and the remainders of the thought shall keep holiday to thee. vow ye, and pay to the lord your god: all you that are round about him bring presents. to him that is terrible, even to him who taketh away the spirit of princes: to the terrible with the kings of the earth.

unto the end, for idithun, a psalm of asaph. i cried to the lord with my voice; to god with my voice, and he gave ear to me. in the day of my trouble i sought god, with my hands lifted up to him in the night, and i was not deceived. my soul refused to be comforted: i remembered god, and was delighted, and was exercised, and my spirit swooned away. my eyes prevented the watches: i was troubled, and i spoke not. i thought upon the days of old: and i had in my mind the eternal years. and i meditated in the night with my own heart: and i was exercised and i swept my spirit. will god then cast off for ever? or will he never be more favourable again? or will he cut off his mercy for ever, from generation to generation? or will god forget to shew mercy? or will he in his anger shut up his mercies? and i said, now have i begun: this is the change of the right hand of the most high. i remembered the works of the lord: for i will be mindful of thy wonders from the beginning. and i will meditate on all thy works: and will be employed in thy inventions. thy way, o god, is in the holy place: who is the great god like our god? thou art the god that dost wonders. thou hast made thy power known among the nations: with thy arm thou hast redeemed thy people the children of jacob and of joseph. the waters saw thee, o god, the waters saw thee: and they were afraid, and the depths were troubled. great was the noise of the waters: the clouds sent out a sound. for thy arrows pass: the voice of thy thunder in a wheel. thy lightnings enlightened the world: the earth shook and trembled. thy way is in the sea, and thy paths in many waters: and thy footsteps shall not be known. thou hast conducted thy people like sheep, by the hand of moyses and aaron understanding for asaph. attend, o my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth. i will open my mouth in parables: i will utter propositions from the beginning. how great things have we heard and known, and our fathers have told us. they have not been hidden from their children, in another generation. declaring the praises of the lord, and his powers, and his wonders which he hath done. and he set up a testimony in jacob: and made a law in israel. how great things he commanded our fathers, that they should make the same known to their children: that another generation might know them. the children that should be born and should rise up, and declare them to their children. that they may put their hope in god and may not forget the works of god: and may seek his commandments. that they may not become like their fathers, a perverse end exasperating generation. a generation that set not their heart aright: and whose spirit was not faithful to god. the sons of ephraim who bend and shoot with the bow: they have turned back in the day of battle. they kept not the covenant of god: and in his law they would not walk. and they forgot his benefits, and his wonders that he had shewn them. wonderful things did he do in the sight of their fathers, in the land of egypt, in the field of tanis. he divided the sea and brought them through: and he made the waters to stand as in a vessel. and he conducted them with a cloud by day: and all the night with a light of he struck the rock in the wilderness: and gave them to drink, as out of the great deep. he brought forth water out of the rock: and made streams run down as rivers. and they added yet more sin against him: they provoked the most high to wrath in the place without water. and they tempted god in their hearts, by asking meat for their desires. and they spoke ill of god: they said: can god furnish a table in the wilderness? because he struck the rock, and the waters gushed out, and the streams overflowed. can he also give bread, or provide a table for his people? therefore the lord heard, and was angry: and a fire was kindled against jacob, and wrath came up against israel. because they believed not in god: and trusted not in his salvation. and he had commanded the clouds from above, and had opened the doors of heaven. and had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them the bread of heaven. man ate the bread of angels: he sent them provisions in abundance. he removed the south wind from heaven: and by his power brought in the southwest wind. and he rained upon them flesh as dust: and feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea. and they fell in the midst of their camp, round about their pavilions. so they did eat, and were filled exceedingly, and he gave them their desire: they were not defrauded of that which they craved. as yet their meat was in their mouth: and the wrath of god came upon them. and he slew the fat ones amongst them, and brought down the chosen men of israel. in all these things they sinned still: and they believed not for his wondrous works. and their days were consumed in vanity, and their years in haste. when he slew them, then they sought him: and they returned, and came to him early in the morning. and they remembered that god was their helper: and the most high god their redeemer. and they loved him with their mouth: and with their tongue they lied unto him: but their heart was not right with him: nor were they counted faithful in his covenant. but he is merciful, and will forgive their sins: and will not destroy them. and many a time did he turn away his anger: and did not kindle all his wrath. and he remembered that they are flesh: a wind that goeth and returneth not. how often did they provoke him in the desert: and move him to wrath in the place without water? and they turned back and tempted god: and grieved the holy one of israel. they remembered not his hand, in the day that he redeemed them from the hand of him that afflicted them: how he wrought his signs in egypt, and his wonders in the field of tanis. and he turned their rivers into blood, and their showers that they might, not drink. he sent amongst them divers sores of flies, which devoured them: and frogs which destroyed them. and he gave up their fruits to the blast, and their labours to the locust. and he destroyed their vineyards with hail, and their mulberry trees with hoarfrost. and he gave up their cattle to the hail, and their stock to the fire. and he sent upon them the wrath of his indignation: indignation and wrath and trouble, which he sent by evil angels. he made a way for a path to his anger: he spared not their souls from death, and their cattle he shut up in death. and he killed all the firstborn in the land of egypt: the firstfruits of all their labour in the tabernacles of cham. and he took away his own people as sheep: and guided them in the wilderness like a flock. and he brought them out in hope, and they feared not: band the sea overwhelmed their enemies. and he brought them into the mountain of his sanctuary: the mountain which his right hand had purchased. and he cast out the gentiles before them: and by lot divided to them their land by a line of distribution. and he made the tribes of israel to dwell in their tabernacles. yet they tempted, and provoked the most high god: and they kept not his testimonies. and they turned away, and kept not the covenant: even like their fathers they were turned aside as a crooked bow. they provoked him to anger on their hills: and moved him to jealousy with their graven things. god heard, and despised them, and he reduced israel exceedingly as it were to nothing. and he put away the tabernacle of silos, his tabernacle where he dwelt among men. and he delivered their strength into captivity: and their beauty into the hands of the enemy. and he shut up his people under the sword: and he despised his inheritance. fire consumed their young men: and their maidens were not lamented. their priests fell by the sword: and their widows did not mourn. and the lord was awaked as one out of sleep, and like a mighty man that hath been surfeited with wine. and he smote his enemies on the hinder parts: he put them to an everlasting reproach. and he rejected the tabernacle of joseph: and chose not the tribe of ephraim: but he chose the tribe of juda, mount sion which he loved. and he built his sanctuary as of unicorns, in the land which he founded for ever. and he chose his servant david, and took him from the hocks of sheep: he brought him from following the ewes great with young, to feed jacob his servant, and israel his inheritance. and he fed them in the innocence of his heart: and conducted them by the skilfulness of his hands.

a psalm for asaph. o god, the heathens are come into thy inheritance, they have defiled thy holy temple: they have made jerusalem as a place to keep fruit. they have given the dead bodies of thy servants to be meat for the fowls of the air: the flesh of thy saints for the beasts of the earth. they have poured out their blood as water, round about jerusalem and there was none to bury them. we are become a reproach to our neighbours: a scorn and derision to them that are round about us. how long, o lord, wilt thou be angry for ever: shall thy zeal be kindled like a fire? pour out thy wrath upon the nations that have not known thee: and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy name. because they have devoured jacob; and have laid waste his place. remember not our former iniquities: let thy mercies speedily prevent us, for we are become exceeding poor. help us, o god, our saviour: and for the glory of thy name, o lord, deliver us: and forgive us our sins for thy name's sake: lest they should say among the gentiles: where is their god? and let him be made known among the nations before our eyes, by the revenging the blood of thy servants, which hath been shed: let the sighing of the prisoners come in before thee. according to the greatness of thy arm, take possession of the children of them that have been put to death. and render to our neighbours sevenfold in their bosom: the reproach wherewith they have reproached thee, o lord. but we thy people, and the sheep of thy pasture, will give thanks to thee for ever. we will shew forth thy praise, unto generation and generation.

unto the end, for them that shall be changed, a testimony for asaph, a psalm. give ear, o thou that rulest israel: thou that ledest joseph like a sheep. thou that sittest upon the cherubims, shine forth before ephraim, benjamin, and manasses. stir up thy might,

and come to save us. convert us, o god: and shew us thy face, and we shall be saved. o lord god of hosts, how long wilt thou be angry against the prayer of thy servant? how long wilt thou feed us with the bread of tears: and give us for our drink tears in measure? thou hast made us to be a contradiction to our neighbours: and our enemies have scoffed at us. o god of hosts, convert us: and shew thy face, and we shall be saved. thou hast brought a vineyard out of egypt: thou hast cast cut the gentiles and planted it. thou wast the guide of its journey in its sight: thou plantedst the roots thereof, and it filled the land. the shadow of it covered the hills: and the branches thereof the cedars of god. it stretched forth its branches unto the sea, and its boughs unto the river. why hast thou broken down the hedge thereof, so that all they who pass by the way do pluck it? the boar out of the wood hath laid it waste: and a singular wild beast hath devoured it. turn again, o god of hosts, look down from heaven, and see, and visit this vineyard: and perfect the same which thy right hand hath planted: and upon the son of man whom thou hast confirmed for thyself. things set on fire and dug down shall perish at the rebuke of thy countenance. let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand: and upon the son of man whom thou hast confirmed for thyself. and we depart not from thee, thou shalt quicken us: and we will call upon thy name. o lord god of hosts, convert us: and shew thy face, and we shall be saved.

unto the end, for the winepresses, a psalm for asaph himself. rejoice to god our helper: sing aloud to the god of jacob. take a psalm, and bring hither the timbrel: the pleasant psaltery with the harp. blow up the trumpet on the new moon, on the noted day of your solemnity. for it is a commandment in israel, and a judgment to the god of jacob. he ordained it for a testimony in joseph, when he came out of the land of egypt: he heard a tongue which he knew not. he removed his back from the burdens: his hands had served in baskets. thou caldest upon me in affliction, and i delivered thee: i heard thee in the secret place of tempest: i proved thee at the waters of contradiction. hear, o my people, and i will testify to thee: o israel, if thou wilt hearken to me, there shall be no new god in thee: neither shalt thou adore a strange god. for i am the lord thy god, who brought thee out of the land of egypt: open thy mouth wide, and i will fill it. but my people heard not my voice: and israel hearkened not to me. so i let them go according to the desires of their heart: they shall walk in their own inventions. if my people had heard me: if israel had walked in my ways: i should soon have humbled their enemies, and laid my hand on them that troubled them. the enemies of the lord have lied to him: and their time shall be for ever. and he fed them with the fat of wheat, and filled them with honey out of the rock.

a psalm for asaph. god hath stood in the congregation of gods: and being in the midst of them he judgeth gods. how long will you judge unjustly: and accept the persons of the wicked? judge for the needy and fatherless: do justice to the humble and the poor. rescue the poor; and deliver the needy out of the hand of the sinner. they have not known nor understood: they walk on in darkness: all the foundations of the earth shall be moved. i have said: you are gods and all of you the sons of the most high. but you like men shall die: and shall fall like one of the princes. arise, o god, judge thou the earth: for thou shalt inherit among all the nations.

a canticle of a psalm for asaph. o god, who shall be like to thee? hold not thy peace, neither be thou still, o god. for lo, thy enemies have made a noise: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head. they have taken a malicious counsel against thy people, and have consulted against thy saints. they have said: come and let us destroy them, so that they be not a nation: and let the name of israel be remembered no more. for they have contrived with one consent: they have made a covenant together against thee, the tabernacles of the edomites, and the ismahelites: moab, and the agarens, gebal, and ammon and amalec: the philistines, with the inhabitants of tyre. yea, and the assyrian also is joined with them: they are come to the aid of the sons of lot. do to them as thou didst to madian and to sissara: as to jabin at the brook of cisson. who perished at endor: and became as dung for the earth. make their princes like oreb, and zeb, and zebbee, and salmana. all their princes, who have said: let us possess the sanctuary of god for an inheritance. o my god, make them like a wheel; and as stubble before the wind. as fire which burneth the wood: and as a flame burning mountains: so shalt thou pursue them with thy tempest: and shalt trouble them in thy wrath. fill their faces with shame; and they shall seek thy name, o lord. let them be ashamed and troubled for ever and ever: and let them be confounded and perish. and let them know that the lord is thy name: thou alone art the most high over all the earth.

unto the end, for the winepresses, a psalm for the sons of core. how lovely are thy tabernacles, o lord of host! my soul longeth and fainteth for the courts of the lord. my heart and my flesh have rejoiced in the living god. for the sparrow hath found herself a house, and the turtle a nest for herself where she may lay her young ones: thy altars, o lord of hosts, my king and my god. blessed are they that dwell in thy house, o lord: they shall praise thee for ever and ever. blessed is the man whose help is from thee: in his heart he hath disposed to ascend by steps, in the vale of tears, in the place which be hath set. for the lawgiver shall unto the end, for the sons of core, a psalm. lord, thou hast blessed thy land: thou hast turned away the captivity of jacob. thou hast forgiven the iniquity of thy people: thou hast covered all their sins. thou hast mitigated all thy anger: thou hast turned away from the wrath of thy indignation. convert us, o god our saviour: and turn off thy anger from us. wilt thou be angry with us for ever: or wilt thou extend thy wrath from generation to generation? thou wilt turn, o god, and bring us to life: and thy people shall rejoice in thee. shew us, o lord, thy mercy; and grant us thy salvation. i will hear what the lord god will speak in me: for he will speak peace unto his people: and unto his saints: and unto them that are converted to the heart. surely his salvation is near to them that fear him: that glory may dwell in our land. mercy and truth have met each other: justice and peace have kissed. truth is sprung out of the earth: and justice hath looked down from heaven. for the lord will give goodness: and our earth shall yield her fruit. justice shall walk before him: and shall set his steps in the way.

a prayer for david himself. incline thy ear, o lord, and hear me: for i am needy and poor. preserve my soul, for i am holy: save thy servant, o my god, that trusteth in thee. have mercy on me, o lord, for i have cried to thee all the day. give joy to the soul of thy servant, for to thee, o lord, i have lifted up my soul. for thou, o lord, art sweet and mild: and plenteous in mercy to all that call upon thee. give ear, o lord, to my prayer: and attend to the voice of my petition. i have called upon thee in the day of my trouble: because thou hast heard me. there is none among the gods like unto thee, o lord: and there is none according to thy works. all the nations thou hast made shall come and adore before thee, o lord: and they shall glorify thy name. for thou art great and dost wonderful things: thou art god alone. conduct me, o lord, in thy way, and i will walk in thy truth: let my heart rejoice that it may fear thy name. i will praise thee, o lord my god: with my whole heart, and i will glorify thy name for ever: for thy mercy is great towards me: and thou hast delivered my soul out of the lower hell. o god, the wicked are risen up against me, and the assembly of the mighty have sought my soul: and they have not set thee before their eyes. and thou, o lord, art a god of compassion, and merciful, patient, and of much mercy, and true. o look upon me, and have mercy on me: give thy command to thy servant, and save the son of thy handmaid. shew me a token for good: that they who hate me may see, and be confounded, because thou, o lord, hast helped me and hast comforted me.

for the sons of core, a psalm of a canticle. the foundations thereof are in the holy mountains: the lord loveth the gates of sion above all the tabernacles of jacob. glorious things are said of thee, o city of god. i will be mindful of rahab and of babylon knowing me. behold the foreigners, and tyre, and the people of the ethiopians, these were there. shall not sion say: this man and that man is born in her? and the highest himself hath founded her. the lord shall tell in his writings of peoples and of princes, of them that have been in her. the dwelling in thee is as it were of all rejoicing.

a canticle of a psalm for the sons of core: unto the end, for maeleth, to answer understanding of eman the ezrahite. o lord, the god of my salvation: i have cried in the day, and in the night before thee. let my prayer come in before thee: incline thy ear to my petition. for my soul is filled with evils: and my life hath drawn nigh to hell. i am counted among them that go down to the pit: i am become as a man without help, free among the dead. like the slain sleeping in the sepulchres, whom thou rememberest no more: and they are cast off from thy hand. they have laid me in the lower pit: in the dark places, and in the shadow of death. thy wrath is strong over me: and all thy waves thou hast brought in upon me. thou hast put away my acquaintance far from me: they have set me an abomination to themselves. i was delivered up, and came not forth: my eyes languished through poverty. all the day i cried to thee, o lord: i stretched out my hands to thee. wilt thou shew wonders to the dead? or shall physicians raise to life, and give praise to thee? shall any one in the sepulchre declare thy mercy: and thy truth in destruction? shall thy wonders be known in the dark; and thy justice in the land of forgetfulness? but i, o lord, have cried to thee: and in the morning my prayer shall prevent thee. lord, why castest thou off my prayer: why turnest thou away thy face from me? i am poor, and in labours from my youth: and being exalted have been humbled and troubled. thy wrath hath come upon me: and thy terrors have troubled me. they have come round about me like water all the day: they have compassed me about together. friend and neighbour thou hast put far from me: and my acquaintance, because of misery.

of understanding, for ethan the ezrahite. the mercies of the lord i will sing for ever. i will shew forth thy truth with my mouth to generation and generation. for thou hast said: mercy shall be built up for ever in the heavens: thy truth shall be prepared in them. i have made a covenant with my elect: i have sworn to david my servant: thy seed will i settle for ever. and i will build up thy throne unto generation and generation. the heavens shall confess thy wonders, o lord: and thy truth in the church of the saints. for who in the clouds can be compared to the lord: or who among the sons of god shall be like to god? god, who is glorified in the assembly of the saints: great and terrible above all them that are about him. o lord god of hosts, who is like to thee? thou art mighty, o lord, and thy truth is round about thee. thou rulest the power of the sea: and appeasest the motion of the waves thereof. thou hast humbled the proud one, as one that is slain: with the arm of thy strength thou hast scattered thy enemies. thine are the heavens, and thine is the earth: the world and the fulness thereof thou hast founded: the north and the sea thou hast created. thabor and hermon shall rejoice in thy name: thy arm is with might. let thy hand be strengthened, and thy right hand exalted: justice and judgment are the preparation of thy throne. mercy and truth shall go before thy face: blessed is the people that knoweth jubilation. they shall walk, o lord, in the light of thy countenance: and in thy name they shall rejoice all the day, and in thy justice they shall be exalted. for thou art the glory of their strength: and in thy good pleasure shall our horn be exalted. for our protection is of the lord, and of our king the holy one of israel. then thou spoked in a vision to thy saints, and saidst: i have laid help upon one that is mighty, and have exalted one chosen out of my people. i have found david my servant: with my holy oil i have anointed him. for my hand shall help him: and my arm shall strengthen him. the enemy shall have no advantage over him: nor the son of iniquity have power to hurt him. and i will cut down his enemies before his face; and them that hate him i will put to flight. and my truth and my mercy shall be with him: and in my name shall his horn be exalted. and i will set his hand in the sea; and his right hand in the rivers. he shall cry out to me: thou art my father: my god, and the support of my salvation. and i will make him my firstborn, high above the kings of the earth. i will keep my mercy for him for ever: and my covenant faithful to him. and i will make his seed to endure for evermore: and his throne as the days of heaven. and if his children forsake my law, and walk not in my judgments: if they profane my justices: and keep not my commandments: i will visit their iniquities with a rod: and their sins with stripes. but my mercy i will not take away from him: nor will i suffer my truth to fail. neither will i profane my covenant: and the words that proceed from my mouth i will not make void. once have i sworn by my holiness: i will not lie unto david: his seed shall endure for ever. and his throne as the sun before me: and as the moon perfect for ever, and a faithful witness in heaven. but thou hast rejected and despised: thou hast been angry with thy anointed. thou hast overthrown the covenant of thy servant: thou hast profaned his sanctuary on the earth. thou hast broken down all his hedges: thou hast made his strength fear. all that pass by the way have robbed him: he is become a reproach to his neighbours. thou hast set up the right hand of them that oppress him: thou hast made all his enemies to rejoice. thou hast turned away the help of his sword; and hast not assisted him in battle. thou hast made his purification to cease: and thou hast cast his throne down to the ground. thou hast shortened the days of his time: thou hast covered him with confusion. how long, o lord, turnest thou away unto the end? shall thy anger burn like fire? remember what my substance is for hast thou made all the children of men in vain? who is the man that shall live, and not see death: that shall deliver his soul from the hand of hell? lord, where are thy ancient mercies, according to what thou didst swear to david in thy truth? be mindful, o lord, of the reproach of thy servants (which i have held in my bosom) of many nations: wherewith thy enemies have reproached, o lord; wherewith they have reproached the change of thy anointed. blessed be the lord for evermore. so be it. so be it.

a prayer of moyses the man of god. lord, thou hast been our refuge from generation to generation. before the mountains were made, or the earth and the world was formed; from eternity and to eternity thou art god. turn not man away to be brought low: and thou hast said: be converted, o ye sons of men. for a thousand years in thy sight are as yesterday, which is past. and as a watch in the night, things that are counted nothing, shall their years be. in the morning man shall grow up like grass: in the morning he shall flourish and pass away: in the evening he shall fall, grow dry, and wither. for in thy wrath we have fainted away: and are troubled in thy indignation. thou hast set our iniquities before thy eyes: our life in the light of thy countenance. for all our days are spent; and in thy wrath we have fainted away. our years shall be considered spider: the days of our years in them are threescore and ten years. but if in the strong they be fourscore years: and what is more of them is labour and sorrow. for mildness is come upon us: and we shall be corrected. who knoweth the power of thy anger, and for thy fear can number thy wrath? so make thy right hand known: and men learned in heart, in wisdom. return, o lord, how long? and be entreated in favour of thy servants. we are filled in the morning with thy mercy: and we have rejoiced, and are delighted all our days. we have rejoiced for the days in which thou hast humbled us: for the years in which we have seen evils. look upon thy servants and upon their works: and direct their children. and let the brightness of the lord our god be upon us: and direct thou the works of our hands over us; yea, the work of our hands do thou direct.

the praise of a canticle for david. he that dwelleth in the aid of the most high, shall abide under the protection of the god of jacob. he shall say to the lord: thou art my protector, and my refuge: my god, in him will i trust. for he hath delivered me from the snare of the hunters: and from the sharp word. he will overshadow thee with his shoulders: and under his wings thou shalt trust. his truth shall compass thee with a shield: thou shalt not be afraid of the terror of the night. of the arrow that flieth in the day, of the business that walketh about in the dark: of invasion, or of the noonday devil. a thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand: but it shall not come nigh thee. but thou shalt consider with thy eyes: and shalt see the reward of the wicked. because thou, o lord, art my hope: thou hast made the most high thy refuge. there shall no evil come to thee: nor shall the scourge come near thy dwelling. for he hath given his angels charge over thee; to keep thee in all thy ways. in their hands they shall bear thee up: lest thou dash thy foot against a stone. thou shalt walk upon the asp and the basilisk: and thou shalt trample under foot the lion and the dragon. because he hoped in me i will deliver him: i will protect him because he hath known my name. he shall cry to me, and i will hear him: i am with him in tribulation, i will deliver him, and i will glorify him. i will fill him with length of days; and i will shew him my salvation.

a psalm of a canticle on the sabbath day. it is good to give praise to the lord: and to sing to thy name, o most high. to shew forth thy mercy in the morning, and thy truth in the night: upon an instrument of ten strings, upon the psaltery: with a canticle upon the harp. for thou hast given me, o lord, a delight in thy doings: and in the works of thy hands i shall rejoice. o lord, how great are thy works! thy thoughts are exceeding deep. the senseless man shall not know: nor will the fool understand these things. when the wicked shall spring up as grass: and all the workers of iniquity shall appear: that they may perish for ever and ever: but thou, o lord, art most high for evermore. for behold thy enemies, o lord, for behold thy enemies shall perish: and all the workers of iniquity shall be scattered. but my horn shall be exalted like that of the unicorn: and my old age in plentiful mercy. my eye also hath looked down upon my enemies: and my ear shall hear of the downfall of the malignant that rise up against me. the just shall flourish like the palm tree: he shall grow up like the cedar of libanus. they that are planted in the house of the lord shall flourish in the courts of the house of our god. they shall still increase in a fruitful old age: and shall be well treated, that they may shew, that the lord our god is righteous, and there is no iniquity in him.

the lord hath reigned, he is clothed with beauty: the lord is clothed with strength, and hath girded himself. for he hath established the world which shall not be moved. thy throne is prepared from of old: thou art from everlasting. the floods have lifted up, o lord: the floods have lifted up their voice. the floods have lifted up their waves, with the noise of many waters. wonderful are the surges of the sea: wonderful is the lord on high. thy testimonies are become exceedingly credible: holiness becometh thy house, o lord, unto length of days.

the lord is the god to whom revenge belongeth: the god of revenge hath acted freely. lift up thyself, thou that judgest the earth: render a reward to the proud. how long shall sinners, o lord: how long shall sinners glory? shall they utter, and speak iniquity: shall all speak who work injustice? thy people, o lord, they have brought low: and they have afflicted thy inheritance. they have slain the widow and the stranger: and they have murdered the fatherless. and they have said: the lord shall not see: neither shall the god of jacob understand. understand, ye senseless among the people: and, you fools, be wise at last. he that planted the ear, shall he not hear? or he that formed the eye, doth he not consider? he that chastiseth nations, shall he not rebuke: he that teacheth man knowledge? the lord knoweth the thoughts of men, that they are vain. blessed is the man whom thou shalt instruct, o lord: and shalt teach him out of thy law. that thou mayst give him rest from the evil days: till a pit be dug for the wicked. for the lord will not cast off his people: neither will he forsake his own inheritance. until justice be turned into judgment: and they that are near it are all the upright in heart. who shall rise up for me against the evildoers? or who shall stand with me against the workers of iniquity? unless the lord had been my helper, my soul had almost dwelt in hell. if i said: my foot is moved: thy mercy, o lord, assisted me. according to the multitude of my sorrows in my heart, thy comforts have given joy to my soul. doth the seat of iniquity stick to thee, who framest labour in commandment? they will hunt after the soul of the just, and will condemn innocent blood. but the lord is my refuge: and my god the help of my hope. and he will render them their iniquity: and in their malice he will destroy them: the lord our god will destroy them.

come let us praise the lord with joy: let us joyfully sing to god our saviour. let us come before his presence with thanksgiving; and make a joyful noise to him with psalms. for the lord is a great god, and a great king above all gods. for in his hand are all the ends of the earth: and the heights of the mountains are his. for the sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land. come let us adore and fall down:

and weep before the lord that made us. for he is the lord our god: and we are the people of his pasture and the sheep of his hand. to day if you shall hear his voice, harden not your hearts: as in the provocation, according to the day of temptation in the wilderness: where your fathers tempted me, they proved me, and saw my works. forty years long was i offended with that generation, and i said: these always err in heart. and these men have not known my ways: so i swore in my wrath that they shall not enter into my rest.

a canticle for david himself, when the house was built after the captivity. sing ye to the lord a new canticle: sing to the lord, all the earth. sing ye to the lord and bless his name: shew forth his salvation from day to day. declare his glory among the gentiles: his wonders among all people. for the lord is great, and exceedingly to be praised: he is to be feared above all gods. for all the gods of the gentiles are devils: but the lord made the heavens. praise and beauty are before him: holiness and majesty in his sanctuary. bring ye to the lord, o ye kindreds of the gentiles, bring ye to the lord glory and honour: bring to the lord glory unto his name. bring up sacrifices, and come into his courts: adore ye the lord in his holy court. let all the earth be moved at his presence. say ye among the gentiles, the lord hath reigned. for he hath corrected the world, which shall not be moved: he will judge the people with justice. let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad, let the sea be moved, and the fullness thereof: the fields and all things that are in them shall be joyful. then shall all the trees of the woods rejoice before the face of the lord, because he cometh: because he cometh to judge the earth. he shall judge the world with justice, and the people with his truth.

for the same david, when his land was restored again to him. the lord hath reigned, let the earth rejoice: let many islands be glad. clouds and darkness are round about him: justice and judgment are the establishment of his throne. a fire shall go before him, and shall burn his enemies round about. his lightnings have shone forth to the world: the earth saw and trembled. the mountains melted like wax, at the presence of the lord: at the presence of the lord of all the earth. the heavens declared his justice: and all people saw his glory. let them be all confounded that adore graven things, and that glory in their idols. adore him, all you his angels: sion heard, and was glad. and the daughters of juda rejoiced, because of thy judgments, o lord. for thou art the most high lord over all the earth: thou art exalted exceedingly above all gods. you that love the lord, hate evil: the lord preserveth the souls of his saints, he will deliver them out of the hand of the sinner. light is risen to the just, and joy to the right of heart. rejoice, ye just, in the lord: and give praise to the remembrance of his holiness.

a psalm for david himself. sing ye to the lord anew canticle: because he hath done wonderful things. his right hand hath wrought for him salvation, and his arm is holy. the lord hath made known his salvation: he hath revealed his justice in the sight of the gentiles. he hath remembered his mercy his truth toward the house of israel. all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our god. sing joyfully to god, all the earth; make melody, rejoice and sing. sing praise to the lord on the harp, on the harp, and with the voice of a psalm: with long trumpets, and sound of comet. make a joyful noise before the lord our king: let the sea be moved and the fulness thereof: the world end they that dwell therein. the rivers shall clap their hands, the mountains shall rejoice together at the presence of the lord: because he cometh to judge the earth. he shall judge the world with justice, and the people with equity.

a psalm for david himself. the lord hath reigned, let the people be angry: he that sitteth on the cherubims: let the earth be moved. the lord is great in sion, and high above all people. let them give praise to thy great name: for it is terrible and holy: and the king's honour loveth judgment. thou hast prepared directions: thou hast done judgment and justice in jacob. exalt ye the lord our god, and adore his footstool, for it is holy. moyses and aaron among his priests: and samuel among them that call upon his name. they called upon the lord, and he heard them: he spoke to them in the pillar of the cloud. they kept his testimonies, and the commandment which he gave them. thou didst hear them, o lord our god: thou wast a merciful god to them, and taking vengeance on all their inventions. exalt ye the lord our god, and adore at his holy mountain: for the lord our god is holy.

a psalm of praise. sing joyfully to god, all the earth: serve ye the lord with gladness. come in before his presence with exceeding great joy. know ye that the lord he is god: he made us, and not we ourselves. we are his people and the sheep of his pasture. go ye into his gates with praise, into his courts with hymns: and give glory to him. praise ye his name: for the lord is sweet, his mercy endureth for ever, and his truth to generation and generation.

a psalm for david himself. mercy and judgment i will sing to thee, o lord: i will sing, and i will understand in the unspotted way, when thou shalt come to me. i walked in the innocence of my heart, in the midst of my house. i did not set before my eyes any unjust thing: i hated the workers of iniquities. the perverse heart did not cleave to me: and the malignant, that turned aside from me, i would not know. the man that in private detracted his neighbour, him did i persecute. with him that had a proud eye, and an unsatiable heart, i would not eat. my eyes were upon the faithful of the earth, to sit with me: the man that walked in the perfect way, he served me. he that worketh pride shall not dwell in the midst of my house: he that speaketh unjust things did not prosper before my eyes. in the morning i put to death all the wicked of the land: that i might cut off all the workers of iniquity from the city of the lord.

the prayer of the poor man, when he was anxious, and poured out his supplication before the lord. hear, o lord, my prayer: and let my cry come to thee. turn not away thy face from me: in the day when i am in trouble, incline thy ear to me. in what day soever i shall call upon thee, hear me speedily. for my days are vanished like smoke: and my bones are grown dry like fuel for the fire. i am smitten as grass, and my heart is withered: because i forgot to eat my bread. through the voice of my groaning, my bone hath cleaved to my flesh. i am become like to a pelican of the wilderness: i am like a night raven in the house. i have watched, and am become as a sparrow all alone on the housetop. all the day long my enemies reproached me: and they that praised me did swear against me. for i did eat ashes like bread, and mingled my drink with weeping. because of thy anger and indignation: for having lifted me up thou hast thrown me down. my days have declined like a shadow, and i am withered like grass. but thou, o lord, endurest for ever: and thy memorial to all generations. thou shalt arise and have mercy on sion: for it is time to have mercy on it, for the time is come. for the stones thereof have pleased thy servants: and they shall have pity on the earth thereof. and the gentiles shall fear thy name, o lord, and all the kings of the earth thy glory. for the lord hath built up sion: and he shall be seen in his glory. he hath had regard to the prayer of the humble: and he hath not despised their petition. let these things be written unto another generation: and the people that shall be created shall praise the lord: because he hath looked forth from his high sanctuary: from heaven the lord hath looked upon the earth. that he might hear the groans of them that are in fetters: that he might release the children of the slain: that they may declare the name of the lord in sion: and his praise in jerusalem; when the people assemble together, and kings, to serve the lord. he answered him in the way of his strength: declare unto me the fewness of my days. call me not away in the midst of my days: thy years are unto generation and generation. in the beginning, o lord, thou foundedst the earth: end the heavens are the works of thy hands. they shall perish but thou remainest: and all of them shall grow old like a garment: and as a vesture thou shalt change them, and they shall be changed. but thou art always the selfsame, and thy years shall not fail. the children of thy servants shall continue: and their seed shall be directed for ever.

for david himself. bless the lord, o my soul: and let all that is within me bless his holy name. bless the lord, o my soul, and never forget all he hath done for thee. who forgiveth all thy iniquities: who healeth all thy diseases. who redeemeth thy life from destruction: who crowneth thee with mercy and compassion. who satisfieth thy desire with good things: thy youth shall be renewed like the eagle's. the lord doth mercies, and judgment for all that suffer wrong. he hath made his ways known to moyses: his wills to the children of israel. the lord is compassionate and merciful: longsuffering and plenteous in mercy. he will not always be angry: nor will he threaten for ever. he hath not dealt with us according to our sins: nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. for according to the height of the heaven above the earth: he hath strengthened his mercy towards them that fear him. as far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our iniquities from us. as a father hath compassion on his children, so hath the lord compassion on them that fear him: for he knoweth our frame. he remembereth that we are dust: man's days are as grass, as the flower of the field so shall he flourish. for the spirit shall pass in him, and he shall not be: and he shall know his place no more. but the mercy of the lord is from eternity and unto eternity upon them that fear him: and his justice unto children's children, to such as keep his covenant, and are mindful of his commandments to do them. the lord hath prepared his throne in heaven: and his kingdom shall rule over all. bless the lord, all ye his angels: you that are mighty in strength, and execute his word, hearkening to the voice of his orders. bless the lord, all ye his hosts: you ministers of his that do his will. bless the lord, all his works: in every place of his dominion, o my soul, bless thou the lord.

for david himself. bless the lord, o my soul: o lord my god, thou art exceedingly great. thou hast put on praise and beauty: and art clothed with light as with a garment. who stretchest out the heaven like a pavilion: who coverest the higher rooms thereof with water. who maketh the clouds thy chariot: who walkest upon the wings of the winds. who maketh thy angels spirits: and thy ministers a burning fire. who hath founded the earth upon its own bases: it shall not be moved for ever and ever. the deep like a garment is its clothing: above the mountains shall the waters stand. at thy rebuke they shall flee: at the voice of thy thunder they shall fear. the mountains ascend, and the plains descend into the place which thou hast founded for them. thou hast set a bound which they shall not pass over; neither shall they return to cover the earth. thou sendest forth springs in the vales: between the midst of the hills the waters shall pass. all the beasts of the field shall drink: the wild asses shall expect in their thirst. over them the birds of the air shall dwell: from the midst of the rocks they shall give forth their voices. thou waterest the hills from thy upper rooms: the earth shall be filled with the fruit of thy works: bringing forth grass for cattle, and herb for the service of men. that thou mayst bring bread out of the earth: and that wine may cheer the heart of man. that he may make the face cheerful with oil: and that bread may strengthen man's heart. the trees of the field shall be filled, and the cedars of libanus which he hath planted: there the sparrows shall make their nests. the highest of them is the house of the heron. the high hills are a refuge for the harts, the rock for the irchins. he hath made the moon for seasons: the sun knoweth his going down. thou hast appointed darkness, and it is night: in it shall all the beasts of the woods go about: the young lions roaring after their prey, and seeking their meat from god. the sun ariseth, and they are gathered together: and they shall lie down in their dens. man shall go forth to his work, and to his labour until the evening. how great are thy works, o lord? thou hast made all things in wisdom: the earth is filled with thy riches. so is this great sea, which stretcheth wide its arms: there are creeping things without number: creatures little and great. there the ships shall go. this sea dragon which thou hast formed to play therein. all expect of thee that thou give them food in season. what thou givest to them they shall gather up: when thou openest thy hand, they shall all be filled with good. but if thou turnest away thy face, they shall be troubled: thou shalt take away their breath, and they shall fail, and shall return to their dust. thou shalt send forth thy spirit, and they shall be created: and thou shalt renew the face of the earth. may the glory of the lord endure for ever: the lord shall rejoice in his works. he looketh upon the earth, and maketh it tremble: he toucheth the mountains, and they smoke. i will sing to the lord as long as i live: i will sing praise to my god while i have my being. let my speech be acceptable to him: but i will take delight in the lord. let sinners be consumed out of the earth, and the unjust, so that they be no more: o my soul, bless thou the lord.

alleluia. give glory to the lord, and call upon his name: declare his deeds among the gentiles. sing to him, yea sing praises to him: relate all his wondrous works. glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the lord. seek ye the lord, and be strengthened: seek his face evermore. remember his marvelous works which he hath done; his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth. o ye seed of abraham his servant; ye sons of jacob his chosen. he is the lord our god: his judgments are in all the earth. he hath remembered his covenant for ever: the word which he commanded to a thousand generations. which he made to abraham; and his oath to isaac: and he appointed the same to jacob for a law, and to israel for an everlasting testament: saying: to thee will i give the land of chanaan, the lot of your inheritance. when they were but a small number: yea very few, and sojourners therein: and they passed from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people. he suffered no man to hurt them: and he reproveth kings for their sakes. touch ye not my anointed: and do no evil to my prophets. and he called a famine upon the land: and he broke in pieces all the support of bread. he sent a man before them: joseph, who was sold for a slave. they humbled his feet in fetters: the iron pierced his soul, until his word came. the word of the lord inflamed him. the king sent, and he released him: the ruler of the people, and he set him at liberty. he made him master of his house, and ruler of all his possession. that he might instruct his princes as himself, and teach his ancients wisdom. and israel went into egypt: and jacob was a sojourner in the land of cham. and he increased his people exceedingly: and strengthened them over their enemies, he turned their heart to hate his people: and to deal deceitfully with his servants. he sent moyses his servant: aaron the man whom he had chosen. he gave them power to shew his signs, and his wonders in the land of cham. he sent darkness, and made it obscure: and grieved not his words. he turned their waters into blood, and destroyed their fish. their land brought forth frogs, in the inner chambers of their kings. he spoke, and there came divers sorts of flies and sciniphs in all their coasts. he gave them hail for rain, a burning fire in the land. and he destroyed their vineyards and their fig trees: and he broke in pieces the trees of their coasts. he spoke, and the locust came, and the bruchus, of which there was no number. and they devoured all the grass in their land, and consumed all the fruit of their ground. and he slew all the first-born in their land: the firstfruits of all their labour. and he brought them out with silver and gold: and there was not among their tribes one that was feeble. egypt was glad when they departed: for the fear of them lay upon them. he spread a cloud for their protection, and fire to give them light in the night. they asked, and the quail came: and he filled them with the bread of heaven. he opened the rock, and waters flowed: rivers ran down in the dry land. because he remembered his holy word, which he had spoken to his servant abraham. and he brought forth his people with joy, and his chosen with gladness. and he gave them the lands of the gentiles: and they possessed the labours of the people: that they might observe his justifications, and seek after his law.

alleluia. give glory to the lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. who shall declare the powers of the lord? who shall set forth all his praises? blessed are they that keep judgment, and do justice at all times. remember us, o lord, in the favour of thy people: visit us with thy salvation. that we may see the good of thy chosen, that we may rejoice in the joy of thy nation: that thou mayst be praised with thy inheritance. we have sinned with our fathers: we have acted unjustly, we have wrought iniquity. our fathers understood not thy wonders in egypt: they remembered not the multitude of thy mercies: and they provoked to wrath going up to the sea, even the red sea. and he saved them for his own name's sake: that he might make his power known. and he rebuked the red sea, and it was dried up: and he led them through the depths, as in a wilderness. and he saved them from the hand of them that hated them: and he redeemed them from the hand of the enemy. and the water covered them that afflicted them: there was not one of them left. and they believed his words: and they sang his praises. they had quickly done, they forgot his works: and they waited not for his counsels. and they coveted their desire in the desert: and they tempted god in the place without water. and he gave them their request: and sent fulness into their souls. and they provoked moyses in the camp, aaron the holy one of the lord. the earth opened and swallowed up dathan: and covered the congregation of abiron. and a fire was kindled in their congregation: the flame burned the wicked. they made also a calf in horeb: and they adored the graven thing. and they changed their glory into the likeness of a calf that eateth grass. they forgot god, who saved them, who had done great things in egypt, wondrous works in the land of cham: terrible things in the red sea. and he said that he would destroy them: had not moyses his chosen stood before him in the breach: to turn away his wrath, lest he should destroy them. and they set at nought the desirable land. they believed not his word, and they murmured in their tents: they hardened not to the voice of the lord. and he lifted up his hand over them: to overthrow them in the desert; and to cast down their seed among the nations, and to scatter them in the countries. they also were initiated to beelphegor: and ate the sacrifices of the dead. and they provoked him with their inventions: and destruction was multiplied among them. then phinees stood up, and pacified him: and the slaughter ceased. and it was reputed to him unto justice, to generation and generation for evermore. they provoked him also at the waters of contradiction: and moyses was afflicted for their sakes: because they exasperated his spirit. and he distinguished with his lips. they did not destroy the nations of which the lord spoke unto them. and they were mingled among the heathens, and learned their works: and served their idols, and it became a stumblingblock to them. and they sacrificed their sons, and their daughters to devils. and they shed innocent blood: the blood of their sons and of their daughters which they sacrificed to the idols of chanaan. and the land was polluted with blood, and was defiled with their works: and they went aside after their own inventions. and the lord was exceedingly angry with his people: and he abhorred his inheritance. and he delivered them into the hands of the nations: and they that hated them had dominion over them. and their enemies afflicted them: and they were humbled under their hands: many times did he deliver them. but they provoked him with their counsel: and they were brought low by their iniquities. and he saw when they were in tribulation: and he heard their prayer. and he was mindful of his covenant: and repented according to the multitude of his mercies. and he gave them unto mercies, in the sight of all those that had made them captives. save us, o lord, our god: and gather us from among nations: that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and may glory in thy praise. blessed be the lord the god of israel, from everlasting to everlasting: and let all the people say: so be it, so be it.

give glory to the lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. let them say so that have been redeemed by the lord, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy: and gathered out of the countries. from the rising and the setting of the sun, from the north and from the sea. they wandered in a wilderness, in a place without water: they found not the way of a city for their habitation. they were hungry and thirsty: their soul fainted in them. and they cried to the lord in their tribulation: and he delivered them out of their distresses. and he led them into the right way: that they might go to a city of habitation. let the mercies of the lord give glory to him: and his wonderful works to the children of men. for he hath satisfied the empty soul, and hath filled the hungry soul with good things. such as sat in darkness and in the shadow of death: bound in want and in iron. because they had exasperated the words of god: and provoked the counsel of the most high: and their heart was humbled with labours: they were weakened, and their was none to help them. then they cried to the lord in their affliction: and he delivered them out of their distresses. and he brought them out of darkness, and the shadow of death; and broke their bonds in sunder. let the mercies of the lord give glory to him, and his wonderful works to the children of men. because he hath broken gates of brass, and burst the iron bars. he took them out of the way of their iniquity: for they were brought low for their injustices. their soul abhorred all manner of meat: and they drew nigh even to the gates of death. and they cried to the lord in their affliction: and he delivered them out of their distresses. he sent his word, and healed them: and delivered them from their destructions. let the mercies of the lord give glory to him: and his wonderful works to the children of men. and let them sacrifice the sacrifice of praise: and declare his works with joy. they that go down to the sea in ships, doing business in the great waters: these have seen the works of the lord, and his wonders in the deep. he said the word, and there arose a storm of wind: and the waves thereof were lifted up. they mount up to the heavens, and they go down to the depths: their soul pined away with evils. they were troubled, and reeled like a drunken man; and all their wisdom was swallowed up. and they cried to the lord in their affliction: and he brought them out of their distresses. and he turned the storm into a breeze: and its waves were still. and they rejoiced because they were still: and he brought them to the haven which they wished for. let the mercies of the lord give glory to him, and his wonderful works to the children of men. and let them exalt him in the church of the people: and praise him in the chair of the ancients. he hath turned rivers into a wilderness: and the sources of water into dry ground: a fruitful land into barrenness, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein. he hath turned a wilderness into pools of water, and a dry land into water springs. and hath placed there the hungry; and they made a city for their habitation. and they sowed fields, and planted vineyards: and they yielded fruit of birth. and he blessed them, and they were multiplied exceedingly: and their cattle he suffered not to decrease. then they were brought to be few: and they were afflicted through the trouble of evils and sorrow. contempt was poured forth upon their princes: and he caused them to wander where there was no passing, and out of the way. and he helped the poor out of poverty: and made him families like a flock of sheep. the just shall see, and shall rejoice, and all iniquity shall stop their mouth. who is wise, and will keep these things: and will understand the mercies of the lord?

a canticle of a psalm for david himself. my heart is ready, o god, my heart is ready: i will sing, and will give praise, with my glory. arise, my glory; arise, psaltery and harp: i will arise in the morning early. i will praise thee, o lord, among the people: and i will sing unto thee among the populations. for thy mercy is great above the heavens: and thy truth even unto the clouds. be thou exalted, o god, above the heavens, and thy glory over all the earth: that thy beloved may be delivered. save with thy right hand and hear me. god hath spoken in his holiness. i will rejoice, and i will divide sicheim and i will mete out the vale of tabernacles. galaad is mine, and manasses is mine and ephraim the protection of my head. juda is my king: moab the pot of my hope. over edom i will stretch out my shoe: the aliens are become my friends. who will bring me into the strong city? who will lead me into edom? wilt not thou, o god, who hast cast us off? and wilt not thou, o god, go forth with our armies? o grant us help from trouble: for vain is the help of man. through god we shall do mightily: and he will bring our enemies to nothing.

unto the end, a psalm for david. o god, be not thou silent in thy praise: for the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful man is opened against me. they have spoken against with deceitful tongues; and they have compassed me about with words of hatred; and have fought against me without cause. instead of making me a return of love, they detracted me: but i gave myself to prayer. and they repaid me evil for good: and hatred for my love. set thou the sinner over him: and may the devil stand at his right hand. when he is judged, may he go out condemned; and may his prayer be turned to sin. may his days be few: and his bishopric let another take. may his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow. let his children be carried about vagabonds, and beg; and let them be cast out of their dwellings. may the userer search all his substance: and let strangers plunder his labours. may there be none to help him: nor none to pity his fatherless offspring. may his posterity be cut off; in one generation may his name be blotted out. may the iniquity of his fathers be remembered in the sight of the lord: and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out. may they be before the lord continually, and let the memory of them perish from the earth: because he remembered not to show mercy, but persecuted the poor man and the beggar; and the broken in heart, to put him to death. and he loved cursing, and it shall come unto him: and he would not have blessing, and it shall be far from him. and he put on cursing, like a garment: and it went in like water into his entrails, and like oil in his bones. may it be unto him like a garment which covereth him; and like a girdle with which he is girded continually. this is the work of them who detract me before the lord; and who speak evils against my soul. but thou, o lord, do with for thy names sake: because thy mercy is sweet. do thou deliver me. for i am poor and needy, and my heart is troubled within me. i am taken away like the shadow when it declineth: and i am shaken off as locusts. my knees are weakened through fasting: and my flesh is changed for oil. and i am become a reproach to them: they saw me and they shook their heads, help me, o lord my god; save me according to thy mercy. and let them know that this is thy hand: and that thou, o lord, hast done it. they will curse and thou wilt bless: let them that rise up against me be confounded: but thy servant shall rejoice. let them that detract me be clothed with shame: and let them be covered with the their confusion as with a double cloak. i will give great thanks to the lord with my mouth: and in the midst of many i will praise him. because he hath stood at the right hand of the poor, to save my soul from persecutors

the lord said to my lord: sit thou at my right hand: until i make thy enemies thy footstool. the lord will send forth the sceptre of thy power out of sion: rule thou in the midst of thy enemies. with thee is the principality in the day of thy strength: in the brightness of the saints: from the womb before the day star i begot thee. the lord hath sworn, and he will not repent: thou art a priest for ever according to the order of melchisedech. the lord at thy right hand hath broken kings in the day of his wrath. he shall judge among nations, he shall fill ruins: he shall crush the heads in the land of the many. he shall drink of the torrent in the way: therefore shall he lift up the head.

i will praise thee, o lord, with my whole heart; in the council of the just: and in the congregation. great are the works of the lord: sought out according to all his wills his work is praise and magnificence: and his justice continueth for ever and ever. he hath made a remembrance of his wonderful works, being a merciful and gracious lord: he hath given food to them that fear him. he will be mindful for ever of his covenant: he will shew forth to his people the power of his works. that he may give them the inheritance of the gentiles: the works of his hands are truth and judgment. all his commandments are faithful: confirmed for ever and ever, made in truth and equity. he hath sent redemption to his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever. holy and terrible is his name: the fear of the lord is the beginning of wisdom. a good understanding to all that do it: his praise continueth for ever and ever.

blessed is the man that feareth the lord: he shall delight exceedingly in his commandments. his seed shall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the righteous shall be blessed. glory and wealth shall be in his house: and his justice remaineth for ever and ever. to the righteous a light is risen up in darkness: he is merciful, and compassionate and just. acceptable is the man that sheweth mercy and lendeth: he shall order his words with judgment: because he shall not be moved for ever. the just shall be in everlasting remembrance: he shall not hear the evil hearing. his heart is ready to hope in the lord: his heart is strengthened, he shall not be moved until he look over his enemies. he hath distributed, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever and ever: his horn shall be exalted in glory. the wicked shall see, and shall be angry, he shall gnash with his teeth and pine away: the desire of the wicked shall perish.

praise the lord, ye children: praise ye the name of the lord. blessed be the name of the lord, from henceforth now and for ever. from the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, the name of the lord is worthy of praise. the lord is high above all nations; and his glory above the heavens. who is as the lord our god, who dwelleth on high: and looketh down on the low things in heaven and in earth? raising up the needy from the earth, and lifting up the poor out of the dunghill: that he may place him with princes, with the princes of his people. who maketh a barren woman to dwell in a house, the joyful mother of children.

when israel went out of egypt, the house of jacob from a barbarous people: judaea made his sanctuary, israel his dominion. the sea saw and fled: jordan was turned back. the mountains skipped like rams, and the hills like the lambs of the flock. what ailed thee, o thou sea, that thou didst flee: and thou, o jordan, that thou wast turned back? ye mountains, that ye skipped like rams, and ye hills, like lambs of the flock? at the presence of the lord the earth was moved, at the presence of the god of jacob: who turned the rock into pools of water, and the stony hill into fountains of waters.

not to us, o lord, not to us; but to thy name give glory. for thy mercy, and for thy truth's sake: lest the gentiles should say: where is their god? but our god is in heaven: he hath done all things whatsoever he would. the idols of the gentiles are silver and gold, the works of the hands of men. they have mouths and speak not: they have eyes and see not. they have ears and hear not: they have noses and smell not. they have hands and feel not: they have feet and walk not: neither shall they cry out through their throat. let them that make them become like unto them: and all such as trust in them. the house of israel hath hoped in the lord: he is their helper and their protector. the house of aaron hath hoped in the lord: he is their helper and their protector. they that fear the lord hath hoped in the lord: he is their helper and their protector. the lord hath been mindful of us, and hath blessed us. he hath blessed the house of israel: he hath blessed the house of aaron. he hath blessed all that fear the lord, both little and great. may the lord add blessings upon you: upon you, and upon your children. blessed be you of the lord, who made heaven and earth. the heaven of heaven is the lord's: but the earth he has given to the children of men. the dead shall not praise thee, o lord: nor any of them that go down to hell. but we that live bless the lord: from this time now and for ever.

i have loved, because the lord will hear the voice of my prayer. because he hath inclined his ear unto me: and in my days i will call upon him. the sorrows of death have encompassed me: and the perils of hell have found me. i met with trouble and sorrow: and i called upon the name of the lord. o lord, deliver my soul. the lord is merciful and just, and our god sheweth mercy. the lord is the keeper of little ones: i was little and he delivered me. turn, o my soul, into thy rest: for the lord hath been bountiful to thee. for he hath delivered my soul from death: my eyes from tears, my feet from falling. i will please the lord in the land of the living. i have believed, therefore have i spoken; but i have been humbled exceedingly. i said in my excess: every man is a liar. what shall i render to the lord, for all the things he hath rendered unto me? i will take the chalice of salvation; and i will call upon the name of the lord. i will pay my vows to the lord before all his people: precious in the sight of the lord is the death of his saints. o lord, for i am thy servant: i am thy servant, and the son of thy handmaid. thou hast broken my bonds: i will sacrifice to thee the sacrifice of praise, and i will call upon the name of the lord. i will pay my vows to the lord in the sight of all his people: in the courts of the house of the lord, in the midst of thee, o jerusalem.

o praise the lord, all ye nations: praise him, all ye people. for his mercy is confirmed upon us: and the truth of the lord remaineth for ever.

give praise to lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. let israel now say that he is good: that his mercy endureth for ever. let the house of aaron now say, that his mercy endureth for ever. let them that fear the lord now say, that his mercy endureth for ever. in my trouble i called upon the lord: and the lord heard me, and enlarged me. the lord is my helper, i will not fear what man can do unto me. the lord is my helper: and i will look over my enemies. it is good to confide in the lord, rather than to have confidence in man. it is good to trust in the lord, rather than to trust in princes. all nations compassed me about; and in the name of the lord i have been revenged on them. surrounding me they compassed me about: and in the name of the lord i have been revenged on them. they surrounded me like bees, and they burned like fire among thorns: and in the name of the lord i was revenged on them being pushed i was overturned that i might fall: but the lord supported me. the lord is my strength and my praise: and he is become my salvation. the voice of rejoicing and of salvation is in the tabernacles of the just. the right hand of the lord hath wrought strength: the right hand of the lord hath exulted me: the right hand of the lord hath wrought strength. i shall not die, but live: and shall declare the works of the lord. the lord chastising hath chastised me: but he hath not delivered me over to death. open ye to me the gates of justice: i will go into them, and give praise to the lord. this is the gate of the lord, the just shall enter into it. i will give glory to thee because thou hast heard me: and art become my salvation. the stone which the builders rejected; the same is become the head of the corner. this is the lord's doing: and it is wonderful in our eyes. this is the day which the lord hath made: let us be glad and rejoice therein. o lord, save me: o lord, give good success. blessed be he that cometh in the name lord. we have blessed you out of the house of the lord. the lord is god, and he hath shone upon us. appoint a solemn day, with shady boughs, even to the horn of the altar. thou art my god, and i will praise thee: thou art my god, and i will exalt thee. i will praise thee, because thou hast heard me, and art become my salvation. o praise ye the lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the lord. blessed are they who search his testimonies: that seek him with their whole heart. for they that work iniquity, have not walked in his ways. thou hast commanded thy commandments to be kept most diligently. o! that my ways may be directed to keep thy justifications. then shall i not be confounded, when i shall look into all thy commandments. i will praise thee with uprightness of heart, when i shall have learned the judgments of thy justice. i will keep thy justifications: o! do not thou utterly forsake me. by what doth a young man correct his way? by observing thy words. with my whole heart have i sought after thee: let me not stray from thy commandments. thy words have i hidden in my heart, that i may not sin against thee. blessed art thou, o lord: teach me thy justifications. with my lips i have pronounced all the judgments of thy mouth. i have been delighted in the way of thy testimonies, as in all riches. i will meditate on thy commandments: and i will consider thy ways. i will think of thy justifications: i will not forget thy words. give bountifully to thy servant, enliven me: and i shall keep thy words. open thou my eyes: and i will consider the wondrous things of thy law. i am a sojourner on the earth: hide not thy commandments from me. my soul hath coveted to long for thy justifications, at all times. thou hast rebuked the proud: they are cursed who decline from thy commandments. remove from reproach and contempt: because i have sought after thy testimonies. for princes sat, and spoke against me: but thy servant was employed in thy justifications. for thy testimonies are my meditation: and thy justifications my counsel. my soul hath cleaved to the pavement: quicken thou me according to thy word. i have declared my ways, and thou hast heard me: teach me thy justifications. make me to understand the way of thy justifications: and i shall be exercised in thy wondrous works. my soul hath slumbered through heaviness: strengthen thou me in thy words. remove from me the way of iniquity: and out of thy law have mercy on me. i have chosen the way of truth: thy judgments i have not forgotten. i have stuck to thy testimonies, o lord: put me not to shame. i have run the way of thy commandments, when thou didst enlarge my heart. set before me for a law the way of thy justifications, o lord: and i will always seek after it. give me understanding, and i will search thy law; and i will keep it with my whole heart. lead me into the path of thy commandments; for this same i have desired. incline my heart into thy testimonies and not to covetousness. turn away my eyes that they may not behold vanity: quicken me in thy way. establish thy word to thy servant, in thy fear. turn away my reproach, which i have apprehended: for thy judgments are delightful. behold i have longed after thy precepts: quicken me in thy justice. let thy mercy also come upon me, o lord: thy salvation according to thy word. so shall i answer them that reproach me in any thing; that i have trusted in thy words. and take not thou the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for in thy words have i hoped exceedingly. so shall i always keep thy law, for ever and ever. and i walked at large: because i have sought after thy commandments. and i spoke of thy testimonies before kings: and i was not ashamed. i meditated also on thy commandments, which i loved. and i lifted up my hands to thy commandments, which i loved: and i was exercised in thy justifications. be thou mindful of thy word to thy servant, in which thou hast given me hope. this hath comforted me in my humiliation: because thy word hath enlivened me. the proud did iniquitously altogether: but i declined not from thy law. i remembered, o lord, thy judgments of old: and i was comforted. a fainting hath taken hold of me, because of the wicked that forsake thy law. thy justifications were the subject of my song, in the place of my pilgrimage. in the night i have remembered thy name, o lord: and have kept thy law. this happened to me: because i sought after thy justifications. o lord, my portion, i have said, i would keep the law. i entreated thy face with all my heart: have mercy on me according to thy word. i have thought on my ways: and turned my feet unto thy testimonies. i am ready, and am not troubled: that i may keep thy commandments. the cords of the wicked have encompassed me: but i have not forgotten thy law. i rose at midnight to give praise to thee; for the judgments of thy justification. i am a partaker with all them that fear thee, and that keep thy commandments. the earth, o lord, is full of thy mercy: teach me thy justifications. thou hast done well with thy servant, o lord, according to thy word. teach me goodness and discipline and knowledge; for i have believed thy commandments. before i was humbled i offended; therefore have i kept thy word. thou art good; and in thy goodness teach me thy justifications. the iniquity of the proud hath been multiplied over me: but i will seek thy commandments with my whole heart. their heart is curdled like milk: but i have meditated on thy law. it is good for me that thou hast humbled me, that i may learn thy justifications. the law of thy mouth is good to me, above thousands of gold and silver. thy hands have made me and formed me: give me understanding, and i will learn thy commandments. they that fear thee shall see me, and shall be glad: because i have greatly hoped in thy words. i know, o lord, that thy judgments are equity: and in thy truth thou hast humbled me. o! let thy mercy be for my comfort, according to thy word unto thy servant. let thy tender mercies come unto me, and i shall live: for thy law is my meditation. let the proud be ashamed, because they have done unjustly towards me: but i will be employed in thy commandments. let them that fear thee turn to me" and they that know thy testimonies. let my heart be undefiled in thy justifications, that i may not be confounded. my soul hath fainted after thy salvation: and in thy word i have very much hoped. my eyes have failed for thy word, saying: when wilt thou comfort me? for i am become like a bottle in the frost: i have not forgotten thy justifications. how many are the days of thy servant: when wilt thou execute judgment on them that persecute me? the wicked have told me fables: but not as thy law. all thy statutes are truth: they have persecuted me unjustly, do thou help me. they had almost made an end of me upon earth: but i have not forsaken thy commandments. quicken thou me according to thy mercy: and i shall keep the testimonies of thy mouth. for ever, o lord, thy word standeth firm in heaven. thy truth unto all generations: thou hast founded the earth, and it continueth. by thy ordinance the day goeth on: for all things serve thee. unless thy law had been my meditation, i had then perhaps perished in my abjection. thy justifications i will never forget: for by them thou hast given me life. i am thine, save thou me: for i have sought thy justifications. the wicked have waited for me to destroy me: but i have understood thy testimonies. i have seen an end to all persecution: thy commandment is exceeding broad. o how have i loved thy law, o lord! it is my meditation all the day. through thy commandment, thou hast made me wiser than my enemies: for it is ever with me. i have understood more than all my teachers: because thy testimonies are my meditation. i have had understanding above ancients: because i have sought thy commandments. i have restrained my feet from every evil way: that i may keep thy words. i have not declined from thy judgments, because thou hast set me a law. how sweet are thy words to my palate! more than honey to my mouth. by thy commandments i have had understanding: therefore have i hated every way of iniquity. thy word is a lamp to my feet, and a light to my paths. i have sworn and am determined to keep the judgments of thy justice. i have been humbled, o lord, exceedingly: quicken thou me according to thy word. the free offerings of my mouth make acceptable, o lord: and teach me thy judgments. my soul is continually in my hands: and i have not forgotten thy law. sinners have laid a snare for me: but i have not erred from thy precepts. i have purchased thy testimonies for an inheritance for ever: because they are a joy to my heart. i have inclined my heart to do thy justifications for ever, for the reward. i have hated the unjust: and have loved thy law. thou art my helper and my protector: and in thy word i have greatly hoped. depart from me, ye malignant: and i will search the commandments of my god. uphold me according to thy word, and i shall live: and let me not be confounded in my expectation. help me, and i shall be saved: and i will meditate always on thy justifications. thou hast despised all them that fall off from thy judgments; for their thought is unjust. i have accounted all the sinners of the earth prevaricators: therefore have i loved thy testimonies. pierce thou my flesh with thy fear: for i am afraid of thy judgments. i have done judgment and justice: give me not up to them that slander me. uphold thy servant unto good: let not the proud calumniate me. my eyes have fainted after thy salvation: and for the word of thy justice. deal with thy servant according to thy mercy: and teach me thy justifications. i am thy servant: give me understanding that i may know thy testimonies. it is time, o lord, to do: they have dissipated thy law. therefore have i loved thy commandments above gold and the topaz. therefore was i directed to all thy commandments: i have hated all wicked ways. thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore my soul hath sought them. the declaration of thy words giveth light: and giveth understanding to little ones. i opened my mouth and panted: because i longed for thy commandments. look thou upon me, and have mercy on me, according to the judgment of them that love thy name. direct my steps according to thy word: and let no iniquity have dominion over me. redeem me from the calumnies of men: that i may keep thy commandments. make thy face to shine upon thy servant: and teach me thy justifications. my eyes have sent forth springs of water: because they have not kept thy law. thou art just, o lord: and thy judgment is right. thou hast commanded justice thy testimonies: and thy truth exceedingly. my zeal hath made me pine away: because my enemies forgot thy words. thy word is exceedingly refined: and thy servant hath loved it. i am very young and despised; but i forgot not thy justifications. thy justice is justice for ever: and thy law is the truth. trouble and anguish have found me: thy commandments are my meditation. thy testimonies are justice for ever: give me understanding, and i shall live. i cried with my whole heart, hear me, o lord: i will seek thy justifications. i cried unto thee, save me: that i may keep thy commandments. i prevented the dawning of the day, and cried: because in thy words i very much hoped. my eyes to thee have prevented the morning: that i might meditate on thy words. hear thou my voice, o lord, according to thy mercy: and quicken me according to thy mercy. they that persecute me have drawn nigh to iniquity; but they are gone far off from the law. thou art near, o lord: and all thy ways are truth. i have known from the beginning concerning thy testimonies: that thou hast founded them for ever. see my humiliation and deliver me: for i have not forgotten the law. judge my judgment and redeem me: quicken thou me for thy word's sake. salvation is far from sinners; because they have not sought thy justifications. many, o lord, are thy mercies: quicken me according to thy judgment. many are they that persecute me, and afflict me; but i have not declined from thy testimonies. i beheld the transgressors, and i pined away; because they kept not thy word. behold i have loved thy commandments, o lord; quicken me thou in thy mercy. the beginning of thy words is truth: all the judgments of thy justice are for ever. princes have persecuted me without cause: and my heart hath been in awe of thy words. i will rejoice at thy words, as one that hath found great spoil. i have hated and abhorred iniquity; but i have loved thy law. seven times a day i have given praise to thee, for the judgments of thy justice. much peace have they that love thy law, and to them there is no stumbling block i looked to thy salvation, o lord: and i loved thy commandments. my soul hath kept thy testimonies: and hath loved them exceedingly. i have kept thy commandments and thy testimonies: because all my ways are in thy sight. let my supplication, o lord, come near in thy sight: give me understanding according to thy word. let my request come in before thee; deliver thou me according to thy word. my lips shall utter a hymn, when thou shalt teach me thy justifications. my tongue shall pronounce thy word: because all thy commandments are justice. let thy hand be with me to save me; for i have chosen thy precepts. i have longed for thy salvation, o lord; and thy law is my meditation. my soul shall live and shall praise thee: and thy judgments shall help me. i have gone astray like a sheep that is lost: seek thy servant, because i have not forgotten thy commandments.

in my trouble i cried to the lord: and he heard me. o lord, deliver my soul from wicked lips, and a deceitful tongue. what shall be given to thee, or what shall be added to thee, to a deceitful tongue. the sharp arrows of the mighty, with coals that lay waste. woe is me, that my sojourning is prolonged! i have dwelt with the inhabitants of cedar: my soul hath been long a sojourner. with them that hate peace i was peaceable: when i spoke to them they fought against me without cause.

i have lifted up my eyes to the mountains, from whence help shall come to me. my help is from the lord, who made heaven and earth. may he not suffer thy foot to be moved: neither let him slumber that keepeth thee. behold he shall neither slumber nor sleep, that keepeth israel. the lord is thy keeper, the lord is thy protection upon thy right hand. the sun shall not burn thee by day: nor the moon by night. the lord keepeth thee from all evil: may the lord keep thy soul. may the lord keep thy going in and thy going out; from henceforth now and for ever.

122

i rejoiced at the things that were said to me: we shall go into the house of the lord. our feet were standing in thy courts, o jerusalem. jerusalem, which is built as a city, which is compact together. for thither did the tribes go up, the tribes of the lord: the testimony of israel, to praise the name of the lord. because their seats have sat in judgment, seats upon the house of david. pray ye for the things that are for the peace of jerusalem: and abundance for them that love thee. let peace be in thy strength: and abundance in thy towers. for the sake of my brethren, and of my neighbours, i spoke peace of thee. because of the house of the lord our god, i have sought good things for thee.

to thee have i lifted up my eyes, who dwellest in heaven. behold as the eyes of the servants are on the hands of their masters, as the eyes of the handmaid are on the hands of her mistress: so are our eyes unto the lord our god, until he have mercy on us. have mercy on us, o lord, have mercy on us: for we are greatly filled with contempt. for our soul is greatly filled: we are a reproach to the rich, and contempt to the proud.

if it had not been that the lord was with us, let israel now say: if it had not been that the lord was with us, when men rose up against us perhaps they had swallowed us up alive. when their fury was enkindled against us, perhaps the waters had swallowed us up. our soul hath passed through a torrent: perhaps our soul had passed through a water insupportable. blessed be the lord, who hath not given us to be a prey to their teeth. our soul hath been delivered as a sparrow out of the snare of the followers. the snare is broken, and we are delivered. our help is in the name of the lord, who made heaven and earth.

they that trust in the lord shall be as mount sion: he shall not be moved for ever that dwelleth in jerusalem. mountains are round about it: so the lord is round about his people from henceforth now and for ever. for the lord will not leave the rod of sinners upon the lot of the just: that the just may not stretch forth their hands to iniquity. do good, o lord, to those that are good, and to the upright of heart. but such as turn aside into bonds, the lord shall lead out with the workers of iniquity: peace upon israel.

when the lord brought back the captivity of sion, we became like men comforted. then was our mouth filled with gladness; and our tongue with joy. then shall they say among the gentiles: the lord hath done great things for them. the lord hath done great things for us: we are become joyful. turn again our captivity, o lord, as a stream in the south. they that sow in tears shall reap in joy. going they went and wept, casting their seeds. but coming they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

unless the lord build the house, thy labour in vain that build it. unless the lord keep the city, he watcheth in vain that keepeth it. it is vain for you to rise before light, rise ye after you have sitten, you that eat the bread of sorrow. when he shall give sleep to his beloved, behold the inheritance of the lord are children: the reward, the fruit of the womb. as arrows in the hand of the mighty, so the children of them that have been shaken. blessed is the man that hath filled the desire with them; he shall not be confounded when he shall speak to his enemies in the gate.

blessed are all they that fear the lord: that walk in his ways. for thou shalt eat the labours of thy hands: blessed art thou, and it shall be well with thee. thy wife as a fruitful vine, on the sides of thy house. behold, thus shall the man be blessed that feareth the lord. may the lord bless thee out of sion: and mayest thou see the good things of jerusalem all the days of thy life. and mayest thou see thy children's children, peace upon israel.

often have they fought against me from my youth, let israel now say. often have they fought against me from my youth: but they could not prevail over me. the wicked have wrought upon my back: they have lengthened their iniquity. the lord who is just will cut the necks of sinners: let them all be confounded and turned back that hate sion. let them be as grass on the tops of houses: which withered before it be plucked up: wherewith the mower filleth not his hand: nor he that gathereth sheaves his bosom. and they that have passed by have not said: the blessing of the lord be upon you: we have blessed you in the name of the lord.

out of the depths i have cried to thee, o lord: lord, hear my voice. let thy ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication. if thou, o lord, wilt mark iniquities: lord, who shall stand it. for with thee there is merciful forgiveness: and by reason of thy law, i have waited for thee, o lord. my soul hath relied on his word: my soul hath hoped in the lord. from the morning watch even until night, let israel hope in the lord. because with the lord there is mercy: and with him plentiful redemption. and he shall redeem israel from all his iniquities.

lord, my heart is not exalted: nor are my eyes lofty. neither have i walked in great matters, nor in wonderful things above me. if i was not humbly minded, but exalted my soul: as a child that is weaned is towards his mother, so reward in my soul. let israel hope in the lord, from henceforth now and for ever.

o lord, remember david, and all his meekness. how he swore to the lord, he vowed a vow to the god of jacob: if i shall enter into the tabernacle of my house: if i shall go up into the bed wherein i lie: if i shall give sleep to my eyes, or slumber to my eyelids, or rest to my temples: until i find out a place for the lord, a tabernacle for the god of jacob. behold we have heard of it in ephrata: we have found it in the fields of the wood. we will go into his tabernacle: we will adore in the place where his feet stood. arise, o lord, into thy resting place: thou and the ark, which thou hast sanctified. let thy priests be clothed with justice: and let thy saints rejoice. for thy servant david's sake, turn not away the face of thy anointed. the lord hath sworn truth to david, and he will not make it void: of the fruit of thy womb i will set upon thy throne. if thy children will keep thy covenant, and these my testimonies which i shall teach them: their children also for evermore shall sit upon thy throne. for the lord hath chosen sion: he hath chosen it for his dwelling. this is my rest for ever and ever: here will i dwell, for i have chosen it. blessing, i will bless her widow: i will satisfy her poor with bread. i will clothe her priests with salvation: and her saints shall rejoice with exceeding great joy. there will i bring forth a horn to david: i have prepared a lamp for my anointed. his enemies i will clothe with confusion: but upon him will my sanctification flourish.

behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell in unity. like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of aaron, which ran down to the skirt of his garment: as the dew of hermon, which descendeth upon mount sion. for there the lord hath commandeth blessing, and life for evermore.

134

behold now bless ye the lord, all ye servants of the lord: who stand in the house of the lord, in the courts of the house of our god. in the nights lift up your hands to the holy places, and bless ye the lord. may the lord out of sion bless thee, he that made heaven and earth.

praise ye the name of the lord: o you his servants, praise the lord: you that stand in the house of the lord, in the courts of the house of our god. praise ye the lord, for the lord is good: sing ye to his name, for it is sweet. for the lord hath chosen jacob unto himself: israel for his own possession. for i have known that the lord is great, and our god is above all gods. whatsoever the lord hath pleased he hath done, in heaven, in earth, in the sea, and in all the deeps. he bringeth up clouds from the end of the earth: he hath made lightnings for the rain. he bringeth forth winds out of his stores: he slew the firstborn of egypt from man even unto beast. he sent forth signs and wonders in the midst of thee, o egypt: upon pharao, and upon all his servants. he smote many nations, and slew mighty kings: sehon king of the amorrites, and og king of basan, and all the kingdoms of chanaan. and gave their land for an inheritance, for an inheritance to his people israel. thy name, o lord, is for ever: thy memorial, o lord, unto all generations. for the lord will judge his people, and will be entreated in favour of his servants. the idols of the gentiles are silver and gold, the works of men's hands. they have a mouth, but they speak not: they have eyes, but they see not. they have ears, but they hear not: neither is there any breath in their mouths. let them that make them be like to them: and every one that trusteth in them. bless the lord, o house of israel: bless the lord, o house of aaron. bless the lord, o house of levi: you that fear the lord, bless the lord. blessed be the lord out of sion, who dwelleth in jerusalem.

praise the lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. praise ye the god of gods: for his mercy endureth for ever. praise ye the lord of lords: for his mercy endureth for ever. who alone doth great wonders: for his mercy endureth for ever. who made the heavens in understanding: for his mercy endureth for ever. who established the earth above the waters: for his mercy endureth for ever. who made the great lights: for his mercy endureth for ever. the sun to rule over the day: for his mercy endureth for ever. the moon and the stars to rule the night: for his mercy endureth for ever. who smote egypt with their first-born: for his mercy endureth for ever. who brought israel from among them: for his mercy endureth for ever. with a mighty hand and a stretched out arm: for his mercy endureth for ever. who divided the red sea into parts: for his mercy endureth for ever. and brought out israel through the midst thereof: for his mercy endureth for ever. and overthrew pharao and his host in the red sea: for his mercy endureth for ever. who led his people through the desert: for his mercy endureth for ever. who smote great kings: for his mercy endureth for ever. and slew strong kings: for his mercy endureth for ever. sehon king of the amorrites: for his mercy endureth for ever. and og king of basan: for his mercy endureth for ever. and he gave their land for an inheritance: for his mercy endureth for ever. for an inheritance to his servant israel: for his mercy endureth for ever. for he was mindful of us in our affliction: for his mercy endureth for ever. and he redeemed us from our enemies: for his mercy endureth for ever. who giveth food to all flesh: for his mercy endureth for ever. give glory to the god of heaven: for his mercy endureth for ever. give glory to the lord of lords: for his mercy endureth for ever. upon the rivers of babylon, there we sat and wept: when we remembered sion: on the willows in the midst thereof we hung up our instruments. for there they that led us into captivity required of us the words of songs. and they that carried us away, said: sing ye to us a hymn of the songs of sion. how shall we sing the song of the lord in a strange land? if i forget thee, o jerusalem, let my right hand be forgotten. let my tongue cleave to my jaws, if i do not remember thee: if i make not jerusalem the beginning of my joy. remember, o lord, the children of edom, in the day of jerusalem: who say: rase it, rase it, even to the foundation thereof. o daughter of babylon, miserable: blessed shall he be who shall repay thee thy payment which thou hast paid us. blessed be he that shall take and dash thy little ones against the rock.

praise to thee in the sight of his angels: i will worship towards thy holy temple, and i will give glory to thy name. for thy mercy, and for thy truth: for thou hast magnified thy holy name above all. in what day soever i shall call upon thee, hear me: thou shall multiply strength in my soul. may all the kings of the earth give glory to thee: for they have heard all the words of thy mouth. and let them sing in the ways of the lord: for great is the glory of the lord. for the lord is high, and looketh on the low: and the high he knoweth afar off. if i shall walk in the midst of tribulation, thou wilt quicken me: and thou hast stretched forth thy hand against the wrath of my enemies: and thy right hand hath saved me. the lord will repay for me: thy mercy, o lord, endureth for ever: o despise not the work of thy hands.

lord, thou hast proved me, and known me: thou hast know my sitting down, and my rising up. thou hast understood my thoughts afar off: my path and my line thou hast searched out. and thou hast foreseen all my ways: for there is no speech in my tongue. behold, o lord, thou hast known all things, the last and those of old: thou hast formed me, and hast laid thy hand upon me. thy knowledge is become wonderful to me: it is high, and i cannot reach to it. whither shall i go from thy spirit? or whither shall i flee from thy face? if i ascend into heaven, thou art there: if i descend into hell, thou art present. if i take my wings early in the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea: even there also shall thy hand lead me: and thy right hand shall hold me. and i said: perhaps darkness shall cover me: and night shall be my light in my pleasures. but darkness shall not be dark to thee, and night shall be light as day: the darkness thereof, and the light thereof are alike to thee. for thou hast possessed my reins: thou hast protected me from my mother's womb. i will praise thee, for thou art fearfully magnified: wonderful are thy works, and my soul knoweth right well. my bone is not hidden from thee, which thou hast made in secret: and my substance in the lower parts of the earth. thy eyes did see my imperfect being, and in thy book all shall be written: days shall be formed, and no one in them. but to me thy friends, o god, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. i will number them, and they shall be multiplied above the sand: i rose up and am still with thee. if thou wilt kill the wicked, o god: ye men of blood, depart from me: because you say in thought: they shall receive thy cities in vain. have i not hated them, o lord, that hated thee: and pine away because of thy enemies? i have hated them with a perfect hatred: and they are become enemies to me. prove me, o god, and know my heart: examine me, and know my paths. and see if there be in me the way of iniquity: and lead me in the eternal way.

unto the end, a psalm for david. deliver me, o lord, from the evil man: rescue me from the unjust man. who have devised iniquities in their hearts: all the day long they designed battles. they have sharpened their tongues like a serpent: the venom of saps is under their lips. keep me, o lord, from the hand of the wicked: and from unjust men deliver me. who have proposed to supplant my steps. the proud have hidden a net for me. and they have stretched out cords for a snare: they have laid for me a stumblingblock by the wayside. i said to the lord: thou art my god: hear, o lord, the voice of my supplication. o lord, lord, the strength of my salvation: thou hast overshadowed my head in the day of battle. give me not up, o lord, from my desire to the wicked: they have plotted against me; do not thou forsake me, lest they should triumph. the head of them compassing me about: the labour of their lips shall overwhelm them. burning coals shall fall upon them; thou wilt cast them down into the fire: in miseries they shall not be able to stand. a man full of tongue shall not be established in the earth: evil shall catch the unjust man unto destruction. i know that the lord will do justice to the needy, and will revenge the poor. but as for the just, they shall give glory to thy name: and the upright shall dwell with thy countenance.

i have cried to thee, o lord, hear me: hearken to my voice, when i cry to thee. let my prayer be directed as incense in thy sight; the lifting up of my hands, as evening sacrifice. set a watch, o lord, before my mouth: and a door round about my lips. incline not my heart to evil words; to make excuses in sins. with men that work iniquity: and i will not communicate with the choicest of them. the just shall correct me in mercy, and shall reprove me: but let not the oil of the sinner fatten my head. for my prayer also shall still be against the things with which they are well pleased: their judges falling upon the rock have been swallowed up. they shall hear my words, for they have prevailed: as when the thickness of the earth is broken up upon the ground: our bones are scattered by the side of hell. but o to thee, o lord, lord, are my eyes: in thee have i put my trust, take not away my soul. keep me from the snare, which they have laid for me, and from the stumblingblocks of them that work iniquity: the wicked shall fall in his net: i am alone until i pass.

of understanding for david. a prayer when he was in the cave. [kings 24]. i cried to the lord with my voice: with my voice i made supplication to the lord. in his sight i pour out my prayer, and before him i declare my trouble: when my spirit failed me, then thou newest my paths. i looked on my right hand, and beheld, and there was no one that would know me. flight hath failed me: and there is no one that hath regard to my soul. i cried to thee, o lord: i said: thou art my hope, my portion in the land of the living. attend to my supplication: for i am brought very low. deliver me from my persecutors; for they are stronger than i. bring my soul out of prison, that i may praise thy name: the just wait for me, until thou reward me.

hear, o lord, my prayer: give ear to my supplication in thy truth: hear me in thy justice. and enter not into judgment with thy servant: for in thy sight no man living shall be justified. for the enemy hath persecuted my soul: he hath brought down my life to the earth. he hath made me to dwell in darkness as those that have been dead of old: and my spirit is in anguish within me: my heart within me is troubled. i remembered the days of old, i meditated on all thy works: i meditated upon the works of thy hands. i stretched forth my hands to thee: my soul is as earth without water unto thee. hear me speedily, o lord: my spirit hath fainted away. turn not away thy face from me, lest i be like unto them that go down into the pit. cause me to hear thy mercy in the morning; for in thee have i hoped. make the way known to me, wherein i should walk: for i have lifted up my soul to thee. deliver me from my enemies, o lord, to thee have i fled: teach me to do thy will, for thou art my god. thy good spirit shall lead me into the right land: for thy name's sake, o lord, thou wilt quicken me in thy justice. thou wilt bring my soul out of trouble: and in thy mercy thou wilt destroy my enemies. and thou wilt cut off all them that afflict my soul: for i am thy servant.

blessed be the lord my god, who teacheth my hands to fight, and my fingers to war. my mercy, and my refuge: my support, and my deliverer: my protector, and i have hoped in him: who subdueth my people under me. lord, what is man, that thou art made known to him? or the son of man, that thou makest account of him? man is like to vanity: his days pass away like a shadow. lord, bow down thy heavens and descend: touch the mountains and they shall smoke. send forth lightning, and thou shalt scatter them: shoot out thy arrows, and thou shalt trouble them. put forth thy hand from on high, take me out, and deliver me from many waters: from the hand of strange children: whose mouth hath spoken vanity: and their right hand is the right hand of iniquity. to thee, o god, i will sing a new canticle: on the psaltery and an instrument of ten strings i will sing praises to thee. who givest salvation to kings: who hast redeemed thy servant david from the malicious sword: deliver me, and rescue me out of the hand of strange children; whose mouth hath spoken vanity: and their right hand is the right hand of iniquity: whose sons are as new plants in their youth: their daughters decked out, adorned round about after the similitude of a temple: their storehouses full, flowing out of this into that. their sheep fruitful in young, abounding in their goings forth: their oxen fat. there is no breach of wall, nor passage, nor crying out in their streets. they have called the people happy, that hath these things: but happy is that people whose god is the lord.

i will extol thee, o god my king: and i will bless thy name for ever; yea, for ever and ever. every day i will bless thee: and i will praise thy name for ever; yea, for ever and ever. great is the lord, and greatly to be praised: and of his greatness there is no end. generation and generation shall praise thy works: and they shall declare thy power. they shall speak of the magnificence of the glory of thy holiness: and shall tell thy wondrous works. and they shall speak of the might of thy terrible acts: and shall declare thy greatness. they shall publish the memory of the abundance of thy sweetness: and shall rejoice in thy justice. the lord is gracious and merciful: patient and plenteous in mercy. the lord is sweet to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works. let all thy works, o lord, praise thee: and let thy saints bless thee. they shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom: and shall tell of thy power: to make thy might known to the sons of men: and the glory of the magnificence of thy kingdom. thy kingdom is a kingdom of all ages: and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations. the lord lifteth up all that fall: and setteth up all that are cast down. the eyes of all hope in thee, o lord: and thou givest them meat in due season. thou openest thy hand, and fillest with blessing every living creature. the lord is just in all his ways: and holy in all his works. the lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him: to all that call upon him in truth. he will do the will of them that fear him: and he will hear their prayer, and save them. the lord keepeth all them that love him; but all the wicked he will destroy. my mouth shall speak the praise of the lord: and let all flesh bless thy holy name for ever; yea, for ever and ever.

alleluia, of aggeus and zacharias. praise the lord, o my soul, in my life i will praise the lord: i will sing to my god as long as i shall be. put not your trust in princes: in the children of men, in whom there is no salvation. his spirit shall go forth, and he shall return into his earth: in that day all their thoughts shall perish. blessed is he who hath the god of jacob for his helper, whose hope is in the lord his god: who made heaven and earth, the sea, and all things that are in them. who keepeth truth for ever: who executeth judgment for them that suffer wrong: who giveth food to the hungry. the lord looseth them that are fettered: the lord enlighteneth the blind. the lord lifteth up them that are cast down: the lord loveth the just. the lord keepeth the strangers, he will support the fatherless and the widow: and the ways of sinners he will destroy.

praise ye the lord, because psalm is good: to our god be joyful and comely praise. the lord buildeth up jerusalem: he will gather together the dispersed of israel. who healeth the broken of heart, and bindeth up their bruises. who telleth the number of the stars: and calleth them all by their names. great is our lord, and great is his power: and of his wisdom there is no number. the lord lifteth up the meek, and bringeth the wicked down even to the ground. sing ye to the lord with praise: sing to our god upon the harp. who covereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth rain for the earth. who maketh grass to grow on the mountains, and herbs for the service of men. who giveth to beasts their food: and to the young ravens that call upon him. he shall not delight in the strength of the horse: nor take pleasure in the legs of a man. the lord taketh pleasure in them that fear him: and in them that hope in his mercy. praise the lord, o jerusalem: praise thy god, o sion. because he hath strengthened the bolts of thy gates, he hath blessed thy children within thee. who hath placed peace in thy borders: and filleth thee with the fat of corn. who sendeth forth his speech to the earth: his word runneth swiftly. who giveth snow like wool: scattereth mists like ashes. he sendeth his crystal like morsels: who shall stand before the face of his cold? he shall send out his word, and shall melt them: his wind shall blow, and the waters shall run. who declareth his word to jacob: his justices and his judgments to israel. he hath not done in like manner to every nation: and his judgments he hath not made manifest to them. alleluia.

praise ye the lord from the heavens: praise ye him in the high places. praise ye him, all his angels: praise ye him, all his hosts. praise ye him, o sun and moon: praise him, all ye stars and light. praise him, ye heavens of heavens: and let all the waters that are above the heavens praise the name of the lord. for he spoke, and they were made: he commanded, and they were created. he hath established them for ever, and for ages of ages: he hath made a decree, and it shall not pass away. praise the lord from the earth, ye dragons, and all ye deeps: fire, hail, snow, ice, stormy winds which fulfil his word: mountains and all hills, fruitful trees and all cedars: beasts and all cattle: serpents and feathered fowls: kings of the earth and all people: princes and all judges of the earth: young men and maidens: let the old with the younger, praise the name of the lord: for his name alone is exalted. the praise of him is above heaven and earth: and he hath exalted the horn of his people. a hymn to all his saints: to the children of israel, a people approaching to him. alleluia.

sing ye to the lord a new canticle: let his praise be in the church of the saints. let israel rejoice in him that made him: and let the children of sion be joyful in their king. let them praise his name in choir: let them sing to him with the timbrel and the psaltery. for the lord is well pleased with his people: and he will exalt the meek unto salvation. the saints shall rejoice in glory: they shall be joyful in their beds. the high praise of god shall be in their mouth: and two-edged swords in their hands: to execute vengeance upon the nations, chastisements among the people: to bind their kings with fetters, and their nobles with manacles of iron. to execute upon them the judgment that is written: this glory is to all his saints. alleluia.

praise ye the lord in his holy places: praise ye him in the firmament of his power. praise ye him for his mighty acts: praise ye him according to the multitude of his greatness. praise him with sound of trumpet: praise him with psaltery and harp. praise him with timbrel and choir: praise him with strings and organs. praise him on high sounding cymbals: praise him on cymbals of joy: let every spirit praise the lord. alleluia.

the parables of solomon, the son of david, king of israel. to know wisdom, and instruction: to understand the words of prudence: and to receive the instruction of doctrine, justice, and judgment, and equity: to give subtilty to little ones, to the young man knowledge and understanding. a wise man shall hear and shall be wiser: and he that understandeth, shall possess governments. he shall understand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wise, and their mysterious sayings. the fear of the lord is the beginning of wisdom. fools despise wisdom and instruction. my son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother: that grace may be added to thy head, and a chain of gold to thy neck. my son, if sinners shall entice thee, consent not to them. if they shall say: come with us, let us lie in wait for blood, let us hide snares for the innocent without cause: let us swallow him up alive like hell, and whole as one that goeth down into the pit. we shall find all precious substance, we shall fill our houses with spoils. cast in thy lot with us, let us all have one purse. my son, walk not thou with them, restrain thy foot from their paths. for their feet run to evil, and make haste to shed blood. but a net is spread in vain before the eyes of them that have wings. and they themselves lie in wait for their own blood, and practise deceits against their own souls. so the wage of every covetous man destroy the souls of the possessors. wisdom preacheth abroad, she uttereth her voice in the streets: at the head of multitudes she crieth out, in the entrance of the gates of the city she uttereth her words, saying: o children, how long will you love childishness, and fools covet those things which are hurtful to themselves, and the unwise hate knowledge? turn ye at my reproof: behold i will utter my spirit to you, and will shew you my words. because i called, and you refused: i stretched out my hand, and there was none that regarded. you have despised all my counsel, and have neglected my reprehensions. i also will laugh in your destruction, and will mock when that shall come to you which you feared. when sudden calamity shall fall on you, and destruction, as a tempest, shall be at hand: when tribulation and distress shall come upon you: then shall they call upon me, and i will not hear: they shall rise in the morning and shall not find me: because they have hated instruction and received not the fear of the lord, nor consented to my counsel, but despised all my reproof. therefore they shall eat the fruit of their own way, and shall be filled with their own devices. the turning away of little ones shall kill them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy them. but he that shall hear me, shall rest without terror, and shall enjoy abundance, without fear of evils.

my son, if thou wilt receive my words, and wilt hide my commandments with thee, that thy ear may hear to wisdom: incline thy heart to know prudence: for if thou shalt call for wisdom, and incline thy heart to prudence: if thou shalt seek her as money, and shalt dig for her as for a treasure: then shalt thou understand the fear of the lord, and shalt find the knowledge of god. because the lord giveth wisdom: and out of his mouth cometh prudence and knowledge. he will keep the salvation of the righteous, and protect them that walk in simplicity. keeping the paths of justice, and guarding the ways of saints. then shalt thou understand justice, and judgment, and equity, and every good path. if wisdom shall enter into thy heart, and knowledge please thy soul: counsel shall keep thee, and prudence shall preserve thee, that thou mayst be delivered from the evil way, and from the man that speaketh perverse things: who leave the right way, and walk by dark ways: who are glad when they have done evil, and rejoice in most wicked things: whose ways are perverse, and their steps infamous. that thou mayst be delivered from the strange women, and from the stranger, who softeneth her words: and forsaketh the guide of her youth, and hath forgotten the covenant of her god: for her house inclineth unto death, and her paths to hell. none that go in unto her shall return again, neither shall they take hold of the paths of life, that thou mayst walk in a good way: and mayst keep the paths of the just. for they that are upright shall dwell in the earth, and the simple shall continue in it. but the wicked shall be destroyed from the earth: and they that do unjustly shall be taken away from it.

my son, forget not my law, and let thy heart keep my commandments. for they shall add to thee length of days, and years of life and peace. let not mercy and truth leave thee, put them about thy neck, and write them in the tables of thy heart: and thou shalt and grace and good understanding before god and men. have confidence in the lord with all thy heart, and lean not upon thy own prudence. in all thy ways think on him, and he will direct thy steps. i be not wise in thy own conceit: fear god, and depart from evil: for it shall be health to thy navel, and moistening to thy bones. honour the lord with thy substance, and give him of the first of all thy fruits: and thy barns shall be filled with abundance, and thy presses shall run over with wine. my son, reject not the correction of the lord: and do not faint when thou art chastised by him: for whom the lord loveth, he chastiseth: and as a father in the son he pleaseth himself. blessed is the man that findeth wisdom and is rich in prudence: the purchasing thereof is better than the merchandise of silver, and her fruit than the chiefest and purest gold: she is more precious than all riches: and all the things that are desired, are not to be compared with her. length of days is in her right hand, and in her left hand riches and glory. her ways are beautiful ways, and all her paths are peaceable. she is a tree of life to them that lay hold on her: and he that shall retain her is blessed. the lord by wisdom hath founded the earth, hath established the heavens by prudence. by his wisdom the depths have broken out, and the clouds grow thick with dew my son, let not these things depart from thy eyes: keep the law and counsel: and there shall be life to thy soul, and grace to thy mouth. then shalt thou walk confidently in thy way, and thy foot shall not stumble: if thou sleep, thou shalt not fear: thou shalt rest, and thy sleep shall be sweet. be not afraid of sudden fear, nor of the power of the wicked falling upon thee. for the lord will be at thy side, and will keep thy foot that thou be not taken. do not withhold him from doing good, who is able: if thou art able, do good thyself also. say not to thy friend: go, and come again: and to morrow i will give to thee: when thou canst give at present. practise not evil against thy friend, when he hath confidence in thee. strive not against a man without cause, when he hath done thee no evil. envy not the unjust man, and do not follow his ways: for every mocker is an abomination to the lord, and his communication is with the simple. want is from the lord in the house of the wicked: but the habitations of the just shall be blessed. he shall scorn the scorers, and to the meek he will give grace. the wise shall possess glory: the promotion of fools is disgrace.

hear, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend that you may know prudence. i will give you a good gift, forsake not my law. for i also was my father's son, tender and as an only son in the sight of my mother: and he taught me, and said: let thy heart receive my words, keep my commandments, and thou shalt live. get wisdom, get prudence: forget not, neither decline from the words of my mouth. forsake her not, and she shall keep thee: love her, and she shall preserve thee. the beginning of wisdom, get wisdom, and with all thy possession purchase prudence. take hold on her, and she shall exalt thee: thou shalt be glorified by her, when thou shalt embrace her. she shall give to thy head increase of graces, and protect thee with a noble crown. hear, o my son, and receive my words, that years of life may be multiplied to thee. i will shew thee the way of wisdom, i will lead thee by the paths of equity: which when thou shalt have entered, thy steps shall not be straitened, and when thou runnest thou shalt not meet a stumblingblock. take hold on instruction, leave it not: keep it, because it is thy life. be not delighted in the paths of the wicked, neither let the way of evil men please thee. flee from it, pass not by it: go aside, and forsake it. for they sleep not except they have done evil: and their sleep is taken away unless they have made some to fall. they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of iniquity. but the path of the just, as a shining light, goeth forwards and increaseth even to perfect day. the way of the wicked is darksome: they know not where they fall. my son, hearken to my words, and incline thy ear to my sayings. let them not depart from thy eyes, keep them in the midst of thy heart: for they are life to those that find them, and health to all flesh. with all watchfulness keep thy heart, because life issueth out from it. remove from thee a froward mouth, and let detracting lips be far from thee. let thy eyes look straight on, and let thy eyelids go before thy steps.

my son, attend to my wisdom, and incline thy ear to my prudence. that thou mayst keep thoughts, and thy lips may preserve instruction. mind not the deceit of a woman. for the lips of a harlot are like a honeycomb dropping, and her throat is smoother than oil. but her end is bitter as wormwood, and sharp as a two-edged sword. her feet go down into death, and her steps go in as far as hell. they walk not by the path of life, her steps are wandering, and unaccountable. now therefore, my son, hear me, and depart not from the words of my mouth. remove thy way far from her, and come not nigh the doors of her house. give not thy honour to strangers, and thy years to the cruel. lest strangers be filled with thy strength, and thy labours be in another man's house, and thou mourn it the last, when thou shalt have spent thy flesh and thy body, and say: why have i hated instruction, and my heart consented not to reproof, and have not heard the voice of them that taught me, and have not indined my ear to masters? i have almost been in all evil, in the midst of the church and of the congregation. drink water out of thy own cistern, and the streams of thy own well: let thy fountains be conveyed abroad, and in the streets divide thy waters. keep them to thyself alone, neither let strangers be partakers with thee. let thy vein be blessed, and rejoice with the wife of thy youth: let her be thy dearest hind, and most agreeable fawn: let her breasts inebriate thee at all times; he thou delighted continually with her love. why art thou seduced, my son, by a strange woman, and art cherished in the bosom of another? the lord beholdeth the ways of man, and considereth all his steps. his own iniquities catch the wicked, and he is fast bound with the ropes of his own sins. he shall die, because he hath not received instruction, and in the multitude of his folly he shall be deceived.

my son, if thou be surety for thy friend, thou hast engaged fast thy hand to a stranger. thou art ensnared with the words of thy mouth, and caught with thy own words. do therefore, my son, what i say, and deliver thyself: because thou art fallen into the hand of thy neighbour. run about, make haste, stir up thy friend: give not sleep to thy eyes, neither let thy eyelids slumber. deliver thyself as a doe from the hand, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler. go to the ant, o sluggard, and consider her ways, and learn wisdom: which, although she hath no guide, nor master, nor captain, provideth her meat for herself in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest. how long wilt thou sleep, o sluggard? when wilt thou rise out of thy sleep? thou wilt sleep a little, thou wilt slumber a little, thou wilt fold thy hands a little to sleep: and want shall come upon thee, as a traveller, and poverty as a man armed. but if thou be diligent, thy harvest shall come as a fountain, and want shall flee far from thee. a man that is an apostate, an unprofitable man, walketh with a perverse mouth, he winketh with the eyes, presseth with the foot, speaketh with the finger. with a wicked heart he deviseth evil, and at all times he soweth discord. to such a one his destruction shall presently come, and he shall suddenly be destroyed, and shall no longer have any remedy. six things there are, which the lord hateth, and the seventh his soul detesteth: haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that deviseth wicked plots, feet that are swift to run into mischief, a deceitful witness that uttereth lies, and him that soweth discord among brethren. my son, heed the commandments of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother. bind them in thy heart continually, and put them about thy neck. when thou walkest, let them go with thee: when thou sleepest, let them keep thee; and when thou awakest, talk with them. because the commandment is a lamp, and the law a light, and reproofs of instruction are the way of life: that they may keep thee from the evil woman, and from the flattering tongue of the stranger. let not thy heart covet her beauty, be not caught with her winks: for the price of a harlot is scarce one loaf: but the woman catcheth the precious soul of a man. can a man hide fire in his bosom, and his garments not burn? or can he walk upon hot coals, and his feet not be burnt? so he that goeth in to his neighbour's wife, shall not be clean when he shall touch her. the fault is not so great when a man hath stolen: for he stealeth to fill his hungry soul: and if he be taken he shall restore sevenfold, and shall give up all the substance of his house. but he that is an adulterer, for the folly of his heart shall destroy his own soul: he gathereth to himself shame and dishonour, and his reproach shall not be blotted out: because the jealousy and rage of the husband will not spare in the day of revenge, nor will he yield to any man's prayers, nor will he accept for satisfaction ever so many gifts.

my son, keep my words, and lay up my precepts with thee. son, keep my commandments, and thou shalt live: and my law as the apple of thy eye: bind it upon thy fingers, write it upon the tables of thy heart. say to wisdom: thou art my sister: and call prudence thy friend, that she may keep thee from the woman that is not thine, and from the stranger who sweeteneth her words. for i look out of the window of my house through the lattice, and i see little ones, i behold a foolish young man, who passeth through the street by the corner, and goeth nigh the way of her house. in the dark, when it grows late, in the darkness and obscurity of the night, and behold a woman meeteth him in harlot's attire prepared to deceive souls; talkative and wandering, not bearing to be quiet, not able to abide still at home, now abroad, now in the streets, now lying in wait near the corners. and catching the young man, she kisseth him, and with an impudent face, flattereth, saying: i vowed victims for prosperity, this day i have paid my vows. therefore i am come out to meet thee, desirous to see thee, and i have found thee. i have woven my bed with cords, i have covered it with painted tapestry, brought from egypt. i have perfumed my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon. come, let us be inebriated with the breasts, and let us enjoy the desired embraces, till the day appear. for my husband is not at home, he is gone a very long journey. he took with him a bag of money: he will return home the day of the full moon. she entangled him with many words, and drew him away with the flattery of her lips. immediately he followeth her as an ox led to be a victim, and as a lamb playing the wanton, and not knowing that he is drawn like a fool to bonds, till the arrow pierce his liver: as if a bird should make haste to the snare, and knoweth not that his life is in danger. now therefore, my son, hear me, and attend to the words of my mouth. let not thy mind be drawn away in her ways: neither be thou deceived with her paths. for she hath cast down many wounded, and the strongest have been slain by her. her house is the way to hell, reaching even to the inner chambers of death.

doth not wisdom cry aloud, and prudence put forth her voice? standing in the top of the highest places by the way, in the midst of the paths. beside the gates of the city, in the very doors she speaketh, saying: o ye men, to you i call, and my voice is to the sons of men. o little ones, understand subtilty, and ye unwise, take notice. hear, for i will speak of great things: and my lips shall be opened to preach right things. my mouth shall meditate truth, and my lips shall hate wickedness. all my words are just, there is nothing wicked nor perverse in them. they are right to them that understand, and just to them that find knowledge. receive my instruction, and not money: choose knowledge rather than gold. or wisdom is better than all the most precious things: and whatsoever may be desired cannot be compared to i wisdom dwell in counsel, and am present in learned thoughts. the fear of the lord hateth evil: i hate arrogance, and pride, and every wicked way, and a mouth with a double tongue. counsel and equity is mine, prudence is mine, strength is mine. by me kings reign, and lawgivers decree just things, by me princes rule, and the mighty decree justice. i love them that love me: and they that in the morning early watch for me, shall find me. with me are riches and glory, glorious riches and justice. for my fruit is better than gold and the precious stone, and my blossoms than choice silver. i walk in the way of justice, in the midst of the paths of judgment, that i may enrich them that love me, and may fill their treasures. the lord possessed me in the beginning of his ways, before he made any thing from the beginning. i was set up from eternity, and of old before the earth was made. the depths were not as yet, and i was already conceived. neither had the fountains of waters as yet sprung out: the mountains with their huge bulk had not as yet been established: before the hills i was brought forth: he had not yet made the earth, nor the rivers, nor the poles of the world. when he prepared the heavens, i was present: when with a certain law and compass he enclosed the depths: when he established the sky above, and poised the fountains of waters: when he compassed the sea with its bounds, and set a law to the waters that they should not pass their limits: when he balanced the foundations of the earth; i was with him forming all things: and was delighted every day, playing before him at all times; playing in the world: and my delights were to be with the children of men. now therefore, ye children, hear me: blessed are they that keep my ways. hear instruction and be wise, and refuse it not. blessed is the man that heareth me, and that watcheth daily at my gates, and waiteth at the posts of my doors. he that shall find me, shall find life, and shall have salvation from the lord: but he that shall sin against me, shall hurt his own soul. all that hate me love death.

wisdom hath built herself a house, she hath hewn her out seven pillars. she hath slain her victims, mingled her wine, and set forth her table. she hath sent her maids to invite to the tower, and to the walls of the city: whosoever is a little one, let him come to me. and to the unwise she said: come, eat my bread, and drink the wine which i have mingled for you. forsake childishness, and live, and walk by the ways of prudence. he that teacheth a scorner, doth an injury to himself: and he that rebuketh a wicked man, getteth himself a blot. rebuke not a scorner lest he hate thee. rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee. give an occasion to a wise man, and wisdom shall be added to him. teach a just man, and he shall make haste to receive it. the fear of the lord is the beginning of wisdom: and the knowledge of the holy is prudence. for by me shall thy days be multiplied, and years of life shall be added to thee. if thou be wise, thou shalt be so to thyself: and if a scorner, thou alone shalt bear the evil. a foolish woman and clamorous, and full of allurements, and knowing nothing at all, sat at the door of her house, upon a seat, in a high place of the city, to call them that pass by the way, and go on their journey: he that is a little one, let him turn to me. and to the fool she said: stolen waters are sweeter, and hid den bread is more pleasant. and he did not know that giants are there, and that her guests are in the depths of hell.

a wise son maketh the father glad: but a foolish son is the sorrow of his mother. treasures of wickedness shall profit nothing: but justice shall deliver from death. the lord will not afflict the soul of the just with famine, and he will disappoint the deceitful practices of the wicked. the slothful hand hath wrought poverty: but the hand of the industrious getteth riches. he that trusteth to lies feedeth the winds: and the same runneth after birds that fly away. he that gathered in the harvest is a wise son: but he that snorteth in the summer, is the son of confusion. the blessing of the lord is upon the head of the just: but iniquity covereth the mouth of the wicked. the memory of the just is with praises: and the name of the wicked shall rot. the wise of heart receiveth precepts: a fool is beaten with lips. he that walketh sincerely, walketh confidently: but he that perverteth his ways, shall be manifest. he that winketh with the eye shall cause sorrow: and the foolish in lips shall be beaten. the mouth of the just is a vein of life: and the mouth of the wicked covereth iniquity. hatred stirreth up strifes: and charity covereth all sins. in the lips of the wise is wisdom found: and a rod on the back of him that wanteth sense. wise men lay up knowledge: but the mouth of the fool is next to confusion. the substance of a rich man is the city of his strength: the fear of the poor is their poverty. the work of the just is unto life: but the fruit of the wicked, unto sin. the way of life, to him that observeth correction: but he that forsaketh reproofs goeth astray. lying lips hide hatred: he that uttereth reproach is foolish. in the multitude of words there shall not want sin: but he that refraineth his lips is most wise. the tongue of the just is as choice silver: but the heart of the wicked is nothing worth. the lips of the just teach many: but they that are ignorant, shall die in the want of understanding. the blessing of the lord maketh men rich: neither shall affliction be joined to them. a fool worketh mischief as it were for sport: but wisdom is prudence to a man. that which the wicked feareth, shall come upon him: to the just their desire shall be given. as a tempest that passeth, so the wicked shall be no more: but the just is as an everlasting foundation. as vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that sent him. the fear of the lord shall prolong days: and the years of the wicked shall be shortened. the expectation of the just is joy; but the hope of the wicked shall perish. the strength of the upright is the way of the lord: and fear to them that work evil. the just shall never be moved: but the wicked shall not dwell on the earth. the mouth of the just shall bring forth wisdom: the tongue of the perverse shall perish. the lips of the just consider what is acceptable: and the mouth of the wicked uttereth perverse things.

a deceitful balance is an abomination before the lord: and a just weight is his will. where pride is, there also shall be reproach: but where humility is, there also is wisdom. the simplicity of the just shall guide them: and the deceitfulness of the wicked shall destroy them. riches shall not profit in the day of revenge: but justice shall deliver from death. the justice of the upright shall make his way prosperous: and the wicked man shall fall by his own wickedness. the justice of the righteous shall deliver them: and the unjust shall be caught in their own snares. when the wicked

man is dead, there shall be no hope any more: and the expectation of the solicitous shall perish. the just is delivered out of distress: and the wicked shall be given up for him. the dissembler with his mouth deceiveth his friend: but the just shall be delivered by knowledge. when it goeth well with the just the city shall rejoice: and when the wicked perish there shall be praise. by the blessing of the just the city shall be exalted: and by the mouth of the wicked it shall be overthrown. he that despiseth his friend, is mean of heart: but the wise man will hold his peace. he that walketh deceitfully, revealeth secrets: but he that is faithful, concealeth the thing committed to him by his friend. where there is no governor, the people shall fall: but there is safety where there is much counsel. he shall be afflicted with evil, that is surety for a stranger: but he that is aware of the snares, shall be secure. a gracious woman shall find glory: and the strong shall have riches. a merciful man doth good to his own soul: but he that is cruel casteth off even his own kindred. the wicked maketh an unsteady work: but to him that soweth justice, there is a faithful reward. clemency prepareth life: and the pursuing of evil things, death. a perverse heart is abominable to the lord: and his will is in them that walk sincerely. hand in hand the evil man shall not be innocent: but the seed of the just shall be saved. a golden ring in a swine's snout, a woman fair and foolish. the desire of the just is all good: the expectation of the wicked is indignation. some distribute their own goods, and grow richer: others take away what is not their own, and are always in want. the soul which blesseth, shall be made fat: and he that inebriateth, shall be inebriated also himself. he that hideth up corn, shall be cursed among the people: but a blessing upon the head of them that sell. well doth he rise early who seeketh good things; but he that seeketh after evil things shall be oppressed by them. he that trusteth in his riches shall fall: but the just shall spring up as a green leaf. he that troubleth his own house, shall inherit the winds: and the fool shall serve the wise. the fruit of the just man is a tree of life: and he that gaineth souls, is wise. if the just man receive in the earth, how much more the wicked and the sinner.

he that loveth correction, loveth knowledge: but he that hateth reproof is foolish. he that is good, shall draw grace from the lord: but he that trusteth in his own devices doth wickedly. men shall not be strengthened by wickedness: and the root of the just shall not be moved. a diligent woman is a crown to her husband: and she that doth things worthy of confusion, is a rottenness in his bones. the thoughts of the just are judgments: and the counsels of the wicked are deceitful. the words of the wicked lie in wait for blood: the mouth of the just shall deliver them. turn the wicked, and they shall not be: but the house of the just shall stand firm. a man shall be known by his learning: but he that is vain and foolish, shall be exposed to contempt. better is the poor man that provideth for himself, than he that is glorious and wanteth bread. the just regardeth the lives of his beasts: but the bowels of the wicked are cruel. he that tilleth his land shall be satisfied with bread: but he that pursueth idleness is very foolish. he that is delighted in passing his time over wine, leaveth a reproach in his strong holds. the desire of the wicked is the fortification of evil men: but the root of the just shall prosper. for the sins of the lips ruin draweth nigh to the evil mall: but the just shall escape out of distress. by the fruit of his own mouth shall a man be filled with good things, and according to the works of his hands it shall be repaid him. the way of a fool is right in his own eyes: but he that is wise hearkeneth unto counsels. a fool immediately sheweth his anger: but he that dissembleth injuries is wise. he that speaketh that which he knoweth, sheweth forth justice: but he that lieth, is a deceitful witness. there is that promiseth, and is pricked as it were with a sword of conscience: but the tongue of the wise is health. the lip of truth shall be steadfast for ever: but he that is a hasty witness, frameth a lying tongue. deceit is in the heart of them that think evil things: but joy followeth them that take counsels of peace. whatsoever shall befall the just man. it shall not make him sad: but the wicked shall be filled with mischief. lying lips are an abomination to the lord: but they that deal faithfully please him. a cautious man concealeth knowledge: and the heart of fools publisheth folly. the hand of the valiant shall bear rule: but that which is slothful, shall be under tribute. grief in the heart of a man shall bring him low, but with a good word he shall be made glad. he that neglecteth a loss for the sake of a friend, is just: but the way of the wicked shall deceive them. the deceitful man shall not find gain: but the substance of a just man shall be precious gold. in the path of justice is life: but the by-way leadeth to death.

a wise son heareth the doctrine of his father: but he that is a scorner, beareth not when he is reprov'd. of the fruit of his own mouth shall a man be filled with good things: but the soul of transgressors is wicked. he that keepeth his mouth, keepeth his soul: but he that hath no guard on his speech shall meet with evils. the sluggard willeth and willeth not: but the soul of them that work, shall be made fat. the just shall hate a lying word: but the wicked confoundeth, and shall be confounded. justice keepeth the way of the innocent: but wickedness overthroweth the sinner. one is as it were rich, when he hath nothing: and another is as it were poor, when he hath great riches. the ransom of a man's life are his riches: but he that is poor beareth not reprehension. the light of the just giveth joy: but the lamp of the wicked shall be put out. among the proud there are always contentions: but they that do all things with counsel, are ruled by wisdom. substance got in haste shall be diminished: but that which by little and little is gathered with the hand shall increase. hope that is deferred afflicteth the soul: desire when it cometh is a tree of life. whosoever speaketh ill of any thing, bindeth himself for the time to come: but he that feareth the commandment, shall dwell in peace. deceitful souls go astray in sins: the just are merciful, and shew mercy. the law of the wise is a fountain of life, that he may decline from the ruin of death. good instruction shall give grace: in the way of scorners is a deep pit. the prudent man doth all things with counsel: but he that is a fool, layeth open his folly. the messenger of the wicked shall fall into mischief: but a faithful ambassador is health. poverty and shame to him that refuseth instruction: but he that yieldeth to reproof, shall be glorified. the desire that is accomplished, delighteth the soul: fools hate them that flee from evil things. he that walketh with the wise, shall be wise: a friend of fools shall become like to them. vil pursueth sinners: and to the just good shall be repaid. the good man leaveth heirs, sons, and grandsons: and the substance of the sinner is kept for the just. much food is in the tillage of fathers: but for others it is gathered with out judgment. he that spareth the rod hateth his son: but he that loveth him correcteth him betimes. the just eateth and filleth his soul: but the belly of the wicked is never to be filled.

a wise woman buildeth her house: but the foolish will pull down with her hands that also which is built. he that walketh in the right way, and feareth god, is despised by him that goeth by an infamous way. in the mouth of a fool is the rod of pride: but the lips of the wise preserve them. where there are no oxen, the crib is empty: but where there is much corn, there the strength of the ox is manifest. a faithful witness will not lie: but a deceitful witness uttereth a lie. a scorner seeketh wisdom, and findeth it not: the learning of the wise is easy. go against a foolish man, and he knoweth not the lips of prudence. the wisdom of a discreet man is to understand his way: and the imprudence of fools erreth. a fool will laugh at sin, but among the just grace shall abide. the heart that knoweth the bitterness of his own soul, in his joy the stranger shall not intermeddle. the house of the wicked shall be destroyed: but the tabernacles of the just shall flourish. there is a way which seemeth just to a man: but the ends thereof lead to death. laughter shall be mingled with sorrow, and mourning taketh hold of the end of joy. a fool shall be filled with his own ways, and the good man shall be above him. the innocent believeth every word: the discreet man considereth his steps. no good shall come to the deceitful son: but the wise servant shall prosper in his dealings, and his way shall be made straight. a wise man feareth and declineth from evil: the fool leapeth over and is confident. the impatient man shall work folly: and the crafty man is hateful. the childish shall possess folly, and the prudent, shall look for knowledge. the evil shall fall down before the good: and the wicked before the gates of the just. the poor man shall be hateful even to his own neighbour: but the friends of the rich are many. he that despiseth his neighbour, sinneth: but he that sheweth mercy to the poor, shall be blessed. he that believeth in the lord, loveth mercy. they err that work evil: but mercy and truth prepare good things. in much work there shall be abundance:

but where there are many words, there is oftentimes want. the crown of the wise is their riches: the folly of fools, imprudence. a faithful witness delivereth souls: and the double dealer uttereth lies. in the fear of the lord is confidence of strength, and there shall be hope for his children. the fear of the lord is a fountain of life, to decline from the ruin of death. in the multitude of people is the dignity of the king: and in the small number of people the dishonour of the prince. he that is patient, is governed with much wisdom: but he that is impatient, exalteth his folly. soundness of heart is the life of the flesh: but envy is the rottenness of the bones. he that oppresseth the poor, upbraideth his maker: but he that hath pity on the poor, honoureth him. the wicked man shall be driven out in his wickedness: but the just hath hope in his death. in the heart of the prudent resteth wisdom, and it shall instruct all the ignorant. justice exalteth a nation: but sin maketh nations miserable. a wise servant is acceptable to the king: he that is good for nothing shall feel his anger.

a mild answer breaketh wrath: but a harsh word stirreth up fury. the tongue of the wise adorneth knowledge: but the mouth of fools bubbleth out folly. the eyes of the lord in every place behold the good and the evil. a peaceable tongue is a tree of life: but that which is immoderate, shall crush the spirit. a fool laugheth at the instruction of his father: but he that regardeth reproofs shall become prudent. in abundant justice there is the greatest strength: but the devices of the wicked shall be rooted out. the house of the just is very much strength: and in the fruits of the wicked is trouble. the lips of the wise shall disperse knowledge: the heart of fools shall be unlike. the victims of the wicked are abominable to the lord: the vows of the just are acceptable. the way of the wicked is an abomination to the lord: he that followeth justice is beloved by him. instruction is grievous to him that forsaketh the way of life: he that hateth reproof shall die. hell and destruction are before the lord: how much more the hearts of the children of men? a corrupt man loveth not one that reproveth him: nor will he go to the wise. a glad heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by grief of mind the spirit is cast down. the heart of the wise seeketh instruction: and the mouth of fools feedeth on foolishness. all the days of the poor are evil: a secure mind is like a continual feast. better is a little with the fear of the lord, than great treasures without content, it is better to be invited to herbs with love, than to a fatted calf with hatred. a passionate man stirreth up strifes: he that is patient appeaseth those that are stirred up. the way of the slothful is as a hedge of thorns; the way of the just is without offence. a wise son maketh a father joyful: but the foolish man despiseth his mother. folly is joy to the fool: and the wise man maketh straight his steps. designs are brought to nothing where there is no counsel: but where there are many counsellors, they are established. a man rejoiceth in the sentence of his mouth: and a word in due time is best. the path of life is above for the wise, that he may decline from the lowest hell. the lord will destroy the house of the proud: and will strengthen the borders of the widow. evil thoughts are an abomination to the lord: and pure words most beautiful shall be confirmed by him. he that is greedy of gain troubleth his own house: but he that hateth bribes shall live. by mercy and faith sins are purged away: and by the fear of the lord every one declineth from evil. the mind of the just studieth obedience: the mouth of the wicked overfloweth with evils. the lord is far from the wicked: and he will hear the prayers of the just. the light of the eyes rejoiceth the soul: a good name maketh the bones fat. the ear that heareth the reproofs of life, shall abide in the midst of the wise. he that rejecteth instruction, despiseth his own soul: but he that yieldeth to reproof possesseth understanding. the fear of the lord is the lesson of wisdom: and humility goeth before glory.

it is the part of man to prepare the soul: and of the lord to govern the tongue. all the ways of a man are open to his eyes: the lord is the weigher of spirits. lay open thy works to the lord: and thy thoughts shall be directed. the lord hath made all things for himself: the wicked also for the evil day. every proud man is an abomination to the lord: though hand should be joined to hand, he is not innocent. the beginning of a good way is to do justice; and this is more acceptable with god, than to offer sacrifices. by mercy and truth iniquity is redeemed: and by the fear of the lord men depart from evil. when the ways of man shall please the lord, he will convert even his enemies to peace. better is a little with justice, than great revenues with iniquity. the heart of man disposeth his way: but the lord must direct his steps. divination is in the lips of the king, his mouth shall not err in judgment. weight and balance are judgments of the lord: and his work all the weights of the bag. they that act wickedly are abominable to the king: for the throne is established by justice. just lips are the delight of kings: he that speaketh right things shall be loved. the wrath of a king is as messengers of death: and the wise man will pacify it. in the cheerfulness of the king's countenance is life: and his clemency is like the latter rain. get wisdom, because it is better than gold: and purchase prudence, for it is more precious than silver. the path of the just departeth from evils: he that keepeth his soul keepeth his way. pride goeth before destruction: and the spirit is lifted up before a fall. it is better to be humbled with the meek, than to divide spoils with the proud. the learned in word shall find good things: and he that trusteth in the lord is blessed. the wise in heart shall be called prudent: and he that is sweet in words shall attain to greater things. knowledge is a fountain of life to him that possesseth it: the instruction of fools is foolishness. the heart of the wise shall instruct his mouth: and shall add grace to his lips. well ordered words are as a honeycomb: sweet to the soul, and health to the bones. there is a way that seemeth to a man right: and the ends thereof lead to death. the soul of him that laboureth, laboureth for himself, because his mouth hath obliged him to it. the wicked man diggeth evil, and in his lips is a burning fire. a perverse man stirreth up quarrels: and one full of words separateth princes. an unjust man allureth his friend: and leadeth him into a way that is not good he that with fixed eyes deviseth wicked things, biting his lips, bringeth evil to pass. old age is a crown of dignity, when it is found in the ways of justice. the patient man is better than the valiant: and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh cities. lots are cast into the lap, but they are disposed of by the lord.

better is a dry morsel with joy, than a house full of victims with strife. a wise servant shall rule over foolish sons, and shall divide the inheritance among the brethren. as silver is tried by fire, and gold in the furnace: so the lord trieth the hearts. the evil man obeyeth an unjust tongue: and the deceitful hearkeneth to lying lips. he that despiseth the poor, reproacheth his maker; and he that rejoiceth at another man's ruin, shall not be unpunished. children's children are the crown of old men: and the glory of children are their fathers. eloquent words do not become a fool, nor lying lips a prince. the expectation of him that expecteth, is a most acceptable jewel: whithersoever he turneth himself, he understandeth wisely. he that concealeth a transgression. seeketh friendships: he that repeateth it again, separateth friends. a reproof availeth more with a wise man, than a hundred stripes with a fool. an evil man always seeketh quarrels: but a cruel angel shall be sent against him. it is better to meet a bear robbed of her whelps, than a fool trusting in his own folly. he that rendereth evil for good, evil shall not depart from his house. the beginning of quarrels is as when one letteth out water: before he suffereth reproach he forsaketh judgment. he that justifieth the wicked, and he that condemneth the just, both are abominable before god. what doth it avail a fool to have riches, seeing he cannot buy wisdom? he that maketh his house high, seeketh a downfall: and he that refuseth to learn, shall fall into evils. he that is a friend loveth at all times: and a brother is proved in distress. a foolish man will clap hands, when he is surety for his friend. he that studieth discords, loveth quarrels: and he that exalteth his door, seeketh ruin. he that is of a perverse heart, shall not find good: and he that perverteth his tongue, shall fall into evil. a fool is born to his own disgrace: and even his father shall not rejoice in a fool. a joyful mind maketh age flourishing: a sorrowful spirit drieth up the bones. the wicked man taketh gifts out of the bosom, that he may pervert the paths of judgment. wisdom shineth in the face of the wise: the eyes of fools are in the ends of the earth. a foolish son is the anger of the father: and the sorrow of the mother that bore him. it is no good thing to do hurt to the just: nor to strike the prince, who judgeth right. he that setteth bounds to his words. is knowing and wise: and the man of understanding is of a precious spirit. even a fool, if he will hold his peace shall be counted wise:

he that hath a mind to depart from a friend seeketh occasions: he shall ever be subject to reproach. a fool receiveth not the words of prudence: unless thou say those things which are in his heart. the wicked man when he is come into the depth of sine, contemneth: but ignominy and reproach follow him. words from the mouth of a man are as deep water: and the fountain of wisdom as an overflowing stream. it is not good to accept the person of the wicked, to decline from the truth of judgment. the lips of a fool intermeddle with strife: and his mouth provoketh quarrels. the mouth of a fool is his destruction: and his lips are the ruin of his soul. the words of the double tongued are as if they were harmless: and they reach even to the inner parts of the bowels. fear casteth down the slothful: and the souls of the effeminate shall be hungry. he that is loose and slack in his work, is the brother of him that wasteth his own works. the name of the lord is a strong tower: the just runneth to it, and shall be exalted. the substance of the rich man is the city of his strength, and as a strong wall compassing him about. before destruction, the heart of a man is exalted: and before he be glorified, it is humbled. he that answereth before he heareth sheweth himself to be a fool, and worthy of confusion. the spirit of a man upholdeth his infirmity: but a spirit that is easily angered, who can bear? a wise heart shall acquire knowledge: and the ear of the wise seeketh instruction. a man's gift enlargeth his may, and maketh him room before princes. the just is first accuser of himself: his friend cometh, and shall search him. the lot suppresseth contentions, and determineth even between the mighty. a brother that is helped by his brother, is like a strong city: and judgments are like the bars of cities. of the fruit of a man's mouth shall his belly be satisfied: and the offspring of his lips shall fill him. death and life are in the power of the tongue: they that love it, shall eat the fruits thereof. he that hath found a good wife, hath found a good thing, and shall receive a pleasure from the lord. he that driveth away a good wife, driveth away a good thing: but he that keepeth an adulteress, is foolish and wicked. the poor will speak with supplications, and the rich will speak roughly. a man amiable in society, shall be more friendly than a brother.

better is the poor man, that walketh in his simplicity, than a rich man that is perverse in his lips, and unwise. where there is no knowledge of the soul, there is no good: and he that is hasty with his feet shall stumble. the folly of a man supplanteth his seeps: and he fretteth in his mind against god. riches make many friends: but from the poor man, even they whom he had, depart. a false witness shall not be unpunished: and he that speaketh lies shall not escape. many honour the person of him that is mighty, and are friends of him that giveth gifts. the brethren of the poor man hate him: moreover also his friends have departed far from him. he that followeth after words only, shall have nothing. but he that possesseth a mind, loveth his own soul, and he that keepeth prudence shall find good things. a false witness shall not be unpunished: and he that speaketh lies, shall perish. delicacies are not seemly for a fool: nor for a servant to have rule over princes. the learning of a man is known by patience and his glory is to pass over wrongs. as the roaring of a lion, so also is the anger of a king: and his cheerfulness as the dew upon the grass. a foolish son is the grief of his father: and a wrangling wife is like a roof continually dropping through. house and riches are given by parents: but a prudent wife is properly from the lord. slothfulness casteth into a deep sleep, and an idle soul shall suffer hunger. he that keepeth the commandment, keepeth his own soul: but he that neglecteth his own way, shall die. he that hath mercy on the poor, lendeth to the lord: and he will repay him. chastise thy son, despair not: but to the killing of him set not thy soul. he that is impatient, shall suffer damage: and when he shall take away he shall add another thing. hear counsel, and receive instruction, that thou mayst be wise in thy latter end. there are many thoughts in the heart of a man: but the will of the lord shall stand firm. a needy man is merciful: and better is the poor than the lying man. the fear of the lord is unto life: and he shall abide in fulness without being visited with evil. the slothful hideth his hand under his armpit, and will not so much as bring it to his mouth. the wicked man being; scourged, the fool shall be wiser: but if thou rebuke a wise man he will understand discipline. he that afflicteth his father, and chaseth away his mother, is infamous and unhappy. cease not, o my son, to hear instruction, and be not ignorant of the words of knowledge. an unjust witness scorneth judgment: and the mouth of the wicked devoureth iniquity. judgments are prepared for scornors: and striking hammers for the bodies of fools.

wine is a luxurious thing, and drunkenness riotous: whosoever is delighted therewith shall not be wise. as the roaring of a lion, so also is the dread of a king: he that provoketh him, sinneth against his own soul. it is an honour for a man to separate himself from quarrels: but all fools are meddling with reproaches. because of the cold the sluggard would not plough: he shall beg therefore in the summer, and it shall not be given him. counsel in the heart of a man is like deep water: but a wise man will draw it out. many men are called merciful: but who shall find a faithful man? the just that walketh in his simplicity, shall leave behind him blessed children. the king, that sitteth on the throne of judgment, scattereth away all evil with his look. who can say: my heart is clean, i am pure from sin? diverse weights and diverse measures, both are abominable before god. by his inclinations a child is known, if his works be clean and right. the hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the lord hath made them both. love not sleep, lest poverty oppress thee: open thy eyes, and be filled with bread. it is nought, it is nought, saith every buyer: and when he is gone away, then he will boast. there is gold, and a multitude of jewels: but the lips of knowledge are a precious vessel. take away the garment of him that is surety for a stranger, and take a pledge from him for strangers. the bread of lying is sweet to a man: but afterwards his mouth shall be filled with gravel. designs are strengthened by counsels: and wars are to be managed by governments. meddle not with him that revealeth secrets, and walketh deceitfully, and openeth wide his lips. he that curseth his father, and mother, his lamp shall be put out in the midst of darkness. the inheritance gotten hastily in the beginning, in the end shall be without a blessing. say not: i will return evil: wait for the lord and he will deliver thee. diverse weights are an abomination before the lord: a deceitful balance is not good. the steps of man are guided by the lord: but who is the man that can understand his own way? it is ruin to a man to devour holy ones, and after vows to retract. a wise king scattereth the wicked, and bringeth over them the wheel. the spirit of a man is the lamp of the lord, which searcheth all the hidden things of the bowels. mercy and truth preserve the king, and his throne is strengthened by clemency. the joy of young men is their strength: and the dignity of old men, their grey hairs. the blueness of a wound shall wipe away evils: and stripes in the more inward parts of the belly.

as the divisions of waters, so the heart of the king is in the hand of the lord: whithersoever he will he shall turn it. every way of a man seemeth right to himself: but the lord weigheth the hearts. to do mercy and judgment, pleaseth the lord more than victims. haughtiness of the eyes is the enlarging of the heart: the lamp of the wicked is sin. the thoughts of the industrious al- ways bring forth abundance: but every sluggard is always in want. he that gathereth treasures by a lying tongue, is vain and foolish, and shall stumble upon the snares of death. the robberies of the wicked shall be their downfall, because they would not do judgment. the perverse way of a man is strange: but as for him that is pure, his work is right. it is better to sit in a corner of the housetop, than with a brawling woman, and in a common house. the soul of the wicked desireth evil, he will not have pity on his neighbour. when a pestilent man is punished, the little one will be wiser: and if he follow the wise, he will receive knowledge. the just considereth seriously the house of the wicked, that he may withdraw the wicked from evil. he that stoppeth his ear against the cry of the poor, shall also cry himself and shall not be heard. a secret present quencheth anger: and a gift in the bosom the greatest wrath. it is joy to the just to do judgment: and dread to them that work iniquity. a man that shall wander out of the way of doctrine, shall abide in the company of the giants. he that loveth good cheer, shall be in want: he that loveth wine, and fat things, shall not be rich. the wicked is delivered up for the just: and the unjust for the righteous. it is better to dwell in a wilderness, than with a quarrelsome and passionate woman. there is a treasure to be desired, and oil in the dwelling of the just: and the foolish man shall spend it. he that followeth justice and mercy, shall find life, justice, and glory. the wise man hath scaled the city of the strong, and hath cast down the strength of the confidence thereof. he that keepeth his mouth and his tongue, keepeth his soul from distress. the proud and the arrogant is called ignorant, who in anger worketh pride. desires kill the slothful: for his hands have refused to work at all. he longeth and desireth all the day: but he that is just, will give, and will not cease. the sacrifices of the wicked are abominable, because they are offered of wickedness. a lying witness shall perish: an obedient man shall speak of victory. the wicked man impudently hardeneth his face: but he that is righteous, correcteth his way. there is no wisdom, there is no prudence, there is no counsel against the lord. the horse is prepared for the day of battle: but the lord giveth safety.

a good name is better than great riches: and good favour is above silver and gold. the rich and poor have met one another: the lord is the maker of them both. the prudent man saw the evil, and hid himself: the simple passed on, and suffered loss. the fruit of humility is the fear of the lord, riches and glory and life. arms and swords are in the way of the perverse: but he that keepeth his own soul departeth far from them. it is a proverb: a young man according to his way, even when he is old he will not depart from it. the rich ruleth over the poor: and the borrower is servant to him that lendeth. he that soweth iniquity shall reap evils, and with the rod of his anger he shall be consumed. he that is inclined to mercy shall be blessed: for of his bread he hath given to the poor. he that maketh presents shall purchase victory and honour: but he carrieth away the souls of the receivers. cast out the scoffer, and contention shall go out with him, and quarrels and reproaches shall cease. he that loveth cleanness of heart, for the grace of his lips shall have the king for his friend. the eyes of the lord preserve knowledge: and the words of the unjust are overthrown. the slothful man saith: there is a lion without, i shall be slain in the midst of the streets. the mouth of a strange woman is a deep pit: he whom the lord is angry with, shall fall into it. folly is bound up in the heart of a child, and the rod of correction shall drive it away. he that oppresseth the poor, to increase his own riches, shall himself give to one that is richer, and shall be in need. incline thy ear, and hear the words of the wise: and apply thy heart to my doctrine: which shall be beautiful for thee, if thou keep it in thy bowels, and it shall flow in thy lips: that thy trust may be in the lord, wherefore i have also shewn it to thee this day. behold i have described it to thee three manner of ways, in thoughts and knowledge: that i might shew thee the certainty, and the words of truth, to answer out of these to them that sent thee.

do no violence to the poor, because he is poor: and do not oppress the needy in the gate: because the lord will judge his cause, and will afflict them that have afflicted his soul. be not a friend to an angry man, and do not walk with a furious man: lest perhaps thou learn his ways, and take scandal to thy soul. be not with them that fasten down their hands, and that offer themselves sureties for debts: for if thou have not wherewith to restore, what cause is there, that he should take the covering from thy bed? pass not beyond the ancient bounds which thy fathers have set. hast thou seen a man swift in his work? he shall stand before kings, and shall not be before those that are obscure.

when thou shalt sit to eat with a prince, consider diligently what is set before thy face. and put a knife to thy throat, if it be so that thou have thy soul in thy own power. be not desirous of his meats, in which is the bread of deceit. labour not to be rich: but set bounds to thy prudence. lift not up thy eyes to riches which thou canst not have: because they shall make themselves wings like those of an eagle, and shall fly towards heaven. eat not with an envious man, and desire not his meats: because like a soothsayer, and diviner, he thinketh that which he knoweth not. eat and drink, will he say to thee: and his mind is not with thee. the meats which thou hadst eaten, thou shalt vomit up: and shalt loose thy beautiful words. speak not in the ears of fools: because they will despise the instruction of thy speech. touch not the bounds of little ones: and enter not into the field of the fatherless: for their near kinsman is strong: and he will judge their cause against thee. let thy heart apply itself to instruction: and thy ears to words of knowledge. withhold not correction from a child: for if thou strike him with the rod, he shall not die. thou shalt beat him with the rod, and deliver his soul from hell. my son, if thy mind be wise, my heart shall rejoice with thee: and my reins shall rejoice, when thy lips shall speak what is right. let not thy heart envy sinners: but be thou in the fear of the lord all the day long: because thou shalt have hope in the latter end, and thy expectation shall not be taken away. hear thou, my son, and be wise: and guide thy mind in the way. be not in the feasts of great drinkers, nor in their revelings, who contribute flesh to eat: because they that give themselves to drinking, and that club together shall be consumed; and drowsiness shall be clothed with rags. hearken to thy father, that beget thee: and despise not thy mother when she is old. buy truth, and do not sell wisdom, and instruction, and understanding. the father of the just rejoiceth greatly: he that hath begotten a wise son, shall have joy in him. let thy father, and thy mother be joyful, and let her rejoice that bore thee. my son, give me thy heart: and let thy eyes keep my ways. for a harlot is a deep ditch: and a strange woman is a narrow pit. she lieth in wait in the way as a robber, and him whom she shall see unwary, she will kill. who hath woe? whose father hath woe? who hath contentions? who falls into pits?

who hath wounds without cause? who hath redness of eyes? surely they that pass their time in wine, and study to drink of their cups. look not upon the wine when it is yellow, when the colour thereof shineth in the glass: it goeth in pleasantly, but in the end, it will bite like a snake, and will spread abroad poison like a basilisk. thy eyes shall behold strange women, and thy heart shall utter perverse things. and thou shalt be as one sleeping in the midst of the sea, and as a pilot fast asleep, when the stern is lost. and thou shalt say: they have beaten me, but i was not sensible of pain: they drew me, and i felt not: when shall i awake, and find wine again?

seek not to be like evil men, neither desire to be with them: because their mind studieth robberies, and their lips speak deceits. by wisdom the house shall be built, and by prudence it shall be strengthened. by instruction the storerooms shall be filled with all precious and most beautiful wealth. a wise man is strong: and a knowing man, stout and valiant. because war is managed by due ordering: and there shall be safety where there are many counsels. wisdom is too high for a fool, in the gate he shall not open his mouth. he that deviseth to do evils, shall be called a fool. the thought of a fool is sin: and the detractor is the abomination of men. if thou lose hope being weary in the day of distress, thy strength shall be diminished. deliver them that are led to death: and those that are drawn to death forbear not to deliver. if thou say: i have not strength enough: he that seeth into the heart, he understandeth, and nothing deceiveth the keeper of thy soul, end he shall render to a man according to his works. fat honey, my son, because it is good, and the honeycomb most sweet to thy throat: so also is the doctrine of wisdom to thy soul: which when thou hast found, thou shalt have hope in the end, and thy hope shall not perish. lie not in wait, nor seek after wickedness in the house of the just, nor spoil his rest. for a just man shall fall seven times and shall rise again: but the wicked shall fall down into evil. when thy enemy shall fall, be not glad, and in his ruin let not thy heart rejoice: lest the lord see, and it displease him, and he turn away his wrath from him. contend not with the wicked, nor seek to be like the ungodly: for evil men have no hope of things to come, and the lamp of the wicked shall be put out. my son, fear the lord and the king: and have nothing to do with detractors. for their destruction shall rise suddenly: and who knoweth the ruin of both? these things also to the wise: it is not good to have respect to persons in judgment. they that say to the wicked man: thou art just: shall be cursed by the people, and the tribes shall abhor them. they that rebuke him, shall be praised: and a blessing shall come upon them. he shall kiss the lips, who answereth right words. prepare thy work without, and diligently till thy ground: that afterward thou mayst build thy house. be not witness without cause against thy neighbour: and deceive not any man with thy lips. say not: i will do to him as he hath done to me: i will render to every one according to his work. i passed by the field of the slothful man, and by the vineyard of the foolish man: and behold it was all filled with nettles, and thorns had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall was broken down. which when i had seen, i laid it up in my heart, and by the example i received instruction. thou wilt sleep a little, said i, thou wilt slumber a little, thou wilt fold thy hands a little to rest: and poverty shall come to thee as a runner, and beggary as an armed man.

these are also parables of solomon, which the men of ezechias king of juda copied out. it is the glory of god to conceal the word, and the glory of kings to search out the speech. the heaven above, and the earth beneath, and the heart of kings is unsearchable. take away the rust from silver, and there shall come forth a most pure vessel: take away wickedness from the face of the king, and his throne shall be established with justice. appear not glorious before the king, and stand not in the place of great men. for it is better that it should be said to thee: come up hither; than that thou shouldst be humbled before the prince. the things which thy eyes have seen, utter not hastily in a quarrel: lest afterwards thou mayst not be able to make amends, when thou hast dishonoured thy friend. treat thy cause with thy friend, and discover not the secret to a stranger: lest he insult over thee, when he hath heard it, and cease not to upbraid thee. grace and friendship deliver a man: keep these for thyself, lest thou fall under reproach. to speak a word in due time, is like apples of gold on beds of silver. as an earring of gold and a bright pearl, so is he that reproveth the wise, and the obedient ear. as the cold of snow in the time of harvest, so is a faithful messenger to him that sent him, for he refresheth his soul. as clouds, and wind, when no rain followeth, so is the man that boasteth, and doth not fulfil his promises. by patience a prince shall be appeased, and a soft tongue shall break hardness. thou hast found honey, eat what is sufficient for thee, lest being glutted therewith thou vomit it up. withdraw thy foot from the house of thy neighbour, lest having his fill he hate thee. a man that beareth false witness against his neighbour, is like a dart and a sword and a sharp arrow. to trust to an unfaithful man in the time of trouble, is like a rotten tooth, and weary foot, and one that looseth his garment in cold weather. as vinegar upon nitre, so is he that singeth songs to a very evil heart. as a moth doth by a garment, and a worm by the wood: so the sadness of a man consumeth the heart. if thy enemy be hungry, give him to eat: if he thirst, give him water to drink: for thou shalt heap hot coals upon his head, and the lord will reward thee. the north wind driveth away rain, as doth a sad countenance a backbiting tongue. it is better to sit in a corner of the housetop, than with a brawling woman, and in a common house. as cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good tidings from a far country. a just man falling down before the wicked, is as a fountain troubled with the foot, and a corrupted spring. as it is not good for a man to eat much honey, so he

that is a searcher of majesty, shall be overwhelmed by glory. as a city that lieth open and is not compassed with walls, so is a man that cannot refrain his own spirit in speaking.

as snow in summer, and rain in harvest, so glory is not seemly for a fool. as a bird flying to other places, and a sparrow going here or there: so a curse uttered without cause shall come upon a man. a whip for a horse, and a snaffle for an ass, and a rod for the back of fools. answer not a fool according to his folly, lest thou be made like him. answer a fool according to his folly, lest he imagine himself to be wise. he that sendeth words by a foolish messenger, is lame of feet and drinketh iniquity. as a lame man hath fair legs in vain: so a parable is unseemly in the mouth of fools. as he that casteth a stone into the heap of mercury: so is he that giveth honour to a fool. as if a thorn should grow in the hand of a drunkard: so is a parable in the mouth of fools. judgment determineth causes: and he that putteth a fool to silence, appeaseth anger. as a dog that returneth to his vomit, so is the fool that repeateth his folly. hast thou seen a man wise in his own conceit? there shall be more hope of a fool than of him. the slothful man saith: there is a lion in the way, and a lioness in the roads. as the door turneth upon its hinges, so doth the slothful upon his bed. the slothful hideth his hand under his armpit, and it grieveth him to turn it to his mouth. the sluggard is wiser in his own conceit, than seven men that speak sentences. as he that taketh a dog by the ears, so is he that passeth by in anger, and meddleth with another man's quarrel. as he is guilty that shooteth arrows, and lances unto death: so is the man that hurteth his friend deceitfully: and when he is taken, saith: i did it in jest. when the wood faileth, the fire shall go out: and when the talebearer is taken away, contentions shall cease. as coals are to burning coals, and wood to fire, so an angry man stirreth up strife. the words of a talebearer are as it were simple, but they reach to the innermost parts of the belly. swelling lips joined with a corrupt heart, are like an earthen vessel adorned with silver dross. an enemy is known by his lips, when in his heart he entertaineth deceit. when he shall speak low, trust him not: because there are seven mischiefs in his heart. he that covereth hatred deceitfully, his malice shall be laid open in the public assembly. he that diggeth a pit, shall fall into it: and he that rolleth a stone, it shall return to him. a deceitful tongue loveth not truth: and a slippery mouth worketh ruin.

boast not for to morrow, for thou knowest not what the day to come may bring forth. let another praise thee, and not thy own mouth: a stranger, and not thy own lips. a stone is heavy, and sand weighty: but the anger of a fool is heavier than them both. anger hath no mercy, nor fury when it breaketh forth: and who can bear the violence of one provoked? open rebuke

is better than hidden love. better are the wounds of a friend, than the deceitful kisses of an enemy. a soul that is full shall tread upon the honeycomb : and a soul that is hungry shall take even bitter for sweet. as a bird that wandereth from her nest, so is a man that leaveth his place. ointment and perfumes rejoice the heart: and the good counsels of a friend are sweet to the soul. thy own friend, and thy father's friend forsake not: and go not into thy brother's house in the day of thy affliction. better is a neighbour that is near, than a brother afar off. study wisdom, my son, and make my heart joyful, that thou mayst give an answer to him that reproacheth. the prudent man seeing evil hideth himself: little ones passing on have suffered losses. take away his garment that hath been surety for a stranger: and take from him a pledge for strangers. he that blesseth his neighbour with a loud voice, rising in the night, shall be like to him that curseth. roofs dropping through in a cold day, and a contentious woman are alike. he that retaineth her, is as he that would hold the wind, and shall call in the oil of his right hand. iron sharpeneth iron, so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend. he that keepeth the fig tree, shall eat the fruit thereof: and he that is the keeper of his master, shall be glorified. as the faces of them that look therein, shine in the water, so the hearts of men are laid open to the wise. hell and destruction are never filled: so the eyes of men are never satisfied. as silver is tried in the fining-pot and gold in the furnace: so a man is tried by the mouth of him that praiseth. the heart of the wicked seeketh after evils, but the righteous heart seeketh after knowledge. though thou shouldst bray a fool in the mortar, as when a pestle striketh upon sodden barley, his folly would not be taken from him. be diligent to know the countenance of thy cattle, and consider thy own flocks : for thou shalt not always have power: but a crown shall be given to generation and generation. the meadows are open, and the green herbs have appeared, and the hay is gathered out of the mountains. lambs are for thy clothing: and kids for the price of the field. let the milk of the goats be enough for thy food, and for the necessities of thy house, and for maintenance for thy handmaids.

the wicked man fleeth, when no man pursueth: but the just, bold as a lion, shall be without dread. for the sine of the land many are the princes thereof: and for the wisdom of a man, and the knowledge of those things that are said, the life of the prince shall be prolonged. a poor man that oppresseth the poor, is like a violent shower, which bringeth a famine. they that forsake the law, praise the wicked man: they that keep it, are incensed against him. evil men think not on judgment: but they that seek after the lord, take notice of all things. better is the poor man walking in his simplicity, than the rich in crooked ways. he that keepeth the law is a wise son: but he that feedeth gluttons, shameth his father. he that heareth together riches by usury and loan, gathereth them for him that will be bountiful to the poor. he that turneth away

his ears from hearing the law, his prayer shall be as abomination. he that deceiveth the just in a wicked way, shall fall in his own destruction: and the upright shall possess his goods. the rich man seemeth to himself wise: but the poor man that is prudent shall search him out. in the joy of the just there is great glory: when the wicked reign, men are ruined. he that hideth his sins, shall not prosper: but he that shall confess, and forsake them, shall obtain mercy. blessed is the man that is always fearful: but he that is hardened in mind, shall fall into evil. as a roaring lion, and a hungry bear, so is a wicked prince over the poor people. a prince void of prudence shall oppress many by calumny: but he that hateth covetousness, shall prolong his days. a man that doth violence to the blood of a person, if he flee even to the pit, no man will stay him. he that walketh uprightly, shall be saved: he that is perverse in his ways shall fall at once. he that tilleth his ground, shall be filled with bread: but he that followeth idleness shall be filled with poverty. a faithful man shall be much praised: but he that maketh haste to be rich, shall not be innocent. he that hath respect to a person in judgment, doth not well: such a man even for a morsel of bread forsaketh the truth. a man, that maketh haste to be rich, and envieth others, is ignorant that poverty shall come upon him. he that rebuketh a man, shall afterward find favour with him, more than he that by a flattering tongue deceiveth him. he that stealeth any thing from his father, or from his mother: and saith, this is no sin, is the partner of a murderer. he that boasteth, and puffeth up himself, stirreth up quarrels: but he that trusteth in the lord, shall be healed. he that trusteth in his own heart, is a fool: but he that walketh wisely, he shall be saved. he that giveth to the poor, shall not want: he that despiseth his entreaty, shall suffer indigence. when the wicked rise up, men shall hide themselves: when they perish, the lust shall be multiplied.

the man that with a stiff neck despiseth him that reproveth him, shall suddenly be destroyed: and health shall not follow him. when just men increase, the people shall rejoice: when the wicked shall bear rule, the people shall mourn. a man that loveth wisdom, rejoiceth his father: but he that maintaineth bar lots, shall squander away his substance. a just king setteth up the land: a covetous man shall destroy it. a man that speaketh to his friend with flattering and dissembling words, spreadeth a net for his feet. a snare shall entangle the wicked man when he sinneth: and the just shall praise and rejoice. the just taketh notice of the cause of the poor: the wicked is void of knowledge. corrupt men bring a city to ruin: but wise men turn away wrath. if a wise man contend with a fool, whether he be angry or laugh, he shall find no rest. bloodthirsty men hate the upright: but just men seek his soul. a fool uttereth all his mind: a wise man deferreth, and keepeth it till afterwards. a prince that gladly heareth lying words, hath all his servants wicked. the poor man and the creditor have met one another: the lord is the enlightener of them both. the king that judgeth the poor in truth, his throne shall be established for ever. the rod and reproof give wisdom: but the child that is left to his own will bringeth his mother to shame. when the wicked are multiplied, crimes shall be multiplied: but the just shall see their downfall. instruct thy son, and he shall refresh thee, and shall give delight to thy soul. when prophecy shall fail, the people shall be scattered abroad: but he that keepeth the law is blessed. a slave will not be corrected by words: because he understandeth what thou sayest, and will not answer. hast thou seen a man hasty to speak? folly is rather to be looked for, than his amendment. he that nourisheth his servant delicately from his childhood, afterwards shall find him stubborn. a passionate man provoketh quarrels: and he that is easily stirred up to wrath, shall be more prone to sin. humiliation followeth the proud: and glory shall uphold the humble of spirit. he that is partaker with a thief, hateth his own soul: he heareth one putting him to his oath, and discovereth not. he that feareth man, shall quickly fall: he that trusteth in the lord, shall be set on high. many seek the face of the prince: but the judgment of every one cometh forth from the lord. the just abhor the wicked man: and the wicked loathe them that are in the right way. the son that keepeth the word, shall be free from destruction.

the words of gatherer the son of vomiter. the vision which the man spoke with whom god is, and who being strengthened by god, abiding with him, said: i am the most foolish of men, and the wisdom of men is not with me. i have not learned wisdom, and have not known the science of saints. who hath ascended up into heaven, and descended? who hath held the wind in his hands? who hath bound up the waters together as in a garment? who hath raised up all the borders of the earth? what is his name, and what is the name of his son, if thou knowest? every word of god is fire tried: he is a buckler to them that hope in him. add not any thing to his words, lest thou be reproved, and found a liar: two things i have asked of thee, deny them not to me before i die. remove far from me vanity, and lying words. give me neither beggary, nor riches: give me only the necessities of life: lest perhaps being filled, i should be tempted to deny, and say: who is the lord? or being compelled by poverty, i should steal, and forswear the name of my god. accuse not a servant to his master, lest he curse thee, and thou fall. there is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not bless their mother. a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet are not washed from their filthiness. a generation, whose eyes are lofty, and their eyelids lifted up on high. a generation, that for teeth hath swords, and grindeth with their jaw teeth, to devour the needy from off the earth, and the poor from among men. the horseleech hath two daughters that say: bring, bring. there are three things that never are satisfied, and the fourth never saith: it is enough. hell, and the mouth of the womb, and the earth which is not satisfied with water: and the fire never saith: it is enough. the eye that mocketh at his father, and that despiseth the labour of his mother in bearing him, let the ravens of the brooks pick it out, and the young eagles eat it. three things are hard to me, and the fourth i am utterly ignorant of. the way of an eagle in the air, the way of a serpent upon a rock, the way of a ship in the midst of the sea, and the way of a man in youth. such is also the way of an adulterous woman, who eateth, and wipeth her mouth, and saith: i have done no evil. by three things the earth is disturbed, and the fourth it cannot bear: by a slave when he reigneth: by a fool when he is filled with meat: by an odious woman when she is married: and by a bondwoman when she is heir to her mistress. there are four very little things of the earth, and they are wiser than the wise: the ants, a feeble people, which provide themselves food in the harvest: the rabbit, a weak people, which maketh its bed in the rock: the locust hath no king, yet they all go out by their bands. the stellio supporteth itself on hands, and dwelleth in kings' houses. there are three things, which go well, and the fourth that walketh happily: a lion, the strongest of beasts, who hath no fear of any thing he meeteth: a cock girded about the loins: and a ram: and a king, whom none can resist. there is that hath appeared a fool after he was lifted up on high: for if he had understood, he would have laid his hand upon his mouth. and he that strongly squeezeth the papa to bring out milk, straineth out butter: and he that violently bloweth his nose, bringeth out blood: and he that provoketh wrath bringeth forth strife.

the words of king lamuel. the vision wherewith his mother instructed him. what, o my beloved, what, o the beloved of my womb, what, o the beloved of my vows? give not thy substance to women, and thy riches to destroy kings. give not to kings, o lamuel, give not wine to kings: because there is no secret where drunkenness reigneth: and lest they drink and forget judgments, and pervert the cause of the children of the poor. give strong drink to them that are sad: and wine to them that are grieved in mind: let them drink, and forget their want, and remember their sorrow no more. open thy mouth for the dumb, and for the causes of all the children that pass. open thy mouth, decree that which is just, and do justice to the needy and poor. who shall find a valiant woman? far and from the uttermost coasts is the price of her. the heart of her husband trusteth in her, and he shall have no need of spoils. she will render him good, and not evil, all the days of her life. she hath sought wool and flax, and hath wrought by the counsel of her hands. she is like the merchant's ship, she bringeth her bread from afar. and she hath risen in the night, and given a prey to her household, and victuals to her maidens. she hath considered a field, and bought it: with the fruit of her hands she hath planted a vineyard. she hath girded her loins with strength, and hath strengthened her arm. she hath tasted and seen that her traffic is good: her lamp shall not be put out in the night. she hath put out her hand

to strong things, and her fingers have taken hold of the spindle. she hath opened her hand to the needy, and stretched out her hands to the poor. she shall not fear for her house in the cold of snow: for all her domestics are clothed with double garments. she hath made for herself clothing of tapestry: fine linen, and purple is her covering. her husband is honourable in the gates, when he sitteth among the senators of the land. she made fine linen, and sold it, and delivered a girdle to the chanaanite. strength and beauty are her clothing, and she shall laugh in the latter day. she hath opened her mouth to wisdom, and the law of clemency is on her tongue. she hath looked well to the paths of her house, and hath not eaten her bread idle. her children rose up, and called her blessed: her husband, and he praised her. many daughters have gathered together riches: thou hast surpassed them all. favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain: the woman that feareth the lord, she shall be praised. give her of the fruit of her hands: and let her works praise her in the gates.

there was a man in the land of hus, whose name was job, and that man was simple and upright, and fearing god, and avoiding evil. and there were born to him seven sons and three daughters. and his possession was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she asses, and a family exceeding great: and this man was great among all the people of the east. and his sons went, and made a feast by houses every one in his day. and sending they called their three sisters to eat and drink with them. and when the days of their feasting were gone about, job sent to them, and sanctified them: and rising up early offered holocausts for every one of them. for he said: lest perhaps my sons have sinned, and have blessed god in their hearts. so did job all days. now on a certain day when the sons of god came to stand before the lord, satan also was present among them. and the lord said to him: whence comest thou ? and he answered and said: i have gone round about the earth, and walked through it. and the lord said to him: hast thou considered my servant job, that there is none like him in the earth, a simple and upright man, and fearing god, and avoiding evil? and satan answering, said: doth job fear god in vain ? hast not thou made a fence for him, and his house, and all his substance round about, blessed the works of his hands, and his possession hath increased on the earth ? but stretch forth thy hand a little, and touch all that he hath, and see if he blesteth thee not to thy face. then the lord said to satan: behold, all that he hath is in thy hand: only put not forth thy hand upon his person. and satan went forth from the presence of the lord. now upon a certain day when his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their eldest brother, there came a messenger to job, and said: the oxen were ploughing, and the asses feeding beside them, and the sabeans rushed in, and took all away, and slew the servants with the sword, and i alone have escaped to tell thee. and while he was yet speaking, another came, and said: the fire of god fell from heaven, and striking the sheep and the servants, hath consumed them, and i alone have escaped to tell thee. and while he also was yet speaking, there came another, and said: the chaldeans made three troops, and have fallen upon the camels, and taken them, moreover they have slain the servants with the sword, and i alone have escaped to tell thee. he was yet speaking, and behold another came in, and said: thy sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their elder brother: a violent wind came on a sudden from the side of the desert, and shook the four corners of the house, and it fell upon thy children and they are dead, and i alone have escaped to tell thee. then job rose up, and rent his garments, and having shaven his head fell down upon the ground and worshipped, and said: naked came i out of my mother's womb, and naked shall i return thither: the lord gave, and the lord hath taken away: as it hath pleased the lord so is it done: blessed be the name of the lord. in all these things job sinned not by his lips, nor spoke he any foolish thing against god.

and it came to pass, when on a certain day the sons of god came, and stood before the lord, and satan came among them, and stood in his sight, that the lord said to satan: whence comest thou ? and he answered and said: i have gone round about the earth, and walked through it. and the lord said to satan: hast thou considered my servant job, that there is none like him in the earth, a man simple, and upright, and fearing cod, and avoiding evil, and still keeping his innocence ? but thou hast moved me against him, that i sho uld afflict him without cause. and satan answered, and said: skin for skin, and all that a man hath he will give for his life: gut put forth thy hand, and touch his bone and his flesh, and then thou shalt gee that he will bless thee to thy face. and the lord said to satan: behold be is in thy hand, but yet save his life. so satan went forth from the presence of the lord, and struck job with a very grievous ulcer, from the sole of the foot even to the top of his head: and he took a potsherd and scraped the corrupt matter, sitting on a dunghill. and his wife said to him: dost thou still continue in thy simplicity? bless god and die. and he said to her: thou hast; spoken like one of the foolish women: if we have received good things at the hand of god, why should we not receive evil? in all these things job did not sin with his lips. now when job's three friends heard all the evil that had befallen him, they came every one from his own place, alphas the themanite, and baldad the subite, and sophar the naamathite. for they had made an appointment to come together and visit him, a nd comfort him. and when they had lifted up their eyes afar off, they knew him not, and crying out they wept, and rending their garments they sprinkled dust upon their heads towards heaven. and they sat with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no man spoke to him a word: for they saw that his grief was very great.

after this job opened his mouth, and cursed his day, and he said: let the day perish wherein i was born, and the night in which it was said: a man child is conceived. let that day be turned into darkness, let not god regard it from above, and let not the light shine upon it. let darkness, and the shadow of death cover it, let a mist overspread it, and let it be wrapped up in bitterness. let a darksome whirlwind seize upon that night, let it not be counted in the days of the year, nor numbered in the months. let that night be solitary, and not worthy of praise. let them curse it who curse the day. who are ready to raise up a leviathan: let the stars be darkened with the mist thereof: let it expect light and not see it, nor the rising of the dawning of the day: because it shut not up the doors of the womb that bore me, nor took away evils from my eyes. why did i not die in the womb, why did i not perish when i came out of the belly? why received upon the knees? why suckled at the breasts ? for now i should have been asleep and still, and should have rest in my sleep. with kings and consuls of the earth, who build themselves solitudes: or with princes, that possess gold, and all their houses with silver: or as a hidden untimely birth i should not be, or as they that being conceived have not seen the light. there the wicked cease from tumult, and there the wearied in strength are at rest. and they sometime bound together without disquiet, have not heard the voice of the oppressor. the small and great are there, and the servant is free from his master. why is light given to him that is in misery, and life to them that are in bitterness of soul? that look for death, and it cometh not, as they that dig for a treasure: and they rejoyce exceedingly when they have found the grave. to a man whose way is hidden, and god hath surrounded him with darkness? before i eat i sigh: and as overflowing waters, so is my roaring: for the fear which i feared hath come upon me: and that which i was afraid of, hath befallen me. have i not dissembled? have i not kept silence? have i not been quiet? and indignation is come upon me.

then eliphaz the themanite answered, and said: if we begin to speak to thee, perhaps thou wilt take it ill, but who can withhold the words he hath conceived? behold thou hast taught many, and thou hast strengthened the weary hands: thy words have confirmed them that were staggering, and thou hast strengthened the trembling knees: but now the scourge is come upon thee, and thou faintest: it hath touched thee, and thou art troubled. where is thy fear, thy fortitude, thy patience, and the perfection of thy ways? remember, i pray thee, who ever perished being innocent? or when were the just destroyed? on the contrary i have seen those who work iniquity, and sow sorrows, and reap them, perishing by the blast of god, and consumed by the spirit of his wrath. the roaring of the lion, and the voice of the lioness, and the teeth of the whelps of lions are broken: the tiger hath perished for want of prey, and the young lions are scattered abroad. now there was a word spoken to me in private, and my ears by stealth as it were received the veins of its whisper. in the horror of a vision by night, when deep sleep is wont to hold men, fear seized upon me, and trembling, and all my bones were affrighted: and when a spirit passed before me, the hair of my flesh stood up. there stood one whose countenance i knew not, an image before my eyes, and i heard the voice as it were of a gentle wind: shall man be justified in comparison of god, or shall a man be more pure than his maker? behold they that serve him are not steadfast, and in his angels he found wickedness: how much more shall they that dwell in houses of clay, who have an earthly foundation, be consumed as with the moth? from morning till evening they shall be cut down: and because no one understandeth, they shall perish for ever. and they that shall be left, shall be taken away from them: they shall die, and not in wisdom.

call now if there be any that will answer thee, and turn to some of the saints. anger indeed killeth the foolish, and envy slayeth the little one. i have seen a fool with a strong root, and i cursed his beauty immediately. his children shall be far from safety, and shall be destroyed in the gate, and there shall be none to deliver them. whose harvest the hungry shall eat, and the armed man shall take him by violence, and the thirsty shall drink up his riches. nothing upon earth is done without a voice cause, and sorrow doth not spring out of the ground. man is born to labour and the bird to fly. wherefore i will pray to the lord, and address my speech to god: who doth great things and unsearchable and wonderful things without number: who giveth rain upon the face of the earth, and watereth all things with waters: who setteth up the humble on high, and comforteth with health those that mourn. who bringeth to nought the designs of the malignant, so that their hands cannot accomplish what they had begun: who catcheth the wise in their craftiness, and disappointeth the counsel of the wicked: they shall meet with darkness in the day, and grope at noonday as in the night. but he shall save the needy from the sword of their mouth, and the poor from the hand of the violent. and to the needy there shall he hope, but iniquity shall draw in her mouth. blessed is the man whom god correcteth: refuse not therefore the chastising of the lord: for he woundeth, and cureth: he striketh, and his hands shall heal. in six troubles he shall deliver thee, and in the seventh, evil shall not touch thee. in famine he shall deliver thee from death: and in battle, from the hand of the sword. thou shalt be hidden from the scourge of the tongue: and thou shalt not fear calamity when it cometh. in destruction and famine then shalt laugh: and thou shalt not be afraid of the beasts of the earth. but thou shalt have a covenant with the stones of the lands, and the beasts of the earth shall be at pence with thee. and thou shalt know that thy tabernacle is in peace, and visiting thy beauty thou shalt not sin. thou shalt know also that thy seed shall be multiplied, and thy offspring like the grass of the earth. thou shalt enter into the grave in abundance, as a heap of wheat is brought in its season. behold, this is even so, as we have searched out: which thou having heard, consider it thoroughly in thy mind.

but job answered, and said: o that my sins, whereby i have deserved wrath, and the calamity that i suffer, were weighed in a balance. as the sand of the sea this would appear heavier: therefore my words are full of sorrow: for the arrows of the lord are in me, the rage whereof drinketh up my spirit, and the terrors of the lord war against me. will the wild ass bray when he hath grass? or will the ox low when he standeth before a full manger? or can an unsavoury thing be eaten, that is not seasoned with salt? or can a man taste that which when tasted bringeth death? the things which before my soul would not touch, now, through anguish are my meats. who will grant that my request may come: and that god may give me what i look for? and that he that hath begun may destroy me, that he may let loose his hand, and cut me off? and that this may be my comfort, that afflicting me with sorrow, he spare not, nor i contradict the words of the holy one. for what is my strength, that i can hold out? or what is my end that i should keep patience? my strength is not the strength of stones, nor is my flesh of brass. behold there is no help for me in myself, and my familiar friends also are departed from me. he that taketh away mercy from his friend, forsaketh the fear of the lord. my brethren have passed by me, as the torrent that passeth swiftly in the valleys. they that fear the hoary frost, the snow shall fall upon them. at the time when they shall be scattered they shall perish: and after it groweth hot they shall be melted out of their place. the paths of their steps are entangled: they shall walk in vain, and shall perish. consider the paths of them, the ways of saba, and wait a little while. they are confounded, because i have hoped: they are come also even unto me, and are covered with shame. now you are come: and now seeing my affliction you are afraid. did i say: bring to me, and give me of your substance? or deliver me from the hand of the enemy, and rescue me out of the hand of the mighty? teach me, and i will hold my peace: and if i have been ignorant in any thing, instruct me. why have you detracted the words of truth, whereas there is none of you that can reprove me? you dress up speeches only to rebuke, and you utter words to the wind. you rush in upon the fatherless, and you endeavour to overthrow your friend. however finish what you have begun, give ear, and see whether i lie. answer, i beseech you, without contention: and speaking that which is just, judge ye. and you shall not and iniquity in my tongue, neither shall folly sound in my mouth.

the life of man upon earth is a warfare, and his days are like the days of a hireling. as a servant longeth for the shade, as the hireling looketh for the end of his work; so i also have had empty months, and have numbered to myself wearisome nights. if i lie down to sleep, i shall say: when shall arise? and again i shall look for the evening, and shall be filled with sorrows even till darkness. my flesh is clothed with rottenness and the filth of dust, my skin is withered and drawn together. my days have passed more swiftly than the web is cut by the weaver, and are consumed without any hope. remember that my life is but wind, and my eyes shall not return to see good things. nor shall the sight of man behold me: thy eyes are upon me, and i shall be no more. as a cloud is consumed, and passeth away: so he that shall go down to hell shall not come up. nor shall he return my more into his house, neither shall his place know him any more. wherefore i will not spare my month, i will speak in the affliction of my spirit: i will talk with the bitterness of my soul. am i a sea, or a whale, that thou hast enclosed me in a prison? if i say: my bed shall comfort me, and i shall be relieved speaking with myself on my couch: thou wilt frighten me with dreams and terrify me with visions. so that my soul rather chooseth hanging, and my bones death. i have done with hope, i shall now live no longer: spare me, for my days are nothing. what is a man that thou shouldst magnify him? or why dost thou set thy heart upon him? thou visitest him early in the morning, and thou provest him suddenly. how long wilt thou not spare me, nor suffer me to swallow down my spittle? i have sinned: what shall i do to thee, o keeper of men? why hast thou set me opposite to thee, and i am become burdensome to myself? why dost thou not remove my sin, and why dost thou not take away my iniquity? behold now i shall sleep in the dust: and if thou seek me in the morning, i shall not be.

the baldad the suhite answered, and said: how long wilt thou speak these things, and how long shall the words of thy mouth be like a strong wind? doth god pervert judgment, or doth the almighty overthrow that which is just? although thy children have sinned against him, and he hath left them in the hand of their iniquity: yet if thou wilt arise early to god, and wilt beseech the almighty: if thou wilt walk clean and upright, he will presently awake onto thee, and will make the dwelling of thy justice peaceable: inasmuch, that if thy former things were small, thy latter things would be multiplied exceedingly. for inquire of the former generation, and search diligently into the memory of the fathers: (for we are but of yesterday, and are ignorant that our days upon earth are but a shadow:) and they shall teach thee: they shall speak to thee, and utter words out of their hearts. can the rush be green without moisture? or a sedge-bush grow without water? when it is yet in flower, and is not plucked up with the hand, it withereth before all herbs. even so are the ways of all that forget god, and the hope of the hypocrite shall perish: his folly shall not please him, and his trust shall be like the spider's web. he shall lean upon his house, and it shall not stand: he shall prop it up, and it shall not rise: he seemeth to have moisture before the sun cometh, and at his rising his blossom shall shoot forth. his roots shall be thick upon a heap of stones, and among the stones he shall abide. if one swallow him up out of his place, he shall deny him, and shall say: i know thee not. for this is the joy of his way, that others may spring again out of the earth. god will not cast away the simple, nor reach out his hand to the evildoer: until thy mouth be filled with laughter, and thy lips with rejoicing. they that hate thee, shall be clothed with confusion: and the dwelling of the wicked shall not stand.

and job answered, and said: indeed i know it is so, and that man cannot be justified compared with if he will contend with him, he cannot answer him one for a thousand. he is wise in heart, and mighty in strength: who hath resisted him, and hath had peace? who hath removed mountains, and they whom he overthrew in his wrath, knew it not. who shaketh the earth out of her place, and the pillars thereof tremble. who commandeth tile sun and it riseth not: and shutteth up the stars as it were under a seal: who alone spreadeth out the heavens, and walketh upon the waves of the sea. who maketh arcturus, and orion, and hyades, and the inner parts of the south. who doth things great and incomprehensible, and wonderful, of which there is no number. if he come to me, i shall not see him: if he depart i shall not understand. if he examine on a sudden, who shall answer him? or who can say: why dost thou so? god, whose wrath no man can resist, and under whom they stoop that bear up the world. what am i then, that i should answer him, and have words with him? i, who although i should have any just thing, would not answer, but would make supplication to my judge. and if he should hear me when i call, i should not believe that he had heard my voice. for he shall crush me in a whirlwind, and multiply my wounds even without cause. he alloweth not my spirit to rest, and he filleth me with bitterness. if strength be demanded, he is most strong: if equity of judgment, no man dare bear witness for me. if i would justify myself, my own mouth shall condemn me: if i would shew myself innocent, he shall prove me wicked. although i should be simple, even this my soul shall be ignorant of, and i shall be weary of my life. one thing there is that i have spoken, both the innocent and the wicked he consumeth. if he scourge, let him kill at once, and not laugh at the pains of the innocent. the earth is given into the hand of the wicked, he covereth the face of the judges thereof: and if it be not he, who is it then? my days have been swifter than a post: they have fled away and have not seen good. they have passed by as ships carrying fruits, as an eagle flying to the prey. if i say: i will not speak so: i change my face, and am tormented with sorrow. i feared all my works, knowing that thou didst not spare the offender. but if so also i am wicked, why have i laboured in vain? if i be washed as it were with snow waters, and my hands shall shine ever so clean: yet thou shalt plunge me in filth, and my garments shall abhor me, for i shall not answer a man that is like myself: nor one that may be heard with me equally in judgment. there is none that may be able to reprove both, and to put his hand between both. let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear terrify me. i will speak, and will not fear him: for i cannot answer while i am in fear.

my soul is weary of my life, i will let go my speech against myself, i will speak in the bitterness of my soul. i will say to god: do not condemn me: tell me why thou judgest me so. doth it seem good to thee that thou shouldst calumniate me, and oppress me, the work of thy own hands, and help the counsel of the wicked? hast thou eyes of flesh: or, shalt thou see as man seeth? are thy days as the days of man, and

are thy years as the times of men: that thou shouldst inquire after my iniquity, and search after my sin? and shouldst know that i have done no wicked thing, whereas there is no man that can deliver out of thy hand. thy hands have made me, and fashioned me wholly round about, and dost thou thus cast me down headlong on a sudden? remember, i beseech thee, that thou hast made me as the clay, and thou wilt bring me into dust again. hast thou not milked me as milk, and curdled me like cheese? thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh: thou hast put me together with bones and sinews: thou hast granted me life and mercy, and thy visitation hath preserved my spirit. although thou conceal these things in thy heart, yet i know that thou rememberest all things. if i have sinned and thou hast spared me for an hour: why dost thou not suffer me to be clean from my iniquity? and if i be wicked, woe unto me: and if just, i shall not lift up my head, being filled with affliction and misery. and for pride thou wilt take me as a lioness, and returning thou tormentest me wonderfully. thou renewest thy witnesses against me, and multiplieth thy wrath upon me, and pains war against me. why didst thou bring me forth out of the womb: o that i had been consumed that eye might not see me! i should have been as if i had not been, carried from the womb to the grave. shall not the fewness of my days be ended shortly? suffer me, therefore, that i may lament my sorrow a little: before i go, and return no more, to a land that is dark and covered with the mist of death: a land of misery and darkness, where the shadow of death, and no order, but everlasting horror dwelleth.

then sophar the naamathite answered, and said: shall not he that speaketh much, hear also? or shall a man full of talk be justified? shall men hold their peace to thee only? and when thou hast mocked others, shall no man confute thee? for thou hast said: my word is pure, and i am clean in thy sight. and i wish that god would speak with thee, and would open his lips to thee, that he might shew thee the secrets of wisdom, and that his law is manifold, and thou mightest understand that he exacteth much less of thee, than thy iniquity deserveth. peradventure thou wilt comprehend the steps of god, and wilt find out the almighty perfectly? he is higher than heaven, and what wilt thou do? he is deeper than hell, and how wilt thou know? the measure of him is longer than the earth, and broader than the sea. if he shall overturn all things, or shall press them together, who shall contradict him? for he knoweth the vanity of men, and when he seeth iniquity, doth he not consider it? a vain man is lifted up into pride, and thinketh himself born free like a wild ass's colt. rut thou hast hardened thy heart, and hast spread thy hands to him. if thou wilt put away from thee the iniquity that is in thy hand, and lot not injustice remain in thy tabernacle: then mayst thou lift up thy face without spot, and thou shalt be steadfast, and shalt not fear. thou shalt also forget misery, and remember it only as waters that are passed away. and brightness like that of the noonday, shall arise to thee at evening: and when thou shalt think thyself consumed, thou shalt rise as the day star. and thou shalt have confidence, hope being set before thee, and being buried thou shalt sleep secure. thou shalt rest, and there shall be none to make thee afraid: and many shall entreat thy face. but the eyes of the wicked shall decay, and the way to escape shall fail them, and their hope the abomination of the soul.

when job answered, and said: are you then men alone, and shall wisdom die with you? i also have a heart as well as you: for who is ignorant of these things, which you know? he that is mocked by his friends as i, shall call upon god and he will hear him: for the simplicity of the just man is laughed to scorn. the lamp despised in the thoughts of the rich, is ready for the time appointed. the tabernacles of robbers abound, and they provoke god boldly; whereas it is he that hath given all into their hands: but ask now the beasts, and they shall teach thee: and the birds of the air, and they shall tell thee. speak to the earth, and it shall answer thee: and the fishes of the sea shall tell. who is ignorant that the hand of the lord hath made all these things? in whose hand is the soul of every living thing, and the spirit of all flesh of man. doth not the ear discern words, and the palate of him that eateth, the taste? in the ancient is wisdom, and in length of days prudence. with him is wisdom and strength, he hath counsel and understanding. if he pull down, there is no man that can build up: if he shut up a man, there is none that can open. if he withhold the waters, all things shall be dried up: and if he send them out, they shall overturn the earth. with him is strength and wisdom: he knoweth both the deceiver, and him that is deceived. he bringeth counsellors to a foolish end, and judges to insensibility. he looseth the belt of kings, and girdeth their loins with a cord. he leadeth away priests without glory, and overthroweth nobles. he changeth the speech of the true speakers, and taketh away the doctrine of the aged. he poureth contempt upon princes, and relievet them that were oppressed. he discovereth deep things out of darkness, and bringeth up to light the shadow of death. he multiplieth nations, and destroyeth them, and restoreth them again after they were overthrown. he changeth the heart of the princes of the people of the earth, and deceiveth them that they walk in vain where there is no way. they shall grope as in the dark, and not in the light, and he shall make them stagger like men that are drunk.

behold my eye hath seen all these things, and my ear hath heard them, and i have understood them all. according to your knowledge i also know: neither am i inferior to you. but yet i will speak to the almighty, and i desire to reason with god. having first shewn that you are forgers of lies, and maintainers of perverse opinions. and i wish you would hold your peace, that you might be thought to be wise men.. hear ye therefore my reproof, and attend to the judgment of my lips. hath god any need of your lie, that you should speak deceitfully for him? do you accept his person, and do you endeavour to judge for god? or shall it please him, from whom nothing can be concealed? or shall he be deceived as a man, with your deceitful dealings? he shall reprove you, because in secret you accept his person: as soon as he shall move himself, he shall trouble you: and his dread shall fall upon you. your remembrance shall be compared to ashes, and your necks shall be brought to clay. hold your peace a little while, that i may speak whatsoever my mind shall suggest to me. why do i tear my flesh with my teeth, and carry my soul in my hands? although he should bill me, i will trust in him: but yet i will reprove my ways in his sight. and he shall be my saviour: for no hypocrite shall come before his presence. hear ye my speech, and receive with sour ears hidden truths. if i shall be judged, i know that i shall be found just. who is he that will plead against me? let him come: why am i consumed holding my peace? two things only do not to me, and then from thy face i shall not be hid: withdraw thy hand far from me, and let not thy dread terrify me. call me, and i will answer thee: or else i will speak, and do thou answer me. how many are my iniquities and sins? make me know my crimes and offences. why hidest thou thy face, and thinkest me thy enemy? against a leaf, that is carried away with the wind, thou shewest thy power, and thou pursuest a dry straw. for thou writest bitter things against me, and wilt consume me for the sins of my youth. thou hast put my feet in the stocks, and hast observed all my paths, and hast considered the steps of my feet: who am to be consumed as rottenness, and as a garment that is moth-eaten.

man born of a woman, living for a short time, is filled with many miseries. who cometh forth like a flower, and is destroyed, and fleeth as a shadow, and never continueth in the same state. and dost thou think it meet to open thy eyes upon such an one, and to bring him into judgment with thee? who can make him clean that is conceived of unclean seed? is it not thou who only art? the days of man are short, and the number of his months is with thee: thou hast appointed his bounds which cannot be passed. depart a little from him, that he may rest, until his wished for day come, as that of the hireling. a tree hath hope: if it be cut, it groweth green again, and the boughs thereof sprout. if its root be old in the earth, and its stock be dead in the dust: at the scent of water, it shall spring, and bring forth leaves, as when it was first planted. but man when he shall be dead, and stripped and consumed, i pray you where is he? as if the waters should depart out of the sea, and an emptied river should be dried up: so man when he is fallen asleep shall not rise again; till the heavens be broken, he shall not awake, nor rise up out of his sleep. who will grant me this, that thou mayest protect me in hell, and hide me till thy wrath pass, and appoint me a time when thou wilt remember me? shall man that is dead, thinkest thou, live again? all the days in which i am now in warfare, i expect until my change come. thou shalt call me, and i will answer thee: to the work of thy hands thou shalt reach out thy right hand. thou indeed hast numbered my steps, but spare my sins. thou hast sealed up my offences as it were in a bag, but hast cured my iniquity. a mountain falling cometh to nought, and a rock is removed out of its place. waters wear away the stones, and with inundation the ground by little and little is washed away: so in like manner thou shalt destroy man. thou hast strengthened him for a little while, that he may pass away for ever: thou shalt change his face, and shalt send him away. whether his children come to honour or dishonour, he shall not understand. but yet his flesh, while he shall live, shall have pain, and his soul shall mourn over him.

and eliphaz the themanite, answered, and said: will a wise man answer as if he were speaking in the wind, and fill his stomach with burning heat? thou reprovest him by words, who is not equal to thee, and thou speakest that which is not good for thee. as much as is in thee, thou hast made void fear, and hast taken away prayers from before god. for thy iniquity hath taught thy mouth, and thou imitatest the tongue of blasphemers. thy own mouth shall condemn thee, and not i: and thy own lips shall answer thee. art thou the first man that was born, or wast thou made before the hills? hast thou heard god's counsel, and shall his wisdom be inferior to thee? what knowest thou that we are ignorant of? what dost thou understand that we know not? there are with us also aged and ancient men, much elder than thy fathers. is it a great matter that god should comfort thee? but thy wicked words hinder this. why doth thy heart elevate thee, and why dost thou stare with thy eyes, as if they were thinking great things? why doth thy spirit swell against god, to utter such words out of thy mouth? what is man that he should be without spot, and he that is born of a woman that he should appear just? behold among his saints none is unchangeable, and the heavens are not pure in his sight. how much more is man abominable, and unprofitable, who drinketh iniquity like water? i will shew thee, hear me: and i will tell thee what i have seen. wise men confess and hide not their fathers. to whom alone the earth was given, and no stranger hath passed among them. the wicked man is proud all his days, and the number of the years of his tyranny is uncertain. the sound of dread is always in his ears: and when there is peace, he always suspecteth treason. he believeth not that he may return from darkness to light, looking round about for the sword on every side. when he moveth himself to seek bread, he knoweth that the day of darkness is ready at his hand. tribulation shall terrify him, and distress shall surround him, as a king that is prepared for the battle. for he hath stretched out his hand against god, and hath strengthened himself against the almighty.

he hath run against him with his neck raised up, and is armed with a fat neck. fatness hath covered his face, and the fat hangeth down on his sides. he hath dwelt in desolate cities, and in desert houses that are reduced into heaps. he shall not be enriched, neither shall his substance continue, neither shall he push his root in the earth. he shall not depart out of darkness: the flame shall dry up his branches, and he shall be taken away by the breath of his own mouth. he shall not believe, being vainly deceived by error, that he may be redeemed with any price. before his days be full he shall perish: and his hands shall wither away. he shall be blasted as a vine when its grapes are in the first flower, and as an olive tree that casteth its flower. for the congregation of the hypocrite is barren, and fire shall devour their tabernacles, who love to take bribes. he hath conceived sorrow, and hath brought forth iniquity, and his womb prepareth deceits.

then job answered, and said: i have often heard such things as these: you are all troublesome comforters. shall windy words have no end? or is it any trouble to thee to speak? i also could speak like you: and would god your soul were for my soul. i would comfort you also with words, and would wag my head over you. i would strengthen you with my mouth, and would move my lips, as sparing you. but what shall i do? if i speak, my pain will not rest: and if i hold my peace, it will not depart from me. but now my sorrow hath oppressed me, and all my limbs are brought to nothing. my wrinkles bear witness against me, and a false speaker riseth up against my face, contradicting me. he hath gathered together his fury against me, and threatening me he hath gnashed with his teeth upon me: my enemy hath beheld me with terrible eyes. they have opened their mouths upon me, and reproaching me they have struck me on the cheek, they are filled with my pains. god hath shut me up with the unjust man, and hath delivered me into the hands of the wicked. i that was formerly so wealthy, am all on a sudden broken to pieces: he hath taken me by my neck, he hath broken me, and hath set me up to be his mark. he hath compassed me round about with his lances, he hath wounded my loins, he hath not spared, and hath poured out my bowels on the earth. he hath torn me with wound upon wound, he hath rushed in upon me like a giant. i have sowed sackcloth upon my skin, and have covered my flesh with ashes. my face is swollen with weeping, and my eyelids are dim. these things have i suffered without the iniquity of my hand, when i offered pure prayers to god. o earth, cover not thou my blood, neither let my cry find a hiding place in thee. for behold my witness is in heaven, and he that knoweth my conscience is on high. my friends are full of words: my eye poureth out tears to god. and o that a man might so be judged with god, as the son of man is judged with his companion! for behold short years pass away and i am walking in a path by which i shall not return.

my spirit shall be wasted, my days shall be shortened, and only the grave remaineth for me. i have not sinned, and my eye abideth in bitterness. deliver me o lord, and set me beside thee, and let any man's hand fight against me. thou hast set their heart far from understanding, therefore they shall not be exalted. he promiseth a prey to his companions, and the eyes of his children shall fail. he hath made me as it were a by-word of the people, and i am an example before them. my eye is dim through indignation, and my limbs are brought as it were to nothing. the just shall be astonished at this, and the innocent shall be raised up against the hypocrite. and the just man shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger. wherefore be ye all converted, and come, and i shall not find among you any wise man. my days have passed away, my thoughts are dissipated, tormenting my heart. they have turned night into day, and after darkness i hope for light again. if i wait hell is my house, and i have made my bed in darkness. if i have said to rottenness: thou art my father; to worms, my mother and my sister. where is now then my expectation, and who considereth my patience? all that i have shall go down into the deepest pit: thinkest thou that there at least i shall have rest?

then baldad the suhite answered, and said: how long will you throw out words? understand first, and so let us speak. why are we reputed as beasts, and counted vile before you? thou that destroyest thy soul in thy fury, shall the earth be forsaken for thee, and shall rocks be removed out of their place? shall not the light of the wicked be extinguished, and the flame of his fire not shine? the light shall be dark in his tabernacle, and the lamp that is over him, shall be put out. the step of his strength shall be straitened, and his own counsel shall cast him down headlong. for he hath thrust his feet into a net, and walketh in its meshes. the sole of his foot shall be held in a snare, and thirst shall burn against him. a gin is hidden for him in the earth, and his trap upon the path. fears shall terrify him on every side, and shall entangle his feet. let his strength be wasted with famine, and let hunger invade his ribs. let it devour the beauty of his skin, let the firstborn death consume his arms. let his confidence be rooted out of his tabernacle, and let destruction tread upon him like a king. let the companions of him that is not, dwell in his tabernacle, let brimstone be sprinkled in his tent. let his roots be dried up beneath, and his harvest destroyed above. let the memory of him perish from the earth and let not his name be renowned in the streets. he shall drive him out of light into darkness, and shall remove him out of the world. his seed shall not subsist, nor his offspring among his people, nor any remnants in his country. they that come after him shall be astonished at his day, and horror shall fall upon them that went before. these men are the tabernacles of the wicked,

then job answered, and said: how long do you afflict my soul, and break me in pieces with words? behold, these ten times you confound me, and are not ashamed to oppress me. for if i have been ignorant, my ignorance shall be with me. but you have set yourselves up against me, and reprove me with my reproaches. at least now understand, that god hath not afflicted me with an equal judgment, and compassed me with his scourges. behold i cry suffering violence, and no one will hear: i shall cry aloud, and there is none to judge. he hath hedged in my path round about, and i cannot pass, and in my way he hath set darkness. he hath stripped me of my glory, and hath taken the crown from my head. he hath destroyed me on every side, and i am lost, and he hath taken away my hope, as from a tree that is plucked up. his wrath is kindled against me, and he hath counted me as his enemy. his troops have come together, and have made themselves a way by me, and have besieged my tabernacle round about. he hath put my brethren far from me, and my acquaintance like strangers have departed from me. my kinsmen have forsaken me, and they that knew me, have forgotten me. they that dwelt in my house, and my maid-servants have counted me a stranger, and i have been like an alien in their eyes. i called my servant, and he gave me no answer, i entreated him with my own mouth. my wife hath abhorred my breath, and i entreated the children of my womb. even fools despise me; and when i gone from them, they spoke against me. they that were sometime my counsellors, have abhorred me: and he whom i love most is turned against me. the flesh being consumed. my bone hath cleaved to my skin, and nothing but lips are left about my teeth. have pity on me, have pity on me, at least you my friends, because the hand of the lord hath touched me. why do you persecute me as god, and glut yourselves with my flesh? who will grant me that my words may be written? who will grant me that they may be marked down in a book? with an iron pen and in a plate of lead, or else be graven with an instrument in flint stone. for i know that my redeemer liveth, and in the last day i shall rise out of the earth. and i shall be clothed again with my skin, and in my flesh i will see my god. whom i myself shall see, and my eyes shall behold, and not another: this my hope is laid up in my bosom. why then do you say now: let us persecute him, and let us find occasion of word against him? flee then from the face of the sword, for the sword is the revenger of iniquities: and know ye that there is judgment.

then sophar the naamathite answered, and said: therefore various thoughts succeed one another in me, and my mind is hurried away to different things. the doctrine with which thou reprovest me, i will hear, and the spirit of my understanding shall answer for me. this i know from the beginning, since man was placed upon the earth, that the praise of the wicked is short, and the joy of the hypocrite but for a moment. if his pride mount up even to heaven, and his head touch the clouds: in the end he shall be destroyed like a dunghill, and they that has seen him shall say: where is he? as a dream that fleeth away he shall not be found, he shall pass as a vision of the night: the eyes that had seen him, shall see him no more, neither shall his place any more behold him. his children shall be oppressed with want, and his hands shall render him his sorrow. his bones shall be filled with the vices of his youth, and they shall sleep with him in the dust. for when evil shall be sweet in his mouth, he will hide it under his tongue. he will spare it, and not leave it, and will hide it in his throat. his bread in his belly shall be turned into the gall of asps within him. the riches which he hath swallowed; he shall vomit up, and god shall draw them out of his belly. he shall suck the head of asps, and the viper's tongue shall kill him. (let him not see the streams of the river, the brooks of honey and of butter.) he shall be punished for all that he did, and yet shall not be consumed: according to the multitude of his devices so also shall he suffer. because he broke in and stripped the poor: he hath violently taken away a house which he did not build. and yet his belly was not filled: and when he hath the things he coveted, he shall not be able to possess them. there was nothing left of his meat, and therefore nothing shall continue of his goods: when he shall be filled, he shall be straitened, he shall burn, and every sorrow shall fall upon him. may his belly be filled, that god may send forth the wrath of his indignation upon him, and rain down his war upon him. he shall flee from weapons of iron, and shall fall upon a bow of brass. the sword is drawn out, and cometh forth from its scabbard, and glittereth in his bitterness: the terrible ones shall go and come upon him. all darkness is hid in his secret places: a fire that is not kindled shall devour him, he shall be afflicted when left in his tabernacle. the heavens shall reveal his iniquity, and the earth shall rise up against him. the offspring of his house shall be exposed, he shall be pulled down in the day of god's wrath. this is the portion of a wicked man from god, and the inheritance of his doings from the lord.

then job answered, and said: hear, i beseech you, my words, and do penance. suffer me, and i will speak, and after, if you please, laugh at my words. is my debate against man, that i should not have just reason to be troubled? hearken to me and be astonished, and lay your finger on your mouth. as for me, when i remember, i am afraid, and trembling taketh hold on my flesh. why then do the wicked live, are they advanced, and strengthened with riches? their seed continueth before them, a multitude of kinsmen, and of children's children in their sight. their houses are secure and peaceable, and the rod of god is not upon them. their cattle have conceived, and failed not:

their cow has calved, and is not deprived of her fruit. their little ones go out like a flock, and their children dance and play. they take the timbrel, and the harp, and rejoice at the sound of the organ. they spend their days in wealth, and in a moment they go down to hell. who have said to god: depart from us, we desire not the knowledge of thy ways. who is the almighty, that we should serve him? and what doth it profit us if we pray to him? yet because their good things are not in their hand, may the counsel of the wicked be far from me. how often shall the lamp of the wicked be put out, and a deluge come upon them, and he shall distribute the sorrows of his wrath? they shall be as chaff before the face of the wind, and as ashes which the whirlwind scattereth. god shall lay up the sorrow of the father for his children: and when he shall repay, then shall he know. his eyes shall see his own destruction, and he shall drink of the wrath of the almighty. for what is it to him what befalleth his house after him: and if the number of his months be diminished by one half? shall any one teach god knowledge, who judgeth those that are high? one man dieth strong, and hale, rich and happy. his bowels are full of fat, and his bones are moistened with marrow. but another dieth in bitterness of soul without any riches: and yet they shall sleep together in the dust, and worms shall cover them. surely i know your thoughts, and your unjust judgments against me. for you say: where is the house of the prince? and where are the dwelling places of the wicked? ask any one of them that go by the way, and you shall perceive that he knoweth these same things. because the wicked man is reserved to the day of destruction, and he shall be brought to the day of wrath. who shall reprove his way to his face? and who shall repay him what he hath done? he shall be brought to the graves, and shall watch in the heap of the dead. he hath been acceptable to the gravel of cocytus, and he shall draw every man after him, and there are innumerable before him. how then do ye comfort me in vain, whereas your answer is shewn to be repugnant to truth?

then eliphaz the themanite answered, and said: can man be compared with god, even though he were of perfect knowledge? what doth it profit god if thou be just? or what dost thou give him if thy way be unspotted? shall he reprove thee for fear, and come with thee into judgment: and not for thy manifold wickedness, and thy infinite iniquities? for thou hast taken away the pledge of thy brethren without cause, and stripped the naked of their clothing. thou hast not given water to the weary, thou hast withdrawn bread from the hungry. in the strength of thy arm thou didst possess the land, and being the most mighty thou holdest it. thou hast sent widows away empty, and the arms of the fatherless thou hast broken in pieces. therefore art thou surrounded with snares, and sudden fear troubleth thee. and didst thou think that thou shouldst not see darkness, and that thou shouldst not be covered with the violence of overflowing waters? dost not thou think that god is higher than heaven, and is elevated above the height of the stars? and thou sayst: what doth god know? and he judgeth as it were through a mist. the clouds are his covert, and he doth not consider our things, and he walketh about the poles of heaven. dost thou desire to keep the path of ages, which wicked men have trodden? who were taken away before their time, and a flood hath overthrown their foundation. who said to god: depart from us: and looked upon the almighty as if he could do nothing: whereas he had filled their houses with good things: whose way of thinking be far from me. the just shall see, and shall rejoice, and the innocent shall laugh them to scorn. is not their exaltation cut down, and hath not fire devoured the remnants of them? submit thyself then to him, and be at peace: and thereby thou shalt have the best fruits. receive the law of his mouth, and lay up his words in thy heart. if thou wilt return to the almighty, thou shalt be built up, and shalt put away iniquity far from thy tabernacle. he shall give for earth flint, and for flint torrents of gold. and the almighty shall be against thy enemies, and silver shall be heaped together for thee. then shalt thou abound in delights in the almighty, and shalt lift up thy face to god. thou shalt pray to him, and he will hear thee, and thou shalt pay vows. thou shalt decree a thing, and it shall come to thee, and light shall shine in thy ways. for he that hath been humbled, shall be in glory: and he that shall bow down his eyes, he shall be saved. the innocent shall be saved, and he shall be saved by the cleanness of his hands.

then job answered, and said: now also my words are in bitterness, and the hand of my scourge is more grievous than my mourning. who will grant me that i might know and find him, and come even to his throne? i would set judgment before him, and would fill my mouth with complaints. that i might know the words that he would answer me, and understand what he would say to me. i would not that he should contend with me with much strength, nor overwhelm me with the weight of his greatness. let him propose equity against me, and let my judgment come to victory. but if i go to the east, he appeareth not; if to the west, i shall not understand him. if to the left hand, what shall i do? i shall not take hold on him: if i turn myself to the right hand, i shall not see him. but he knoweth my way, and has tried me as gold that passeth through the fire: my foot hath followed his steps, i have kept his way, and have not declined from it. i have not departed from the commandments of his lips, and the words of his mouth i have hid in my bosom. for he is alone, and no man can turn away his thought: and whatsoever is soul hath desired, that hath he done. and when he shall have fulfilled his will in me, many other like things are also at hand with him. and therefore i am troubled at his presence, and when i consider him i am made pen- sive with fear. god hath softened my heart, and the almighty hath troubled me. for i have not perished because of the darkness that hangs over me, neither

times are not hid from the almighty: but they that know him, know not his days. some have removed landmarks, have taken away flocks by force, and fed them. they have driven away the ass of the fatherless, and have taken away the widow's ox for a pledge. they have overturned the way of the poor, and have oppressed together the meek of the earth. others like wild asses in the desert go forth to their work: by watching for a prey they get bread for their children. they reap the field that is not their own, and gather the vintage of his vineyard whom by violence they have oppressed. they send men away naked, taking away their clothes who have no covering in the cold: who are wet, with the showers of the mountains, and having no covering embrace the stones. they have violently robbed the fatherless, and stripped the poor common people. from the naked and them that go without clothing, and from the hungry they have taken away the ears of corn. they have taken their rest at noon among the stores of them, who after having trodden the winepresses suffer thirst. out of the cities they have made men to groan, and the soul of the wounded hath cried out, and god doth not suffer it to pass unrevenged. they have been rebellious to the light, they have not known his ways, neither have they returned by his paths. the murderer riseth at the very break of day, he killeth the needy, and the poor man: but in the night he will be as a thief. the eye of the adulterer observeth darkness, saying: no eye shall see me: and he will cover his face. he diggeth through houses in the dark, as in the day they had appointed for themselves, and they have not known the light. if the morning suddenly appear, it is to them the shadow of death: and they walk in darkness as if it were in light. he is light upon the face of the water: cursed be his portion on the earth, let him not walk by the way of the vineyards. let him pass from the snow waters to excessive heat, and his sin even to hell. let mercy forget him: may worms be his sweetness: let him be remembered no more, but be broken in pieces as an unfruitful tree. for he hath fed the barren that beareth not, and to the widow he hath done no good. he hath pulled down the strong by his might: and when he standeth up, he shall not trust to his life. god hath given him place for penance, and he abuseth it unto pride: but his eyes are upon his ways. they are lifted up for a little while and shall not stand, and shall be brought down as all things, and shall be taken away, and as the tops of the ears of corn they shall be broken. and if it be not so, who can convince me that i have lied, and set my words before god?

then baldad the suhite answered, and i said: power and terror are with him, who maketh peace in his high places. is there any numbering of his soldiers? and upon whom shall not his light arise? can man be justified compared with god, or he that is born of a woman appear clean? behold even the moon doth not shine, and the stars are not pure in his sight. how much less man that is rottenness and the son of man who is a worm?

then job answered, and said: whose helper art thou? is it of him that is weak? and dost thou hold up the arm of him that has no strength? to whom hast thou given counsel? perhaps to him that hath no wisdom, and thou hast shewn thy very great prudence. whom hast thou desired to teach? was it not him that made life? behold the giants groan under the waters, and they that dwell with them. hell is naked before him, and there is no covering for destruction. he stretched out the north over the empty space, and hangeth the earth upon nothing. he bindeth up the waters in his clouds, so that they break not out and fall down together. he withholdeth the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloud over it. he hath set bounds about the waters, till light and darkness come to an end. the pillars of heaven tremble, and dread at his beck. by his power the seas are suddenly gathered together, and his wisdom has struck the proud one. his spirit hath adorned the heavens, and his obstetric hand brought forth the winding serpent. lo, these things are said in part of his ways: and seeing we have heard scarce a little drop of his word, who shall be able to behold the thunder of his greatness?

job also added, taking up his parable, and said: as god liveth, who hath taken away my judgment, and the almighty, who hath brought my soul to bitterness, as long as breath remaineth in me, and the spirit of god in my nostrils, my lips shall not speak iniquity, neither shall my tongue contrive lying. god forbid that i should judge you to be just: till i die i will not depart from my innocence. my justification, which i have begun to hold, i will not forsake: for my heart doth not reprehend me in all my life. let my enemy be as the ungodly, and my adversary as the wicked one. for what is the hope of the hypocrite if through covetousness he take by violence, and god deliver not his soul? will god hear his cry, when distress shall come upon him? or can he delight himself in the almighty, and call upon god at all times? i will teach you by the hand of god, what the almighty hath, and i will not conceal it. behold you all know it, and why do you speak vain things without cause? this is the portion of a wicked man with god, and the inheritance of the violent, which they shall receive of the almighty. if his sons be multiplied, they shall be for the sword, and his grandsons shall not be filled with bread. they that shall remain of him, shall be buried in death, and his widows shall not weep. if he shall heap together silver as earth, and prepare raiment as clay, he shall prepare indeed, but the just man shall be clothed with it: and the innocent shall divide the silver. he hath built his house as a moth, and as a keeper he hath made a booth. the rich man when he shall sleep shall take away nothing with him: he shall open his eyes and find nothing. poverty like water shall take hold on him, a tempest shall oppress him in the night. a burning wind shall take him up, and carry him away, and as a whirlwind shall snatch him from his place. and he shall cast upon him, and shall not spare: out of his hand he would willingly flee. he shall clasp his hands upon him, and shall hiss at him, beholding his place.

silver hath beginnings of its veins, and gold hath a place wherein it is melted. iron is taken out of the earth, and stone melted with heat is turned into brass. he hath set a time for darkness, and the end of all things he considereth, the stone also that is in the dark and the shadow of death. the flood divideth from the people that are on their journey, those whom the food of the needy man hath forgotten, and who cannot be come at. the land, out of which bread grew in its place, hath been overturned with fire. the stones of it are the place of sapphires, and the clods of it are gold. the bird hath not known the path, neither hath the eye of the vulture beheld it. the children of the merchants have not trodden it, neither hath the lioness passed by it. he hath stretched forth his hand to the flint, he hath overturned mountains from the roots. in the rocks he hath cut out rivers, and his eye hath seen every precious thing. the depths also of rivers he hath searched, and hidden things he hath brought forth to light. but where is wisdom to be found, and where is the place of understanding? man knoweth not the price thereof, neither is it found in the land of them that live in delights. the depth saith: it is not in me: and the sea saith: it is not with me. the finest gold shall not purchase it, neither shall silver be weighed in exchange for it it shall not be compared with the dyed colours of india, or with the most precious stone sardonyx, or the sapphire. gold or crystal cannot equal it, neither shall any vessels of gold be changed for it. high and eminent things shall not be mentioned in comparison of it: but wisdom is drawn out of secret places. the topaz of ethiopia shall not be equal to it, neither shall it be compared to the cleanest dyeing. whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding? it is hid from the eyes of all living. and the fowls of the air know it not. destruction and death have said: with our ears we have heard the fame thereof. god understandeth the way of it, and he knoweth the place thereof. for he beholdeth the ends of the world: and looketh on all things that are under heaven. who made a weight for the winds and weighed the waters by measure. when he gave a law for the rain, and a way for the sounding storms. then he saw it, and declared, and prepared, and searched it. and he said to man: behold the fear of the lord, that is wisdom: and to depart from evil, is understanding.

job also added, taking up his parable, and said: who will grant me, that i might be according to the months past, according to the days in which god kept me? when his lamp shined over my head, and i walked by his light in darkness? as i was in the days of my youth, when god was secretly in my tabernacle? when the almighty was with me: and my servants round about me? when i washed my feet with butter, and the rock poured me out rivers of oil? when i went out to the gate of the city, and in the street they prepared me a chair? the young men saw me, and hid themselves: and the old men rose up and stood. the princes ceased to speak, and laid the finger on their mouth. the rulers held their peace, and their tongue cleaved to their throat. the ear that heard me blessed me, and the eye that saw me gave witness to me: because i had delivered the poor man that cried out; and the fatherless that had no helper. the blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me, and i comforted the heart of the widow. i was clad with justice: and i clothed myself with my judgment, as with a robe and a diadem. i was an eye to the blind, and a foot to the lame. i was the father of the poor: and the cause which i knew not, i searched out most diligently. i broke the jaws of the wicked man, and out of his teeth i took away the prey. and i said: i shall die in my nest, and as a palm tree shall multiply my days. my root is opened beside the waters, and dew shall continue in my harvest. my glory shall always be renewed, and my bow in my hand shall be repaired. they that heard me, waited for my sentence, and being attentive held their peace at my counsel. to my words they durst add nothing, and my speech dropped upon them. they waited for me as for rain, and they opened their mouth as for a latter shower. if at any time i laughed on them, they believed not, and the light of my countenance fell not on earth. if i had a mind to go to them, i sat first, and when i sat as a king, with his army standing about him, yet i was a comforter of them that mourned.

but now the younger in time scorn me, whose fathers i would not have set with the dogs of my flock: the strength of whose hands was to me as nothing, and they were thought unworthy of life itself. barren with want and hunger, who gnawed in the wilderness, disfigured with calamity and misery. and they ate grass, and barks of trees, and the root of junipers was their food. who snatched up these things out of the valleys, and when they had found any of them, they ran to them with a cry. they dwelt in the desert places of torrents, and in caves of earth, or upon the gravel. they pleased themselves among these kind of things, and counted it delightful to be under the briers. the children of foolish and base men, and not appearing at all upon the earth. now i am turned into their song, and am become their byword. they abhor me, and flee far from me, and are not afraid to spit in my face. for he hath opened his quiver, and hath afflicted me, and

hath put a bridle into my mouth. at the right hand of my rising, my calamities forthwith arose: they have overthrown my feet, and have overwhelmed me with their paths as with waves. they have destroyed my ways, they have lain in wait against me, and they have prevailed, and there was none to help. they have rushed in upon me, as when a wall is broken, and a gate opened, and have rolled themselves down to my miseries. i am brought to nothing: as a wind thou hast taken away my desire: and my prosperity hath passed away like a cloud. and now my soul fadeth within myself, and the days of affliction possess me. in the night my bone is pierced with sorrows: and they that feed upon me, do not sleep. with the multitude of them my garment is consumed, and they have girded me about, as with the collar of my coat. i am compared to dirt, and am likened to embers and ashes. i cry to thee, and thou hearest me not: i stand up, and thou dost not regard me. thou art changed to be cruel toward me, and in the hardness of thy hand thou art against me. thou hast lifted me up, and set me as it were upon the wind, and thou hast mightily dashed me. i know that thou wilt deliver me to death, where a house is appointed for every one that liveth. but yet thou stretchest not forth thy hand to their consumption: and if they shall fall down thou wilt save. i wept heretofore for him that was afflicted, and my soul had compassion on the poor. i expected good things, and evils are come upon me: i waited for light, and darkness broke out. my inner parts have boiled without any rest, the days of affliction have prevented me. i went mourning without indignation; i rose up, and cried in the crowd. i was the brother of dragons, and companion of ostriches. my skin is become black upon me, and my bones are dried up with heat. my harp is turned to mourning, and my organ into the voice of those that weep.

i made a covenant with my eyes, that i would not so much as think upon a virgin. for what part should god from above have in me, and what inheritance the almighty from on high? is not destruction to the wicked, and aversion to them that work iniquity? doth not he consider my ways, and number all my steps? if i have walked in vanity, and my foot hath made haste to deceit: let him weigh me in a just balance, and let god know my simplicity. if my step hath turned out of the way, and if my heart hath followed my eyes, and if a spot hath cleaved to my hands: then let me sow and let another eat: and let my offspring be rooted out. if my heart hath been deceived upon a woman, and if i have laid wait at my friend's door: let my wife be the harlot of another, and let other men lie with her. for this is a heinous crime, and a most grievous iniquity. it is a fire that devourerh even to destruction, and rooteth up all things that spring. if i have despised to abide judgment with my manservant, or my maidservant, when they had any controversy against me: for what shall i do when god shall rise to judge? and when he shall examine, what shall i answer him? did not he that made me in the womb make him also: and did not one and the same form me

in the womb? if i have denied to the poor what they desired, and have made the eyes of the widow wait: if i have eaten my morsel alone, and the fatherless hath not eaten thereof: (for from my infancy mercy grew up with me: and it came out with me from my mother's womb :) if i have despised him that was perishing for want of clothing, and the poor man that had no covering: if his sides have not blessed me, and if he were not warmed with the fleece of my sheep: if i have lifted up my hand against the fatherless, even when i saw myself superior in the gate: let my shoulder fall from its joint, and let my arm with its bones be broken. for i have always feared god as waves swelling over me, and his weight i was not able to bear. if i have thought gold my strength, and have said to fine gold: my confidence: if i have rejoiced over my great riches, and because my hand had gotten much. if i beheld the sun when it shined, and the moon going in brightness: and my heart in secret hath rejoiced, and i have kissed my hand with my mouth: which is a very great iniquity, and a denial against the most high god. if i have been glad at the downfall of him that hated me, and have rejoiced that evil had found him. for i have not given my mouth to sin, by wishing a curse to his soul. if the men of my tabernacle have not said: who will give us of his flesh that we may be filled? the stranger did not stay without, my door was open to the traveller. if as a man i have hid my sin, and have concealed my iniquity in my bosom. if i have been afraid at a very great multitude, and the contempt of kinsmen hath terrified me: and i have not rather held my peace, and not gone out of the door. who would grant me a hearer, that the almighty may hear my desire; and that he himself that judgeth would write a book, that i may carry it on my shoulder, and put it about me as a crown? at every step of mine i would pronounce it, and offer it as to a prince. if my land cry against me, and with it the furrows thereof mourn: if i have eaten the fruits thereof without money, and have afflicted the soul of the tillers thereof: let thistles grow up to me instead of wheat, and thorns instead of barley.

so these three men ceased to answer job, because he seemed just to himself. and eliu the son of barachel the buzite, of the kindred of ram, was angry and was moved to indignation: now he was angry against job, because he said he was just before god. and he was angry with his friends because they had not found a reasonable answer, but only had condemned job. so eliu waited while job was speaking, because they were his elders that were speaking. but when he saw that the three were not able to answer, he was exceedingly angry. then eliu the son of barachel the buzite answered and said: i am younger in days, and you are more ancient; therefore hanging down my head, i was afraid to shew you my opinion. for i hoped that greater age would speak, and that a multitude of years would teach wisdom. but, as i see, there is a spirit in men, and the inspiration of the almighty giveth understanding. they that are aged are not the wise men, neither do the ancients understand judgment. therefore i will speak: hearken to me, i also will shew you my wisdom. for i have waited for your words, i have given ear to your wisdom, as long as you were disputing in words. and as long as i thought you said some thing, i considered: but, as i see, there is none of you that can convince job, and answer his words. lest you should say: we have found wisdom, god hath cast him down, not man. he hath spoken nothing to me, and i will not answer him according to your words. they were afraid, and answered no more, and they left off speaking. therefore because i have waited, and they have not spoken: they stood, and answered no more: i also will answer my part, and will shew my knowledge. --- behold, my belly is as new wine which wanteth vent, which bursteth the new vessels. i will speak and take breath a little: i will open my lips, and will answer. i will not accept the person of man, and i will not level god with man. for i know not how long i shall continue, and whether after a while my maker may take me away.

hear therefore, o job, my speeches, and hearken to all my words. behold now i have opened my mouth, let my tongue speak within my jaws. my words are from my upright heart, and my lips shall speak a pure sentence. the spirit of god made me, and the breath of the almighty gave me life. if thou canst, answer me, and stand up against my face. behold god hath made me as well as thee, and of the same clay i also was formed. but yet let not my wonder terrify thee, and let not my eloquence be burdensome to thee. now thou has said in my hearing, and i have heard the voice of thy words: i am clean, and without sin: i am unspotted, and there is no iniquity in me. because he hath found complaints against me, therefore he hath counted me for his enemy. he hath put my feet in the stocks, he hath observed all my paths. now this is the thing in which thou art not justified: i will answer thee, that god is greater than man. dost thou strive against him, because he hath not answered thee to all words? god speaketh once, and repeateth not the selfsame thing the second time. by a dream in a vision by night, when deep sleep falleth upon men, and they are sleeping in their beds: then he openeth the ears of men, and teaching instructeth them in what they are to learn. that he may withdraw a man from the things he is doing, and may deliver him from pride. rescuing his soul from corruption: and his life from passing to the sword. he rebuketh also by sorrow in the bed, and he maketh all his bones to wither. bread becometh abominable to him in his life, and to his soul the meat which before he desired. his flesh shall be consumed away, and his bones that were covered shall be made bare. his soul hath drawn near to corruption, and his life to the destroyers. if there shall be an angel speaking for him, one among thousands, to declare man's uprightness, he shall have mercy on him, and shall say: deliver him, that he may not go down to corruption: i have found wherein i may be merciful to him. his flesh is consumed with punishment, let him return to the days of his youth. he shall pray to god, and he will be gracious to him : and he shall see his face with joy, and he will render to man his justice. he shall look upon men, and shall say : i have sinned, and indeed i have offended, and i have not received what i have deserved. he hath delivered his soul from going into destruction, that it may live and see the light. behold, all these things god worketh three times within every one. that he may withdraw their souls from corruption, and enlighten them with the light of the living. attend, job, and hearken to me : and hold thy peace, whilst i speak. but if thou hast any thing to say, answer me, speak : for i would have thee to appear just. and if thou have not, hear me : hold thy peace, and i will teach thee wisdom.

and eliu continued his discourse, and said : hear ye, wise men, my words, and ye learned, hearken to me : for the ear trieth words, and the mouth discerneth meats by the taste. let us choose to us judgment, and let us see among ourselves what is the best. for job hath said : i am just, and god hath overthrown my judgment. for in judging me there is a lie : my arrow is violent without any sin. what man is there like job, who drinketh up scorning like water? who goeth in company with them that work iniquity, and walketh with wicked men? for he hath said : man shall not please god, although he run with him. therefore, ye men of understanding, hear me : far from god be wickedness, and iniquity from the almighty. for he will render to a man his work, and according to the ways of every one he will reward them. for in very deed god will not condemn without cause, neither will the almighty pervert judgment. what other hath he appointed over the earth? or whom hath he set over the world which he made? if he turn his heart to him, he shall draw his spirit and breath unto himself. all flesh shall perish together, and man shall return into ashes. if then thou hast understanding, hear what is said, and hearken to the voice of my words. can he be healed that loveth not judgment? and how dost thou so far condemn him that is just? who saith to the king : thou art an apostate : who calleth rulers ungodly? who accepteth not the persons of princes : nor hath regarded the tyrant, when he contended against the poor man : for all are the work of his hands. they shall suddenly die, and the people shall be troubled at midnight, and they shall pass, and take away the violent without hand. for his eyes are upon the ways of men, and he considereth all their steps. there is no darkness, and there is no shadow of death, where they may be hid who work iniquity. for it is no longer in the power of man to enter into judgment with god. he shall break in pieces many and innumerable, and shall make others to stand in their stead. for he knoweth their works : and therefore he shall bring night on them, and they shall be destroyed. he hath struck them, as being wicked, in open sight. who as it were on purpose have revolted from him, and would not understand all his ways : so that they caused the cry of the needy to come to him, and he heard the voice of the poor. for when he granteth peace, who is there that can condemn? when he hideth his countenance, who is there that can behold him, whether it regard nations, or all men? who maketh a man that is a hypocrite to reign for the sins of the people? seeing then i have spoken of god, i will not hinder thee in thy turn. if i have erred, teach thou me : if i have spoken iniquity, i will add no more. doth god require it of thee, because it hath displeased thee? for thou beganst to speak, and not i. : but if thou know any thing better, speak. let men of understanding speak to me, and let a wise man hearken to me. but job hath spoken foolishly, and his words sound not discipline. my father, let job be tried even to the end : cease not from the man of iniquity. because he addeth blasphemy upon his sins, let him be tied fast in the mean time amongst us : and then let him provoke god to judgment with his speeches.

moreover eliu spoke these words : doth thy thought seem right to thee, that thou shouldst say : i am more just than god? for thou saidst : that which is right doth not please thee : or what will it profit thee if i sin? therefore i will answer thy words, and thy friends with thee. look up to heaven and see, and behold the sky, that it is higher than thee. if thou sin, what shalt thou hurt him? and if thy iniquities be multiplied, what shalt thou do against him? and if thou do justly, what shalt thou give him, or what shall he receive of thy hand? thy wickedness may hurt a man that is like thee : and thy justice may help the son of man. by reason of the multitude of oppressions they shall cry out : and shall wail for the violence of the arm of tyrants. and he hath not said : where is god, who made me, who hath given songs in the night? who teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and instructeth us more than the fowls of the air. there shall they cry, and he will not hear, because of the pride of evil men. god therefore will not hear in vain, and the almighty will look into the causes of every one. yea when thou shalt say : he considereth not : be judged before him, and expect him. for he doth not now bring on his fury, neither doth he revenge wickedness exceedingly. therefore job openeth his mouth in vain, and multiplieth words without knowledge.

eliu also proceeded, and said : suffer me a little, and i will shew thee : for i have yet somewhat to speak in god's behalf. i will repeat my knowledge from the beginning, and i will prove my maker just. for indeed my words are without a lie, and perfect knowledge shall be proved to thee. god doth not cast away the mighty, whereas he himself also is mighty. but he saveth not the wicked, and he giveth judgment to the poor. he will not take away his eyes from the just, and he placeth kings on the throne for ever, and they are exalted. and if they shall be in chains, and be bound with the cords of poverty : he shall shew them their works, and their wicked deeds, because they have been violent. he also shall open their ear, to correct them : and shall speak, that they may return from iniquity. if they shall hear and observe, they shall accomplish their days in good, and their years in glory. but if they hear not, they shall pass by the sword, and shall be consumed in folly. dissemblers and crafty men prove the wrath of god, neither shall they cry when they are bound. their soul shall die in a storm, and their life among the effeminate. he shall deliver the poor out of his distress, and shall open his ear in affliction. therefore he shall set thee at large out of the narrow mouth, and which hath no foundation under it : and the rest of thy table shall be full of fatness. thy cause hath been judged as that of the wicked, cause and judgment thou shalt recover. therefore let not anger overcome thee to oppress any man : neither let multitude of gifts turn thee aside. lay down thy greatness without tribulation, and all the mighty of strength. prolong not the night that people may come up for them. beware thou turn not aside to iniquity : for this thou hast begun to follow after misery. behold, god is high in his strength, and none is like him among the lawgivers. who can search out his ways? or who can say to him : thou has wrought iniquity? remember that thou knowest not his work, concerning which men have sung. all men see him, every one beholdeth afar off. behold, god is great, exceeding our knowledge : the number of his years is inestimable. he lifteth up the drops of rain, and poureth out showers like floods : which flow from the clouds that cover all above, if he will spread out clouds as his tent, and lighten with his light from above, he shall cover also the ends of the sea. for by these he judgeth people, and giveth food to many mortals. in his hands he hideth the light, and commandeth it to come again. he sheweth his friend concerning it, that it is his possession, and that he may come up to it.

at this my heart trembleth, and is moved out of its place. hear ye attentively the terror of his voice, and the sound that cometh out of his mouth. he beholdeth under all the heavens, and his light is upon the ends of the earth. after it a noise shall roar, he shall thunder with the voice of his majesty, and shall not be found out, when his voice shall be heard. god shall thunder wonderfully with his voice, he that doth great and unsearchable things. he commandeth the snow to go down upon the earth, and the winter rain, and the shower of his strength. he sealeth up the hand of all men, that every one may know his works. then the beast shall go into his covert, and shall abide in his den. out of the inner parts shall a tempest come, and cold out of the north. when god bloweth there cometh frost, and again the waters are poured out abundantly. corn desireth clouds, and the clouds spread their light : which go round about, whithersoever the will of him that governeth them shall lead them, to whatsoever he shall command them upon the face of the whole earth : whether in one tribe, or in his own land, or in what place soever of his mercy he shall command them to be found. hearken to these things, job : stand, and consider the wondrous works of god. dost thou know when god commanded the rains, to shew his light of his clouds? knowest thou the great paths of the clouds, and the perfect knowledges? are not thy garments hot, when the south wind blows upon the earth? thou perhaps hast made the heavens with him, which are most strong, as if they were of molten brass. shew us what we may say to him : for we are wrapped up in darkness. who shall tell him the things i speak? even if a man shall speak, he shall be swallowed up. but now they see not the light : the air on a sudden shall be thickened into clouds, and the wind shall pass and drive them away. cold cometh out of the north, and to god praise with fear. we cannot find him worthily : he is great in strength, and in judgment, and in justice, and he is ineffable. therefore men shall fear him, and all that seem to themselves to be wise, shall not dare to behold him.

then the lord answered job out of a whirlwind, and said : who is this that wrappeth up sentences in unskillful words? gird up thy loins like a man : i will ask thee, and answer thou me. where wast thou when i laid up the foundations of the earth ? tell me if thou hast understanding. who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who hath stretched the line upon it? upon what are its bases grounded? or who laid the corner stone thereof, when the morning stars praised me together, and all the sons of god made a joyful melody? who shut up the sea with doors, when it broke forth as issuing out of the womb : when i made a cloud the garment thereof, and wrapped it in a mist as in swaddling bands? i set my bounds around it, and made it bars and doors : and i said : hitherto thou shalt come, and shalt go no further, and here thou shalt break thy swelling waves. didst thou since thy birth command the morning, and shew the dawning of the day its place? and didst thou hold the extremities of the earth shaking them, and hast thou shaken the ungodly out of it? the seal shall be restored as clay, and shall stand as a garment : from the wicked their light shall be taken away, and the high arm shall be broken. hast thou entered into the depths of the sea, and walked in the lowest parts of the deep? have the gates of death been opened to thee, and hast thou seen the darksome doors? hast thou considered the breadth of the earth? tell me, if thou knowest all things? where is the way where light dwelleth, and where is the place of darkness : that thou mayst bring every thing to its own bounds, and understand the paths of the house thereof. didst thou know then that thou shouldst be born ? and didst thou know the number of thy days? hast thou entered into the storehouses of the snow, or has thou beheld the treasures of the hail : which i have prepared for the time of the enemy, against the day of battle and war? by what way is the light spread, and heat divided upon the earth? who gave a course to violent showers, or a way for noisy thunder : that it should rain on the earth without man in the wilderness, where no mortal dwelleth : that it should fill the desert and desolate land, and should bring forth green grass? who is the father of rain ? or who begot the drops of dew? out of whose womb came the ice; and the frost from heaven who hath gendered it? the waters are hardened like a stone, and the surface of the deep is congealed. shalt thou be able to join together the shining stars the pleiades, or canst thou stop the turning about of arcturus? canst thou bring forth the day star in its time, and make the evening star to rise upon the children of the earth? dost thou know the order of heaven, and canst thou set down the reason thereof on the earth? canst thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that an abundance of waters may cover thee? canst thou send lightnings, and will they go, and will they return and say to thee : here we are? who hath put wisdom in the heart of man? or who gave the cock understanding? who can declare the order of the heavens, or who can make the harmony of heaven to sleep? when was the dust poured on the earth, and the clods fastened together? wilt thou take the prey for the lioness, and satisfy the appetite of her whelps, when they couch in the dens and lie in wait in holes? who provideth food for the raven, when her young ones cry to god, wandering about, because they have no meat?

knowest thou the time when the wild goats bring forth among the rocks, or hast thou observed the hinds when they fawn? hast thou numbered the months of their conceiving, or knowest thou the time when they bring forth? they bow themselves to bring forth young, and they cast them, and send forth roarings. their young are weaned and go to feed : they go forth, and return not to them. who hath sent out the wild ass free, and who hath loosed his bonds? to whom i have given a house in the wilderness, and his dwellings in the barren land. he scorneth the multitude of the city, he heareth not the cry of the driver. he looketh round about the mountains of his pasture, and seeketh for every green thing. shall the rhinoceros be willing to serve thee, or will he stay at thy crib? canst thou bind the rhinoceros with thy thong to plough, or will he break the clods of the valleys after thee? wilt thou have confidence in his great strength, and leave thy labours to him? wilt thou trust him that he will render thee the seed, and gather it into thy barnfloor? the wing of the ostrich is like the wings of the heron, and of the hawk. when she leaveth her eggs on the earth, thou perhaps wilt warm them in the dust. she forgetteth that the foot may tread upon them, or that the beasts of the field may break them. she is hardened against her young ones, as though they were not hers, she hath laboured in vain, no fear constraining her. for god hath deprived her of wisdom, neither hath he given her understanding. when time shall be, she setteth up her wings on high : she scorneth the horse and his rider. wilt thou give strength to the horse, or clothe his neck with neighing? wilt thou lift him up like the locusts? the glory of his nostrils is terror. he breaketh up the earth with his hoof, he pranceth boldly, he goeth forward to meet armed men. he despiseth fear, he turneth not his back to the sword, above him shall the quiver rattle, the spear and shield shall glitter. chasing and raging he swalloweth the ground, neither doth he make account when the noise of the trumpet soundeth. when he heareth the trumpet he saith : ha, ha : he smelleth the battle afar off, the encouraging of the captains, and the shouting of the army. doth the hawk wax feathered by thy wisdom, spreading her wings to the south? will the eagle mount up at thy command, and make her nest in high places? she abideth among the rocks, and dwelleth among cragged flints, and stony hills, where there is no access. from thence she looketh for the prey, and her eyes behold afar off. her young ones shall suck up blood : and wheresoever the carcass shall be, she is immediately there.

and the lord went on, and said to job : shall he that contendeth with god be so easily silenced? surely he that reproveth god, ought to answer him. then job answered the lord, and said : - - - one thing i have spoken, which i wish i had not said : and another, to which i will add no more. and the lord answering job out of the whirlwind, said : gird up thy loins like a man : i will ask thee, and do thou tell me. wilt thou make void my judgment : and condemn me, that thou mayst be justified? and hast thou an arm like god, and canst thou thunder with a voice like him? clothe thyself with beauty, and set thyself up on high and be glorious, and put on goodly garments. scatter the proud in thy indignation, and behold every arrogant man, and humble him. look on all that are proud, and found them, and crush the wicked in their place. hide them in the dust together, and plunge their faces into the pit. then i will confess that thy right hand is able to save thee. behold behemoth whom i made with thee, he eateth grass like an ox. his strength is in his loins, and his force in the navel of his belly. he setteth up his tail like a cedar, the sinews of his testicles are wrapped together. his bones are like pipes of brass, his gristle like plates of iron. he is the beginning of the ways of god, who made him, he will apply his sword. to him the mountains bring forth grass : there all the beasts of the field shall play. he sleepeth under the shadow, in the covert of the reed, and in moist places. the shades cover his shadow, the willows of the brook shall compass him about. behold, he will drink up a river, and not wonder : and he trusteth that the jordan may run into his mouth. in his eyes as with a hook he shall take him, and bore through his nostrils with stakes.

canst thou draw out the leviathan with a hook, or canst thou tie his tongue with a cord? canst thou put a ring in his nose, or bore through his jaw with a buckle? will he make many supplications to thee, or speak soft words to thee? will he make a covenant with thee, and wilt thou take him to be a servant for ever? shalt thou play with him as with a bird, or tie him up for thy handmaids? shall friends cut him in pieces, shall merchants divide him? wilt thou fill nets with his skin, and the cabins of fishes with his head? lay thy hand upon him : remember the battle, and speak no more. behold his hope shall fail him, and in the sight of all he shall be cast down. i will not stir him up, like one that is cruel : for who can resist my countenance? who hath given me before that i should repay him? all things that are under heaven are mine. i will not spare him, nor his mighty words, and framed to make supplication. who can discover the face of his garment? or who can go into the midst of his mouth? who can open the doors of his face? his teeth are terrible round about. his body is like molten shields, shut close up with scales pressing upon one another. one is joined to another, and not so much as any air can come between them : they stick one to another and they hold one another fast, and shall not be separated. his sneezing is like the shining of fire, and his eyes like the eyelids of the morning. out of his mouth go forth lamps, like torches of lighted fire. out of his nostrils goeth smoke, like that of a pot heated and boiling. his breath kindleth coals, and a flame cometh forth out of his mouth. in his neck strength shall dwell, and want goeth before his face. the members of his flesh cleave one to another : he shall send lightnings against him, and they shall not be carried to another place. his heart shall be as hard as a stone, and as firm as a smith's anvil. when he shall raise him up, the angels shall fear, and being affrighted shall purify themselves. when a sword shall lay at him, it shall not be able to hold, nor a spear, nor a breastplate. for he shall esteem iron as straw, and brass as rotten wood. the archer shall not put him to flight, the stones of the sling are to him like stubble. as stubble will he esteem the hammer, and he will laugh him to scorn who shaketh the spear. the beams of the sun shall be under him, and he shall strew gold under him like mire. he shall make the deep sea to boil like a pot, and shall make it as when ointments boil. a path shall shine after him, he shall esteem the deep as growing old. there is no power upon earth that can be compared with him who was made to fear no one. he beholdeth every high thing, he is king over all the children of pride.

then job answered the lord, and said : i know that thou canst do all things, and no thought is hid from thee. who is this that hideth counsel without knowledge? therefore i have spoken unwisely, and things that above measure exceeded my knowledge. hear, and i will speak : i will ask thee, and do thou tell me. with the hearing of the ear, i have heard thee, but now my eye seeth thee. therefore i reprehend myself, and do penance in dust and ashes. and after the lord had spoken these words to job, he said to eliphaz the themanite : my wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends, because you have not spoken

the thing that is right before my, as my servant job hath. take unto you therefore seven oxen, and seven rams, and go to my servant job, and offer for yourselves a holocaust : and my servant job shall pray for you : his face i will accept, that folly be not imputed to you : for you have not spoken right things before me, as my servant job hath. so eliphaz the themanite, and baldad the suhite, and sophar the naamathite went, and did as the lord had spoken to them, and the lord accepted the face of job. the lord also was turned at the penance of job, when he prayed for his friends. and the lord gave job twice as much as he had before. and all his brethren came to him, and all his sisters, and all that knew him before, and they ate bread with him in his house : and bemoaned him, and comforted him upon all the evil that god had brought upon him. and every man gave him one ewe, and one earring of fold. and the lord blessed the latter end of job more than his beginning. and he had fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she asses. and he had seven sons, and three daughters. and he called the names of one dies, and the name of the second cassia, and the name of the third cornustibil. and there were not found in all the earth women so beautiful as the daughters of job : and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren. and job lived after these things, a hundred and forty years, and he saw his children, and his children's children, unto the fourth generation, and he died an old man, and full of days.

- - let him kiss me with the kiss of his mouth: for thy breasts are better than wine, smelling sweet of the best ointments. thy name is as oil poured out: therefore young maidens have loved thee. draw me: we will run after thee to the odour of thy ointments. the king hath brought me into his storerooms: we will be glad and rejoice in thee, remembering thy breasts more than wine: the righteous love thee. i am black but beautiful, o ye daughters of jerusalem, as the tents of cedar, as the curtains of solomon. do not consider me that i am brown, because the sun hath altered my colour: the sons of my mother have fought against me, they have made me the keeper in the vineyards: my vineyard i have not kept. shew me, o thou whom my soul loveth, where thou feedest, where thou liest in the midday, lest i begin to wander after the flocks of thy companions. if thou know not thyself, o fairest among women, go forth, and follow after the steps of the flocks, and feed thy kids beside the tents of the shepherds. to my company of horsemen, in pharao's chariots, have i likened thee, o my love. thy cheeks are beautiful as the turtledove's, thy neck as jewels. we will make thee chains of gold, inlaid with silver. while the king was at his repose, my spikenard sent forth the odour thereof. a bundle of myrrh is my beloved to me, he shall abide between my breasts. a cluster of cypress my love is to me, in the vineyards of engaddi. behold thou art fair, o my love, behold thou art fair, thy eyes are as those of doves. behold thou art fair, my beloved, and comely. our bed is flourishing. the beams of our houses are of cedar, our rafters of cypress trees.

i am the flower of the field, and the lily of the valleys. as the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters. as the apple tree among the trees of the woods, so is my beloved among the sons. i sat down under his shadow, whom i desired: and his fruit was sweet to my palate. he brought me into the cellar of wine, he set in order charity in me. stay me up with flowers, compass me about with apples: because i languish with love. his left hand is under my head, and his right hand shall embrace me. i adjure you, o ye daughters of jerusalem, by the roes, and the harts of the fields, that you stir not up, nor make the beloved to awake, till she please. the voice of my beloved, behold he cometh leaping upon the mountains, skipping over the hills. my beloved is like a roe, or a young hart. behold he standeth behind our wall, looking through the windows, looking through the lattices. behold my beloved speaketh to me: arise, make haste, my love, my dove, my beautiful one, and come. for winter is now past, the rain is over and gone. the flowers have appeared in our land, the time of pruning is come: the voice of the turtle is heard in our land: the fig tree hath put forth her green figs: the vines in flower yield their sweet smell. arise, my love, my beautiful one, and come: my dove in the clefts of the rock, in the hollow places of the wall, shew me

thy face, let thy voice sound in my ears: for thy voice is sweet, and thy face comely. catch us the little foxes that destroy the vines: for our vineyard hath flourished. my beloved to me, and i to him who feedeth among the lilies, till the day break, and the shadows retire. return: be like, my beloved, to a roe, or to a young hart upon the mountains of bether.

in my bed by night i sought him whom my soul loveth: i sought him, and found him not. i will rise, and will go about the city: in the streets and the broad ways i will seek him whom my soul loveth: i sought him, and i found him not. the watchmen who keep the city, found me: have you seen him, whom my soul loveth? when i had a little passed by them, i found him whom my soul loveth: i held him: and i will not let him go, till i bring him into my mother's house, and into the chamber of her that bore me. i adjure you, o daughters of jerusalem, by the roes and the harts of the fields, that you stir not up, nor awake my beloved, till she please. who is she that goeth up by the desert, as a pillar of smoke of aromatical spices, of myrrh, and frankincense, and of all the powders of the perfumer? behold threescore valiant ones of the most valiant of israel, surrounded the bed of solomon? all holding swords, and most expert in war: every man's sword upon his thigh, because of fears in the night. king solomon hath made him a litter of the wood of libanus: the pillars thereof he made of silver, the seat of gold, the going up of purple: the midst he covered with charity for the daughters of jerusalem. go forth, ye daughters of sion, and see king solomon in the diadem, wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his espousals, and in the day of the joy of his heart.

how beautiful art thou, my love, how beautiful art thou! thy eyes are doves' eyes, besides what is hid within. thy hair is as flocks of goats, which come up from mount galaad. thy teeth as flocks of sheep, that are shorn which come up from the washing, all with twins, and there is none barren among them. thy lips are as a scarlet lace: and thy speech sweet. thy cheeks are as a piece of a pomegranate, besides that which lieth hid within. thy neck, is as the tower of david, which is built with bulwarks: a thousand bucklers hang upon it, all the armour of valiant men. thy two breasts like two young roes that are twins, which feed among the lilies. till the day break, and the shadows retire, i will go to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of frankincense. thou art all fair, o my love, and there is not a spot in thee. come from libanus, my spouse, come from libanus, come: thou shalt be crowned from the top of amana, from the top of sanir and hermon, from the dens of the lions, from the mountains of the leopards. thou hast wounded my heart, my sister, my spouse, thou hast wounded my heart with one of thy eyes, and with one hair of thy neck. how beautiful are thy breasts, my sister, my spouse! thy breasts are more beautiful than wine, and the sweet smell of thy ointments above all aromatical spices. thy lips, my spouse, are as a dropping honeycomb, honey and milk are under thy tongue; and the smell of thy garments, as the smell of frankincense. my sister, my spouse, is a garden enclosed, a garden enclosed, a fountain sealed up. thy plants are a paradise of pomegranates with the fruits of the orchard. cypress with spikenard. spikenard and saffron, sweet cane and cinnamon, with all the trees of libanus, myrrh and aloes with all the chief perfumes. the fountain of gardens: the well of living waters, which run with a strong stream from libanus. arise, o north wind, and come, o south wind, blow through my garden, and let the aromatical spices thereof flow.

let my beloved come into his garden, and eat the fruit of his apple trees. i am come into my garden, o my sister, my spouse, i have gathered my myrrh, with my aromatical spices: i have eaten the honeycomb with my honey, i have drunk my wine with my milk: eat, o friends, and drink, and be inebriated, my dearly beloved. i sleep, and my heart watcheth; the voice of my beloved knocking: open to me, my sister, my love, my dove, my undefiled: for my head is full of dew, and my locks of the drops of the nights. i have put off my garment, how shall i put it on? i have washed my feet, how shall i defile them? my beloved put his hand through the key hole, and my bowels were moved at his touch. i arose up to open to my beloved: my hands dropped with myrrh, and my fingers were full of the choicest myrrh. i opened the bolt of my door to my beloved: but he had turned aside, and was gone. my soul melted when he spoke: i sought him, and found him not: i called, and he did not answer me. the keepers that go about the city found me: they struck me: and wounded me: the keepers of the walls took away my veil from me. i adjure you, o daughters of jerusalem, if you find my beloved, that you tell him that i languish with love. what manner of one is thy beloved of the beloved, o thou most beautiful among women? what manner of one is thy beloved of the beloved, that thou hast so adjured us? my beloved is white and ruddy, chosen out of thousands. his head is as the finest gold: his locks as branches of palm trees, black as a raven. his eyes as doves upon brooks of waters, which are washed with milk, and sit beside the plentiful streams. his cheeks are as beds of aromatical spices set by the perfumers. his lips are as lilies dropping choice myrrh. his hands are turned and as of gold, full of hyacinths. his belly as of ivory, set with sapphires. his legs as pillars of marble, that are set upon bases of gold. his form as of libanus, excellent as the cedars. his throat most sweet, and he is all lovely: such is my beloved, and he is my friend, o ye daughters of jerusalem.

whither is thy beloved gone, o thou most beautiful among women? whither is thy beloved turned aside, and we will seek him with thee? my beloved is gone down into his garden, to the bed of aromatical spices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies. i to my beloved, and my beloved to me, who feedeth among the lilies. thou art beautiful, o my love, sweet and comely as jerusalem: terrible as an army set in array. turn away thy eyes from me, for they have made me flee away. thy hair is as a flock of goats, that appear from galaad. thy teeth as a flock of sheep, which come up from the washing, all with twins, and there is none barren among them. thy cheeks are as the bark of a pomegranate, beside what is hidden within thee. there are threescore queens, and fourscore concubines, and young maidens without number. one is my dove, my perfect one is but one, she is the only one of her mother, the chosen of her that bore her. the daughters saw her, and declared her most blessed: the queens and concubines, and they praised her. who is she that cometh forth as the morning rising, fair as the moon, bright as the sun, terrible as an army set in array? i went down into the garden of nuts, to see the fruits of the valleys, and to look if the vineyard had flourished, and the pomegranates budded. i knew not: my soul troubled me for the chariots of aminadab. return, return, o sulamitess : return, return that we may behold thee.

what shalt thou see in the sulamitess but the companies of camps? how beautiful are thy steps in shoes, o prince's daughter! the joints of thy thighs are like jewels, that are made by the hand of a skilful workman. thy navel is like a round bowl never wanting cups. thy belly is like a heap of wheat, set about with lilies. thy two breasts are like two young roes that are twins. thy neck as a tower of ivory. thy eyes like the fishpools in hesebon, which are in the gate of the daughter of the multitude. thy nose is as the tower of libanus, that looketh toward damascus. thy head is like carmel: and the hairs of thy head as the purple of the king bound in the channels. how beautiful art thou, and how comely, my dearest, in delights! thy stature is like to a palm tree, and thy breasts to clusters of grapes. i said: i will go up into the palm tree, and will take hold of the fruit thereof: and thy breasts shall be as the clusters of the vine: and the odour of thy mouth like apples. thy throat like the best wine, worthy for my beloved to drink, and for his lips and his teeth to ruminate. i to my beloved, and his turning is towards me. come, my beloved, let us go forth into the field, let us abide in the villages. let us get up early to the vineyards, let us see if the vineyard flourish, if the flowers be ready to bring forth fruits, if the pomegranates flourish: there will i give thee my breasts. the mandrakes give a smell. in our gates are all fruits: the new and the old, my beloved, i have kept for thee.

who shall give thee to me for my brother, sucking the breasts of my mother, that i may find thee without, and kiss thee, and now no man may despise me? i will take hold of thee, and bring thee into my mother's house: there thou shalt teach me, and i will give thee a cup of spiced wine and new wine of my pomegranates. his left hand under my head, and his right hand shall embrace me. i adjure you, o daughters of jerusalem, that you stir not up, nor awake my love till she please. who is this that cometh up from the desert, flowing with delights, leaning upon her beloved? under the apple tree i raised thee up: there thy mother was corrupted, there she was defloured that bore thee. put me as a seal upon thy heart, as a seal upon thy arm, for love is strong as death, jealousy as hard as hell, the lamps thereof are fire and flames. many waters cannot quench charity, neither can the floods drown it: if a man should give all the substance of his house for love, he shall despise it as nothing. our sister is little, and hath no breasts. what shall we do to our sister in the day when she is to be spoken to?
 if she be a wall: let us build upon it bulwarks of silver:
 if she be a door, let us join it together with boards or cedar. i am a wall: and my breasts are as a tower since i am become in his presence as one finding peace. the peaceable had a vineyard, in that which hath people: he let out the same to keepers, every man bringeth for the fruit thereof a thousand pieces of silver. my vineyard is before me. a thousand are for thee, the peaceable, and two hundred for them that keep the fruit thereof. thou that dwellest in the gardens, the friends hearken: make me hear thy voice. flee away, o my beloved, and be like to the roe, and to the young hart upon the mountains of aromatical spices.

in the days of one of the judges, when the judges ruled, there came a famine in the land. and a certain man of bethlehem juda, went to sojourn in the land of moab with his wife and his two sons. he was named elimelech, and his wife, noemi: and his two sons, the one mahalon, and the other chelion, ephrathites of bethlehem juda. and entering into the country of moab, they abode there. and elimelech the husband of noemi died: and she remained with her sons. and they took wives of the women of moab, of which one was called orpha, and the other ruth. and they dwelt there ten years. and they both died, to wit, mahalon and chelion: and the woman was left alone, having lost both her sons and her husband. and she arose to go from the land of moab to her own country with both her daughters in law: for she had heard that the lord had looked upon his people, and had given them food. wherefore she went forth out of the place of her sojournment, with both her daughters in law: and being now in the way to return into the land of juda, she said to them: go ye home to your mothers: the lord deal mercifully with you, as you have dealt with the dead and with me. may he grant you to find rest in the houses of the husbands which you shall take. and she kissed them. and they lifted up their voice and began to weep, and to say: we will go on with thee to thy people. but she answered them: return, my daughters: why come ye with me? have i any more sons in my womb, that you may hope for husbands of me? return again, my daughters, and go your ways: for i am now spent with age, and not fit for wedlock. although i might conceive this night, and bear children, if you would wait till they were grown up, and come to man's estate, you would be old women before you marry. do not so, my daughters, i beseech you: for i am grieved the more for your distress, and the hand of the lord is gone out against me. and they lifted up their voice, and began to weep again: orpha kissed her mother in law and returned: ruth stuck close to her mother in law. and noemi said to her: behold thy kinswoman is returned to her people, and to her gods, go thou with her. she answered: be not against me, to desire that i should leave thee and depart: for whithersoever thou shalt go, i will go: and where thou shalt dwell, i also will dwell. thy people shall be my people, and thy god my god. the land that shall receive thee dying, in the same will i die: and there will i be buried. the lord do so and so to me, and add more also, if aught but death part me and thee. then noemi, seeing that ruth was steadfastly determined to go with her, would not be against it, nor persuade her any more to return to her friends: so they went together and came to bethlehem. and when they were come into the city, the report was quickly spread among all: and the women said: this is that noemi. but she said to them: call me not noemi, (that is, beautiful,) but call me mara, (that is, bitter,) for the almighty hath quite filled me with bitterness. i went out full, and the lord hath brought me back empty. why then do you call me noemi, whom the lord hath humbled and the almighty hath afflicted? so noemi came with ruth the

now her husband elimelech had a kinsman, a powerful man, and very rich, whose name was booz. and ruth the moabitess said to her mother in law: if thou wilt, i will go into the field, and glean the ears of corn that escape the hands of the reapers, whosoever i shall find grace with a householder that will be favourable to me. and she answered her: go, my daughter. she went therefore and gleaned the ears of corn after the reapers. and it happened that the owner of that field was booz, who was of the kindred of elimelech. and behold, he came out of bethlehem, and said to the reapers: the lord be with you. and they answered him: the lord bless thee. and booz said to the young man that was set over the reapers: whose maid is this? and he answered him: this is the moabitess who came with noemi, from the land of moab, and she desired leave to glean the ears of corn that remain, following the steps of the reapers: and she hath been in the field from morning till now, and hath not gone home for one moment. and booz said to ruth: hear me, daughter, do not go to glean in any other field, and do not depart from this place: but keep with my maids, and follow where they reap. for i have charged my young men, not to molest thee: and if thou art thirsty, go to the vessels, and drink of the waters whereof the servants drink. she fell on her face and worshipping upon the ground, said to him: whence cometh this to me, that i should find grace before thy eyes, and that thou shouldst vouchsafe to take notice of me a woman of another country? and he answered her: all hath been told me, that thou hast done to thy mother in law after the death of thy husband: and how thou hast left thy parents, and the land wherein thou wast born, and art come to a people which thou knewest not heretofore. the lord render unto thee for thy work, and mayest thou receive a full reward of the lord the god of israel, to whom thou art come, and under whose wings thou art fled. and she said: i have found grace in thy eyes, my lord, who hast comforted me and hast spoken to the heart of thy handmaid, who am not like to one of thy maids. and booz said to her: at mealtime come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. so she sat at the side of the reapers, and she heaped to herself frumenty, and ate and was filled, and took the leavings. and she arose from thence, to glean the ears of corn as before. and booz commanded his servants, saying: if she would even reap with you, hinder her not: and let fall some of your handfuls of purpose, and leave them, that she may gather them without shame, and let no man rebuke her when she gathereth them. she gleaned therefore in the field till evening: and beating out with a rod and threshing what she had gleaned, she found about the measure of an ephi of barley, that is, three bushels: which she took up and returned into the city, and shewed it to her mother in law: moreover she brought out, and gave her of the remains of her meat, wherewith she had been filled. and her mother in law said to her: where hast thou gleaned to day, and where hast thou wrought? blessed be he that hath had pity on thee. and she told her with whom she had wrought: and she told the man's name, that he was called booz. and noemi answered her: blessed be he of the lord: because the same kindness which he shewed to the living, he hath kept also to the dead. and again she said: the man is our kinsman. and ruth said, he also charged me, that i should keep close to his reapers, till all the corn should be reaped. and her mother in law said to her: it is better for thee, my daughter, to go out to reap with his maids, lest in another man's field some one may resist thee. so she kept close to the maids of booz: and continued to glean with them, till all the barley and the wheat were laid up in the barns.

after she was returned to her mother in law, noemi said to her: my daughter, i will seek rest for thee, and will provide that it may be well with thee. this booz, with whose maids thou wast joined in the field, is our near kinsman, and behold this night he winnoweth barley in the threshingfloor. wash thyself therefore and anoint thee, and put on thy best garments, and go down to the barnfloor: but let not the man see thee, till he shall have done eating and drinking. and when he shall go to sleep, mark the place wherein he sleepeth: and thou shalt go in, and lift up the clothes wherewith he is covered towards his feet, and shalt lay thyself down there: and he will tell thee what thou must do. she answered: whatsoever thou shalt command, i will do. and she went down to the barnfloor, and did all that her mother in law had bid her. and when booz had eaten, and drunk, and was merry, he went to sleep by the heap of sheaves, and she came softly and uncovering his feet, laid herself down. and behold, when it was now midnight the man was afraid, and troubled: and he saw a woman lying at his feet, and he said to her: who art thou? and she answered: i am ruth thy handmaid: spread thy coverlet over thy servant, for thou art a near kinsman. and he said: blessed art thou of the lord, my daughter, and thy latter kindness has surpassed the former: because thou hast not followed young men either poor or rich. fear not therefore, but whatsoever thou shalt say to me i will do to thee. for all the people that dwell within the gates of my city, know that thou art a virtuous woman. neither do i deny myself to be near of kin, but there is another nearer than i. rest thou this night: and when morning is come, if he will take thee by the right of kindred, all is well: but if he will not, i will undoubtedly take thee, as the lord liveth: sleep till the morning. so she slept at his feet till the night was going off. and she arose before men could know one another, and booz said: beware lest any man know that thou camest hither. and again he said: spread thy mantle, wherewith thou art covered, and hold it with both hands. and when she spread it and held it, he measured six measures of barley, and laid it upon her. and she carried it and went into the city, and came to her mother in law; who said to her: what hast thou done, daughter? and she told her all that the man had done to her. and she said: behold he hath given me six measures of barley: for he said: i will not have thee return empty to thy mother in law. and noemi said: wait my daughter, till we see what end the thing will have. for the man will not rest until he have accomplished what he hath said.

then booz went up to the gate, and sat there. and when he had seen the kinsman going by, of whom he had spoken before, he said to him, calling him by his name: turn aside for a little while, and sit down here. he turned aside, and sat down. and booz taking ten men of the ancients of the city, said to them: sit ye down here. they sat down, and he spoke to the kinsman: noemi, who is returned from the country of moab, will sell a parcel of land that belonged to our brother elimelech. i would have thee to understand this, and would tell thee before all that sit here, and before the ancients of my people. if thou wilt take possession of it by the right of kindred: buy it and possess it: but if it please thee not, tell me so, that i may know what i have to do. for there is no near kinsman besides thee, who art first, and me, who am second. but he answered: i will buy the field. and booz said to him: when thou shalt buy the field at the woman's hand, thou must take also ruth the moabitess, who was the wife of the deceased: to raise up the name of thy kinsman in his inheritance. he answered: i yield up my right of next akin: for i must not cut off the posterity of my own family. do thou make use of my privilege, which i profess i do willingly forego. now this in former times was the manner in israel between kinsmen, that if at any time one yielded his right to another: that the grant might be sure, the man put off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour; this was a testimony of cession of right in israel. so booz said to his kinsman: put off thy shoe. and immediately he took it off from his foot. and he said to the ancients and to all the people: you are witnesses this day, that i have bought all that was elimelech's, and chelion's, and mahalon's, of the hand of noemi: and have taken to wife ruth the moabitess, the wife of mahalon, to raise up the name of the deceased in his inheritance lest his name be cut off, from among his family and his brethren and his people. you, i say, are witnesses of this thing. then all the people that were in the gate, and the ancients answered: we are witnesses: the lord make this woman who cometh into thy house, like rachel, and lia, who built up the house of israel: that she may be an example of virtue in ephrata, and may have a famous name in bethlehem: and that the house may be, as the house of phares, whom thamar bore unto juda, of the seed which the lord shall give thee of this young woman. booz therefore took ruth, and married her: and went in unto her, and the lord gave her to conceive and to bear a son. and the women said to noemi: blessed be the lord, who hath not suffered thy family to want a successor, that his name should be preserved in israel.

and thou shouldst have one to comfort thy soul, and cherish thy old age. for he is born of thy daughter in law: who loveth thee: and is much better to thee, than if thou hadst seven sons. and noemi taking the child laid it in her bosom, and she carried it, and was a nurse unto it. and the women her neighbours, congratulating with her and saying: there is a son born to noemi: called his name obed: he is the father of isai, the father of david. these are the generations of phares: phares begot esron, esron begot aram, aram begot aminadab, aminadab begot nahasson, nahasson begot salmon, salmon begot booz, booz begot obed, obed begot isai, isai begot david.

aleph. how doth the city sit solitary that was full of people! how is the mistress of the gentiles become as a widow: the princes of provinces made tributary! beth. weeping she hath wept in the night, and her tears are on her cheeks: there is none to comfort her among all them that were dear to her: all her friends have despised her, and are become her enemies. ghimel. juda hath removed her dwelling place because of her affliction, and the greatness of her bondage: she hath dwelt among the nations, and she hath found no rest: all her persecutors have taken her in the midst of straits. daleth. the ways of sion mourn, because there are none that come to the solemn feast: all her gates are broken down: her priests sigh: her virgins are in affliction, and she is oppressed with bitterness. he. her adversaries are become her lords, her enemies are enriched: because the lord hath spoken against her for the multitude of her iniquities: her children are led into captivity: before the face of the oppressor. vau. and from the daughter of sion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become like rams that find no pastures: and they are gone away without strength before the face of the pursuer. zain. jerusalem hath remembered the days of her affliction, and prevarication of all her desirable things which she had from the days of old, when her people fell in the enemy's hand, and there was no helper: the enemies have seen her, and have mocked at her sabbaths. heth. jerusalem hath grievously sinned, therefore is she become unstable: all that honoured her have despised her, because they have seen her shame: but she sighed and turned backward. teth. her filthiness is on her feet, and she hath not remembered her end: she is wonderfully cast down, not having a comforter: behold, o lord, my affliction, because the enemy is lifted up. jod. the enemy hath put out his hand to all her desirable things: for she hath seen the gentiles enter into her sanctuary, of whom thou gavest commandment that they should not enter into thy church. caph. all her people sigh, they seek bread: they have given all their precious things for food to relieve the soul: see, o lord, and consider, for i am become vile. lamed. o all ye that pass by the way, attend, and see if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow: for he hath made a vintage of me, as the lord spoke in the day of his fierce anger. mem. from above he hath sent fire into my bones, and hath chastised me: he hath spread a net for my feet, he hath turned me back: he hath made me desolate, wasted with sorrow all the day long. nun. the yoke of my iniquities hath watched: they are folded together in his hand, and put upon my neck: my strength is weakened: the lord hath delivered me into a hand out of which i am not able to rise. samech. the lord hath taken away all my mighty men out of the midst of me: he hath called against me the time, to destroy my chosen men: the lord hath trodden the winepress for the virgin daughter of juda. ain. therefore do i weep, and my eyes run down with water: because the comforter, the relief of my soul, is far from me: my children are desolate because the enemy hath prevailed. phe. sion hath spread forth her hands, there is none

aleph. how hath the lord covered with obscurity the daughter of sion in his wrath! how hath he cast down from heaven to the earth the glorious one of israel, and hath not remembered his footstool in the day of his anger! beth. the lord hath cast down headlong, and hath not spared, all that was beautiful in jacob: he hath destroyed in his wrath the strong holds of the virgin of juda, and brought them down to the ground: he hath made the kingdom unclean, and the princes thereof. ghimel. he hath broken in his fierce anger all the horn of israel: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy: and he hath kindled in jacob as it were a flaming fire devouring round about. daleth. he hath bent his bow as an enemy, he hath fixed his right hand as an adversary: and he hath killed all that was fair to behold in the tabernacle of the daughter of sion, he hath poured out his indignation like fire. he. the lord is become as an enemy: he hath cast down israel headlong, he hath overthrown all the walls thereof: he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath multiplied in the daughter of juda the afflicted, both men and women. vau. and he hath destroyed his tent as a garden, he hath thrown down his tabernacle: the lord hath caused feasts and sabbaths to be forgotten in sion: and hath delivered up king and priest to reproach, and to the indignation of his wrath. zain. the lord hath cast off his altar, he hath cursed his sanctuary: he hath delivered the walls of the towers thereof into the hand of the enemy: they have made a noise in the house of the lord, as in the day of a solemn feast. heth. the lord hath purposed to destroy the wall of the daughter of sion: he hath stretched out his line, and hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying: and the bulwark hath mourned, and the wall hath been destroyed together. teth. her gates are sunk into the ground: he hath destroyed, and broken her bars: her king and her princes are among the gentiles: the law is no more, and her prophets have found no vision from the lord. jod. the ancients of the daughter of

sion sit upon the ground, they have held their peace: they have sprinkled their heads with dust, they are girded with haircloth, the virgins of jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground. caph. my eyes have failed with weeping, my bowels are troubled: my liver is poured out upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, when the children, and the sucklings, fainted away in the streets of the city. lamed. they said to their mothers: where is corn and wine? when they fainted away as the wounded in the streets of the city: when they breathed out their souls in the bosoms of their mothers. mem. to what shall i compare thee? or to what shall i liken thee, o daughter of jerusalem? to what shall i equal thee, that i may comfort thee, o virgin daughter of sion? for great as the sea is thy destruction: who shall heal thee? nun. thy prophets have seen false and foolish things for thee: and they have not laid open thy iniquity, to excite thee to penance: but they have seen for thee false revelations and banishments. samech. all they that passed by the way have clapped their hands at thee: they have hissed, and wagged their heads at the daughter of jerusalem, saying: is this the city of perfect beauty, the joy of all the earth? phe. all thy enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they have hissed, and gnashed with the teeth, and have said: we will swallow her up: lo, this is the day which we looked for: we have found it, we have seen it. ain. the lord hath done that which he purposed, he hath fulfilled his word, which he commanded in the days of old: he hath destroyed, and hath not spared, and he hath caused the enemy to rejoice over thee, and hath set up the horn of thy adversaries. sade. their heart cried to the lord upon the walls of the daughter of sion: let tears run down like a torrent day and night: give thyself no rest, and let not the apple of thy eye cease. coph. arise, give praise in the night, in the beginning of the watches: pour out thy heart like water before the face of the lord: lift up thy hands to him for the life of thy little children, that have fainted for hunger at the top of all the streets. res. behold, o lord, and consider whom thou hast thus dealt with: shall women then eat their own fruit, their children of a span long? shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the lord? sin. the child and the old man lie without on the ground: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slain them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed, and shewn them no pity. thau. thou hast called as to a festival, those that should terrify me round about, and there was none in the day of the wrath of the lord that escaped and was left: those that i brought up, and nourished, my enemy hath consumed them.

aleph. i am the man that see my poverty by the rod of his indignation. aleph. he hath led me, and brought me into darkness, and not into light. aleph. only against me he hath turned, and turned again his hand all the day. beth. my skin and my flesh he hath made old, he hath broken my bones. beth. he hath built round about me, and he hath compassed me with gall and labour. beth. he hath set me in dark places as those that are dead for ever. ghimel. he hath built against me round about, that i may not get out: he hath made my fetters heavy. ghimel. yea, and when i cry, and entreat, he hath shut out my prayer. ghimel. he hath shut up my ways with square stones, he hath turned my paths upside down. daleth. he is become to me as a bear lying in wait: as a lion in secret places. daleth. he hath turned aside my paths, and hath broken me in pieces, he hath made me desolate. daleth. he hath bent his bow, and set me as a mark for his arrows. he. he hath shot into my reins the daughters of his quiver. he. i am made a derision to all my people, their song all the day long. he. he hath filled me with bitterness, he hath inebriated me with wormwood. vau. and he hath broken my teeth one by one, he hath fed me with ashes. vau. and my soul is removed far off from peace, i have forgotten good things. vau. and i said: my end and my hope is perished from the lord. zain. remember my poverty, and transgression, the wormwood, and the gall. zain. i will be mindful and remember, and my soul shall languish within me. zain. these things i shall think over in my heart, therefore will i hope. heth. the mercies of the lord that we are not consumed: because his commiserations have not failed. heth. they are new every morning, great is thy faithfulness. heth. the lord is my portion, said my soul: therefore will i wait for him. teth. the lord is good to them that hope in him, to the soul that seeketh him. teth. it is good to wait with silence for the salvation of god. teth. it is good for a man, when he hath borne the yoke from his youth. jod. he shall sit solitary, and hold his peace: because he hath taken it up upon himself. jod. he shall put his mouth in the dust, if so be there may be hope. jod. he shall give his cheek to him that striketh him, he shall be filled with reproaches. caph. for the lord will not cast off for ever. caph. for if he hath cast off, he will also have mercy, according to the multitude of his mercies. caph. for he hath not willingly afflicted, nor cast off the children of men. lamed. to crush under his feet all the prisoners of the land, lamed. to turn aside the judgment of a man before the face of the most high, lamed. to destroy a man wrongfully in his judgment, the lord hath not approved. mem. who is he that hath commanded a thing to be done, when the lord commandeth it not? mem. shall not both evil and good proceed out of the mouth of the highest? mem. why hath a living man murmured, man suffering for his sins? nun. let us search our ways, and seek, and return to the lord. nun. let us lift up our hearts with our hands to the lord in the heavens. nun. we have done wickedly, and provoked thee to wrath: therefore thou art inexorable. samech. thou hast covered in thy wrath, and hast struck us: thou hast killed and hast not spared. samech. thou hast set a cloud before thee, that our prayer may not pass through. samech. thou hast made me as an outcast, and refuse in the midst of the people. phe. all our enemies have opened their mouths against us. phe. prophecy is become to us a fear, and a snare, and destruction. phe. my eye hath run down with streams of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people. ain. my eye is afflicted, and hath not been quiet, because there was no rest: ain. till the lord regarded and looked down from the heavens. ain. my eye hath wasted my soul because of all the daughters of my city. sade. my enemies have chased me and caught me like a bird, without cause. sade. my life is fallen into the pit, and they have laid a stone over me. sade. waters have flowed over my head: i said: i am cut off. coph. i have called upon thy name, o lord, from the lowest pit. coph. thou hast heard my voice: turn not away thy ear from my sighs, and cries. coph. thou drewest near in the day, when i called upon thee, thou saidst: fear not. res. thou hast judged, o lord, the cause of my soul, thou the redeemer of my life. res. thou hast seen, o lord, their iniquity against me: judge thou my judgment. res. thou hast seen all their fury, and all their thoughts against me. sin. thou hast heard their reproach, o lord, all their imaginations against me. sin. the lips of them that rise up against me: and their devices against me all the day. sin. behold their sitting down, and their rising up, i am their song. thau. thou shalt render them a recompense, o lord, according to the works of their hands. thau. thou shalt give them a buckler of heart, thy labour. thau. thou shalt persecute them in anger, and shalt destroy them from under the heavens, o lord.

aleph. how is the gold become dim, the finest colour is changed, the stones of the sanctuary are scattered in the top of every street? beth. the noble sons of sion, and they that were clothed with the best gold: how are they esteemed as earthen vessels, the work of the potters hands? ghimel. even the sea monsters have drawn out the breast, they have given suck to their young: the daughter of my people is cruel, like the ostrich in the desert. daleth. the tongue of the sucking child hath stuck to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the little ones have asked for bread, and there was none to break it unto them. he. they that were fed delicately have died in the streets; they that were brought up in scarlet have embraced the dung. vau. and the iniquity of the daughter of my people is made greater than the sin of sodom, which was overthrown in a moment, and hands took nothing in her. zain. her nazarites were whiter than snow, purer than milk, more ruddy than the old ivory, fairer than the sapphire. heth. their face is now made blacker than coals, and they are not known in the streets: their skin hath stuck to their bones, it is withered, and is become like wood. teth. it was better with them that were slain by the sword, than with them that died with hunger: for these pined away being consumed for want of the fruits of the earth. jod. the hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own children: they were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people. caph. the lord hath accomplished his wrath, he hath poured out his fierce anger: and he hath kindled a fire in sion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof. lamed. the kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed, that the adversary and the enemy should enter in by the gates of jerusalem. mem. for the sins of her prophets, and the iniquities of her priests, that have shed the blood of the just in the midst of her. nun. they have wandered as blind men in the streets, they were defiled with blood: and when they could not help walking in it, they held up their skirts. samech. depart you that are defiled, they cried out to them: depart, get ye hence, touch not: for they quarrelled, and being removed, they said among the gentiles: he will no more dwell among them. phe. the face of the lord hath divided them, he will no more regard them: they respected not the persons of the priests, neither had they pity on the ancient. ain. while we were yet standing, our eyes failed, expecting help for us in vain, when we looked attentively towards a nation that was not able to save. sade. our steps have slipped in the way of our streets, our end draweth near: our days are fulfilled, for our end is come. coph. our persecutors were swifter than the eagles of the air: they pursued us upon the mountains, they lay in wait for us in the wilderness. res. the breath of our mouth, christ the lord, is taken in our sins: to whom we said: under thy shadow we shall live among the gentiles. sin. rejoice, and be glad, o daughter of edom, that dwellest in the land of hus: to thee also shall the cup come, thou shalt be made drunk, and naked. thau. thy iniquity is accomplished, o daughter of sion, he will no more carry thee away into captivity: he visited thy iniquity, o daughter of edom, he hath discovered thy sins.

remember, o lord, what is come upon us: consider and behold our reproach. our inheritance is turned to aliens: our houses to strangers. we are become orphans without a father: our mothers are as widows. we have drunk our water for money: we have bought our wood. we were dragged by the necks, we were weary and no rest was given us. we have given our hand to egypt, and to the assyrians, that we might be satisfied with bread. our fathers have sinned, and are not: and we have borne their iniquities. servants have ruled over us: there was none to redeem us out of their hand. we fetched our bread at the peril of our lives, because of the sword in the desert. our skin was burnt as an oven, by reason of the violence of the famine. they oppressed the women in sion, and the virgins in the cities of juda. the princes were hanged up by their hand: they did not respect the persons of the ancient. they abused the young men indecently: and the children fell under the wood. the ancients have ceased from the gates: the young men from the choir of the singers. the joy of our heart is ceased, our dancing is turned into mourning. the crown is fallen from our head woe to us, because we have sinned. therefore is our heart sorrowful, therefore are our eyes become dim, for mount sion, because it is destroyed, foxes have walked upon it. but thou, o lord, shalt remain for ever, thy throne from generation to generation. why wilt thou forget us for ever? why wilt thou forsake us for a long time? convert us, o lord, to thee, and we shall be converted: renew our days, as from the beginning. but thou hast utterly re-

the words of ecclesiastes, the son of david, king of jerusalem. vanity of vanities, said ecclesiastes vanity of vanities, and all is vanity. what hath a man more of all his labour, that he taketh under the sun? one generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth standeth for ever. the sun riseth, and goeth down, and returneth to his place: and there rising again, maketh his round by the south, and turneth again to the north: the spirit goeth forward surveying all places round about, and returneth to his circuits. all the rivers run into the sea, yet the sea doth not overflow: unto the place from whence the rivers come, they return, to flow again. all things are hard: man cannot explain them by word. the eye is not filled with seeing, neither is the ear filled with hearing. what is it that hath been? the same thing that shall be. what is it that hath been done? the same that shall be done. nothing under the sun is new, neither is any man able to say: behold this is new: for it hath already gone before in the ages that were before us. there is no remembrance of former things: nor indeed of those things which hereafter are to come, shall there be any remembrance with them that shall be in the latter end. i ecclesiastes was king over israel in jerusalem, and i proposed in my mind to seek and search out wisely concerning all things that are done under the sun. this painful occupation hath god given to the children of men, to be exercised therein. i have seen all things that are done under the sun, and behold all is vanity, and vexation of spirit. the perverse are hard to be corrected, and the number of fools is infinite. i have spoken in my heart, saying: behold i am become great, and have gone beyond all in wisdom, that were before me in jerusalem: and my mind hath contemplated many things wisely, and i have learned. and i have given my heart to know prudence, and learning, and errors, and folly: and i have perceived that in these also there was labour, and vexation of spirit, because in much wisdom there is much indignation: and he that addeth knowledge, addeth also labour.

i said in my heart: i will go, and abound with delights, and enjoy good things. and i saw that this also was vanity. laughter i counted error: and to mirth i said: why art thou vainly deceived? i thought in my heart, to withdraw my flesh from wine, that i might turn my mind to wisdom, and might avoid folly, till i might see what was profitable for the children of men: and what they ought to do under the sun, all the days of their life. i made me great works, i built me houses, and planted vineyards, i made gardens, and orchards, and set them with trees of all kinds, and i made me ponds of water, to water therewith the wood of the young trees, i got me menservants, and maidservants, and had a great family: and herds of oxen, and great flocks of sheep, above all that were before me in jerusalem: i heaped together for myself silver and gold, and the wealth of kings, and provinces: i made me singing men, and singing women, and the delights of the sons of men, cups and vessels to serve to pour out wine: and i surpassed in riches all that were before me in jerusalem: my wisdom also remained with me. and whatsoever my eyes desired, i refused them not: and i withheld not my heart from enjoying every pleasure, and delighting itself in the things which i had prepared: and esteemed this my portion, to make use of my own labour. and when i turned myself to all the works which my hands had wrought, and to the labours wherein i had laboured in vain, i saw in all things vanity, and vexation of mind, and that nothing was lasting under the sun. i passed further to behold wisdom, and errors and folly, (what is man, said i, that he can follow the king his maker?) and i saw that wisdom excelled folly, as much as light differeth from darkness. the eyes of a wise man are in his head: the fool walketh in darkness: and i learned that they were to die both alike. and i said in my heart: if the death of the fool and mine shall be one, what doth it avail me, that i have applied myself more to the study of wisdom? and speaking with my own mind, i perceived that this also was vanity. for there shall be no remembrance of the wise no more than of the fool for ever, and the times to come shall cover all things together with oblivion: the learned dieth in like manner as the unlearned. and therefore i was weary of my life, when i saw that all things under the sun are evil, and all vanity and vexation of spirit. again i hated all my application wherewith i had earnestly laboured under the sun, being like to have an heir after me, whom i know not whether he will be a wise man or a fool, and he shall have rule over all my labours with which i have laboured and been solicitous: and is there any thing so vain? wherefore i left off and my heart renounced labouring any more under the sun. for when a man laboureth in wisdom, and knowledge, and carefulness, he leaveth what he hath gotten to an idle man: so this also is vanity, and a great evil. for what profit shall a man have of all his labour, and vexation of spirit, with which he hath been tormented under the sun? all his days axe full of sorrows and miseries, even in the night he doth not rest in mind: and is not this vanity? is it not better to eat and drink, and to shew his soul good things of his labours? and this is from the hand of god. who shall so feast and abound with delights as i? god hath given to a man that is good in his sight, wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner he hath given vexation, and superfluous care, to heap up and to gather together, and to give it to him that hath pleased god: but this also is vanity, and a fruitless solicitude of the mind.

all things have their season, and in their times all things pass under heaven. a time to be born and a time to die. a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted. a time to kill, and a time to heal. a time to destroy, and a time to build. a time to weep, and a time to laugh. a time to mourn, and a time to dance. a time to scatter stones, and a time to gather. a time to embrace, and a time to be far from embraces.

a time to get, and a time to lose. a time to keep, and a time to cast away. a time to rend, and a time to sew. a time to keep silence, and a time to speak. a time of love, and a time of hatred. a time of war, and a time of peace. what hath man more of his labour? i have seen the trouble, which god hath given the sons of men to be exercised in it. he hath made all things good in their time, and hath delivered the world to their consideration, so that man cannot find out the work which god hath made from the beginning to the end. and i have known that there was no better thing than to rejoice, and to do well in this life. for every man that eateth and drinketh, and seeth good of his labour, this is the gift of god. i have learned that all the works which god hath made, continue for ever: we cannot add any thing, nor take away from those things which god hath made that he may be feared. that which hath been made, the same continueth: the things that shall be, have already been: and god restoreth that which is past. i saw under the sun in the place of judgment wickedness, and in the place of justice iniquity. and i said in my heart: god shall judge both the just and the wicked, and then shall be the time of every thing. i said in my heart concerning the sons of men, that god would prove them, and shew them to be like beasts. therefore the death of man, and of beasts is one, and the condition of them both is equal: as man dieth, so they also die: all things breathe alike, and man hath nothing more than beast: all things are subject to vanity. and all things go to one place: of earth they were made, and into earth they return together. who knoweth if the spirit of the children of adam ascend upward, and if the spirit of the beasts descend downward? and i have found that nothing is better than for a man to rejoice in his work, and that this is his portion. for who shall bring him to know the things that shall be after him?

i turned myself to other things, and i saw the oppressions that are done under the sun, and the tears of the innocent, and they had no comforter; and they were not able to resist their violence, being destitute of help from any. and i praised the dead rather than the living: and i judged him happier than them both, that is not yet born, nor hath seen the evils that are done under the sun. again i considered all the labours of men, and i remarked that their industries are exposed to the envy of their neighbour: so in this also there is vanity, and fruitless care. the fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth his own flesh, saying: better is a handful of rest, than both hands full with labour, and vexation of mind. considering i found also another vanity under the sun: there is but one, and he hath not a second, no child, no brother, and yet he ceaseth not to labour, neither are his eyes satisfied with riches, neither doth he reflect, saying: for whom do i labour, and defraud my soul of good things? in this also is vanity, and a grievous vexation. it is better therefore that two should be together, than one: for they have the advantage of their society: if one fall he shall be supported by the other: woe to him that is alone, for when he falleth, he hath none to lift him up. and if two lie together, they shall warm one another: how shall one alone be warmed? and if a man prevail against one, two shall withstand him: a three-fold cord is not easily broken. better is a child that is poor and wise, than a king that is old and foolish, who knoweth not to foresee for hereafter. because out of prison and chains sometimes a man cometh forth to a kingdom: and another born king is consumed with poverty. i saw all men living, that walk under the sun with the second young man, who shall rise up in his place. the number of the people, of all that were before him is infinite: and they that shall come afterwards, shall not rejoice in him: but this also is vanity, and vexation of spirit.

keep thy foot, when thou goest into the house of god, and draw nigh to hear. for much better is obedience, than the victims of fools, who know not what evil they do. speak not any thing rashly, and let not thy heart be hasty to utter a word before god. for god is in heaven, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few. dreams follow many cares: and in many words shall be found folly. if thou hast vowed any thing to god, defer not to pay it: for an unfaithful and foolish promise displeaseth him: but whatsoever thou hast vowed, pay it. and it is much better not to vow, than after a vow not to perform the things promised. give not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin: and say not before the angel: there is no providence: lest god be angry at thy words, and destroy all the works of thy hands. where there are many dreams, there are many vanities, and words without number: but do thou fear god. if thou shalt see the oppressions of the poor, and violent judgments, and justice perverted in the province, wonder not at this matter: for he that is high hath another higher, and there are others still higher than these: moreover there is the king that reigneth over all the land subject to him. a covetous man shall not be satisfied with money: and he that loveth riches shall reap no fruit from them: so this also is vanity. where there are great riches, there are also many to eat them. and what doth it profit the owner, but that he seeth the riches with his eyes? sleep is sweet to a labouring man, whether he eat little or much: but the fulness of the rich will not suffer him to sleep. there is also another grievous evil, which i have seen under the sun: riches kept to the hurt of the owner. for they are lost with very great affliction: he hath begotten a son, who shall be in extremity of want. as he came forth naked from his mother's womb, so shall he return, and shall take nothing away with him of his labour. a most deplorable evil: as he came, so shall he return. what then doth it profit him that he hath laboured for the wind? all the days of his life he eateth in darkness, and in many cares, and in misery, and sorrow. this therefore hath seemed good to me, that a man should eat and drink, and enjoy the fruit of his labour, wherewith he hath laboured under the sun, all the days of his life, which god hath given him: and this is his portion. and every man to whom god hath given riches, and substance, and hath given him power to eat thereof, and to enjoy his portion, and to rejoice of his labour: this is the gift of god. for he shall not much remember the days of his life, because god entertaineth his heart with delight, there is also another evil, which i have seen under the sun, and that frequent among men: a man to whom god hath given riches, and substance, and honour, and his soul wanteth nothing of all that he desireth: yet god doth not give him power to eat thereof, but a stranger shall eat it up. this is vanity and a great misery. if a man beget a hundred children, and live many years, and attain to a great age, and his soul make no use of the goods of his substance, and he be without burial: of this man i pronounce, that the untimely born is better than he. for he came in vain, and goeth to darkness, and his name shall be wholly forgotten. he hath not seen the sun, nor known the distance of good and evil: although he lived two thousand years, and hath not enjoyed good things: do not all make haste to one place? all the labour of man is for his mouth, but his soul shall not be filled. what hath the wise man more than the fool? and what the poor man, but to go thither, where there is life? better it is to see what thou mayst desire, than to desire that which thou canst not know. but this also is vanity, and presumption of spirit. he that shall be, his name is already called: and it is known, that he is man, and cannot contend in judgment with him that is stronger than himself. there are many words that have much vanity in disputing. what needeth a man to seek things that are above him, whereas he knoweth not what is profitable for him in his life, in all the days of his pilgrimage, and the time that passeth like a shadow? or who can tell him what shall be after him under the sun?

a good name is better than precious ointments: and the day of death than the day of one's birth. it is better to go to the house of mourning, than to the house of feasting: for in that we are put in mind of the end of all, and the living thinketh what is to come. anger is better than laughter: because by the sadness of the countenance the mind of the offender is corrected. the heart of the wise is where there is mourning, and the heart of fools where there is mirth. it is better to be rebuked by a wise man, than to be deceived by the flattery of fools. for as the crackling of thorns burning under a pot, so is the laughter of a fool: now this also is vanity. oppression troubleth the wise, and shall destroy the strength of his heart. better is the end of a speech than the beginning. better is the patient man than the presumptuous. be not quickly angry: for anger resteth in the bosom of a fool. say not: what thinkest thou is the cause that former times were better than they are now? for this manner of question is foolish. wisdom with riches is more profitable, and

bringeth more advantage to them that see the sun. for as wisdom is a defence, so money is a defence: but learning and wisdom excel in this, that they give life to him that possesseth them. consider the works of god, that no man can correct whom he hath despised. in the good day enjoy good things, and beware beforehand of the evil day: for god hath made both the one and the other, that man may not find against him any just complaint. these things also i saw in the days of my vanity: a just man perisheth in his justice, and a wicked man liveth a long time in his wickedness. be not over just: and be not more wise than is necessary, lest thou become stupid. be not over-much wicked: and be not foolish, lest thou die before thy time. it is good that thou shouldst hold up the just, yea and from him withdraw not thy hand: for he that feareth god, neglecteth nothing. wisdom hath strengthened the wise more than ten princes of the city. for there is no just man upon earth, that doth good, and sinneth not. but do not apply thy heart to all words that are spoken: lest perhaps thou hear thy servant reviling thee. for thy conscience knoweth that thou also hast often spoken evil of others. i have tried all things in wisdom. i have said: i will be wise: and it departed farther from me, much more than it was: it is a great depth, who shall find it out? i have surveyed all things with my mind, to know, and consider, and seek out wisdom and reason: and to know the wickedness of the fool, and the error of the imprudent: and i have found a woman more bitter than death, who is the hunter's snare, and her heart is a net, and her hands are bands. he that pleaseth god shall escape from her: but he that is a sinner, shall be caught by her. lo this have i found, said ecclesiastes, weighing one thing after another, that i might find out the account, which yet my soul seeketh, and i have not found it. one man among a thousand i have found, a woman among them all i have not found. only this i have found, that god made man right, and he hath entangled himself with an infinity of questions. who is as the wise man? and who hath known the resolution of the word?

the wisdom of a man shineth in his countenance, and the most mighty will change his face. i observe the mouth of the king, and the commandments of the oath of god. be not hasty to depart from his face, and do not continue in an evil work: for he will do all that pleaseth him: and his word is full of power: neither can any man say to him: why dost thou so? he that keepeth the commandments shall find no evil. the heart of a wise man understandeth time and answer. there is a time and opportunity for every business, and great affliction for man: because he is ignorant of things past, and things to come he cannot know by any messenger. it is not in man's power to stop the spirit, neither hath he power in the day of death, neither is he suffered to rest when war is at hand, neither shall wickedness save the wicked. all these things i have considered, and applied my heart to all the works that are done under the sun. sometimes one man ruleth over another to his own hurt. i saw the wicked buried: who also when they were yet living were in the holy place, and were praised in the city as men of just works: but this also is vanity. for because sentence is not speedily pronounced against the evil, the children of men commit evils without any fear. but though a sinner do evil a hundred times, and by patience be borne withal, i know from thence that it shall be well with them that fear god, who dread his face. but let it not be well with the wicked, neither let his days be prolonged, but as a shadow let them pass away that fear not the face of the lord. there is also another vanity, which is done upon the earth. there are just men to whom evils happen, as though they had done the works of the wicked: and there are wicked men, who are as secure, as though they had the deeds of the just: but this also i judge most vain. therefore i commended mirth, because there was no good for a man under the sun, but to eat, and drink, and be merry, and that he should take nothing else with him of his labour in the days of his life, which god hath given him under the sun. and i applied my heart to know wisdom, and to understand the distraction that is upon earth: for there are some that day and night take no sleep with their eyes. and i understood that man can find no reason of all those works of god that are done under the sun: and the more he shall labour to seek, so much the less shall he find: yea, though the wise man shall say, that he knoweth it, he shall not be able to find it.

all these things have i considered in my heart, that i might carefully understand them: there are just men and wise men, and their works are in the hand of god: and yet man knoweth not whether he be worthy of love, or hatred: but all things are kept uncertain for the time to come, because all things equally happen to the just and to the wicked, to the good and to the evil, to the clean and to the unclean, to him that offereth victims, and to him that despiseth sacrifices. as the good is, so also is the sinner: as the perjured, so he also that sweareth truth. this is a very great evil among all things that are done under the sun, that the same things happen to all men: whereby also the hearts of the children of men are filled with evil, and with contempt while they live, and afterwards they shall be brought down to hell. there is no man that liveth always, or that hopeth for this: a living dog is better than a dead lion. for the living know that they shall die, but the dead know nothing more, neither have they a reward any more: for the memory of them is forgotten. their love also, and their hatred, and their envy are all perished, neither have they any part in this world, and in the work that is done under the sun. go then, and eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with gladness: because thy works please god. at all times let thy garments be white, and let not oil depart from thy head. live joyfully with the wife whom thou lovest, all the days of thy unsteady life, which are given to thee under the sun, all the time of thy vanity: for this is thy portion in life, and in thy labour wherewith thou labourest under the sun. whatsoever thy hand is able to do, do it earnestly: for neither work, nor reason, nor wisdom, nor knowledge shall be in hell, whither thou art hastening. i turned me to another thing, and i saw that under the sun, the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the learned, nor favour to the skilful: but time and chance in all. man knoweth not his own end: but as fishes are taken with the hook, and as birds are caught with the snare, so men are taken in the evil time, when it shall suddenly come upon them. this wisdom also i have seen under the sun, and it seemed to me to be very great: a little city, and few men in it: there came against it a great king, and invested it, and built bulwarks round about it, and the siege was perfect. now there was found in it a man poor and wise, and he delivered the city by his wisdom, and no man afterward remembered that poor man. and i said that wisdom is better than strength: how then is the wisdom of the poor man slighted, and his words not heard? the words of the wise are heard in silence, more than the cry of a prince among fools. better is wisdom, than weapons of war: and he that shall offend in one, shall lose many good things.

dying flies spoil the sweetness of the ointment. wisdom and glory is more precious than a small and shortlived folly. the heart of a wise man is in his right hand, and the heart of a fool is in his left hand. yea, and the fool when he walketh in the way, whereas he himself is a fool, esteemeth all men fools. if the spirit of him that hath power, ascend upon thee, leave not thy place: because care will make the greatest sins to cease. there is an evil that i have seen under the sun, as it were by an error proceeding from the face of the prince: a fool set in high dignity, and the rich sitting beneath. i have seen servants upon horses: and princes walking on the ground as servants. he that diggeth a pit, shall fall into it: and he that breaketh a hedge, a serpent shall bite him. he that removeth stones, shall be hurt by them: and he that cutteth trees, shall be wounded by them. if the iron be blunt, and be not as before, but be made blunt, with much labour it shall be sharpened: and after industry shall follow wisdom. if a serpent bite in silence, he is nothing better than backbiteth secretly. the words of the mouth of a wise man are grace: but the lips of a fool shall throw him down headlong. the beginning of his words is folly, and the end of his talk is a mischievous error. a fool multiplieth words. a man cannot tell what hath been before him: and what shall be after him, who can tell him? the labour of fools shall afflict them that know not bow to go to the city. woe to thee, o land, when thy king is a child, and when the princes eat in the morning. blessed is the land, whose king is noble, and whose princes eat in due season for refreshment, and not for riotousness. by slothfulness a building shall be brought down, and through the weakness of hands, the house shall drop through. for laughter they make bread, and wine that the living may feast: and all things obey money. detract not the king, no not in thy thought; and speak not evil of the rich man in thy private chamber: because even the birds of the air will carry thy voice, and he that hath wings will tell what thou hast said.

cast thy bread upon the running waters: for after a long time thou shalt find it again. give a portion to seven, and also to eight: for thou knowest not what evil shall be upon the earth. if the clouds be full, they will pour out rain upon the earth. if the tree fall to the south, or to the north, in what place soever it shall fall, there shall it be. he that observeth the wind, shall not sow: and he that considereth the clouds, shall never reap. as thou knowest not what is the way of the spirit, nor how the bones are joined together in the womb of her that is with child: so thou knowest not the works of god, who is the maker of all. in the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening let not thy hand cease: for thou knowest not which may rather spring up, this or that: and if both together, it shall be the better. the light is sweet, and it is delightful for the eyes to see the sun. if a man live many years, and have rejoiced in them all, he must remember the darksome time, and the many days: which when they shall come, the things past shall be accused of vanity. rejoice therefore, o young man, in thy youth, and let thy heart be in that which is good in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart, and in the sight of thy eyes: and know that for all these god will bring thee into judgment. remove anger from thy heart, and put away evil from thy flesh. for youth and pleasure are vain.

remember thy creator in the days of thy youth, before the time of affliction come, and the years draw nigh of which thou shalt say: they please me not: before the sun, and the light, and the moon, and the stars be darkened, and the clouds return after the rain: when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the strong men shall stagger, and the grinders shall be idle in a small number, and they that look through the holes shall be darkened: and they shall shut the doors in the street, when the grinder's voice shall be low, and they shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of music shall grow deaf. and they shall fear high things, and they shall be afraid in the way, the almond tree shall flourish, the locust shall be made fat, and the caper tree shall be destroyed: because man shall go into the house of his eternity, and the mourners shall go round about in the street. before the silver cord be broken, and the golden fillet shrink back, and the pitcher be crushed at the fountain, and the wheel be broken upon the cistern, and the dust return into its earth, from whence it was, and the spirit return to god, who gave it. vanity of vanities, said ecclesiastes, and all things are vanity. and whereas ecclesiastes was very wise, he taught the people, and declared the things that he had done: and seeking out, he set forth many parables. he sought profitable words, and wrote words most right, and full of truth. the words of the wise are as goads, and as nails deeply fastened in, which by the counsel of masters are given from one shepherd. more than these, my son, require not. of making many books there is no end: and much study is an affliction of the flesh. let us all hear together the conclusion of the discourse. fear god, and keep his commandments: for this is all man: and all things that are done, god will bring into judgment for every error, whether it be good or evil.

in the days of assuerus, who reigned from india to ethiopia over a hundred and twenty-seven provinces: when he sat on the throne of his kingdom, the city susan was the capital of his kingdom. now in the third year of his reign he made a great feast for all the princes, and for his servants, for the most mighty of the persians, and the nobles of the medes, and the governors of the provinces in his sight, that he might shew the riches of the glory of his kingdom, and the greatness, and boasting of his power, for a long time, to wit, for a hundred and fourscore days. and when the days of the feast were expired, he invited all the people that were found in susan, from the greatest to the least: and commanded a feast to be made seven days in the court of the garden, and of the wood, which was planted by the care and the hand of the king. and there were hung up on every side sky coloured, and green, and violet hangings, fastened with cords of silk, and of purple, which were put into rings of ivory, and were held up with marble pillars. the beds also were of gold and silver, placed in order upon a floor paved with porphyry and white marble: which was embellished with painting of wonderful variety. and they that were invited, drank in golden cups, and the meats were brought in divers vessels one after another. wine also in abundance and of the best was presented, as was worthy of a king's magnificence. neither was there any one to compel them to drink that were not willing, but as the king had appointed, who set over every table one of his nobles, that every man might take what he would. also vasthi the queen made a feast for the women in the palace, where king assuerus was used to dwell. now on the seventh day, when the king was merry, and after very much drinking was well warmed with wine, he commanded mauman, and bazatha, and harbana, and bagatha, and abgatha, and zethar, and charcas, the seven eunuchs that served in his presence, to bring in queen vasthi before the king, with the crown set upon her head, to shew her beauty to all the people and the princes: for she was exceeding beautiful. but she refused, and would not come at the king's commandment, which he had signified to her by the eunuchs. whereupon the king, being angry, and inflamed with a very great fury, barked the wise men, who according to the custom of the kings, were always near his person, and all he did was by their counsel, who knew the laws, and judgments of their forefathers: (now the chief and nearest him were, charsena, and sethar, and admatha, and tharsis, and mares, and marsana, and mamuchan, seven princes of the persians, and of the medes, who saw the face of the king, and were used to sit first after him :) what sentence ought to pass upon vasthi the queen, who had refused to obey the commandment of king assuerus, which he had sent to her by the eunuchs? and mamuchan answered, in the hearing of the king and the princes: queen vasthi hath not only injured the king, but also all the people and princes that are in all the provinces of king assuerus. for this deed of the queen will go abroad to all women, so that they will despise their husbands, and will say: king assuerus commanded that queen vasthi should come in to him, and she would not. and by this example all the wives of the princes of the persians and the medes will slight the commandments of their husbands: wherefore the king's indignation is just. if it please thee, let an edict go out from thy presence, and let it be written according to the law of the persians and of the medes, which must not be altered, that vasthi come in no more to the king, but another, that is better than her, be made queen in her place. and let this be published through all the provinces of thy empire, (which is very wide,) and let all wives, as well of the greater as of the lesser, give honour to their husbands. his counsel pleased the king, and the princes: and the king did according to the counsel of mamuchan. and he sent letters to all the provinces of his kingdom, as every nation could hear and read, in divers languages and characters, that the husbands should be rulers and masters in their houses: and that this should be published to every people.

after this, when the wrath of king assuerus was appeased, he remembered vasthi, and what she had done and what she had suffered: and the king's servants and his officers said: let young women be sought for the king, virgins and beautiful, and let some persons be sent through all the provinces to look for beautiful maidens and virgins: and let them bring them to the city of susan, and put them into the house of the women under the hand of egeus the eunuch, who is the overseer and keeper of the king's women: and let them receive women's ornaments, and other things necessary for their use, and whosoever among them all shall please the king's eyes, let her be queen instead of vasthi. the word pleased the king: and he commanded it should be done as they had suggested. there was a man in the city of susan, a jew, named mardochai, the son of jair, the son of semei, the son of cis, of the race of jemini, who had been carried away from jerusalem at the time that nabuchodonosor king of babylon carried away jechonias king of juda, and he had brought up his brother's daughter edissa, who by another name was called esther: now she had lost both her parents: and was exceeding fair and beautiful. and her father and mother being dead, mardochai adopted her for his daughter. and when the king's ordinance was noised abroad, and according to his commandment many beautiful virgins were brought to susan, and were delivered to egeus the eunuch: esther also among the rest of the maidens was delivered to him to be kept in the number of the women. and she pleased him, and found favour in his sight. and he commanded the eunuch to hasten the women's ornaments, and to deliver to her her part, and seven of the most beautiful maidens of the king's house, and to adorn and deck out both her and her waiting maids. and she would not tell him her people nor her country. for mardochai had charged her to say nothing at all of that: and he walked every day before the court of the house, in which the chosen virgins were kept, having a care for esther's welfare, and desiring to know what would befall her. now when every virgin's turn came to go in to the king, after all had been done for setting them off to advantage, it was the twelfth month: so that for six months they were anointed with oil of myrrh, and for other six months they used certain perfumes and sweet spices. and when they were going in to the king, whatsoever they asked to adorn themselves they received: and being decked out, as it pleased them, they passed from the chamber of the women to the king's chamber. and she that went in at evening, came out in the morning, and from thence she was conducted to the second house, that was under the hand of susanah the eunuch, who had the charge over the king's concubines: neither could she return any more to the king, unless the king desired it, and had ordered her by name to come. and as the time came orderly about, the day was at hand, when esther, the daughter of abihail the brother of mardochai, whom he had adopted for his daughter, was to go in to the king. but she sought not women's ornaments, but whatsoever egeus the eunuch the keeper of the virgins had a mind, he gave her to adorn her. for she was exceeding fair, and her incredible beauty made her appear agreeable and amiable in the eyes of all. so she was brought to the chamber of king assuerus the tenth month, which is called tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign. and the king loved her more than all the women, and she had favour and kindness before him above all the women, and he set the royal crown on her head, and made her queen instead of vasthi. and he commanded a magnificent feast to be prepared for all the princes, and for his servants, for the marriage and wedding of esther. and he gave rest to all the provinces, and bestowed gifts according to princely magnificence. and when the virgins were sought the second time, and gathered together, mardochai stayed at the king's gate, neither had esther as yet declared her country and people, according to his commandment. for whatsoever he commanded, esther observed: and she did all things in the same manner as she was wont at that time when he brought her up a little one. at that time, therefore, when mardochai abode at the king's gate, bagathan and thares, two of the king's eunuchs, who were porters, and presided in the first entry of the palace, were angry: and they designed to rise up against the king, and to kill him. and mardochai had notice of it, and immediately he told it to queen esther: and she to the king in mardochai's name, who had reported the thing unto her. it was inquired into, and found out: and they were both hanged on a gibbet. and it was put in the histories, and recorded in the chronicles before the king.

for so the emperor had commanded them, only mardochai did not bend his knee, nor worship him. and the king's servants that were chief at the doors of the palace, said to him: why dost thou alone not observe the king's commandment? and when they were saying this often, and he would not hearken to them; they told aman, desirous to know whether he would continue in his resolution: for he had told them that he was a jew. now when aman had heard this, and had proved by experience that mardochai did not bend his knee to him, nor worship him, he was exceeding angry. and he counted it nothing to lay his hands upon mardochai alone: for he had heard that he was of the nation of the jews, and he chose rather to destroy all the nation of the jews that were in the kingdom of assuerus. in the first month (which is called nisan) in the twelfth year of the reign of assuerus, the lot was cast into an urn, which in hebrew is called phur, before aman, on what day and what month the nation of the jews should be destroyed: and there came out the twelfth month, which is called adar. and aman said to king assuerus: there is a people scattered through all the provinces of thy kingdom, and separated one from another, that use new laws and ceremonies, and moreover despise the king's ordinances: and thou knowest very well that it is not expedient for thy kingdom that they should grow insolent by impunity. if it please thee, decree that they may be destroyed, and i will pay ten thousand talents to thy treasurers. and the king took the ring that he used, from his own hand, and gave it to aman, the son of amadathi of the race of agag, the enemy of the jews, and he said to him: as to the money which thou promisest, keep it for thyself: and as to the people, do with them as seemeth good to thee. and the king's scribes were called in the first month nisan, on the thirteenth day of the same month: and they wrote, as aman had commanded, to all the king's lieutenants, and to the judges of the provinces, and of divers nations, as every nation could read, and hear according to their different languages, in the name of king assuerus: and the letters, sealed with his ring, were sent by the king's messengers to all provinces, to kill and destroy all the jews, both young and old, little children, and women, in one day, that is, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month, which is called adar, and to make a spoil of their goods. and the contents of the letters were to this effect, that all provinces might know and be ready against that day. the couriers that were sent made haste to fulfil the king's commandment. and immediately the edict was hung up in susan, the king and aman feasting together, and all the jews that were in the city weeping.

3 after these things, king assuerus advanced aman, the son of amadathi, who was of the race of agag: and he set his throne above all the princes that were with him. and all the king's servants, that were at the doors of the palace, bent their knees, and worshipped aman:

now when mardochai had heard these things, he rent his garments, and put on sackcloth, strewing ashes on his head: and he cried with a loud voice in the street in the midst of the city, shewing the anguish of his mind. and he came lamenting in this manner even to the gate of the palace: for no one clothed with sackcloth might enter the king's court. and in all provinces, towns, and places, to which the king's cruel edict was come, there was great mourning among the jews, with fasting, wailing, and weeping, many using sackcloth and ashes for their bed. then esther's maids and her eunuchs went in, and told her. and when she heard it she was in a consternation: and she sent a garment, to clothe him, and to take away the sackcloth: but he would not receive it. and she called for athach the eunuch, whom the king had appointed to attend upon her, and she commanded him to go to mardochai, and learn of him why he did this. and athach going out went to mardochai, who was standing in the street of the city, before the palace gate: and mardochai told him all that had happened, how aman had promised to pay money into the king's treasures, to have the jews destroyed. he gave him also a copy of the edict which was hanging up in susan, that he should shew it to the queen, and admonish her to go in to the king, and to entreat him for her people. and athach went back and told esther all that mardochai had said. she answered him, and bade him say to mardochai: ll the king's servants, and all the provinces that are under his dominion, know, that whosoever, whether man or woman, cometh into the king's inner court, who is not called for, is immediately to be put to death without any delay: except the king shall hold out the golden sceptre to him, in token of clemency, that so he may live. how then can i go in to the king, who for these thirty days now have not been called unto him? and when mardochai had heard this, he sent word to esther again, saying: think not that thou mayst save thy life only, because thou art in the king a house, more than all the jews: for if thou wilt now hold thy peace, the jews shall be delivered by some other occasion: and thou, and thy father's house shall perish. and who knoweth whether thou art not therefore come to the kingdom, that thou mightest be ready in such a time as this? and again esther sent to mardochai in these words: go, and gather together all the jews whom thou shalt find in susan, and pray ye for me. neither eat nor drink for three days and three nights: and i with my handmaids will fast in like manner, and then i will go in to the king, against the law, not being called, and expose myself to death and to danger. so mardochai went, and did all that esther had commanded him.

and on the third day esther put on her royal apparel, and stood in the inner court of the king's house, over against the king's hall: now he sat upon his throne in the hall of the palace, over against the door of the house. and when he saw esther the queen standing, she pleased his eyes, and he held out toward her the golden sceptre, which he held in his hand: and she drew near, and kissed the top of his sceptre. and the king said to her: what wilt then, queen esther? what is thy request? if thou shouldst even ask one half of the kingdom, it shall be given to thee. but she answered: if it please the king. i beseech thee to come to me this day, and aman with thee to the banquet which i have prepared. and the king said forthwith: call ye aman quickly, that he may obey esther's will. so the king and aman came to the banquet which the queen had prepared for them. and the king said to her, after he had drunk wine plentifully: what dost thou desire should be given thee? and for what thing askest thou? although thou shouldst ask the half of my kingdom, thou shalt have it. and esther answered: my petition and request is this: if i have found favour in the king's sight, and if it please the king to give me what i ask, and to fulfil my petition: let the king and aman come to the banquet which i have prepared them, and to morrow i will open my mind to the king. so aman went out that day joyful and merry. and when he saw mardochai sitting before the gate of the palace, and that he not only did not rise up to honour him, but did not so much as move from the place where he sat, he was exceedingly angry: but dissembling his anger, and returning into his house, he called together to him his friends, and zares his wife: and he declared to them the greatness of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and with how great glory the king had advanced him above all his princes and servants. and after this he said: queen esther also hath invited no other to the banquet with the king, but me: and with her i am also to dine to morrow with the king: and whereas i have all these things, i think i have nothing, so long as i see mardochai the jew sitting before the king's gate. then zares his wife, and the rest of his friends answered him: order a great beam to be prepared, fifty cubits high, and in the morning speak to the king, that mardochai may be hanged upon it, and so thou shalt go full of joy with the king to the banquet. the counsel pleased him, and he commanded a high gibbet to be prepared.

that night the king passed without sleep, and he commanded the histories and chronicles of former times to be brought him. and when they were reading them before him, they came to that place where it was written, how mardochai had discovered the treason of bagathan and thares the eunuchs, who sought to kill king assuerus. and when the king heard this, he said: what honour and reward hath mardochai received for this fidelity? his servants and ministers said to him: he hath received no reward at all. and the king said immediately: who is in the court? for aman was coming in to the inner court of the king's house, to speak to the king, that he might order mardochai to be hanged upon the gibbet which was prepared for him. the servants answered: aman standeth in the court, and the king said: let him come in. and when he was come in, he said to him: what ought to be done to the man whom the king is desirous to honour? but aman thinking in his heart, and supposing that the king would honour no other but himself, answered: the man whom the king desireth to honour, ought to be clothed with the king's apparel, and to be set upon the horse that the king rideth upon, and to have the royal crown upon his head, and let the first of the king's princes and nobles hold his horse, and going through the street of the city, proclaim before him and say: thus shall he be honoured, whom the king hath a mind to honour. and the king said to him: make haste and take the robe and the horse, and do as thou hast spoken to mardochai the jew, who sitteth before the gates of the palace. beware thou pass over any of those things which thou hast spoken. so aman took the robe and the horse, and arraying mardochai in the street of the city, and setting him on the horse, went before him, and proclaimed: this honour is he worthy of, whom the king hath a mind to honour. but mardochai returned to the palace gate: and aman made haste to go to his house, mourning and having his head covered: and he told zares his wife, and his friends, all that had befallen him. and the wise men whom he had in counsel, and his wife answered him: if mardochai be of the seed of the jews, before whom thou hast begun to fall, thou canst not resist him, but thou shalt fall in his sight. as they were yet speaking, the king's eunuchs came, and compelled him to go quickly to the banquet which the queen had prepared.

so the king and aman went in, to drink with the queen. and the king said to her again the second day, after he was warm with wine: what is thy petition, esther, that it may be granted thee? and what wilt thou have done: although thou ask the half of my kingdom, thou shalt have it. then she answered: if i have found favour in thy sight, o king, and if it please thee, give me my life for which i ask, and my people for which i request. for we are given up, i and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain, and to perish. and would god we were sold for bondmen and bondwomen: the evil might be borne with, and i would have mourned in silence: but now we have an enemy, whose cruelty redoundeth upon the king. and king assuerus answered and said: who is this, and of what power, that he should do these things? and esther said: it is this aman that is our adversary and most wicked enemy. aman hearing this was forthwith astonished, not being able to bear the countenance of the king and of the queen. but the king being angry rose up, and went from the place of the banquet into the garden set with trees. aman also rose up to entreat esther the queen for his life, for he understood that evil was prepared for him by the king. and when the king came back out of the garden set with trees, and entered into the place of the banquet, he found aman was fallen upon the bed on which esther lay, and he said: he will force the queen also in my presence, in my own house. the word was not yet gone out of the king's mouth, and immediately they covered his face. and harbana, one of the eunuchs that stood waiting on the king, said: behold the gibbet which he hath prepared for mardochai, who spoke for the king, standeth in aman's house, being fifty cubits high. and the king said to him: hang him upon it. so aman was hanged on the gibbet, which he had prepared for mardochai: and the king's wrath ceased.

on that day king assuerus gave the house of aman, the jews' enemy, to queen esther, and mardochai came in before the king. for esther had confessed to him that he was her uncle. and the king took the ring which he had commanded to be taken again from aman, and gave it to mardochai. and esther set mardochai over her house. and not content with these things, she fell down at the king's feet and wept, and speaking to him besought him, that he would give orders that the malice of aman the agagite, and his most wicked devices which he had invented against the jews, should be of no effect. but he, as the manner was, held out the golden sceptre with his hand, which was the sign of clemency: and she arose up and stood before him, and said: if it please the king, and if i have found favour in his sight, and my request be not disagreeable to him, i beseech thee, that the former letters of aman the traitor and enemy of the jews, by which he commanded that they should be destroyed in all the king's provinces, may be reversed by new letters. for how call i endure the murdering and slaughter of my people? and king assuerus answered esther the queen, and mardochai the jew: i have given aman's house to esther, and i have commanded him to be hanged on a gibbet, because he durst lay hands on the jews. write ye therefore to the jews, as it pleaseth you, in the king's name, and seal the letters with my ring. for this was the custom, that no man durst gainsay the letters which were sent in the king's name, and were sealed with his ring. then the king's scribes and secretaries were called for (now it was the time of the third month which is called siban) the three and twentieth day of the month, and letters were written, as mardochai had a mind, to the jews, and to the governors, and to the deputies, and to the judges, who were rulers over the hundred and twenty-seven provinces, from india even to ethiopia: to province and province, to people and people, according to their languages and characters, and to the jews, according as they could read and hear. and these letters which were sent in the king's name, were sealed with his ring, and sent by posts: who were to run through all the provinces, to prevent the former letters with new messages. and the king gave orders to them, to speak to the jews in every city, and to command them to gather themselves together, and to stand for their lives, and to kill and destroy all their enemies with their wives and children and all their houses, and to take their spoil. and one day of revenge was appointed through all the provinces, to wit, the thirteenth of the twelfth month adar. and this was the content of the letter, that it should be notified in all lands and peoples that were subject to the empire of king assuerus, that the jews were ready to be revenged of their enemies. so the swift posts went out carrying the messages, and the king's edict was hung up in susan. and mardochai going forth out of the palace, and from the king's presence, shone in royal apparel, to wit, of violet and sky colour, wearing a golden crown on his head, and clothed with a cloak of silk and purple. and all the city rejoiced and was glad. but to the jews a new light seemed to rise, joy, honour, and dancing. and in all peoples, cities, and provinces, whithersoever the king's commandments came, there was wonderful rejoicing, feasts and banquets, and keeping holy day: insomuch that many of other nations and religion, joined themselves to their worship and ceremonies. for a great dread of the name of the jews had fallen upon all.

so on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which as we have said above is called adar, when all the jews were designed to be massacred, and their enemies were greedy after their blood, the case being altered, the jews began to have the upper hand, and to revenge themselves of their adversaries. and they gathered themselves together in every city, and town, and place, to lay their hands on their enemies, and their persecutors. and no one durst withstand them, for the fear of their power had gone through every people. and the judges of the provinces, and the governors, and lieutenants, and every one in dignity, that presided over every place and work, extolled the jews for fear of mardochai: for they knew him to be prince of the palace, and to have great power: and the fame of his name increased daily, and was spread abroad through all men's mouths. so the jews made a great slaughter of their enemies, and killed them, repaying according to what they had prepared to do to them: insomuch that even in susan they killed five hundred men, besides the ten sons of aman the agagite, the enemy of the jews: whose names are these: pharsandatha, and delphon, and esphatha, and phoratha, and adalia, and aridatha, and phermesta, and arisai, and aridai, and jezatha. and when they had slain them, they would not touch the spoils of their goods. and presently the number of them that were killed in susan was brought to the king. and he said to the queen: the jews have killed five hundred men in the city of susan, besides the ten sons of aman: how many dost thou think they have slain in all the provinces? what askest thou more, and what wilt thou have me to command to be done? and she answered: if it please the king, let it be granted to the jews, to do to morrow in susan as they have done to day, and that the ten sons of aman may be hanged upon gibbets. and the king commanded that it should be so done. and forthwith the edict was hung up in susan, and the ten sons of aman were hanged. and on the fourteenth day of the month adar the jews gathered themselves together, and they killed in susan three hundred men: but they took not their substance. moreover through all the provinces which were subject to the king's dominion the jews stood for their lives, and slew their enemies and persecutors: insomuch that the number of them that were billed amounted to seventy-five thousand, and no man took any of their goods. now the thirteenth day of the month adar was the first day with them all of the slaughter, and on the fourteenth day they left off. which they ordained to be kept holy day, so that all times hereafter they should celebrate it with feasting, joy, and banquets.

but they that were killing in the city of susan, were employed in the slaughter on the thirteenth and fourteenth day of the same month: and on the fifteenth day they rested. and therefore they appointed that day to be a holy day of feasting and gladness. but those jews that dwelt in towns not walled and in villages, appointed the fourteenth day of the month adar for banquets and gladness, so as to rejoice on that day, and send one another portions of their banquets and meats. and mardochai wrote all these things, and sent them comprised in letters to the jews that abode in all the king's provinces, both those that lay near and those afar off, hat they should receive the fourteenth and fifteenth day of the month adar for holy days, and always at the return of the year should celebrate them with solemn honour: because on those days the jews revenged themselves of their enemies, and their mourning and sorrow were turned into mirth and joy, and that these should be days of feasting and gladness, in which they should send one to another portions of meats; and should give gifts to the poor. and the jews undertook to observe with solemnity all they had begun to do at that time, which mardochai by letters had commanded to be done. for aman, the son of amadathi of the race of agag, the enemy and adversary of the jews, had devised evil against them, to kill them and destroy them: and had cast phur, that is, the lot. and afterwards esther went in to the king, beseeching him that his endeavours might be made void by the king's letters: and the evil that he had intended against the jews, might return upon his own head. and so both he and his sons were hanged upon gibbets. and since that time these days are called phurim, that is, of lots: because phur, that is, the lot, was cast into the urn. and all things that were done, are contained in the volume of this epistle, that is, of this book: and the things that they suffered, and that were afterwards changed, the jews took upon themselves and their seed, and upon all that had a mind to be joined to their religion, so that it should be lawful for none to pass these days without solemnity: which the writing testifieth, and certain times require, as the years continually succeed one another. these are the days which shall never be forgot: and which all provinces in the whole world shall celebrate throughout all generations: neither is there any city wherein the days of phurim, that is, of lots, must not be observed by the jews, and by their posterity, which is bound to these ceremonies. and esther the queen, the daughter of abihail, and mardochai the jew, wrote also a second epistle, that with all diligence this day should be established a festival for the time to come. and they sent to all the jews that were in the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of king assuerus, that they should have peace, and receive truth, and observe the days of lots, and celebrate them with joy in their proper time: as mardochai and esther had appointed, and they undertook them to be observed by themselves and by their seed, fasts, and cries, and the days of lots, and all things which are contained in the history of this book, which is called esther.

and king assuerus made all the land, and all the islands of the sea tributary. and his strength and his empire, and the dignity and greatness wherewith he exalted mardochai, are written in the books of the medes, and of the persians: and how mardochai of the race of the jews, was next after king assuerus: and great among the jews, and acceptable to the people of his brethren, seeking the good of his people, and speaking those things which were for the welfare of his seed.

in the third year of the reign of joakim king of juda, nabuchodonosor king of babylon came to jerusalem, and besieged it. and the lord delivered into his hands joakim the king of juda, and part of the vessels of the house of god: and he carried them away into the land of sennaar, to the house of his god, and the vessels he brought into the treasure house of his god. and the king spoke to asphenez the master of the eunuchs, that he should bring in some of the children of israel, and of the king's seed and of the princes, children in whom there was no blemish, well favoured, and skilful in all wisdom, acute in knowledge, and instructed in science, and such as might stand in the king's palace, that he might teach them the learning, and the tongue of the chaldeans. and the king appointed them a daily provision, of his own meat, and of the wine of which he drank himself, that being nourished three years, afterwards they might stand before the king. now there were among them of the children of juda, daniel, ananias, misael, and azarias. and the master of the eunuchs gave them names: to daniel, baltassar: to ananias, sidrach: to misael, misach: and to azarias, abdenago. but daniel purposed in his heart that he would not be defiled with the king's table, nor with the wine which he drank: and he requested the master of the eunuchs that he might not be defiled. and god gave to daniel grace and mercy in the sight of the prince of the eunuchs. and the prince of the eunuchs said to daniel: i fear my lord the king, who hath appointed you meat and drink: who if he should see your faces leaner than those of the other youths your equals, you shall endanger my head to the king. and daniel said to malasar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had appointed over daniel, ananias, misael, and azarias: try, i beseech thee, thy servants for ten days, and let pulse be given us to eat, and water to drink: and look upon our faces, and the faces of the children that eat of the king's meat: and as thou shalt see, deal with thy servants. and when he had heard these words, he tried them for ten days. and after ten days their faces appeared fairer and fatter than all the children that ate of the king's meat. so malasar took their portions, and the wine that they should drink: and he gave them pulse. and to these children god gave knowledge, and understanding in every book, and wisdom: but to daniel the understanding also of all visions and dreams. and when the days were ended, after which the king had ordered they should be brought in: the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before nabuchodonosor. and when the king had spoken to them, there were not found among them all such as daniel, ananias, misael, and azarias: and they stood in the king's presence. and in all matters of wisdom and understanding, that the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the diviners, and wise men, that were in all his kingdom. and daniel continued even to the first year of king cyrus.

in the second year of the reign of nabuchodonosor, nabuchodonosor had a dream, and his spirit was terrified, and his dream went out of his mind. then the king commanded to call together the diviners and the wise men, and the magicians, and the chaldeans: to declare to the king his dreams: so they came and stood before the king. and the king said to them: i saw a dream: and being troubled in mind i know not what i saw. and the chaldeans answered the king in syriac: o king, live for ever: tell to thy servants thy dream, and we will declare the interpretation thereof. and the king answering said to the chaldeans: the thing is gone out of my mind: unless you tell me the dream, and the meaning thereof, you shall be put to death, and your houses shall be confiscated. but if you tell the dream, and the meaning of it, you shall receive of me rewards, and gifts, and great honour: therefore tell me the dream, and the interpretation thereof. they answered again and said: let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation of it. the king answered, and said: i know for certain that you seek to gain time, since you know that the thing is gone from me. if therefore you tell me not the dream, there is one sentence concerning you, that you have also framed a lying interpretation, and full of deceit, to speak before me till the time pass away. tell me therefore the dream, that i may know that you also give a true interpretation thereof. then the chaldeans answered before the king, and said: there is no man upon earth, that can accomplish thy word, o king, neither doth any king, though great and mighty, ask such a thing of any diviner, or wise man, or chaldean. for the thing that thou askest, o king, is difficult; nor can any one be found that can shew it before the king, except the gods, whose conversation is not with men. upon hearing this, the king in fury, and in great wrath, commanded that all the wise men of babylon should be put to death. and the decree being gone forth, the wise men were slain: and daniel and his companions were sought for, to be put to death. then daniel inquired concerning the law and the sentence, of arioch the general of the king's army, who was gone forth to kill the wise men of babylon. and he asked him that had received the orders of the king, why so cruel a sentence was gone forth from the face of the king. and when arioch had told the matter to daniel, daniel went in and desired of the king, that he would give him time to resolve the question and declare it to the king. and he went into his house, and told the matter to ananias, and misael, and azarias his companions: to the end that they should ask mercy at the face of the god of heaven concerning this secret, and that daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of babylon. then was the mystery revealed to daniel by a vision in the night: and daniel blessed the god of heaven, and speaking he said: blessed be the name of the lord from eternity and for evermore: for wisdom and fortitude are his. and he changeth times and ages: taketh away kingdoms and establisheth them, giveth wisdom to the wise, and knowledge to them that have understanding. he revealeth deep and hidden things, and knoweth what is in darkness: and light is with him. to thee, o god of our fathers, i give thanks, and i praise thee: because thou hast given me wisdom and strength: and now thou hast shewn me what we desired of thee, for thou hast made known to us, the king's discourse. after this daniel went in to arioch, to whom the king had given orders to destroy the wise men of babylon, and he spoke thus to him: destroy not the wise men of babylon: bring me in before the king, and i will tell the solution to the king. then arioch in haste brought in daniel to the king, and said to him: i have found a man of the children of the captivity of juda, that will resolve the question to the king. the king answered, and said to daniel, whose name was baltassar: thinkest thou indeed that thou canst tell me the dream that i saw, and the interpretation thereof? and daniel made answer before the king, and said: the secret that the king desireth to know, none of the wise men, or the philosophers, or the diviners, or the soothsayers can declare to the king. but there is a god in heaven that revealeth mysteries, who hath shewn to thee, o king nabuchodonosor, what is to come to pass in the latter times. thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these: thou, o king, didst begin to think in thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: and he that revealeth mysteries shewed thee what shall come to pass. to me also this secret is revealed, not by any wisdom that i have more than all men alive: but that the interpretation might be made manifest to the king, and thou mightest know the thoughts of thy mind. thou, o king, sawest, and behold there was as it were a great statue: this statue, which was great and high, tall of stature, stood before thee, and the look thereof was terrible. the head of this statue was of fine gold, but the breast and the arms of silver, and the belly and the thighs of brass: and the legs of iron, the feet part of iron and part of clay. thus thou sawest, till a stone was cut out of a mountain without hands: and it struck the statue upon the feet thereof that were of iron and of clay, and broke them in pieces. then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of a summer's thrashingfloor, and they were carried away by the wind: and there was no place found for them: but the stone that struck the statue, became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth. this is the dream: we will also tell the interpretation thereof before thee, o king. thou art a king of kings: and the god of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, and strength, and power, and glory: and all places wherein the children of men, and the beasts of the field do dwell: he hath also given the birds of the air into thy hand, and hath put all things under thy power: thou therefore art the head of gold. and after thee shall rise up another kingdom, inferior to thee, of silver: and another third kingdom of brass, which shall rule over all the world. and the fourth kingdom shall be as iron. as iron breaketh into pieces, and subdueth all things, so shall that break and destroy all these. arid whereas thou sawest the feet, and the toes, part of potter's clay, and part of iron: the kingdom shall be divided, but yet it shall take its origin from the iron, according as thou sawest the iron mixed with the miry clay. and as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly broken. and whereas thou sawest the iron mixed with miry clay, they shall be mingled indeed together with the seed of man, but they shall not stick fast one to another, as iron cannot be mixed with clay. but in the days of those kingdoms the god of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, and his kingdom shall not be delivered up to another people, and it shall break in pieces, and shall consume all these kingdoms, and itself shall stand for ever. according as thou sawest that the stone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and broke in pieces, the clay, and the iron, and the brass, and the silver, and the gold, the great god hath shewn the king what shall come to pass hereafter, and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof is faithful. then king nabuchodonosor fell on his face, and worshipped daniel, and commanded that they should offer in sacrifice to him victims and incense. and the king spoke to daniel, and said: verily your god is the god of gods, and lord of kings, and a revealer of hidden things: seeing thou couldst discover this secret. then the king advanced daniel to a high station, and gave him many and great gifts: and he made him governor over all the provinces of babylon, and chief of the magistrates over all the wise men of babylon. and daniel requested of the king, and he appointed sidrach, misach, and abdenago over the works of the province of babylon: but daniel himself was in the king's palace.

king nabuchodonosor made a statue of gold, of sixty cubits high, and six cubits broad, and he set it up in the plain of dura of the province of babylon. then nabuchodonosor the king sent to call together the nobles, the magistrates, and the judges, the captains, the rulers, and governors, and all the chief men of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the statue which king nabuchodonosor had set up. then the nobles, the magistrates, and the judges, the captains, and rulers, and the great men that were placed in authority, and all the princes of the provinces, were gathered together to come to the dedication of the statue, which king nabuchodonosor had set up. and they stood before the statue which king nabuchodonosor had set up. then a herald cried with a strong voice: to you it is commanded, o nations, tribes, and languages: that in the hour that you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and of the flute, and of the harp, of the sackbut, and of the psaltery, and of the symphony, and of all kind of music; ye fall down and adore the golden statue which king nabuchodonosor hath set up. but if any man shall not fall down and adore, he shall the same hour be cast into a furnace of burning fire. upon this therefore, at the time when all the people heard the sound of the trumpet, the flute, and the harp, of the sackbut, and the psaltery, of the symphony, and of all kind of music: all the nations, tribes, and languages fell down and adored the golden statue which

king nabuchodonosor had set up. and presently at that very time some chaldeans came and accused the jews, and said to king nabuchodonosor: o king, live for ever: thou, o king, hast made a decree that every man that shall bear the sound of the trumpet, the flute, and the harp, of the sackbut, and the psaltery, of the symphony, and of all kind of music, shall prostrate himself, and adore the golden statue: and that if any man shall not fall down and adore, he should be cast into a furnace of burning fire. now there are certain jews whom thou hast set over the works of the province of babylon, sidrach, misach, and abdenago: these men, o king, have slighted thy decree: they worship not thy gods, nor do they adore the golden statue which thou hast set up. then nabuchodonosor in fury, and in wrath, commanded that sidrach, misach, and abdenago should be brought: who immediately were brought before the king. and nabuchodonosor the king spoke to them, and said: is it true, o sidrach, misach, and abdenago, that you do not worship my gods, nor adore the golden statue that i have set up? now therefore if you be ready at what hour soever you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, flute, harp, sackbut, and psaltery, and symphony, and of all kind of music, prostrate yourselves, and adore the statue which i have made: but if you do not adore, you shall be cast the same hour into the furnace of burning fire: and who is the god that shall deliver you out of my hand? sidrach, misach, and abdenago answered and said to king nabuchodonosor: we have no occasion to answer thee concerning this matter. for behold our god, whom we worship, is able to save us from the furnace of burning fire, and to deliver us out of thy hands, o king. but if he will not, be it known to thee, o king, that we will not worship thy gods, nor adore the golden statue which thou hast set up. then was nabuchodonosor filled with fury: and the countenance of his face was changed against sidrach, misach, and abdenago, and he commanded that the furnace should be heated seven times more than it had been accustomed to be heated. and he commanded the strongest men that were in his army, to bind the feet of sidrach, misach, and abdenago, and to cast them into the furnace of burning fire. and immediately these men were bound and were cast into the furnace of burning fire, with their coats, and their caps, and their shoes, and their garments. for the king's commandment was urgent, and the furnace was heated exceedingly. and the flame of the fire slew those men that had cast in sidrach, misach, and abdenago. but these three men, that is, sidrach, misach, and abdenago, fell down bound in the midst of the furnace of burning fire. then nabuchodonosor the king was astonished, and rose up in haste, and said to his nobles: did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? they answered the king, and said: true, o king. he answered, and said: behold i see four men loose, and walking in the midst of the fire, and there is no hurt in them, and the form of the fourth is like the son of god. then nabuchodonosor came to the door of the burning fiery furnace, and said: sidrach, misach, and abdenago, ye servants of the most high god, go ye forth, and come. and immediately sidrach, misach, and abdenago went out from the midst of the fire. and the nobles, and the magistrates, and the judges, and the great men of the king being gathered together, considered these men, that the fire had no power on their bodies, and that not a hair of their head had been singed, nor their garments altered, nor the smell of the fire had passed on them. then nabuchodonosor breaking forth, said: blessed be the god of them, to wit, of sidrach, misach, and abdenago, who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that believed in him: and they changed the king's word, and delivered up their bodies that they might not serve, nor adore any god, except their own god. by me therefore this decree is made, that every people, tribe, and tongue, which shall speak blasphemy against the god of sidrach, misach, and abdenago, shall be destroyed, and their houses laid waste: for there is no other god that can save in this manner. then the king promoted sidrach, misach, and abdenago, in the province of babylon.

nabuchodonosor the king, to all peoples, nations, and tongues, that dwell in all the earth, peace be multiplied unto you. the most high god hath wrought signs and wonders toward me. it hath seemed good to me therefore to publish his signs, because they are great: and his wonders, because they are mighty: and his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, i and his power to all generations. i nabuchodonosor was at rest in my house, and flourishing in my palace: i saw a dream that affrighted me: and my thoughts in my bed, and the visions of my head troubled me. then i set forth a decree, that all the wise men of babylon should be brought in before me, and that they should shew me the interpretation of the dream. then came in the diviners, the wise men, the chaldeans, and the soothsayers, and i told the dream before them: but they did not shew me the interpretation thereof: till their colleague daniel came in before me, whose name is baltassar, according to the name of my god, who hath in him the spirit of the holy gods: and i told the dream before him. baltassar, prince of the diviners, because i know that thou hast in thee the spirit of the holy gods, and that no secret is impossible to thee: tell me the visions of my dreams that i have seen, and the interpretation of them. this was the vision of my head in my bed: i saw, and behold a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was exceeding great. the tree was great, and strong: and the height thereof reached unto heaven: the sight thereof was even to the ends of all the earth. its leaves were most beautiful, and its fruit exceeding much: and in it was food for all: under it dwelt cattle, and beasts, and in the branches thereof the fowls of the air had their abode: and all flesh did eat of it. i saw in the vision of my head upon my bed, and behold a watcher, and a holy one came down from heaven. he cried aloud, and said thus: cut down the tree, and chop off the branches thereof: shake off its leaves, and scatter its fruits: let the beasts fly away that are under it, and the birds from its branches. nevertheless leave the stump of its roots in the earth, and let it be tied with a band of iron, and of brass, among the grass, that is without, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let its portion be with the wild beasts in the grass of the earth. let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given him; and let seven times pass over him. this is the decree by the sentence of the watchers, and the word and demand of the holy ones; till the living know that the most high ruleth in the kingdom of men; and he will give it to whomsoever it shall please him, and he will appoint the basest man over it. i king nabuchodonosor saw this dream: thou, therefore, o baltassar, tell me quickly the interpretation: for all the wise men of my kingdom axe not able to declare the meaning of it to me: but thou art able, because the spirit of the holy gods is in thee. then daniel, whose name was baltassar, began silently to think within himself for about one hour: and his thoughts troubled him. but the king answering, said: baltassar, let not the dream and the interpretation thereof trouble thee. baltassar answered, and said: my lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thy enemies. the tree which thou sawest which was high and strong, whose height reached to the skies, and the sight thereof into all tire earth: and the branches thereof were most beautiful, and its fruit exceeding much, and in it was food for all, under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and the birds of the air had their abode in its branches. it is thou, o king, who art grown great and become mighty: for thy greatness hath grown, and hath reached to heaven, and thy power unto the ends of the earth. and whereas the king saw a watcher, and a holy one come down from heaven, and say: cut down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, and let it be bound with iron and brass among the grass without, and let it be sprinkled with the dew of heaven, and let his feeding be with the wild beasts, till seven times pass over him. this is the interpretation of the sentence of the most high, which is come upon my lord the king. they shall cast thee out from among men, and thy dwelling shall be with cattle and with wild beasts, and thou shalt eat grass as an ox, and shalt be wet with the dew of heaven: and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the most high ruleth over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will. but whereas he commanded, that the stump of the roots thereof, that is, of the tree, should be left: thy kingdom shall remain to thee after thou shalt have known that power is from heaven. wherefore, o king, let my counsel be acceptable to thee, and redeem thou thy sins with alms, and thy iniquities with works of mercy to the poor: perhaps he will forgive thy offences. all these things came upon king nabuchodonosor. at the end of twelve months he was walking in the palace of babylon. and the king answered, and said: is not this the great babylon, which i have built to be the seat of the kingdom, by the strength of my power, and in the glory of my excellence? and while the word was yet in the king's mouth, a voice came down from heaven: to thee, o king nabuchodonosor, it is said: thy kingdom shall pass from thee, and they shall cast thee out from among men, and thy dwelling shall be with cattle and wild beasts: thou shalt eat grass like an ox, and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the most high ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will. the same hour the word was fulfilled upon nabuchodonosor, and he was driven away from among men, and did eat grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till his hairs grew like the feathers of eagles, and his nails like birds' claws. now at the end of the days, i nabuchodonosor lifted up my eyes to heaven, and my sense was restored to me: and i blessed the most high, and i praised and glorified him that liveth for ever: for his power is an everlasting power, and his kingdom is to all generations. and all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing before him: for he doth according to his will, i as well with the powers of heaven, as among the inhabitants of the earth: and there is none that can resist his hand, and say to him: why hast thou done it? at the same time my sense returned to me, and i came to the honour and glory of my kingdom: and my shape returned to me: and my nobles, and my magistrates sought for me, and i was restored to my kingdom: and greater majesty was added to me. therefore i nabuchodonosor do now praise, and magnify, and glorify the king of heaven: because all his works are true, and his ways judgments, and them that walk in pride he is able to abase.

baltasar the king made a great feast for a thousand of his nobles: and every one drank according to his age. and being now drunk he commanded that they should bring the vessels of gold and silver which nabuchodonosor his father had brought away out of the temple, that was in jerusalem, that the king and his nobles, and his wives and his concubines, might drink in them. then were the golden and silver vessels brought, which he had brought away out of the temple that was in jerusalem: and the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines, drank in them. they drank wine, and praised their gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, and of wood, and of stone. in the same hour there appeared fingers, as it were of the hand of a man, writing over against the candlestick upon the surface of the wall of the king's palace: and the king beheld the joints of the hand that wrote. then was the king's countenance changed, and his thoughts troubled him: and the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees struck one against the other. and the king cried out aloud to bring in the wise men, the chaldeans, and the soothsayers. and the king spoke, and said to the wise men of babylon: whosoever shall read this writing, and shall make known to me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall have a golden chain on his neck, and shall be the third man in my kingdom. then came in all the king's wise men, but they could neither read the writing, nor declare the interpretation to the king. wherewith king baltasar was much troubled, and his countenance was changed: and his nobles also were troubled. then the queen, on occasion of what had happened to the king, and his nobles, came into the banquet house: and she spoke and said: o king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, neither let thy countenance be changed. there is a man in thy kingdom that hath the spirit of the holy gods in him: and in the days of thy father knowledge and wisdom were found in him: for king nabuchodonosor thy father appointed him prince of the wise men, enchanters, chaldeans, and soothsayers, thy father, i say, o king: because a greater spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, and interpretation of dreams, and shewing of secrets, and resolving of difficult things, were found in him, that is, in daniel: whom the king named baltasar. now therefore let daniel be called for, and he will tell the interpretation. then daniel was brought in before the king. and the king spoke, and said to him: art thou daniel of the children of the captivity of juda, whom my father the king brought out of judea? i have heard of thee, that thou hast the spirit of the gods, and excellent knowledge, and understanding, and wisdom are found in thee. and now the wise men the magicians have come in before me, to read this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof: and they could not declare to me the meaning of this writing. but i have heard of thee, that thou canst interpret obscure things, and resolve difficult things: now if thou art able to read the writing, and to shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third prince in my kingdom. to which daniel made answer, and said before the king: thy rewards be to thyself, and the gifts of thy house give to another: but the writing i will read to thee, o king, and shew thee the interpretation thereof. o king, the most high god gave to nabuchodonosor thy father a kingdom, and greatness, and glory, and honour. and for the greatness that he gave to him, all people, tribes, and languages trembled, and were afraid of him: whom he would, he slew: and whom he would, he destroyed: and whom he would, he set up: and whom he would, he brought down. but when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit hardened unto pride, he was put down from the throne of his kingdom, and his glory was taken away. and he was driven out from the sons of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses, and he did eat grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till he knew that the most high ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he will set over it whomsoever it shall please him. thou also his son, o baltasar, hast not humbled thy heart, whereas thou knewest all these things: but hast lifted thyself up against the lord of heaven: and the vessels of his house have been brought before thee: and thou, and thy nobles, and thy wives, and thy concubines have drunk wine in them: and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and of gold, and of brass, of iron, and of wood, and of stone, that neither see, nor hear, nor feel: but the god who hath thy breath in his hand, and all thy ways, thou hast not glorified. wherefore he hath sent the part of the hand which hath written this that is set down. and this is the writing that is written:

mane, thecel, phares. and this is the interpretation of the word. mane: god hath numbered thy kingdom, and hath finished it. thecel: thou art weighed in the balance, and art found wanting. phares: thy kingdom is divided, and is given to the medes and persians. then by the king's command daniel was clothed with purple, and a chain of gold was put about his neck: and it was proclaimed of him that he had power as the third man in the kingdom. the same night baltasar the chaldean king was slain. and darius the mede succeeded to the kingdom, being threescore and two years old.

it seemed good to darius, and he appointed over the kingdom a hundred and twenty governors to be over his whole kingdom. and three princes over them, of whom daniel was one: that the governors might give an account to them, and the king might have no trouble. and daniel excelled all the princes, and governors: because a greater spirit of god was in him. and the king thought to set him over all the kingdom: whereupon the princes, and the governors sought to find occasion against daniel with regard to the king: and they could find no cause, nor suspicion, because he was faithful, and no fault, nor suspicion was found in him then these men said: we shall not find any occasion against this daniel, unless perhaps concerning the law of his god. then the princes, and the governors craftily suggested to the king, and spoke thus unto him: king darius, live for ever: all the princes of the kingdom, the magistrates, and governors, the senators, and judges have consulted together, that an imperial decree, and an edict be published: that whosoever shall ask any petition of any god, or man, for thirty days, but of thee, o king, shall be cast into the den of lions. now, therefore, o king, confirm the sentence, and sign the decree: that what is decreed by the medes and persians may not be altered, nor any man be allowed to transgress it. so king darius set forth the decree, and established it. now when daniel knew this, that is to say, that the law was made, he went into his house: and opening the windows in his upper chamber towards jerusalem, he knelt down three times a day, and adored, and gave thanks before his god, as he had been accustomed to do before. wherefore those men carefully watching him, found daniel praying and making supplication to his god. and they came and spoke to the king concerning the edict: o king, hast thou not decreed, that every man that should make a request to any of the gods, or men, for thirty days, but to thyself, o king, should be cast into the den of the lions? and the king answered them, saying: the word is true according to the decree of the medes and persians, which it is not lawful to violate. then they answered, and said before the king: daniel, who is of the children of the captivity of juda, hath not regarded thy law, nor the decree that thou hast made: but three times a day he maketh his prayer. now when the king had heard these words, he was very much grieved, and in behalf of daniel he set his heart to deliver him and even till sunset he laboured to save him. but those men, perceiving the king's design, said to him: know thou, o king, that the law of the medes and persians is, that no decree which the king hath made, may be altered. then the king commanded, and they brought daniel, and cast him into the den of the lions. and the king said to daniel: thy god, whom thou always servest, he will deliver thee. and a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den: which the king sealed with his own ring, and with the ring of his nobles, that nothing should be done against daniel. and the king went away to his house and laid himself down without taking supper, and meat was not set before him, and even sleep departed from him. then the king rising very early in the morning, went in haste to the lions' den: and coming near to the den, cried with a lamentable voice to daniel, and said to him: daniel, servant of the living god, hath thy god, whom thou servest always, been able, thinkest thou, to deliver thee from the lions? and daniel answering the king, said: o king, live for ever: my god hath sent his angel, and hath shut up the mouths of the lions, and they have not hurt me: forasmuch as before him justice hath been found in me: yea and before thee, o king, i have done no offence. then was the king exceeding glad for him, and he commanded that daniel should be taken out of the den: and daniel was taken out of the den, and no hurt was found in him, because he believed in his god. and by the king's commandment, those men were brought that had accused daniel: and they were cast into the lions' den, they and their children, and their wives: and they did not reach the bottom of the den, before the lions caught them, and broke all their bones in pieces. then king darius wrote to all people, tribes, and languages, dwelling in the whole earth: peace be multiplied unto you. it is decreed by me, that in all my empire and my kingdom all men dread and fear the god of daniel. for he is the living and eternal god for ever: and his kingdom shall not be destroyed, and his power shall be for ever. he is the deliverer, and saviour, doing signs and wonders in heaven, and in earth: who hath delivered daniel out of the lions' den. now daniel continued unto the reign of darius, and the reign of cyrus the persian.

in the first year of baltasar king of babylon, daniel saw a dream: and the vision of his head was upon his bed: and writing the dream, he comprehended it in few words: and relating the sum of it in short, he said: i saw in my vision by night, and behold the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea. and four great beasts, different one from another, came up out of the sea. the first was like a lioness, and had the wings of an eagle: i beheld till her wings were plucked off, and she was lifted up from the earth, and stood upon her feet as a man, and the heart of a man was given to her. and behold another beast like a bear stood up on one side: and there were three rows in the mouth thereof, and in the teeth thereof, and thus they said to it: arise, devour much flesh. after this i beheld, and lo, another like a leopard, and it had upon it four wings as of a fowl, and the beast had four heads, and power was given to it. after this i beheld in the vision of the night, and lo, a fourth beast, terrible and wonderful, and exceeding strong, it had great iron teeth, eating and breaking in pieces, and treading down the rest with its feet: and it was unlike to the other beasts which i had seen before it, and had ten horns. i considered the horns, and behold another little horn sprung out of the midst of them: and three of the first horns were plucked up at the presence thereof: and behold eyes like the eyes of a man were in this horn, and a mouth speaking great things. i beheld till thrones were placed, and the ancient of days sat: his garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like clean wool: his throne like flames of fire: the wheels of it like a burning fire. a swift stream of fire issued forth from before him: thousands of thousands ministered to him, and ten thousand times a hundred thousand stood before him: the judgment sat, and the books were opened. i beheld because of the voice of the great words which that horn spoke: and i saw that the beast was slain, and the body thereof was destroyed, and given to the fire to be burnt: and that the power of the other beasts was taken away: and that times of life were appointed them for a time, and time. i beheld therefore in the vision of the night, and lo, one like the son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and he came even to the ancient of days: and they presented him before him. and he gave him power, and glory, and a kingdom: and all peoples, tribes and tongues shall serve him: his power is an everlasting power that shall not be taken away: and his kingdom that shall not be destroyed. my spirit trembled, i daniel was affrighted at these things, and the visions of my head troubled me. i went near to one of them that stood by, and asked the truth of him concerning all these things, and he told me the interpretation of the words, and instructed me: these four great beasts are four kingdoms, which shall arise out of the earth. but the saints of the most high god shall take the kingdom: and they shall possess the kingdom for ever and ever. after this i would diligently learn concerning the fourth beast. which was very different from all, and exceeding terrible: his teeth and claws were of iron: he devoured and broke in pieces, and the rest he stamped upon with his feet: and concerning the ten horns that he had on his head: and concerning the other that came up, before which three horns fell: and of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth speaking great things, and was greater than the rest. i beheld, and lo, that horn made war against the saints, and prevailed over them, till the ancient of days came and gave judgment to the saints of the most high, and the time came, and the saints obtained the kingdom. and thus he said: the fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be greater than all the kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces. and the ten horns of the same kingdom, shall be ten kings: and another shall rise up after them, and he shall be mightier than the former, and he shall bring down three kings. and he shall speak words against the high one, and shall crush the saints of the most high: and he shall think himself able to change times and laws, and they shall be delivered into his hand until a time, and times, and half a time. and judgment shall sit, that his power may be taken away, and be broken in pieces, and perish even to the end. and that the kingdom, and power, and the greatness of the kingdom, under the whole heaven, may be given to the people of the saints of the most high: whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all kings shall serve him, and shall obey him. hitherto is the end of the word. i daniel was much troubled with my thoughts, and my countenance was changed in me: but i kept the word in my heart.

in the third year of the reign of king baltasar, a vision appeared to me. i daniel, after what i had seen in the beginning, saw in my vision when i was in the castle of susa, which is in the province of elam: and i saw in the vision that i was over the gate of ulai. and i lifted up my eyes, and saw: and behold a ram stood before the water, having two high horns, and one higher than the other, and growing up. afterward i saw the ram pushing with his horns against the west, and against the north, and against the south: and no beasts could withstand him, nor be delivered out of his hand: and he did according to his own will, and became great. and i understood: and behold a he goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and he touched not the ground, and the he goat had a notable horn between his eyes. and he went up to the ram that had the horns, which i had seen standing before the gate, and he ran towards him in the force of his strength. and when he was come near the ram, he was enraged against him, and struck the ram: and broke his two horns, and the ram could not withstand him: and when he had cast him down on the ground, he stamped upon him, and none could deliver the ram out of his hand. and the he goat became exceeding great: and when he was grown, the great horn was broken, and there came up four horns under it towards the four winds of heaven. and out of one of them came forth a little horn: and it became great against the south, and against the east, and against the strength. and it was magnified even unto the strength of heaven: and it threw down of the strength, and of the stars, and trod upon them. and it was magnified even to the prince of the strength: and it took away from him the continual sacrifice, and cast down the place of his sanctuary. and strength was given him against the continual sacrifice, because of sins: and truth shall be cast down on the ground, and he shall do and shall prosper. and i heard one of the saints speaking, and one saint said to another, i know not to whom that was speaking: how long shall be the vision, concerning the continual sacrifice, and the sin of the desolation that is made: and the sanctuary, and the strength be trodden under foot? and he said to him: unto evening and morning two thousand three hundred days: and the sanctuary shall be cleansed. and it came to pass when i daniel saw the vision, and sought the meaning, that behold there stood before me as it were the appearance of a man. and i heard the voice of a man between ulai: and he called, and said: gabriel, make this man to understand the vision. and he came and stood near where i stood: and when he was come, i fell on my face trembling, and he said to me: understand, o son of man, for in the time of the end the vision shall be fulfilled. and when he spoke to me i fell flat on the ground: and he touched me, and set me upright, and he said to me: i will shew thee what things are to come to pass in the end of the malediction: for the time hath its end. the ram, which thou sawest with horns, is the king of the medes and persians. and the he goat, is the king of the greeks, and the great horn that was between his eyes, the same is the first king. but whereas when that was broken, there arose up four for it: four kings shall rise up of his nation, but not with his strength. and after their reign, when iniquities shall be grown up, there shall arise a king of a shameless face, and understanding dark sentences. and his power shall be strengthened, but not by his own force: and he shall lay all things waste, and shall prosper, and do more than can be believed. and he shall destroy the mighty, and the people of the saints, according to his will, and craft shall be successful in his hand: and his heart shall be puffed up, and in the abundance of all things he shall kill many: and he shall rise up against the prince of princes, and shall be broken without hand. and the vision of the evening and the morning, which was told, is true: thou therefore seal up the vision, because it shall come to pass after many days. and i daniel languished, and was sick for some days: and when i was risen up, i did the king's business, and i was astonished at the vision, and there was none that could interpret it.

in the first year of darius the son of assuerus of the seed of the medes, who reigned over the kingdom of the chaldeans: the first year of his reign, i daniel understood by books the number of the years, concerning which the word of the lord came to jeremias the prophet, that seventy years should be accomplished of the desolation of jerusalem. and i set my face to the lord my god, to pray and make supplication with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes. and i prayed to the lord my god, and i made my confession, and said: i beseech thee, o lord god, great and terrible, who keep-est the covenant, and mercy to them that love thee, and keep thy commandments. we have sinned, we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly, and have revolted: and we have gone aside from thy commandments, and thy judgments. we have not hearkened to thy servants the prophets, that have spoken in thy name to our kings, to our princes, to our fathers, and to all the people of the land. to thee, o lord, justice: but to us confusion of face, as at this day to the men of juda, and to the inhabitants of jerusalem, and to all israel to them that are near, and to them that are far off in all the countries whither thou hast driven them, for their iniquities by which they have sinned against thee. o lord, to us belongeth confusion of face, to our princes, and to our fathers that have sinned. but to thee, the lord our god, mercy and forgiveness, for we have departed from thee: and we have not hearkened to the voice of the lord our god, to walk in his law, which he set before us by his servants the prophets. and all israel have transgressed thy law, and have turned away from hearing thy voice, and the malediction, and the curse, which is written in the book of moyses the servant of god, is fallen upon us, because we have sinned against him. and he hath confirmed his words which he spoke against us, and against our princes that judged us, that he would bring in upon us a great evil, such as never was under all the heaven, according to that which hath been done in jerusalem. as it is written in the law of moyses, all this evil is come upon us: and we entreated not thy face, o lord our god, that we might turn from our iniquities, and think on thy truth. and the lord hath watched upon the evil, and hath brought it upon us: the lord our god is just in all his works which he hath done: for we have not hearkened to his voice. and now, o lord our god, who hast brought forth thy people out of the land of egypt with a strong hand, and hast made thee a name as at this day: we have sinned, we have committed iniquity, o lord, against all thy justice: let thy wrath and thy indignation be turned away, i beseech thee, from thy city jerusalem, and from thy holy mountain. for by reason of our sins, and the iniquities of our fathers, jerusalem, and thy people are a reproach to all that are round about us. now therefore, o our god, hear the supplication of thy servant, and his prayers: and shew thy face upon thy sanctuary which is desolate, for thy own sake. incline, o my god, thy ear, and hear: open thy eyes, and see our desolation, and the city upon which thy name is called: for it is not for our justifications that we present our prayers before thy face, but for the multitude of thy tender mercies. o lord, hear: o lord, be appeased: hearken and do: delay not for thy own sake, o my god: because thy name is invoked upon thy city, and upon thy people. now while i was yet speaking, and praying, and confessing my sins, and the sins of my people of israel, and presenting my supplications in the sight of my god, for the holy mountain of my god: as i was yet speaking in prayer, behold the man gabriel, whom i had seen in the vision at the beginning, flying swiftly touched me at the time of the evening sacrifice. and he instructed me, and spoke to me, and said: o daniel, i am now come forth to teach thee, and that thou mightest understand. from the beginning of thy prayers the word came forth: and i am come to shew it to thee, because thou art a man of desires: therefore do thou mark the word, and understand the vision. seventy weeks are shortened upon thy people, and upon thy holy city, that transgression may be finished, and sin may have an end, and iniquity may be abolished; and everlasting justice may be brought; and vision and prophecy may be fulfilled; and the saint of saints may be anointed. know thou therefore, and take notice: that from the going forth of the word, to build up jerusalem again, unto christ the prince, there shall be seven weeks, and sixty-two weeks: and the street shall be built again, and the walls in straitness of times. and after sixty-two weeks christ shall be slain: and the people that shall deny him shall not be his. and a people with their leader that shall come, shall destroy the city and the sanctuary: and the end thereof shall be waste, and after the end of the war the appointed desolation. and he shall confirm the covenant with many, in one week: and in the half of the week the victim and the sacrifice shall fall: and there shall be in the temple the abomination of desolation: and the desolation shall continue even to the consummation, and to the end.

in the third year of cyrus king of the persians, a word was revealed to daniel surnamed baltassar, and a true word, and great strength: and he understood the word: for there is need of understanding in a vision. in those days i daniel mourned the days of three weeks. i ate no desirable bread, and neither flesh, nor wine entered into my mouth, neither was i anointed with ointment: till the days of three weeks were accomplished. and in the four and twentieth day of the first month i was by the great river which is the tigris. and i lifted up my eyes, and i saw: and behold a man clothed in linen, and his loins were girded with the finest gold: and his body was like the chrysolite, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as a burning lamp: and his arms, and all downward even to the feet, like in appearance to glittering brass: and the voice of his word like the voice of a multitude. and i daniel alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw it not: but an exceeding great terror fell upon them, and they fled away, and hid themselves. and i being left alone saw this great vision: and there remained no strength in me, and the appearance of my countenance was changed in me, and i fainted away, and retained no strength. and i heard the voice of his words: and when i heard, i lay in a consternation, upon my face, and my face was close to the ground. and behold a hand touched me, and lifted me up upon my knees, and upon the joints of my hands. and he said to me: daniel, thou man of desires, understand the words that i speak to thee, and stand upright: for i am sent now to thee. and when he had said this word to me, i stood trembling. and he said to me: fear not, daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thy heart to understand, to afflict thyself in the sight of thy god, thy words have been heard: and i am come for thy words. but the prince of the kingdom of the persians resisted me one and twenty days: and behold michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, and i remained there by the king of the persians. but i am come to teach thee what things shall befall thy people in the latter days, for as yet the vision is for days. and when he was speaking such words to me, i cast down my countenance to the ground, and held my peace. and behold, as it were the likeness of a son of man touched my lips: then i opened my mouth, and spoke, and said to him that stood before me: o my lord, at the sight of thee my joints are loosed, and no strength hath remained in me. and how can the servant of my lord speak with my lord? for no strength remaineth in me, moreover my breath is stopped. therefore he that looked like a man touched me again, and strengthened me. and he said: fear not, o man of desires, peace be to thee: take courage and be strong. and when he spoke to me, i grew strong: and i said: speak, o my lord, for thou hast strengthened me. and he said: dost thou know wherefore i am come to thee? and now i will return, to fight against the prince of the persians. when i went forth, there appeared the prince of the greeks coming. but i will tell thee what is set down in the scripture of truth: and none is my helper in all these things, but michael your prince.

and from the first year of darius the mede i stood up that he might be strengthened and confirmed. and now i will shew thee the truth. behold there shall stand yet three kings in persia, and the fourth shall be enriched exceedingly above them all: and when he shall be grown mighty by his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of greece. but there shall rise up a strong king, and shall rule with great power: and he shall do what he pleaseth. and when he shall come to his height, his kingdom shall be broken, and it shall be divided towards the four winds of the heaven: but not to his posterity, nor according to his power with which he ruled. for his kingdom shall be rent in pieces, even for strangers, beside these. and the king of the south shall be strengthened, and one of his princes shall prevail over him, and he shall rule with great power: for his dominion shall be great. and after the end of years they shall be in league together: and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make friendship, but she shall not obtain the strength of the arm, neither shall her seed stand: and she shall be given up, and her young men that brought her, and they that strengthened her in these times. and a plant of the bud of her roots, shall stand up: and he shall come with an army, and shall enter into the province of the king of the north: and he shall abuse them, and shall prevail. and he shall also carry away captive into egypt their gods, and their graven things, and their precious vessels of gold and silver: he shall prevail against the king of the north. and the king of the south shall enter into the kingdom, and shall return to his own land. and his sons shall be provoked, and they shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and he shall come with haste like a flood: and he shall return and be stirred up, and he shall join battle with his forces. and the king of the south being provoked shall go forth, and shall fight against the king of the north, and shall prepare an exceeding great multitude, and a multitude shall be given into his hand. and he shall take a multitude, and his heart shall be lifted up, and he shall cast down many thousands: but he shall not prevail. for the king of the north shall return and shall prepare a multitude much greater than before: and in the end of times and years, he shall come in haste with a great army, and much riches. and in those times many shall rise up against the king of the south, and the children of

prevaricators of thy people shall lift up themselves to fulfil the vision, and they shall fall. and the king of the north shall come, and shall cast up a mount, and shall take the best fenced cities: and the arms of the south shall not withstand, and his chosen ones shall rise up to resist, and they shall not have strength. and he shall come upon him and do according to his pleasure, and there shall be none to stand against his face: and he shall stand in the glorious land, and it shall be consumed by his hand. and he shall set his face to come to possess all his kingdom, and he shall make upright conditions with him: and he shall give him a daughter of women, to overthrow it: and she shall not stand, neither shall she be for him. and he shall turn his face to the islands, and shall take many: and he shall cause the prince of his reproach to cease, and his reproach shall be turned upon him. and he shall turn his face to the empire of his own land, and he shall stumble, and fall, and shall not be found. and there shall stand up in his place, one most vile, and unworthy of kingly honour: and in a few days he shall be destroyed, not in rage nor in battle. and there shall stand up in his place one despised, and the kingly honour shall not be given him: and he shall come privately, and shall obtain the kingdom by fraud. and the arms of the fighter shall be overcome before his face, and shall be broken: yea also the prince of the covenant. and after friendships, he will deal deceitfully with him: and he shall go up, and shall overcome with a small people. and he shall enter into rich and plentiful cities: and he shall do that which his fathers never did, nor his fathers' fathers: he shall scatter their spoils, and their prey, and their riches, and shall forecast devices against the best fenced places: and this until a time. and his strength and his heart shall be stirred up against the king of the south with a great army: and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with many and very strong succours: and they shall not stand, for they shall form designs against him. and they that eat bread with him, shall destroy him, and his army shall be overthrown: and many shall fall down slain. and the heart of the two kings shall be to do evil, and they shall speak lies at one table, and they shall not prosper: because as yet the end is unto another time. and he shall return into his land with much riches: and his heart shall be against the holy covenant, and he shall succeed and shall return into his own land. at the time appointed he shall return, and he shall come to the south, but the latter time shall not be like the former. and the galleys and the romans shall come upon him, and he shall be struck, and shall return, and shall have indignation against the covenant of the sanctuary, and he shall succeed: and he shall return and shall devise against them that have forsaken the covenant of the sanctuary. and arms shall stand on his part, and they shall defile the sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the continual sacrifice, and they shall place there the abomination unto desolation. and such as deal wickedly against the covenant shall deceitfully dissemble: but the people that know their god shall prevail and succeed. and they that are learned among the people shall teach many: and they shall fall by the sword, and by fire, and by captivity, and by spoil

for many days. and when they shall have fallen they shall be relieved with a small help: and many shall be joined to them deceitfully. and some of the learned shall fall, that they may be tried, and may be chosen, and made white even to the appointed time, because yet there shall be another time. and the king shall do according to his will, and he shall be lifted up, and shall magnify himself against every god: and he shall speak great things against the god of gods, and shall prosper, till the wrath be accomplished. for the determination is made. and he shall make no account of the god of his fathers: and he shall follow the lust of women, and he shall not regard any gods: for he shall rise up against all things. but he shall worship the god maozim in his place: and a god whom his fathers knew not, he shall worship with gold, and silver, and precious stones, and things of great price. and he shall do this to fortify maozim with a strange god, whom he hath acknowledged, and he shall increase glory and shall give them power over many, and shall divide the land gratis. and at the time prefixed the king of the south shall fight against him, and the king of the north shall come against him like a tempest, with chariots, and with horsemen, and with a great navy, and he shall enter into the countries, and shall destroy, and pass through. and he shall enter into the glorious land, and many shall fall: and these only shall be saved out of his hand, edom, and moab, and the principality of the children of ammon. and he shall lay his hand upon the lands: and the land of egypt shall not escape. and he shall have power over the treasures of gold, and of silver, and all the precious things of egypt: and he shall pass through libya, and ethiopia. and tidings out of the east, and out of the north shall trouble him: and he shall come with a great multitude to destroy and slay many. and he shall fix his tabernacle apadno between the seas, upon a glorious and holy mountain: and he shall come even to the top thereof, and none shall help him.

he had lifted up his right hand, and his left hand to heaven, and had sworn, by him that liveth for ever, that it should be unto a time, and times, and half a time. and when the scattering of the band of the holy people shall be accomplished, all these things shall be finished. and i heard, and understood not. and i said: o my lord, what shall be after these things? and he said: go, daniel, because the words are shut up, and sealed until the appointed time. many shall be chosen, and made white, and shall be tried as fire: and the wicked shall deal wickedly, and none of the wicked shall understand, but the learned shall understand. and from the time when the continual sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination unto desolation shall be set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred ninety days, blessed is he that waiteth and cometh unto a thousand three hundred thirty-five days. but go thou thy ways until the time appointed: and thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot unto the end of the days.

but at that time shall michael rise up, the great prince, who standeth for the children of thy people: and a time shall come such as never was from the time that nations began even until that time. and at that time shall thy people be saved, every one that shall be found written in the book. and many of those that sleep in the dust of the earth, shall awake: some unto life everlasting, and others unto reproach, to see it always. but they that are learned shall shine as the brightness of the firmament: and they that instruct many to justice, as stars for all eternity. but thou, o daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time appointed: many shall pass over, and knowledge shall be manifold. and i daniel looked, and behold as it were two others stood: one on this side upon the bank of the river, and another on that side, on the other bank of the river. and i said to the man that was clothed in linen, that stood upon the waters of the river: how long shall it be to the end of these wonders? and i heard the man that was clothed in linen, that stood upon the waters of the river: when

in the first year of cyrus king of the persians, that the word of the lord by the mouth of jeremias might be fulfilled, the lord stirred up the spirit of cyrus king of the persians: and he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and in writing also, saying: thus saith cyrus king of the persians: the lord the god of heaven hath given to me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he hath charged me to build him a house in jerusalem, which is in judea. who is there among you of all his people? his god be with him. let him go up to jerusalem, which is in jndert, and build the house of the lord the god of israel: he is the god that is in jerusalem. and let all the restin all places wheresoever they dwell, help him every man from his place. with silver and gold, and goods, and cattle, besides that which they offer freely to the temple of god, which is in jerusalem. then rose up the chief of the fathers of juda and benjamin, and the priests, and levites, and every one whose spirit god had raised up, to go up to build the temple of the lord, which was in jerusalem. and all they that were round about, helped their hands with vessels of silver, and gold, with goods, and with beasts, and with furniture, besides what they had offered on their own accord. and king cyrus brought forth the vessels of the temple of the lord, which nabuchodonosor had taken from jerusalem, and had put them in the temple of his god. now cyrus king of persia brought them forth by the hand of mithridates the son of gazabar, and numbered them to sassabasar the prince of juda. and this is the number of them: thirty bowls of gold, a thousand bowls of silver, nine and twenty knives, thirty cups of gold, silver cups of a second sort, four hundred and ten: other vessels a thousand. all the vessels of gold and silver, five thousand four hundred: all these sassabasar brought with them that came up from the captivity of babylon to jerusalem.

now these are the children of the province, that went out of the captivity, which nabuchodonosor king of babylon had carried away to babylon, and who returned to jerusalem and juda, every man to his city. who came with zorobabel, josue, nehemia, saraia, rahelaia, mardochai, belsan, mesphar, beguai, rehum, baana. the number of the men of the people of israel: the children of pharos two thousand one hundred seventy-two. the children of sephatia, three hundred seventy-two. the children of area, seven hundred seventy-five. the children of phahath moab, of the children of josue: joab, two thousand eight hundred twelve. the children of elam, a thousand two hundred fifty-four. the children of zethua, nine hundred forty-five. the children of zachai, seven hundred sixty. the children of bani, six hundred forty-two. the children of bebai, six hundred twenty-three. the children of azgad, a thousand two hundred twenty-two. the children of adoniam, six hundred sixty-six. the children of beguai, two thousand fifty-six. the children of adin, four hundred fifty-four. the children of ather, who were of ezechias, ninety-eight. the children of besai, three hundred and twenty-three. the children of jora, a hundred and twelve. the children of hasum, two hundred twenty-three. the children of gebbar, ninety-five. the children of bethlehem, a hundred twenty-three. the men of netupha, fifty-six. the men of anathoth, a hundred twenty-eight. the children of azmaveth, forty-two. the children of cariathiarim, cephira, and beroth, seven hundred forty-three. the children of rama and gabaa, six hundred twenty-one. the men of machmas, a hundred twenty-two. the men of bethel and hai, two hundred twenty-three. the children of nebo, fifty-two. the children of megbis, a hundred fifty-six. the children of the other elam, a thousand two hundred fifty-four. the children of harim, three hundred and twenty. the children of lod, hadid and one, seven hundred twenty-five. the children of jericho, three hundred forty-five. the children of senaa, three thousand six hundred thirty. the priests: the children of jadaia of the house of josue, nine hundred seventy-three. the children of emmer, a thousand fifty-two. the children of pheshur, a thousand two hundred forty-seven. the children of harim, a thousand and seventeen. the levites: the children of josue and of cedmihel, the children of odovia, seventy-four. the singing men: the children of asaph, a hundred twenty-eight. the children of the porters: the children of sellum, the children of ater, the children of telmon, the children of accub, the children of hatita, the children of sobai: in all a hundred thirty-nine. the nathinites: the children of siha, the children of hasupha, the children of tabbaoth, the children of ceros, the children of sia, the children of phadon, the children of lebana, the children of hegaba, the children of accub, the children of hagab, the children of semlai, the children of hanan, the children of gad-del, the children of gaher, the children of raايا, the children of basin, the children of necoda, the children of gazam, the children of asa, the children of phasea, the children of besee, the children of asena, the children of munim, the children of nephusim, the children of bacbuc, the children of hacupha, the children of harhur, the children of besluth, the children of mahida, the children of harsa, the children of bercos, the children of sisara, the children of thema, the children of nasia, the children of hatipha, the children of the servants of solomon, the children of sotai, the children of sopheret, the children of pharuda, the children of jala, the children of dercon, the children of geddel, the children of saphatia, the children of hatil, the children of phochereth, which were of ase-baim, the children of ami, all the nathinites, and the children of the servants of solomon, three hundred ninety-two. and these are they that came up from thelmela, thelharsa, cherub, and adon, and emer. and they could not shew the house of their fathers and their seed, whether they were of israel. the children of dalaia, the children of tobias, the children of necoda, six hundred fifty-two. and of the children of the priests: the children of hobia, the children of accos, the children of berzellai, who took a wife of the daughters of berzellai, the galaadite, and was called by their name: these sought the writing of their genealogy, and found it not, and they were cast out of the priesthood. and athersatha said to them, that they should not eat of the holy of holies, till there arose a priest learned and perfect. all the multitudes as one man, were forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty: besides their menservants, and womenservants, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven: and among them singing men, and singing women two hundred. their horses seven hundred thirty-six, their mules two hundred forty-five, their camels four hundred thirty-five, their asses six thousand seven hundred and twenty. and some of the chief of the fathers, when they came to the temple of the lord, which is in jerusalem, offered freely to the house of the lord to build it in its place. according to their ability, they gave towards the expenses of the work, sixty-one thousand solids of gold, five thousand pounds of silver, and a hundred garments for the priests. so the priests and the levites, and some of the people, and the singing men, and the porters, and the nathinites dwelt in their cities, and all israel in their cities.

and now the seventh month was come, and the children of israel were in their cities: and the people gathered themselves together as one man to jerusalem. and josue the son of josedec rose up, and his brethren the priests, and zorobabel the son of salathiel, and his brethren, and they built the altar of the god of israel that they might offer holocausts upon it, as it is written in the law of moyses the mall of god. and they set the altar of god upon its bases, while the people of the lands round about put them in fear, and they offered upon it a holocaust to the lord morning and evening. and they kept the feast of tabernacles, as it is written, and offered the holocaust every day orderly according to the commandment, the duty of the day in its day. and afterwards the continual holocaust, both on the new moons, and on all the solemnities of the lord, that were consecrated, and on all in which a freewill offering was made to the lord. from the brat day of the seventh month they began to offer holocausts to the lord: but the temple of god was not yet founded. and they gave money to hewers of stones and to masons: and meat and drink, and oil to the sidonians and tyrians, to bring cedar trees from libanus to the sea of joppe, according to the orders which cyrus king of the persians had given them. and in the second year of their coming to the temple of god in jerusalem, the second month, zorobabel the son of salathiel, and josue the son of josedec, and the rest of their brethren the priests, and the levites, and all that were come from the captivity to jerusalem began, and they appointed levites from twenty years old and upward, to hasten forward the work of the lord. then josue and his sons and his brethren, cedmihel, and his sons, and the children of juda, as one man, stood to hasten them that did the work in the temple of god: the sons of henadad, and their sons, and their brethren the levites. and when the masons laid the foundations of the temple of the lord, the priests stood in their ornaments with trumpets: and the levites the sons of asaph with cymbals, to praise god by the hands of david king of israel. and they sung together hymns, and praise to the lord: because he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever towards israel. and all the people shouted with a great shout, praising the lord, because the foundations of the temple of the lord were laid. but many of the priests and the levites, and the chief of the fathers and the ancients that had seen the former temple; when they had the foundation of this temple before their eyes, wept with a loud voice: and many shouting for joy, lifted up their voice. so that one could not distinguish the voice of the shout of joy, from the noise of the weeping of the people: for one with another the people shouted with a loud shout, and the voice was heard afar off.

now the enemies of juda and benjamin heard that the children of the captivity were building a temple to the lord the god of israel. and they came to zorobabel, and the chief of the fathers, and said to them: let us build with you, for we seek your god as ye do: behold we have sacrificed to him, since the days of asor haddan king of assyria, who brought us hither. but zorobabel, and josue, and the rest of the chief of the fathers of israel said to them: you have nothing to do with us to build a house to our god, but we ourselves alone will build to the lord our god, as cyrus king of the persians hath commanded us. then the people of the land hindered the hands of the people of juda, and troubled them in building. and they hired counsellors against them, to frustrate their design all the days of cyrus king of persia, even until the reign of darius king of the persians. and in the reign of assuerus, in the beginning of his reign, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of juda and jerusalem. and in the days of artaxerxes, bese-lam, mithridates, and thabeel, and the rest that were in the council wrote to artaxerxes king of the persians: and the letter of accusation was written in syriac, and was read in the syrian tongue. reum beelteem, and samsai the scribe wrote a letter from jerusalem to king artaxerxes, in this manner: reum beelteem, and samsai the scribe and the rest of their counselors, the dinites, and the apharsathacites, the therphalites, the apharsites, the echuities, the babylonians, the susanechites, the dievites, and the elamites, and the rest of the nations, whom the great and glorious asenaphar brought over: and made to dwell in the cities of samaria and in the rest of the countries of this side of the river in peace. (this is the copy of the letter, which they sent to him:) to artaxerxes the king, thy servants, the men that are on this side of the river, send greeting. be it known to the king, that the jews, who came up from thee to us, are come to jerusalem a rebellious and wicked city, which they are building, setting up the ramparts thereof and repairing the walls. and now be it known to the king, that if this city be built up, and the walls thereof repaired, they will not pay tribute nor toll, nor yearly revenues, and this loss will fail upon the kings. but

we remembering the salt that we have eaten in the palace, and because we count it a crime to see the king wronged, have therefore sent and certified the king, that search may be made in the books of the histories of thy fathers, and thou shalt find written in the records: and shalt know that this city is a rebellious city, and hurtful to the kings and provinces, and that wars were raised therein of old time: for which cause also the city was destroyed. we certify the king, that if this city be built, and the walls thereof repaired, thou shalt have no possession on this side of the river. the king sent word to reum beelteem and samsai the scribe, and to the rest that were in their council, inhabitants of samaria, and to the rest beyond the river, sending greeting and peace. the accusation, which you have sent to us, hath been plainly read before me, and i commanded: and search hath been made, and it is found, that this city of old time hath rebelled against kings, and seditions and wars have been raised therein. for there have been powerful kings in jerusalem, who have had dominion over all the country that is beyond the river: and have received tribute, and toll and revenues. now therefore hear the sentence: hinder those men, that this city be not built, till further orders be given by me. see that you be not negligent in executing this, lest by little and little the evil grow to the hurt of the kings. now the copy of the edict of king artaxerxes was read before reum beelteem, and samsai the scribe, and their counsellors: and they went up in haste to jerusalem to the jews, and hindered them with arm and power. then the work of the house of the lord in jerusalem was interrupted, and ceased till the second year of the reign of darius king of the persians.

now aggeus the prophet, and zacharias the son of addo, prophesied to the jews that were in judea and jerusalem, in the name of the god of israel. then rose up zorobabel the son of salathiel, and josue the son of josedec, and began to build the temple of god in jerusalem, and with them were the prophets of god helping them. and at the same time came to them thathanai, who was governor beyond the river, and stharbuzanai, and their counsellors: and said thus to them: who hath given you counsel to build this house, and to repair the walls thereof? in answer to which we gave them the names of the men who were the promoters of that building. but the eye of their god was upon the ancients of the jews, and they could not hinder them. and it was agreed that the matter should be referred to darius, and then they should give satisfaction concerning that accusation. the copy of the letter that thathanai governor of the country beyond the river, and stharbuzanai, and his counsellors the arphasachites, who dwell beyond the river, sent to darius the king. the letter which they sent him, was written thus: to darius the king all peace. be it known to the king, that we went to the province of judea, to the house of the great god, which they are building with unpolished stones, and timber is laid in the walls: and this work is carried on diligently, and ad-

vanceth in their hands. and we asked those ancients, and said to them thus: who hath given you authority to build this house, and to repair these walls? we asked also of them their names, that we might give thee notice: and we have written the names of the men that are the chief among them. and they answered us in these words, saying: we are the servants of the god of heaven and earth, and we are building a temple that was built these many years ago, and which a great king of israel built and set up. but after that our fathers had provoked the god of heaven to wrath, he delivered them into the hands of nabuchodonosor the king of babylon the chaldean: and he destroyed this house, and carried away the people to babylon. but in the first year of cyrus the king of babylon, king cyrus set forth a decree, that this house of god should be built. and the vessels also of gold and silver of the temple of god, which nabuchodonosor had taken out of the temple, that was in jerusalem, and had brought them to the temple of babylon, king cyrus brought out of the temple of babylon, and they were delivered to one sassabasar, whom also he appointed governor, and said to him: take these vessels, and go, and put them in the temple that is in jerusalem, and let the house of god be built in its place. then came this same sassabasar, and laid the foundations of the temple of god in jerusalem, and from that time until now it is in building, and is not yet finished. now therefore if it seem good to the king, let him search in the king's library, which is in babylon, whether it hath been decreed by cyrus the king, that the house of god in jerusalem should be built, and let the king send his pleasure to us concerning this matter.

then king darius gave orders, and they searched in the library of the books that were laid up in babylon, and there was found in ecbatana, which is a castle in the province of media, a book in which this record was written. in the first year of cyrus the king: cyrus the king decreed, that the house of god should be built, which is in jerusalem, in the place where they may offer sacrifices, and that they lay the foundations that may support the height of threescore cubits, and the breadth of threescore cubits, three rows of unpolished stones, and so rows of new timber: and the charges shall be given out of the king's house. and also let the golden and silver vessels of the temple of god, which nabuchodonosor took out of the temple of jerusalem, and brought to babylon, be restored, and carried back to the temple of jerusalem to their place, which also were placed in the temple of god. now therefore thathanai, governor of the country beyond the river, stharbuzanai, and your counsellors the apharsachites, who are beyond the river, depart far from them, and let that temple of god be built by the governor of the jews, and by their ancients, that they may build that house of god in its place. i also have commanded what must be done by those ancients of the jews, that the house of god may be built, to wit, that of the king's chest, that is, of the tribute that is paid out of the country beyond the river, the charges be diligently given to those men, lest the work be hindered. and if it shall be necessary, let calves also, and lambs, and kids, for holocausts to the god of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the custom of the priests that are in jerusalem, be given them day by day, that there be no complaint in any thing. and let them offer oblations to the god of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his children. and i have made a decree: that ii any whosoever, shall alter this commandment, a beam be taken from his house. and set up, and he be nailed upon it, and his house be confiscated. and may the god, that hath caused his name to dwell there, destroy all kingdoms, and the people that shall put out their hand to resist, and to destroy the house of god, that is in jerusalem. i darius have made the decree, which i will have diligently complied with. so then thathanai, governor of the country beyond the river, and sthartzanai, and his counsellors diligently executed what darius the king had commanded. and the ancients of the jews built and prospered according to the prophecy of ageus the prophet, and of zacharias the son of addo: and they built and finished, by the commandment of the god of israel, and by the commandment of cyrus, and darius, and artaxerxes kings of the persians. and they were finishing this house of god, until the third day of the month of adar, which was in the sixth year of the reign of king darius. and the children of israel, the priests and the levites, and the rest of the children of the captivity kept the dedication of the house of god with joy. and they offered at the dedication of the house of god, a hundred calves, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, and for a sin offering for all israel twelve he goats, according to the number of the tribes of israel. and they set the priests in their divisions, and the levites in their courses over the works of god in jerusalem, as it is written in the book of moyses. and the children of israel of the captivity kept the phase, 0 on the fourteenth day of the first month. for all the priests and the levites were purified as one man: all were clear to kill the phase for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and themselves. and the children of israel that were returned from captivity, and all that had separated themselves from the filthiness of the nations of the earth to them, to seek the lord the god of israel, did eat. and they kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with joy, for the lord had made them joyful, and had turned the heart of the king of assyria to them, that he should help their hands in the work of the house of the lord the god of israel.

now after these things in the reign of artaxerxes king of the persians, esdras the son of saraia, the son of azarias, the son of helcias, the son of sellum, the son of sadoc, the son of achitob, the son of amarias, the son of azarias, the son of maraiioth, the son of zarahias, the son of ozi, the son of bocci, the son of abisue, the son of phinees, the son of eleazar the son of aaron

the priest from the beginning. this esdras went up from babylon, and he was a ready scribe in the law of moyses, which the lord god had given to israel: and the king granted him all his request, according to the hand of the lord his god upon him. and there went up some of the children of israel, and of the children of the priests, and of the children of the levites, and of the singing men, and of the porters, and of the nathinites to jerusalem in the seventh year of artaxerxes the king. and they came to jerusalem in the fifth month, in the seventh year of the king. for upon the first day of the first month he began to go up from babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month he came to jerusalem according to the good hand of his god upon him. for esdras had prepared his heart to seek the law of the lord, and to do and to teach in israel the commandments and judgment. and this is the copy of the letter of the edict, which king artaxerxes gave to esdras the priest, the scribe instructed in the words and commandments of the lord, and his ceremonies in israel. artaxerxes king of kings to esdras the priest, the most learned scribe of the law of the god of heaven, greeting. it is decreed by me, that all they of the people of israel, and of the priests and of the levites in my realm, that are minded to go into jerusalem, should go with thee. for thou art sent from before the king, and his seven counsellors, to visit judea and jerusalem according to the law of thy god, which is in thy hand. and to carry the silver and gold, which the king and his counsellors have freely offered to the god of israel, whose tabernacle is in jerusalem. and all the silver and gold that thou shalt find in all the province of babylon, and that the people is willing to offer, and that the priests shall offer of their own accord to the house of their god, which is in jerusalem, take freely, and buy diligently with this money, calves, rams, lambs, with the sacrifices and libations of them, and offer them upon the altar of the temple of your god, that is in jerusalem. and if it seem good to thee, and to thy brethren to do any thing with the rest of the silver and gold, do it according to the will of your god. the vessels also, that are given thee for the sacrifice of the house of thy god, deliver thou in the sight of god in jerusalem. and whatsoever more there shall be need of for the house of thy god, how much soever thou shalt have occasion to spend, it shall be given out of the treasury, and the king's exchequer, and by me. i artaxerxes the king have ordered and decreed to all the keepers of the public chest, that are beyond the river, that whatsoever esdras the priest, the scribe of the law of the god of heaven, shall require of you, you give it without delay, unto a hundred talents of silver, and unto a hundred cores of wheat, and unto a hundred bates of wine, and unto a hundred bates of oil, and salt without measure. all that belongeth to the rites of the god of heaven, let it be given diligently in the house of the god of heaven: lest his wrath should be kindled against the realm of the king, and of his sons. we give you also to understand concerning all the priests, and the levites, and the singers, and the porters, and the nathinites, and ministers of the house of this god, that you have no authority to impose toll or tribute, or custom upon them. and thou esdras according to the wisdom of thy god, which is in thy hand, appoint judges and magistrates, that may judge all the people, that is beyond the river, that is, for them who know the law of thy god, yea and the ignorant teach ye freely. and whosoever will not do the law of thy god, and the law of the king diligently, judgment shall be executed upon him, either unto death, or unto banishment, or to the confiscation of goods, or at least to prison. blessed be the lord the god of our fathers, who hath put this in the king's heart, to glorify the house of the lord, which is in jerusalem, and hath inclined his mercy toward me before the king and his counsellors, and all the mighty princes of the king: and i being strengthened by the hand of the lord my god, which was upon me, gathered together out of israel chief men to go up with me.

now these are the chiefs of families, and the genealogy of them, who came up with me from babylon in the reign of artaxerxes the king. of the sons of phinees, gersom. of the sons of ithamar, daniel. of the sons of david, hattus. of the sons of sechenias, the son of pharos, zacharias, and with him were numbered a hundred and fifty men. of the sons of phahath moab, eleoenai the son of zareha, and with him two hundred men. of the sons of sechenias, the son of ezechiel, and with him three hundred men. of the sons of adan, abed the son of jonathan, and with him fifty men. of the sons of alam, isaia the son of athalias, and with him seventy men. of the sons of saphatia: zebodia the son of michael, and with him eighty men. of the sons of joab, obedia the son of jahiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen men. of the sons of selomith, the son of josphia, and with him a hundred and sixty men. of the sons of bebai, zacharias the son of bebai: and with him eight and twenty men. of the sons of azgad, joanan the son of eccetan, and with him a hundred and ten men. of the sons of adoniam, who were the last: and these are their names: eliphelet, and jehiel, and samaia, and with them sixty men. of the sons of begui, uthai and zachur, and with them seventy men. and i gathered them together to the river, which runneth down to ahava, and we stayed there three days: and i sought among the people and among the priests for the sons of levi, and found none there. so i sent eliezzer, and ariel, and semeias, and elnathan, and jarib, and another elnathan, and nathan, and zacharias, and mosollam, chief men: and joarib, and elnathan, wise men. and i sent them to eddo, who is chief in the place of chasphia, and i put in their mouth the words that they should speak to eddo, and his brethren the nathinites in the place of chasphia, that they should bring us ministers of the house of our god. and by the good hand of our god upon us, they brought us a most learned man of the sons of moholi the son of levi the son of israel, and sarabias and his sons, and his brethren eighteen, and hasabias, and with him isaia of the sons of merari, and his brethren, and his sons twenty. and of the nathinites, whom david, and the princes gave for the service of the levites, nathinites two hundred and twenty: all these were called by their names. and i proclaimed there a fast by the river ahava, that we might afflict ourselves before the lord our god, and might ask of him a right way for us and for our children, and for all our substance. for i was ashamed to ask the king for aid and for horsemen, to defend us from the enemy in the way: because we had said to the king: the hand of our god is upon all them that seek him in goodness: and his power and strength, and wrath upon all them that forsake him. and we fasted, and besought our god for this: and it fell out prosperously unto us. and i separated twelve of the chief of the priests, sarabias, and hasabias, and with them ten of their brethren, and i weighed unto them the silver and gold, and the vessels consecrated for the house of our god, which the king and his counsellors, and his princes, and all israel, that were found had offered. and i weighed to their hands six hundred and fifty talents of silver, and a hundred vessels of silver, and a hundred talents of gold, and twenty cups of gold, of a thousand solids, and two vessels of the best shining brass, beautiful as gold. and i said to them: you are the holy ones of the lord, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and gold, that is freely offered to the lord the god of our fathers. watch ye and keep them, till you deliver them by weight before the chief of the priests, and of the levites, and the heads of the families of israel in jerusalem, into the treasure of the house of the lord. and the priests and the levites received the weight of the silver and gold, and the vessels, to carry them to jerusalem to the house of our god. then we set forward from the river ahava on the twelfth day of the first month to go to jerusalem: and the hand of our god was upon us, and delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and of such as lay in wait by the way. and we came to jerusalem, and we stayed there three days. and on the fourth day the silver and the gold, and the vessels were weighed in the house of our god by the hand of meremoth the son of urias the priest, and with him was eleazar the son of phinees, and with them jozabad the son of josue, and noadaia the son of benoi, levites. according to the number and weight of every thing: and all the weight was written at that time. moreover the children of them that had been carried away that were come out of the captivity, offered holocausts to the god of israel, twelve calves for all the people of israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and twelve he goats for sin: all for a holocaust to the lord. and they gave the king's edicts to the lords that were from the king's court, and the governors beyond the river, and they furthered the people and the house of god.

and after these things were accomplished, the princes came to me, saying: the people of israel, and the priests and levites have not separated themselves from the people of the lands, and from their abominations, namely, of the chanaanites, and the hethites, and the pherezites, and the jebusites, and the ammonites, and the moabites, and the egyptians, and the

amorrhites. for they have taken of their daughters for themselves and for their sons, and they have mingled the holy seed with the people of the lands. and the hand of the princes and magistrates hath been first in this transgression. and when i had heard this word, i rent my mantle and my coat, and plucked off the hairs of my head and my beard, and i sat down mourning. and there were assembled to me all that feared the god of israel, because of the transgression of those that were come from the captivity, and i sat sorrowful, until the evening sacrifice. and at the evening sacrifice i rose up from my affliction, and having rent my mantle and my garment, i fell upon my knees, and spread out my hands to the lord my god, and said: my god i am confounded and ashamed to lift up my face to thee: for our iniquities are multiplied over our heads, and our sins are grown up even unto heaven, from the days of our fathers: and we ourselves also have sinned grievously unto this day, and for our iniquities we and our kings, and our priests have been delivered into the hands of the kings of the lands, and to the sword, and to captivity, and to spoil, and to confusion of face, as it is at this day. and now as a little, and for a moment has our prayer been made before the lord our god, to leave us a remnant, and give us a pin in his holy place, and that our god would enlighten our eyes, and would give us a little life in our bondage. for we are bondmen, and in our bondage our god hath not forsaken us, but hath extended mercy upon us before the king of the persians, to give us life, and to set up the house of our god, and rebuild the desolations thereof, and to give us a fence in juda and jerusalem. and now, o our god, what shall we say after this? for we have forsaken thy commandments, which thou hast commanded by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying: the land which you go to possess, is an unclean land, according to the uncleanness of the people, and of other lands, with their abominations, who have filled it from mouth to mouth with their filth. now therefore give not your daughters to their sons, and take not their daughters for your sons, and seek not their peace, nor their prosperity forever: that you may be strengthened, and may eat the good things of the land, and may have your children your heirs for ever. and after all that is come upon us, for our most wicked deeds, and our great sin, seeing that thou our god hast saved us from our iniquity, and hast given us a deliverance as at this day, that we should not turn away, nor break thy commandments, nor join in marriage with the people of these abominations. art thou angry with us unto utter destruction, not to leave us a remnant to be saved? o lord god of israel, thou art just: for we remain yet to be saved as at this day. behold we are before thee in our sin, for there can be no standing before thee in this matter.

now when esdras was thus praying, and beseeching, and weeping, and lying before the temple of god, there was gathered to him of israel an exceeding great assembly of men and women and children, and the people wept with much lamentation. and sechenias the son of jehiel of the sons of elam answered, and said to esdras: we have sinned against our god, and have taken strange wives of the people of the land: and now if there be repentance in israel concerning this, let us make a covenant with the lord our god, to put away all the wives, and such as are born of them, according to the will of the lord, and of them that fear the commandment of the lord our god: let it be done according to the law. arise, it is thy part to give orders, and we will be with thee: take courage, and do it. so esdras arose, and made the chiefs of the priests and of the levites, and all israel, to swear that they would do according to this word, and they swore. and esdras rose up from before the house of god, and went to the chamber of johanen the son of eliasib, and entered in thither: he ate no bread, and drank no water: for he mourned for the transgression of them that were come out of the captivity. and proclamation was made in juda and jerusalem to all the children of the captivity, that they should assemble together into jerusalem. and that whosoever would not come within three days, according to the counsel of the princes and the ancients, all his substance should be taken away, and he should be cast out of the company of them that were returned from captivity, then all the men of juda, and benjamin gathered themselves together to jerusalem within three days, in the ninth month, the twentieth day of the month: and all the people sat in the street of the house of god, trembling because of the sin, and the rain. and esdras the priest stood up, and said to them: you have transgressed, and taken strange wives, to add to the sine of israel. and now make confession to the lord the god of your fathers, and do his pleasure, and separate yourselves from the people of the land, and from your strange wives. and all the multitude answered and said with a loud voice: according to thy word unto us, so be it done. but as the people are many, and it is time of rain, and me are not able to stand without, and it is not a work of one day or two, (for we have exceedingly sinned in this matter,) let rulers be appointed in all the multitude: and in all our cities, let them that have taken strange wives come at the times appointed, and with them the ancients and the judges of every city, until the wrath of our god be turned away from us for this sin. then jonathan the son of azahel, and jaasia the son of thecua were appointed over this, and mesollam and sebethai, levites, helped them: and the children of the captivity did so. and esdras the priest, and the men heads of the families in the houses of their fathers, and all by their names, went and sat down in the first day of the tenth month to examine the matter. and they made an end with all the men that had taken strange wives by the first day of the first month. and there were found among the sons of the priests that had taken strange wives: of the sons of josue the son of josedece, and his brethren, maasia, and eliezer, and jarib, and godolia. and they gave their hands to put away their wives, and to offer for their offence a ram of the flock. and of the sons of emmer, hanani, and zebedia. and of the sons of harim, maasia, and elia, and semeia, and je-

hiel, and ozias. and of the sons of pheshur, elioenai, maasia, ismael, nathanael, jozabed, and elasa. and of the sons of the levites, jozabed, and semei, and celaia, the same is calita, phataia, juda, and eliezer. and of the singing men, elisiab: and of the porters, sellum, and telem, and and of israel, of the sons of pharos, remeia, and jezia, and melchia, and miamin, and eliezer, and melchia, and banea. and of the sons of elam, mathania, zacharias, annd Jehiel, and abdi, and jerimoth, and elia. and of the sons of zethua, elioenai, eliasib, mathania, jerimuth, and zabad, and aziaza. and of the sons of babai, johanana, hanania, zabbai, athalai: and of the sons of bani, mosollam, and melluch, and adaia, jasub, and seal, and ramoth. and of the sons of phahath, moab, edna, and chalal, banaias, and maasias, mathanias, beseleel, bennui, and manasse. and of the sons of herem, eliezer, josue, melchias, semeias, simeon, benjamin, maloch, samarias. and of the sons of hasom, mathanai, mathatha, zabad, eliphelet, jermai, manasse, semei. of the sons of bani, maaddi, amran, and uel, baneas, and badaias, cheliau, vania, marimuth, and eliasib, mathanias, mathania, and jasi, and bani, and bennui, semei, and salmias, and nathan, and adaias, and mechnedebai, sisai, sarai, ezrel, and selemiau, semeria, sellum, amaria, joseph. of the sons of nevo, Jehiel, mathathias, zabad, zabina, jeddu, and joel, and banaia. all these had taken strange wives, and there were among them women that had borne children.

the words of nehemias the son of helchias. and it came to pass in the month of casleu, in the twentieth year, as i was in the castle of susa, that hanani one of my brethren came, he and some men of juda; and i asked them concerning the jews, that remained and were left of the captivity, and concerning jerusalem. and they said to me: they that have remained, and are left of the captivity there in the province, are in great affliction, and reproach: and the wall of jerusalem is broken down, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire. and when i had heard these words, i sat down, and wept, and mourned for many days: and i fasted, and prayed before the face of the god of heaven. and i said: wi beseech thee, O lord god of heaven, strong, great, and terrible, who keepest covenant and mercy with those that love thee, and keep thy commandments: let thy ears be attentive, and thy eyes open, to hear the prayer of thy servant, which i pray before thee now, night and day, for the children of israel thy servants: and i confess the sins of the children of israel, by which they have sinned against thee: i and my father's house have sinned. we have been seduced by vanity, and have not kept thy commandments, and ceremonies and judgments, which thou hast commanded thy servant moyses. remember the word that thou commandedst to moyses thy servant, saying: if you shall transgress, i will scatter you abroad among the nations: but if you return to me, and keep my commandments, and do them, though you should be led away to the uttermost parts of the world, i will gather you from thence, and bring you back to the place which i have chosen for my name to dwell there. and these are thy servants, and thy people: whom thou hast redeemed by thy great strength, and by thy mighty hand. i beseech thee, o lord, let thy ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants who desire to fear thy name: and direct thy servant this day, and give him mercy before this man. for i was the king's cupbearer.

and it came to pass in the month of nisan, in the twentieth year of artaxerxes the king: that wine was before him, and i took up the wine, and gave it to the king: and i was as one languishing away before his face. and the king said to me: why is thy countenance sad, seeing thou dost not appear to be sick? this is not without cause, but some evil, i know not what, is in thy heart. and i was seized with an exceeding great fear: and i said to the king: o king, live for ever: why should not my countenance be sorrowful, seeing the city of the place of the sepulchres of my fathers is desolate, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire? then the king said to me: for what dost thou make request? and i prayed to the god of heaven, and i said to the king: if it seem good to the king, and if thy servant hath found favour in thy sight, that thou wouldst send me into judea to the city of the sepulchre of my father, and i will build it. and the king said to me, and the queen that sat by him: for how long shall thy journey be, and when wilt thou return? and it pleased the king, and he sent me: and i fixed him a time. and i said to the king: if it seem good to the king, let him give me letters to the governors of the country beyond the river, that they convey me over, till i come into judea: and a letter to asaph the keeper of the king's forest, to give me timber that i may cover the gates of the tower of the house, and the walls of the city, and the house that i shall enter into. and the king gave me according to the good hand of my god with me. and i came to the governors of the country beyond the river, and gave them the king's letters. and the king had sent wish me captains of soldiers, and horsemen. and sanaballat the horonite, and tobias the servant, the ammonite, heard it, and it grieved them exceedingly, that a man was come, who sought the prosperity of the children of israel. and i came to jerusalem, and was there three days. and i arose in the night, i and some few men with me, and i told not any man what god had put in my heart to do in jerusalem, and there was no beast with me, but the beast that i rode upon. and i went out by night by the gate of the valley, and before the dragon fountain, and to the dung gate, and i viewed the wall of jerusalem which was broken down, and the gates thereof which were consumed with fire. and i passed to the gate of the fountain, and to the king's aqueduct, and there was no place for the beast on which i rode to pass. and i went up in the night by the torrent, and viewed the wall, and going back i came to the gate of the valley, and returned. but the magistrates knew not whither i went, or what i did: neither had i as yet told any thing to the jews, or to the priests, or to the nobles, or to the magistrates, or to the rest that did the work. then i said to them: you know the affliction wherein we are, because jerusalem is desolate, and the gates thereof are consumed with fire: come, and let us build up the walls of jerusalem, and let us be no longer a reproach. and i shewed them how the hand of my god was good with me, and the king's words, which he had spoken to me, and i said: let us rise up, and build. and their hands were strengthened in good. but sanaballat the horonite, and tobias the servant, the ammonite, and gossem the arabian heard of it, and they scoffed at us, and despised us, and said: what is this thing that you do? are you going to rebel against the king? and i answered them, and said to them: the god of heaven he helpeth us, and we are his servants: let us rise up and build: but you have no part, nor justice, nor remembrance in jerusalem.

then eliasib the high priest arose, and his brethren the priests, and they built the flock gate: they sanctified it, and set up the doors thereof, even unto the tower of a hundred cubits they sanctified it unto the tower of hananeel. and next to him the men of jericho built: and next to them built zachur the son of amri. but the fish gate the sons of asnaa built: they covered it, and set up the doors thereof, and tire locks, and the bars. and next to them built marimuth the son of urias the son of accus. and next to him built mosollam tile son of barachias, the sell of merezebel, and next to them built sadoc the son of baana. and next to them the thecutes built: but their great men did not put their necks to the work of their lord. and joiada the son of phasea, and mosollam the son of besodia built the old gate: they covered it and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and the bars. and next to them built meltias the gabaonite, and jadon the meronathite, the men of gabaon and maspha, for the governor that was in the country beyond the river. and next to him built eziel the son of araa the goldsmith: and next to him built ananias the son of the perfumer: and they left jerusalem unto the wall of the broad street. and next to him built raphaia the son of hur, lord of the street of jerusalem. and next to him jedaia the son of haromaph over against his own house: and next to him built hattus the son of hasebonia. elchias the son of herem, and ha- sub the son of phahath moab, built half the street, and the tower of the furnaces. and next to him built sellum the son of alohes, lord of half the street of jerusalem, he and his daughters. and the gate of the valley hanun built, and the inhabitants of zanoë: they built it, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and the bars, and a thousand cubits in the wall unto the gate of the dunghill. and the gate of the dunghill melchias the son of rechab built, lord of the street of bethacharam : he built it, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and the bars. and the gate of the fountain sellum the son of cholhoza built, lord of the street of maspha: he built it, and covered it, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and the bare, and the walls of the pool of siloe unto the king's guard, and unto the steps that go down from the city of david. after him built nehemia the son of azboc, lord of half the street of bethsur, as far as over against the sepulchre of david, and to the pool, that was built with great labour, and to the house of the mighty. after him built the levites, rehum the son of benni. after him built hasebias, lord of half the street of ceila in his own street. after him built their brethren bavai the son of enadad, lord of half ceila. and next to him aser the son of josue, lord of maspha, built another measure, over against the going up of the strong corner. after him in the mount baruch the son of zachai built another measure, from the corner to the door of the house of eliasib the high priest. after him merimuth the son of urias the son of haccus, built another measure, from the door of the house of eliasib, to the end of the house of eliasib. and after him built the priests, the men of the plains of the jordan. after him built benjamin and hasub, over against their own house : and after him built azarias the son of maasias the son of ananias over against his house. after him built bennui the son of hanadad another measure, from the house of azarias unto the bending, and unto the corner. phalel, the son of ozi, over against the bending and the tower, which lieth out from the king's high house, that is, in the court of the prison: after him phadaia the son of pharos. and the nathinites dwelt in ophel, as far as over against the water gate toward the east, and the tower that stood out. after him the thecutes built another measure over against, from the great tower that standeth out unto the wall of the temple. and upward from the horse gate the priests built, every man over against his house. after them built sadoc the son of emmer over against his house. and after him built semaia the son of sechenias, keeper of the east gate. after him built hanania the son of selemia, and hanun the sixth son of seleph, another measure: after him built mosollam the son of barachias over against his treasury. after him melchias the goldsmith's son built unto the house of the nathinites, and of the sellers of small wares, over against the judgment gate, and unto the chamber of the corner. and within the chamber of the corner of the dock gate, the goldsmiths and the merchants built.

and it came to pass, that when sanaballat heard that we were building the wall he was angry: and being moved exceedingly he scoffed at the jews. and said before his brethren, and the multitude of the samaritans: what are the silly jews doing? will the gentiles let them alone? will they sacrifice and make an end in a day? are they able to raise stones out of the heaps of the rubbish, which are burnt? tobias also the ammonite who was by him said : let them build: if a fox go up, he will leap over their stone wall. hear thou our god, for we are despised: turn their reproach upon their own head, and give them to be despised in a land of captivity. cover not their iniquity, and let not their sin be blotted out from before thy face, because they have mocked thy builders. so we built the wall, and joined it all together unto the half thereof: and the heart of the people was excited to work. and it came to pass, when sanaballat, and tobias, and the arabs, and the ammonites, and the azotians heard that the walls of jerusalem were made up, and the breaches began to be closed, that they were exceedingly angry. and they all assembled themselves together, to come, and to fight against jerusalem, and to prepare ambushes. and we prayed to our god, and set watchmen upon the wall day and night against them. and juda said: the strength of the bearer of burdens is decayed, and the rubbish is very much, and we shall not be able to build the wall. and our enemies said: let them not know, nor understand, till we come in the midst of them, and kill them, and cause the work to cease. and it came to pass, that when the jews that dwelt by them came and told us ten times, out of all the places from whence they came to us, i set the people in the place behind the wall round about in order, with their swords, and spears, and bows. and i looked and rose up: and i said to the chief men and the magistrates, and to the rest of the common people: be not afraid of them. remember the lord who is great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, and your wives, and your houses. and it came to pass, when our enemies heard that the thing had been told us, that god defeated their counsel. and we returned all of us to the walls, every man to his work. and it came to pass from that day forward, that half of their young men did the work, and half were ready for to fight, with spears, and shields, and bows, and coats of mail, and the rulers were behind them in all the house of juda. of them that built on the wall and that carried burdens, and that laded: with one of his hands he did the work, and with the other he held a sword. for every one of the builders was girded with a sword about his reins. and they built, and sounded with a trumpet by me. and i said to the nobles, and to the magistrates, and to the rest of the common people: the work is great and wide, and we are separated on the wall one far from another: in what place soever you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, run all thither unto us: our god will fight for us. and let us do the work: and let one half of us hold our spears from the rising of the morning, till the stars appear. at that time also i said to the people: let every one with his servant stay in the midst of jerusalem, and let us take our turns in the night, and by day, to work. now i and my brethren, and my servants, and the watchmen that followed me, did not put off our clothes: only every man stripped himself when he was to be washed.

now there was a great cry of the people, and of their wives against their brethren the jews. and there were some that said: our sons and our daughters are very many: yet us take up corn for the price of them, and let us eat and live. and there were some that said: let us mortgage our lands, and our vineyards, and our houses, and let us take corn be- cause of the famine. and others said: let us borrow money for the king's tribute, and let us give up our fields and vineyards: and now our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren: and our children as their children. behold we bring into bondage our sons and our daughters, and some of our daughters are bondwomen already, neither have we wherewith to redeem them, and our fields and our vineyards other men possess. and i was exceedingly angry when i heard their cry according to these words. and my heart thought with myself: and i rebuked the nobles and magistrates, and said to them: do you every one ex- act usury of your brethren? and i gathered together a great assembly against them, and i said to them: we, as you know, have redeemed according to our ability our brethren the jews, that were sold to the gentiles: and will you then sell your brethren, for us to redeem them? and they held their peace, and found not what to answer. and i said to them: the thing you do is not good: why walk you not in the fear of our god, that we be not exposed to the reproaches of the gentiles our enemies? both i and my brethren, and my servants, have lent money and corn to many: let us all agree not to call for it again; let us forgive the debt that is owing to us. restore ye to them this day their fields, and their vineyards, and their oliveyards, and their houses: and the hundredth part of the money, and of the corn, the wine, and the oil, which you mere wont to exact of them, give it rather for them. and they said: we will restore, and we will require nothing of them: and we will do as thou sayest. and i called the priests and took an oath of them, to do according to what i had said. moreover i shook my lap, and said: so may god shake every man that shall not accomplish this word, out of his house, and out of his labours, thus may he be shaken out, and become empty. and all the multitude said: amen. and they praised god. and the people did according to what was said. and from the day, in which the king commanded me to be governor in the land of juda, from the twentieth year even to the two and thirtieth year of artaxerxes the king, for twelve years, i and my brethren did not eat the yearly allowance that was due to the governors. but the former governors that had been before me, were chargeable to the people, and took of them in bread, and wine, and in money every day forty sides: and their officers also oppressed the people. but i did not so for the fear of god. moreover i built in the work of the wall, and i bought no land, and all my servants were gathered together to the work. the jews also and the magistrates to the number of one hundred and fifty men, were at my table, besides them that came to us from among the nations that were round about us. and there was prepared for me day by day one ox, and six choice rams, be- sides fowls, and once in ten days i gave store of divers wines, and many other things: yet i did not require my yearly allowance as governor: for the people were very much impoverished. remember me, o my god, for good according to all that i have done for this people.

and it came to pass, when sanaballat, and tobias, and gossem the arabian, and the rest of our enemies, heard that i had built the wall, and that there was no breach left in it, (though at that time i had not set up the doors in the gates,) sanaballat and gossem rent to me, saying: come, and let us make a league together in the villages, in the plain of ono. but they thought to do me mischief. and i sent messengers to them, saying: i am doing a great work, and i cannot come down, lest it be neglected whilst i come, and go down to you. and they sent to me according to this word, four times: and i answered them after the same manner. and sanaballat sent his servant to me the fifth time according to the former word, and he had a letter in his hand written in this manner: it is reported amongst the gentiles, and gossem hath said it, that thou and the jews think to rebel, and therefore thou buildst the wall, and hast a mind to set thyself king over them: for which end thou hast also set up prophets, to preach of thee at jerusalem, saying: there is a king in judea. the king will hear of these things: therefore come now, that we may take counsel together. and i sent to them, saying: there is no such thing done as thou sayest: but thou feignest these things out of thy own heart. for all these men thought to frighten us, thinking that our hands would cease from the work, and that we would leave off. wherefore i strengthened my hands the more: and i went into the house of samaia the son of delaia, the son of metabeel privately. and he said: let us consult together in the house of god in the midst of the temple: and let us shut the doors of the temple, for they will come to kill thee, and in the night they will come to slay thee.

and i said: should such a man as i bee? and who is there that being as i am, would go into the temple, to save his life? i will not go in. and i understood that god had not sent him, but that he had spoken to me as if he had been prophesying, and tobias, and sanaballat had hired him. for he had taken money, that i being afraid should do this thing, and sin, and they might have some evil to upbraid me withal. remember me, o lord, for tobias and sanaballat, according to their works of this kind: and noadiah the prophet, and the rest of the prophets that would have put me in fear. but the wall was finished the five and twentieth day of the month of elul, in two and fifty days. and it came to pass when all our enemies heard of it, that all nations which were round about us, were afraid, and were cast down within themselves, for they perceived that this work was the work of god. moreover in those days many letters were sent by the principal men of the jews to tobias, and from tobias there came letters to them. for there were many in judea sworn to him, because he was the son in law of sechenias the son of area, and johanah his son had taken to wife the daughter of mosollam the son of barachias. and they praised him also before me, and they related my words to him: and tobias sent letters to put me in fear.

now after the wall was built, and i had set up the doors, and numbered the porters and singing men, and levites: i commanded hanani my brother, and hananias ruler of the house of jerusalem, (for he seemed as a sincere man, and one that feared god above the rest,) and i said to them: let not the gates of jerusalem be opened till the sun be hot. and while they were yet standing by, the gates were shut, and barred: and i set watchmen of the inhabitants of jerusalem, every one by their courses, and every mall over against his house. and the city was very wide and great, and the people few in the midst thereof, and the houses were not built. but god had put in my heart, and i assembled the princes and magistrates, and common people, to number them: and i found a book of the number of them who came up at first, and therein it was found written: these are the children of the province, who came up from the captivity of them that had been carried away, whom nabuchodonosor the king of babylon had carried away, and who returned into judea, every one into his own city. who came with zorobabel, josue, nehemias, azarias, raamias, nahamani, mardochai, belsam, mespharath, begoia, nahum, baana. the number of the men of the people of israel: the children of pharos, two thousand one hundred seventy-two. the children of sephatiah, three hundred seventy-two. the children of area, six hundred fifty-two. the children of phahath moab of the children of josue and joab, two thousand eight hundred eighteen. the children of elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four. the children of zethua, eight hundred forty-five. the children of zachai, seven hundred sixty. the children of bannui, six hundred forty-eight. the children of bebai, six hundred twenty-eight. the children of azgad, two thousand three hundred twenty-two. the children of adoniam, six hundred sixty-seven. the children of beguai, two thousand sixty-seven. the children of adin, six hundred fifty-five. the children of ater, children of hezechias, ninety-eight. the children of hasem, three hundred twenty-eight. the children of besai, three hundred twenty-four. the children of hareph, a hundred and twelve. the children of gabaon, ninety-five. the children of bethlehem, and netupha, a hundred eighty-eight. the men of anathoth, a hundred twenty-eight. the men of bethazmoth, forty-two. the men of cariathiarim, cephirah, end beroth, seven hundred forty-three. the men of rama and geba, six hundred twenty-one. the men of machmas, a hundred twenty-two. the men of bethel and hai, a hundred twenty-three. the men of the other nebo, fifty-two. the men of the other elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four. the children of harem, three hundred and twenty. the children of jericho, three hundred forty-ave. the children of led, of hadid and one, seven hundred twenty-one. the children of senaah, three thousand nine hundred thirty. the priests: the children of idaia in the house of josue, nine hundred and seventy-three. the children of emmer, one thousand fifty-two. the children of phashur, one thousand two hundred forty-seven. the children of arem, one thousand and seventeen. the levites: the children of josue and cedmihel, the sons of oduia, seventy-four. the singing men: the children of asaph, a hundred forty-eight. the porters: the children of sellum, the children of ater, the children of telmon, the children of accub, the children of hatita, the children of sobai: a hundred thirty-eight. the nathinites: the children of soha, the children of hasupha, the children of tebbaoth, the children of ceros, the children of siaa, the children of phadon, the children of lebana, the children of hagaba, the children of selmai, the children of hanan, the children of geddel, the children of gaher, the children of raafia, the children of rasin, the children of necoda, the children of gezem, the children of asa, the children of phasea, the children of besai, the children of munim, the children of nephussim, the children of bacbuc, the children of hacupha, the children of harhur, the children of besloth, the children of mahida, the children of harsa, the children of bercos, the children of sisara, the children of thema, the children of nasia, the children of hatipha, the children of the servants of solomon, the children of sothai, the children of sophereth, the children of pharida, the children of jahala, the children of darcon, the children of jeddel, the children of saphatia, the children of hatil, the children of phochereth, who was born of sabaim, the son of amon. all the nathinites, and the children of the servants of solomon, three hundred ninety-two. and these are they that came up from telmela, thelharsa, cherub, addon, and emmer: and could not shew the house of their fathers, nor their seed, whether they were of israel. the children of dalaia, the children of tobias, the children of necoda, six hundred forty-two. and of the priests, the children of habia, the children of accos, the children of berzellai, who took a wife of the daughters of berzellai the galaadite, and he was called by their name. these sought their writing in the re- cord, and found it not: and they were cast out of the priesthood. and athersatha said to them, that they should not eat of the holies of holies, until there stood up a priest learned and skilful. all the multitude as it were one man, forty-two thousand three hundred sixty, beside their menservants and womenservants, who were seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven: and among them singing men, and singing women, two hundred forty-five. their horses, seven hundred thirty- six: their mules two hundred forty-five: their camels, four hundred thirty- five, their asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty. and some of the heads of the families gave unto the work. athersatha gave into the treasure a thousand drama of gold, fifty bowls, and five hundred and thirty garments for priests. and some of the heads of families gave to the treasure of the work, twenty thousand drama of gold, and two thousand two hundred pounds of silver. and that which the rest of the people gave, was twenty thousand drama of gold, and two thousand pounds of silver, and sixty-seven garments for priests. and the priests, and the levites, and the porters, and the singing men, and the rest of the common people, and the nathinites, and all israel dwelt in their cities.

and the seventh month came: and the children of israel were in their cities. and all the people were gathered together as one mall to the street which is before the water gate, and they spoke to esdras the scribe, to bring the book of the law of moyses, which the lord had commanded to israel. then esdras the priest brought the law before the multitude of men and women, and all those that could understand, in the first day of the seventh month. and he read it plainly in the street that was before the water gate, from the morning until midday, before the men, and the women, and all those that could understand: and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book. and esdras the scribe stood upon a step of wood, which he had made to speak upon, and there stood by him mathathias, and semeia, and ania, and uria, and helcia, and maasia, on his right hand: and on the left, phadaia, misael, and melchia, and hasum, and hasbadana, zacharia and mosollam. and esdras opened the book before all the people: for he was above all the people: and when he had opened it, all the people stood. and esdras blessed the lord the great god: and all the people answered, amen: lifting up their hands: and they bowed down, and adored god with their faces to the ground. now josue, and bani, and serebia, jamin, accub, sephtai, odia, maasia, celtia, azarias, jozabed, hanan, phalaia, the levites, made silence among the people to hear the law: end the people stood in their place. and they read in the book of the law of god distinctly and plainly to be understood: and they understood when it was read. and nehemias (he is athersatha) and esdras the priest and scribe, and the levites who interpreted to all the people, said: this is a holy day to the lord our god: do not mourn, nor weep: for all the people wept, when they heard the words of the law. and he said to them: go, eat fat meats, and drink sweet wine, and send portions to them that have not prepared for themselves: because it is the holy day of the lord, and be not sad: for the joy of the lord is our strength. and the levites stilled all the people, saying: hold your peace, for the day is holy, and be not sorrowful. so all the people went to eat and drink, and to send portions, and to make great mirth: because they understood the words that he had taught them. and on the second day the chiefs of the families of all the people, the priests, and the levites were gathered together to esdras the scribe, that he should interpret to them the words of the law. and they found written in the law, that the lord had commanded by the hand of moyses, that the children of israel should dwell in tabernacles, on the feast, in the seventh month: and that they should proclaim and publish the word in all their cities, and in jerusalem, saying: go forth to the mount, and fetch branches of olive, and branches of beautiful wood, branches of myrtle, and branches of palm, and branches of thick trees, to make tabernacles, as it is written. and the people went forth, and brought. and they made themselves tabernacles every man on the top of his house, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of god, and in the street of the water gate, and in the street of the gate of ephraim. and all the assembly of them that were returned from the captivity, made tabernacles, and dwelt in tabernacles: for since the days of josue the son of nun the children of israel had not done so, until that day: and there was exceeding great joy. and he read in the book of the law of god day by day, from the first day till the last, and they kept the solemnity seven days, and in the eighth day a solemn assembly according to the manner.

and in the four and twentieth day of the month the children of israel came together with fasting and with sackcloth, and earth upon them. and the seed of the children of israel separated themselves from every stranger: and they stood, and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers. and they rose up to stand: and they read in the book of the law of the lord their god, four times in the day, and four times they confessed, and adored the lord their god. and there stood up upon the seep of the levites, josue, and bani, and cedmihel, sabania, bonni, sarebias, bani, and chanani: and they cried with a loud voice to the lord their god. and the levites josue and cedmihel, bonni, hasebnia, serebia, oduia, sebnia, and phathahia, said: arise, bless the lord your god from eternity to eternity: and blessed be the high name of thy glory with all blessing and praise. thou thyself, o lord alone, thou hast made heaven, and the heaven of heavens, and all the host thereof: the earth and all things that are in it: the seas and all that are therein: and thou givest life to all these things, and the host of heaven adoreth thee. thou, o lord god, art he who cholest abram, and broughtest him forth out of the fire of the chaldeans, and gavest him the name of abraham. and thou didst find his heart faithful before thee: and thou madest a covenant with him, to give him the land of the chanaanite, of the hethite, and of the amorrhite, and of the pherezite, and of the jebusite, and of the gergezite, to give it to his seed: and thou hast fulfilled thy words, because thou art just. and thou sawest the affliction of our fathers in egypt: and thou didst hear their cry by the red sea. and thou shewedst signs and wonders upon pharao, and upon all his servants, and upon the people of his land: for thou knewest that they dealt proudly against them: and thou madest thyself a name, as it is at this day. and thou didst divide the sea before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea on dry land: but their persecutors thou threwest into the depth, as a stone into mighty waters. and in a pillar of a cloud thou wast their leader by day, and in a pillar of are by night, that they might see the way by which they went. thou camest down also to mount sinai, and didst speak with them from heaven, and thou gavest them right judgments, and the law of truth, ceremonies, and good precepts. thou madest known to them thy holy sabbath, and didst prescribe to them commandments, and ceremonies, and the law by the hand of moyses thy servant. and thou gavest them bread from heaven in their hunger, and broughtest forth water for them out of the rock in their thirst, and thou saidst to them that they should go in, and possess the land, upon which thou hadst lifted up thy hand to give it them. but they and our fathers dealt proudly, and hardened their necks and hearkened not to thy commandments. and they would not hear, and they remembered not thy wonders which thou hadst done for them. and they hardened their necks, and gave the head to return to their bondage, as it were by contention. but thou, a forgiving god, gracious, and merciful, longsuffering, and full of compassion, didst not forsake them. yea when they had made also to themselves a molten calf, and had said: this is thy god, that brought thee out of egypt: and hail committed great blasphemies: yet thou, in thy many mercies, didst not leave them in the desert: the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to lead them in the way, and the pillar of fire by night to shew them the way by which they should go. and thou gavest them thy good spirit to teach them, and thy manna thou didst not withhold from their mouth, and thou gavest them water for their thirst. forty years didst thou feed them in the desert, and nothing was wanting to them: their garments did not grow old, and their feet were not worn. and thou gavest them kingdoms, and nations, and didst divide lots for them: and they possessed the land of sehon, and the land of the king of hesebon, and the land of og king of basan. and thou didst multiply their children as the stars of heaven, and broughtest them to the land concerning which thou hadst said to their fathers, that they should go in and possess it. and the children came and possessed the land, and thou didst humble before them the inhabitants of the land, the chanaanites, and gavest them into their hands, with their kings, and the people of the land, that they might do with them as it pleased them. and they took strong cities and

a fat land, and possessed houses full of all goods: cis- terns made by others, vine- yards, and oliveyards, and fruit trees in abundance: and they ate, and were filled, and became fat, and abounded with de- light in thy great goodness. but they provoked thee to wrath, and departed from thee, and threw thy law behind their backs: and they killed thy prophets, who admonished them earnestly to return to thee: and they were guilty of great blasphemies. and thou gavest them into the hands of their enemies, and they afflicted them. and in the time of their tribulation they cried to thee, and thou heardest from heaven, and according to the multitude of thy tender mercies thou gavest them saviours, to save them from the hands of their enemies. but after they had rest, they returned to do evil in thy sight: and thou leftest them in the hand of their enemies, and they had dominion over them. then they returned, and cried to thee: and thou heardest from heaven, and deliveredst them many times in thy mercies. and thou didst admonish them to re turn to thy law. but they dealt proudly, and hearkened not to thy commandments, but sinned against thy judgments, which if a man do, he shall live in them: and they withdrew the shoulder, and hardened their neck, and would not hear. and thou didst forbear with them for many years, and didst testify against them by thy spirit by the hand of thy prophets: and they heard not, and thou didst deliver them into the hand of the people of the lands. yet in thy very many mercies thou didst not utterly consume them, nor forsake them: because thou art a merciful and gracious god. now therefore our god, great, strong and terrible, who keepest covenant and mercy, turn not away from thy face all the labour which hath come upon us, upon our kings, and our princes, and our priests, and our prophets, and our fathers, and all the people from the days of the king of assur, until this day. and thou art just in all things that have come upon us: because thou hast done truth, but we have done wickedly. our kings, our princes, our priests, and our fathers have not kept thy law, and have not minded thy commandments, and thy testimonies which thou hast testified among them. and they have not served thee in their kingdoms, and in thy manifold goodness, which thou gavest them, and in the large and fat land, which thou deliveredst before them, nor did they return from their most wicked devices. behold we ourselves this day are bondmen: and the land, which thou gavest our fathers, to eat the bread thereof, and the good things thereof, and we ourselves are servants in it. and the fruits thereof grow up for the kings, whom thou hast set over us for our sins, and they have dominion over our bodies, and over our beasts, according to their will, and we are in great tribulation. and because of all this we ourselves make a covenant, and write it, and our princes, our levites, and our priests sign it.

now these are the priests and the levites, that went up with zorobabel the son of salathiel, and josue: saraia, jeremias, esdras, amaria, melluch, hattus, sebenias, rheum, merimuth, addo, genthon, abia, miamin, mada, belga, semeia, and joiarib, idaia, sellum, amoc, helcias, idaia. these were the chief of the priests, and of their brethren in the days of josue. and the levites, jesua, bennui, cedmihel, sarebia, juda, mathanias, they and their brethren were over the hymns: and becbecia, and hannu, and their brethren every one in his office. and josue beget joacim, and joacim beget eliasib, and eliasib beget joiaida, and joiaida beget jonathan, and jonathan beget jeddoa. and in the days of joacim the priests and heads of the families were : of saraia, maraia: of jeremias, hanania: of esdras, mosollam: and of amaria, johanen: of milicho, jonathan: of sebenia, joseph: of haram, edna: of maraioth, helci: of adaia, zacharia: of genthon, mosollam: of abia, zechri: of miamin and moadia, phelti: of belga, sammua of semeia, jonathan: of joiarib, mathanaia: of jodaia, azzai: of sellai, celai: of amoc, heber: of helcias, hasebia: of idaia, nathanael. the levites the chiefs of the families in the days of eliasib, and joiaida, and johanen, and jeddoa, were recorded, and the priests in the reign of darius the persian. the sons of levi, heads of the families were written in the book of chronicles, even unto the days of jonathan the son of eliasib. now the chief of the levites were hasebia, sarebia, and josue the son of cedmihel: and their brethren by their courses, to praise and to give thanks according to the commandment of david the man of god, and to wait equally in order. mathania, and becbecia, obedai, and mosollam, telmon, accub, were keepers of the gates and of the entrances before the gates. these were in the days of joacim the son of josue, the son of josedec, and in the days of nehemia the governor, and of esdras the priest and scribe. and at the dedication of the wall of jerusalem they sought the levites out of all their places, to bring them to jerusalem, and to keep the dedication, and to rejoice with thanksgiving, and with singing, and with cymbals, and psalteries and harps. and the sons of the singing men were gathered together out of the plain country about jerusalem, and out of the villages of nethuphati, and from the house of galgal, and from the countries of geba and azmaveth: for the singing men had built themselves villages round about jerusalem. and the priests and the levites purified, and they purified the people, and the gates, and the wall. and i made the princes of juda go up upon the wall, and i appointed two great choirs to give praise. and they went on the right hand upon the wall toward the dunghill gate. and after them went osaias, and half of the princes of juda, and azarias, esdras, and mosollam, judas, and benjamin, and semeia, and jeremias. and of the sons of the priests with trumpets, zacharias the son of jonathan. the son of semeia, the son of mathania; the son of michaia, the son of zechur, the son of asaph, and his brethren semeia, and azareel malalai, galalai, maai, nathanael, and judas, and hanani, with the musical instruments of david the man of god: and esdras the scribe before them at the fountain gate. and they went up over against them by the stairs of the city of david, at the going up of the wall of the house of david, and to the water gate eastward: and the second choir of them that gave thanks went on the opposite side, and i after them, and the half of the people upon the wall, and upon the tower of the furnaces, even to the broad wall, and above the gate of ephraim, and above the old gate, and above the fish gate and the tower of hananeel, and the tower of emath, and even to the flock gate: and they stood still in the watch gate. and the two choirs of them that gave praise stood still at the house of god, and i and the half of the magistrates with me. and the priests, eliachim, maasia, miamin, michea, elioenai, zacharia, hanania with trumpets, and maasia, and semeia, and eleazar, and azzai, and johanen, and melchia, and elam, and ezer. and the singers sung loud, and jezraia was their overseer: and they sacrificed on that day great sacrifices, and they rejoiced: for god had made them joyful with great joy: their wives also and their children rejoiced, and the joy of jerusalem was heard afar off. they appointed also in that day men over the storehouses of the treasure, for the libations, and for the firstfruits, and for the tithes, that the rulers of the city might bring them in by them in honour of thanksgiving, for the priests and levites: for juda was joyful in the priests and levites that assisted. and they kept the watch of their god, and the observance of expiation, and the singing men, and the porters, according to the commandment of david, and of solomon his son. for in the days of david and asaph from the beginning there were chief singers appointed, to praise with canticles, and give thanks to god. and all israel, in the days of zorobabel, and in the days of nehemia gave portions to the singing men, and to the porters, day by day, and they sanctified the levites, and the levites sanctified the sons of aaron.

and on that day they read in the book of moyses in the hearing of the people: and therein was found written, that the ammonites and the moabites should not come in to the church of god for ever: because they met not the children of israel with bread and water: and they hired against them balaam, to curse them, and our god turned the curse into blessing. and it came to pass, when they had heard the law, that they separated every stranger from israel. and over this thing was eliasib the priest, who was set over the treasury of the house of our god, and was near akin to tobias. and he made him a great storeroom, where before him they laid up gifts, and frankincense, and vessels, and the tithes of the corn, of the wine, and of the oil, the portions of the levites, and of the singing men, and of the porters, and the firstfruits of the priests. but in all this time i was not in jerusalem, because in the two and thirtieth year of artaxerxes king of babylon, i went to the king, and after certain days i asked the king: and i came to jerusalem, and i understood the evil that eliasib had done for tobias, to make him a storehouse in the courts of the house of god. and it seemed to me exceeding evil. and i cast forth the vessels of the house of tobias out of the storehouse. and i commanded and they cleansed the storehouses: and i brought thither again the vessels of the house of god, the sacrifice, and the frankincense. and i perceived that the portions of the levites had not been given them: and that the levites, and the singing men, and they that ministered were fled away every man to his own country: and i pleaded the matter against the magistrates, and said: why have we forsaken the house of god? and i gathered them together, and i made them to stand in their places. and all juda brought the tithe of the corn, and the wine, and the oil into the storehouses. and we set over the storehouses selemias the priest, and sadoc the scribe, and of the levites phadaia, and next to them hanan the son of zachur, the son of mathania: for they were approved as faithful, and to them were committed the portions of their brethren. remember me, o my god, for this thing, and wipe not out my kindnesses, which i have done relating to the house of my god and his ceremonies. in those days i saw in juda some treading the presses on the sabbath, and carrying sheaves, and lading asses with wine, and grapes, and figs, and all manner of burthens, and bringing them into jerusalem on the sabbath day. and i charged them that they should sell on a day on which it was lawful to sell. some tyrians also dwelt there, who brought fish, and all manner of wares: and they sold them on the sabbaths to the children of juda in jerusalem. and i rebuked the chief men of juda, and said to them: what is this evil thing that you are doing, profaning the sabbath day? did not our fathers do these things, and our god brought all this evil upon us, and upon this city? and you bring more wrath upon israel by violating the sabbath. and it came to pass, that when the gates of jerusalem were at rest on the sabbath day, i spoke: and they shut the gates, and i commanded that they should not open them till after the sabbath: and i set some of my servants at the gates, that none should bring in burthens on the sabbath day. so the merchants, and they that sold all kinds of wares, stayed without jerusalem once or twice. and i charged them, and i said to them: why stay you before the wall? if you do so another time, i will lay hands on you. and from that time they came no more on the sabbath. i spoke also to the levites that they should be purified, and should come to keep the gates, and to sanctify the sabbath day: for this also remember me, o my god, and spare me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies. in those days also i saw jews that married wives, women of azotus, and of ammon, and of moab. and their children spoke half in the speech of azotus, and could not speak the jews' language, but they spoke according to the language of this and that people. and i chid them, and laid my curse upon them. and i beat some of them, and shaved off their hair, and made them swear by god that they would not give their daughters to their sons, nor take their daughters for their sons, nor for themselves, saying: did not solomon king of israel sin in this kind of thing? and surely among many nations, there was not a king like him, and he was beloved of his god, and god made him king over all israel: m and yet women of other countries brought even him to sin. and shall we also be disobedient and do all this great evil to transgress against our god, and marry strange women? and one of the sons of joiada the son of eliasib the high priest, was son in law to sanablat the horonite, and i drove him from me. remember them, o lord my god, that defile the priesthood, and the law of priests and levites. so i separated from them all strangers, and i appointed the courses of the priests and the levites, every man in his ministry: and for the offering of wood at times appointed, and for the firstfruits: remember me, o my god, unto good. amen.

adam, seth, enos, cainan, malaleel, jared, henoc, mathusale, lamech, noe, sem, cham, and japheth. the sons of japheth: gomer, and magog, and madaï, and javan, thubal, mosoch, thiras. and the sons of gomer: ascenez, and riphath, and thogorma. and the sons of javan: elisa and tharsis, cethim and dodanim. the sons of cham: chus, and mesrai, and phut, and chaanan. and the sons of chus: saba, and hevila, sabatha, and regma, and sabathaca. and the sons of regma: saba, and dadan. now chus begot nemrod: he began to be mighty upon earth. but mesraim begot ludim, and ananim, and laabim, and nephtuim, phetrusim also, and casluim: from whom came the philistines, and caphtorim. and chanaan beget sidon his firstborn, and the hethite, and the jebusite, and the amorrhite, and the gergesite, and the hevite, and the aracite, and the sinite, and the aradian, and the samarite, and the hamathite. the sons of sem: elam and asur, and arphaxad, and lud, and aram, and hus, and hul, and gether, and mosoch. and arphaxad beget sale, and sale beget heber. and to heber were born two sons, the name of the one was phaleg, because in his days the earth was divided; and the name of his brother was jectan. and jectan beget elmodad, and saleph, and asarmoth, and jare, and adoram, and usal, and decla, and hebal, and abimael, and saba, and ophir, and hevila, and jobab. all these are the sons of jectan. sem, arphaxad, sale, heber, phaleg, ragau, serug, n-achor, thare, abram, this is abraham. and the sons of abraham, isaac and ismahel. and these are the generations of them. the firstborn of ismahel, nabajoth, then cedar, and adbeel, and mabsam, and masma, and duma, massa, hadad, and thema, jetur, naphis, cedma: these are the sons of ismahel. and the sons of cetura, abraham's concubine, whom she bore: zamran, jecsan, madan, madian, jesboc, and sue. and the sons of jecsan, saba, and dadan. and the sons of dadan: assurim, and latussim, and laomin. and the sons of madian: epha, and epher, and henoah, and abida, and eldaa. all these are the sons of cetura. and abraham beget isaac: and his sons were esau and israel. the sons of esau: eliphaz, rahuel, jehus, ihelom, and core. the sons of eliphaz: theman, omar, sephi, gathan, cenez, and by thamna, amalec. the sons of rahuel: nahath, zara, samma, meza. the sons of seir: lotan. sobal, sebeen, ana, dison, eser, disan. the sons of lotan: hori, homam. and the sister of lotan was thamna. the sons of sobal: alian, and manahath, and ebal, sephi and onam. the sons of sebeon: aia, and ana. the son of ana: dison. the sons of dison: hamram, and eseban, and jethran, and charan. the sons of eser: balaan, and zavan, and jacan. the sons of disan: hus and aran. now these are the kings that reigned in the land of edom, before there was a king over the children of israel: bale the son of beer: and the name of his city was denaba. and bale died, and jobab the son of zare of bosra, reigned in his stead. and when jobab also was dead, husam of the land of the themanites reigned in his stead. and husam also died, and adad the son of badad reigned in his stead, and he defeated the medianites in the land of moab: and the name of his city was avith. and when adad also was dead, semla of masreca reigned in his stead. semla also died, and saul of rohoboth, which is near the river, reigned in his stead. and when saul was dead, balanan the son of achobor reigned in his stead. he also died, and adad reigned in his stead: and the name of his city was phau, and his wife was called meetabel the daughter of matred, the daughter of mezaab. and after the death of adad, there began to be dukes in edom instead of kings: duke thamna, duke alva, duke jetheth, duke oolibama, duke ela, duke phinon, uke cenez, duke theman, duke mabsar, duke magdiel, duke hiram. these are the dukes of edom.

now the sons of ruben the firstborn of israel, (for he was his firstborn: but forasmuch as he defiled his father's bed, his first birthright was given to the sons of joseph the son of israel, and he was not accounted for the firstborn. but of the race of juda, who was the strongest among his brethren, came the princes: but the first birthright was accounted to joseph.) the sons then of ruben the firstborn of israel were enoch, and phallu, esron, and charmi. the sons of joel: samaia his son, gog his son, semei his son, micha his son, reia his son, baal his son, beera his son, whom thelgathphalnasar king of the assyrians carried away captive, and he was prince in the tribe of ruben. and his brethren, and all his kindred, when they were numbered by their families, had for princes jehiel, and zacharias. and bala the son of azaz, the son of samma, the son of joel, dwelt in aroer as far as nebo, and beelmeon. and eastward he had his habitation as far as the entrance of the desert, and the river euphrates. for they possessed a great number of cattle in the land of galaad. and in the days of saul they fought against the agarites, and slew them, and dwelt in their tents in their stead, in all the country, that looketh to the east of galaad. and the children of gad dwelt over against them in the land of basan, as far as selcha: johel the chief, and saphan the second: and janai, and saphat in basan. and their brethren according to the houses of their kindreds, were michael, and mosollam, and sebe, and jorai, and jacan, and zie, and heber, seven. these were the sons of abihail, the son of hurl, the son of jara, the son of galaad, the son of michael, the son of jesis, the son of jeddo, the son of but. and their brethren the sons of abdiel, the son of guni, chief of the house in their families, and they dwelt in galaad, and in basan and in the towns thereof, and in all the suburbs of saron, unto the borders. all these were numbered in the days of joathan king of juda, and in the days of jeroboam king of israel. the sons of ruben, and of gad, and of the half tribe of manasses, fighting men, bearing shields, and swords, and bending the bow, and trained up to battles, four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore that went out to war. they fought against the agarites: but the itureans, and naphis, and nodab, gave them help. and the agarites were delivered into their hands, and all that were with them, because they called upon god in the battle: and he heard them, because they had put their faith in him. and they took all that they possessed, of camels fifty thousand, and of sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and of asses two thousand, and of men a hundred thousand souls. and many fell down slain: for it was the battle of the lord. and they dwelt in their stead till the captivity. and the children of the half tribe of manasses possessed the land, from the borders of basan unto baal, hermon, and sanir, and mount hermon, for their number was great. and these were the heads of the house of their kindred, epher, and jesi, and eliel, and esriel, and jeremia, and odoia, and jediel, most valiant and powerful men, and famous chiefs in their families. but they forsook the god of their fathers, and went astray after the gods of the people of the land, whom god destroyed before them. and the god of israel stirred up the spirit of phul king of the assyrians, and the spirit of thelgathphalnasar king of assur: and he carried away ruben, and gad, and the half tribe of manasses, and brought them to lahela, and to habor, and to ara, and to the river of gozan, unto this day.

now benjamin beget bale his firstborn, asbel the second, ahara the third, nohaa the fourth, and rapha the fifth. and the sons of bale were addar, and gera, and abiud, and abisue, and naamar, and ahoe, and gera, and sephuphan, and huram. these are the sons of ahod, heads of families that dwelt in gabaa, who were removed into mrtnahsth. and naaman, and achia, and gera he removed them, and beget oza, and ahuiud. and saharim begot in the land of moab, after he sent away husim and bara his wives. and he beget of hodes his wife jobab, and sebia, and mesa, and molchom, and jehus and sechia, and marma. these were his sons heads of their families. and mehusim beget abitob, and elphaal. and the sons of elphaal were heber, and misaam, and samad: who built one, and led, and its daughters. and baria, and sama were heads of their kindreds that dwelt in aialon: these drove away the inhabitants of geth. and ahio, and sesac, and jerimoth, and zabadia, and arod, and heder, and michael, and jespha, and joha, the sons of baria. and zabadia, and mosollam, and hezeci, and heber, and jesamari, and jezlia, and jobab, sons of elphaal, and jacim, and zechri, and zabdi, and elioenai, and selethai, and elial, and adaia, and baraia, and samareth, the sons of semei. and jespham, and heber, and eliel, and abdon, and zechri, and hanan, and hanania, and elam, and anathothia. and jephdaia, and phanuel the sons of sesac. and samsari, and sohoria and otholia, and jersia, and elia, and zechri, the sons of jeroham. these were the chief fathers, and heads of their families who dwelt in jerusalem. and at gabaon dwelt abigabaon, and the name of his wife was maacha: and his firstborn son abdon, and sur, and cia, and baal, and nadab, and gedor, and ahio, and zacher, and macelloth: and macelloth beget samaa: and they dwelt over against their brethren in jerusalem with their brethren. and ner beget cia, and cia beget saul. and saul begot jonathan and melchisua, and abinadab, and esbaal. and the son of jonathan was meribbaal: and meribbaal begot micha. and the sons of micha were phithon, and melech, and tharaa, and ahaz. and ahaz beget joda: and joda beget alamath, and azmoth, and zamri: and zamri beget mesa, and mesa beget banaa, whose son was rapha, of whom was born elasa, who beget asel. and asel had six sons whose names were ezricam, bochrú, ismahel, saria, obdia, and hanan. all these were the sons of asel. and the sons of esec, his brother, were ulam the firstborn, and jehus the second, and eliphelet the third. and the sons of ulam were most valiant men, and archers of great strength: and they had many sons and grandsons, even to a hundred and fifty. all these were children of benjamin.

and all israel was numbered: and the sum of them was written in the book of the kings of israel, and juda: and they were carried away to babylon for their transgression. now the first that dwelt in their possessions, and in their cities, were the israelites, and the priests, and the levites, and the nathineans. and in jerusalem dwelt of the children of juda, and of the children of benjamin, and of the children of ephraim, and of manasses. othei the son of ammiud, the son of amri, the son of omrai, the son of bonni, of the sons of phares the son of juda. and of siloni: asaia the firstborn, and his sons. and of the sons of zara: jehuel, and their brethren, six hundred and ninety. and of the sons of benjamin: sale the son of mosollam, the son of oduia, the son of asana: and jobania the son of jeroham: and ela the son of ozi, the son of mochori: and mosallam the son of saphatias, the son of rahuel, the son of jebania: and their brethren by their families, nine hundred and fifty-six. all these were heads of their families, by the houses of their fathers. and of the priests: jedaia, joiarib, and jachin: and azarias the son of helcias, the son of mosollam, the son of sadoc, the son of maraioth, the son of achitob, high priest of the house of god. and adaias the son of jeroham, the son of phassur, the son of melchias, and maasai the son of adiel, the son of jezra, the son of mosollam, the son of mosollamith, the son of emmer. and their brethren heads in their families re thousand seven hundred and threescore, very strong and able men for the work of the ministry in the house of god. and of the levites: semeia the son of hassub the son of ezricam, the son of hasebia of the sons of merari. and bacbacar the carpenter, and galal, and mathania the son of micha, the son of zechri the son of asaph: and obdia the son of semeia, the son of galal, the son of idithum: and barachia the son of asa, the son of elcana, who dwelt in the suburbs of netophati. and the porters were sellum, and accub, and telmon, and ahiman: and their brother sellum was the prince, until that time, in the king's gate eastward, the sons of levi waited by their turns. but sellum the son of core, the son of abiasaph, the son of core, with his brethren and his father's house, the corites were over the works of the service, keepers of the gates of the tabernacle: and their families in turns were keepers of the entrance of the camp of the lord. and phinees the son of eleazar, was their prince before the lord, and zacharias the son of mosollamia, was porter of the gate of the tabernacle of the testimony: all these that were chosen to be porters at the gates, were two hundred and twelve: and they mere registered in their proper towns: whom david and samuel the seer appointed in their trust. as well them as their sons, to keep the gates of the house of the lord, and the tabernacle by their turns. in four quarters were the porters: that is to say, toward the east, and west, and north, and south. and their brethren dwelt in villages, and came upon their sabbath days from time to time. to these four levites were committed the whole number of the porters, and they were over the chambers, and treasures, of the house of the lord. and they abode in their watches round about the temple of the lord: that when it was time, they might open the gates in the morning. and some of their stock had the charge of the vessels for the ministry: for the vessels were both brought in and carried out by number. some of them also had the instruments of the sanctuary committed unto them, and the charge of the fine flour, and wine, and oil, and frankincense, and spices. and the sons of the priests made the ointments of the spices. and mathathias a levite, the firstborn of sellum the corite, was overseer of such things as were fried in the fryingpan. and some of the sons of caath their brethren, were over the leaves of proposition, to prepare always new for every sabbath. these are the chief of the singing men of the families of the levites, who dwelt in the chambers, by the temple, that they might serve continually day and night in their ministry. the heads of the levites, princes in their families, abode in jerusalem. and in gabaon dwelt jehiel the father of gabaon, and the name of hill wife was maacha: his firstborn son abdon, and sur, and cis, and baal, and ner, and nadab, gedor also, and ahio, and zacharias, and macelloth. and macelloth beget samaan: these dwelt over against their brethren in jerusalem, with their brethren. now ner beget cia: and cis begot saul: and saul beget jonathan and melchisua, and abinadab, and esbaal. and the son of jonathan, was meribbaal: and meribbaal beget micha. and the sons of micha, were phithon, and melech, and tharaa, and ahaz. and ahaz beget jara, and jara beget alamath, and azmoth, and zamri. and zamri beget mesa. and mesa beget banaa: whose son raphaia beget elasa: of whom was born asel. and heel had six sons whose names are, ezricam, bochrú, ismahel, saria, obdia, hanan: these are the sons of asel.

now the philistines fought against israel, and the men of israel fled from before the philistines, and fell down wounded in mount gelboe. and the philistines drew near pursuing after saul, and his sons, and they killed jonathan, and abinadab, and melchisua the sons of saul. and the battle grew hard against saul, and the archers reached him, and wounded him with arrows. and saul said to his armourbearer: draw thy sword, and kill me: lest these uncircumcised come, and mock me. but his armourbearer would not, for he was struck with fear: so saul took his sword, and fell upon it. and when his armourbearer saw it, to wit, that saul was dead, he also fell upon his sword and died. so saul died, and his three sons, and all his house fell together. and when the men of israel, that dwelt in the plains, saw this, they fled: and saul and his sons being dead, they forsook their cities, and were scattered up and down: and the philistines came, and dwelt in them. and the next day the philistines taking away the spoils of them that were slain, found saul and his sons lying on mount gelboe. and when they had stripped him, and cut off his head, and taken away his armour, they sent it into their land, to be carried about, and shewn in the temples of the idols and to the people. and his armour they dedicated in the temple of their god, and his head they fastened up in the temple of dagon. and when the men of jabes galaad had heard this, to wit, all that the philistines had done to saul, all the valiant men of them arose, and took the bodies of saul and of his sons, and brought them to jabes, and buried their bones under the oak that was in jabes, and they fasted seven days. so saul died for his iniquities, because he transgressed the commandment of the lord, which he had commanded, and kept it not: and moreover consulted also a witch, and trusted not is the lord: therefore he slew him, and transferred his kingdom to david the son of isai.

then all israel gathered themselves to david in hebron, saying: we are thy bone, and thy flesh. yesterday also, and the day before when saul was king, thou wast he that leddest out and broughtest in israel: for the lord thy god said to thee: thou shalt feed my people israel, and thou shalt; be ruler over them. so all the ancients of israel came to the king to hebron, and david made a covenant with them before the lord: and they anointed him king over israel, according to the word of the lord which he spoke in the hand of samuel. and david and all israel went to jerusalem, which is jebus, where the jebusites were the inhabitants of the land. and the inhabitants of jebus said to david: thou shalt not come in here. but david took the castle of sion, which is the city of david. and he said: whosoever shall first strike the jebusites, shall be the head and chief captain. and joab the son of sarvia went up first, and was made the general. and david dwelt in the castle, and therefore it was called the city of david. and he built the city round about from mello all round, and joab built the rest of the city. and david went on growing and increasing, and the lord of hosts was with him. these are the chief of the valiant men of david, who helped him to be made king over all israel, according to the word of the lord, which he spoke to israel. and this is the number of the heroes of david: jesbaam the son of hachamoni the chief among the thirty: he lifted up his spear against three hundred wounded by him at one time. and after him was eleazar his uncle's son the ahohite, who was one of the three mighties. he was with david in phesdomim, when the philistines

were gathered to that place to battle: and the field of that country was full of barley, and the people fled from before the philistines. but these men stood in the midst of the field, and defended it: and they slew the philistines, and the lord gave a great deliverance to his people. and three of the thirty captains went down to the rock, wherein david was, to the cave of odollam, when the philistines encamped in the valley of raphaim. and david was in a hold, and the garrison of the philistines in bethlehem. and david longed, and said: o that some man would give me water of the cistern of bethlehem, which is in the gate. and these three broke through the midst of the camp of the philistines, and drew water out of the cistern of bethlehem, which was in the gate, and brought it to david to drink: and he would not drink of it, but rather offered it to the lord, saying: god forbid that i should do this in the sight of my god, and should drink the blood of these men: for with the danger of their lives they have brought me the water. and therefore he would not drink. these things did the three most valiant. and abisai the brother of joab, he was chief of three, and he lifted up his spear against three hundred whom he slew, and he was renowned among the three, and illustrious among the second three, and their captain: but yet he attained not to the first three. banaias the son of joiada, a most valiant man, of cabseel, who had done many acts: he slew the two ariels of moab: and he went down, and killed a lion in the midst of a pit in the time of snow. and he slew an egyptian, whose stature was of five cubits, and who had a spear like a weaver's beam: and he went down to him with a staff, and plucked away the spear, that he held in his hand, and slew him with his own spear. these things did banaias the son of joiada, who was renowned among the three valiant ones, and the first among the thirty, but yet to the three he attained not: and david made him of his council. moreover the most valiant men of the army, were asahel brother of joab, and elchanan the son of his uncle of bethlehem, sammoth an arorite, helles a phalonite, ira the son of acces a tecuite, abiezar an anathothite, sobbochai a husathite, ilai an ahohite, maharai a netophathite, heled the son of baana a netophathite, ethai the son of ribai of gabaath of the sons of benjamin, banal a pharathonite, hurai of the torrent gas, abiel an arbathite, azmoth a bauramite, eliaba a salabonite, the sons of assem a, gezonite, jonathan the son of sage an ararite, ahiam the son of sachar an ararite, eliphail the son of ur, hepher a mecherathite, ahia a phelonite, hesro a carmelite, naarai the son of azbai, joel the brother of nathan, mibahar the son of agarai. selec an ammonite, naharai a berothite, the armourbearer of joab the son of sarvia. ira a jethrite, gareb a jethrite, rias a hethite, zabad the son of oholi, adina the son of siza a rubenite the prince of the rubenites, and thirty with him: hanan the son of maacha, and josaphat a mathanite, ozia an astarothite, samma, and jehiel the sons of hotham an arorite, jedihel the son of zamri, and jobs his brother a thosaite, eliel a mithumite, and jeribai, and josaia the sons of elnaim, and jethma a moabite, eliel, and obed, and jasiel of masobia.

now these are they that came to david to siceleg, while he yet fled from saul the son of cia, and they were most valiant and excellent warriors, bending the bow, and using either hand in hurling stones with slings, and shooting arrows: of the brethren of saul of benjamin. the chief was ahiezer, and joas, the sons of samaa of gabaath, and jaziel, and phallet the sons of azmoth, and beracha, and jehu an anathothite. and samaia of gabaon, the stoutest amongst the thirty and over the thirty; jeremias, and jeheziel, and johanen, and jezabad of gaderoth; and eluzai, and jerimuth, and baalia, and samaria, and saphatia the haruphite; elcana, and jesia, and azareel, and joezer, and jesbaam of carehim: and joela, and zabadia the sons of jeroham of gedor. from gaddi also there went over to david, when he lay hid in the wilderness most valiant men, and excellent warriors, holding shield and spear: whose faces were like the faces of a lion, and they were swift like the roebucks on the mountains. ezer the chief, obdias the second, eliab the third, masmana the fourth, jeremias the fifth. ethi the sixth, eliel the seventh, johanen the eighth, elzebad the ninth, jerenias the tenth, machbani the eleventh, these were of the sons of gad, captains of the army: the least of them was captain over a hundred soldiers, and the greatest over a thousand. these are they who passed over the jordan in the first month, when it is used to how over its banks: and they put to flight all that dwelt in the valleys both toward the east and toward the west. and there came also of the men of benjamin, and of juda to the hold, in which david abode. and david went out to meet them, and said: if you are come peaceably to me to help me, let my heart be joined to you: but if you plot against me for my enemies whereas i have no iniquity in my hands, let the god of our fathers see, and judge. but the spirit came upon amasai the chief among thirty, and he said: we are thine, o david, and for thee, o son of isai: peace, peace be to thee, and peace to thy helpers. for thy god helpeth thee. so david received them, and made them captains of the band. and there were some of manasses that went over to david, when he came with the philistines against saul to fight: but he did not fight with them: because the lords of the philistines taking counsel sent him back, saying: with the danger of our heads he will return to his master saul. so when he went back to siceleg, m there fled to him of manasses, ednas and jozabad, and jedihel, and michael, and ednas, and jozabad, and eliu, and salathi, captains of thousands in manasses. these helped david against the rovers: for they were all most valiant men, and were made commanders in the army. moreover day by day there came some to david to help him till they became a great number, like the army of god. and this is the number of the chiefs of the army who came to david, when he was in hebron, to transfer to him the kingdom of saul, according to the word of the lord. the sons of juda bearing shield and spear, six thousand eight hundred well appointed to war. of the sons of simeon valiant men for war, seven thousand one hundred. of the sons of levi, four thousand six hundred. and joiada prince of the race of aaron, and with him three thousand seven hundred. sadoc also a young man of excellent disposition, and the house of his father, twenty-two principal men. and of the sons of benjamin the brethren of saul, three thousand: for hitherto a great part of them followed the house of saul. and of the sons of ephraim twenty thousand eight hundred, men of great valour renowned in their kindreds. and of the half tribe of manasses, eighteen thousand, every one by their names, came to make david king. also of the sons of issachar men of understanding, that knew all times to order what israel should do, two hundred principal men: and all the rest of the tribe followed their counsel. and of zabulon such as went forth to battle, and stood in array well appointed with armour for war, there came fifty thousand to his aid, with no double heart. and of nephtali, a thousand leaders: and with them seven and thirty thousand, furnished with shield and spear. of dan also twenty-eight thousand six hundred prepared for battle. and of aser forty thousand going forth to fight, and challenging in battle. and on the other side of the jordan of the sons of ruben, and of gad, and of the half of the tribe of manasses a hundred and twenty thousand, furnished with arms for war. all these men of war well appointed to fight, came with a perfect heart to hebron, to make david king over all israel: and all the rest also of israel, were of one heart to make david king. and they were there with david three days eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them. moreover they that were near them even as far as issachar, and zabulon, and nephtali, brought leaves on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, to eat: meal, figs, raisins, wine, oil, and oxen, and sheep in abundance, for there was joy in israel.

and david consulted with the captains of thousands, and of hundreds, and with all the commanders. and he said to all the assembly of israel: if it please you; and if the words which i speak come from the lord our god, let us send to the rest of our brethren into all the countries of israel, and to the priests, and the levites, that dwell in the suburbs of the cities, to gather themselves to us, and let us bring again the ark of our god to us: for we sought it not in the days of saul. and all the multitude answered that it should be so: for the word pleased all the people. so david assembled all israel from sihor of egypt, even to the entering into emath, to bring the ark of god from cariathiarim. and david went up with all the men of israel to the hill of cariathiarim which is in juda, to bring thence the ark of the lord god sitting upon the cherubims, where his name is called upon. and they carried the ark of god upon a new cart, out of the house of abinadab. and oza and his brother drove the cart. and david and all israel played before god with all their might with hymns, and with harps, and with psalteries, and timbrels, and cymbals, and trumpets, and when they came to the floor of chidon, oza put forth his hand, to hold up the ark: for the ox being wanton had made it lean a little on one side. and the lord was angry with oza, and struck him, because he had touched the ark; and he died there before the lord. and david was troubled because the lord had divided oza: and he called that place the breach of oza to this day. and he feared god at that time, saying: how can i bring in the ark of god to me? and therefore he brought it not home to himself, that is, into the city of david, but carried it aside into the house of obededom the gethite. and the ark of god remained in the house of obededom three months: and the lord blessed his house, and all that he had.

and hiram king of tyre sent messengers to david, and cedar trees, and masons, and carpenters, to build him a house. and david perceived that the lord had confirmed him king over israel, and that his kingdom was exalted over his people israel. and david took other wives in jerusalem: and he beget sons, and daughters. now these are the names of them that were born to him in jerusalem: samua, and sobad, nathan, and solomon, jebahar, and elisua, and eliphalet, and noga, and napheg, and japhia, elisama. and baaliada, and eliphalet. and the philistines hearing that david was anointed king over all israel, went all up to seek him: and david heard of it, and went out against them. and the philistines came and spread themselves in the vale of raphaim. and david consulted the lord, saying: shall i go up against the philistines, and wilt thou deliver them into my hand? and the lord said to him: go up, and i will deliver them into thy hand. and when they were come to baalpharasim, david defeated them there, and he said: god hath divided my enemies by my hand, as waters are divided: and therefore the name of that place was called baalpharasim. and they left there their gods, and david commanded that they should be burnt. another time also the philistines made an irruption, and spread themselves abroad in the valley. and david consulted god again, and god said to him: go not up after them, turn away from them, and come upon them over against the pear trees. and when thou shalt hear the sound of one going in the tops of the pear trees, then shalt thou go out to battle. for god is gone out before thee to strike the army of the philistines. and david did as god had commanded him, and defeated the army of the philistines, slaying them from gabaon to gazera. and the name of david became famous in all countries, and the lord made all nations fear him.

he made also houses for himself in the city of david: and built a place for the ark of god, and pitched a tabernacle for it. then david said: no one ought to carry the ark of god, but the levites, whom the lord hath chosen to carry it, and to minister unto himself for ever. and he gathered all israel together into jerusalem, that the ark of god might be brought into its place, which he had prepared for it. and the sons of aaron also, and the levites. of the children of caath, uriel was the chief, and his brethren a hundred and twenty. of the sons of merari, asaia the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty. of the sons of gersom, joel the chief, and his brethren a hundred and thirty. of the sons of elisaphan, semeias the chief: and his brethren two hundred. of the sons of hebron, eliel the chief: and his brethren eighty. of the sons of ozziel, aminadab the chief: and his brethren a hundred and twelve. and david called sadoc, and abiathar the priests, and the levites, uriel, asaia, joel, semeia, eliel, and aminadab: and he said to them: you that are the heads of the levitical families, be sanctified with your brethren, and brine the ark of the lord the god of israel to the place, which is prepared for it: lest as the lord at first struck us, because you were not present, the same should now also come to pass, by our doing some thing against the law. so the priests and the levites were sanctified, to carry the ark of the lord the god of israel. and the sons of levi took the ark of god as moyses had commanded, according to the word of the lord, upon their shoulders, with the staves. and david spoke to the chiefs of the levites, to appoint some of their brethren to be singers with musical instruments, to wit, on psalteries, and harps, and cymbals, that the joyful noise might resound on high. and they appointed levites, hemam the son of joel, and of his brethren asaph the son of barachias: and of the sons of merari, their brethren: ethan the son of casaia. and with them their brethren: in the second rank, zacharias, and ben, and jaziel, and semiramoth, and jahiel, and ani, and eliab, and banaias, and maasias, and mathathias, and eliphalu, and mace-nias, and obededom, and jehiel, the porters. now the singers, heman, asaph, and ethan, sounded with cymbals of brass. and zacharias, and ozziel, and semiramoth, and jehiel, and ani, and eliab, and maasias, and banaias, sung mysteries upon psalteries. and mathathias, and eliphalu, and macenias and obedom, and jehiel and ozaziu, sung a song of victory for the octave upon harps. and chonenias chief of the levites, presided over the prophecy, to give out the tunes: for he was very skilful. and barachias, and elcana, were doorkeepers of the ark. and sebenias, and josaphat, and nathanael, and amasai, and zacharias, and banaias, and eliezer the priests, sounded with trumpets, before the ark of god: and obededom and jehias were porters of the ark. so david and all the ancients of israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring the ark of the covenant of the lord out of the house of obededom with joy. and when god had helped the levites who carried the ark of the covenant of the lord, they offered in sacrifice seven oxen, and seven rams. and david was clothed with a robe of fine linen, and all the levites that carried the ark, and the singing men, and chonenias the ruler of the prophecy among the singers: and david also had on him an ephod of linen. and all israel brought the ark of the covenant of the lord with joyful shouting, and sounding with the sound of the comet, and with trumpets, and cymbals, and psalteries, and harps. and when the ark of the covenant of the lord was come to the city of david, michol the daughter of saul looking out at a window, saw king david dancing and playing, and she despised him in her heart.

so they brought the ark of god, and set it in the midst of the tent, which david had pitched for it : and they offered holocausts, and peace offerings before god. and when david had made an end of offering holocausts, and peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the lord. and he divided to all and every one, both men and women, a loaf of bread, and a piece of roasted beef, and flour fried with oil. and he appointed levites to minister before the ark of the lord, and to remember his works, and to glorify, and praise the lord god of israel. asaph the chief, and next after him zacharias: moreover jahiel, and semiramoth, and jehiel, and mathathias, and eliab, and banaias, and obededom: and jehiel over the instruments of psalter, and harps: and asaph sounded with cymbals: but banaias, and jaziel the priests, to sound the trumpet continually before the ark of the covenant of the lord. in that day david made asaph the chief to give praise to the lord with his brethren. praise ye the lord, and call upon his name: make known his doings among the nations. sing to him, yea, sing praises to him: and relate all his wondrous works. praise ye his holy name: let the heart i of them rejoice, that seek the lord. seek ye the lord, and his power: seek ye his face evermore. remember his wonderful works, which he hath done: his signs, and the judgments of his mouth. o ye seed of israel his servants, ye children of jacob his chosen. he is the lord our god: his judgments are in all the earth. remember for ever his covenant: the word, which he commanded to a thousand generations. the covenant which he made with abraham: and his oath to isaac. and he appointed the same to jacob for a precept: and to israel for an everlasting covenant: saying: to thee will i give the land of chanaan: the lot of your inheritance. when they were but a small number: very few and sojourners in it. and they passed from nation to nation: and from a kingdom to another people. he suffered no man to do them wrong: and reprov'd kings for their sake. touch not my anointed: and do no evil to my prophets. sing ye to the lord, all the earth: shew forth from day to day his salvation. declare his glory among the gentiles: his wonders among all people. for the lord is great and exceedingly to be praised: and he is to be feared above all gods. for all the gods of the nations are idols: but the lord made the heavens. praise and magnificence are before him: strength and joy in his place. bring ye to the lord, o ye families of the nations: bring ye to the lord glory and empire. give to the lord glory to his name, bring up sacrifice, and come ye in his sight: and adore the lord in holy becomingness. let all the earth be moved at his presence : for he hath founded the world immoveable. let the heavens rejoice, and the earth be glad: and let them say among the nations: the lord hath reigned. let the sea roar, and the fulness thereof: let the fields rejoice, and all things that are in them. then shall the trees of the wood give praise before the lord: because he is come to judge the earth. give ye glory to the lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. and say ye: save us, o god our saviour: and gather us together, and deliver us from the nations, that we may give glory to thy holy name, and may rejoice in singing thy praises. blessed be the lord the god of israel from eternity to eternity: and let all the people say amen, and a hymn to god. so he left there before the ark of the covenant of the lord, asaph and his brethren to minister in the presence of the ark continually day by day, and in their courses. and obededom, with his brethren sixty-eight: and obededom the son of idithun, and hosa he appointed to be porters. and sadoc the priest, and his brethren priests, before the tabernacle of the lord in the high place, which was in gabaon. that they should offer holocausts to the lord upon the altar of holocausts continually, morning and evening, according to all that is written in the law of the lord, which he commanded israel. and after him heman, and idithun, and the rest that were chosen, every one by his name to give praise to the lord: because his mercy endureth for ever. and heman and idithun sounded the trumpet, and played on the cymbals, and all kinds of musical instruments to sing praises to god: and the sons of idithun he made porters. and all the people returned to their houses: and david to bless also his own house.

now when david was dwelling in his house, he said to nathan the prophet: behold i dwell in a house of cedar : and the ark of the covenant of the lord is under skins. and nathan said to david: do all that is in thy heart: for god is with thee. now that night the word of god came to nathan, saying: go, and speak to david my servant: thus saith the lord: thou shalt not build me a house to dwell in. for i have not remained in a house from the time that i brought up israel, to this day: but i have been always changing places in a tabernacle, and in a tent, abiding with all israel. did i ever speak to any one, of all the judges of israel, whom i charged to feed my people, saying: why have you not built me a house of cedar? now therefore thus shalt thou say to my servant david: thus saith the lord of hosts: i took thee from the pastures, from following the flock, that thou shouldst be ruler of my people israel. and i have been with thee whithersoever thou hast gone: and have slain all thy enemies before thee, and have made thee a name like that of one of the great ones that are renowned in the earth. and i have given a place to my people israel: they shall be planted, and shall dwell therein, and shall be moved no more, neither shall the children of iniquity waste them, as at the beginning, since the days that i gave judges to my people israel, and have humbled all thy enemies. and i declare to thee, that the lord will build thee a house. and when thou shalt have ended thy days to go to thy fathers, i will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons: and i will establish his kingdom. he shall build me a house, and i will establish his throne for ever. i will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son: and i will not take my mercy away from him, as i took it from him that was before thee. but i will settle him in my house, and in my kingdom for ever: and his throne shall be most firm for ever. according to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did nathan speak to david. and king david came and sat before the lord, and said: who am i, o lord god, and what is my house, that thou shouldst give such things to me? but even this hath seemed little in thy sight, and therefore thou hast also spoken concerning the house of thy servant for the time to come: and best made me remarkable above all men, o lord god. what can david add more, seeing thou hast thus glorified thy servant, and known him? o lord, for thy servant's sake, according to thy own heart, thou hast shewn all this magnificence, and wouldst have all the great things to be known. o lord there is none like thee: and there is no other god beside thee, of all whom we have heard of with our ears. for what other nation is there upon earth like thy people israel, whom god went to deliver, and make a people for himself, and by his greatness and terrors cast out nations before their face whom he had delivered out of egypt? and thou hast made thy people israel to be thy own people for ever, and thou, o lord, art become their god. now therefore, o lord, let the word which thou hast spoken to thy servant, and concerning his house, be established for ever, and do as thou hast said. and let thy name remain and be magnified for ever: and let it be said: the lord of hosts is god of israel, and the house of david his servant remaineth before him. for thou, o lord my god, hast revealed to the ear of thy servant, that thou wilt build him a house: and therefore thy servant hath found confidence to pray before thee. and now o lord, thou art god: and thou hast promised to thy servant such great benefits. and thou hast begun to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be always before thee: for seeing thou blessest it, o lord, it shall be blessed for ever.

and it came to pass after this, that david defeated the philistines, and humbled them, and took away geth, and her daughters out of the hands of the philistines, and he defeated moab, and the moabites were made david's servants, and brought him gifts. at that time david defeated also adarezer king of soba of the land of hemath, when he went to extend his dominions as far as the river euphrates. and david took from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen, and he houghed all the chariot horses, only a hundred chariots, which he reserved for himself. and the syrians of damascus came also to help adarezer king of soba: and david slew of them likewise two and twenty thousand men. and he put a garrison in damascus, that syria also should serve him, and bring gifts. and the lord assisted him in all things to which he went. and david took the golden quivers which the servants of adarezer had, and he brought them to jerusalem. likewise out of thebath and chun, cities of adarezer, he brought very much brass, of which solomon made the brazen sea, and the pillars, and the vessels of brass. now when thou king of hemath heard that david had defeated all the army of adarezer king of soba, he sent adoram his son to king david, to desire peace of him, and to congratulate him that he had defeated and overthrown adarezer: for thou was an enemy to adarezer. and all the vessels of gold, and silver, and brass king david consecrated to the lord, with the silver and gold which he had taken from all the nations, as well from edom, and from moab, and from the sons of ammon, as from the philistines, and from amalec. and abisai the son of sarvia slew of the edomites in the vale of the saltpits, eighteen thousand: and he put a garrison in edom, that edom should serve david: and the lord preserved david in all things to which he went. so david reigned over all israel, and executed judgment and justice among all his people. and joab the son of sarvia was over the army, and josaphat the son of ahilud recorder. and sadoc the son of achitob, and achimelech the son of abiathar, were the priests: and susa, scribe. and banaias the son of joiada was over the bands of the cerethi, and the phelethi: and the sons of david were chief about the king.

now it came to pass that naas the king of the children of ammon died, and his son reigned in his stead. and david said: i will shew kindness to hanon the son of naas: for his father did a favour to me. and david sent messengers to comfort him upon the death of his father. but when they were come into the land of the children of ammon, to comfort hanon, the princes of the children of ammon said to hanon: thou thinkest perhaps that david to do honour to thy father hath sent comforters to thee: and thou dost not take notice, that his servants are come to thee to consider, and search, and spy out thy land. wherefore hanon shaved the heads and beards of the servants of david, and cut away their garments from the buttocks to the feet, and sent them away. and when they were gone, they sent word to david, who sent to meet them (for they had suffered a great affront) and ordered them to stay at jericho till their beards grew and then to return. and when the children of ammon saw that they had done an injury to david, hanon and the rest of the people sent a thousand talents of silver, to hire them chariots and horsemen out of mesopotamia, and out of syria maacha, and out of soba. and they hired two and thirty thousand chariots, and the king of maacha, with his people. and they came and camped over against medaba. and the children of ammon gathered themselves together out of their cities, and came to battle. and when david heard of it, he sent joab, and all the army of valiant men: and the children of ammon came out and put their army in array before the gate of the city: and the kings, that were come to their aid, stood apart in the field. wherefore joab understanding that the battle was set against him before and behind, chose out the bravest men of all israel, and marched against the syrians, and the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of abisai his brother, and they went against the children of ammon. and he said: if the syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of ammon be too strong for thee, i will help thee. be of good courage and let us behave ourselves manfully for our people, and for the cities of our god: and the lord will do that which is good in his sight. so joab and the people that were with him, went against the syrians to the battle : and he put them to flight. and the children of ammon seeing that the syrians were fled, they likewise fled from abisai his brother, and went into the city: and joab also returned to jerusalem. but the syrians seeing that they had fallen before israel, sent messengers, and brought to them the syrians that were beyond the river: and sophach, general of the army of adarezer, was their leader. and it was told david, and he gathered together all israel, and passed the jordan, and came upon them, and put his army in array against them, and they fought with him. but the syrian fled before israel: and david slew of the syrians seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand footmen, and sophach the general of the army. and when the servants of adarezer saw themselves overcome by israel, they went over to david, and served him: and syria would not help the children of ammon any more.

and it came to pass after the course of a year, at the time that kings go out to battle, joab gathered together an army and the strength of the troops, and wasted the land of the children of ammon: and went and besieged rabba. but david stayed at jerusalem, when joab smote rabba, and destroyed it. and david took the crown of melchom from his head, and found in it a talent weight of gold, and most precious stones, and he made himself a diadem of it: he took also the spoils of the city which were very great. and the people that were therein he brought out: and made harrows, and sleds, and chariots of iron to go over them, so that they were cut and bruised to pieces: in this manner david dealt with all the cities of the children of ammon : and he returned with alibis people to jerusalem. after this there arose a war at gazer against the philistines: in which sabachai the husathite slew saphai of the race of raphaim, and humbled them. another battle also was fought against the philistines, in which adeodatus the son of saltus a bethlehemite slew the brother of goliath the gethite, the staff of whose spear was like a weaver's beam. there was another battle also in geth, in which there was a man of great stature, whose fingers and toes were four and twenty, six on each hand and foot: who also was born of the stock of rapha. he reviled israel: but jonathan the son of samaa the brother of david slew him. these were the sons of rapha in geth, who fell by the hand of david and his servants.

and satan rose up against israel: and moved david to number israel. and david said to joab, and to the rulers of the people: go, and number israel from

bersabee even to dan, and bring me the number of them that i may know it. and joab answered: the lord make his people a hundred times more than they are : but, my lord the king, are they not all thy servants: why doth my lord seek this thing, which may be imputed as a sin to israel? but the king's word rather prevailed: and joab departed, and went through all israel: and returned to jerusalem. and he gave david the number of them, whom he had surveyed: and all the number of israel was found to be eleven hundred thousand men that drew the sword: and of juda four hundred and seventy thousand fighting men. but levi and benjamin he did not number: for joab unwillingly executed the king's orders. and god was displeased with this thing that was commanded: and he struck israel. and david said to god: i have sinned exceedingly in doing this: i beseech thee take away the iniquity of thy servant, for i have done foolishly. and the lord spoke to gad the seer of david, saying: go, and speak to david, and tell him: thus saith the lord: i give thee the choice of three things: choose one which thou wilt, and i will do it to thee. and when gad was come to david, he said to him: thus saith the lord: choose which thou wilt: either three years' famine: or three months to flee from thy enemies, and not to be able to escape their sword: or three days to have the sword of the lord, and pestilence in the land, and the angel of the lord destroying in all the coasts of israel: now therefore see what i shall answer him who sent me. and david said to gad: i am on every side in a great strait: but it is better for me to fall into the hands of the lord, for his mercies are many, than into the hands of men. so the lord sent a pestilence upon israel. and there fell of israel seventy thousand men. and he sent an angel to jerusalem, to strike it: and as he was striking it, the lord beheld, and took pity for the greatness of the evil: and said to the angel that destroyed: it is enough, now stop thy hand. and the angel of the lord stood by the thrashing floor of ornan the jebusite. and david lifting up his eyes, saw the angel of the lord standing between heaven and earth, with a drawn sword in his hand, turned against jerusalem: and both he and the ancients clothed in haircloth, fell down flat on the ground. and david said to god: am not i he that commanded the people to be numbered? it is i that have sinned: it is i that have done the evil: but as for this flock, what hath it deserved? o lord my god, let thy hand be turned, i beseech thee, upon me, and upon my father's house: and let not thy people be destroyed. and the angel of the lord commanded gad to tell david, to go up, and build an altar to the lord god in the thrashingfloor of ornan the jebusite. and david went up, according to the word of gad, which he spoke to him in the name of the lord. now when ornan looked up, and saw the angel, he and his four sons hid themselves: for at that time he was thrashing wheat in the floor. and as david was coming to ornan, ornan saw him, and went out of the thrashingfloor to meet him, and bowed down to him with his face to the ground. and david said to him: give me this place of thy thrashingfloor, that i may build therein an altar to the lord: but thou shalt take of me as much money as it is worth, that the plague may cease from the people. and ornan said to david: take it, and let my lord the king do all that pleaseth him: and moreover the oxen also i give for a holocaust, and the drays for wood, and the wheat for the sacrifice: i will give it all willingly. and king david said to him: it shall not be so, but i will give thee money as much as it is worth: for i must not take it from thee, and so offer to the lord holocausts free cost. so david gave to ornan for the place, six hundred sides of gold of just weight. and he built there an altar to the lord: and he offered holocausts, and peace offerings, and he called upon the lord, and he heard him by sending are from heaven upon the altar of the holocaust. and the lord commanded the angel: and he put up his sword again into the sheath. and david seeing that the lord had heard him in the thrashingfloor of oman the jebusite, forthwith offered victims there. but the tabernacle of the lord, which moyses made in the desert, and the altar of holocausts, was at that time in the high place of gabaon. and david could not go to the altar there to pray to god: for he was seized with an exceeding great fear, seeing the sword of the angel of the lord.

then david said: this is the house of god, and this is the altar for the holocaust of israel. and he commanded to gather together all the proselytes of the land of israel, and out of them he appointed stonecutters to hew stones and polish them, to build the house of god. and david prepared in abundance iron for the nails of the gates, and for the closures and joinings: and of brass an immense weight. and the cedar trees were without number, which the sidonians, and tyrians brought to david. and david said: solomon my son is very young and tender, and the house which i would have to be built to the lord, must be such as to be renowned in all countries: therefore i will prepare him necessities. and therefore before his death he prepared all the charges. and he called for solomon his son: and commanded him to build a house to the lord the god of israel. and david said to solomon: my son, it was my desire to have built a house to the name of the lord my god. but the word of the lord came to me, saying: thou hast shed much blood, and fought many battles, so thou canst not build a house to my name, after shedding so much blood before me: the son, that shall be born to thee, shall be a most quiet man: for i will make him rest from all his enemies round about: and therefore he shall be called peaceable: and i will give peace and quietness to israel all his days. he shall build a house to my name, and he shall be a son to me, and i will be a father to him: and i will establish the throne of his kingdom over israel for ever. now then, my son, the lord be with thee, and do thou prosper, and build the house to the lord thy god, as he hath spoken of thee. the lord also give thee wisdom and understanding, that thou mayest be able to rule israel, and to keep the law of the lord thy god. for then thou shalt be able to prosper, if thou keep the commandments, and judgments, which the lord commanded moyses to teach israel: take courage and act manfully, fear not, nor be dismayed. behold i in my poverty have prepared the charges of the house of the lord, of gold a hundred thousand talents, and of silver a million of talents: but of brass, and of iron there is no weight, for the abundance surpasseth all account: timber also and stones i have prepared for all the charges. thou hast also workmen in abundance, hewers of stones, and masons, and carpenters, and of all trades the most skilful in their work, in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in iron, whereof there is no number. arise then, and be doing, and the lord will be with thee. david also charged all the princes of israel, to help solomon his son, saying: you see, that the lord your god is with you, and hath given you rest round about, and hath delivered all your enemies into your hands, and the land is subdued before the lord, and before his people. give therefore your hearts and your souls, to seek the lord your god: and arise, and build a sanctuary to the lord god, that the ark of the covenant of the lord, and the vessels consecrated to the lord, may be brought into the house, which is built to the name of the lord.

and david being old and full of days, made solomon his son king over israel. and he gathered together all the princes of israel, and the priests and levites. and the levites were numbered from the age of thirty years, and upwards: and there were found of them thirty-eight thousand men. of these twenty-four thousand were chosen, and distributed unto the ministry of the house of the lord: and six thousand were the overseers and judges. moreover four thousand were porters: and as many singers singing to the lord with the instruments, which he had made to sing with. and david distributed them into courses by the families of the sons of levi, to wit, of gerson, and of caath, and of merari. the sons of gerson were leedan and semei. the sons of leedan: the chief jahiel, and zethan, and joel, three. the sons of semei: salomith, and hosiel, and aran, three: these were the heads of the families of leedan. and the sons of semei were leheth, and ziza, and jaus, and baria: these were the sons of semei, four. and leheth was the first, ziza the second: but jaus and baria had not many children, and therefore they were counted in one family, and in one house. the sons of caath were amram, and isaar, hebron, and oziel, four. the sons of amram, aaron, and moyses. and aaron was separated to minister in the holy of holies, he and his sons for ever, and to burn incense before the lord, according to his ceremonies, and to bless his name for ever. the sons also of moyses, the man of god, were numbered in the tribe of levi. the sons of moyses were gersom and eliezer: the sons of gersom: subuel the first. and the sons of eliezer were: rohobia the first: and eliezer had no more sons. but the sons of rohobia were multiplied exceedingly. the sons of isaar: salomith the first. the sons of hebron: jeriau the first, amarias the second, jahaziel the third, jecmaam the fourth. the sons of oziel: micha the first, jesia the second. the sons of merari: moholi, and mus. the sons of moholi: eleazar and cia. and eleazar died, and had no sons but daughters: and

the sons of cis their brethren took them. the sons of musi: moholi, and eder, and jerimoth, three. these are the sons of levi in their kindreds and families, princes by their courses, and the number of every head that did the works of the ministry of the house of the lord from twenty years old and upward. for david said: the lord the god of israel hath given rest to his people, and a habitation in jerusalem for ever. and it shall not be the office of the levites to carry any more the tabernacle, and all the vessels for the service thereof. so according to the last precepts of david, the sons of levi are to be numbered from twenty years old and upward. and they are to be under the hand of the sons of aaron for the service of the house of the lord, in the porches, and in the chambers, and in the place of purification, and in the sanctuary, and in all the works of the ministry of the temple of the lord. and the priests have the charge of the leaves of proposition, and of the sacrifice of fine flour, and of the unleavened cakes, and of the fryingpan, and of the roasting, and of every weight and measure. and the levites are to stand in the morning to give thanks, and to sing praises to the lord: and in like manner in the evening, as well in the oblation of the holocausts of the lord, as in the sabbaths and in the new moons, and the rest of the solemnities, according to the number and ceremonies prescribed for every thing, continually before the lord. and let them keep the observances of the tabernacle of the covenant, and the ceremonies of the sanctuary, and the charge of the sons of aaron their brethren, that they may minister in the house of the lord.

now these were the divisions of the sons of aaron: the sons of aaron: nadab, and abiu, and eleazar, and ithamar. but nadab and abiu died before their father, and had no children: so eleazar, and ithamar did the office of the priesthood. and david distributed them, that is, sadoc of the sons of eleazar, and ahimelech of the sons of ithamar, according to their courses and ministry. and there were found many more of the sons of eleazar among the principal men, than of the sons of ithamar. and he divided them so, that there were of the sons of eleazar, sixteen chief men by their families: and of the sons of ithamar eight by their families and houses. and he divided both the families one with the other by lot: for there were princes of the sanctuary, and princes of god, both of the sons of eleazar, and of the sons of ithamar. and semeias the son of nathanael the scribe a levite, wrote them down before the king and the princes, and sadoc the priest, and ahimelech the son of abiathar, and the princes also of the priestly and levitical families: one house, which was over the rest, of eleazar: and another house, which had the rest under it, of ithamar. now the first lot came forth to joiarib, the second to jedei, the third to harim, the fourth to seorim, the fifth to melchia, the sixth to maiman, the seventh to accos, the eighth to abia, the ninth to jesua, the tenth to sechenia, the eleventh to eliasib, the twelfth to jacim, the thirteenth to hoppha, the fourteenth to

isbaab, the fifteenth to belga, the sixteenth to emmer, the seventeenth to hezir, the eighteenth to aphses, the nineteenth to pheteia, the twentieth to hezechiel, the one and twentieth to jachin, the two and twentieth to gamul, the three and twentieth to dalaiau, the four and twentieth to mazaiau. these are their courses according to their ministries, to come into the house of the lord, and according to their manner under the hand of aaron their father: as the lord the god of israel had commanded. now of the rest of the sons of levi, there was of the sons of amram, subael: and of the sons of subael, jehedeia. also of the sons of ro-hobia the chief jesias. and the son of isaar salemoth, and the son of salemoth jahath: and his son jeriahu the first, amarias the second, jahaziel the third, jecmaan the fourth. the son of oziel, micha: the son of micha, samir. the brother of micha, jesia: and the son of jesia, zacharias. the sons of merari: moholi and musi: the son of oziau: benno. the son also of merari: oziau, and seam, and zacchur, and hebri. and the son of moholi: eleazar, who had no sons. and the son of cis, jeramael. the sons of musi: moholi, eder, and jerimoth. these are the sons of levi according to the houses of their families. and they also cast lots over against their brethren the sons of aaron before david the king, and sadoc, and ahimelech, and the princes of the priestly and levitical families, both the elder and the younger. the lot divided all equally.

moreover david and the chief officers of the army separated for the ministry the sons of asaph, and of heman, and of idithun: to prophesy with harps, and with psalteries, and with cymbals according to their number serving in their appointed office. of the sons of asaph: zacchur, and joseph, and nathania, and asarella, sons of asaph: under the hand of asaph prophesying near the king. and of idithun: the sons of idithun, godolias, serf, jeseias, and hasabias, and mathathias, six, under the hand of their father idithun, who prophesied with a harp to give thanks and to praise the lord. of heman also: the sons of heman, bocciau, mathaniau, oziel, subuel, and jerimoth, hananias, hanani, eliatha, geddelthi, and romemthiezer, and jesbacassa, mellothi, othir, mahazith: all these were the sons of heman the seer of the king in the words of god, to lift up the horn: and god gave to heman fourteen sons and three daughters. all these under their father's hand were distributed to sing in the temple of the lord, with cymbals, and psalteries and harps, for the service of the house of the lord near the king: to wit, asaph, and idithun, and heman. and the number of them with their brethren, that taught the song of the lord, all the teachers, were two hundred and eighty-eight, and they cast lots by their courses, the elder equally with the younger, the learned and the unlearned together. and the first lot came forth to joseph, who was of asaph. the second to godolias, to him and his sons, and his brethren twelve. the third to zacchur, to his sons and his brethren twelve. he fourth to isari, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the fifth to nathania, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the sixth to bocciau, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the seventh to isreela, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the eighth to jesaia, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the ninth to mathanaia, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the tenth to semeias, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the eleventh to azareel, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the twelfth to hasabia, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the thirteenth to subael, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the fourteenth to mathathias, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the fifteenth to jerimoth, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the sixteenth to hananias, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the seventeenth to jesbacassa, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the eighteenth to hanani, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the nineteenth to mellothi, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the twentieth to eliaha, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the one and twentieth to othir, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the two and twentieth to geddelthi, to his sons and his brethren twelve. the three and twentieth to mahazioth, to his sons and his brethren twelve. he four and twentieth to romemthiezer, to his sons and his brethren twelve.

and the divisions of the porters: of the corites meselemia, the son of core, of the sons of asaph. the sons of meselemia: zacharias the firstborn, jadihel the second, zabadias the third, jathanael the fourth, elam the fifth, johanan the sixth, elioenai the seventh. and the sons of obededom, semeias the firstborn, jozabad the second, joaha the third, sachar the fourth, nathanael the fifth, ammiel the sixth, issachar the seventh, phollathi the eighth: for the lord had blessed him. and to semei his son were born sons, herds of their families: for they were men of great valour. the sons then of semeias were othni, and raphael, and obed, eliz-abad, and his brethren most valiant men: and elui, and samachias. all these of the sons of obededom: they, and their sons, and their brethren most able men for service, sixty-two of obededom. and the sons of meselemia, and their brethren strong men, were eighteen. and of hosa, that is, of the sons of merari: semri the chief, (for he had not a firstborn, and therefore his father made him chief.) helcias the second, tabelias the third, zacharias the fourth: all these the sons, and the brethren of hosa, were thirteen. among these were the divisions of the porters, so that the chiefs of the wards, as well as their brethren, always ministered in the house of the lord. and they cast lots equally, both little and great, by their families for every one of the gates. and the lot of the east fell to selemias. but to his son zacharias, a very wise and learned man, the north gate fell by lot. and to obe-dedom and his sons that towards the south: in which part of the house was the council of the ancients. to sephim, and hosa towards the west, by the gate which leadeth to the way of the ascent: ward against ward. now towards the east were six levites: and towards the north four a day: and towards the south likewise four a day: and where the council was, two and two.

in the cells also of the porters toward the west four in the way: and two at every cell. these are the divisions of the porters of the sons of core, and of mer-
ari. now achias was over the treasures of the house of god, and the holy vessels. the sons of ledan, the sons of gersonni: of ledan were heads of the families, of ledan, and gersonni, jehieli. the sons of jehieli: zathan and joel, his brethren over the treasures of the house of the lord, with the amramites, and isaarites, and hebronites, and ozielites. and subael the son of gersom, the son of moyses, was chief over the treasures. his brethren also, eliezer, whose son rohobia, and his son isaias, and his son joram, and his son zechri, and his son selemith. which selemith and his brethren were over the treasures of the holy things, which king david, and the heads of families, and the captains over thousands and over hundreds, and the captains of the host had dedicated, out of the wars, and the spoils won in battles, which they had consecrated to the building and furniture of the temple of the lord. and all these things that samuel the seer and saul the son of cis, and abner the son of ner, and joab the son of sarvia had sanctified: and whosoever had sanctified those things, they were under the hand of sele mith and his brethren. but chonenias and his sons were over the isaarites, for the business abroad over israel to teach them and judge them. and of the hebronites hasabias, and his brethren most able men, a thousand seven hundred had the charge over israel beyond the jordan westward, in all the works of the lord, and for the service of the king. and the chief of the hebronites was jeria according to their families and kindreds. in the fortieth year of the reign of david they were numbered, and there were found most valiant men in jazer galaad, and his brethren of stronger age, two thousand seven hundred chiefs of families. and king david made them rulers over the rubenites and the gadites, and the half tribe of manasses, for all the service of god, and the king.

now the children of israel according to their number, the heads of families, captains of thousands and of hundreds, and officers, that served the king according to their companies, who came in and went out every month in the year, under every chief were four and twenty thousand. over the first company the first month jesboam, the son of zabdiel was chief, and under him were four and twenty thousand. of the sons of phares, the chief of all the captains in the host in the first month. the company of the second month was under dudia, an ahohite, and after him was another named macelloth, who commanded a part of the army of four and twenty thousand. and the captain of the third company for the third month, was banaia the son of joaida the priest: and in his division were four and twenty thousand. this is that ba-naia the most valiant among the thirty, and above the thirty. and amizabad his son commanded his company. the fourth, for the fourth month, was asahel the brother of joab, and zabadias his son after him: and in his company were four and twenty thousand.

the fifth captain for the fifth month, was samaoth a jezerite: and his company were four and twenty thousand. the sixth, for the sixth month, was hira the son of acces a thecuite: and in his company were four and twenty thousand. the seventh, for the seventh month, was helles a phallonite of the sons of ephraim: and in his company were four and twenty thousand. the eighth, for the eighth month, was sobochai a husathite of the race of zarahi: and in his company were four and twenty thousand. the ninth, for the ninth month, was abiezer an anathothite of the sons of jemini, and in his company were four and twenty thousand. the tenth, for the tenth month, was marai, who was a netophathite of the race of zarai: and in his company were four and twenty thousand. the eleventh, for the eleventh month, was banaias, a pharathonite of the sons of ephraim: and in his company were four and twenty thousand. the twelfth, for the twelfth month, was holdai a netophathite, of the race of gothoniel: and in his company were four and twenty thousand. now the chiefs over the tribes of israel were these: over the rubenites, eliezer the son of zechri was ruler: over the simeonites, saphatias the son of maacha: over the levites, hasabias the son of camuel: over the aaronites, sadoc: over juda, eliu the brother of david: over issachar, amri the son of michael: over the zabulonites, jesmaias the son of adias: over the nephtalites, jerimoth the son of ozriel: over the sons of ephraim, osee the son of ozazi: over the half tribe of manasses, joel the son of phadaia: and over the half tribe of manasses: in galaad, jaddo the son of zacharias: and over benjamin, jasiel the son of abner. and over dan, ezrihel the son of jeroham: these were the princes of the children of israel. but david would not number them from twenty years old and under: because the lord had said that he would multiply israel like the stars of heaven. joab the son of sarvia began to number, but he finished not: because upon this there fell wrath upon israel: and therefore the number of them that were numbered, was not registered in the chronicles of king david. and over the king's treasures was azmoth the son of adiel: and over those stores which were in the cities, and in the villages, and in the castles, was jonathan the son of ozias. and over the tillage, and the husbandmen, who tilled the ground, was ezri the son of chelub: and over the dressers of the vineyards, was semeias a romathite: and over the wine cellars, zabdias an aphonite. and over the oliveyards and the fig groves, which were in the plains, was balanam a gederite: and over the oil cellars, joas. and over the herds that fed in saron, was setrai a saronite: and over the oxen in the valleys, saphat the son of adli: and over the camels, ubil an ismahelite: and over the asses, jadas a meronathite: and over the sheep jazia an agarene. all these were the rulers of the substance of king david. and jonathan david's uncle, a counsellor, a wise and learned man: he and jahiel the son of hachamoni were with the king's sons. and achitophel was the king's counsellor, and chusai the arachite, the king's friend. and after achitophel was joiada the son of banaias, and abiathar. and the general of the king's army was joab.

and david assembled all the chief men of israel, the princes of the tribes, and the captains of the companies, who waited on the king: and the captains over thousands, and over hundreds, and them who had the charge over the substance and possessions of the king, and his sons with the officers of the court, and the men of power, and all the bravest of the army at jerusalem. and the king rising up, and standing said: hear me, my brethren and my people: i had a thought to have built a house, in which the ark of the lord, and the footstool of our god might rest: and i prepared all things for the building. and god said to me: thou shalt not build a house to my name: because thou art a man of war, and hast shed blood. but the lord god of israel chose me of all the house of my father, to be king over israel for ever: for of juda he chose the princes: and of the house of juda, my father's house: and among the sons of my father, it pleased him to choose me king over all israel. and among my sons (for the lord hath given me many sons) he hath chosen solomon my son, to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of the lord over israel. and he said to me: solomon thy son shall build my house, and my courts: for i have chosen him to be my son, and i will be a father to him. and i will establish his kingdom for ever, if he continue to keep my commandments, and my judgments, as at this day. now then before all the assembly of israel, in the hearing of our god, keep ye, and seek all the commandments of the lord our god: that you may possess the good land, and may leave it to your children after you for ever. and thou my son solomon, know the god of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart, and a willing mind: "for the lord searcheth all hearts, and under-standeth all the thoughts of minds. if thou seek him, thou shalt find him: but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off for ever. now therefore seeing the lord hath chosen thee to build the house of the sanctuary, take courage, and do it. and david gave to solomon his son a description of the porch, and of the temple, and of the treasures, and of the upper floor, and of the inner chambers, and of the house for the mercy seat, as also of all the courts, which he had in his thought, and of the chambers round about, for the treasures of the house of the lord, and for the treasures of the consecrated things, and of the divisions of the priests and of the levites, for all the works of the house of the lord, and for all the vessels of the service of the temple of the lord. gold by weight for every vessel for the ministry. and silver by weight according to the diversity of the vessels and uses. he gave also gold for the golden candlesticks, and their lamps, according to the dimensions of every candlestick, and the lamps thereof. in like manner also he gave silver by weight for the silver candlesticks, and for their lamps according to the diversity of the dimensions of them. he gave also gold for the tables of proposition, according to the diversity of the tables: in like manner also silver for other tables of silver. for fleshhooks also, and bowls, and censers of fine gold, and for little lions of gold, according to the measure he gave by weight, for every lion. in like manner also for lions of silver he set aside a different weight of silver: and for the altar of incense, he gave the purest gold: and to make the likeness of the chariot of the cherubims spreading their wings, and covering the ark of the covenant of the lord. all these things, said he, came to me written by the hand of the lord that i might understand all the works of the pattern. and david said to solomon his son: act like a man, and take courage, and do: fear not, and be not dismayed: for the lord my god will be with thee, and will not leave thee, nor forsake thee, till thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the lord. behold the courses of the priests and the levites, for every ministry of the house of the lord, stand by thee, and are ready, and both the princes, and the people know how to execute all thy commandments.

and king david said to all the assembly: solomon my son, whom alone god hath chosen, is as yet young and tender: and the work is great, for a house is prepared not for man, but for god. and i with all my ability have prepared the expenses for the house of my god. gold for vessels of gold, and silver for vessels of silver, brass for things of brass, iron for things of iron, wood for things of wood: and onyx stones, and stones like alabaster, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious stones, and marble of paros in great abundance. now over and above the things which i have offered into the house of my god i give of my own proper goods, gold and silver for the temple of my god, beside what things i have prepared for the holy house. three thousand talents of gold of the gold of ophir: and seven thousand talents of refined silver, to overlay the walls of the temple. and gold for wheresoever there is need of gold: and silver for wheresoever there is need of silver, for the works to be made by the hands of the artificers: now if any man is willing to offer, let him fill his hand to day, and offer what he pleaseth to the lord. then the heads of the families, and the princes of the tribes of israel, and the captains of thousands, and of hundreds, and the overseers of the king's possessions promised, and they gave for the works of the house of the lord, of gold, five thousand talents, and ten thousand solids: of silver ten thousand talents: and of brass eighteen thousand talents: and of iron a hundred thousand talents. and all they that had stones, gave them to the treasures of the house of the lord, by the hand of jahiel the gersonite. and the people rejoiced, when they promised their offerings willingly: because they offered them to the lord with all their heart: and david the king rejoiced also with a great joy. and he blessed the lord before all the multitude, and he said: blessed art thou, o lord the god of israel, our father from eternity to eternity. thine, o lord, is magnificence, and power, and glory, and victory: and to thee is praise: for all that is in heaven, and in earth, is thine: thine is the kingdom, o lord, and thou art above all princes. thine are riches, and thine is glory, thou hast dominion over all, in thy hand is power and might: in thy hand greatness, and the empire of all things. now therefore our

god we give thanks to thee, and we praise thy glorious name. who am i, and what is my people, that we should be able to promise thee all these things? all things are thine: and we have given thee what we received of thy hand. for we are sojourners before thee, and strangers, as were all our fathers. our days upon earth are as a shadow, and there is no stay. o lord our god, all this store that we have prepared to build thee a house for thy holy name, is from thy hand, and all things are thine. i know my god that thou provest hearts, and lovest simplicity, wherefore i also in the simplicity of my heart, have joyfully offered all these things: and i have seen with great joy thy people, which are here present, offer thee their offerings. o lord god of abraham, and of isaac, and of israel our fathers, keep for ever this will of their heart, and let this mind remain always for the worship of thee. and give to solomon my son a perfect heart, that he may keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy ceremonies, and do all things: and build the house, for which i have provided the charges. and david commanded all the assembly: bless ye the lord our god. and all the assembly blessed the lord the god of their fathers: and they bowed themselves and worshipped god, and then the king. and they sacrificed victims to the lord: and they offered holocausts the next day, a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, a thousand lambs, with their libations, and with every thing prescribed most abundantly for all israel. and they ate, and drank before the lord that day with great joy. and they anointed the second time solomon the son of david. and they anointed him to the lord to be prince, end sadoc to be high priest. and solomon sat on the throne of the lord as king instead of david his father, and he pleased all: and all israel obeyed him. and all the princes, and men of power, and all the sons of king david gave their hand, and were subject to solomon the king. and the lord magnified solomon over all israel: and gave him the glory of a reign, such as no king of israel had before him. so david the son of isai reigned over all israel. and the days that he reigned over israel, were forty years: in hebron he reigned seven years, and in jerusalem three and thirty years. and he died in a good age, full of days, and riches, and glory. and solomon his son reigned in his stead. now the acts of king david first and last are written in the book of samuel the seer, and in the book of nathan the prophet, and in the book of gad the seer: and of all his reign, and his valour, and of the times that passed under him, either in israel, or in all the kingdoms of the countries.

and solomon the son of david was strengthened in his kingdom, and the lord his god was with him, and magnified him to a high degree. and solomon gave orders to all israel, to the captains of thousands, and of hundreds, and to the rulers, and to the judges of all israel, and the heads of the families: and he went with all the multitude to the high place of gabaon, where was the tabernacle of the covenant of the lord, which moyses the servant of god made, in the wilderness. for david had brought the ark of god from cariathiarim to the place, which he had prepared for it, and where he had pitched a tabernacle for it, that is, in jerusalem. and the altar of brass, which beseleel the son of uri the son of hur had made, was there before the tabernacle of the lord: and solomon and all the assembly sought it: and solomon went up thither to the brazen altar, before the tabernacle of the covenant of the lord, and offered up on it a thousand victims. and behold that night god appeared to him, saying: ask what thou wilt that i should give thee. and solomon said to god: thou hast shewn great kindness to my father david: and hast made me king in his stead. now therefore, o lord god, let thy word be fulfilled, which thou hast promised to david my father: for thou hast made me king over thy great people, which is as innumerable as the dust of the earth. give me wisdom and knowledge that i may come in and go out before thy people: for who can worthily judge this thy people, which is so great? and god said to solomon: because this choice hath pleased thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, and wealth, and glory, nor the lives of them that hate thee, nor many days of life: but hast asked wisdom and knowledge, to be able to judge my people, over which i have made thee king, wisdom and knowledge are granted to thee: and i will give thee riches, and wealth, and glory, so that none of the kings before thee, nor after thee, shall be like thee. then solomon came from the high place of gabaon to jerusalem before the tabernacle of the covenant, and reigned over israel. and he gathered to himself chariots and horsemen, and he had a thousand four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen: and he placed them in the cities of the chariots, and with the king in jerusalem. and the king made silver and gold to be in jerusalem as stones, and cedar trees as sycamores, which grow in the plains in great multitude. and there were horses brought him from egypt, and from coa by the king's merchants, who went, and bought at a price, a chariot of four horses for six hundred pieces of silver, and a horse for a hundred and fifty: in like manner market was made in all the kingdoms of the hethites, and of the kings of syria.

and solomon determined to build a house to the name of the lord, and a palace for himself. and he numbered out seventy thousand men to bear burdens, and eighty thousand to hew stones in the mountains, and three thousand six hundred to oversee them. he sent also to hiram king of tyre, saying: as thou didst with david my father, and didst send him cedars, to build him a house, in which he dwelt: so do with me that i may build a house to the name of the lord my god, to dedicate it to burn incense before him, and to perfume with aromatical spices, and for the continual setting forth of bread, and for the holocausts, morning and evening, and on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and the solemnities of the lord our god for ever, which are commanded for israel. for the house which i desire to build, is great: for our god is great above all gods. who then can be able to build him a worthy house? if heaven, and the heavens of heavens cannot contain him: who am i that i should be able to build him a house? but to this end only, that incense may be burnt before him. send me therefore a skilful man, that knoweth how to work in gold, and in silver, in brass, and in iron, in purple, in scarlet and in blue, and that hath skill in engraving, with the artificers, which i have with me in judaea and jerusalem, whom david my father provided. send me also cedars, and fir trees, and pine trees from libanus: for i know that thy servants are skilful in cutting timber in libanus, and my servants shall be with thy servants, to provide me timber in abundance. for the house which i desire to build, is to be exceeding great, and glorious. and i will give thy servants the workmen that are to cut down the trees, for their food twenty thousand cores of wheat, and as many cores of barley, and twenty thousand measures of wine, and twenty thousand measures of oil. and hiram king of tyre sent a letter to solomon, saying: because the lord hath loved his people, therefore he hath made thee king over them. and he added, saying: blessed be the lord the god of israel, who made heaven and earth, who hath given to king david a wise and knowing son, endued with understanding and prudence, to build a house to the lord, and a palace for himself. i therefore have sent thee my father hiram, a wise and most skilful man, the son of a woman of the daughters of dan, whose father was a tyrian, who knoweth how to work in gold, and in silver, in brass, and in iron, and in marble, and in timber, in purple also, and violet, and silk and scarlet: and who knoweth to grave all sort of graving, and to devise ingeniously all that there may be need of in the work with thy artificers, and with the artificers of my lord david thy father. the wheat therefore, and the barley and the oil, and the wine, which thou, my lord, hast promised, send to thy servants. and we will cut down as many trees out of libanus, as thou shalt want, and will convey them in floats by sea to joppe: and it will be thy part to bring them thence to jerusalem. and solomon numbered all the proselytes in the land of israel, after the numbering which david his father had made, and they were found a hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred. and he set seventy thousand of them to carry burdens on their shoulders, and eighty thousand to hew stones in the mountains: and three thousand and six hundred to be overseers of the work of the people.

and solomon began to build the house of the lord in jerusalem, in mount moria, which had been shewn to david his father, in the place which david had prepared in the thrashingfloor of ornan the jebusite. and he began to build in the second month, in the fourth year of his reign. now these are the foundations, which solomon laid, to build the house of god, the length by the first measure sixty cubits, the breadth twenty cubits. and the porch in the front, which was extended in length according to the measure of the breadth of the house, twenty cubits: and the height was a hundred and twenty cubits: and he overlaid it within with pure gold. and the greater house he ceiled with deal boards, and overlaid them with plates of fine gold throughout: and he graved in them palm trees, and like little chains interlaced with one another. he paved also the floor of the temple with most precious marble, of great beauty. and the gold of the plates with which he overlaid the house, and the beams thereof, and the posts, and the walls, and the doors was of the finest: and he graved cherubims on the walls. he made also the house of the holy of holies: the length of it according to the breadth of the temple, twenty cubits, and the breadth of it in like manner twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with plates of gold, amounting to about six hundred talents. he made also nails of gold, and the weight of every nail was fifty sicles: the upper chambers also he overlaid with gold. he made also in the house of the holy of holies two cherubims of image work: and he overlaid them with gold. the wings of the cherubims were extended twenty cubits, so that one wing was five cubits long, and reached to the wall of the house: and the other was also five cubits long, and reached to the wing of the other cherub. in like manner the wing of the other cherub, was five cubits long, and reached to the wall: and his other wing was five cubits long, and touched the wing of the other cherub. so the wings of the two cherubims were spread forth, and were extended twenty cubits: and they stood upright on their feet, and their faces were turned toward the house without. he made also a veil of violet, purple, scarlet, and silk: and wrought in it cherubims. he made also before the doors of the temple two pillars, which were five and thirty cubits high: and their chapters were five cubits. he made also as it were little chains in the oracle, and he put them on the heads of the pillars: and a hundred pomegranates, which he put between the little chains. these pillars he put at the entrance of the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left: that which was on the right hand, he called jachin: and that on the left hand, boaz.

he made also an altar of brass twenty cubits long, and twenty cubits broad, and ten cubits high. also a molten sea of ten cubits from brim to brim, round in compass: it was five cubits high, and a line of thirty cubits compassed it round about. and under it there was the likeness of oxen, and certain engravings on the outside of ten cubits compassed the belly of the sea, as it were with two rows. and the oxen were cast: and the sea itself was set upon the twelve oxen, three of which looked toward the north, and other three toward the west: and other three toward the south, and the other three that remained toward the east, and the sea stood upon them: and the hinder parts of the oxen were inward under the sea. now the thickness of it was a handbreadth, and the brim of it was like the brim of a cup, or of a crisped lily: and it held three thousand measures. he made also ten lavers: and he set five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them all such things as they mere to offer for holocausts: but the sea was for the priests to wash in. and he made ten golden candlesticks, according to the form which they were commanded to be made by: and he set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left. moreover also ten tables: and he set them in the temple, five on the right side, and five on the left. also a hundred bowls of gold. he made also the court of the priests, and a great hall, and doors in the hall, which he covered with brass. and he set the sea on the right side over against the east toward the south. and hiram made caldrons, and fleshhooks, and bowls: and finished all the king's work in the house of god: that is to say, the two pillars, and the pommels, and the chapters, and the network, to cover the chapters over the pommels. and four hundred pomegranates, and two wreaths of network, so that two rows of pomegranates were joined to each wreath, to cover the pommels, and the chapters of the pillars. he made also bases, and lavers, which he set upon the bases: one sea, and twelve oxen under the sea; and the caldrons, and fleshhooks, and bowls. all the vessels did hiram his father make for solomon in the house of the lord of the finest brass. in the country near the jordan did the king cast them, in a clay ground between sochot and saredatha. and the multitude of vessels was innumerable, so that the weight of the brass was not known. and solomon made all the vessels for the house of god, and the golden altar, and the tables, upon which were the leaves of proposition, the candlesticks also of most pure gold with their lamps to give light before the oracle, according to the manner. and certain flowers, and lamps, and golden tongs: all were made of the finest gold. the vessels also for the perfumes, and the censers, and the bowls, and the mortars, of pure gold. and he graved the doors of the inner temple, that is, for the holy of holies: and the doors of the temple without were of gold. and thus all the work was finished which solomon made in the house of the lord.

then solomon brought in all the things that david his father had vowed, the silver, and the gold, and all the vessels he put among the treasures of the house of god. and after this he gathered together the ancients of israel, and all the princes of the tribes, and the heads of the families, of the children of israel to jerusalem, to bring the ark of the covenant of the lord out of the city of david, which is sion. and all the men of israel came to the king in the solemn day of the seventh month. and when all the ancients of israel were come, the levites took up the ark, and brought it in, together with all the furniture of the tabernacle. and the priests with the levites carried the vessels of the sanctuary, which were in the tabernacle. and king solomon and all the assembly of israel, and all that were gathered together before the ark, sacrificed rams, and oxen without number: so great was the multitude of the victims. and the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the lord into its place, that is, to the oracle of the temple, into the holy of holies under the wings of the cherubims: so that the cherubims spread their wings over the place, in which the ark was set, and covered the ark itself and its staves. now the ends of the staves wherewith the ark was carried, because they were some thing longer, were seen before the oracle: but if a man were a little outward, he could not see them. so the ark has been there unto this day. and there was nothing else in the ark but the two tables which moyses put there at horeb when the lord gave the law to the children of israel, at their coming out of egypt. now when the priests were come out of the sanctuary, (for all the priests that could be found there, mere sanctified: and as yet at that time the courses and orders of the ministries were not divided among them,) both the levites and the singing men, that is, both they that were under asaph, and they that were under heman, and they that were under idithun, with their sons, and their brethren, clothed with fine linen, sounded with cymbals, and psalteries, and harps, standing on the east side of the altar, and with them a hundred and twenty priests, sounding with trumpets. so when they all sounded together, both with trumpets, and voice, and cymbals, and organs, and with divers kind of musical instruments, and lifted up their voice on high: the sound was heard afar off, so that when they began to praise the lord, and to say: give glory to the lord for he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever: the house of god was filled with a cloud. nor could the priests stand and minister by reason of the cloud. for the glory of the lord had filled the house of god.

then solomon said: the lord promised that he would dwell in a cloud. but i have built a house to his name, that he might dwell there for ever. and the king turned his face, and blessed all the multitude of israel (for all the multitude stood attentive) and he said: blessed be the lord the god of israel, who hath accomplished in deed that which he spoke to david my father, saying: from the day that i brought my people out of the land of egypt, i chose no city among all the tribes of israel, for a house to be built in it to my name: neither chose i any other man, to be the ruler of my people israel. but i chose jerusalem, that my name might be there: and i chose david to set him over my people israel. and whereas david my father had a mind to build a house to the name of the lord the god of israel, the lord said to him: forasmuch as it was thy will to build a house to my name, thou hast done well indeed in having such a will: but thou shalt not build the house, but thy son, who shall come out of thy loins, he shall build a house to my name. the lord therefore hath accomplished his word which he spoke: and i am risen up in the place of david my father, and sit upon the throne of israel, as the lord promised: and have built a house to the name of the lord god of israel. and i have put in it the ark, wherein is the covenant of the lord, which he made with the children of israel. and he stood before the altar of the lord, in presence of all the multitude of israel, and stretched forth his hands. for solomon had made a brazen scaffold, and had set it in the midst of the temple, which was five cubits long, and five cubits broad, and three cubits high: and he stood upon it: then kneeling down in the presence of all the multitude of israel, and lifting up his hands towards heaven, he said: o lord god of israel, there is no god like thee in heaven nor in earth: who keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants, that walk before thee with all their hearts: who hast performed to thy servant david my father all that thou hast promised him: and hast accomplished in fact, what thou hast spoken with thy mouth, as also the present time proveth. now then, o lord god of israel, fulfil to thy servant david my father, whatsoever thou hast promised him, saying: there shall not fail thee a man in my sight, to sit upon the throne of israel: yet so that thy children take heed to their ways, and walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me. and now, lord god of israel, let thy word be established which thou hast spoken to thy servant david. is it credible then that god should dwell with men on the earth? if heaven and the heavens of heavens do not contain thee, how much less this house, which i have built? but to this end only it is made, that thou mayest regard the prayer of thy servant and his supplication, o lord my god: and mayest hear the prayers which thy servant poureth out before thee. that thou mayest open thy eyes upon this house day and night, upon the place wherein thou hast promised that thy name should be called upon, and that thou wouldst hear the prayer which thy servant prayeth in it: hearken then to the prayers of thy servant, and of thy people israel. whosoever shall pray in this place, hear thou from thy dwelling place, that is, from heaven, and shew mercy. if any man sin against his neighbour, and come to swear against him, and bind himself with a curse before the altar in this house: then hear thou from heaven, and do justice to thy servants, so as to requite the wicked by making his wickedness fall upon his own head, and to revenge the just, rewarding him according to his justice. if thy people israel be overcome by their enemies, (for they will sin against thee,) and being converted shall do penance, and call upon thy name, and pray to thee in this place, then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people israel, and bring them back into the land, which thou gavest to them, and their fathers. if the heavens be shut up, and there fall no rain by reason of the sine of the people, and they shall pray to thee in this place, and confess to thy name, and be converted from their sins, when thou dost afflict them, then hear thou from heaven, o lord, and forgive the sine of thy servants and of thy people israel, and teach them the good way, in which they may walk: and give rain to thy land which thou hast given to thy people to possess. if a famine arise in the land, or a pestilence or blasting, or mildew, or locusts, or caterpillars: or if their enemies waste the country, and besiege the cities, whatsoever scourge or infirmity shall be upon them: then if any of thy people israel, knowing his own scourge and infirmity shall pray, and shall spread forth his hands in this house, hear thou from heaven, from thy high dwelling place, and forgive, and render to every one according to his ways, which thou knowest him to have in his heart: (for thou only knowest the hearts of the children of men:) that they may fear thee, and walk in thy ways all the days that they live upon the face of the land, which thou hast given to our fathers. if the stranger also, who is not of thy people israel, come from a far country, for the sake of thy great name, and thy strong hand, and thy stretched out arm, and adore in this place: hear thou from heaven thy firm dwelling place, and do all that which that stranger shall call upon thee for: that all the people of the earth may know thy name, and may fear thee, as thy people israel, and may know, that thy name is invoked upon this house, which i have built. if thy people go out to war against their enemies, by the way that thou shalt send them, and adore thee towards the way of this city, which thou hast chosen, and the house which i have built to thy name: then hear thou from heaven their prayers, and their supplications, and revenge them. and if they sin against thee (for there is no man that sinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them up to their enemies, and they lead them away captive to a land either afar off, or near at hand, and if they be converted in their heart in the land to which they were led / captive, and do penance, and pray to thee in the land of their captivity, saying: we have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have dealt unjustly: and return to thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, to which they were led away, and adore thee towards the way of their own land which thou gavest their fathers, and of the city, which thou hast chosen, and the house which i have built to thy name: then hear thou from heaven, that is, from thy firm dwelling place, their prayers, and do judgment, and forgive thy people, although they have sinned: for thou art my god: let thy eyes, i beseech thee, be open, and let thy ears be attentive to the prayer, that is made in this place. now therefore arise, o lord god, into thy resting place, thou and the ark of thy strength: let thy priests, o lord god, put on salvation, and thy saints rejoice in good things. o lord god, turn not away the face of thy anointed: remember the mercies of david thy servant.

and when solomon had made an end of his prayer, are came down from heaven, and consumed the holocausts and the victims: and the majesty of the lord filled the house. neither could the priests enter into the temple of the lord, because the majesty of the lord had filled the temple of the lord. moreover all the children of israel saw the fire coming down, and give glory of the lord upon the house: and falling down with their faces to the ground, upon the stone pavement, they adored and praised the lord: because he is good, because his mercy endureth for ever, and the king and all the people sacrificed victims before the lord. and king solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty-two thousand oxen, and one hundred and twenty thousand rams: and the king and all the people dedicated the house of god. and the priests stood in their offices: and the levites with the instruments of music of the lord, which king david made to praise the lord: because his mercy endureth for ever, singing the hymns of david by their ministry: and the priests sounded with trumpets before them, and all israel stood. solomon also sanctified the middle of the court before the temple of the lord: for he offered there the holocausts, and the fat of the peace offerings: because the brazen altar, which he had made, could not hold the holocausts and the sacrifices and the fat: and solomon kept the solemnity at that time seven days, and all israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entrance of emath to the torrent of egypt, and he made on the eighth day a solemn assembly, because he had kept the dedication of the altar seven days, and had celebrated the solemnity seven days. so on the three and twentieth day of the seventh month he sent away the people to their dwellings, joyful and glad for the good that the lord had done to david, and to solomon, and to all israel his people. and solomon finished the house of the lord, and the king's house, and all that he had designed in his heart to do, in the house of the lord, and in his own house, and he prospered. and the lord appeared to him by night, and said : i have heard thy prayer, and i have chosen this place to myself for a house of sacrifice. if i shut up heaven, and there fall no rain, or if i give orders, and command the locust to devour the land, or if i send pestilence among my people: and my people, upon whom my name is called, being converted, shall make supplication to me, and seek out my face, and do penance for their most wicked ways: then will i hear from heaven, and will forgive their sine and will heal their land. my eyes also shall be open, and my ears attentive to the prayer of him that shall pray in this place. for i have chosen, and have sanctified this place, that my name may be there for ever, and my eyes and my heart may remain there perpetually. and as for thee, if thou walk before me, as david thy father walked, and do according to all that i have commanded thee, and keep my justices and my judgments : i will raise up the throne of thy kingdom, as i promised to david thy father, saying: there shall not fail thee a man of thy stock to be ruler in israel. but if you turn away, and forsake my justices, and my commandments which i have set before you, and shall go and serve strange gods, and adore them, i will pluck you up by the root out of my land which i have given you: and this house which i have sanctified to my name, i will cast away from before my face, and will make it a byword, and an example among all nations. and this house shall be for a proverb to all that pass by, and they shall be astonished and say: why hath the lord done thus to this land, and to this house? and they shall answer: because they forsook the lord the god of their fathers, who brought them out of the land of egypt, and laid hold on strange gods, and adored them, and worshipped them: therefore all these evils are come upon them.

and at the end of twenty years after solomon had built the house of the lord and his own house: he built the cities which hiram had given to solomon, and caused the children of israel to dwell there. he went also into emath suba, and possessed it. and he built palmira in the desert, and he built other strong cities in emath. and he built beth-horon the upper, and beth-horon the nether, walled cities with rates and bars and locks. balaath also and all the strong cities that were solomon's, and all the cities of the chariots, and the cities of the horsemen. all that solomon had a mind, and designed, he built in jerusalem and in libanus, and in all the land of his dominion. all the people that were left of the hethites, and the amor-rhites, and the pherezites, and the hevites, and the jebusites, that were not of the stock of israel: of their children, and of the posterity, whom the children of israel had not slain, solomon made to be the tributaries, unto this day. but of the children of israel he set none to serve in the king's works: for they were men of war, and chief captains, and rulers of his chariots and horsemen. and all the chief captains of king solomon's army were two hundred and fifty, who taught the people. and he removed the daughter of pharao from the city of david, to the house which he had built for her. for the king said: my wife shall not dwell in the house of david king of israel, for it is sanctified: because the ark of the lord came into it. then solomon offered holocausts to the lord upon the altar of the lord which he had built before the porch, that every day an offering might be made on it according to the ordinance of moyses, in the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the festival days three times a year, that is to say, in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles. and he appointed according to the order of david his father the offices of the priests in their ministries: and the levites in their order to give praise, and minister before the priests according to the duty of every day: and the porters in their divisions by gate and gate: for so david the man of god had commanded. and the priests and levites departed not from the king's commandments, as to any thing that he had commanded, and as to the keeping of the treasures. solomon had all charges prepared, from the day that he founded the house of the lord, until the day wherein he finished it. then solomon went to asiongaber, and to ailath, on the coast of the red sea, which is in the land of edom. and hiram sent him ships by the hands of his servants, and skilful mariners, and they went with solomon's servants to ophir, and they took thence four hundred and fifty

and when the queen of saba heard of the fame of solomon, she came to try him with hard questions at jerusalem, with great riches, and camels, which carried spices, and abundance of gold, and precious stones. and when she was come to solomon, she proposed to him all that was in her heart. and solomon explained to her all that she proposed: and there was not any thing that he did not make clear unto her. and when she had seen these things, to wit, the wisdom of solomon, and the house which he had built, and the meats of his table, and the dwelling places of his servants, and the attendance of his officers, and their apparel, his cupbearers also, and their garments, and the victims which he offered in the house of the lord: there was no more spirit in her, she was so astonished. and she add to the king: the word is true which i heard in my country of thy virtues and wisdom. i did not believe them that told it, until i came, and my eyes had seen, and i had proved that scarce one half of thy wisdom had been told me: thou hast exceeded the same with thy virtues. happy are thy men, and happy are thy servants, who stand always before thee, and hear thy wisdom. blessed be the lord thy god, who hath been pleased to set thee on his throne, king of the lord thy god. because god loveth israel, and will preserve them for ever: therefore hath he made thee king over them, to do judgment and justice. and she gave to the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance, and most precious stones: there were no such spices as these which the queen of saba gave to king solomon. and the servants also of hiram, with the servants of solomon, brought gold from ophir, and thiyne trees, and most precious stones: and the king made of the thiyne trees stairs in the house of the lord, and in the king's house, and harps and psalteries for the singing men: never were there seen such trees in the land of juda. and king solomon gave to the queen of saba all that she desired, and that she asked, and many more things than she brought to him: so she returned, and went to her own country with her servants. and the weight of the gold, that was brought to solomon every year, was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold: beside the sum which the deputies of divers nations, and the merchants were accustomed to bring, and all the kings of arabia, and the lords of the lands, who i brought gold and silver to solomon. and king solomon made two hundred golden spears, of the sum of six hundred pieces of gold, which went to every spear: and three hundred golden shields of three hundred pieces of gold, which went to the covering of every shield: and the king put them in the armoury, which was compassed with a wood. the king also made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with pure gold. and six steps to go up to the throne, and a footstool of gold, and two arms one on either side, and two lions standing by the arms: moreover twelve other little lions standing upon the steps on both sides: there was not such a throne in any kingdom. and all the vessels of the king's table were of gold, and the vessels of the house of the forest of libanus were of the purest gold. for no account was made of silver in those days. for the king's ships went to tharsis with the servants of hiram, once in three years: and they brought thence gold and silver, and ivory, and apes, and peacocks. and solomon was magnified above all the kings of the earth for riches and glory. and all the kings of the earth desired to see the face of solomon, that they might hear the wisdom which god had given in his heart. and every year they brought him presents, vessels of silver and of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, and horses, and mules. and solomon had forty thousand horses in the stables, and twelve thousand chariots, and horsemen, and he placed them in the cities of the chariots, and where the king was in jerusalem. and he exercised authority over all the kings from the river euphrates to the land of the philistines, and to the borders of egypt. and he made silver as plentiful in jerusalem as stones: and cedars as common as the sycamores, which grow in the plains. and horses were brought to him out of egypt, and out of all countries. now the rest of the acts of solomon first and last are written in the words of nathan the prophet, and in the boobs of ahias the silonite, and in the vision of addo the seer, against jeroboam the son of nabat. and solomon reigned in jerusalem over all israel forty years. and he slept d with his fathers: and they buried him in the city of david: and roboam his son reigned in his stead and roboam went to sichem: for thither all israel were assembled, to make him king. and when jero-boam the son of nabat, who was in egypt, (for he was fled thither from solomon,) heard it, forthwith he returned. and they sent for him, and he came with all israel, and they spoke to roboam, saying: thy father oppressed us with a most grievous yoke, do thou govern us with a lighter hand than thy father, who laid upon us a heavy servitude, and ease some thing of the burden, that we may serve thee. and he said to them: come to me again after three days. and when the people were gone, he took counsel with the ancients, who had stood before his father solomon, while he yet lived, saying: what counsel give you to me, that i may answer the people? and they said to him: if thou please this people, and soothe them with kind words, they will be thy servants for ever. but he forsook the counsel of the ancients, end began to treat with the young men, that had been brought up with him, and were in his train. and he said to them: what seemeth good to you? or what shall i answer this people, who have said to me: ease the yoke which thy father laid upon us? but they answered as young men, and brought up with him in pleasures, and said: thus shalt thou speak to the people, that said to thee: thy father made our yoke heavy, do thou ease it: thus shalt thou answer them: my little finger is thicker than the loins of my father. my father laid upon you a heavy yoke, and i will add more weight to it: my father beat you with scourges, but i will beat you with scorpions. so jeroboam, and all the people came to roboam the third day, as he commanded them. and the king answered roughly, leaving the counsel of the ancients. and he spoke according to the advice of the young men: my father laid upon you a heavy yoke, which i will make heavier: my father beat you with scourges, but i will beat you with scorpions. and he condescended not to the people's requests: for it was the will of god, that his word might be fulfilled which he had spoken by the hand of ahias the silonite to jeroboam the son of nabat. and all the people upon the king's speaking roughly, said thus unto him: we have no part in david, nor inheritance in the son of isai. return to thy dwellings, o israel, and do thou, o david, feed thy own house. and israel went away to their dwellings. but roboam reigned over the children of israel that dwelt in the cities of juda. and king roboam sent aduram, who was over the tributes, and the children of israel stoned him, and he died: and king roboam made haste to gee up into his chariot, and fled into jerusalem. and israel revolted from the house of david unto this day.

and roboam came to jerusalem, and called together all the house of juda and of benjamin, a hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men and warriors, to fight against israel, and to bring back his kingdom to him. and the word of the lord came to semeias the man of god, saying: speak to roboam the son of solomon the king of juda, and to all israel, in juda and benjamin: thus saith the lord: you shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: let every man return to his own house, for by my will this thing has been done. and when they heard the word of the lord, they returned, and did not go against jeroboam, and roboam dwelt in jerusalem, and built walled cities in juda. and he built bethlehem, and etam, and the-cue, and bethsur, and socho, and odollam, and geth, and maresa, and ziph, and aduram, and lachis, and azecha, saraa also, and aialon, and hebron, which are in juda and benjamin, well fenced cities. and when he had enclosed them with walls, he put in them governors and storehouses of provisions, that is, of oil and of wine. moreover in every city he made an armoury of shields and spears, and he fortified them with great diligence, and he reigned over juda, and benjamin, and the priests and levites, that were in all israel, came to him out of all their seats, leaving their suburbs, and their possessions, and passing over to juda, and jerusalem, because jeroboam and his sons had cast them off, from executing the priestly office to the lord. and he made to himself priests for the high places, and for the devils, and for the calves which he had made. moreover out of all the tribes of israel, whosoever gave their heart to seek the lord the god of israel, came into jerusalem to sacrifice their victims before the lord the god of their fathers. and they strengthened the kingdom of juda, and established roboam the son of solomon for three years: for they walked in the ways of david and of solomon, only three years. and roboam took to wife mahalath, the daughter of jerimoth the son of david: and abihail the daughter of eliab the son of isai. and they bore him sons jehus, and somorias, and zoom. and after her he married maacha the daughter of absalom, who bore him abia and ethai, and ziza, and salomith. and roboam loved maacha the daughter of absalom above all his wives, and concubines: for he had married eighteen wives, and threescore concubines: and he beget eight and twenty sons, and threescore daughters. but he put at the head of them abia the son of maacha to be the chief ruler over all his brethren: for he meant to make him king, because he was wiser and mightier than all his sons, and in all the countries of juda, and of benjamin, and in all the walled cities: and he gave them provisions in abundance, and he sought many wives.

and when the kingdom of roboam was strengthened and fortified, he forsook the law of the lord, and all israel with him. and in the fifth year of the reign of roboam, sesac king of egypt came up against jerusalem (because they had sinned against the lord) with twelve hundred chariots and threescore thousand horsemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of egypt, to wit, libyans, and troglodites, and ethiopians. and he took the strongest cities in juda, and came to jerusalem. and semeias the prophet came to roboam, and to the princes of juda, that were gathered together in jerusalem, fleeing from sesac, and he said to them : thus saith the lord: you have left me, and i have left you in the hand of sesac. and the princes of israel, and the king, being in a consternation, said: the lord is just. and when the lord saw that they were humbled, the word of the lord came to semeias, saying: because they are humbled, i will not destroy them, and i will give them a little help, and my wrath shall not fall upon jerusalem by the hand of sesac. but yet they shall serve him, that they may know the difference between my service, and the service of a kingdom of the earth. so sesac king of egypt departed from jerusalem, taking away the treasures of the house of the lord, and of the king's house, and he took all with him, and the golden shields that solomon had made, instead of which the king made brazen ones, and delivered them to the captains of the shieldbearers, who guarded the entrance of the palace. and when the king entered into the house of the lord, the shieldbearers came and took them, and brought them back again to their armoury. but yet because they were humbled, the wrath of the lord turned away from them, and they were not utterly destroyed: for even in juda there were found good works. king roboam therefore was strengthened in jerusalem, and reigned: he was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in jerusalem, the city which the lord chose out of all the tribes of israel, to establish his name there: and the name of his mother was naama an ammonitess. but he did evil, and did not prepare his heart to seek the lord. now the acts of roboam first and last are written in the books of

semeias the prophet, and of addo the seer, and diligently recorded: and there was war between roboam and jeroboam all their days. and roboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of david. and abia his son reigned in his stead.

in the eighteenth year of king jeroboam, abia reigned over juda. three years he reigned in jerusalem, and his mother's name was michaia, the daughter of uriel of gabaa: and there was war between abia and jeroboam. and when abia had begun battle, and had with him four hundred thousand most valiant and chosen men, jeroboam put his army in array against him, eight hundred thousand men, who were also chosen and most valiant for war. and abia stood upon mount semeron, which was in ephraim, and said: hear me, o jeroboam, and all israel: do you not know that the lord god of israel gave to david the kingdom over israel for ever, to him and to his sons by a covenant of salt? and jeroboam the son of nabat, the servant of solomon the son of david, rose up: m and rebelled against his lord. and there were gathered to him vain men, and children of belial: and they prevailed against roboam the son of solomon: for roboam was unexperienced, and of a fearful heart, and could not resist them. and now you say that you are able to withstand the kingdom of the lord, which he possesseth by the sons of david, and you have a great multitude of people, and golden calves, which jeroboam hath made you for gods. and you have cast out the priests of the lord, the sons of aaron, and the levites: and you have made you priests, like all the nations of the earth: whosoever cometh and consecrateth his hand with a bullock of the herd, and with seven rams, is made a priest of those who are no gods. but the lord is our god, whom we forsake not, and the priests who minister to the lord are the sons of aaron, and the levites are in their order. and they offer holocausts to the lord, every day, morning and evening, and incense made according to the ordinance of the law, and the leaves are set forth on a most clean table, and there is with us the golden candlestick, and the lamps thereof, to be lighted always in the evening: for we keep the precepts of the lord our god, whom you have forsaken. therefore god is the leader in our army, and his priests who sound with trumpets, and resound against you: o children of israel, fight not against the lord the god of your fathers, for it is not good for you. while he spoke these things, jeroboam caused an ambushment to come about behind him. and while he stood facing the enemies, he encompassed juda. who perceived it not, with his army. and when juda looked back, they saw the battle coming upon them both before and behind, and they cried to the lord: and the priests began to sound with the trumpets. and all the men of juda shouted: and behold when they shouted, god terrified jeroboam, and all israel that stood against abia and juda. and the children of israel fled before juda, and the lord delivered them into their hand. and abia and his people slew them with a great slaughter, and there fell wounded of israel five hundred thousand valiant men. and the children of israel were brought down, at that time, and the children of juda were exceedingly strengthened, because they had trusted in the lord the god of their fathers. and abia pursued after jeroboam, and took cities from him, bethel and her daughters, and jesana with her daughters, ephron also and her daughters. and jeroboam was not able to resist any more, in the days of abia: and the lord struck him, and he died. but abia, being strengthened in his kingdom, took fourteen wives: and begot two and twenty sons, and sixteen daughters. and the rest of the acts of abia, and of his ways and works, are written diligently in the book of addo the prophet.

and abia slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of david: and asa his son reigned in his stead: in his days the land was quiet ten years. and asa did that which was good and pleasing in the sight of his god, and he destroyed the altars of foreign worship, and the high places. and broke the statues, and cut down the groves. and he commanded juda to seek the lord the god of their fathers, and to do the law, and all the commandments. and he took away out of all the cities of juda the altars, and temples, and reigned in peace. he built also strong cities in juda, for he was quiet, and there had no wars risen in his time, the lord giving peace. and he said to juda: let us build these cities, and compass them with walls, and fortify them with towers, and gates, and bars, while all is quiet from wars, because we have sought the lord the god of our fathers, and he hath given us peace round about. so they built, and there was no hinderance in building. and asa had in his army of men that bore shields and spears of juda three hundred thousand, and of benjamin that bore shields and drew bows, two hundred and eighty thousand, all these were most valiant men. and zara the ethiopian came out against them with his army of ten hundred thousand men, and with three hundred chariots: and he came as far as maresa. and asa went out to meet him, and set his army in array for battle in the vale of sephata, which is near maresa: and he called upon the lord god, and said: o lord, there is no difference with thee, whether thou help with few, or with many: help us, o lord our god: for with confidence in thee, and in thy name, we are come against this multitude. o lord thou art our god, let not man prevail against thee. and the lord terrified the ethiopians before asa and juda: and the ethiopians fled. and asa and the people that were with him pursued them to gerara: and the ethiopians fell even to utter destruction, for the lord slew them, and his army fought against them, and they were destroyed. and they took abundance of spoils, and they took all the cities round about gerara: for a great fear was come upon all men: and they pillaged the cities, and carried off much booty. and they destroyed the sheepecotes, and took an infinite number of cattle, and of camels: and returned to jerusalem.

and the spirit of god came upon azarias the son of oded, and he went out to meet asa, and said to him: hear ye me, asa, and all juda and benjamin: the lord is with you, because you have been with him. if you seek him, you shall find: but if you forsake him, he will forsake you. and many days shall pass in israel without the true god, and without a priest a teacher, and without the law. and when in their distress they shall return to the lord the god of israel, and shall seek him, they shall find him. at that time there shall be no peace to him that goeth out and cometh in, but terrors on every side among all the inhabitants of the earth. for nation shall fight against nation, and city against city, for the lord will trouble them with all distress. do you therefore take courage, and let not your hands be weakened: for there shall be a reward for your work. and when asa had heard the words, and the prophecy of azarias the son of oded the prophet, he took courage, and took away the idols out of all the land of juda, and out of benjamin, and out of the cities of mount ephraim, which he had taken, and he dedicated the altar of the lord, which was before the porch of the lord. and he gathered together all juda and benjamin, and the strangers with them of ephraim, and manasses, and simeon: for many were come over to him out of israel, seeing that the lord his god was with him. and when they were come to jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of asa, they sacrificed to the lord in that day of the spoils, and of the prey, that they had brought, seven hundred oxen, and seven thousand rams. and he went in to confirm as usual the covenant, that they should seek the lord the god of their fathers with all their heart, and with all their soul. and if any one, said he, seek not the lord the god of israel, let him die, whether little or great, man or woman. and they swore to the lord with a loud voice with joyful shouting, and with sound of trumpet, and sound of comets, all that mere in juda with a curse: for with all their heart they swore, and with all their will they sought him, and they found him, and the lord gave them rest round about. moreover maacha the mother of king asa he deposed from the royal authority, because she had made in a grove an idol of priapus: and he entirely destroyed it, and breaking it into pieces, burnt it at the torrent cedron. but high places were left in israel: nevertheless the heart of asa was perfect all his days. and the things which his father had vowed, and he himself had vowed, he brought into the house of the lord, gold and silver, and vessels of divers uses. and there was no war unto the five and thirtieth year of the kingdom of asa.

and in the six and thirtieth year of his kingdom, baasa the king of israel came up against juda, and built a wall about rama, that no one might safely go out or come in of the kingdom of asa. then asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the lord, and of the king's treasures, and sent to be-

nadad king of syria, who dwelt in damascus, saying: there is a league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father, wherefore i have sent thee silver and gold, that thou mayst break thy league with baasa king of israel, and make him depart from me. and then benadad heard this, he sent the captains of his armies against the cities of israel: and they took ahion, and dan, and abelmaim, and all the walled cities of nephtali. and when baasa heard of it, he left off the building of rama, and interrupted his work. then king asa took all juda, and they carried away from rama the stones, and the timber that baasa had prepared for the building: and he built with them gabaa, and maspha. at that time hanani the prophet came to asa king of juda, and said to him: because thou hast had confidence in the king of syria, and not in the lord thy god, therefore hath the army of the king of syria escaped out of thy hand. were not the ethiopians, and the libyans much more numerous in chariots, and horsemen, and an exceeding great multitude: yet because thou trustedst in the lord, he delivered them into thy hand? for the eyes of the lord behold all the earth, and give strength to those who with a perfect heart trust in him. wherefore thou hast done foolishly, and for this cause from this time wars shall arise against thee. and asa was angry with the seer, and commanded him to be put in prison: for he was greatly enraged because of this thing: and he put to death many of the people at that time. but the works of asa the first and last are written in the book of the kings of juda and israel. and asa fell sick in the nine and thirtieth year of his reign, of a most violent pain in his feet, and yet in his illness he did not seek the lord, but rather trusted in the skill of physicians. and he slept with his fathers: and he died in the one and fortieth year of his reign. and they buried him in his own sepulchre, which he had made for himself in the city of david: and they laid him on his bed full of spices and odoriferous ointments, which were made by the art of the perfumers, and they burnt them over him with very great pomp.

and josaphat his son reigned in his stead, and grew strong against israel. and he placed numbers of soldiers in all the fortified cities of juda. and he put garrisons in the land of juda, and in the cities of ephraim, which asa his father had taken. and the lord was with josaphat, because he walked in the first ways of david his father: and trusted not in baalim, but in the god of his father, and walk in his commandments, and not according to the sins of israel. and the lord established the kingdom in his hand, and all juda brought presents to josaphat: and he acquired immense riches, and much glory. and when his heart had taken courage for the ways of the lord, he took away also the high places and the groves out of juda. and in the third year of his reign, he sent of his princes benhail, and abdias, and zacharias, and nathanael, and micheas, to teach in the cities of juda: and with them the levites, semeias, end nathanias, and zabadias, and asael, and semiramoth, and jonathan, and

adonias, and tobias, and thobadonias levites, and with them elisama, and joram priests. and they taught the people in juda, having with them the book of the law of the lord: and they went about all the cities of juda, and instructed the people. and the fear of the lord came upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about juda, and they durst not make war against josaphat. the philistines also brought presents to josaphat, and tribute in silver, and the arabians brought him cattle, seven thousand seven hundred rams, and as many he goats. and josaphat grew, and became exceeding great: and he built in juda houses like towers, and walled cities. and he prepared many works in the cities of juda: and he had warriors, and valiant men in jerusalem. of whom this is the number of the houses and families of every one: in juda captains of the army, ednas the chief, and with him three hundred thousand most valiant men. after him johanah the captain, and with him two hundred and eighty thousand. and after him was amasias the son of zechri, consecrated to the lord, and with him were two hundred thousand valiant men. after him was eliada valiant in battle, and with him two hundred thousand armed with bow and shield. after him also was jozabad, and with him a hundred and eighty thousand ready for war. all these were at the hand of the king, beside others, whom he had put in the walled cities, in all juda.

now josaphat was rich and very glorious, and was joined by affinity to achab. and he went down to him after some years to samaria: and achab at his coming killed sheep and oxen in abundance for him and the people that came with him: and he persuaded him to go up to ramoth galaad. and achab king of israel said to josaphat king of juda: come with me to ramoth galaad. and he answered him: thou art as i am, and my people as thy people, and we will be with thee in the war. and josaphat said to the king of israel: inquire, i beseech thee, at present the word of the lord. so the king of israel gathered together of the prophets four hundred men, and he said to them: shall we go to ramoth galaad to fight, or shall we forbear? but they said: go up, and god will deliver it into the king's hand. and josaphat said: is there not here a prophet of the lord, that we may inquire also of him? and the king of israel said to josaphat: there is one man, of whom we may ask the will of the lord: but i hate him, for he never prophesieth good to me, but always evil: and it is micheas the son of jemla. and josaphat said: speak not thus, o king. and the king of israel called one of the eunuchs, and said to him: call quickly micheas the son of jemla. now the king of israel, and josaphat king of juda, both sat on their thrones, clothed in royal robes, and they sat in the open court by the gate of samaria, and all the prophets prophesied before them. and sedecias the son of chanaana made him horns of iron, and said: thus saith the lord: with these shalt thou push syria, till thou destroy it. and all the prophets prophesied in like manner, and said: go up to ramoth galaad, and thou shalt prosper, and the lord will deliver them into the king's hand. and the messenger that went to call micheas, said to him: behold the words of all the prophets with one mouth declare good to the king: i beseech thee therefore let not thy word disagree with them, and speak thou also good success. and micheas answered him: as the lord liveth, whatsoever my god shall say to me, that will i speak. so he came to the king: and the king said to him: micheas, shall we go to ramoth galaad to fight, or forbear? and he answered him: go up, for all shall succeed prosperously, and the enemies shall be delivered into your hands. and the king said: i adjure thee again and again to say nothing but the truth to me, in the name of the lord. then he said: i saw all israel scattered in the mountains, like sheep without a shepherd: and the lord said: these have no masters: let every man return to his own house in peace. and the king of israel said to josaphat: did i not tell thee that this man would not prophesy me any good, but evil? then he said: hear ye therefore the word of the lord: i saw the lord sitting on his throne, and all the army of heaven standing by him on the right hand and on the left. and the lord said: who shall deceive achab king of israel, that he may go up and fall in ramoth galaad? and when one spoke in this manner, and another otherwise: there came forth a spirit, and stood before the lord, and said: i will deceive him. and the lord said to him: by what means wilt thou deceive him? and he answered: i will go out, and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. and the lord said: thou shalt deceive, and shalt prevail: go out, and do so. now therefore behold the lord hath put a spirit of lying in the mouth of all thy prophets, and the lord hath spoken evil against thee. and sedecias the son of chanaana came, and struck micheas on the cheek and said: which way went the spirit of the lord from me, to speak to thee? and micheas said: thou thyself shalt see in that day, when thou shalt go in from chamber to chamber, to hide thyself. and the king of israel commanded, saying: take micheas, and carry him to amen the governor of the city, and to joas the son of amelech, and say: thus saith the king: put this fellow in prison, and give him bread and water in a small quantity till i return in peace. and micheas said: if thou return in peace, the lord hath not spoken by me. and he said: hear, all ye people. so the king of israel and josaphat king of juda went up to ramoth galaad. and the king of israel said to josaphat: i will change my dress, and so i will go to the battle, but put thou on thy own garments. and the king of israel having changed his dress, went to the battle. now the king of syria had commanded the captains of his cavalry, saying: fight ye not with small, or great, but with the king of israel only. so when the captains of the cavalry saw josaphat, they said: this is the king of israel. and they surrounded him to attack him: but he cried to the lord, and he helped him, and turned them away from him. for when the captains of the cavalry saw, that he was not the king of israel, they left him. and it happened that one of the people shot an arrow at a venture, and struck the king of israel between the neck and the shoulders, and he said to his chariot man: turn thy hand, and carry me out of the battle, for i am wounded. and the fight was ended that day: but the king of israel stood in his chariot against the syrians until the evening, and died at the sunset.

and josaphat king of juda returned to his house in peace to jerusalem. and jehu the son of hanani the seer met him, and said to him: thou helpest the ungodly, and thou art joined in friendship with them that hate the lord, and therefore thou didst deserve indeed the wrath of the lord: but good works are found in thee, because thou hast taken away the groves out of the land of juda, and hast prepared thy heart to seek the lord the god of thy fathers. and josaphat dwelt at jerusalem: and he went out again to the people from bersabee to mount ephraim, and brought them back to the lord the god of their fathers. and he set judges of the land in all the fenced cities of juda, in every place. and charging the judges, he said: take heed what you do: for you exercise not the judgment of man, but of the lord: and whatsoever you judge, it shall redound to you. let the fear of the lord be with you, and do all things with diligence: for there is no iniquity with the lord our god, a nor respect of persons, nor desire of gifts. in jerusalem also josaphat appointed levites, and priests and chiefs of the families of israel, to judge the judgment and the cause of the lord for the inhabitants thereof. and he charged them, saying: thus shall you do in the fear of the lord faithfully, and with a perfect heart. every cause that shall come to you of your brethren, that dwell in their cities, between kindred and kindred, wheresoever there is question concerning the law, the commandment, the ceremonies, the justifications: shew it them, that they may not sin against the lord, and that wrath may not come upon you and your brethren: and so doing you shall not sin. and amarias the priest your high priest shall be chief in the things which regard god: and zabadias the son of ismahel, who is ruler in the house of juda, shall be over those matters which belong to the king's office: and you have before you the levites for masters, take courage and do diligently, and the lord will be with you in good things.

after this the children of moab, and the children of ammon, and with them of the ammonites, were gathered together to fight against josaphat. and there came messengers, and told josaphat, saying: there cometh a great multitude against thee from beyond the sea, and out of syria, and behold they are in asasonthamar, which is engaddi. and josaphat being seized with fear betook himself wholly to pray to the lord, and he proclaimed a fast for all juda. and juda gathered themselves together to pray to the lord: and all came out of their cities to make supplication to him. and josaphat stood in the midst of the assembly of juda, and jerusalem, in the house of the lord before the new court, and said: o lord god of our fathers, thou art god in heaven, and rulest over all the kingdoms and nations, in thy hand is strength and power, and no one can resist thee. didst not thou our god kill all the inhabitants of this land before thy people israel, and gavest it to the seed of abraham thy friend for ever? and they dwelt in it, and built in it a sanctuary to thy name, saying: if evils fall upon us, the sword of judgment, or pestilence, or famine, we will stand in thy presence before this house, in which thy name is called upon: and we will cry to thee in our afflictions, and thou wilt hear, and save us. now therefore behold the children of ammon, and of moab, and mount seir, through whose lands thou didst not allow israel to pass, when they came out of egypt, but they turned aside from them, and slew them not, do the contrary, and endeavour to cast us out of the possession which thou hast delivered to us. o our god, wilt thou not then judge them? as for us we have not strength enough, to be able to resist this multitude, which cometh violently upon us. but as we know not what to do, we can only turn our eyes to thee. and all juda stood before the lord with their little ones, and their wives, and their children. and jahaziel the son of zacharias, the son of banaias, the son of jehiel, the son of mathanias, a levite of the sons of asaph, was there, upon whom the spirit of the lord came in the midst of the multitude, and he said: attend ye, all juda, and you that dwell in jerusalem, and thou king josaphat: thus saith the lord to you: fear ye not, and be not dismayed at this multitude: for the battle is not yours, but god's. to morrow you shall go down against them: for they will come up by the ascent named sis, and you shall find them at the head of the torrent, which is over against the wilderness of jeruel. it shall not be you that shall fight, but only stand with confidence, and you shall see the help of the lord over you, o juda, and jerusalem: fear ye not, nor be you dismayed: to morrow you shall go out against them, and the lord will be with you. then josaphat, and juda, and all the inhabitants of jerusalem fell hat on the ground before the lord, and adored him. and the levites of the sons of caath, and of the sons of core praised the lord the god of israel with a loud voice, on high. and they rose early in the morning, and went out through the desert of thecua: and as they were marching, josaphat standing in the midst of them, said: hear me, ye men of juda, and all the inhabitants of jerusalem: believe in the lord your god, and you shall be secure: believe his prophets, and all things shall succeed well. and he gave counsel to the people, and appointed the singing men of the lord, to praise him by their companies, and to go before the army, and with one voice to say: give glory to the lord, for his mercy endureth for ever. and when they began to sing praises, the lord turned their ambushments upon themselves, that is to say, of the children of ammon, and of moab, and of mount seir, who were come out to fight against juda, and they were slain. for the children of ammon, and of moab, rose up against the inhabitants of mount seir, to kill and destroy them: and when they had made an end of them, they turned also against one another, and destroyed one another.

and when juda came to the watch tower, that looketh toward the desert, they saw afar off all the country, for a great space, full of dead bodies, and that no one was left that could escape death. then josaphat came, and all the people with him to take away the spoils of the dead, and they found among the dead bodies, stuff of various kinds, and garments, and most precious vessels: and they took them for themselves, inasmuch that they could not carry all, nor in three days take away the spoils, the booty was so great. and on the fourth day they were assembled in the valley of blessing: for there they blessed the lord, and therefore they called that place the valley of blessing until this day. and every man of juda, and the inhabitants of jerusalem returned, and josaphat at their head, into jerusalem with great joy, because the lord had made them rejoice over their enemies. and they came into jerusalem with psalteries, and harps, and trumpets into the house of the lord. and the fear of the lord fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands when they heard that the lord had fought against the enemies of israel. and the kingdom of josaphat was quiet, and god gave him peace round about. and josaphat reigned over juda, and he was five and thirty years old when he began to reign: and he reigned five and twenty years in jerusalem: and the name of his mother was azuba the daughter of selahi. and he walked in the way of his father asa, and departed not from it, doing the things that were pleasing before the lord. but yet he took not away the high places, and the people had not yet turned their heart to the lord the god of their fathers. but the rest of the acts of josaphat, first and last, are written in the words of jehu the son of hanani, which he digested into the books of the kings of israel. after these things josaphat king of juda made friendship with ochozias king of israel, whose works were very wicked. and he was partner with him in making ships, to go to tharsis: and they made the ships in asiongaber. and eliezzer the son of dodau of maresa prophesied to josaphat, saying: because thou hast made a league with ochozias, the lord hath destroyed thy works, and the ships are broken, and they could not go to tharsis.

and josaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of david: and joram his son reigned in his stead. and he had brethren the sons of josaphat, azarias, and jahiel, and zacharias, and azaria, and michael, and saphatias, all these were the sons of josaphat king of juda. and their father gave them great gifts of silver, and of gold, and pensions, with strong cities in juda: but the kingdom he gave to joram, because he was the eldest. so joram rose up over the kingdom of his father: and when he had established himself, he slew all his brethren with the sword, and some of the princes of israel. joram was two and thirty years old when he began to reign: and he reigned eight years in jerusalem. and he walked in the ways of the kings of israel, as the house of achab had done: for his wife was a daughter of achab, and he did evil in the sight of the lord. but the lord would not destroy the house of david: because of the covenant which he had made with him: and because he had promised to give a lamp to him, and to his sons for ever. in those days edom revolted, from being subject to juda, and made themselves a king. and joram went over with his princes, and all his cavalry with him, and rose in the night, and defeated the edomites who had surrounded him, and all the captains of his cavalry. however edom revolted, from being under the dominion of juda unto this day: at that time lobna also revolted, from being under his hand. for he had forsaken the lord the god of his fathers: moreover he built also high places in the cities of juda, and he made the inhabitants of jerusalem to commit fornication, and juda to transgress. and there was a letter brought him from elias the prophet, in which it was written: thus saith the lord the god of david thy father: because thou hast not walked in the ways of josaphat thy father nor in the ways of asa king of juda, but hast walked in the ways of the kings of israel, and hast made juda and the inhabitants of jerusalem to commit fornication, imitating the fornication of the house of achab, moreover also thou hast killed thy brethren, the house of thy father, better men than thyself, behold the lord will strike thee with a great plague, with all thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy substance. and thou shalt be sick of a very grievous disease of thy bowels, till thy vital parts come out by little and little every day. and the lord stirred up against joram the spirit of the philistines, and of the arabians, who border on the ethiopians. and they came up into the land of juda, and wasted it, and they carried away all the substance that was found in the king's house, his sons also, and his wives: so that there was no son left him but joachaz, who was the youngest. and besides all this the lord struck him with an incurable disease in his bowels. and as day came after day, and time rolled on, two whole years passed: then after being wasted with a long consumption, so as to void his very bowels, his disease ended with his life. and he died of a most wretched illness, and the people did not make a funeral for him according to the manner of burning, as they had done for his ancestors. he was two and thirty years old when he began his reign, and he reigned eight years in jerusalem. and he walked not rightly, and they buried him in the city of david: but not in the sepulchres of the kings.

and the inhabitants of jerusalem made ochozias his youngest son king in his place: for the rovers of the arabians, who had broke in upon the camp, had killed all that were his elder brothers. so ochozias the son of joram king of juda reigned. ochozias was forty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in jerusalem, and the name of his mother was athalia the daughter of amri. he also walked in the ways of the house of achab: for his mother pushed him on to do wickedly. so he did evil in the sight of the lord, as the house of achab did: for they were his counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction. and he walked after their counsels. and he went with joram the son of achab king of israel, to fight against hazael king of syria, at ramoth galaad: and the syrians wounded joram. and he returned to be healed in jezzrahel: for he received many wounds in the foresaid battle. and ochozias the son of joram king of juda, went down to visit joram the son of achab in jezzrahel where he lay sick. for it was the will of god against ochozias that he should come to joram: and when he was come should go out also against jehu the son of namsi, whom the lord had anointed to destroy the house of achab. so when jehu was rooting out the house of achab, he found the princes of juda, and the sons of the brethren of ochozias, who served him, and he slew them. and he sought for ochozias himself, and took him lying hid in samaria: and when he was brought to him, he killed him, and they buried him: because he was the son of josaphat, who had sought the lord with all his heart. and there was no more hope that any one should reign of the race of ochozias. for athalia his mother, seeing that her son was dead, rose up, and killed all the royal family of the house of joram. but josabeth the king's daughter took joas the son of ochozias, and stole him from among the king's sons that were slain. and she hid him with his nurse in a bedchamber: now josabeth that hid him, was daughter of king joram, wife of joiada the high priest, and sister of ochozias, and therefore athalia did not kill him. and he was with them hid in the house of god six years, during which athalia reigned over the land.

and in the seventh year joiada being encouraged, took the captains of hundreds, to wit, azarias the son of jeroham, and ismahel the son of johanan, and azarias the son of obed, and maasias the son of adaias, and elisaphat the son of zechri: and made a covenant with them. and they went about juda, and gathered together the levites out of all the cities of juda, and the chiefs of the families of israel, and they came to jerusalem. and all the multitude made a covenant with the king in the house of god: and joiada said to them: behold the king's son shall reign, as the lord hath said of the sons of david. and this is the thing that you shall do: a third part of you that come to the sabbath, of the priests, and of the levites, and of the porters, shall be at the gates: and a third part at the king's house: and a third at the gate that is called the foundation: but let all the rest of the people be in the courts of the house of the lord. and let no one come into the house of the lord, but the priests, and they that minister of the levites: let them only come in, because they are sanctified: and let all the rest of the people keep the watches of the lord. and let the levites be round about the king, every man with his arms; (and if any other come into the temple, let him be slain;) and let them be with the king, both coming in, and going out. so the levites, and all juda did according to all that joiada the high priest had commanded: and they took every one his men that were under him, and that came in by the course of the sabbath, with those who had fulfilled the sabbath, and were to go out. for joiada the high priest permitted not the companies to depart, which were accustomed to succeed one another every week. and joiada the priest gave to the captains the spears, and the shields, and targets of king david, which he had dedicated in the house of the lord. and he set all the people with swords in their hands from the right side of the temple, to the left side of the temple, before the altar, and the temple, round about the king. and they brought out the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and the testimony, and gave him the law to hold in his hand, and they made him king: and joiada the high priest and his sons anointed him: and they prayed for him, and said: god save the king. now when athalia heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she came in to the people, into the temple of the lord. and when she saw the king standing upon the step in the entrance, and the princes, and the companies about him, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and sounding with trumpets, and playing on instruments of divers kinds, and the voice of those that praised, she rent her garments, and said: treason, treason. and joiada the high priest going out to the captains, and the chiefs of the army, said to them: take her forth without the precinct of the temple, and when she is without let her be killed with the sword. for the priest commanded that she should not be killed in the house of the lord. and they laid hold on her by the neck: and when she was come within the horse gate of the palace, they killed her there. and joiada made a covenant between himself and all the people, and the king, that they should be the people of the lord. and all the people went into the house of baal, and destroyed it: and they broke down his altars and his idols: and they slew mathan the priest of baal before the altars. and joiada appointed overseers in the house of the lord, under the hands of the priests, and the levites, whom david had distributed in the house of the lord: to offer holocausts to the lord, as it is written in the law of moyses, with joy and singing, according to the disposition of david. he appointed also porters in the gates of the house of the lord, that none who was unclean in any thing should enter in. and he took the captains of hundreds, and the most valiant men, and the chiefs of the people, and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king from the house of the lord, and brought him through the upper gate into the king's house, and set him on the royal throne. and all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet: but athalia was slain with the sword.

joas was seven years old when he began to reign: and he reigned forty years in jerusalem : the name of his mother was sebia of bersabee. and he did that which is good before the lord all the days of joiada the priest. and joiada took for him two wives, by whom he had sons and daughters. after this joas had a mind to repair the house of the lord. and he assembled the priests, and the levites, and said to them: go out to the cities of juda, and gather of all israel money to repair the temple of your god, from year to year: and do this with speed: but the levites were negligent. and the king called joiada the chief, and said to him: why hast thou not taken care to oblige the levites to bring in out of juda and jerusalem the money that was appointed by moyses the servant of the lord for all the multitude of israel to bring into the tabernacle of the testimony? for that wicked woman athalia, and her children have destroyed the house of god, and adorned the temple of baal with all the things that had been dedicated in the temple of the lord. and the king commanded, and they made a chest: and set it by the gate of the house of the lord on the outside. and they made a proclamation in juda and jerusalem, that every man should bring to the lord the money which moyses the servant of god appointed for all israel, in the desert. and all the princes, and all the people rejoiced: and going in they contributed and cast so much into the chest of the lord, that it was filled. and when it was time to bring the chest before the king by the hands of the levites, (for they saw there was much money,) the king's scribe, and he whom the high priest had appointed went in: and they poured out the money that was in the chest: and they carried back the chest to its place: and thus they did from day to day, and there was gathered an immense sum of money. and the king and joiada gave it to those who were over the works of the house of the lord: but they hired with it stonecutters, and artificers of every kind of work to repair the house of the lord: and such as wrought in iron and brass, to uphold what began to be falling. and the workmen were diligent, and the breach of the walls was closed up by their hands, and they set up the house of the lord in its former state, and made it stand firm. and when they had finished all the works, they brought the rest of the money before the king and joiada: and with it were made vessels for the temple for the ministry, and for holocausts and bowls, and other vessels of gold and silver : and holocausts were offered in the house of the lord continually all the days of joiada. but joiada grew old and was full of days, and died when he was a hundred and thirty years old. and they buried him in the city of david among the kings, because he had done good to israel, and to his house. and after the death of joiada, the princes of juda went in, and worshipped the king: and he was soothed by their services and hearkened to them. and they forsook the temple of the lord the god of their fathers, and served groves and idols, and wrath came upon juda and jerusalem for this sin. and he sent prophets to them to bring them back to the lord, and they would not give ear when they testified against them. the spirit of god then came upon zacharias the son of joiada the priest, and he stood in the sight of the people, and said to them: thus saith the lord god: why transgress you the commandment of the lord which will not be for your good, and have forsaken the lord, to make him forsake you? and they gathered themselves together against him, and stoned him at the king's commandment in the court of the house of the lord. and king joas did not remember the kindness that joiada his father had done to him, but killed his son. and when he died, he said: the lord see, and require it. and when a year was come about, the army of syria came up against him: and they came to juda and jerusalem, and killed all the princes of the people, and they sent all the spoils to the king of damascus. and whereas there came a very small number of the syrians, the lord delivered into their hands an infinite multitude, because they had forsaken the lord the god of their fathers: and on joas they executed shameful judgments. and departing they left him in diseases: and his servants rose up him, for revenge of the blood of the son of joiada the priest, and they slew him in his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the city of david, but not in the sepulchres of the kings. now the men that conspired against him were zabad the son of semmaath an ammonitess, and jozabad the son of semarith a moabitess. and concerning his sons, and the sum of money which was gathered under him, and the repairing the house of god; they are written more diligently in the book of kings: and amasias his son reigned in his stead.

amasias was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned nine and twenty years in jerusalem, the name of his mother was joadan of jerusalem. and he did what was good in the sight of the lord: but yet not with a perfect heart. and when he saw himself strengthened in his kingdom, he put to death the servants that had slain the king his father. but he slew not their children, as it is written in the book of the law of moyses, where the lord commanded, saying: the fathers shall not be slain for the children, nor the children for their fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin. amasias therefore gathered juda together, and appointed them by families, and captains of thousands and of hundreds in all juda, and benjamin: and he numbered them from twenty years old and upwards, and found three hundred thousand young men that could go out to battle, and could hold the spear and shield. he hired also of israel a hundred thousand valiant men, for a hundred talents of silver. but a man of god came to him, and said: o king, let not the army of israel go out with thee, for the lord is not with israel, and all the children of ephraim: and if thou think that battles consist in the strength of the army, god will make thee to be overcome by the enemies: for it belongeth to god both to help, and to put to flight. and amasias said to the man of god: what will then become of the hundred talents which i have given to the soldiers of israeli and the man of god answered him: the lord is rich enough to be able to give thee much more than this. then amasias separated the army, that came to him out of ephraim, to go home again: but they being much enraged against juda, returned to their own country. and amasias taking courage led forth his people, and went to the vale of saltlips, and slew of the children of seir ten thousand. and other ten thousand men the sons of juda took, and brought to the steep of a certain rock, and cast them down headlong from the top, and they all were broken to pieces. but that army which amasias had sent back, that they should not go with him to battle, spread themselves among the cities of juda, from samaria to beth-horon, and having killed three thousand took away much spoil. but amasias after he had slain the edomites, set up the gods of the children of seir, which he had brought thence, to be his gods, and adored them, and burnt incense to them. wherefore the lord being angry against amasias, sent a prophet to him, to say to him: why hast thou adored gods that have not delivered their own people out of thy hand? and when he spoke these things, he answered him: art thou the king's counsellor? be quiet, lest i kill thee. and the prophet departing, said: i know that god is minded to kill thee, because thou hast done this evil, and moreover hast not hearkened to my counsel. then amasias king of juda taking very bad counsel, sent to joas the son of joachaz the son of jehu, king of israel, saying: come, let us see one another. but he sent back the messengers, saying: the thistle that is in libanus, sent to the cedar in libanus, saying: give thy daughter to my son to wife: and behold the beasts that were in the wood of libanus passed by, and trod down the thistle. thou hast said: i have overthrown edom, and therefore thy heart is lifted up with pride: stay at home, why dost thou provoke evil against thee, that both thou shouldst fall and juda with thee. amasias would not hearken to him, because it was the lord's will that he should be delivered into the hands of enemies, because of the gods of edom. so joas king of israel went up, and they presented themselves to be seen by one another: and amasias king of juda was in bethsames of juda: and juda fell before israel and they fled to their dwellings. and joas king of israel took amasias king of juda, the son of joas, the son joachaz, in bethsames, and brought him to jerusalem: and broke down the walls thereof from the gate of ephraim, to the gate of the corner, four hundred cubits. and he took all the gold, and silver, and all the vessels, that he found in the house of god, and with obedom, and in the treasures of the king's house, moreover also the sons of the hostages, he brought back to samaria. and amasias the son of joas king of juda lived, after the death of joas the son of joachaz king of israel, fifteen years. now the rest of the acts of amasias, the first and last, are written in the book of the kings of juda and israel. and after he revolted from the lord, they made a conspiracy against him in jerusalem. and he fled into lachis, and they sent, and killed him there. and they brought him back upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of david.

and all the people of juda took his son ozias, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in the room of amasias his father. he built ailath, and restored it to the dominion of juda, after that the king slept with his fathers. ozias was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in jerusalem: the name of his mother was jechelia of jerusalem. and he did that which was right in the eyes of the lord, according to all that amasias his father had done. and he sought the lord in the days of zacharias that understood and saw god: and as long as he sought the lord, he directed him in all things. moreover he went forth and fought against the philistines, and broke down the wall of geth, and the wall of jabnia, and the wall of azotus: and he built towns in azotus, and among the philistines. and god helped him against the philistines, and against the arabians, that dwelt in gurbal, and against the ammonites. and the ammonites gave gifts to ozias: and his name was spread abroad even to the entrance of egypt for his frequent victories. and ozias built towers in jerusalem over the gate of the corner, and over the gate of the valley, and the rest, in the same side of the wall, and fortified them. and he built towers in the wilderness, and dug many cisterns, for he had much cattle both in the plains, and in the waste of the desert: he had also vineyards and dressers of vines in the mountains, and in carmel: for he was a man that loved husbandry. and the army of his fighting men, that went out to war, was under the hand of jehiel the scribe, and maasias the doctor, and under the hand of henanias, who was one of the king's captains. and the whole number of the chiefs by the families of valiant men were two thousand six hundred. and the whole army under them three hundred and seven thousand five hundred: who were fit for war, and fought for the king against the enemy. and ozias prepared for them, that is, for the whole army, shields, and spears, and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows, and slings to cast stones. and he made in jerusalem engines of diverse kinds, which he placed in the towers, and in the corners of the walls, to shoot arrows, and great stones: and his name went forth far abroad, for the lord helped him, and had strengthened him. but when he was made strong, his heart was lifted up to his destruction, and he neglected the lord his god: and going into the temple of the lord, he had a mind to burn incense upon the altar of incense. and immediately azarias the priest going in after him, and with him fourscore priests of the lord, most valiant men, withstood the king and said: it doth not belong to thee, ozias, to burn incense to the lord, but to the priests, that is, to the sons of aaron, who are consecrated for this ministry: go out of the sanctuary, do not despise: for this thing shall not be accounted to thy glory by the lord god. and ozias was angry, and holding in his hand the censer to burn incense, threatened the priests. and presently there rose a leprosy in his forehead before the priests, in the house of the lord at the altar of incense. and azarias the high priest, and all the rest of the priests looked upon him, and saw the leprosy in his forehead, and they made haste to thrust him out. yea himself also being frightened, hasted to go out, because he had quickly felt the stroke of the lord. and ozias the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and he dwelt in a house apart being full of the leprosy, for which he had been cast out of the house of the lord. and joatham his son governed the king's house, and judged the people of the land. but the rest of the acts of ozias first and last were written by isaias the son of amos, the prophet. and ozias slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the field of the royal sepulchres, because he was a leper: and joatham his son reigned in his stead.

joatham was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in jerusalem: the name of his mother was jerusa the daughter of sadoc. and he did that which was right before the lord, according to all that ozias his father had done, only that he entered not into the temple of the lord, and the people still transgressed. he built the high gate of the house of the lord, and on the wall of ophel he built much. moreover he built cities in the mountains of juda, and castles and towers in the forests. he fought against the king of the children of ammon, and overcame them, and the children of ammon gave him at that time a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and as many measures of barley: so much did the children of ammon give him in the second and third year. and joatham was strengthened, because he had his way directed before the lord his god. now the rest of the acts of joatham, and all his wars, and his works, are written in the book of the kings of israel and juda. he was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in jerusalem. and joatham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of david: and achaz his son reigned in his stead.

achaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in jerusalem: he did not that which was right in the sight of the lord as david his father had done, but walked in the ways of the kings of israel; moreover also he cast statues for baalim. it was he that burnt incense in the valley of benennom, and consecrated his sons in the fire according to the manner of the nations, which the lord slew at the coming of the children of israel. he sacrificed also, and burnt incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree. and the lord his god delivered him into the hands of the king of syria, who defeated him, and took a great booty out of his kingdom, and carried it to damascus: he was also delivered into the hands of the king of israel, who overthrew him with a great slaughter. for phacee the son of romelia slew of juda a hundred and twenty thousand in one day, all valiant men: because they had forsaken the lord the god of their fathers. at the same time zechri a powerful man of ephraim, slew maasias the king's son, and ezricam the governor of his house, and elcana who was next to the king. and the children of israel carried away of their brethren two hundred thousand women, boys, and girls, and an immense booty: and they brought it to samaria. at that time there was a prophet of the lord there, whose name was oded: and he went out to meet the army that came to samaria, and said to them: be- hold the

lord the god of your fathers being angry with juda, hath delivered them into your hands, and you have butchered them cruelly, so that your cruelty hath reached up to heaven. moreover you have a mind to keep under the children of juda and jerusalem for your bondmen and bondwomen, which ought not to be done : for you have sinned in this against the lord your god. but hear ye my counsel, and release the captives that you have brought of your brethren, because a great indignation of the lord hangeth over you. then some of the chief men of the sons of ephraim, azarias the son of johanen, barachias the son of mosollamoth, ezechias the son of sellum, and amasa the son of adali, stood up against them that came from the war. and they said to them: you shall not bring in the captives hither, lest we sin against the lord. why will you add to our sins, and heap up upon our former offences? for the sin is great, and the fierce anger of the lord hangeth over israel. so the soldiers left the spoils, and all that they had taken, before the princes and all the multitude. and the men, whom we mentioned above, rose up and took the captives, and with the spoils clothed all them that were naked: and when they had clothed and shed them, and refreshed them with meat and drink, and anointed them because of their labour, and had taken care of them, they set such of them as could not walk, and were feeble, upon beasts, and brought them to jericho the city of palm trees to their brethren, and they returned to samaria. at that time king achaz sent to the king of the assyrians asking help. and the edomites came and slew many of juda, and took a great booty. the philistines also spread themselves among the cities of the plains, and to the south of juda: and they took bethsames, and aialon, and gaderoth, and socho, and thamnan, and gamzo, with their villages, and they dwelt in them. for the lord had humbled juda because of achaz the king of juda, for he had stripped it of help, and had contemned the lord. and he brought, against him thelgathphalnasar king of the assyrians, who also afflicted him, and plundered him without any resistance. and achaz stripped the house of the lord, and the house of the kings, and of the princes, and gave gifts to the king of the assyrians, and yet it availed him nothing. moreover also in the time of his distress he increased contempt against the lord: king achaz himself by himself, sacrificed victims to the gods of damascus that struck him, and he said: the gods of the kings of syria help them, and i will appease them with victims, and they will help me; whereas on the contrary they were the ruin of him, and of all israel. then achaz having taken away all the vessels of the house of god, and broken them, shut up the doors of the temple of god, and made himself altars in all the corners of jerusalem. and in all the cities of juda he built altars to burn frankincense, and he provoked the lord the god of his fathers to wrath. but the rest of his acts, and all his works first and last are written in the book of the kings of juda and israel. and achaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of jerusalem: for they received him not into the sepulchres of the kings of israel. and ezechias his son reigned in his stead.

now ezechias began to reign, when he was five and twenty years old, and he reigned nine and twenty years in jerusalem: the name of his mother was abia, the daughter of zacharias. and he did that which was pleasing in the sight of the lord, according to all that david his father had done. in the first year and month of his reign he opened the doors of the house of the lord, and repaired them. and he brought the priests and the levites, and assembled them in the east street. and he said to them: hear me, ye levites, and be sanctified, purify the house of the lord the god of your fathers, and take away all filth out of the sanctuary. our fathers have sinned and done evil in the sight of the lord god, forsaking him: they have turned away their faces from the tabernacle of the lord, and turned their backs. they have shut up the doors that were in tile porch, and put out the lamps. and have not burnt incense, nor offered holocausts in the sanctuary of the god of israel. therefore the wrath of the lord hath been stirred up against juda and jerusalem, and he hath delivered them to trouble, and to destruction, and to be hissed at, as you see with your eyes. behold, our fathers are fallen by the sword, our sons, and our daughters, and wives are led away captives for this wickedness. now therefore i have a mind that we make a covenant with the lord the god of israel, and he will turn away the wrath of his indignation from us. my sons, be not negligent: the lord hath chosen you to stand before him, and to minister to him, and to worship him, and to burn incense to him. then the levites arose, mahath the son of amasai, and joel the son of azarias, of the sons of caath: and of the sons of merari, cis the son of abdi, and azarias the son of jalaleel. and of the sons of gerson, joah the son of zemma, and eden the son of joah. and of the sons of elisaphan, samri, and jahiel. also of the sons of asaph, zacharias, and mathanias. and of the sons of heman, jahiel, and semei: and of the sons of idithun, semeias, and oziel. and they gathered together their brethren, and sanctified themselves, and went in according to the commandment of the king, and the precept of the lord, to purify the house of god. and the priests went into the temple of the lord to sanctify it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found within to the entrance of the house of the lord, and the levites took it away, and carried it out abroad to the torrent cedron. and they began to cleanse on the first day of the first month, and on the eighth day of the same month they came into the porch of the temple of the lord, and they purified the temple in eight days, and on the sixteenth day of the same month they finished what they had begun. and they went is to king ezechias, and said to him: we have sanctified all the house of the lord, and the altar of holocaust, and the vessels thereof, and the table of proposition with all its vessels, and all the furniture of the temple, which king achaz in his reign had defiled, after his transgression; and behold they are all set forth before the altar of the lord. and king ezechias rising early, assembled all the rulers of the city, and went up into the house of the lord: and they offered together seven bullocks, and

seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he goats for sin, for the kingdom, for the sanctuary, for juda: and he spoke to the priests the sons of aaron, to offer them upon the altar of the lord. therefore they killed the bullocks, and the priests took the blood, and poured it upon the altar; they killed also the rams, and their blood they poured also upon the altar, and they killed the lambs, and poured the blood upon the altar. and they brought the he goats for sin before the king, and the whole multitude, and they laid their hand upon them: and the priests immolated them, and sprinkled their blood before the altar for an expiation of all israel: for the king had commanded that the holocaust and the sin offering should be made for all israel. and he set the levites in the house of the lord with cymbals, and psalteries, and harps according to the regulation of david the king, and of gad the seer, and of nathan the prophet: for it was the commandment of the lord by the hand of his prophets. and the levites stood, with the instruments of david, and the priests with trumpets. and ezechias commanded that they should offer holocausts upon the altar: and when the holocausts were offered, they began to sing praises to the lord, and to sound with trumpets, and divers instruments which david the king of israel had prepared. and all the multitude adored, and the singers, and the trumpeters, were in their office till the holocaust was finished. and when the oblation was ended, the king, and all that were with him bowed down and adored. and ezechias and the princes commanded the levites to praise the lord with the words of david, and asaph the seer: and they praised him with great joy, and bowing the knee adored. and ezechias added, and said: you have filled your hands to the lord, come and offer victims, and praises in the house of the lord. and all the multitude offered victims, and praises, and holocausts with a devout mind. and the number of the holocausts which the multitude offered, was seventy bullocks, a hundred rams, and two hundred lambs. and they consecrated to the lord six hundred oxen, and three thousand sheep. but the priests were few, and were not enough to flay the holocausts: wherefore the levites their brethren helped them, till the work was ended, and priests were sanctified, for the levites are sanctified with an easier rite than the priests. so there were many holocausts, and the fat of peace offerings, and the libations of holocausts: and the service of the house of the lord was completed. and ezechias, and all the people rejoiced because the ministry of the lord was accomplished. for the resolution of doing this thing was taken suddenly.

and ezechias sent to all israel and juda: and he wrote letters to ephraim and manasses, that they should come to the house of the lord in jerusalem, and keep the phase to the lord the god of israel. for the king, taking counsel, and the princes, and all the assembly of jerusalem, decreed to keep the phase the second month. for they could not keep it in its time; because there were not priests enough sanctified, and the people was not as yet gathered together to jerusalem.

and the thing pleased the king, and all the people. and they decreed to send messengers to all israel from bersabee even to dan, that they should come, and keep the phase to the lord the god of israel in jerusalem: for many had not kept it as it is prescribed by the law. and the posts went with letters by commandment of the king, and his princes, to all israel and juda, proclaiming according to the king's orders: ye children of israel, turn again to the lord the god of abraham, and of isaac, and of israel: and he will return to the remnant of you that have escaped the hand of the king of the assyrians. be not like your fathers, and brethren, who departed from the lord the god of their fathers, and he hath given them up to destruction, as you see. harden not your necks, as your fathers did: yield yourselves to the lord, and come to his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: serve the lord the god of your fathers, and the wrath of his indignation shall be turned away from you. for if you turn again to the lord: your brethren, and children shall find mercy before their masters, that have led them away captive, and they shall return into this land: for the lord your god is merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if you return to him. so the posts went speedily from city to city, through the land of ephraim, and of manasses, even to zabulon, whilst they laughed at them and mocked them. nevertheless some men of aser, and of manasses, and of zabulon, yielding to the counsel, came to jerusalem. but the hand of god was in juda, to give them one heart to do the word of the lord, according to the commandment of the king, and of the princes. and much people were assembled to jerusalem to celebrate the solemnity of the unleavened bread in the second month: and they arose and destroyed the altars that were in jerusalem, and took sway all things in which incense was burnt to idols, and cast them into the torrent cedron. and they immolated the phase on the fourteenth day of the second month. and the priests and the levites being at length sanctified offered holocausts in the house of the lord. and they stood in their order according to the disposition, and law of moyses the man of god: but the priests received the blood which was to be poured out, from the hands of the levites, because a great number was not sanctified: and therefore the levites immolated the phase for them that came not in time to be sanctified to the lord. for a great part of the people from ephraim, and manasses, and issachar, and zabulon, that had not been sanctified, ate the phase otherwise than it is written: and ezechias prayed for them, saying: the lord who is good will shew mercy, to all them, who with their whole heart, seek the lord the god of their fathers: and will not impute it to them that they are not sanctified. and the lord heard him, and was merciful to the people. and the children of israel, that were found at jerusalem, kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great joy, praising the lord every day: the levites also, and the priests, with instruments that agreed to their office. and ezechias spoke to the heart of all the levites, that had good understanding concerning the lord: and they ate during the seven days of the solemnity, immolating victims of peace offerings, and praising the lord the god of their fathers. and it pleased the whole multitude to keep other seven days: which they did with great joy. for ezechias the king of juda had given to the multitude a thousand bullocks, and seven thousand sheep: and the princes had given the people a thousand bullocks, and ten thousand sheep: and a great number of priests was sanctified. and all the multitude of juda with the priests and levites, and all the assembly, that came out of israel; and the proselytes of the land of israel, and that dwelt in juda were full of joy. and there was a great solemnity in jerusalem, such as had not been in that city since the time of solomon the son of david king of israel. and the priests and the levites rose up and blessed the people: and their voice was heard: and their prayer came to the holy dwelling place of heaven.

and when these things had been duly celebrated, all israel that were found in the cities of juda, went out, and they broke the idols, and cut down the groves. demolished the high places, and destroyed the altars, not only out of all juda and benjamin, but out of ephraim also and manasses, till they had utterly destroyed them: then all the children of israel returned to their possessions and cities. and ezechias appointed companies of the priests, and the levites, by their courses, every man in his own office, to wit, both of the priests, and of the levites, for holocausts, and for peace offerings, to minister, and to praise, and to sing in the gates of the camp of the lord. and the king's part was, that of his proper substance the holocaust should be offered always morning and evening, and on the sabbaths, and the new moons and the other solemnities, as it is written in the law of moyses. he commanded also the people that dwelt in jerusalem, to give to the priests, and the levites their portion, that they might attend to the law of the lord. which when it was noised abroad in the ears of the people, the children of israel offered in abundance the firstfruits of corn, wine, and oil, and honey: and brought the tithe of all things which the ground bringeth forth. moreover the children of israel and juda, that dwelt in the cities of juda, brought in the tithes of oxen, and sheep, and the tithes of holy things, which they had vowed to the lord their god: and carrying them all, made many heaps. in the third month they began to lay the foundations of the heaps, and in the seventh month, they finished them. and when ezechias and his princes came in, they saw the heaps, and they blessed the lord and the people of israel. and ezechias asked the priests and the levites, why the heaps lay so. azarias the chief priest of the race of sadoc answered him, saying: since the firstfruits began to be offered in the house of the lord, we have eaten, and have been filled, and abundance is left, because the lord hath blessed his people: and of that which is left is this great store which thou seest. then ezechias commanded to prepare store-houses in the house of the lord. and when they had done so, they brought in faithfully both the firstfruits, and the tithes, and all they had vowed. and the overseer of them was chonenias the levite, and semei his brother was the second, and after him jehiel, and azarias, and nahath, and asael, and jerimoth, and jozabad, and eliel, and jesmachias, and mahath, and bannaïas, overseers under the hand of chonenias, and semei his brother, by the commandment of ezechias the king, and azarias the high priest of the house of god, to whom all things appertained. but core the son of jemna the levite, the porter of the east gate, was overseer of the things which were freely offered to the lord, and of the firstfruits and the things dedicated for the holy of holies. and under his charge were eden, and benjamin, jesue, and semeias, and amarias, and sechenias, in the cities of the priests, to distribute faithfully portions to their brethren, both little and great: besides the males from three years old and upward, to all that went into the temple of the lord, and whatsoever there was need of in the ministry, and their offices according to their courses, day by day. to the priests by their families, and to the levites from the twentieth year and upward, by their classes and companies. and to all the multitude, both to their wives, and to their children of both sexes, victuals were given faithfully out of the things that had been sanctified. also of the sons of aaron who were in the fields and in the suburbs of each city, there were men appointed, to distribute portions to all the males, among the priests and the levites. so ezechias did all things, which we have said in all juda, and wrought that which was good; and right, and truth, before the lord his god, in all the service of the ministry of the house of the lord according to the law and the ceremonies, desiring to seek his god with all his heart, and he did it and prospered,

after these things, and this truth, sennacherib king of the assyrians came and entered into juda, and besieged the fenced cities, desiring to take them. and when ezechias saw that sennacherib was come, and that the whole force of the war was turning against jerusalem, he took counsel with the princes, and the most valiant men, to stop up the heads of the springs, that were without the city: and as they were all of this mind, he gathered together a very great multitude, and they stopped up all the springs, and the brook, that ran through the midst of the land, saying: lest the kings of the assyrians should come, and abundance of water. he built up also with great diligence all the wall that had been broken down, and built towers upon it, and another wall without: and he repaired mello in the city of david, and made all sorts of arms and shields: and he appointed captains of the soldiers of the army: and he called them all together in the street of the gate of the city, and spoke to their heart, saying: behave like men, and take courage: be not afraid nor dismayed for the king of the assyrians, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for there are many more with us than with him. for with him is an arm of flesh: with us the lord our god, who is our helper, and fighteth for us. and the people were encouraged with these words of ezechias king of juda. after this, sennacherib king of the assyrians sent his servants to jerusalem, (for he with all his army was besieging lachis,) to ezechias king of juda, and to all the people that were in the city, saying: thus saith sennacherib king of the assyrians: in whom do you trust, that you sit still besieged in jerusalem? doth not ezechias deceive you, to give you up to die by hunger and thirst, affirming that the lord your god shall deliver you from the hand of the king of the assyrians? is it not this same ezechias, that hath destroyed his high places, and his altars, and commanded juda and jerusalem, saying: you shall worship before one altar, and upon it you shall burn incense? know you not what i and my fathers have done to all the people of the lands? have the gods of any nations and lands been able to deliver their country out of my hand? who is there among all the gods of the nations, which my fathers have destroyed, that could deliver his people out of my hand, that your god should be able to deliver you out of this hand? therefore let not ezechias deceive you, nor delude you with a vain persuasion, and do not believe him. for if no god of all the nations and kingdoms, could deliver his people out of my hand, and out of the hand of my fathers, consequently neither shall your god be able to deliver you out of my hand. and many other things did his servants speak against the lord god, and against ezechias his servant. he wrote also letters full of blasphemy against the lord the god of israel, and he spoke against him: as the gods of other nations could not deliver their people out of my hand, so neither can the god of ezechias deliver his people out of this hand. moreover he cried out with a loud voice, in the jews' tongue, to the people that sat on the walls of jerusalem, that he might frighten them, and take the city. and he spoke against the god of jerusalem, as against the gods of the people of the earth, the works of the hands of men. and ezechias the king, and isaias the prophet the son of amos, prayed against this blasphemy, and cried out to heaven. and the lord sent an angel who cut off all the stout men and the warriors, and the captains of the army of the king of the assyrians: and he returned with disgrace into his own country. and when he was come into the house of his god, his sons that came out of his bowels, slew him with the sword. and the lord saved ezechias and the inhabitants of jerusalem, out of the hand of sennacherib king of the assyrians, and out of the hand of all, and gave them treasures on every side. many also brought victims, and sacrifices to the lord to jerusalem, and presents to ezechias king of juda: and he was magnified thenceforth in the sight of all nations. in those days ezechias was sick even to death, and he prayed to the lord: and he heard him, and gave him a sign. but he did not render again according to the benefits which he had received, for his heart was lifted up: and wrath was enkindled against him, and against juda and jerusalem. and he humbled himself afterwards, because his heart had been lifted up, both he and the inhabitants of jerusalem: and therefore the wrath of the lord came not upon them in the days of ezechias. and ezechias was rich, and very glorious, and he gathered himself great treasures of silver and of gold, and of precious stones, of spices, and of arms, of all kinds, and of vessels of great price. store-houses also of corn, of wine, and of oil, and stalls for all beasts, and folds for cattle. and he built himself cities: for he had docks of sheep, and herds without number, for the lord had given him very much substance. this same ezechias was, he that stopped the upper source of the waters of gihon, and turned them away underneath toward the west of the city of david: in ail his works he did prosperously what he would. but yet in the embassy of the princes of babylon, that were sent to him, to inquire of the wonder that had happened upon the earth, god left him that he might be tempted, and all things might be made known that were in his heart. now the rest of the acts of ezechias, and of his mercies are written in the book of the kings of juda and israel. and ezechias slept with his fathers, and they buried him above the sepulchres of the sons of david: and all juda, and all the inhabitants of jerusalem celebrated his funeral: and manasses his son reigned in his stead.

manasses was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in jerusalem. and he did evil before the lord, according to all the abominations of the nations, which the lord cast out before the children of israel: and he turned, and built again the high places which ezechias his father had destroyed: and he built altars to baalim, and made groves, and he adored all the host of heaven, and worshipped them. he built also altars in the house of the lord, whereof the lord had said: in jerusalem shall my name be for ever. and he built them for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the lord. and he made his sons to pass through the fire in the valley of benennom: he observed dreams, followed divinations, gave himself up to magic arts, had with him magicians, and enchanters: and he wrought many evils before the lord, to provoke him to anger. he set also a graven, and a molten statue in the house of god, of which god had said to david, and to solomon his son: in this house, and in jerusalem, which i have chosen out of all the tribes of israel, will i put my name for ever. and i will not make the foot of israel to be removed out of the land which i have delivered to their fathers: yet so if they will take heed to do what i have commanded them, and all the law, and the ceremonies, and judgments by the hand of moyses. so manasses seduced juda, and the inhabitants of jerusalem, to do evil beyond all the nations, which the lord had destroyed before the face of the children of israel. and the lord spoke to him, and to his people, and they would not hearken. therefore he brought upon them the captains of the army of the king of the assyrians: and they took manasses, and carried him bound with chains and fetters to babylon. and after that he was in distress he prayed to the lord his god: and did penance exceedingly before the god of his fathers. and he entreated him, and besought him earnestly: and he heard his prayer, and brought him again to jerusalem into his kingdom, and manasses knew that the lord was god. after this he built a wall without the city of david, on the west side of gihon in the valley, from the entering in of the fish gate round about to ophel, and raised it up to a great height: and he appointed captains of the army in all the fenced cities of juda: and he took away the strange gods, and the idol out of the house of the lord: the altars also which he had made in the mount of the house of the lord, and in jerusalem, and he cast them all out of the city. and he repaired the altar of the lord, and sacrificed upon it victims, and peace offerings, and praise: and he commanded juda to serve the lord the god of israel. nevertheless the people still sacrificed in the high places to the lord their god, but the rest of the acts of manasses, and his prayer to his god, and the words of the seers that spoke to him in the name of the lord the god of israel, are contained in the words of the kings of israel. his prayer also, and his being heard, and all his sins, and contempt, and places wherein he built high places, and set up groves, and statues before he did penance, are written in the words of hozai. and manasses slept with his fathers. and they buried him in his house: and his son amen reigned in his stead. amen was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in jerusalem. and he did evil in the sight of the lord, as manasses his father had done: and he sacrificed to all the idols which manasses his father had made, and served them. and he did not humble himself before the lord, as manasses his father had humbled himself, but committed far greater sins. and his servants conspired against him, and slew him in his own house. but the rest of the multitude of the people slew them that had killed amen, and made josias his son king in his stead.

josias was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one and thirty years in jerusalem. and he did that which was right in the sight of the lord, and walked in the ways of david his father: he declined not, neither to the right hand, nor to the left. and in the eighth year of his reign, when he was yet a boy, he began to seek the god of his father david: and in the twelfth year after he began to reign, he cleansed juda and jerusalem from the high places, and the groves, and the idols, and the graven things. and they broke down before him the altars of baalim, and demolished the idols that had been set upon them: and he cut down the groves and the graven things, and broke them in pieces: and strewed the fragments upon the graves of them that had sacrificed to them. and he burnt the bones of the priests on the altars of the idols, and he cleansed juda and jerusalem. and in the cities of manasses, and of ephraim, and of simeon, even to nephtali he demolished all. and when he had destroyed the altars, and the groves, and had broken the idols in pieces, and had demolished all profane temples throughout all the land of israel, he returned to jerusalem. now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had cleansed the land, and the temple of the

lord, he sent saphan the son of eselias, and maasias the governor of the city, joha the son of joachaz the recorder, to repair the house of the lord his god. and they came to helcias the high priest: and received of him the money which had been brought into the house of the lord, and which the levites and porters had gathered together from manasses, and ephraim, and all the remnant of israel, and from all juda, and benjamin, and the inhabitants of jerusalem, which they delivered into the hands of them that were over the workmen in the house of the lord, to repair the temple, and mend all that was weak. but they gave it to the artificers, and to the masons, to buy stones out of the quarries, and timber for the couplings of the building, and to rafter the houses, which the kings of juda had destroyed. and they did all faithfully. now the overseers of the workmen were jahath and abdias of the sons of merari, zacharias and mosollam of the sons of caath, who hastened the work: all levites skilful to play on instruments. but over them that carried burdens for divers uses, were scribes, and masters of the number of the levites, and porters. now when they carried out the money that had been brought into the temple of the lord, helcias the priest found the book of the law of the lord, by the hand of moyses. and he said to saphan the scribe: i have found the book of the law in the house of the lord: and he delivered it to him. but he carried the book to the king, and told him, saying: lo, all that thou hast committed to thy servants, is accomplished. they have gathered together the silver that was found in the house of the lord: and it is given to the overseers of the artificers, and of the workmen, for divers works. moreover helcias the priest gave me this book. and he read it before the king. and when he had heard the words of the law, he rent his garments: and he commanded helcias, and ahicam the son of saphan, and abdon the son of micha, and saphan the scribe, and asaa the king's servant, saying: o, and pray to the lord for me, and for the remnant of israel, and juda, concerning all the words of this book, which is found: for the great wrath of the lord hath fallen upon us, because our fathers have not kept the words of the lord, to do all things that are written in this book. and helcias and they that were sent with him by the king, went to olda the prophetess, the wife of sellum the son of thecuath, the son of hasra keeper of the wardrobe: who dwelt in jerusalem in the second part: and they spoke to her the words above mentioned. and she answered them: thus saith the lord the god of israel: tell the man that sent you to me: thus saith the lord: behold i will bring evils upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, and all the curses that are written in this book which they read before the king of juda. because they have forsaken me, and have sacrificed to strange gods, to provoke me to wrath with all the works of their hands, therefore my wrath shall fall upon this place, and shall not be quenched. but as to the king of juda that sent you to beseech the lord, thus shall you say to him: thus saith the lord the god of israel: because thou hast heard the words of this book, and thy heart was softened. and thou hast humbled thyself in the sight of god for the things that are spoken against this place, and the inhabitants of jerusalem, and reverencing my face, hast rent thy garments, and wept before me: i also have heard thee, saith the lord. for now i will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be brought to thy tomb in peace: and thy eyes shall not see all the evil that i will bring upon this place, and the inhabitants thereof. they therefore reported to the king all that she had said. and he called together all the ancients of juda and jerusalem. and went up to the house of the lord, and all the men of juda, and the inhabitants of jerusalem, the priests and the levites, and all the people from the least to the greatest. and the king read in their hearing, in the house of the lord, all the words of the book. and standing up in his tribunal, he made a covenant before the lord to walk after him, and keep his commandments, and testimonies, and justifications with all his heart, and with all his soul, and to do the things that were written in that book which he had read. and he adjured all that were found in jerusalem and benjamin to do the same: and the inhabitants of jerusalem did according to the covenant of the lord the god of their fathers. and josias took away all the abominations out of all the countries of the children of israel: and made all that were left in israel, to serve the lord their god. as long as he lived they departed not from the lord the god of their fathers.

and josias kept a phase to the lord in jerusalem, and it was sacrificed on the fourteenth day of the first month. and he set the priests in their offices, and exhorted them to minister in the house of the lord. and he spoke to the levites, by whose instruction all israel was sanctified to the lord, saying: put the ark in the sanctuary of the temple, which solomon the son of david king of israel built: for you shall carry it no more: but minister now to the lord your god, and to his people israel. and prepare yourselves by your houses, and families according to your courses, as david king of israel commanded, and solomon his son hath written. and serve ye in the sanctuary by the families and companies of levi. and being sanctified kill the phase, and prepare your brethren, that they may do according to the words which the lord spoke by the hand of moyses. and josias gave to all the people that were found there in the solemnity of the phase, of lambs and of kids of the flocks, and of other small cattle thirty thousand, and of oxen three thousand, all these were of the king's substance. and his princes willingly offered what they had vowed, both to the people and to the priests and the levites. moreover helcias, and zacharias, and jahiel rulers of the house of the lord, gave to the priests to keep the phase two thousand six hundred small cattle, and three hundred oxen. and chonenias, and semeias and nathanael, his brethren, and hasabias, and jehiel, and jozabad princes of the levites, gave to the rest of the levites to celebrate the phase five thousand small cattle, and five hundred oxen. and the ministry was prepared, and the priests stood in their office: the levites also in their companies, according to the king's commandment. and the phase was immolated: and the priests sprinkled the blood with their hand, and the levites flayed the holocausts: and they separated them to give them by the houses and families of every one, and to be offered to the lord, as it is written in the book of moyses, and with the oxen they did in like manner. and they roasted the phase with fire, according to that which is written in the law: but the victims of peace offerings they boiled in caldrons, and kettles, and pots, and they distributed them speedily among all the people. and afterwards they made ready for themselves, and for the priests: for the priests were busied in offering of holocausts and the fat until night: wherefore the levites prepared for themselves, and for the priests the sons of aaron last. and the singers the sons of asaph stood in their order, according to the commandment of david, and asaph, and heman, and idithun the prophets of the king: and the porters kept guard at every gate, so as not to depart one moment from their service: and therefore their brethren the levites prepared meats for them. so all the service of the lord was duly accomplished that day, both in keeping the phase, and offering holocausts upon the altar of the lord, according to the commandment of king josias. and the children of israel that were found there, kept the phase at that time, and the feast of unleavened bread seven days. there was no phase like to this in israel, from the days of samuel the prophet: neither did any of all the kings of israel keep such a phase as josias kept, with the priests, and the levites, and all juda, and israel that were found, and the inhabitants of jerusalem. in the eighteenth year of the reign of josias was this phase celebrated. after that josias had repaired the temple, nechao king of egypt came up to fight in charcamis by the euphrates: and josias went out to meet him. but he sent messengers to him, saying: what have i to do with thee, o king of juda? i come not against thee this day, but i fight against another house, to which god hath commanded me to go in haste: forbear to do against god, who is with me, lest he kill thee. josias would not return, but prepared to fight against him, and hearkened not to the words of nechao from the mouth of god, i but went to fight in the field of mageddo. and there he was wounded by the archers, and he said to his servants: carry me out of the battle, for i am grievously wounded. and they removed him from the chariot into another, that followed him after the manner of kings, and they carried him away to jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in the monument of his fathers, and all juda and jerusalem mourned for him, particularly jeremias: whose lamentations for josias all the singing men and singing women repeat unto this day, and it became like a law in israel: behold it is found written in the lamentations. now the rest of the acts of josias and of his mercies, according to what was commanded by the law of the lord: and his works first and last, are written in the book of the kings of juda and israel.

then the people of the land took joachaz the son of josias, and made him king instead of his father in jerusalem. joachaz was three and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in jerusalem. and the king of egypt came to jerusalem, and deposed him, and condemned the land in a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. and he made eliakim his brother king in his stead, over juda and jerusalem: and he turned his name to joakim: but he took joachaz with him, and carried him away into egypt. joakim was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in jerusalem: and he did evil before the lord his god. against him came up nabuchodonosor king of the chaldeans, and led him bound in chains into babylon. and he carried also thither the vessels of the lord, and put them in his temple. but the rest of the acts of joakim, and his abominations, which he wrought, and the things that were found in him, are contained in the book of the kings of juda and israel. and joachin his son reigned in his stead. joachin was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in jerusalem, and he did evil in the sight of the lord. and at the return of the year, king nabuchodonosor sent, and brought him to babylon, carrying away at the same time the most precious vessels of the house of the lord: and he made sedecias his uncle king over juda and jerusalem. sedecias was one and twenty years old when he began to reign: and he reigned eleven years in jerusalem. and he did evil in the eyes of the lord his god, and did not reverence the face of jeremias the prophet speaking to him from the mouth of the lord. he also revolted from king nabuchodonosor, who had made him swear by god: and he hardened his neck and his heart, from returning to the lord the god of israel. moreover all the chief of the priests, and the people wickedly transgressed according to all the abominations of the gentiles: and they defiled the house of the lord, which he had sanctified to himself in jerusalem. and the lord the god of their fathers sent to them, by the hand of his messengers, rising early, and daily admonishing them: because he spared his people and his dwelling place. but they mocked the messengers of god, and despised his words, and misused the prophets, until the wrath of the lord arose against his people, and there was no remedy. for he brought upon them the king of the chaldeans, and he slew their young men with the sword in the house of his sanctuary, he had no compassion on young man, or maiden, old man or even him that stooped for age, but he delivered them all into his hands. and all the vessels of the house of the lord, great and small, and the treasures of the temple and of the king, and of the princes he carried away to babylon. and the enemies set fire to the house of god, and broke down the wall of jerusalem, burnt all the towers, and whatsoever was precious they destroyed. whosoever escaped the sword, was led into babylon, and there served the king and his sons till the reign of the king of persia. that the word of the lord by the mouth of jeremias might be fulfilled, and the land might keep her sabbaths: for all the days of the desolation she kept a sabbath, till the seventy years were expired. but in the first year of cyrus king of the persians, to fulfil the word of the lord, which he had spoken by the mouth of jeremias, the lord stirred up the heart of cyrus king of the persians who commanded it to be proclaimed through all his kingdom, and by writing also, saying: thus saith cyrus king of the persians: all the kingdoms of the earth hath the lord the god of heaven given to me, and he hath charged me to build him a house in jerusalem, which is in judea: who is there among you of all his people? the lord his god be with him, and let him go up.

paul, a servant of jesus christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the gospel of god, which he had promised before, by his prophets, in the holy scriptures, concerning his son, who was made to him of the seed of david, according to the flesh, who was predestinated the son of god in power, according to the spirit of sanctification, by the resurrection of our lord jesus christ from the dead; by whom we have received grace and apostleship for obedience to the faith, in all nations, for his name; among whom are you also the called of jesus christ: to all that are at rome, the beloved of god, called to be saints. grace to you, and peace from god our father, and from the lord jesus christ. first i give thanks to my god, through jesus christ, for you all, because your faith is spoken of in the whole world. for god is my witness, whom i serve in my spirit in the gospel of his son, that without ceasing i make a commemoration of you; always in my prayers making request, if by any means now at length i may have a prosperous journey, by the will of god, to come unto you. for i long to see you, that i may impart unto you some spiritual grace, to strengthen you: that is to say, that i may be comforted together in you, by that which is common to us both, your faith and mine. and i would not have you ignorant, brethren, that i have often purposed to come unto you, (and have been hindered hitherto,) that i might have some fruit among you also, even as among other gentiles. to the greeks and to the barbarians, to the wise and to the unwise, i am a debtor; so (as much as is in me) i am ready to preach the gospel to you also that are at rome. for i am not ashamed of the gospel. for it is the power of god unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the jew first, and to the greek. for the justice of god is revealed therein, from faith unto faith, as it is written: the just man liveth by faith. for the wrath of god is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and injustice of those men that detain the truth of god in injustice: because that which is known of god is manifest in them. for god hath manifested it unto them. for the invisible things of him, from the creation of the world, are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made; his eternal power also, and divinity: so that they are inexcusable. because that, when they knew god, they have not glorified him as god, or given thanks; but became vain in their thoughts, and their foolish heart was darkened. for professing themselves to be wise, they became fools. and they changed the glory of the incorruptible god into the likeness of the image of a corruptible man, and of birds, and of fourfooted beasts, and of creeping things. wherefore god gave them up to the desires of their heart, unto uncleanness, to dishonour their own bodies among themselves. who changed the truth of god into a lie; and worshipped and served the creature rather than the creator, who is blessed for ever. amen. for this cause god delivered them up to shameful affections. for their women have changed the natural use into that use which is against nature. and, in like manner, the men also, leaving the natural use of the women, have burned in their lusts one towards another, men with men working that which is filthy, and receiving in themselves the recompense which was due to their error. and as they liked not to have god in their knowledge, god delivered them up to a reprobate sense, to do those things which are not convenient; being filled with all iniquity, malice, fornication, avarice, wickedness, full of envy, murder, contention, deceit, malignity, whisperers, detractors, hateful to god, contumelious, proud, haughty, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, foolish, dissolute, without affection, without fidelity, without mercy. who, having known the justice of god, did not understand that they who do such things, are worthy of death; and not only they that do them, but they also that consent to them that do them.

wherefore thou art inexcusable, o man, whosoever thou art that judgest. for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself. for thou dost the same things which thou judgest. for we know that the judgment of god is, according to truth, against them that do such things. and thinkest thou this, o man, that judgest them who do such things, and dost the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of god? or despisest thou the riches of his goodness, and patience, and longsuffering? knowest thou not, that the benignity of god leadeth thee to penance? but according to thy hardness and impenitent heart, thou treasurest up to thyself wrath, against the day of wrath, and revelation of the just judgment of god. who will render to every man according to his works. to them indeed, who according to patience in good work, seek glory and honour and incorruption, eternal life: but to them that are contentious, and who obey not the truth, but give credit to iniquity, wrath and indignation. tribulation and anguish upon every soul of man that worketh evil, of the jew first, and also of the greek. but glory, and honour, and peace to every one that worketh good, to the jew first, and also to the greek. for there is no respect of persons with god. for whosoever have sinned without the law, shall perish without the law; and whosoever have sinned in the law, shall be judged by the law. for not the hearers of the law are just before god, but the doers of the law shall be justified. for when the gentiles, who have not the law, do by nature those things that are of the law; these having not the law are a law to themselves: who shew the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience bearing witness to them, and their thoughts between themselves accusing, or also defending one another, in the day when god shall judge the secrets of men by jesus christ, according to my gospel. but if thou art called a jew and retest in the law, and makest thy boast of god, and knowest his will, and approvest the more profitable things, being instructed by the law, art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them that are in darkness, an instructor of the foolish, a teacher of infants, having the form of knowledge and of truth in the law. thou therefore that teachest another, teachest not thyself: thou that preachest that men should not steal, stealest: thou that sayest, men should not commit adultery, committest adultery: thou that abhorrest idols, committest sacrilege: thou that makest thy boast of the law, by transgression of the law dishonourest god. (for the name of god through you is blasphemed among the gentiles, as it is written.) circumcision profiteth indeed, if thou keep the law; but if thou be a transgressor of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision. if, then, the uncircumcised keep the justices of the law, shall not this uncircumcision be counted for circumcision? and shall not that which by nature is uncircumcision, if it fulfil the law, judge thee, who by the letter and circumcision art a transgressor of the law? for it is not he is a jew, who is so outwardly; nor is that circumcision which is outwardly in the flesh: but he is a jew, that is one inwardly; and the circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of god.

what advantage then hath the jew, or what is the profit of circumcision? much every way. first indeed, because the words of god were committed to them. for what if some of them have not believed? shall their unbelief make the faith of god without effect? god forbid. but god is true; and every man a liar, as it is written, that thou mayest be justified in thy words, and mayest overcome when thou art judged. but if our injustice commend the justice of god, what shall we say? is god unjust, who executeth wrath? (i speak according to man.) god forbid: otherwise how shall god judge this world? for if the truth of god hath more abounded through my lie, unto his glory, why am i also yet judged as a sinner? and not rather (as we are slandered, and as some affirm that we say) let us do evil, that there may come good? whose damnation is just. what then? do we excel them? no, not so. for we have charged both jews, and greeks, that they are all under sin. as it is written: there is not any man just. there is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after god. all have turned out of the way; they are become unprofitable together: there is none that doth good, there is not so much as one. their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have dealt deceitfully. the venom of asps is under their lips. whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness: their feet swift to shed blood: destruction and misery in their ways: and the way of peace they have not known: there is no fear of god before their eyes. now we know, that what things soever the law speaketh, it speaketh to them that are in the law; that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may be made subject to god. because by the works of the law no flesh shall be justified before him. for by the law is the knowledge of sin. but now without the law the justice of god is made manifest, being witnessed by the law and the prophets. even the justice of god, by faith of jesus christ, unto all and upon all them that believe in him: for there is no distinction: for all have sinned, and do need the glory of god. being justified freely by his grace, through the redemption, that is in christ jesus, whom god hath proposed to be a propitiation, through faith in his blood, to the shewing of his justice, for the remission of former sins, through the forbearance of god, for the shewing of his justice in this time; that he himself may be just, and the justifier of him, who is of the faith of jesus christ. where is then thy boasting? it is excluded. by what law? of works? no, but by the law of faith. for we account a man to be justified by faith, without the works of the law. is he the god of the jews only? is he not also of the gentiles? yes, of the gentiles also. for it is one god, that justifieth circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith. do we, then, destroy the law through faith? god forbid: but we establish the law.

what shall we say then that abraham hath found, who is our father according to the flesh. for if abraham were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory, but not before god. for what saith the scripture? abraham believed god, and it was reputed to him unto justice. now to him that worketh, the reward is not reckoned according to grace, but according to debt. but to him that worketh not, yet believeth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is reputed to justice, according to the purpose of the grace of god. as david also termeth the blessedness of a man, to whom god reputeth justice without works: blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered. blessed is the man to whom the lord hath not imputed sin. this blessedness then, doth it remain in the circumcision only, or in the uncircumcision also? for we say that unto abraham faith was reputed to justice. how then was it reputed? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision. and he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the justice of the faith, which he had, being uncircumcised; that he might be the father of all them that believe, being uncircumcised, that unto them also it may be reputed to justice: and might be the father of circumcision; not to them only, that are of the circumcision, but to them also that follow the steps of the faithful, that is in the uncircumcision of our father abraham. for not through the law was the promise to abraham, or to his seed, that he should be heir of the world; but through the justice of faith. for if they who are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, the promise is made of no effect. for the law worketh wrath. for where there is no law, neither is there transgression. therefore is it of faith, that according to grace the promise might be firm to all the seed; not to that only which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of abraham, who is the father of us all, (as it is written: i have made thee a father of many nations,) before god, whom he believed, who quickeneth the dead; and calleth those things that are not, as those that are. who against hope believed in hope; that he might be made the father of many nations, according to that which was said to him: so shall thy seed be. and he was not weak in faith; neither did he consider his own body now dead, whereas he was almost an hundred years old, nor the dead womb of sara. in the promise also of god he staggered not by distrust; but was strengthened in faith, giving glory to god: most fully knowing, that whatsoever he has promised, he is able also to perform. and therefore it was reputed to him unto justice. now it is not written only for him, that it was reputed to him unto justice, but also for us, to whom it shall be reputed, if we believe in him, that raised up jesus christ, our lord, from the dead, who was delivered up for our sins, and rose again for our justification.

being justified therefore by faith, let us have peace with god, through our lord jesus christ: by whom also we have access through faith into this grace, wherein we stand, and glory in the hope of the glory of the sons of god. and not only so; but we glory also in tribulations, knowing that tribulation worketh patience; and patience trial; and trial hope; and hope confoundeth not: because the charity of god is poured forth in our hearts, by the holy ghost, who is given to us. for why did christ, when as yet we were weak, according to the time, die for the ungodly? for scarce for a just man will one die; yet perhaps for a good man some one would dare to die. but god commendeth his charity towards us; because when as yet we were sinners, according to the time, christ died for us; much more therefore, being now justified by his blood, shall we be saved from wrath through him. for if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to god by the death of his son; much more, being reconciled, shall we be saved by his life. and not only so; but also we glory in god, through our lord jesus christ, by whom we have now received reconciliation. wherefore as by one man sin entered into this world, and by sin death; and so death passed upon all men, in whom all have sinned. for until the law sin was in the world; but sin was not imputed, when the law was not. but death reigned from adam unto moyses, even over them also who have not sinned after the similitude of the transgression of adam, who is a figure of him who was to come. but not as the offence, so also the gift. for if by the offence of one, many died; much more the grace of god, and the gift, by the grace of one man, jesus christ, hath abounded unto many. and not as it was by one sin, so also is the gift. for judgment indeed was by one unto condemnation; but grace is of many offences, unto justification. for if by one man's offence death reigned through one; much more they who receive abundance of grace, and of the gift, and of justice, shall reign in life through one, jesus christ. therefore, as by the offence of one, unto all men to condemnation; so also by the justice of one, unto all men to justification of life. for as by the disobedience of one man, many were made sinners; so also by the obedience of one, many shall be made just. now the law entered in, that sin might abound. and where sin abounded, grace did more abound. that as sin hath reigned to death; so also grace might reign by justice unto life everlasting, through jesus christ our lord.

what shall we say, then? shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound? god forbid. for we that are dead to sin, how shall we live any longer therein? know you not that all we, who are baptized in christ jesus, are baptized in his death? for we are buried together with him by baptism into death; that as christ is risen from the dead by the glory of the father, so we also may walk in newness of life. for if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection. knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin may be destroyed, to the end that we may serve sin no longer. for he that is dead is justified from sin. now if we be dead with christ, we believe that we shall live also together with christ: knowing that christ rising again from the dead, dieth now no more, death shall no more have dominion over him. for in that he died to sin, he died once; but in that he liveth, he liveth unto god: so do you also reckon, that you are dead to sin, but alive unto god, in christ jesus our lord. let no sin therefore reign in your mortal body, so as to obey the lusts thereof. neither yield ye your members as instruments of iniquity unto sin; but present yourselves to god, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of justice unto god. for sin shall not have dominion over you; for you are not under the law, but under grace. what then? shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? god forbid. know you not, that to whom you yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants you are whom you obey, whether it be of sin unto death, or of obedience unto justice. but thanks be to god, that you were the servants of sin, but have obeyed from the heart, unto that form of doctrine, into which you have been delivered. being then freed from sin, we have been made servants of justice. i speak an human thing, because of the infirmity of your flesh. for as you have yielded your members to serve uncleanness and iniquity, unto iniquity; so now yield your members to serve justice, unto sanctification. for when you were the servants of sin, you were free men to justice. what fruit therefore had you then in those things, of which you are now ashamed? for the end of them is death. but now being made free from sin, and become servants to god, you have your fruit unto sanctification, and the end life everlasting. for the wages of sin is death. but the grace of god, life everlasting, in christ jesus our lord.

know you not, brethren, (for i speak to them that know the law,) that the law hath dominion over a man, as long as it liveth? for the woman that hath an husband, whilst her husband liveth is bound to the law. but if her husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband. therefore, whilst her husband liveth, she shall be called an adulteress, if she be with another man: but if her husband be dead, she is delivered from the law of her husband; so that she is not an adulteress, if she be with another man. therefore, my brethren, you also are become dead to the law, by the body of christ; that you may belong to another, who is risen again from the dead, that we may bring forth fruit to god. for when we were in the flesh, the passions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members, to bring forth fruit unto death. but now we are loosed from the law of death, wherein we were detained; so that we should serve in newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter. what shall we say, then? is the law sin? god forbid. but i do not know sin, but by the law; for i had not known concupiscence, if the law did not say: thou shalt not covet. but sin taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. for without the law sin was dead. and i lived some time without the law. but when the commandment came, sin revived, and i died. and the commandment that was ordained to life, the same was found to be unto death to me. for sin, taking occasion by the commandment, seduced me, and by it killed me. wherefore the law indeed is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good. was that then which is good, made death unto me? god forbid. but sin, that it may appear sin, by that which is good, wrought death in me; that sin, by the commandment, might become sinful above measure. for we know that the law is spiritual; but i am carnal, sold under sin. for that which i work, i understand not. for i do not that good which i will; but the evil which i hate, that i do. if then i do that which i will not, i consent to the law, that it is good. now then it is no more i that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. for i know that there dwelleth not in me, that is to say, in my flesh, that which is good. for to will, is present with me; but to accomplish that which is good, i find not. for the good which i will, i do not; but the evil which i will not, that i do. now if i do that which i will not, it is no more i that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. i find then a law, that when i have a will to do good, evil is present with me. for i am delighted with the law of god, according to the inward man: but i see another law in my members, fighting against the law of my mind, and captivating me in the law of sin, that is in my members. unhappy man that i am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death? the grace of god, by jesus christ our lord. therefore, i myself, with the mind serve the law of god; but with the flesh, the law of sin.

there is now therefore no condemnation to them that are in christ jesus, who walk not according to the flesh. for the law of the spirit of life, in christ jesus, hath delivered me from the law of sin and of death. for what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh; god sending his own son, in the likeness of sinful flesh and of sin, hath condemned sin in the flesh; that the justification of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not according to the flesh, but according to the spirit. for they that are according to the flesh, mind the things that are of the flesh; but they that are according to the spirit, mind the things that are of the spirit. for the wisdom of the flesh is death; but the wisdom of the spirit is life and peace. because the wisdom of the flesh is an enemy to god; for it is not subject to the law of god, neither can it be. and they who are in the flesh, cannot please god. but you are not in the flesh, but in the spirit, if so be that the spirit of god dwell in you. now if any man have not the spirit of christ, he is none of his. and if christ be in you, the body indeed is dead, because of sin; but the spirit liveth, because of justification. and if the spirit of him that raised up jesus from the dead, dwell in you; he that raised up jesus christ from the dead, shall quicken also your mortal bodies, because of his spirit that dwelleth in you. therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh. for if you live according to the flesh, you shall die: but if by the spirit you mortify the deeds of the flesh, you shall live. for whosoever are led by the spirit of god, they are the sons of god. for you have not received the spirit of bondage again in fear; but you have received the spirit of adoption of sons, whereby we cry: abba (father). for the spirit himself giveth testimony to our spirit, that we are the sons of god. and if sons, heirs also; heirs indeed of god, and joint heirs with christ: yet so, if we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified with him. for i reckon that the sufferings of this time are not worthy to be compared with the glory to come, that shall be revealed in us. for the expectation of the creature waiteth for the revelation of the sons of god. for the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him that made it subject, in hope: because the creature also itself shall be delivered from the servitude of corruption, into the liberty of the glory of the children of god. for we know that every creature groaneth and travaileth in pain, even till now. and not only it, but ourselves also, who have the firstfruits of the spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption of the sons of god, the redemption of our body. for we are saved by hope. but hope that is seen, is not hope. for what a man seeth, why doth he hope for? but if we hope for that which we see not, we wait for it with patience. likewise the spirit also helpeth our infirmity. for we know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the spirit himself asketh for us with unspeakable groanings. and he that searcheth the hearts, knoweth what the spirit desireth; because he asketh for the saints according to god. and we know that to them that love god, all things work together unto good, to such as, according to his purpose, are called to be saints. for whom he foreknew, he also predestinated to be made conformable to the image of his son; that he might be the firstborn amongst many brethren. and whom he predestinated, them he also called. and whom he called, them he also justified. and whom he justified, them he also glorified. what shall we then say to these things? if god be for us, who is against us? he that spared not even his own son, but delivered him up for us all, how hath he not also, with him, given us all things? who shall accuse against the elect of god? god that justifieth. who is he that shall condemn? christ jesus that died, yea that is risen also again; who is at the right hand of god, who also maketh intercession for us. who then shall separate us from the love of christ? shall tribulation? or distress? or famine? or nakedness? or danger? or persecution? or the sword? (as it is written: for thy sake we are put to death all the day long. we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.) but in all these things we overcome, because of him that hath loved us. for i am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor might, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of god, which is in christ jesus our lord.

i speak the truth in christ, i lie not, my conscience bearing me witness in the holy ghost: that i have great sadness, and continual sorrow in my heart. for i wished myself to be an anathema from christ, for my brethren, who are my kinsmen according to the flesh, who are israelites, to whom belongeth the adoption as of children, and the glory, and the testament, and the giving of the law, and the service of god, and the promises: whose are the fathers, and of whom is christ, according to the flesh, who is over all things, god blessed for ever. amen. not as though the word of god hath miscarried. for all are not israelites that are of israel: neither are all they that are the seed of abraham, children; but in isaac shall thy seed be called: that is to say, not they that are the children of the flesh, are the children of god; but they, that are the children of the promise, are accounted for the seed. for this is the word of promise: according to this time will i come; and sara shall have a son. and not only she, but when rebecca also had conceived at once, of isaac our father. for when the children were not yet born, nor had done any good or evil (that the purpose of god, according to election, might stand,) not of works, but of him that calleth, it was said to her: the elder shall serve the younger. as it is written: jacob i have loved, but esau i have hated. what shall we say then? is there injustice with god? god forbid. for he saith to moyses: i will have mercy on whom i will have mercy; and i will shew mercy to whom i will shew mercy. so then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of god that sheweth mercy. for the scripture saith to pharao: to this purpose have i raised thee, that i may shew my power in thee, and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth. therefore he hath mercy on whom he will; and whom he will, he hardeneth. thou wilt say therefore to me: why doth he then find fault? for who resisteth his will? o man, who art thou that repliest against god? shall the thing formed say to him that formed it: why hast thou made me thus? or hath not the potter power over the clay, of the same lump, to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour? what if god, willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, endured with much patience vessels of wrath, fitted for destruction, that he might shew the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he hath prepared unto glory? even us, whom also he hath called, nor only of the jews, but also of the gentiles. as in osee he saith: i will call that which was not my people, my people; and her that was not beloved, beloved; and her that had not obtained mercy, one that hath obtained mercy. and it shall be, in the place where it was said unto them, you are not my people; there they shall be called the sons of the living god. and isaias crieth out concerning israel: if the number of the children of israel be as the sand of the sea, a remnant shall be saved. for he shall finish his word, and cut it short in justice; because a short word shall the lord make upon the earth. and as isaias foretold: unless the lord of sabaoth had left us a seed, we had been made as sodom, and we had been like unto gomorrha. what then shall we say? that the gentiles, who followed not after justice, have attained to justice, even the justice that is of faith. but israel, by following after the law of justice, is not come unto the law of justice. why so? because they sought it not by faith, but as it were of works. for they stumbled at the stumblingstone. as it is written: behold i lay in sion a stumblingstone and a rock of scandal; and whosoever believeth in him shall not be confounded.

brethren, the will of my heart, indeed, and my prayer to god, is for them unto salvation. for i bear them witness, that they have a zeal of god, but not according to knowledge. for they, not knowing the justice of god, and seeking to establish their own, have not submitted themselves to the justice of god. for the end of the law is christ, unto justice to every one that believeth. for moyses wrote, that the justice which is of the law, the man that shall do it, shall live by it. but the justice which is of faith, speaketh thus: say not in thy heart, who shall ascend into heaven? that is, to bring christ down; or who shall descend into the deep? that is, to bring up christ again from the dead. but what saith the scripture? the word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart. this is the word of faith, which we preach. for if thou confess with thy mouth the lord jesus, and believe in thy heart that god hath raised him up from the dead, thou shalt be saved. for, with the heart, we believe unto justice; but, with the mouth, confession is made unto salvation. for the scripture saith: whosoever believeth in him, shall not be confounded. for there is no distinction of the jew and the greek: for the same is lord over all, rich unto all that call upon him. for whosoever shall call upon the name of the lord, shall be saved. how then shall they call on him, in whom they have not believed? or how shall they believe him, of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear, without a preacher? and how shall they preach unless they be sent, as it is written: how beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, of them that bring glad tidings of good things! but all do not obey the gospel. for isaias saith: lord, who hath believed our report? faith then cometh by hearing; and hearing by the word of christ. but i say: have they not heard? yes, verily, their sound hath gone forth into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the whole world. but i say: hath not israel known? first, moyses saith: i will provoke you to jealousy by that which is not a nation; by a foolish nation i will anger you. but isaias is bold, and saith: i was found by them that did not seek me: i appeared openly to them that asked not after me. but to israel he saith: all the day long have i spread my hands to a people that believeth not, and contradicteth me.

i say then: hath god cast away his people? god forbid. for i also am an israelite of the seed of abraham, of the tribe of benjamin. god hath not cast away his people, which he foreknew. know you not what the scripture saith of elias; how he calleth on god against israel? lord, they have slain thy prophets, they have dug down thy altars; and i am left alone, and they seek my life. but what saith the divine answer to him? i have left me seven thousand men, that have not bowed their knees to baal. even so then at this present time also, there is a remnant saved according to the election of grace. and if by grace, it is not now by works: otherwise grace is no more grace. what then? that which israel sought, he hath not obtained: but the election hath obtained it; and the rest have been blinded. as it is written: god hath given them the spirit of insensibility; eyes that they should not see; and ears that they should not hear, until this present day. and david saith: let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumblingblock, and a recompense unto them. let their eyes be darkened, that they may not see: and bow down their back always. i say then, have they so stumbled, that they should fall? god forbid. but by their offence, salvation is come to the gentiles, that they may be emulous of them. now if the offence of them be the riches of the world, and the diminution of them, the riches of the gentiles; how much more the fulness of them? for i say to you, gentiles: as long indeed as i am the apostle of the gentiles, i will honour my ministry, if, by any means, i may provoke to emulation them who are my flesh, and may save some of them. for if the loss of them be the reconciliation of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead? for if the firstfruit be holy, so is the lump also: and if the root be holy, so are the branches. and if some of the branches be broken, and thou, being a wild olive, art ingrafted in them, and art made partaker of the root, and of the fatness of the olive tree, boast not against the branches. but if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee. thou wilt say then: the branches were broken off, that i might be grafted in. well: because of unbelief they were broken off. but thou standest by faith: be not highminded, but fear. for if god hath not spared the natural branches, fear lest perhaps he also spare not thee. see then the goodness and the severity of god: towards them indeed that are fallen, the severity; but towards thee, the goodness of god, if thou abide in goodness, otherwise thou also shalt be cut off. and they also, if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for god is able to graft them in again. for if thou wert cut out of the wild olive tree, which is natural to thee; and, contrary to nature, were grafted into the good olive tree; how much more shall they that are the natural branches, be grafted into their own olive tree? for i would not have you ignorant, brethren, of this mystery, (lest you should be wise in your own conceits), that blindness in part has happened in israel, until the fulness of the gentiles should come in. and so all israel should be saved, as it is written: there shall come out of sion, he that shall deliver, and shall turn away ungodliness from jacob. and this is to them my covenant: when i shall take away their sins. as concerning the gospel, indeed, they are enemies for your sake: but as touching the election, they are most dear for the sake of the fathers. for the gifts and the calling of god are without repentance. for as you also in times past did not believe god, but now have obtained mercy, through their unbelief; so these also now have not believed, for your mercy, that they also may obtain mercy. for god hath concluded all in unbelief, that he may have mercy on all. o the depth of the riches of the wisdom and of the knowledge of god! how incomprehensible are his judgments, and how unsearchable his ways! for who hath known the mind of the lord? or who hath been his counsellor? or who hath first given to him, and recompense shall be made him? for of him, and by him, and in him, are all things: to him be glory for ever. amen.

i beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercy of god, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, pleasing unto god, your reasonable service. and be not conformed to this world; but be reformed in the newness of your mind, that you may prove what is the good, and the acceptable, and the perfect will of god. for i say, by the grace that is given me, to all that are among you, not to be more wise than it behoveth to be wise, but to be wise unto sobriety, and according as god hath divided to every one the measure of faith. for as in one body we have many members, but all the members have not the same office: so we being many, are one body in christ, and every one members one of another. and having different gifts, according to the grace that is given us, either prophecy, to be used according to the rule of faith; or ministry, in ministering; or he that teacheth, in doctrine; he that exhorteth, in exhorting; he that giveth, with simplicity; he that ruleth, with carefulness; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness. let love be without dissimulation. hating that which is evil, cleaving to that which is good. loving one another with the charity of brotherhood, with honour preventing one another. in carefulness not slothful. in spirit fervent. serving the lord. rejoicing in hope. patient in tribulation. instant in prayer. communicating to the necessities of the saints. pursuing hospitality. bless them that persecute you: bless, and curse not. rejoice with them that rejoice; weep with them that weep. being of one mind one towards another. not minding high things, but consenting to the humble. be not wise in your own conceits. to no man rendering evil for evil. providing good things, not only in the sight of god, but also in the sight of all men. if it be possible, as much as is in you, have peace with all men. revenge not yourselves, my dearly beloved; but give place unto wrath, for it is written: revenge is mine, i will repay, saith the lord - - be not overcome by evil, but overcome evil by good.

let every soul be subject to higher powers: for there is no power but from god: and those that are, are ordained of god. therefore he that resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of god. and they that resist, purchase to themselves damnation. for princes are not a terror to the good work, but to the evil. wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good: and thou shalt have praise from the same. for he is god's minister to thee, for good. but if thou do that which is evil, fear: for he beareth not the sword in vain. for he is god's minister: an avenger to execute wrath upon him that doth evil. wherefore be subject of necessity, not only for wrath, but also for conscience' sake. for therefore also you pay tribute. for they are the ministers of god, serving unto this purpose. render therefore to all men their dues. tribute, to whom tribute is due: custom, to whom custom: fear, to whom fear: honour, to whom honour. owe no man any thing, but to love one another. for he that loveth his neighbour, hath fulfilled the law. for thou shalt not commit adultery: thou shalt not kill: thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false witness: thou shalt not covet: and if there be any other commandment, it is comprised in this word, thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. the love of our neighbour worketh no evil. love therefore is the fulfilling of the law. and that knowing the season; that it is now the hour for us to rise from sleep. for now our salvation is nearer than when we believed. the night is passed, and the day is at hand. let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and put on the armour of light. let us walk honestly, as in the day: not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and impurities, not in contention and envy: but put ye on the lord jesus christ, and make not provision for the flesh in its concupiscences.

now him that is weak in faith, take unto you: not in disputes about thoughts. for one believeth that he may eat all things: but he that is weak, let him eat herbs. let not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not: and he that eateth not, let him not judge him that eateth. for god hath taken him to him. who art thou that judgest another man's servant? to his own lord he standeth or falleth. and he shall stand: for god is able to make him stand. for one judgeth between day and day: and another judgeth every day: let every man abound in his own sense. he that regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the lord. and he that eateth, eateth to the lord: for he giveth thanks to god. and he that eateth not, to the lord he eateth not, and giveth

thanks to god. for none of us liveth to himself; and no man dieth to himself. for whether we live, we live unto the lord; or whether we die, we die unto the lord. therefore, whether we live, or whether we die, we are the lord's. for to this end christ died and rose again; that he might be lord both of the dead and of the living. but thou, why judgest thou thy brother? or thou, why dost thou despise thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment seat of christ. for it is written: as i live, saith the lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to god. therefore every one of us shall render account to god for himself. let us not therefore judge one another any more. but judge this rather, that you put not a stumbling-block or a scandal in your brother's way. i know, and am confident in the lord jesus, that nothing is unclean of itself; but to him that esteemeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean. for if, because of thy meat, thy brother be grieved, thou walkest not now according to charity. destroy not him with thy meat, for whom christ died. let not then our good be evil spoken of. for the kingdom of god is not meat and drink; but justice, and peace, and joy in the holy ghost. for he that in this serveth christ, pleaseth god, and is approved of men. therefore let us follow after the things that are of peace; and keep the things that are of edification one towards another. destroy not the work of god for meat. all things indeed are clean: but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence. it is good not to eat flesh, and not to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother is offended, or scandalized, or made weak. hast thou faith? have it to thyself before god. blessed is he that condemneth not himself in that which he alloweth. but he that discerneth, if he eat, is condemned; because not of faith. for all that is not of faith is sin.

now we that are stronger, ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves. let every one of you please his neighbour unto good, to edification. for christ did not please himself, but as it is written: the reproaches of them that reproached thee, fell upon me. for what things soever were written, were written for our learning: that through patience and the comfort of the scriptures, we might have hope. now the god of patience and of comfort grant you to be of one mind one towards another, according to jesus christ: that with one mind, and with one mouth, you may glorify god and the father of our lord jesus christ. wherefore receive one another, as christ also hath received you unto the honour of god. for i say that christ jesus was minister of the circumcision for the truth of god, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers. but that the gentiles are to glorify god for his mercy, as it is written: therefore will i confess to thee, o lord, among the gentiles, and will sing to thy name. and again he saith: rejoice, ye gentiles, with his people. and again: praise the lord, all ye gentiles; and magnify him, all ye people. and again isaias saith: there shall be a root of jesse; and he that shall rise up to rule the gentiles, in him the gentiles shall hope. now the god of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing; that you may abound in hope, and in the power of the holy ghost. and i myself also, my brethren, am assured of you, that you also are full of love, replenished with all knowledge, so that you are able to admonish one another. but i have written to you, brethren, more boldly in some sort, as it were putting you in mind: because of the grace which is given me from god. that i should be the minister of christ jesus among the gentiles; sanctifying the gospel of god, that the oblation of the gentiles may be made acceptable and sanctified in the holy ghost. i have therefore glory in christ jesus towards god. for i dare not to speak of any of those things which christ worketh not by me, for the obedience of the gentiles, by word and deed, by the virtue of signs and wonders, in the power of the holy ghost, so that from jerusalem round about as far as unto ilyricum, i have replenished the gospel of christ. and i have so preached this gospel, not where christ was named, lest i should build upon another man's foundation. but as it is written: they to whom he was not spoken of, shall see, and they that have not heard shall understand. for which cause also i was hindered very much from coming to you, and have been kept away till now. but now having no more place in these countries, and having a great desire these many years past to come unto you, when i shall begin to take my journey into spain, i hope that as i pass, i shall see you, and be brought on my way thither by you, if first, in part, i shall have enjoyed you: but now i shall go to jerusalem, to minister unto the saints. for it hath pleased them of macedonia and achaia to make a contribution for the poor of the saints that are in jerusalem. for it hath pleased them; and they are their debtors. for if the gentiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, they ought also in carnal things to minister to them. when therefore i shall have accomplished this, and consigned to them this fruit, i will come by you into spain. and i know, that when i come to you, i shall come in the abundance of the blessing of the gospel of christ. i beseech you therefore, brethren, through our lord jesus christ, and by the charity of the holy ghost, that you help me in your prayers for me to god, that i may be delivered from the unbelievers that are in judea, and that the oblation of my service may be acceptable in jerusalem to the saints. that i may come to you with joy, by the will of god, and may be refreshed with you. now the god of peace be with you all. amen.

and i commend to you phebe, our sister, who is in the ministry of the church, that is in cenchrae: that you receive her in the lord as becometh saints; and that you assist her in whatsoever business she shall have need of you. for she also hath assisted many, and myself also. salute prisca and aquila, my helpers in christ jesus, (who have for my life laid down their own necks: to whom not i only give thanks, but also all the churches of the gentiles,) and the church which is in their house. salute epenetus, my beloved: who is the firstfruits of asia in christ. salute mary, who hath laboured much among you. salute andronicus and junias, my kinsmen and fellow prisoners: who are of note among the apostles, who also were in christ before me. salute ampliatius, most beloved to me in the lord. salute urbanus, our helper in christ jesus, and stachys, my beloved. salute apelles, approved in christ. salute them that are of aristobulus' household. salute herodian, my kinsman. salute them that are of narcissus' household, who are in the lord. salute tryphaena and tryphosa, who labour in the lord. salute persis, the dearly beloved, who hath much laboured in the lord. salute rufus, elect in the lord, and his mother and mine. salute asyncritus, phlegon, hermas, patrobas, hermes, and the brethren that are with them. salute philologus and julia, nereus and his sister, and olympias; and all the saints that are with them. salute one another with an holy kiss. all the churches of christ salute you. now i beseech you, brethren, to mark them who make dissensions and offences contrary to the doctrine which you have learned, and avoid them. for they that are such, serve not christ our lord, but their own belly; and by pleasing speeches and good words, seduce the hearts of the innocent. for your obedience is published in every place. i rejoice therefore in you. but i would have you to be wise in good, and simple in evil. and the god of peace crush satan under your feet speedily. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you. timothy, my fellow labourer, saluteth you, and lucius, and jason, and sositater, my kinsmen. i tertius, who wrote this epistle, salute you in the lord. caius, my host, and the whole church, saluteth you. erastus, the treasurer of the city, saluteth you, and quartus, a brother. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you all. amen. now to him that is able to establish you, according to my gospel, and the preaching of jesus christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret from eternity, (which now is made manifest by the scriptures of the prophets, according to the precept of the eternal god, for the obedience of faith,) known among all nations; to god the only wise, through jesus christ, to whom be honour and glory for ever and ever. amen.

paul, called to be an apostle of jesus christ by the will of god, and sosthenes a brother, to the church of god that is at corinth, to them that are sanctified in christ jesus, called to be saints, with all that invoke the name of our lord jesus christ, in every place of theirs and ours. grace to you, and peace from god our father, and from the lord jesus christ. i give thanks to my god always for you, for the grace of god that is given you in christ jesus, that in all things you are made rich in him, in all utterance, and in all knowledge; as the testimony of christ was confirmed in you, so that nothing is wanting to you in any grace, waiting for the manifestation of our lord jesus christ. who also will confirm you unto the end without crime, in the day of the coming of our lord jesus christ. god is faithful: by whom you are called unto the fellowship of his son jesus christ our lord. now i beseech you, brethren, by the name of our lord jesus christ, that you all speak the same thing, and that there be no schisms among you; but that you be perfect in the same mind, and in the same judgment. for it hath been signified unto me, my brethren, of you, by them that are of the house of chloe, that there are contentions among you. now this i say, that every one of you saith: i indeed am of paul; and i am of apollo; and i am of cephas; and i of christ. is christ divided? was paul then crucified for you? or were you baptized in the name of paul? i give god thanks, that i baptized none of you but crispus and caius; lest any should say that you were baptized in my name. and i baptized also the household of stephanus; besides, i know not whether i baptized any other. for christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel: not in wisdom of speech, lest the cross of christ should be made void. for the word of the cross, to them indeed that perish, is foolishness; but to them that are saved, that is, to us, it is the power of god. for it is written: i will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the prudence of the prudent i will reject. where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath not god made foolish the wisdom of this world? for seeing that in the wisdom of god the world, by wisdom, knew not god, it pleased god, by the foolishness of our preaching, to save them that believe. for both the jews require signs, and the greeks seek after wisdom: but we preach christ crucified, unto the jews indeed a stumblingblock, and unto the gentiles foolishness: but unto them that are called, both jews and greeks, christ the power of god, and the wisdom of god. for the foolishness of god is wiser than men; and the weakness of god is stronger than men. for see your vocation, brethren, that there are not many wise according to the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble: but the foolish things of the world hath god chosen, that he may confound the wise; and the weak things of the world hath god chosen, that he may confound the strong. and the base things of the world, and the things that are contemptible, hath god chosen, and things that are not, that he might bring to nought things that are: that no flesh should glory in his sight. but of him are you in christ jesus, who of god is made unto us wisdom, and justice, and sanctification, and redemption: that, as it is written: he that glorifieth, may glory in the lord.

and i, brethren, when i came to you, came not in loftiness of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of christ. for i judged not myself to know anything among you, but jesus christ, and him crucified. and i was with you in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling. and my speech and my preaching was not in the persuasive words of human wisdom, but in shewing of the spirit and power; that your faith might not stand on the wisdom of men, but on the power of god. howbeit we speak wisdom among the perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, neither of the princes of this world that come to nought; but we speak the wisdom of god in a mystery, a wisdom which is hidden, which god ordained before the world, unto our glory: which none of the princes of this world knew; for if they had known it, they would never have crucified the lord of glory. but, as it is written: that eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man, what things god hath prepared for them that love him. but to us god hath revealed them, by this spirit. for the spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of god. for what man knoweth the things of a man, but the spirit of a man that is in him? so the things also that are of god no man knoweth, but the spirit of god. now we have received not the spirit of this world, but the spirit that is of god; that we may know the things that are given us from god. which things also we speak, not in the learned words of human wisdom; but in the doctrine of the spirit, comparing spiritual things with spiritual. but the sensual man perceiveth not these things that are of the spirit of god; for it is foolishness to him, and he cannot understand, because it is spiritually examined. but the spiritual man judgeth all things; and he himself is judged of no man. for who hath known the mind of the lord, that we may instruct him? but we have the mind of christ.

and i, brethren, could not speak to you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal. as unto little ones in christ. i gave you milk to drink, not meat; for you were not able as yet. but neither indeed are you now able; for you are yet carnal. for, whereas there is among you envying and contention, are you not carnal, and walk according to man? for while one saith, i indeed am of paul; and another, i am of apollo; are you not men? what then is apollo, and what is paul? the ministers of him whom you have believed; and to every one as the lord hath given. i have planted, apollo watered, but god gave the increase. therefore, neither he that planteth is any thing, nor he that watereth; but god that giveth the increase. now he that planteth, and he that watereth, ate one. and every man shall receive his own reward, according to his own labour. for we are god's coadjutors: you are god's husbandry; you are god's building. according to the grace of god that is given to me, as a wise architect, i have laid the foundation; and another buildeth thereon. but let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon. for other foundation no man can lay, but that which is laid; which is christ jesus. now if any man build upon this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble: every man's work shall be manifest; for the day of the lord shall declare it, because it shall be revealed in fire; and the fire shall try every man's work, of what sort it is. if any man's work abide, which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward. if any man's work burn, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved, yet so as by fire. know you not, that you are the temple of god, and that the spirit of god dwelleth in you? but if any man violate the temple of god, him shall god destroy. for the temple of god is holy, which you are. let no man deceive himself: if any man among you seem to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. for the wisdom of this world is foolishness with god. for it is written: i will catch the wise in their own craftiness. and again: the lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain. let no man therefore glory in men. for all things are yours, whether it be paul, or apollo, or cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to some; for all are yours; and you are christ's; and christ is god's.

let a man so account of us as of the ministers of christ, and the dispensers of the mysteries of god. here now it is required among the dispensers, that a man be found faithful. but to me it is a very small thing to be judged by you, or by man's day; but neither do i judge my own self. for i am not conscious to myself of any thing, yet am i not hereby justified; but he that judgeth me, is the lord. therefore judge not before the time; until the lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts; and then shall every man have praise from god. but these things, brethren, i have in a figure transferred to myself and to apollo, for your sakes; that in us you may learn, that one be not puffed up against the other for another, above that which is written. for who distinguisheth thee? or what hast thou that thou hast not received? and if thou hast received, why dost thou glory, as if thou hadst not received it? you are now full; you are now become rich; you reign without us; and i would to god you did reign, that we also might reign with you. for i think that god hath set forth us apostles, the last, as it were men appointed to death: we are made a spectacle to the world, and to angels, and to men. we are fools for christ's sake, but you are wise in christ; we are weak, but you are strong; you are honourable, but we without honour. even unto this hour we both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no fixed abode; and we labour, working with our own hands: we are reviled, and we bless; we are persecuted, and we suffer it. we are blas-phemed, and we entreat; we are made as the refuse of this world, the offscouring of all even until now. i write not these things to confound you; but i admonish you as my dearest children. for if you have ten thousand instructors in christ, yet not many fathers. for in christ jesus, by the gospel, i have begotten you. wherefore i beseech you, be ye followers of me, as i also am of christ. for this cause have i sent to you timothy, who is my dearest son and faithful in the lord; who will put you in mind of my ways, which are in christ jesus; as i teach every where in every church. as if i would not come to you, so some are puffed up. but i will come to you shortly, if the lord will: and will know, not the speech of them that are puffed up, but the power. for the kingdom of god is not in speech, but in power. what will you? shall i come to you with a rod; or in charity, and in the spirit of meekness?

it is absolutely heard, that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as the like is not among the heathens; that one should have his father's wife. and you are puffed up; and have not rather mourned, that he might be taken away from among you, that hath done this deed. i indeed, absent in body, but present in spirit, have already judged, as though i were present, him that hath so done, in the name of our lord jesus christ, you being gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our lord jesus; to deliver such a one to satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of our lord jesus christ. your glorying is not good. know you not that a little leaven corrupteth the whole lump? purge out the old leaven, that you may be a new paste, as you are unleavened. for christ our pasch is sacrificed. therefore let us feast, not with the old leaven, nor with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth. i wrote to you in an epistle, not to keep company with fornicators. i mean not with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or the extortioners, or the servers of idols; otherwise you must needs go out of this world. but now i have written to you, not to keep company, if any man that is named a brother, be a fornicator, or covetous, or a server of idols, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner: with such a one, not so much as to eat. for what have i to do to judge them that are without? do not you judge them that are within? for them that are without, god will judge. put away the evil one from among yourselves.

dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to be judged before the unjust, and not before the saints? know you not that the saints shall judge this world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are you unworthy to judge the smallest matters? know you not that we shall judge angels? how much more things of this world? if therefore you have judgments of things pertaining to this world, set them to judge, who are the most despised in the church. i speak to your shame. is it so that there is not among you any one wise man, that is able to judge between his brethren ? but brother goeth to law with brother, and that before unbelievers. already indeed there is plainly a fault among you, that you have lawsuits one with another. why do you not rather take wrong? why do you not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded? but you do wrong and defraud, and that to your brethren. know you not that the unjust shall not possess the kingdom of god? do not err: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor the effeminate, nor liars with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor railers, nor extortioners, shall possess the kingdom of god. and such some of you were; but you are washed, but you are sanctified, but you are justified in the name of our lord jesus christ, and the spirit of our god. all things are lawful to me, but all things are not expedient. all things are lawful to me, but i will not be brought under the power of any. meat for the belly, and the belly for the meats; but god shall destroy both it and them: but the body is not for fornication, but for the lord, and the lord for the body. now god hath both raised up the lord, and will raise us up also by his power. know you not that your bodies are the members of christ ? shall i then take the members of christ, and make them the members of an harlot ? god forbid. or know you not, that he who is joined to a harlot, is made one body ? for they shall be, saith he, two in one flesh. but he who is joined to the lord, is one spirit. fly fornication. every sin that a man doth, is without the body; but he that committeth fornication, sinneth against his own body. or know you not, that your members are the temple of the holy ghost, who is in you, whom you have from god; and you are not your own ? for you are bought with a great price. glorify and bear god in your body.

now concerning the thing whereof you wrote to me: it is good for a man not to touch a woman. but for fear of fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband. let the husband render the debt to his wife, and the wife also in like manner to the husband. the wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband. and in like manner the husband also hath not power of his own body, but the wife. defraud not one another, except, perhaps, by consent, for a time, that you may give yourselves to prayer; and return together again, lest satan tempt you for your incontinency. but i speak this by indulgence, not by commandment. for i would that all men were even as myself: but every one hath his proper gift from god; one after this manner, and another after that. but i say to the unmarried, and to the widows: it is good for them if they so continue, even as i. but if they do not contain themselves, let them marry. for it is better to marry than to be burnt. but to them that are married, not i but the lord commandeth, that the wife depart not from her husband. and if she depart, that she remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband. and let not the husband put away his wife. for to the rest i speak, not the lord. if any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she consent to dwell with him, let him not put her away. and if any woman hath a husband that believeth not, and he consent to dwell with her, let her not put away her husband. for the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the believing wife; and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the believing husband: otherwise your children should be unclean; but now they are holy. but if the unbeliever depart, let him depart. for a brother or sister is not under servitude in such cases. but god hath called us in peace. for how knowest thou, o wife, whether thou shalt save thy husband ? or how knowest thou, o man, whether thou shalt save thy wife ? but as the lord hath distributed to every one, as god hath called every one, so let him walk: and so in all churches i teach. is any man called, being circumcised ? let him not procure uncircumcision. is any man called in uncircumcision ? let him not be circumcised. circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing: but the observance of the commandments of god. let every man abide in the same calling in which he was called. wast thou called, being a bondman ? care not for it; but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather. for he that is called in the lord, being a bondman, is the freeman of the lord. likewise he that is called, being free, is the bondman of christ. you are bought with a price; be not made the bondslaves of men. brethren, let every man, wherein he was called, therein abide with god. now concerning virgins, i have no commandment of the lord; but i give counsel, as having obtained mercy of the lord, to be faithful. i think therefore that this is good for the present necessity, that it is good for a man so to be. art thou bound to a wife ? seek not to be loosed. art thou loosed from a wife ? seek not a wife. but if thou take a wife, thou hast not sinned. and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned: nevertheless, such shall have tribulation of the flesh. but i spare you. this therefore i say, brethren; the time is short; it remaineth, that they also who have wives, be as if they had none; and they that weep, as though they wept not; and they that rejoice, as if they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they possessed not; and they that use this world, as if they used it not: for the fashion of this world passeth away. but i would have you to be without solicitude. he that is without a wife, is solicitous for the things that belong to the lord, how he may please god. but he that is with a wife, is solicitous for the things of the world, how he may please his wife: and he is divided. and the unmarried woman and the virgin thinketh on the things of the lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit. but she that is married thinketh on the things of the world, how she may please her husband. and this i speak for your profit: not to cast a snare upon you; but for that which is decent, and which may give you power to attend upon the lord, without impediment. but if any man think that he seemeth dishonoured, with regard to his virgin, for that she is above the age, and it must so be: let him do what he will; he sinneth not, if she marry. for he that hath determined being steadfast in his heart, having no necessity, but having power of his own will; and hath judged this in his heart, to keep his virgin, doth well. therefore, both he that giveth his virgin in marriage, doth well; and he that giveth her not, doth better. a woman is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband die, she is at liberty: let her marry to whom she will; only in the lord. but more blessed shall she be, if she so remain, according to my counsel; and i think that i also have the spirit of god.

now concerning those things that are sacrificed to idols, we know that we all have knowledge. knowledge puffeth up; but charity edifieth. and if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he hath not yet known as he ought to know. but if any any love god, the same is known by him. but as for the meats that are sacrificed to idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is no god but one. for although there be that are called gods, either in heaven or on earth (for there be gods many, and lords many); yet to us there is but one god, the father, of whom are all things, and we unto him; and one lord jesus christ, by whom are all things, and we by him. but there is not knowledge in every one. for some until this present, with conscience of the idol: eat as a thing sacrificed to an idol, and their conscience, being weak, is defiled. but meat doth not commend us to god. for neither, if we eat, shall we have the more; nor, if we eat not, shall we have the less. but take heed lest perhaps this your liberty become a stumblingblock to the weak. for if a man see him that hath knowledge sit at meat in the idol's temple, shall not his conscience, being weak, be emboldened to eat those things which are sacrificed to idols? and through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom christ hath died? now when you sin thus against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, you sin against christ. wherefore, if meat scandalize my brother, i will never eat flesh, lest i should scandalize my brother.

am not i free? am not i an apostle? have not i seen christ jesus our lord? are not you my work in the lord? and if unto others i be not an apostle, but yet to you i am. for you are the seal of my apostleship in the lord. my defence with them that do examine me is this. have not we power to eat and to drink? have we not power to carry about a woman, a sister, as well as the rest of the apostles, and the brethren of the lord, and cephas? or i only and barnabas, have not we power to do this? who serveth as a soldier at any time, at his own charges? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? who feedeth the flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock? speak i these things according to man? or doth not the law also say these things? for it is written in the law of moyses: thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth

out the corn. doth god take care for oxen? or doth he say this indeed for our sakes? for these things are written for our sakes: that he that plougheth, should plough in hope; and he that thrasheth, in hope to receive fruit. if we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great matter if we reap your carnal things? if others be partakers of this power over you, why not we rather? nevertheless, we have not used this power: but we bear all things, lest we should give any hindrance to the gospel of christ. know you not, that they who work in the holy place, eat the things that are of the holy place; and they that serve the altar, partake with the altar? so also the lord ordained that they who preach the gospel, should live by the gospel. but i have used none of these things. neither have i written these things, that they should be so done unto me: for it is good for me to die, rather than that any man should make my glory void. for if i preach the gospel, it is no glory to me, for a necessity lieth upon me: for woe is unto me if i preach not the gospel. for if i do this thing willingly, i have a reward: but if against my will, a dispensation is committed to me: what is my reward then? that preaching the gospel, i may deliver the gospel without charge, that i abuse not my power in the gospel. for whereas i was free as to all, i made myself the servant of all, that i might gain the more. and i became to the jews, a jew, that i might gain the jews: to them that are under the law, as if i were under the law, (whereas myself was not under the law,) that i might gain them that were under the law. to them that were without the law, as if i were without the law, (whereas i was not without the law of god, but was in the law of christ,) that i might gain them that were without the law. to the weak i became weak, that i might gain the weak. i became all things to all men, that i might save all. and i do all things for the gospel's sake: that i may be made partaker thereof. know you not that they that run in the race, all run indeed, but one receiveth the prize? so run that you may obtain. and every one that striveth for the mastery, refraineth himself from all things: and they indeed that they may receive a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible one. i therefore so run, not as at an uncertainty: i so fight, not as one beating the air: but i chastise my body, and bring it into subjection: lest perhaps, when i have preached to others, i myself should become a castaway.

for i would not have you ignorant, brethren, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea. and all in moyses were baptized, in the cloud, and in the sea: and did all eat the same spiritual food, and all drank the same spiritual drink; (and they drank of the spiritual rock that followed them, and the rock was christ.) but with most of them god was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the desert. now these things were done in a figure of us, that we should not covet evil things as they also coveted. neither become ye idolaters, as some of them, as it is written: the people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play. neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed fornication, and there fell in one day three and twenty thousand. neither let us tempt christ: as some of them tempted, and perished by the serpents. neither do you murmur: as some of them murmured, and were destroyed by the destroyer. now all these things happened to them in figure: and they are written for our correction, upon whom the ends of the world are come. wherefore he that thinketh himself to stand, let him take heed lest he fall. let no temptation take hold on you, but such as is human. and god is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that which you are able: but will make also with temptation issue, that you may be able to bear it. wherefore, my dearly beloved, fly from the service of idols. i speak as to wise men: judge ye yourselves what i say. the chalice of benediction, which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of christ? and the bread, which we break, is it not the partaking of the body of the lord? for we, being many, are one bread, one body, all that partake of one bread. behold israel according to the flesh: are not they, that eat of the sacrifices, partakers of the altar? what then? do i say, that what is offered in sacrifice to idols, is any thing? or, that the idol is any thing? but the things which the heathens sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to god. and i would not that you should be made partakers with devils. you cannot drink the chalice of the lord, and the chalice of devils: you cannot be partakers of the table of the lord, and of the table of devils. do we provoke the lord to jealousy? are we stronger than he? all things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient. all things are lawful for me, but all things do not edify. let no man seek his own, but that which is another's. whatsoever is sold in the shambles, eat; asking no question for conscience' sake. the earth is the lord's, and the fulness thereof. if any of them that believe not, invite you, and you will be willing to go; eat of any thing that is set before you, asking no question for conscience' sake. but if any man say: this has been sacrificed to idols, do not eat of it for his sake that told it, and for conscience' sake. conscience, i say, not thy own, but the other's. for why is my liberty judged by another man's conscience? if i partake with thanksgiving, why am i evil spoken of, for that for which i give thanks? therefore, whether you eat or drink, or whatsoever else you do, do all to the glory of god. be without offence to the jews, and to the gentiles, and to the church of god: as i also in all things please all men, not seeking that which is profitable to myself, but to many, that may be saved.

be ye followers of me, as i also am of christ. now i praise you, brethren, that in all things you are mindful of me: and keep my ordinances as i have delivered them to you. but i would have you know, that the head of every man is christ; and the head of the woman is the man; and the head of christ is god. every man praying or prophesying with his head covered, disgraceth his head. but every woman praying or prophesying with her head not covered, disgraceth her head: for it is all one as if she were shaven. for if a woman be not covered, let her be shorn. but if it be a shame to a woman to be shorn or made bald, let her cover her head. the man indeed ought not to cover his head, because he is the image and glory of god; but the woman is the glory of the man. for the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man. for the man was not created for the woman, but the woman for the man. therefore ought the woman to have a power over her head, because of the angels. but yet neither is the man without the woman, nor the woman without the man, in the lord. for as the woman is of the man, so also is the man by the woman: but all things of god. you yourselves judge: doth it become a woman, to pray unto god uncovered? doth not even nature itself teach you, that a man indeed, if he nourish his hair, it is a shame unto him? but if a woman nourish her hair, it is a glory to her; for her hair is given to her for a covering. but if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, nor the church of god. now this i ordain: not praising you, that you come together not for the better, but for the worse. for first of all i hear that when you come together in the church, there are schisms among you; and in part i believe it. for there must be also heresies: that they also, who are approved, may be made manifest among you. when you come therefore together into one place, it is not now to eat the lord's supper. for every one taketh before his own supper to eat. and one indeed is hungry and another is drunk. what, have you not houses to eat and to drink in? or despise ye the church of god; and put them to shame that have not? what shall i say to you? do i praise you? in this i praise you not. for i have received of the lord that which also i delivered unto you, that the lord jesus, the same night in which he was betrayed, took bread. and giving thanks, broke, and said: take ye, and eat: this is my body, which shall be delivered for you: this do for the commemoration of me. in like manner also the chalice, after he had supped, saying: this chalice is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as often as you shall drink, for the commemoration of me. for as often as you shall eat this bread, and drink the chalice, you shall shew the death of the lord, until he come. therefore whosoever shall eat this bread, or drink the chalice of the lord unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and of the blood of the lord. but let a man prove himself: and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of the chalice. for he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh judgment to himself, not discerning the body of the lord. therefore are there many inform and weak among you, and many sleep. but if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged. but whilst we are judged, we are chastised by the lord, that we be not condemned with this world. wherefore, my brethren, when you come together to eat, wait for one another. if any man be hungry, let him eat at home; that you come not together unto judgment. and the rest i will set in order, when i come.

now concerning spiritual things, my brethren, i would not have you ignorant. you know that when you were heathens, you went to dumb idols, according as you were led. wherefore i give you to understand, that no man, speaking by the spirit of god, saith anathema to jesus. and no man can say the lord jesus, but by the holy ghost. now there are diversities of graces, but the same spirit; and there are diversities of ministries, but the same lord; and there are diversities of operations, but the same god, who worketh all in all. and the manifestation of the spirit is given to every man unto profit. to one indeed, by the spirit, is given the word of wisdom: and to another, the word of knowledge, according to the same spirit; to another, faith in the same spirit; to another, the grace of healing in one spirit; to another, the working of miracles; to another, prophecy; to another, the discerning of spirits; to another, diverse kinds of tongues; to another, interpretation of speeches. but all these things one and the same spirit worketh, dividing to every one according as he will. for as the body is one, and hath many members; and all the members of the body, whereas they are many, yet are one body, so also is christ. for in one spirit were we all baptized into one body, whether jews or gentiles, whether bond or free; and in one spirit we have all been made to drink. for the body also is not one member, but many. if the foot should say, because i am not the hand, i am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body? and if the ear should say, because i am not the eye, i am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body? if the whole body were the eye, where would be the hearing? if the whole were hearing, where would be the smelling? but now god hath set the members every one of them in the body as it hath pleased him. and if they all were one member, where would be the body? but now there are many members indeed, yet one body. and the eye cannot say to the hand: i need not thy help; nor again the head to the feet: i have no need of you. yea, much more those that seem to be the more feeble members of the body, are more necessary. and such as we think to be the less honourable members of the body, about these we put more abundant honour; and those that are our uncomely parts, have more abundant comeliness. but our comely parts have no need: but god hath tempered the body together, giving to that which wanted the more abundant honour, that there might be no schism in the body; but the members might be mutually careful one for another. and if one member suffer any thing, all the members suffer with it; or if one member glory, all the members rejoice with it. now you are the body of christ, and members of member. and god indeed hath set some in the church; first apostles, secondly prophets, thirdly doctors; after that miracles; then the graces of healing, helps, governments, kinds of tongues, interpretations of speeches. are all apostles? are all prophets? are all doctors? are all workers of miracles? have all the grace of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret? but be zealous for the better gifts. and i shew unto you yet a more excellent

if i speak with the tongues of men, and of angels, and have not charity, i am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. and if i should have prophecy and should know all mysteries, and all knowledge, and if i should have all faith, so that i could remove mountains, and have not charity, i am nothing. and if i should distribute all my goods to feed the poor, and if i should deliver my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. charity is patient, is kind: charity envieth not, dealeth not perversely; is not puffed up; is not ambitious, seeketh not her own, is not provoked to anger, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth with the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. charity never falleth away: whether prophecies shall be made void, or tongues shall cease, or knowledge shall be destroyed. for we know in part, and we prophesy in part. but when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away. when i was a child, i spoke as a child, i understood as a child, i thought as a child. but, when i became a man, i put away the things of a child. we see now through a glass in a dark manner; but then face to face. now i know i part; but then i shall know even as i am known. and now there remain faith, hope, and charity, these three: but the greatest of these is charity.

follow after charity, be zealous for spiritual gifts; but rather that you may prophesy. for he that speaketh in a tongue, speaketh not unto men, but unto god: for no man heareth. yet by the spirit he speaketh mysteries. but he that prophesieth, speaketh to men unto edification, and exhortation, and comfort. he that speaketh in a tongue, edifieth himself: but he that prophesieth, edifieth the church. and i would have you all to speak with tongues, but rather to prophesy. for greater is he that prophesieth, than he that speaketh with tongues: unless perhaps he interpret, that the church may receive edification. but now, brethren, if i come to you speaking with tongues, what shall i profit you, unless i speak to you either in revelation, or in knowledge, or in prophecy, or in doctrine? even things without life that give sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction of sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped? for if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle? so likewise you, except you utter by the tongue plain speech, how shall it be known what is said? for you shall be speaking into the air. there are, for example, so many kinds of tongues in this world; and none is without voice. if then i know not the power of the voice, i shall be to him to whom i speak a barbarian; and he that speaketh, a barbarian to me. so you also, forasmuch as you are zealous of spirits, seek to abound unto the

edifying of the church. and therefore he that speaketh by a tongue, let him pray that he may interpret. for if i pray in a tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is without fruit. what is it then ? i will pray with the spirit, i will pray also with the understanding; i will sing with the spirit, i will sing also with the understanding. else if thou shalt bless with the spirit, how shall he that holdeth the place of the unlearned say, amen, to thy blessing ? because he knoweth not what thou sayest. for thou indeed givest thanks well, but the other is not edified. i thank my god i speak with all your tongues. but in the church i had rather speak five words with my understanding, that i may instruct others also; than ten thousand words in a tongue. brethren, do not become children in sense: but in malice be children, and in sense be perfect. in the law it is written: in other tongues and other lips i will speak to this people; and neither so will they hear me, saith the lord. wherefore tongues are for a sign, not to believers, but to unbelievers; but prophecies not to unbelievers, but to believers. if therefore the whole church come together into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in unlearned persons or infidels, will they not say that you are mad ? but if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or an unlearned person, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all. the secrets of his heart are made manifest; and so, falling down on his face, he will adore god, affirming that god is among you indeed. how is it then, brethren ? when you come together, every one of you hath a psalm, hath a doctrine, hath a revelation, hath a tongue, hath an interpretation: let all things be done to edification. if any speak with a tongue, let it be by two, or at the most by three, and in course, and let one interpret. but if there be no interpreter, let him hold his peace in the church, and speak to himself and to god. and let the prophets speak, two or three; and let the rest judge. but if any thing be revealed to another sitting, let the first hold his peace. for you may all prophesy one by one; that all may learn, and all may be exhorted: and the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets. for god is not the god of dissension, but of peace: as also i teach in all the churches of the saints. let women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted them to speak, but to be subject, as also the law saith. but if they would learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home. for it is a shame for a woman to speak in the church. or did the word of god come out from you ? or came it only unto you ? if any seem to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him know the things that i write to you, that they are the commandments of the lord. but if any man know not, he shall not be known. wherefore, brethren, be zealous to prophesy; and forbid not to speak with tongues. but let all things be done decently, and according to order.

now i make known unto you, brethren, the gospel which i preached to you, which also you have received, and wherein you stand; by which also you are saved, if you hold fast after what manner i preached unto you, unless you have believed in vain. for i delivered unto you first of all, which i also received: how that christ died for our sins, according to the scriptures: and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day, according to the scriptures: and that he was seen by cephas; and after that by the eleven. then he was seen by more than five hundred brethren at once: of whom many remain until this present, and some are fallen asleep. after that, he was seen by james, then by all the apostles. and last of all, he was seen also by me, as by one born out of due time. for i am the least of the apostles, who am not worthy to be called an apostle, because i persecuted the church of god. but by the grace of god, i am what i am; and his grace in me hath not been void, but i have laboured more abundantly than all they: yet not i, but the grace of god with me. for whether i, or they, so we preach, and so you have believed. now if christ be preached, that he arose again from the dead, how do some among you say, that there is no resurrection of the dead? but if there be no resurrection of the dead, then christ is not risen again. and if christ be not risen again, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. yea, and we are found false witnesses of god: because we have given testimony against god, that he hath raised up christ; whom he hath not raised up, if the dead rise not again. for if the dead rise not again, neither is christ risen again. and if christ be not risen again, your faith is vain, for you are yet in your sins. then they also that are fallen asleep in christ, are perished. if in this life only we have hope in christ, we are of all men most miserable. but now christ is risen from the dead, the firstfruits of them that sleep : for by a man came death, and by a man the resurrection of the dead. and as in adam all die, so also in christ all shall be made alive. but every one in his own order: the firstfruits christ, then they that are of christ, who have believed in his coming. afterwards the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to god and the father, when he shall have brought to nought all principality, and power, and virtue. for he must reign, until he hath put all his enemies under his feet. and the enemy death shall be destroyed last: for he hath put all things under his feet. and whereas he saith, all things are put under him; undoubtedly, he is excepted, who put all things under him. and when all things shall be subdued unto him, then the son also himself shall be subject unto him that put all things under him, that god may be all in all. otherwise what shall they do that are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not again at all? why are they then baptized for them? why also are we in danger every hour? i die daily, i protest by your glory, brethren, which i have in christ jesus our lord. if (according to man) i fought with beasts at ephesus, what doth it profit me, if the dead rise not again? let us eat and drink, for to morrow we shall die. be not seduced: evil communications corrupt good manners. awake, ye just, and sin not. for some have not the knowledge of god, i speak it to your shame. but some man will say: how do the dead rise again? or with what manner of body shall they come? senseless man, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die first. and that which

thou sowest, thou sowest not the body that shall be; but bare grain, as of wheat, or of some of the rest. but god giveth it a body as he will: and to every seed its proper body. all flesh is not the same flesh: but one is the flesh of men, another of beasts, another of birds, another of fishes. and there are bodies celestial, and bodies terrestrial: but, one is the glory of the celestial, and another of the terrestrial. one is the glory of the sun, another the glory of the moon, and another the glory of the stars. for star differeth from star in glory. so also is the resurrection of the dead. it is sown in corruption, it shall rise in incorruption. it is sown in dishonour, it shall rise in glory. it is sown in weakness, it shall rise in power. it is sown a natural body, it shall rise a spiritual body. if there be a natural body, there is also a spiritual body, as it is written: the first man adam was made into a living soul; the last adam into a quickening spirit. yet that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; afterwards that which is spiritual. the first man was of the earth, earthly: the second man, from heaven, heavenly. such as is the earthly, such also are the earthly: and such as is the heavenly, such also are they that are heavenly. therefore as we have borne the image of the earthly, let us bear also the image of the heavenly. now this i say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot possess the kingdom of god: neither shall corruption possess incorruption. behold, i tell you a mystery. we shall all indeed rise again: but we shall not all be changed. in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall rise again incorruptible: and we shall be changed. for this corruptible must put on incorruption; and this mortal must put on immortality. and when this mortal hath put on immortality, then shall come to pass the saying that is written: death is swallowed up in victory. o death, where is thy victory? o death, where is thy sting? now the sting of death is sin: and the power of sin is the law. but thanks be to god, who hath given us the victory through our lord jesus christ. therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast and unmoveable; always abounding in the work of the lord, knowing that your labour is not in vain in the lord.

now concerning the collections that are made for the saints, as i have given order to the churches of galatia, so do ye also. on the first day of the week let every one of you put apart with himself, laying up what it shall well please him; that when i come, the collections be not then to be made. and when i shall be with you, whomsoever you shall approve by letters, them will i send to carry your grace to jerusalem. and if it be meet that i also go, they shall go with me. now i will come to you, when i shall have passed through macedonia. for i shall pass through macedonia. and with you perhaps i shall abide, or even spend the winter: that you may bring me on my way whithersoever i shall go. for i will not see you now by the way, for i trust that i shall abide with you some time, if the lord permit. but i will tarry at ephesus until pentecost. for a great door and evident is opened unto me: and many adversaries. now if timothy come, see that he be with you without fear, for he worketh the work of the lord, as i also do. let no man therefore despise him, but conduct ye him on his way in peace: that he may come to me. for i look for him with the breatheren. and touching our brother apollo, i give you to understand, that i much entreated him to come unto you with the breatheren: and indeed it was not his will at all to come at this time. but he will come when he shall have leisure. watch ye, stand fast in the faith, do manfully, and be strengthened. let all your things be done in charity. and i beseech you, brethren, you know the house of stephanas, and of fortunatus, and of achaicus, that they are the first-fruits of achaia, and have dedicated themselves to the ministry of the saints: that you also be subject to such, and to every one that worketh with us, and laboureth. and i rejoice in the presence of stephanas, and fortunatus, and achaicus, because that which was wanting on your part, they have supplied. for they have refreshed both my spirit and yours. know them, therefore, that are such. the churches of asia salute you. aquila and priscilla salute you much in the lord, with the church that is in their house, with whom i also lodge. all the brethren salute you. salute one another with a holy kiss. the salutation of me paul, with my own hand. if any man love not our lord jesus christ, let him be anathema, maranatha. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you. my charity be with you all in christ jesus. amen.

paul, an apostle of jesus christ by the will of god, and timothy our brother: to the church of god that is at corinth, with all the saints that are in all achaia: grace unto you and peace from god our father, and from the lord jesus christ. blessed be the god and father of our lord jesus christ, the father of mercies, and the god of all comfort. who comforteth us in all our tribulation; that we also may be able to comfort them who are in all distress, by the exhortation wherewith we also are exhorted by god. for as the sufferings of christ abound in us: so also by christ doth our comfort abound. now whether we be in tribulation, it is for your exhortation and salvation: or whether we be comforted, it is for your consolation: or whether we be exhorted, it is for your exhortation and salvation, which worketh the enduring of the same sufferings which we also suffer. that our hope for you may be steadfast: knowing that as you are partakers of the sufferings, so shall you be also of the consolation. for we would not have you ignorant, brethren, of our tribulation, which came to us in asia, that we were pressed out of measure above our strength, so that we were weary even of life. but we had in ourselves the answer of death, that we should not trust in ourselves, but in god who raiseth the dead. who hath delivered and doth deliver us out of so great dangers: in whom we trust that he will yet also deliver us. you helping withal in prayer for us: that for this gift obtained for us, by the means of many persons, thanks may be given by many in our behalf. for our glory is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity of heart and sincerity of god, and not in carnal wisdom, but in the grace of god, we have conversed in this world: and more abundantly towards you. for we write no other things to you than what you have read and known. and i hope that you shall know unto the end: as also you have known us in part, that we are your glory, as you also are ours, in the day of our lord jesus christ. and in this confidence i had a mind to come to you before, that you might have a second grace: and to pass by you into macedonia, and again from macedonia to come to you, and by you to be brought on my way towards judea. whereas then i was thus minded, did i use lightness? or, the things that i purpose, do i purpose according to the flesh, that there should be with me, it is, and it is not? but god is faithful, for our preaching which was to you, was not, it is, and it is not. for the son of god, jesus christ who was preached among you by us, by me, and sylvanus, and timothy, was not, it is and it is not, but, it is, was in him. for all the promises of god are in him, it is; therefore also by him, amen to god, unto our glory. now he that confirmeth us with you in christ, and that hath anointed us, is god: who also hath sealed us, and given the pledge of the spirit in our hearts. but i call god to witness upon my soul, that to spare you, i came not any more to corinth: not because we exercise dominion over your faith: but we are helpers of your joy: for in faith you stand.

but i determined this with myself, not to come to you again in sorrow. for if i make you sorrowful, who is he then that can make me glad, but the same who is made sorrowful by me? and i wrote this same to you; that i may not, when i come, have sorrow upon sorrow, from them of whom i ought to rejoice: having confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all. for out of much affliction and anguish of heart, i wrote to you with many tears: not that you should be made sorrowful: but that you might know the charity i have more abundantly towards you. and if any one have caused grief, he hath not grieved me; but in part, that i may not burden you all. to him who is such a one, this rebuke is sufficient, which is given by many: so that on the contrary, you should rather forgive him and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow. wherefore, i beseech you, that you would confirm your charity towards him. for to this end also did i write, that i may know the experiment of you, whether you be obedient in all things. and to whom you have pardoned any thing, i also. for, what i have pardoned, if i have pardoned any thing, for your sakes have i done it in the person of christ. that we be not overreached by satan. for we are not ignorant of his devices. and when i was come to troas for the gospel of christ, and a door was opened unto me in the lord, i had no rest in my spirit, because i found not titus my brother; but bidding them farewell, i went into macedonia. now thanks be to god, who always maketh us to triumph in christ jesus, and manifesteth the odour of his knowledge by us in every place. for we are the good odour of christ unto god, in them that are saved, and in them that perish. to the one indeed the odour of death unto death: but to the others the odour of life unto life. and for these things who is so sufficient? for we are not as many, adulterating the word of god; but with sincerity, but as from god, before god, in christ we speak.

do we begin again to commend ourselves? or do we need (as some do) epistles of commendation to you, or from you? you are our epistle, written in our hearts, which is known and read by all men: being manifested, that you are the epistle of christ, ministered by us, and written not with ink, but with the spirit of the living god; not in tables of stone, but in the fleshly tables of the heart. and such confidence we have, through christ, towards god. not that we are sufficient to think any thing of ourselves, as of ourselves: but our sufficiency is from god. who also hath made us fit ministers of the new testament, not in the letter, but in the spirit. for the letter killeth, but the spirit quickeneth. now if the ministration of death, engraven with letters upon stones, was glorious; so that the children of israel could not steadfastly behold the face of moyses, for the glory of his countenance, which is made void: how shall not the ministration of the spirit be rather in glory? for if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more the ministration of justice aboundeth in glory. for even that which was glorious in this part was not glorified, by reason of the glory that excellet. for if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is in glory. having therefore such hope, we use much confidence: and not as moyses put a veil upon his face, that the children of israel might not steadfastly look on the face of that which is made void. but their senses were made dull. for, until this present day, the selfsame veil, in the reading of the old testament, remaineth not taken away (because in christ it is made void). but even until this day, when moyses is read, the veil is upon their heart. but when they shall be converted to the lord, the veil shall be taken away. now the lord is a spirit. and where the spirit of the lord is, there is liberty. but we all beholding the glory of the lord with open face, are transformed into the same image from glory to glory, as by the spirit of the lord.

therefore, seeing we have this ministration, according as we have obtained mercy, we faint not; but we renounce the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor adulterating the word of god; but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience, in the sight of god. and if our gospel be also hid, it is hid to them that are lost, in whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of unbelievers, that the light of the gospel of the glory of christ, who is the image of god, should not shine unto them. for we preach not ourselves, but jesus christ our lord; and ourselves your servants through jesus. for god, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of god, in the face of christ jesus. but we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency may be of the power of god, and not of us. in all things we suffer tribulation, but are not distressed; we are straitened, but are not destitute; we suffer persecution, but are not forsaken; we are cast down, but we perish not: always bearing about in our body the mortification of jesus, that the life also of jesus may be made manifest in our bodies. for we who live are always delivered unto death for jesus' sake; that the life also of jesus may be made manifest in our mortal flesh. so then death worketh in us, but life in you. but having the same spirit of faith, as it is written: i believed, for which cause i have spoken; we also believe, for which cause we speak also: knowing that he who raised up jesus, will raise us up also with jesus, and place us with you. for all things are for your sakes; that the grace abounding through many, may abound in thanksgiving unto the glory of god. for which cause we faint not; but though our outward man is corrupted, yet the inward man is renewed day by day. for that which is at present momentary and light of our tribulation, worketh for us above measure exceedingly an eternal weight of glory. while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen. for the things which are seen, are temporal; but the things which are not seen, are eternal.

for we know, if our earthly house of this habitation be dissolved, that we have a building of god, a house not made with hands, eternal in heaven. for in this also we groan, desiring to be clothed upon with our habitation that is from heaven. yet so that we be found clothed, not naked. for we also, who are in this tabernacle, do groan, being burthened; because we would not be unclothed, but clothed upon, that that which is mortal may be swallowed up by life. now he that maketh us for this very thing, is god, who hath given us the pledge of the spirit. therefore having always confidence, knowing that, while we are in the body, we are absent from the lord. (for we walk by faith, and not by sight.) but we are confident, and have a good will to be absent rather from the body, and to be present with the lord. and therefore we labour, whether absent or present, to please him. for we must all be manifested before the judgement seat of christ, that every one may receive the proper things of the body, according as he hath done, whether it be good or evil. knowing therefore the fear of the lord, we use persuasion to men; but to god we are manifest. and i trust also that in your consciences we are manifest. we commend not ourselves again to you, but give you occasion to glory in our behalf; that you may have somewhat to answer them who glory in face, and not in heart. for whether we be transported in mind, it is to god; or whether we be sober, it is for you. for the charity of christ presseth us: judging this, that if one died for all, then all were dead. and christ died for all; that they also who live, may not now live to themselves, but unto him who died for them, and rose again. wherefore henceforth, we know no man according to the flesh. and if we have known christ according to the flesh; but now we know him so no longer. if then any be in christ a new creature, the old things are passed away, behold all things are made new. but all things are of god, who hath reconciled us to himself by christ; and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation. for god indeed was in christ, reconciling the world to himself, not imputing to them their sins; and he hath placed in us the word of reconciliation. for christ therefore we are ambassadors, god as it were exhorting by us. for christ, we beseech you, be reconciled to god. him, who knew no sin, he hath made sin for us, that we might be made the justice of god in him.

and we helping do exhort you, that you receive not the grace of god in vain. for he saith: in an accepted time have i heard thee; and in the day of salvation have i helped thee. behold, now is the acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation. giving no offence to any man, that our ministry be not blamed: but in all things let us exhibit ourselves as the ministers of god, in much patience, in tribulation, in necessities, in distresses, in stripes, in prisons, in seditions, in labours, in watchings, in fastings, in chastity, in knowledge, in longsuffering, in sweetness, in the holy ghost, in charity unfeigned, in the word of truth, in the power of god; by the armour of justice on the right hand and on the left; by honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report; as deceivers, and yet true; as unknown, and yet known; as dying, and behold we live; as chastised, and not killed; as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as needy, yet enriching many; as having nothing, and possessing all things. our mouth is open to you, o ye corinthians, our heart is enlarged. you are not straitened in us, but in your own bowels you are straitened. but having the same recompense, (i speak as to my children,) be you also enlarged. bear not the yoke with unbelievers. for what participation hath justice with injustice? or what fellowship hath light with darkness? and what concord hath christ with belial? or what part hath the faithful with the unbeliever? and what agreement hath the temple of god with idols? for you are the temple of the living god; as god saith: i will dwell in them, and walk among them; and i will be their god, and they shall be my people. wherefore, go out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the lord, and touch not the unclean thing: and i will receive you; and i will be a father to you; and you shall be my sons and daughters, saith the lord almighty.

having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all defilement of the flesh and of the spirit, perfecting sanctification in the fear of god. receive us. we have injured no man, we have corrupted no man, we have overreached no man. i speak not this to your condemnation. for we have said before, that you are in our hearts, to die together, and to live together. great is my confidence for you, great is my glorying for you. i am filled with comfort: i exceedingly abound with joy in all our tribulation. for also when we were come into macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we suffered all tribulation; combats without, fears within. but god, who comforteth the humble, comforted us by the coming of titus. and not by his coming only, but also by the consolation, wherewith he was comforted in you, relating to us your desire, your mourning, your zeal for me, so that i rejoiced the more. for although i made you sorrowful by my epistle, i do not repent; and if i did repent, seeing that the same epistle (although but for a time) did make you sorrowful; now i am glad: not because you were made sorrowful; but because you were made sorrowful unto penance. for you were made sorrowful according to god, that you might suffer damage by us in nothing. for the sorrow that is according to god worketh penance, steadfast unto salvation; but the sorrow of the world worketh death. for behold this selfsame thing, that you were made sorrowful according to god, how great carefulness it worketh in you; yea defence, yea indignation, yea fear, yea desire, yea zeal, yea revenge: in all things you have shewed yourselves to be undefiled in the matter. wherefore although i wrote to you, it was not for his sake that i did the wrong, nor for him that suffered it; but to manifest our carefulness that we have for you before god: therefore we were comforted. but in our consolation, we did the more abundantly rejoice for the joy of titus, because his spirit was refreshed by you all. and if i have boasted any thing to him of you, i have not been put to shame; but as we have spoken all things to you in truth, so also our boasting that was made to titus is found a truth. and his bowels are more abundantly towards you; remembering the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling you have received him. i rejoice that in all things i have confidence in you.

now we make known unto you, brethren, the grace of god, that hath been given in the churches of macedonia. that in much experience of tribulation, they have had abundance of joy; and their very deep poverty hath abounded unto the riches of their simplicity. for according to their power (i bear them witness), and beyond their power, they were willing. with much entreaty begging of us the grace and communication of the ministry that is done toward the saints. and not as we hoped, but they gave their own selves first to the lord, then to us by the will of god: insomuch, that we desired titus, that as he had begun, so also he would finish among you this same grace. that as in all things you abound in faith, and word, and knowledge, and all carefulness; moreover also in your charity towards us, so in this grace also you may abound. i speak not as commanding; but by the carefulness of others, approving also the good disposition of your charity. for you know the grace of our lord jesus christ, that being rich he became poor, for your sakes; that through his poverty you might be rich. and herein i give my advice; for this is profitable for you, who have begun not only to do, but also to be willing, a year ago. now therefore perform ye it also in deed; that as your mind is forward to be willing, so it may be also to perform, out of that which you have. for if the will be forward, it is accepted according to that which a man hath, not according to that which he hath not. for i mean not that others should be eased, and you burthened, but by an equality. in this present time let your abundance supply their want, that their abundance also may supply your want, that there may be an equality, as it is written: he that had much, had nothing over; and he that had little, had no want. and thanks be to god, who hath given the same carefulness for you in the heart of titus. for indeed he accepted the exhortation; but being more careful, of his own will he went unto you. we have sent also with him the brother, whose praise is in the gospel through all the churches. and not that only, but he was also ordained by the churches companion of our travels, for this grace, which is administered by us, to the glory of the lord, and our determined will: avoiding this, lest any man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us. for we forecast what may be good not only before god, but also before men. and we have sent with them our brother also, whom we have often proved diligent in many things; but now much more diligent, with much confidence in you, either for titus, who is my companion and fellow labourer towards you, or our brethren, the apostles of the churches, the glory of christ. wherefore shew ye to them, in the sight of the churches, the evidence of your charity, and of our boasting on your behalf.

for concerning the ministry that is done towards the saints, it is superfluous for me to write unto you. for i know your forward mind: for which i boast of you to the macedonians. that achaia also is ready from the year past, and your emulation hath provoked very many. now i have sent the brethren, that the thing which we boast of concerning you, be not made void in this behalf, that (as i have said) you may be ready: lest, when the macedonians shall come with me, and find you unprepared, we (not to say ye) should be ashamed in this matter. therefore i thought it necessary to desire the brethren that they would go to you before, and prepare this blessing before promised, to be ready, so as a blessing, not as covetousness. now this i say: he who soweth sparingly, shall also reap sparingly; and he who soweth in blessings, shall also reap blessings. every one as he hath determined in his heart, not with sadness, or of necessity: for god loveth a cheerful giver. and god is able to make all grace abound in you; that ye always, having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work, as it is written: he hath dispersed abroad, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever. and he that ministereth seed to the sower, will both give you bread to eat, and will multiply your seed, and increase the growth of the fruits of your justice: that being enriched in all things, you may abound unto all simplicity, which worketh through us thanksgiving to god. because the administration of this office doth not only supply the want of the saints, but aboundeth also by many thanksgivings in the lord, by the proof of this ministry, glorifying god for the obedience of your confession unto the gospel of christ, and for the simplicity of your communicating unto them, and unto all. and in their praying for you, being desirous of you, because of the excellent grace of god in you. thanks be to god for his unspeakable gift.

now i paul myself beseech you, by the mildness and modesty of christ, who in presence indeed am lowly among you, but being absent, am bold toward you. but i beseech you, that i may not be bold when i am present, with that confidence wherewith i am thought to be bold, against some, who reckon us as if we walked according to the flesh. for though we walk in the flesh, we do not war according to the flesh. for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty to god unto the pulling down of fortifications, destroying counsels, and every height that exalteth itself against the knowledge of god, and bringing into captivity every understanding unto the obedience of christ; and having in readiness to revenge all disobedience, when your obedience shall be fulfilled. see the things that are according to outward appearance. if any man trust to himself, that he is christ's, let him think this again with himself, that as he is christ's, so are we also. for if also i should boast somewhat more of our power, which the lord hath given us unto edification, and not for your destruction, i should not be ashamed. but that i may not be thought as it were to terrify you by epistles, (for his epistles indeed, say they, are weighty and strong; but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible,) let such a one think this, that such as we are in word by epistles, when absent, such also we will be indeed when present. for we dare not match, or compare ourselves with some, that commend themselves; but we measure ourselves by ourselves, and compare ourselves with ourselves. but we will not glory beyond our measure; but according to the measure of the rule, which god hath measured to us, a measure to reach even unto you. for we stretch not ourselves beyond our measure, as if we reached not unto you. for we are come as far as to you in the gospel of christ. not glorying beyond measure in other men's labours; but having hope of your increasing faith, to be magnified in you according to our rule abundantly; yea, unto those places that are beyond you, to preach the gospel, not to glory in another man's rule, in those things that are made ready to our hand. but he that glorieth, let him glory in the lord. for not he who commendeth himself, is approved, but he, whom god commendeth.

would to god you could bear with some little of my folly: but do bear with me. for i am jealous of you with the jealousy of god. for i have espoused you to one husband that i may present you as a chaste virgin to christ. but i fear lest, as the serpent seduced eve by his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted, and fall from the simplicity that is in christ. for if he that cometh preacheth another christ, whom we have not preached; or if you receive another spirit, whom you have not received; or another gospel which you have not received; you might well bear with him. for i suppose that i have done nothing less than the great apostles. for although i be rude in speech, yet not in knowledge; but in all things we have been made manifest to you. or did i commit a fault, humbling myself, that you might be exalted? because i preached unto you the gospel of god freely? i have taken from other churches, receiving wages of them for your ministry. and, when i was present with you, and wanted, i was chargeable to no man: for that which was wanting to me, the brethren supplied who came from macedonia; and in all things i have kept myself from being burdensome to you, and so i will keep myself. the truth of christ is in me, that this glorying shall not be broken off in me in the regions of achaia. wherefore? because i love you not? god knoweth it. but what i do, that i will do, that i may cut off the occasion from them that desire occasion, that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we. for such false apostles

are deceitful workmen, transforming themselves into the apostles of christ. and no wonder: for satan himself transformeth himself into an angel of light. therefore it is no great thing if his ministers be transformed as the ministers of justice, whose end shall be according to their works. i say again, (let no man think me to be foolish, otherwise take me as one foolish, that i also may glory a little.) that which i speak, i speak not according to god, but as it were in foolishness, in this matter of glorying. seeing that many glory according to the flesh, i will glory also. for you gladly suffer the foolish; whereas yourselves are wise. for you suffer if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take from you, if a man be lifted up, if a man strike you on the face. i speak according to dishonour, as if we had been weak in this part. wherein if any man dare (i speak foolishly), i dare also. they are hebrews: so am i. they are israelites: so am i. they are the seed of abraham: so am i. they are the ministers of christ (i speak as one less wise): i am more; in many more labours, in prisons more frequently, in stripes above measure, in deaths often. of the jews five times did i receive forty stripes, save one. thrice was i beaten with rods, once i was stoned, thrice i suffered shipwreck, a night and a day i was in the depth of the sea. in journeying often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils from my own nation, in perils from the gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils from false brethren. in labour and painfulness, in much watchings, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness. besides those things which are without: my daily instance, the solicitude for all the churches. who is weak, and i am not weak? who is scandalized, and i am not on fire? if i must needs glory, i will glory of the things that concern my infirmity. the god and father of our lord jesus christ, who is blessed for ever, knoweth that i lie not. at damascus, the governor of the nation under aretas the king, guarded the city of the damascenes, to apprehend me. and through a window in a basket was i let down by the wall, and so escaped his hands.

if i must glory (it is not expedient indeed): but i will come to visions and revelations of the lord. i know a man in christ above fourteen years ago (whether in the body, i know not, or out of the body, i know not; god knoweth), such a one caught up to the third heaven. and i know such a man (whether in the body, or out of the body, i know not: god knoweth): that he was caught up into paradise, and heard secret words, which it is not granted to man to utter. for such an one i will glory; but for myself i will glory nothing, but in my infirmities. for though i should have a mind to glory, i shall not be foolish; for i will say the truth. but i forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth in me, or any thing he heareth from me. and lest the greatness of the revelations should exalt me, there was given me a sting of my flesh, an angel of satan, to buffet me. for which thing thrice i besought the lord, that it might depart from

me. and he said to me: my grace is sufficient for thee; for power is made perfect in infirmity. gladly therefore will i glory in my infirmities, that the power of christ may dwell in me. for which cause i please myself in my infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses, for christ. for when i am weak, then am i powerful. i am become foolish: you have compelled me. for i ought to have been commended by you: for i have no way come short of them that are above measure apostles, although i be nothing. yet the signs of my apostleship have been wrought on you, in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds. for what is there that you have had less than the other churches, but that i myself was not burthensome to you? pardon me this injury. behold now the third time i am ready to come to you; and i will not be burthensome unto you. for i seek not the things that are yours, but you. for neither ought the children to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children. but i most gladly will spend and be spent myself for your souls; although loving you more, i be loved less. but be it so: i did not burthen you: but being crafty, i caught you by guile. did i overreach you by any of them whom i sent to you? i desired titus, and i sent with him a brother. did titus overreach you? did we not walk with the same spirit? did we not in the same steps? of old, think you that we excuse ourselves to you? we speak before god in christ; but all things, my dearly beloved, for your edification. for i fear lest perhaps when i come i shall not find you such as i would, and that i shall be found by you such as you would not. lest perhaps contentions, envyings, animosities, dissensions, detractions, whisperings, swellings, seditions, be among you. lest again, when i come, god humble me among you: and i mourn many of them that sinned before, and have not done penance for the uncleanness, and fornication, and lasciviousness, that they have committed.

behold, this is the third time i am coming to you: in the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word stand. i have told before, and foretell, as present, and now absent, to them that sinned before, and to all the rest, that if i come again, i will not spare. do you seek a proof of christ that speaketh in me, who towards you is not weak, but is mighty in you? for although he was crucified through weakness, yet he liveth by the power of god. for we also are weak in him: but we shall live with him by the power of god towards you. try your own selves if you be in the faith; prove ye yourselves. know you not your own selves, that christ jesus is in you, unless perhaps you be reprobates? but i trust that you shall know that we are not reprobates. now we pray god, that you may do no evil, not that we may appear approved, but that you may do that which is good, and that we may be as reprobates. for we can do nothing against the truth; but for the truth. for we rejoice that we are weak, and you are strong. this also we pray for, your perfection. therefore i write these things, being absent, that, being present, i may not deal more severely, according to the power which the lord hath given me unto edification, and not unto destruction. for the rest, brethren, rejoice, be perfect, take exhortation, be of one mind, have peace; and the god of peace and of love shall be with you. salute one another with a holy kiss. all the saints salute you. the grace of our lord jesus christ, and the charity of god, and the communication of the holy ghost be with you all. amen.

paul, an apostle, not of men, neither by man, but by jesus christ, and god the father, who raised him from the dead, and all the brethren who are with me, to the churches of galatia. grace be to you, and peace from god the father, and from our lord jesus christ, who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us from this present wicked world, according to the will of god and our father: to whom is glory for ever and ever. amen. i wonder that you are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of christ, unto another gospel. which is not another, only there are some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of christ. but though we, or an angel from heaven, preach a gospel to you besides that which we have preached to you, let him be anathema. as we said before, so now i say again: if any one preach to you a gospel, besides that which you have received, let him be anathema. for do i now persuade men, or god? or do i seek to please men? if i yet pleased men, i should not be the servant of christ. for i give you to understand, brethren, that the gospel which was preached by me is not according to man. for neither did i receive it of man, nor did i learn it; but by the revelation of jesus christ. for you have heard of my conversation in time past in the jews' religion: how that, beyond measure, i persecuted the church of god, and wasted it. and i made progress in the jews' religion above many of my equals in my own nation, being more abundantly zealous for the traditions of my fathers. but when it pleased him, who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by his grace, to reveal his son in me, that i might preach him among the gentiles, immediately i condescended not to flesh and blood. neither went i to jerusalem, to the apostles who were before me: but i went into arabia, and again i returned to damascus. then, after three years, i went to jerusalem, to see peter, and i tarried with him fifteen days. but other of the apostles i saw none, saving james the brother of the lord. now the things which i write to you, behold, before god, i lie not. afterwards i came into the regions of syria and cilicia. and i was unknown by face to the churches of judea, which were in christ: but they had heard only: he, who persecuted us in times past, doth now preach the faith which once he impugned: and they glorified god in me.

then, after fourteen years, i went up again to jerusalem with barnabas, taking titus also with me. and i went up according to revelation; and communicated to them the gospel, which i preach among the gentiles, but apart to them who seemed to be some thing: lest perhaps i should run, or had run in vain. but neither titus, who was with me, being a gentile, was compelled to be circumcised. but because of false brethren unawares brought in, who came in privately to spy our liberty, which we have in christ jesus, that they might bring us into servitude. to whom we yielded not by subjection, no not for an hour, that the truth of the gospel might continue with you. but of them who seemed to be some thing, (what they were some time, it is nothing to me, god accepteth not the person of man,) for to me they that seemed to be some thing added nothing. but contrariwise, when they had seen that to me was committed the gospel of the uncircumcision, as to peter was that of the circumcision. (for he who wrought in peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, wrought in me also among the gentiles.) and when they had known the grace that was given to me, james and cephas and john, who seemed to be pillars, gave to me and barnabas the right hands of fellowship: that we should go unto the gentiles, and they unto the circumcision: only that we should be mindful of the poor: which same thing also i was careful to do. but when cephas was come to antioch, i withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed. for before that some came from james, he did eat with the gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew and separated himself, fearing them who were of the circumcision. and to his dissimulation the rest of the jews consented, so that barnabas also was led by them into that dissimulation. but when i saw that they walked not uprightly unto the truth of the gospel, i said to cephas before them all: if thou, being a jew, livest after the manner of the gentiles, and not as the jews do, how dost thou compel the gentiles to live as do the jews? we by nature are jews, and not of the gentiles sinners. but knowing that man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of jesus christ; we also believe in christ jesus, that we may be justified by the faith of christ, and not by the works of the law: because by the works of the law no flesh shall be justified. but if while we seek to be justified in christ, we ourselves also are found sinners; is christ then the minister of sin? god forbid. for if i build up again the things which i have destroyed, i make myself a prevaricator. for i, through the law, am dead to the law, that i may live to god: with christ i am nailed to the cross. and i live, now not i; but christ liveth in me. and that i live now in the flesh: i live in the faith of the son of god, who loved me, and delivered himself for me. i cast not away the grace of god. for if justice be by the law, then christ died in vain.

o senseless galatians, who hath bewitched you that you should not obey the truth, before whose eyes jesus christ hath been set forth, crucified among you? this only would i learn of you: did you receive the spirit by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith? are you so foolish, that, whereas you began in the spirit, you would now be made perfect by the flesh? have you suffered so great things in vain? if it be yet in vain. he therefore who giveth to you the spirit, and worketh miracles among you; doth he do it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of the faith? as it is written: abraham believed god, and it was reputed to him unto justice. know ye therefore, that they who are of faith, the same are the children of abraham. and the scripture, foreseeing, that god

justifieth the gentiles by faith, told unto abraham before: in thee shall all nations be blessed. therefore they that are of faith, shall be blessed with faithful abraham. for as many as are of the works of the law, are under a curse. for it is written: cursed is every one, that abideth not in all things, which are written in the book of the law to do them. but that in the law no man is justified with god, it is manifest: because the just man liveth by faith. but the law is not of faith: but, he that doth those things, shall live in them. christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written: cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree: that the blessing of abraham might come on the gentiles through christ jesus: that we may receive the promise of the spirit by faith. brethren (i speak after the manner of man,) yet a man's testament, if it be confirmed, no man despiseth, nor addeth to it. to abraham were the promises made and to his seed. he saith not, and to his seeds, as of many: but as of one, and to thy seed, which is christ. now this i say, that the testament which was confirmed by god, the law which was made after four hundred and thirty years, doth not disannul, to make the promise of no effect. for if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise. but god gave it to abraham by promise. why then was the law? it was set because of transgressions, until the seed should come, to whom he made the promise, being ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator. now a mediator is not of one: but god is one. was the law then against the promises of god? god forbid. for if there had been a law given which could give life, verily justice should have been by the law. but the scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise, by the faith of jesus christ, might be given to them that believe. but before the faith came, we were kept under the law shut up, unto that faith which was to be revealed. wherefore the law was our pedagogue in christ, that we might be justified by faith. but after the faith is come, we are no longer under a pedagogue. for you are all the children of god by faith, in christ jesus. for as many of you as have been baptized in christ, have put on christ. there is neither jew nor greek: there is neither bond nor free: there is neither male nor female. for you are all one in christ jesus. and if you be christ's, then are you the seed of abraham, heirs according to the promise.

now i say, as long as the heir is a child, he differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all; but is under tutors and governors until the time appointed by the father: so we also, when we were children, were serving under the elements of the world. but when the fulness of the time was come, god sent his son, made of a woman, made under the law: that he might redeem them who were under the law: that we might receive the adoption of sons. and because you are sons, god hath sent the spirit of his son into your hearts, crying: abba, father. therefore now he is not a servant, but a son. and if a son, an heir also through god. but then indeed, not knowing god, you served them, who, by nature, are not gods. but now, after that you have known god, or rather are known by god: how turn you again to the weak and needy elements, which you desire to serve again? you observe days, and months, and times, and years. i am afraid of you, lest perhaps i have laboured in vain among you. be ye as i, because i also am as you: brethren, i beseech you: you have not injured me at all. and you know, how through infirmity of the flesh, i preached the gospel to you heretofore: and your temptation in my flesh, you despised not, nor rejected: but received me as an angel of god, even as christ jesus. where is then your blessedness? for i bear you witness, that, if it could be done, you would have plucked out your own eyes, and would have given them to me. am i then become your enemy, because i tell you the truth? they are zealous in your regard not well: but they would exclude you, that you might be zealous for them. but be zealous for that which is good in a good thing always: and not only when i am present with you. my little children, of whom i am in labour again, until christ be formed in you. and i would willingly be present with you now, and change my voice: because i am ashamed for you. tell me, you that desire to be under the law, have you not read the law? for it is written that abraham had two sons: the one by a bondwoman, and the other by a free woman. but he who was of the bondwoman, was born according to the flesh: but he of the free woman, was by promise. which things are said by an allegory. for these are the two testaments. the one from mount sina, engendering unto bondage; which is agar: for sina is a mountain in arabia, which hath affinity to that jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children. but that jerusalem, which is above, is free: which is our mother. for it is written: rejoice, thou barren, that bearest not: break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for many are the children of the desolate, more than of her that hath a husband. now we, brethren, as isaac was, are the children of promise. but as then he, that was born according to the flesh, persecuted him that was after the spirit; so also it is now. but what saith the scripture? cast out the bondwoman and her son; for the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the free woman. so then, brethren, we are not the children of the bondwoman, but of the free: by the freedom wherewith christ has made us free.

stand fast, and be not held again under the yoke of bondage. behold, i paul tell you, that if you be circumcised, christ shall profit you nothing. and i testify again to every man circumcising himself, that he is a debtor to the whole law. you are made void of christ, you who are justified in the law: you are fallen from grace. for we in spirit, by faith, wait for the hope of justice. for in christ jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision: but faith that worketh by charity. you did run well, who hath hindered you, that you should not obey the truth? this persuasion is not from him that calleth you. a little leaven corrupteth the whole lump. i have confidence in you in the lord: that you will not be of another mind: but he that troubleth you, shall bear the judgment, whosoever he be. and i, brethren, if i yet preach circumcision, why do i yet suffer persecution? then is the scandal of the cross made void. i would they were even cut off, who trouble you. for you, brethren, have been called unto liberty: only make not liberty an occasion to the flesh, but by charity of the spirit serve one another. for all the law is fulfilled in one word: thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. but if you bite and devour one another; take heed you be not consumed one of another. i say then, walk in the spirit, and you shall not fulfil the lusts of the flesh. for the flesh lusteth against the spirit: and the spirit against the flesh; for these are contrary one to another: so that you do not the things that you would. but if you are led by the spirit, you are not under the law. now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are fornication, uncleanness, immodesty, luxury, idolatry, witchcrafts, enmities, contentions, emulations, wraths, quarrels, dissensions, sects, envies, murders, drunkenness, revelings, and such like. of the which i foretell you, as i have foretold to you, that they who do such things shall not obtain the kingdom of god. but the fruit of the spirit is, charity, joy, peace, patience, benignity, goodness, longanimity, mildness, faith, modesty, continency, chastity. against such there is no law. and they that are christ's, have crucified their flesh, with the vices and concupiscences. if we live in the spirit, let us also walk in the spirit. let us not be made desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying on another.

brethren, and if a man be overtaken in any fault, you, who are spiritual, instruct such a one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. bear ye one another's burdens; and so you shall fulfil the law of christ. for if any man think himself to be some thing, whereas he is nothing, he deceiveth himself. but let every one prove his own work, and so he shall have glory in himself only, and not in another. for every one shall bear his own burden. and let him that is instructed in the word, communicate to him that instructeth him, in all good things. be not deceived, god is not mocked. for what things a man shall sow, those also shall he reap. for he that soweth in his flesh, of the flesh also shall reap corruption. but he that soweth in the spirit, of the spirit shall reap life everlasting. and in doing good, let us not fail. for in due time we shall reap, not failing. therefore, whilst we have time, let us work good to all men, but especially to those who are of the household of the faith. see what a letter i have written to you with my own hand. for as many as desire to please in the flesh, they constrain you to be circumcised, only that they may not suffer the persecution of the cross of christ. for neither they themselves who are circumcised, keep the law; but they will have you to be circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh. but god forbid that i should glory, save in the cross of our lord jesus christ; by whom the world is crucified to me, and i to the world. for in christ jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature. and whosoever shall follow this rule, peace on them, and mercy, and upon the israel of god. from henceforth let no man be troublesome to me; for i bear the marks of the lord jesus in my body. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with your spirit, brethren. amen.

paul, an apostle of jesus christ, by the will of god, to all the saints who are at ephesus, and to the faithful in christ jesus. grace be to you, and peace from god the father, and from the lord jesus christ. blessed by the god and father of our lord jesus christ, who hath blessed us with spiritual blessings in heavenly places, in christ: as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and unspotted in his sight in charity. who hath predestinated us unto the adoption of children through jesus christ unto himself: according to the purpose of his will: unto the praise of the glory of his grace, in which he hath graced us in his beloved son. in whom we have redemption through his blood, the remission of sins, according to the riches of his grace, which hath superabounded in us in all wisdom and prudence, that he might make known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure, which he hath purposed in him, in the dispensation of the fulness of times, to re-establish all things in christ, that are in heaven and on earth, in him. in whom we also are called by lot, being predestinated according to the purpose of him who worketh all things according to the counsel of his will. that we may be unto the praise of his glory, we who before hoped christ: in whom you also, after you had heard the word of truth, (the gospel of your salvation;) in whom also believing, you were signed with the holy spirit of promise, who is the pledge of our inheritance, unto the redemption of acquisition, unto the praise of his glory. wherefore i also, hearing of your faith that is in the lord jesus, and of your love towards all the saints, cease not to give thanks for you, making commemoration of you in my prayers, that the god of our lord jesus christ, the father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and of revelation, in the knowledge of him: the eyes of your heart enlightened, that you may know what the hope is of the glory of his inheritance in the saints. and what is the exceeding greatness of his power towards us, who believe according to the operation of the might of his power, which he wrought in christ, raising him up from the dead, and setting him on his right hand in the heavenly places. above all principalities, and power, and virtue, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come. and he hath subjected all things under his feet, and hath made him head over all the church, which is his body, and the fulness of him who is filled in all.

and you, when you were dead in your offences, and sins, wherein in time past you walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of this air, of the spirit that now worketh on the children of unbelief: in which also we all conversed in time past, in the desires of our flesh, fulfilling the will of the flesh and of our thoughts, and were by nature children of wrath, even as the rest: but god, (who is rich in mercy,) for his exceeding charity

wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together in christ, (by whose grace you are saved,) and hath raised us up together, and hath made us sit together in the heavenly places, through christ jesus. that he might shew in the ages to come the abundant riches of his grace, in his bounty towards us in christ jesus. for by grace you are saved through faith, and that not of yourselves, for it is the gift of god; not of works, that no man may glory. for we are his workmanship, created in christ jesus in good works, which god hath prepared that we should walk in them. for which cause be mindful that you, being heretofore gentiles in the flesh, who are called uncircumcision by that which is called circumcision in the flesh, made by hands; that you were at that time without christ, being aliens from the conversation of israel, and strangers to the testament, having no hope of the promise, and without god in this world. but now in christ jesus, you, who some time were afar off, are made nigh by the blood of christ. for he is our peace, who hath made both one, and breaking down the middle wall of partition, the enmities in his flesh: making void the law of commandments contained in decrees; that he might make the two in himself into one new man, making peace; and might reconcile both to god in one body by the cross, killing the enmities in himself. and coming, he preached peace to you that were afar off, and peace to them that were nigh. for by him we have access both in one spirit to the father. now therefore you are no more strangers and foreigners; but you are fellow citizens with the saints, and the domestics of god, built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, jesus christ himself being the chief corner stone: in whom all the building, being framed together, groweth up into an holy temple in the lord. in whom you also are built together into an habitation of god in the spirit.

for this cause, i paul, the prisoner of jesus christ, for you gentiles; if yet you have heard of the dispensation of the grace of god which is given me towards you: how that, according to revelation, the mystery has been made known to me, as i have written above in a few words; as you reading, may understand my knowledge in the mystery of christ, which in other generations was not known to the sons of men, as it is now revealed to his holy apostles and prophets in the spirit: that the gentiles should be fellow heirs, and of the same body, and co-partners of his promise in christ jesus, by the gospel: of which i am made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of god, which is given to me according to the operation of his power: to me, the least of all the saints, is given this grace, to preach among the gentiles, the unsearchable riches of christ, and to enlighten all men, that they may see what is the dispensation of the mystery which hath been hidden from eternity in god, who created all things: that the manifold wisdom of god may be made known to the principalities and powers in heavenly places through the church, according to the eternal purpose, which he made, in christ jesus our lord: in whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of him. wherefore i pray you not to faint at my tribulations for you, which is your glory. for this cause i bow my knees to the father of our lord jesus christ, of whom all paternity in heaven and earth is named, that he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened by his spirit with might unto the inward man, that christ may dwell by faith in your hearts; that being rooted and founded in charity, you may be able to comprehend, with all the saints, what is the breadth, and length, and height, and depth: to know also the charity of christ, which surpasseth all knowledge, that you may be filled unto all the fulness of god. now to him who is able to do all things more abundantly than we desire or understand, according to the power that worketh in us; to him be glory in the church, and in christ jesus unto all generations, world without end. amen.

i therefore, a prisoner in the lord, beseech you that you walk worthy of the vocation in which you are called, with all humility and mildness, with patience, supporting one another in charity. careful to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace. one body and one spirit; as you are called in one hope of your calling. one lord, one faith, one baptism. one god and father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in us all. but to every one of us is given grace, according to the measure of the giving of christ. wherefore he saith: ascending on high, he led captivity captive; he gave gifts to men. now that he ascended, what is it, but because he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth? he that descended is the same also that ascended above all the heavens, that he might fill all things. and he gave some apostles, and some prophets, and other some evangelists, and other some pastors and doctors, for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of christ: until we all meet into the unity of faith, and of the knowledge of the son of god, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the age of the fulness of christ; that henceforth we be no more children tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine by the wickedness of men, by cunning craftiness, by which they lie in wait to deceive but doing the truth in charity, we may in all things grow up in him who is the head, even christ: from whom the whole body, being compacted and fitly joined together, by what every joint supplieth, according to the operation in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body, unto the edifying of itself in charity. this then i say and testify in the lord: that henceforward you walk not as also the gentiles walk in the vanity of their mind, having their understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of god through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their hearts. who despairing, have given themselves up to lasciviousness, unto the working of all uncleanness, unto the working of all uncleanness, unto covetousness. but you have not so learned christ; if so be that you have heard him, and have been taught in him, as the truth is in jesus: to put off, according to former conversation, the old man, who is corrupted according to the desire of error. and be renewed in the spirit of your mind: and put on the new man, who according to god is created in justice and holiness of truth. wherefore putting away lying, speak ye the truth every man with his neighbour; for we are members one of another. be angry, and sin not. let not the sun go down upon your anger. give not place to the devil. he that stole, let him now steal no more; but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have something to give to him that suffereth need. let no evil speech proceed from your mouth; but that which is good, to the edification of faith, that it may administer grace to the hearers. and grieve not the holy spirit of god: whereby you are sealed unto the day of redemption. let all bitterness, and anger, and indignation, and clamour, and blasphemy, be put away from you, with all malice. and be ye kind one to another; merciful, forgiving one another, even as god hath forgiven you in christ.

be ye therefore followers of god, as most dear children; and walk in love, as christ also hath loved us, and hath delivered himself for us, an oblation and a sacrifice to god for an odour of sweetness. but fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not so much as be named among you, as becometh saints: or obscenity, or foolish talking, or scurrility, which is to no purpose; but rather giving of thanks. for know you this and understand, that no fornicator, or unclean, or covetous person (which is a serving of idols), hath inheritance in the kingdom of christ and of god. let no man deceive you with vain words. for because of these things cometh the anger of god upon the children of unbelief. be ye not therefore partakers with them. for you were heretofore darkness, but now light in the lord. walk then as children of the light. for the fruit of the light is in all goodness, and justice, and truth; proving what is well pleasing to god: and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. for the things that are done by them in secret, it is a shame even to speak of. but all things that are reprov'd, are made manifest by the light; for all that is made manifest is light. wherefore he saith: rise thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead: and christ shall enlighten thee. see therefore, brethren, how you walk circumspectly: not as unwise, but as wise: redeeming the time, because the days are evil. wherefore become not unwise, but understanding what is the will of god. and be not drunk with wine, wherein is luxury; but be ye filled with the holy spirit, speaking to yourselves in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual canticles, singing and making melody in your hearts to the lord; giving thanks always for all things, in the name of our lord jesus christ, to god and the father: being subject one to another, in the fear of christ. let women be subject to their husbands, as to the lord: because the husband is the head of the wife, as christ is the head of the church. he is the saviour of his body. therefore as the church is subject to christ, so also let the wives be to their husbands in all things. husbands, love your wives, as christ also loved the church, and delivered himself up for it: that he might sanctify it, cleansing it by the laver of water in the word of life: that he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any; such thing; but that it should be holy, and without blemish. so also ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. he that loveth his wife, loveth himself. for no man ever hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, as also christ doth the church: because we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. for this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they shall be two in one flesh. this is a great sacrament; but i speak in christ and in the church. nevertheless let every one of you in particular love his wife as himself: and let the wife fear her husband.

children, obey your parents in the lord, for this is just. honour thy father and thy mother, which is the first commandment with a promise: that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest be long lived upon earth. and you, fathers, provoke not your children to anger; but bring them up in the discipline and correction of the lord. servants, be obedient to them that are your lords according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in the simplicity of your heart, as to christ: not serving to the eye, as it were pleasing men, but, as the servants of christ doing the will of god from the heart, with a good will serving, as to the lord, and not to men. knowing that whatsoever good thing any man shall do, the same shall he receive from the lord, whether he be bond, or free. and you, masters, do the same things to them, forbearing threatenings, knowing that the lord both of them and you is in heaven; and there is no respect of persons with him. finally, brethren, be strengthened in the lord, and in the might of his power. put you on the armour of god, that you may be able to stand against the deceits of the devil. for our wrestling is not against flesh and blood; but against principalities and power, against the rulers of the world of this darkness, against the spirits of wickedness in the high places. therefore take unto you the armour of god, that you may be able to resist in the evil day, and to stand in all things perfect. stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of justice, and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace: in all things taking the shield of faith, wherewith you may be able to extinguish all the fiery darts of the most wicked one. and take unto you the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit (which is the word of god). by all prayer and supplication praying at all times in the spirit; and in the same watching with all instance and supplication for all the saints: and for me, that speech may be given me, that i may open my mouth with confidence, to make known the mystery of the gospel. for which i am an ambassador in a chain, so that therein i may be bold to speak according as i ought. but that you also may know the things that concern me, and what i am doing, tychicus, my dearest brother and faithful minister in the lord, will make known to you all things: whom i have sent to you for this same purpose, that you may know the things concerning us, and that he may comfort your hearts. peace be to the brethren and charity with faith, from god the father, and the lord jesus christ. grace be with all them that love our lord jesus christ in incorruption. amen.

paul and timothy, the servants of jesus christ; to all the saints in christ jesus, who are at philippi, with the bishops and deacons. grace be unto you, and peace from god our father, and from the lord jesus christ. i give thanks to my god in every remembrance of you, always in all my prayers making supplication for you all, with joy; for your communication in the gospel of christ from the first day until now. being confident of this very thing, that he, who hath begun a good work in you, will perfect it unto the day of christ jesus. as it is meet for me to think this for you all, for that i have you in my heart; and that in my bands, and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, you all are partakers of my joy. for god is my witness, how i long after you all in the bowels of jesus christ. and this i pray, that your charity may more and more abound in knowledge, and in all understanding: that you may approve the better things, that you may be sincere and without offence unto the day of christ, filled with the fruit of justice, through jesus christ, unto the glory and praise of god. now, brethren, i desire you should know, that the things which have happened to me, have fallen out rather to the furtherance of the gospel: so that my bands are made manifest in christ, in all the court, and in all other places; and many of the brethren in the lord, growing confident by my bands, are much more bold to speak the word of god without fear. some indeed, even out of envy and contention; but some also for good will preach christ. some out of charity, knowing that i am set for the defence of the gospel. and some out of contention preach christ not sincerely: supposing that they raise affliction to my bands. but what then? so that by all means, whether by occasion, or by truth, christ be preached: in this also i rejoice, yea, and will rejoice. for i know that this shall fall out to me unto salvation, through your prayer, and the supply of the spirit of jesus christ, according to my expectation and hope; that in nothing i shall be confounded, but with all confidence, as always, so now also shall christ be magnified in my body, wither it be by life, or by death. for to me, to live is christ; and to die is gain. and if to live in the flesh, that is to me the fruit of labour, and what i shall choose i know not. but i am straitened between two: having a desire to be dissolved and to be with christ, a thing by far the better. but to abide still in the flesh, is needful for you. and having this confidence, i know that i shall abide, and continue with you all, for your furtherance and joy of faith: that your rejoicing may abound in christ jesus for me, by my coming to you again. only let your conversation be worthy of the gospel of christ: that, whether i come and see you, or, being absent, may hear of you, that you stand fast in one spirit, with one mind labouring together for the faith of the gospel. and in nothing be ye terrified by the adversaries: which to them is a cause of perdition, but to you of salvation, and this from god: for unto you it is given for christ, not only to believe in him, but also to suffer for him. having the same conflict as that which you have seen in me, and now have heard of me.

if there be therefore any consolation in christ, if any comfort of charity, if any society of the spirit, if any bowels of commiseration: fulfil ye my joy, that you may be of one mind, having the same charity, being of one accord, agreeing in sentiment. let nothing be done through contention, neither by vain glory: but in humility, let each esteem others better than themselves: each one not considering the things that are his own, but those that are other men's. for let this mind be in you, which was also in christ jesus: who being in the form of god, thought it not robbery to be equal with god: but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men, and in habit found as a man. he humbled himself, becoming obedient unto death, even to the death of the cross. for which cause god also hath exalted him, and hath given him a name which is above all names: that in the name of jesus every knee should bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth: and that every tongue should confess that the lord jesus christ is in the glory of god the father. wherefore, my dearly beloved, (as you have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but much more now in my absence,) with fear and trembling work out your salvation. for it is god who worketh in you, both to will and to accomplish, according to his good will. and do ye all things without murmurings and hesitations; that you may be blameless, and sincere children of god, without reproof, in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation; among whom you shine as lights in the world. holding forth the word of life to my glory in the day of christ, because i have not run in vain, nor laboured in vain. yea, and if i be made a victim upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, i rejoice, and congratulate with you all. and for the selfsame thing do you also rejoice, and congratulate with me. and i hope in the lord jesus to send timothy unto you shortly, that i also may be of good comfort, when i know the things concerning you. for i have no man so of the same mind, who with sincere affection is solicitous for you. for all seek the things that are their own; not the things that are jesus christ's. now know ye the proof of him, that as a son with the father, so hath he served with me in the gospel. him therefore i hope to send unto you immediately, so soon as i shall see how it will go with me. and i trust in the lord, that i myself also shall come to you shortly. but i have thought it necessary to send to you epaphroditus, my brother and fellow labourer, and fellow soldier, but your apostle, and he that hath ministered to my wants. for indeed he longed after you all: and was sad, for that you had heard that he was sick. for indeed he was sick, nigh unto death; but god had mercy on him; and not only on him, but on me also, lest i should have sorrow upon sorrow. therefore i sent him the more speedily: that seeing him again, you may rejoice, and i may be without sorrow. receive him therefore with all joy in the lord; and treat with honour such as he is. because for the work of christ he came to the point of death: delivering his life, that he might fulfil that which on your part was wanting towards my service.

as to the rest, my brethren, rejoice in the lord. to write the same things to you, to me indeed is not wearisome, but to you it is necessary. beware of dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the concision. for we are the circumcision, who in spirit serve god; and glory in christ jesus, not having confidence in the flesh. though i might also have confidence in the flesh. if any other thinketh he may have confidence in the flesh, i more, being circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of israel, of the tribe of benjamin, an hebrew of the hebrews; according to the law, a pharisee: according to zeal, persecuting the church of god; according to the justice that is in the law, conversing without blame. but the things that were gain to me, the same i have counted loss for christ. furthermore i count all things to be but loss for the excellent knowledge of jesus christ my lord; for whom i have suffered the loss of all things, and count them but as dung, that i may gain christ: and may be found in him, not having my justice, which is of the law, but that which is of the faith of christ jesus, which is of god, justice in faith: that i may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable to his death, if by any means i may attain to the resurrection which is from the dead. not as though i has already attained, or were already perfect; but i follow after, if i may by any means apprehend, wherein i am also apprehended by christ jesus. brethren, i do not count myself to have apprehended. but one thing i do: forgetting the things that are behind, and stretching forth myself to those that are before, i press towards the mark, to the prize of the supernal vocation of god in christ jesus. let us therefore, as many as are perfect, be thus minded; and if in any thing you be otherwise minded, this also god will reveal to you. nevertheless whereunto we are come, that we be of the same mind, let us also continue in the same rule. be ye followers of me, brethren, and observe them who walk so as you have our model. for many walk, of whom i have told you often (and now tell you weeping), that they are enemies of the cross of christ; whose end is destruction; whose god is their belly; and whose glory is in their shame; who mind earthly things. but our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the saviour, our lord jesus christ, who will reform the body of our lowliness, made like to the body of his glory, according to the operation whereby also he is able to subdue all things unto himself.

therefore, my dearly beloved brethren, and most desired, my joy and my crown; so stand fast in the lord, my dearly beloved. i beg of evodia, and i beseech syntyche, to be of one mind in the lord. and i entreat thee also, my sincere companion, help those women who have laboured with me in the gospel, with clement and the rest of my fellow labourers, whose names are in the book of life. rejoice in the lord always; again, i say, rejoice. let your modesty be known to all men. the lord is nigh. be nothing solicitous; but in every thing, by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your petitions be made known to god. and the peace of god, which surpasseth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in christ jesus. for the rest, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever modest, whatsoever just, whatsoever holy, whatsoever lovely, whatsoever of good fame, if there be any virtue, if any praise of discipline, think on these things. the things which you have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, these do ye, and the god of peace shall be with you. now i rejoice in the lord exceedingly, that now at length your thought for me hath flourished again, as you did also think; but you were busied. i speak not as it were for want. for i have learned, in whatsoever state i am, to be content therewith. i know both how to be brought low, and i know how to abound: (everywhere, and in all things i am instructed) both to be full, and to be hungry; both to abound, and to suffer need. i can do all these things in him who strengtheneth me. nevertheless you have done well in communicating to my tribulation. and you also know, o philippians, that in the beginning of the gospel, when i departed from macedonia, no church communicated with me as concerning giving and receiving, but you only: for unto thessalonica also you sent once and again for my use. not that i seek the gift, but i seek the fruit that may abound to your account. but i have all, and abound: i am filled, having received from epaphroditus the things you sent, an odour of sweetness, an acceptable sacrifice, pleasing to god. and may my god supply all your want, according to his riches in glory in christ jesus. now to god and our father be glory world without end. amen. salute ye every saint in christ jesus. the brethren who are with me, salute you. all the saints salute you; especially they that are of caesar's household. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with your spirit. amen.

paul, an apostle of jesus christ, by the will of god, and timothy, a brother, to the saints and faithful brethren in christ jesus, who are at colossa. grace be to you and peace from god our father, and from the lord jesus christ. we give thanks to god, and the father of our lord jesus christ, praying always for you. hearing your faith in christ jesus, and the love which you have towards all the saints. for the hope that is laid up for you in heaven, which you have heard in the word of the truth of the gospel, which is come unto you, as also it is in the whole world, and bringeth forth fruit and groweth, even as it doth in you, since the day you heard and knew the grace of god in truth. as you learned of epaphras, our most beloved fellow servant, who is for you a faithful minister of christ jesus; who also hath manifested to us your love in the spirit. therefore we also, from the day that we heard it, cease not to pray for you, and to beg that you may be filled with the knowledge of his will, in all wisdom, and spiritual understanding: that you may walk worthy of god, in all things pleasing; being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of god: strengthened with all might, according to the power of his glory, in all patience and longsuffering with joy, giving thanks to god the father, who hath made us worthy to be partakers of the lot of the saints in light: who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of the son of his love, in whom we have redemption through his blood, the remission of sins; who is the image of the invisible god, the firstborn of every creature: for in him were all things created in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones, or dominations, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him and in him. and he is before all, and by him all things consist. and he is the head of the body, the church, who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all things he may hold the primacy: because in him, it hath well pleased the father, that all fullness should dwell; and through him to reconcile all things unto himself, making peace through the blood of his cross, both as to the things that are on earth, and the things that are in heaven. and you, whereas you were some time alienated and enemies in mind in evil works: yet now he hath reconciled in the body of his flesh through death, to present you holy and unspotted, and blameless before him: if so ye continue in the faith, grounded and settled, and immoveable from the hope of the gospel which you have heard, which is preached in all the creation that is under heaven, whereof i paul am made a minister. who now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up those things that are wanting of the sufferings of christ, in my flesh, for his body, which is the church: whereof i am made a minister according to the dispensation of god, which is given me towards you, that i may fulfil the word of god: the mystery which hath been hidden from ages and generations, but now is manifested to his saints, to whom god would make known the riches of the glory of this mystery among the gentiles, which is christ, in you the hope of glory. whom we preach, admonishing every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in christ jesus. wherein also i labour, striving according to his working which he worketh in me in power.

for i would have you know, what manner of care i have for you and for them that are at laodicea, and whosoever have not seen my face in the flesh: that their hearts may be comforted, being instructed in charity, and unto all riches of fullness of understanding, unto the knowledge of the mystery of god the father and of christ jesus: in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. now this i say, that no man may deceive you by loftiness of words. for though i be absent in body, yet in spirit i am with you; rejoicing, and beholding your order, and the steadfastness of your faith which is in christ. as therefore you have received jesus christ the lord, walk ye in him; rooted and built up in him, and confirmed in the faith, as also you have learned, abounding in him in thanksgiving. beware lest any man cheat you by philosophy, and vain deceit; according to the tradition of men, according to the elements of the world, and not according to christ: for in him dwelleth all the fullness of the godhead corporeally; and you are filled in him, who is the head of all principality and power: in whom also you are circumcised with circumcision not made by hand, in despoiling of the body of the flesh, but in the circumcision of christ: buried with him in baptism, in whom also you are risen again by the faith of the operation of god, who hath raised him up from the dead. and you, when you were dead in your sins, and the uncircumcision of your flesh; he hath quickened together with him, forgiving you all offences: blotting out the handwriting of the decree that was against us, which was contrary to us. and he hath taken the same out of the way, fastening it to the cross: and despoiling the principalities and powers, he hath exposed them confidently in open shew, triumphing over them in himself. let no man therefore judge you in meat or in drink, or in respect of a festival day, or of the new moon, or of the sabbaths, which are a shadow of things to come, but the body is of christ. let no man seduce you, willing in humility, and religion of angels, walking in the things which he hath not seen, in vain puffed up by the sense of his flesh, and not holding the head, from which the whole body, by joints and bands, being supplied with nourishment and compacted, groweth unto the increase of god. if then you be dead with christ from the elements of this world, why do you yet decree as though living in the world? touch not, taste not, handle not: which all are unto destruction by the very use, according to the precepts and doctrines of men. which things have indeed a shew of wisdom in superstition and humility, and not sparing the body; not in any honour to the filling of the flesh.

therefore, if you be risen with christ, seek the things that are above; where christ is sitting at the right hand of god: mind the things that are above, not the things that are upon the earth. for you are dead; and your life is hid with christ in god. when christ shall appear, who is your life, then you also shall appear with him in glory. mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, lust, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, which is the service of idols. for which things the wrath of god cometh upon the children of unbelief, in which you also walked some time, when you lived in them. but now put you also all away: anger, indignation, malice, blasphemy, filthy speech out of your mouth. lie not one to another: stripping yourselves of the old man with his deeds, and putting on the new, him who is renewed unto knowledge, according to the image of him that created him. where there is neither gentile nor jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, barbarian nor scythian, bond nor free. but christ is all, and in all. put ye on therefore, as the elect of god, holy, and beloved, the bowels of mercy, benignity, humility, modesty, patience: bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if any have a complaint against another: even as the lord hath forgiven you, so do you also. but above all these things have charity, which is the bond of perfection: and let the peace of christ rejoice in your hearts, wherein also you are called in one body: and be ye thankful. let the word of christ dwell in you abundantly, in all wisdom: teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, hymns, and spiritual canticles, singing in grace in your hearts to god. all whatsoever you do in word or in work, do all in the name of the lord jesus christ, giving thanks to god and the father by him. wives, be subject to your husbands, as it behoveth in the lord. husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter towards them. children, obey your parents in all things: for this is well pleasing to the lord. fathers, provoke not your children to indignation, lest they be discouraged. servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh, not serving to the eye, as pleasing men, but in simplicity of heart, fearing god. whatsoever you do, do it from the heart, as to the lord, and not to men: knowing that you shall receive of the lord the reward of inheritance. serve ye the lord christ. for he that doth wrong, shall receive for that which he hath done wrongfully: and there is no respect of persons with god.

masters, do to your servants that which is just and equal: knowing that you also have a master in heaven. be instant in prayer; watching in it with thanksgiving: praying withal for us also, that god may open unto us a door of speech to speak the mystery of christ (for which also i am bound:) that i may make it manifest as i ought to speak. walk with wisdom towards them that are without, redeeming the time. let your speech be always in grace seasoned with salt: that you may know how you ought to answer every man.

all the things that concern me, tychicus, our dearest brother, and faithful minister and fellow servant in the lord, will make known to you, whom i have sent to you for this same purpose, that he may know the things that concern you, and comfort your hearts, with onesimus, a most beloved and faithful brother, who is one of you. all things that are done here, they shall make known to you. aristarchus, my fellow prisoner, saluteth you, and mark, the cousin german of barnabas, touching whom you have received commandments; if he come unto you, receive him: and jesus, that is called justus: who are of the circumcision: these only are my helpers in the kingdom of god; who have been a comfort to me. epaphras saluteth you, who is one of you, a servant of christ jesus, who is always solicitous for you in prayers, that you may stand perfect, and full in all the will of god. for i bear him testimony that he hath much labour for you, and for them that are at laodicea, and them at hierapolis. luke, the most dear physician, saluteth you: and demas. salute the brethren who are at laodicea, and nymphas, and the church that is in his house. and when this epistle shall have been read with you, cause that it be read also in the church of the laodiceans: and that you read that which is of the laodiceans. and say to archippus: take heed to the ministry which thou hast received in the lord, that thou fulfil it. the salutation of paul with my own hand. be mindful of my bands. grace be with you. amen

paul and sylvanus and timothy: to the church of the thessalonians, in god the father, and in the lord jesus christ. grace be to you and peace. we give thanks to god always for you all; making a remembrance of you in our prayers without ceasing, being mindful of the work of your faith, and labour, and charity, and of the enduring of the hope of our lord jesus christ before god and our father: knowing, brethren beloved of god, your election: for our gospel hath not been unto you in word only, but in power also, and in the holy ghost, and in much fulness, as you know what manner of men we have been among you for your sakes. and you became followers of us, and of the lord; receiving the word in much tribulation, with joy of the holy ghost: so that you were made a pattern to all that believe in macedonia and in achaia. for from you was spread abroad the word of the lord, not only in macedonia, and in achaia, but also in every place, your faith which is towards god, is gone forth, so that we need not to speak any thing, for they themselves relate of us, what manner of entering in we had unto you; and how you turned to god from idols, to serve the living and true god. and to wait for his son from heaven (whom he raised up from the dead,) jesus, who hath delivered us from the wrath to come.

for yourselves know, brethren, our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain: but having suffered many things before, and been shamefully treated (as you know) at philippi, we had confidence in our god, to speak unto you the gospel of god in much carefulness. for our exhortation was not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in deceit: but as we were approved by god that the gospel should be committed to us: even so we speak, not as pleasing men, but god, who proveth our hearts. for neither have we used, at any time, the speech of flattery, as you know; nor taken an occasion of covetousness, god is witness: nor sought we glory of men, neither of you, nor of others. whereas we might have been burdensome to you, as the apostles of christ: but we became little ones in the midst of you, as if a nurse should cherish her children: so desirous of you, we would gladly impart unto you not only the gospel of god, but also our own souls: because you were become most dear unto us. for you remember, brethren, our labour and toil: working night and day, lest we should be chargeable to any of you, we preached among you the gospel of god. you are witnesses, and god also, how holily, and justly, and without blame, we have been to you that have believed: as you know in what manner, entreating and comforting you, (as a father doth his children,) we testified to every one of you, that you would walk worthy of god, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory. therefore, we also give thanks to god without ceasing: because, that when you had received of us the word of the hearing of god, you received it not as the word of men, but (as it is indeed) the word of god, who worketh in you that have believed. for you, brethren, are become followers of the churches of god which are in judea, in christ jesus: for you also have suffered the same things from your own countrymen, even as they have from the jews, who both killed the lord jesus, and the prophets, and have persecuted us, and please not god, and are adversaries to all men; prohibiting us to speak to the gentiles, that they may be saved, to fill up their sins always: for the wrath of god is come upon them to the end. but we, brethren, being taken away from you for a short time, in sight, not in heart, have hastened the more abundantly to see your face with great desire. for we would have come unto you, i paul indeed, once and again: but satan hath hindered us. for what is our hope, or joy, or crown of glory? are not you, in the presence of our lord jesus christ at his coming? for you are our glory and joy.

for which cause, forbearing no longer, we thought it good to remain at athens alone: and we sent timothy, our brother, and the minister of god in the gospel of christ, to confirm you and exhort you concerning your faith: that no man should be moved in these tribulations: for yourselves know, that we are appointed thereunto. for even when we were with you, we foretold you that we should suffer tribulations, as also it is come to pass, and you know. for this cause also, i, forbearing no longer, sent to know your faith: lest perhaps he that tempteth should have tempted you, and our labour should be made vain. but now when timothy came to us from you, and related to us your faith and charity, and that you have a good remembrance of us always, desiring to see us as we also to see you; therefore we were comforted, brethren, in you, in all our necessity and tribulation, by your faith, because now we live, if you stand in the lord. for what thanks can we return to god for you, in all the joy wherewith we rejoice for you before our god, night and day more abundantly praying that we may see your face, and may accomplish those things that are wanting to your faith? now god himself and our father, and our lord jesus christ, direct our way unto you. and may the lord multiply you, and make you abound in charity towards one another, and towards all men: as we do also towards you, to confirm your hearts without blame, in holiness, before god and our father, at the coming of our lord jesus christ, with all his saints. amen.

for the rest therefore, brethren, we pray and beseech you in the lord jesus, that as you have received from us, how you ought to walk, and to please god, so also you would walk, that you may abound the more. for you know what precepts i have given to you by the lord jesus. for this is the will of god, your sanctification; that you should abstain from fornication; that every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour: not in the passion of lust, like the gentiles that know not god: and that no man overreach, nor circumvent his brother in business: because the lord is the avenger of all these things, as we have told you before, and have testified. for god hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto sanctification. therefore, he that despiseth these things, despiseth not man, but god, who also hath given his holy spirit in us. but as touching the charity of brotherhood, we have no need to write to you: for yourselves have learned of god to love one another. for indeed you do it towards all the brethren in all macedonia. but we entreat you, brethren, that you abound more: and that you use your endeavour to be quiet, and that you do your own business, and work with your own hands, as we commanded you: and that you walk honestly towards them that are without; and that you want nothing of any man's. and we will not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning them that are asleep, that you be not sorrowful, even as others who have no hope. for if we believe that jesus died, and rose again; even so them who have slept through jesus, will god bring with him. for this we say unto you in the word of the lord, that we who are alive, who remain unto the coming of the lord, shall not prevent them who have slept. for the lord himself shall come down from heaven with commandment, and with the voice of an archangel, and with the trumpet of god: and the dead who are in christ, shall rise first. then we who are alive, who are left, shall be taken up together with them in the clouds to meet christ, into the air, and so shall we be always with the lord. wherefore, comfort ye one another with these words.

but of the times and moments, brethren, you need not, that we should write to you; for yourselves know perfectly, that the day of the lord shall so come, as a thief in the night. for when they shall say, peace and security; then shall sudden destruction come upon them, as the pains upon her that is with child, and they shall not escape. but you, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. for all you are the children of light, and children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. therefore, let us not sleep, as others do; but let us watch, and be sober. for they that sleep, sleep in the night; and they that are drunk, are drunk in the night. but let us, who are of the day, be sober, having on the breastplate of faith and charity, and for a helmet the hope of salvation. for god hath not appointed us unto wrath, but unto the purchasing of salvation by our lord jesus christ, who died for us; that, whether we watch or sleep, we may live together with him. for which cause comfort one another; and edify one another, as you also do. and we beseech you, brethren, to know them who labour among you, and are over you in the lord, and admonish you: that you esteem them more abundantly in charity, for their work's sake. have peace with them. and we beseech you, brethren, rebuke the unquiet, comfort the feeble minded, support the weak, be patient towards all men. see that none render evil for evil to any man; but ever follow that which is good towards each other, and towards all men. always rejoice. pray without ceasing. in all things give thanks; for this is the will of god in christ jesus concerning you all. extinguish not the spirit. despise not prophecies. but prove all things; hold fast that which is good. from all appearance of evil refrain yourselves. and may the god of peace himself sanctify you in all things; that your whole spirit, and soul, and body, may be preserved blameless in the coming of our lord jesus christ. he is faithful who hath called you, who also will do it. brethren, pray for us. salute all the brethren with a holy kiss. i charge you by the lord, that this epistle be read to all the holy brethren. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you. amen.

for the rest, brethren, pray for us, that the word of god may run, and may be glorified, even as among you; and that we may be delivered from importunate and evil men; for all men have not faith. but god is faithful, who will strengthen and keep you from evil. and we have confidence concerning you in the lord, that the things which we command, you both do, and will do. and the lord direct your hearts, in the charity of god, and the patience of christ. and we charge you, brethren, in the name of our lord jesus christ, that you withdraw yourselves from every brother walking disorderly, and not according to the tradition which they have received of us. for yourselves know how you ought to imitate us: for we were not disorderly among you; neither did we eat any man's bread for nothing, but in labour and in toil we worked night and day, lest we should be chargeable to any of you. not as if we had not power: but that we might give ourselves a pattern unto you, to imitate us. for also when we were with you, this we declared to you: that, if any man will not work, neither let him eat. for we have heard there are some among you who walk disorderly, working not at all, but curiously meddling. now we charge them that are such, and beseech them by the lord jesus christ, that, working with silence, they would eat their own bread. but you, brethren, be not weary in well doing. and if any man obey not our word by this epistle, note that man, and do not keep company with him, that he may be ashamed: yet do not esteem him as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother. now the lord of peace himself give you everlasting peace in every place. the lord be with you all. the salutation of paul with my own hand; which is the sign in every epistle. so i write. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you all. amen.

and we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our lord jesus christ, and of our gathering together unto him: that you be not easily moved from your sense, nor be terrified, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by epistle, as sent from us, as if the day of the lord were at hand. let no man deceive you by any means, for unless there come a revolt first, and the man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition, who opposeth, and is lifted up above all that is called god, or that is worshipped, so that he sitteth in the temple of god, shewing himself as if he were god. remember you not, that when i was yet with you, i told you these things? and now you know what withholdeth, that he may be revealed in his time. for the mystery of iniquity already worketh; only that he who now holdeth, do hold, until he be taken out of the way. and then that wicked one shall be revealed whom the lord jesus shall kill with the spirit of his mouth; and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming, him, whose coming is according to the working of satan, in all power, and signs, and lying wonders, and in all seduction of iniquity to them that perish; because they receive not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. therefore god shall send them the operation of error, to believe lying: that all may be judged who have not believed the truth, but have consented to iniquity. but we ought to give thanks to god always for you, brethren, beloved of god, for that god hath chosen you firstfruits unto salvation, in sanctification of the spirit, and faith of the truth: whereunto also he hath called you by our gospel, unto the purchasing of the glory of our lord jesus christ. therefore, brethren, stand fast; and hold the traditions which you have learned, whether by word, or by our epistle. now our lord jesus christ himself, and god and our father, who hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation, and good hope in grace, exhort your hearts, and confirm you in every good work and word.

for the rest, brethren, pray for us, that the word of god may run, and may be glorified, even as among you; and that we may be delivered from importunate and evil men; for all men have not faith. but god is faithful, who will strengthen and keep you from evil. and we have confidence concerning you in the lord, that the things which we command, you both do, and will do. and the lord direct your hearts, in the charity of god, and the patience of christ. and we charge you, brethren, in the name of our lord jesus christ, that you withdraw yourselves from every brother walking disorderly, and not according to the tradition which they have received of us. for yourselves know how you ought to imitate us: for we were not disorderly among you; neither did we eat any man's bread for nothing, but in labour and in toil we worked night and day, lest we should be chargeable to any of you. not as if we had not power: but that we might give ourselves a pattern unto you, to imitate us. for also when we were with you, this we declared to you: that, if any man will not work, neither let him eat. for we have heard there are some among you who walk disorderly, working not at all, but curiously meddling. now we charge them that are such, and beseech them by the lord jesus christ, that, working with silence, they would eat their own bread. but you, brethren, be not weary in well doing. and if any man obey not our word by this epistle, note that man, and do not keep company with him, that he may be ashamed: yet do not esteem him as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother. now the lord of peace himself give you everlasting peace in every place. the lord be with you all. the salutation of paul with my own hand; which is the sign in every epistle. so i write. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you all. amen.

paul, an apostle of jesus christ, according to the commandment of god our savior, and of christ jesus our hope: to timothy, his beloved son in faith. grace, mercy, and peace from god the father, and from christ jesus our lord. as i desired thee to remain at ephesus when i went into macedonia, that thou mightest charge some not to teach otherwise, not to give heed to fables and endless genealogies: which furnish questions rather than the edification of god, which is in faith. now the end of the commandment is charity, from a pure heart, and a good conscience, and an unfeigned faith. from which things some going astray, are turned aside unto vain babbling: desiring to be teachers of the law, understanding neither the things they say, nor whereof they affirm. but we know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully: knowing this, that the law is not made for the just man, but for the unjust and disobedient, for the ungodly, and for sinners, for the wicked and defiled, for murderers of fathers, and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, for fornicators, for them who defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and whatever other thing is contrary to sound doctrine, which is according to the gospel of the glory of the blessed god, which hath been committed to my trust. i give thanks who hath strengthened me, even to christ jesus our lord, for that he hath counted me faithful, putting me in the ministry; who before was a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and contumelious. but i obtained the mercy of god, because i did it ignorantly in unbelief. now the grace of our lord hath abounded exceedingly with faith and love, which is in christ jesus. a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that christ jesus came into this world to save sinners, of whom i am the chief. but for this cause have i obtained mercy: that in me first christ jesus might shew forth all patience, for the information of them that shall believe in him unto life everlasting. now to the king of ages, immortal, invisible, the only god, be honour and glory for ever and ever. amen. this precept i commend to thee, o son timothy; according to the prophecies going before on thee, that thou war in them a good warfare, having faith and a good conscience, which some rejecting have made shipwreck concerning the faith. of whom is hymeneus and alexander, whom i have delivered up to satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

i desire therefore, first of all, that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and thanksgivings be made for all men: for kings, and for all that are in high station: that we may lead a quiet and a peaceable life in all piety and chastity. for this is good and acceptable in the sight of god our saviour, who will have all men to be saved, and to come to the knowledge of the truth. for there is one god, and one mediator of god and men, the man christ jesus: who gave himself a redemption for all, a testimony in due times. whereunto i am appointed a preacher and an apostle, (i say the truth, i lie not,) a doctor of the gentiles in faith and truth. i will therefore that men pray in every place, lifting up pure hands, without anger and contention. in like manner women also in decent apparel: adorning themselves with modesty and sobriety, not with plaited hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly attire, but as it becometh women professing godliness, with good works. let the woman learn in silence, with all subjection. but i suffer not a woman to teach, nor to use authority over the man: but to be in silence. for adam was first formed; then eve. and adam was not seduced; but the woman being seduced, was in the transgression. yet she shall be saved through child-bearing; if she continue in faith, and love, and sanctification, with sobriety.

a faithful saying: if a man desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work. it behoveth therefore a bishop to be blameless, the husband of one wife, sober, prudent, of good behaviour, chaste, given to hospitality, a teacher, not given to wine, no striker, but modest, not quarrelsome, not covetous, but one that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all chastity. but if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of god? not a neophyte: lest being puffed up with pride, he fall into the judgment of the devil. moreover he must have a good testimony of them who are without: lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil. deacons in like manner chaste, not double tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre: holding the mystery of faith in a pure conscience. and let these also first be proved: and so let them minister, having no crime. the women in like manner chaste, not slanderers, but sober, faithful in all things. let deacons be the husbands of one wife: who rule well their children, and their own houses. for they that have ministered well, shall purchase to themselves a good degree, and much confidence in the faith which is in christ jesus. these things i write to thee, hoping that i shall come to thee shortly. but if i tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of god, which is the church of the living god, the pillar and ground of the truth. and evidently great is the mystery of godliness, which was manifested in the flesh, was justified in the spirit, appeared unto angels, hath been preached unto the gentiles, is believed in the world, is taken up in glory.

now the spirit manifestly saith, that in the last times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to spirits of error, and doctrines of devils, speaking lies in hypocrisy, and having their conscience seared, forbidding to marry, to abstain from meats, which god hath created to be received with thanksgiving by the faithful, and by them that have known the truth. for every creature of god is good, and nothing to be rejected that is received with thanksgiving: for it is sanctified by the word of god and prayer. these things proposing to the brethren, thou shalt be a good minister of christ jesus, nourished up in the words of faith, and of the good doctrine which thou hast attained unto. but avoid foolish and old wives' fables: and exercise thyself unto godliness. for bodily exercise is profitable to little: but godliness is profitable to all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come. a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation. for therefore we labor and are reviled, because we hope in the living god, who is the saviour of all men, especially of the faithful. these things command and teach. let no man despise thy youth: but be thou an example of the faithful in word, in conversation, in charity, in faith, in chastity. till i come, attend unto reading, to exhortation, and to doctrine. neglect not the grace that is in thee, which was given thee by prophesy, with imposition of the hands of the priesthood. meditate upon these things, be wholly in these things: that thy profiting may be manifest to all. take heed to thyself and to doctrine: be earnest in them. for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee.

an ancient man rebuke not, but entreat him as a father: young men, as brethren: old women, as mothers: young women, as sisters, in all chastity. honour widows, that are widows indeed. but if any widow have children, or grandchildren, let her learn first to govern her own house, and to make a return of duty to her parents: for this is acceptable before god. but she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, let her trust in god, and continue in supplications and prayers night and day. for she that liveth in pleasures, is dead while she is living. and this give in charge, that they may be blameless. but if any man have not care of his own, and especially of those of his house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel. let a widow be chosen of no less than threescore years of age, who hath been the wife of one husband. having testimony for her good works, if she have brought up children, if she have received to harbour, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have ministered to them that suffer tribulation, if she have diligently followed every good work. but the younger widows avoid. for when they have grown wanton in christ, they will marry: having damnation, because they have made void their first faith. and withal being idle they learn to go about from house to house: and are not only idle, but tattlers also, and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not. i will therefore that the younger should marry, bear children, be mistresses of families, give no occasion to the adversary to speak evil. for some are already turned aside after satan. if any of the faithful have widows, let him minister to them, and let not the church be charged: that there may be sufficient for them that are widows indeed. let the priests that rule well, be esteemed worthy of double honour: especially they who labour in the word and doctrine: for the scripture saith: thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn: and, the labourer is worthy of his reward. against a priest receive not an accusation, but under two or three witnesses. them that sin reprove before all: that the rest also may have fear. i charge thee before god, and christ jesus, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things without prejudice, doing nothing by declining to either side. impose not hands lightly upon any man, neither be partaker of other men's sins. keep thyself chaste. do not still drink water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake, and thy frequent infirmities. some men's sins are manifest, going before to judgment: and some men they follow after. in like manner also good deeds are manifest: and they that are otherwise, cannot be hid.

whosoever are servants under the yoke, let them count their masters worthy of all honour; lest the name of the lord and his doctrine be blasphemed. but they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren; but serve them the rather, because they are faithful and beloved, who are partakers of the benefit. these things teach and exhort. if any man teach otherwise, and consent not to the sound words of our lord jesus christ, and to that doctrine which is according to godliness, he is proud, knowing nothing, but sick about questions and strifes of words; from which arise envies, contentions, blasphemies, evil suspicions, conflicts of men corrupted in mind, and who are destitute of the truth, supposing gain to be godliness. but godliness with contentment is great gain. for we brought nothing into this world: and certainly we can carry nothing out. but having food, and wherewith to be covered, with these we are content. for they that will become rich, fall into temptation, and into the snare of the devil, and into many unprofitable and hurtful desires, which drown men into destruction and perdition. for the desire of money is the root of all evils; which some coveting have erred from the faith, and have entangled themselves in many sorrows. but thou, o man of god, fly these things: and pursue justice, godliness, faith, charity, patience, mildness. fight the good fight of faith: lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art called, and hast confessed a good confession before many witnesses. i charge thee before god, who quickeneth all things, and before christ jesus, who gave testimony under pontius pilate, a good confession, that thou keep the commandment without spot, blameless, unto the coming of our lord jesus christ, which in his times he shall shew who is the blessed and only mighty, the king of kings, and lord of lords; who only hath immortality, and inhabiteth light inaccessible, whom no man hath seen, nor can see: to whom be honour and empire everlasting. amen. charge the rich of this world not to be highminded, nor to trust in the uncertainty of riches, but in the living god, (who giveth us abundantly all things to enjoy,) to do good, to be rich in good works, to give easily, to communicate to others, to lay up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they

paul, an apostle of jesus christ, by the will of god, according to the promise of life, which is in christ jesus. to timothy my dearly beloved son, grace, mercy, and peace, from god the father, and from christ jesus our lord. i give thanks to god, whom i serve from my forefathers with a pure conscience, that without ceasing, i have a remembrance of thee in my prayers, night and day. desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that i may be filled with joy, calling to mind that faith which is in thee unfeigned, which also dwelt first in thy grandmother lois, and in thy mother eunice, and i am certain that in thee also. for which cause i admonish thee, that thou stir up the grace of god which is in thee, by the imposition of my hands. for god hath not given us the spirit of fear: but of power, and of love, and of sobriety. be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our lord, nor of me his prisoner: but labour with the gospel, according to the power of god, who hath delivered us and called us by his holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in christ jesus before the times of the world. but is now made manifest by the illumination of our saviour jesus christ, who hath destroyed death, and hath brought to light life and incorruption by the gospel: wherein i am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and teacher of the gentiles. for which cause i also suffer these things: but i am not ashamed. for i know whom i have believed, and i am certain that he is able to keep that which i have committed unto him, against that day. hold the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me in faith, and in the love which is in christ jesus. keep the good thing committed to thy trust by the holy ghost, who dwelleth in us. thou knowest this, that all they who are in asia, are turned away from me: of whom are phigellus and hermogenes. the lord give mercy to the house of onesiphorus: because he hath often refreshed me, and hath not been ashamed of my chain: but when he was come to rome, he carefully sought me, and found me. the lord grant unto him to find mercy of the lord in that day: and in how many things he ministered unto me at ephesus, thou very well knowest.

thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace which is in christ jesus: and the things which thou hast heard of me by many witnesses, the same commend to faithful men, who shall be fit to teach others also. labour as a good soldier of christ jesus. no man, being a soldier to god, entangleth himself with secular businesses; that he may please him to whom he hath engaged himself. for he also that striveth for the mastery, is not crowned, except he strive lawfully. the husbandman, that laboreth, must first partake of the fruits. understand what i say: for the lord will give thee in all things understanding. be mindful that the lord jesus christ is risen again from the dead, of the seed of david, according to my gospel. wherein i labour even unto bands, as an evildoer; but the word of god is not bound. therefore i endure all things for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain the salvation, which is in christ jesus, with heavenly glory. a faithful saying: for if we be dead with him, we shall live also with him. if we suffer, we shall also reign with him. if we deny him, he will also deny us. if we believe not, he continueth faithful, he can not deny himself. of these things put them in mind, charging them before the lord. contend not in words, for it is to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers. carefully study to present thyself approved unto god, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly handling the word of truth. but shun profane and vain babblings: for they grow much towards ungodliness. and their speech spreadeth like a canker: of whom are hymeneus and philetus: who have erred from the truth, saying, that the resurrection is past already, and have subverted the faith of some. but the sure foundation of god standeth firm, having this seal: the lord knoweth who are his; and let every one depart from iniquity who nameth the name of the lord. but in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and silver, but also of wood and earth: and some indeed unto honour, but some unto dishonour. if any man therefore shall cleanse himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified and profitable to the lord, prepared unto every good work. but flee thou youthful desires, and pursue justice, faith, charity, and peace, with them that call on the lord out of a pure heart. and avoid foolish and unlearned questions, knowing that they beget strifes. but the servant of the lord must not wrangle: but be mild towards all men, apt to teach, patient, with modesty admonishing them that resist the truth: if peradventure god may give them repentance to know the truth, and they may recover themselves from the snares of the devil, by whom they are held captive at his will.

know also this, that, in the last days, shall come dangerous times. men shall be lovers of themselves, covetous, haughty, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, ungrateful, wicked, without affection, without peace, slanderers, incontinent, unmerciful, without kindness, traitors, stubborn, puffed up, and lovers of pleasures more than of god: having an appearance indeed of godliness, but denying the power thereof. now these avoid. for of these sort are they who creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, who are led away with divers desires: ever learning, and never attaining to the knowledge of the truth. now as jannes and mambres resisted moyses, so these also resist the truth, men corrupted in mind, reprobate concerning the faith. but they shall proceed no farther; for their folly shall be manifest to all men, as theirs also was. but thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, love, patience, persecutions, afflictions: such as came upon me at antioch, at iconium, and at lystra: what persecutions i endured, and out of them all the lord delivered me. and all that will live godly in christ jesus, shall suffer persecution. but evil men and seducers shall grow worse and worse: erring, and driving into error. but continue thou in those things which thou hast learned, and which have been committed to thee: knowing of whom thou hast learned them; and because from thy infancy thou hast known the holy scriptures, which can instruct thee to salvation, by the faith which is in christ jesus. all scripture, inspired of god, is profitable to teach, to reprove, to correct, to instruct in justice, that the man of god may be perfect, furnished to every good work.

i charge thee, before god and jesus christ, who shall judge the living and the dead, by his coming, and his kingdom: preach the word: be instant in season, out of season: reprove, entreat, rebuke in all patience and doctrine. for there shall be a time, when they will not endure sound doctrine; but, according to their own desires, they will heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears: and will indeed turn away their hearing from the truth, but will be turned unto fables. but be thou vigilant, labour in all things, do the work of an evangelist, fulfil thy ministry. be sober. for i am even now ready to be sacrificed: and the time of my dissolution is at hand. i have fought a good fight, i have finished my course, i have kept the faith. as to the rest, there is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the lord the just judge will render to me in that day: and not only to me, but to them also that love his coming. make haste to come to me quickly. for demas hath left me, loving this world, and is gone to thessalonica: crescens into galatia, titus into dalmatia. only luke is with me. take mark, and bring him with thee: for he is profitable to me for the ministry. but tychicus i have sent to ephesus. the cloak that i left at troas, with carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, especially the parchments. alexander the coppersmith hath done me much evil: the lord will reward him according to his works: whom do thou also avoid, for he hath greatly withstood our words. at my first answer no man stood with me, but all forsook me: may it not be laid to their charge. but the lord stood by me, and strengthened me, that by me the preaching may be accomplished, and that all the gentiles may hear: and i was delivered out of the mouth of the lion. the lord hath delivered me from every evil work: and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom, to whom be glory for ever and ever. amen. salute prisca and aquila, and the household of onesiphorus. erastus remained at corinth. and trophimus i left sick at miletus. make haste to come before winter eubulus and pudens, and linus and claudia, and all the brethren, salute thee. the lord jesus christ be with thy spirit. grace be with you. amen.

paul, a servant of god, and an apostle of jesus christ, according to the faith of the elect of god and the acknowledging of the truth, which is according to godliness: unto the hope of life everlasting, which god, who lieth not, hath promised before the times of the world: but hath in due times manifested his word in preaching, which is committed to me according to the commandment of god our savior: to titus my beloved son, according to the common faith, grace and peace from god the father, and from christ jesus our savior. for this cause i left thee in crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting, and shouldest ordain priests in every city, as i also appointed thee: if any be without crime, the husband of one wife, having faithful children, not accused of riot, or unruly. for a bishop must be without crime, as the steward of god: not proud, not subject to anger, not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre: but given to hospitality, gentle, sober, just, holy, continent: embracing that faithful word which is according to doctrine, that he may be able to exhort in sound doctrine, and to convince the gainsayers. for there are also many disobedient, vain talkers, and seducers: especially they who are of the circumcision: who must be reprov'd, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake. one of them a prophet of their own, said, the cretians are always liars, evil beasts, slothful belies. this testimony is true. wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith; not giving heed to jewish fables and commandments of men, who turn themselves away from the truth. all things are clean to the clean: but to them that are defiled, and to unbelievers, nothing is clean: but both their mind and their conscience are defiled. they profess that they know god: but in their works they deny him; being abominable, and incredulous, and to every good work reprobate.

but speak thou the things that become sound doctrine: that the aged men be sober, chaste, prudent, sound in faith, in love, in patience. the aged women, in like manner, in holy attire, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teaching well: that they may teach the young women to be wise, to love their husbands, to love their children, to be discreet, chaste, sober, having a care of the house, gentle, obedient to their husbands, that the word of god be not blasphemed. young men, in like manner, exhort that they be sober. in all things shew thyself an example of good works, in doctrine, in integrity, in gravity, the sound word that can not be blamed: that he, who is on the contrary part, may be afraid, having no evil to say of us. exhort servants to be obedient to their masters, in all things pleasing, not gainsaying: not defrauding, but in all things shewing good fidelity, that they may adorn the doctrine of god our savior in all things: for the grace of god our savior hath appeared to all men; instructing us, that, denying ungodliness and worldly desires, we should live soberly, and justly, and godly in this world, looking for the blessed hope and coming of the glory of the great god and our savior jesus christ, who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and might cleanse to himself a people acceptable, a pursuer of good works. these things speak, and exhort and rebuke with all authority. let no man despise thee.

admonish them to be subject to princes and powers, to obey at a word, to be ready to every good work. to speak evil of no man, not to be litigious, but gentle: shewing all mildness towards all men. for we ourselves also were some time unwise, incredulous, erring, slaves to divers desires and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another. but when the goodness and kindness of god our savior appeared: not by the works of justice, which we have done, but according to his mercy, he saved us, by the laver of regeneration, and renovation of the holy ghost; whom he hath poured forth upon us abundantly, through jesus christ our savior: that, being justified by his grace, we may be heirs, according to hope of life everlasting. it is a faithful saying: and these things i will have thee affirm constantly: that they, who believe in god, may be careful to excel in good works. these things are good and profitable unto men. but avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law. for they are unprofitable and vain. a man that is a heretic, after the first and second admonition, avoid: knowing that he, that is such an one, is subverted, and sinneth, being condemned by his own judgment. when i shall send to thee artemas or tychicus, make haste to come unto me to nicopolis. for there i have determined to winter. send forward zenas, the lawyer, and apollo, with care, that nothing be wanting to them. and let our men also learn to excel in good works for necessary uses: that they be not unfruitful. all that are with me salute thee: salute them that love us in the faith. the grace of god be with you all. amen.

paul, a prisoner of christ jesus, and timothy, a brother: to philemon, our beloved and fellow labourer; and to appia, our dearest sister, and to archippus, our fellow soldier, and to the church which is in thy house: grace to you and peace from god our father, and from the lord jesus christ. i give thanks to my god, always making a remembrance of thee in my prayers. hearing of thy charity and faith, which thou hast in the lord jesus, and towards all the saints: that the communication of thy faith may be made evident in the acknowledgment of every good work, that is in you in christ jesus. for i have had great joy and consolation in thy charity, because the bowels of the saints have been refreshed by thee, brother. wherefore though i have much confidence in christ jesus, to command thee that which is to the purpose: for charity sake i rather beseech, whereas thou art such a one, as paul an old man, and now a prisoner also of jesus christ. i beseech thee for my son, whom i have begotten in my bands, onesimus, who hath been heretofore unprofitable to thee, but now is profitable both to me and thee, whom i have sent back to thee. and do thou receive him as my own bowels. whom i would have retained with me, that in thy stead he might have ministered to me in the bands of the gospel: but without thy counsel i would do nothing: that thy good deed might not be as it were of necessity, but voluntary. for perhaps he therefore departed for a season from thee, that thou mightest receive him again for ever: not now as a servant, but instead of a servant, a most dear brother, especially to me: but how much more to thee both in the flesh and in the lord? if therefore thou count me a partner, receive him as myself. and if he hath wronged thee in any thing, or is in thy debt, put that to my account. i paul have written it with my own hand: i will repay it: not to say to thee, that thou owest me thy own self also. yea, brother. may i enjoy thee in the lord. refresh my bowels in the lord. trusting in thy obedience, i have written to thee: knowing that thou wilt also do more than i say. but withal prepare me also a lodging. for i hope that through your prayers i shall be given unto you. there salute thee epaphras, my fellow prisoner in christ jesus; mark, aristarchus, demas, and luke my fellow labourers. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with your spirit. amen.

god, who, at sundry times and in divers manners, spoke in times past to the fathers by the prophets, last of all, in these days hath spoken to us by his son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the world. who being the brightness of his glory, and the figure of his substance, and upholding all things by the word of his power, making purgation of sins, sitteth on the right hand of the majesty on high. being made so much better than the angels, as he hath inherited a more excellent name than they. for to which of the angels hath he said at any time, thou art my son, to day have i begotten thee? and again, i will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son? and again, when he bringeth in the first begotten into the world, he saith: and let all the angels of god adore him. and to the angels indeed he saith: he that maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire. but to the son: thy throne, o god, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of justice is the sceptre of thy kingdom. thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity: therefore god, thy god, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. and: thou in the beginning, o lord, didst found the earth: and the works of thy hands are the heavens. they shall perish, but thou shalt continue: and they shall all grow old as a garment. and as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed: but thou art the selfsame, and thy years shall not fail. but to which of the angels said he at any time: sit on my right hand, until i make thy enemies thy footstool? are they not all ministering spirits, sent to minister for them, who shall receive the inheritance of salvation?

therefore ought we more diligently to observe the things which we have heard, lest perhaps we should let them slip. for if the word, spoken by angels, became steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward: how shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation? which having begun to be declared by the lord, was confirmed unto us by them that heard him. god also bearing them witness by signs, and wonders, and divers miracles, and distributions of the holy ghost, according to his own will. for god hath not subjected unto angels the world to come, whereof we speak. but one in a certain place hath testified, saying: what is man, that thou art mindful of him: or the son of man, that thou visitest him? thou hast made him a little lower than the angels: thou hast crowned him with glory and honour, and hast set him over the works of thy hands: thou hast subjected all things under his feet. for in that he hath subjected all things to him, he left nothing not subject to him. but now we see not as yet all things subject to him. but we see jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels, for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour: that, through the grace of god, he might taste death for all. for it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, who had brought many children into glory, to perfect the author of their salvation, by his passion. for both he that sanctifieth, and they who are sanctified, are all of one. for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren, saying: i will declare thy name to my brethren; in the midst of the church will i praise thee. and again: i will put my trust in him. and again: behold i and my children, whom god hath given me. therefore because the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself in like manner hath been partaker of the same: that, through death, he might destroy him who had the empire of death, that is to say, the devil: and might deliver them, who through the fear of death were all their lifetime subject to servitude. for no where doth he take hold of the angels: but of the seed of abraham he taketh hold. wherefore it behoved him in all things to be made like unto his brethren, that he might become a merciful and faithful priest before god, that he might be a propitiation for the sins of the people. for in that, wherein he himself hath suffered and been tempted, he is able to succour them also that are tempted.

wherefore, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly vocation, consider the apostle and high priest of our confession, jesus: who is faithful to him that made him, as was also moyses in all his house. for this man was counted worthy of greater glory than moyses, by so much as he that hath built the house, hath greater honour than the house. for every house is built by some man: but he that created all things, is god. and moyses indeed was faithful in all his house as a servant, for a testimony of those things which were to be said: but christ as the son in his own house: which house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and glory of hope unto the end. wherefore, as the holy ghost saith: to day if you shall hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation; in the day of temptation in the desert, where your fathers tempted me, proved and saw my works, forty years: for which cause i was offended with this generation, and i said: they always err in heart. and they have not known my ways, as i have sworn in my wrath: if they shall enter into my rest. take heed, brethren, lest perhaps there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, to depart from the living god. but exhort one another every day, whilst it is called to day, that none of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. for we are made partakers of christ: yet so, if we hold the beginning of his substance firm unto the end. while it is said, to day if you shall hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in that provocation. for some who heard did provoke: but not all that came out of egypt by moyses. and with whom was he offended forty years? was it not with them that sinned, whose carcasses were overthrown in the desert? and to whom did he swear, that they should not enter into his rest: but to them that were incredulous? and we see that they could not enter in, because of unbelief.

let us fear therefore lest the promise being left of entering into his rest, any of you should be thought to be wanting. for unto us also it hath been declared, in like manner as unto them. but the word of hearing did not profit them, not being mixed with faith of those things they heard. for we, who have believed, shall enter into rest; as he said: as i have sworn in my wrath; if they shall enter into my rest; and this indeed when the works from the foundation of the world were finished. for in a certain place he spoke of the seventh day thus: and god rested the seventh day from all his works. and in this place again: if they shall enter into my rest. seeing then it remaineth that some are to enter into it, and they, to whom it was first preached, did not enter because of unbelief: again he limiteth a certain day, saying in david, to day, after so long a time, as it is above said: to day if you shall hear his voice, harden not your hearts. for if jesus had given them rest, he would never have afterwards spoken of another day. there remaineth therefore a day of rest for the people of god. for he that is entered into his rest, the same also hath rested from his works, as god did from his. let us hasten therefore to enter into that rest; lest any man fall into the same example of unbelief. for the word of god is living and effectual, and more piercing than any two edged sword; and reaching unto the division of the soul and the spirit, of the joints also and the marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart. neither is there any creature invisible in his sight: but all things are naked and open to his eyes, to whom our speech is. having therefore a great high priest that hath passed into the heavens, jesus the son of god: let us hold fast our confession. for we have not a high priest, who can not have compassion on our infirmities: but one tempted in all things like as we are, without sin. let us go therefore with confidence to the throne of grace: that we may obtain mercy, and find grace in seasonable aid.

for every high priest taken from among men, is ordained for men in the things that appertain to god, that he may offer up gifts and sacrifices for sins: who can have compassion on them that are ignorant and that err: because he himself also is compassed with infirmity. and therefore he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins. neither doth any man take the honour to himself, but he that is called by god, as aaron was. so christ also did not glorify himself, that he might be made a high priest: but he that said unto him: thou art my son, this day have i begotten thee. as he saith also in another place: thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of melchisedech. who in the days of his flesh, with a strong cry and tears, offering up prayers and supplications to him that was able to save him from death, was heard for his reverence. and whereas indeed he was the son of god, he learned obedience by the things which he suffered: and being consummated, he became, to all that obey him, the cause of eternal salvation. called by god a high priest according to the order of melchisedech. of whom we have much to say, and hard to be intelligibly uttered: because you are become weak to hear. for whereas for the time you ought to be masters, you have need to be taught again what are the first elements of the words of god: and you are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat. for every one that is a partaker of milk, is unskillful in the word of justice: for he is a little child. but strong meat is for the perfect; for them who by custom have their senses exercised to the discerning of good and evil.

wherefore leaving the word of the beginning of christ, let us go on to things more perfect, not laying again the foundation of penance from dead works, and of faith towards god, of the doctrine of baptisms, and imposition of hands, and of the resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment. and this will we do, if god permit. for it is impossible for those who were once illuminated, have tasted also the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the holy ghost, have moreover tasted the good word of god, and the powers of the world to come, and are fallen away: to be renewed again to penance, crucifying again to themselves the son of god, and making him a mockery. for the earth that drinketh in the rain which cometh often upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by whom it is tilled, receiveth blessing from god. but that which bringeth forth thorns and briers, is reprobate, and very near unto a curse, whose end is to be burnt. but, my dearly beloved, we trust better things of you, and nearer to salvation; though we speak thus. for god is not unjust, that he should forget your work, and the love which you have shewn in his name, you who have ministered, and do minister to the saints. and we desire that every one of you shew forth the same carefulness to the accomplishing of hope unto the end: that you become not slothful, but followers of them, who through faith and patience shall inherit the promises. for god making promise to abraham, because he had no one greater by whom he might swear, swore by himself, saying: unless blessing i shall bless thee, and multiplying i shall multiply thee. and so patiently enduring he obtained the promise. for men swear by one greater than themselves: and an oath for confirmation is the end of all their controversy. wherein god, meaning more abundantly to shew to the heirs of the promise the immutability of his counsel, interposed an oath: that by two immutable things, in which it is impossible for god to lie, we may have the strongest comfort, who have fled for refuge to hold fast the hope set before us. which we have as an anchor of the soul, sure and firm, and which entereth in even within the veil; where the forerunner jesus is entered for us, made a high priest for ever according to the order of melchisedech.

for this melchisedech was king of salem, priest of the most high god, who met abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him: to whom also abraham divided the tithes of all: who first indeed by interpretation, is king of justice: and then also king of salem, that is, king of peace: without father, without mother, without genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but likened unto the son of god, continueth a priest for ever. now consider how great this man is, to whom also abraham the patriarch gave tithes out of the principal things. and indeed they that are of the sons of levi, who receive the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is to say, of their brethren: though they themselves also came out of the loins of abraham. but he, whose pedigree is not numbered among them, received tithes of abraham, and blessed him that had the promises. and without all contradiction, that which is less, is blessed by the better. and here indeed, men that die, receive tithes: but there he hath witness, that he liveth. and (as it may be said) even levi who received tithes, paid tithes in abraham: for he was yet in the loins of his father, when melchisedech met him. if then perfection was by the levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise according to the order of melchisedech, and not be called according to the order of aaron? for the priesthood being translated, it is necessary that a translation also be made of the law. for he, of whom these things are spoken, is of another tribe, of which no one attended on the altar. for it is evident that our lord sprung out of juda: in which tribe moyses spoke nothing concerning priests. and it is yet far more evident: if according to the similitude of melchisedech there ariseth another priest, who is made not according to the law of a carnal commandment, but according to the power of an indissoluble life: for he testifieth: thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of melchisedech. there is indeed a setting aside of the former commandment, because of the weakness and unprofitableness thereof: (for the law brought nothing to perfection,) but a bringing in of a better hope, by which we draw nigh to god. and inasmuch as it is not without an oath, (for the others indeed were made priests without an oath; but this with an oath, by him that said unto him: the lord hath sworn, and he will not repent, thou art a priest for ever.) by so much is jesus made a surety of a better testament. and the others indeed were made many priests, because by reason of death they were not suffered to continue: but this, for that he continueth for ever, hath an everlasting priesthood, whereby he is able also to save for ever them that come to god by him; always living to make intercession for us. for it was fitting that we should have such a high priest, holy, innocent, undefiled, separated from sinners, and made higher than the heavens; who needeth not daily (as the other priests) to offer sacrifices first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, in offering himself. for the law maketh men priests, who have infirmity: but the word of the oath, which was since the law, the son who is perfected for evermore.

now of the things which we have spoken, this is the sum: we have such an high priest, who is set on the right hand of the throne of majesty in the heavens, a minister of the holies, and of the true tabernacle, which the lord hath pitched, and not man. for every high priest is appointed to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is necessary that he also should have some thing to offer. if then he were on earth, he would not be a priest: seeing that there would be others to offer gifts according to the law, who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things. as it was answered to moyses, when he was to finish the tabernacle: see (saith he) that thou make all things according to the pattern which was shewn thee on the mount. but now he hath obtained a better ministry, by how much also he is a mediator of a better testament, which is established on better promises. for if that former had been faultless, there should not indeed a place have been sought for a second. for finding fault with them, he saith: behold, the days shall come, saith the lord: and i will perfect unto the house of israel, and unto the house of juda, a new testament: not according to the testament which i made to their fathers, on the day when i took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of egypt: because they continued not in my testament: and i regarded them not, saith the lord. for this is the testament which i will make to the house of israel after those days, saith the lord: i will give my laws into their mind, and in their heart will i write them: and i will be their god, and they shall be my people: and they shall not teach every man his neighbour and every man his brother, saying, know the lord: for all shall know me from the least to the greatest of them: because i will be merciful to their iniquities, and their sins i will remember no more. now in saying a new, he hath made the former old. and that which decayeth and groweth old, is near its end.

the former indeed had also justifications of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary. for there was a tabernacle made the first, wherein were the candlesticks, and the table, and the setting forth of loaves, which is called the holy. and after the second veil, the tabernacle, which is called the holy of holies: having a golden censer, and the ark of the testament covered about on every part with gold, in which was a golden pot that had manna, and the rod of aaron, that had blossomed, and the tables of the testament. and over it were the cherubims of glory overshadowing the propitiatory: of which it is not needful to speak now particularly. now these things being thus ordered, into the first tabernacle the priests indeed always entered, accomplishing the offices of sacrifices.

but into the second, the high priest alone, once a year: not without blood, which he offereth for his own, and the people's ignorance: the holy ghost signifying this, that the way into the holies was not yet made manifest, whilst the former tabernacle was yet standing. which is a parable of the time present: according to which gifts and sacrifices are offered, which can not, as to the conscience, make him perfect that serveth, only in meats and in drinks, and divers washings, and justices of the flesh laid on them until the time of correction. but christ, being come an high priest of the good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle not made with hand, that is, not of this creation: neither by the blood of goats, or of calves, but by his own blood, entered once into the holies, having obtained eternal redemption. for if the blood of goats and of oxen, and the ashes of an heifer being sprinkled, sanctify such as are defiled, to the cleansing of the flesh: how much more shall the blood of christ, who by the holy ghost offered himself unspotted unto god, cleanse our conscience from dead works, to serve the living god? and therefore he is the mediator of the new testament: that by means of his death, for the redemption of those transgressions, which were under the former testament, they that are called may receive the promise of eternal inheritance. for where there is a testament, the death of the testator must of necessity come in. for a testament is of force, after men are dead: otherwise it is as yet of no strength, whilst the testator liveth. whereupon neither was the first indeed dedicated without blood. for when every commandment of the law had been read by moyses to all the people, he took the blood of calves and goats, with water, and scarlet wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people, saying: this is the blood of the testament, which god hath enjoined unto you. the tabernacle also and all the vessels of the ministry, in like manner, he sprinkled with blood. and almost all things, according to the law, are cleansed with blood: and without shedding of blood there is no remission. it is necessary therefore that the patterns of heavenly things should be cleansed with these: but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. for jesus is not entered into the holies made with hands, the patterns of the true: but into heaven itself, that he may appear now in the presence of god for us. nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holies, every year with the blood of others: for then he ought to have suffered often from the beginning of the world: but now once at the end of ages, he hath appeared for the destruction of sin, by the sacrifice of himself. and as it is appointed unto men once to die, and after this the judgment: so also christ was offered once to exhaust the sins of many; the second time he shall appear without sin to them that expect him unto salvation.

same sacrifices which they offer continually every year, can never make the comers thereunto perfect: for then they would have ceased to be offered: because the worshippers once cleansed should have no conscience of sin any longer: but in them there is made a commemoration of sins every year. for it is impossible that with the blood of oxen and goats sin should be taken away. wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith: sacrifice and oblation thou wouldest not: but a body thou hast fitted to me: holocausts for sin did not please thee. then said i: behold i come: in the head of the book it is written of me: that i should do thy will, o god. in saying before, sacrifices, and oblations, and holocausts for sin thou wouldest not, neither are they pleasing to thee, which are offered according to the law. then said i: behold, i come to do thy will, o god: he taketh away the first, that he may establish that which followeth. in the which will, we are sanctified by the oblation of the body of jesus christ once. and every priest indeed standeth daily ministering, and often offering the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. but this man offering one sacrifice for sins, for ever sitteth on the right hand of god, from henceforth expecting, until his enemies be made his footstool. for by one oblation he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified. and the holy ghost also doth testify this to us. for after that he said: and this is the testament which i will make unto them after those days, saith the lord. i will give my laws in their hearts, and on their minds will i write them: and their sins and iniquities i will remember no more. now where there is a remission of these, there is no more an oblation for sin. having therefore, brethren, a confidence in the entering into the holies by the blood of christ; a new and living way which he hath dedicated for us through the veil, that is to say, his flesh, and a high priest over the house of god: let us draw near with a true heart in fulness of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with clean water. let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering (for he is faithful that hath promised), and let us consider one another, to provoke unto charity and to good works: not forsaking our assembly, as some are accustomed; but comforting one another, and so much the more as you see the day approaching. for if we sin wilfully after having the knowledge of the truth, there is now left no sacrifice for sins, but a certain dreadful expectation of judgment, and the rage of a fire which shall consume the adversaries. a man making void the law of moyses, dieth without any mercy under two or three witnesses: how much more, do you think he deserveth worse punishments, who hath trodden under foot the son of god, and hath esteemed the blood of the testament unclean, by which he was sanctified, and hath offered an affront to the spirit of grace? for we know him that hath said: vengeance belongeth to me, and i will repay. and again: the lord shall judge his people. it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living god. but call to mind the former days, wherein, being illuminated, you endured a great fight of afflictions. and on the one hand indeed, by reproaches and tribulations, were made a gazingstock;

and on the other, became companions of them that were used in such sort. for you both had compassion on them that were in bands, and took with joy the being stripped of your own goods, knowing that you have a better and a lasting substance. do not therefore lose your confidence, which hath a great reward. for patience is necessary for you; that, doing the will of god, you may receive the promise. for yet a little and a very little while, and he that is to come, will come, and will not delay. but my just man liveth by faith; but if he withdraw himself, he shall not please my soul. but we are not the children of withdrawing unto perdition, but of faith to the saving of the soul.

now faith is the substance of things to be hoped for, the evidence of things that appear not. for by this the ancients obtained a testimony. by faith we understand that the world was framed by the word of god; that from invisible things visible things might be made. by faith abel offered to god a sacrifice exceeding that of cain, by which he obtained a testimony that he was just, god giving testimony to his gifts; and by it he being dead yet speaketh. by faith henoch was translated, that he should not see death; and he was not found, because god had translated him: for before his translation he had testimony that he pleased god. but without faith it is impossible to please god. for he that cometh to god, must believe that he is, and is a rewarder to them that seek him. by faith noe, having received an answer concerning those things which as yet were not seen, moved with fear, framed the ark for the saving of his house, by the which he condemned the world; and was instituted heir of the justice which is by faith. by faith he that is called abraham, obeyed to go out into a place which he was to receive for an inheritance; and he went out, not knowing whither he went. by faith he abode in the land, dwelling in cottages, with isaac and jacob, the co-heirs of the same promise. for he looked for a city that hath foundations; whose builder and maker is god. by faith also sara herself, being barren, received strength to conceive seed, even past the time of age; because she believed that he was faithful who had promised, for which cause there sprung even from one (and him as good as dead) as the stars of heaven in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea shore innumerable. all these died according to faith, not having received the promises, but beholding them afar off, and saluting them, and confessing that they are pilgrims and strangers on the earth. for they that say these things, do signify that they seek a country. and truly if they had been mindful of that from whence they came out, they had doubtless time to return. but now they desire a better, that is to say, a heavenly country. therefore god is not ashamed to be called their god; for he hath prepared for them a city. by faith abraham, when he was tried, offered isaac: and he that had received the promises, offered up his only begotten son; (to whom it was said: in isaac shall thy seed be called.) accounting that god is able to raise up even from the dead. whereupon also he received him for a parable. by faith also of things to come, isaac blessed jacob and esau. by faith jacob dying, blessed each of the sons of joseph, and adored the top of his rod. by faith joseph, when he was dying, made mention of the going out of the children of israel; and gave commandment concerning his bones. by faith moyses, when he was born, was hid three months by his parents; because they saw he was a comely babe, and they feared not the king's edict. by faith moyses, when he was grown up, denied himself to be the son of pharaoh's daughter; rather choosing to be afflicted with the people of god, than to have the pleasure of sin for a time, esteeming the reproach of christ greater riches than the treasure of the egyptians. for he looked unto the reward. by faith he left egypt, not fearing the fierceness of the king: for he endured as seeing him that is invisible. by faith he celebrated the pasch, and the shedding of the blood; that he, who destroyed the firstborn, might not touch them. by faith they passed through the red sea, as by dry land: which the egyptians attempting, were swallowed up. by faith the walls of jericho fell down, by the going round them seven days. by faith rahab the harlot perished not with the unbelievers, receiving the spies with peace. and what shall i yet say? for the time would fail me to tell of gedeon, barac, samson, jephthe, david, samuel, and the prophets: who by faith conquered kingdoms, wrought justice, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, recovered strength from weakness, became valiant in battle, put to flight the armies of foreigners: women received their dead raised to life again. but others were racked, not accepting deliverance, that they might find a better resurrection. and others had trial of mockeries and stripes, more-over also of bands and prisons. they were stoned, they were cut asunder, they were tempted, they were put to death by the sword, they wandered about in sheepskins, in goatskins, being in want, distressed, afflicted: of whom the world was not worthy; wandering in deserts, in mountains, and in dens, and in caved of the earth. and all these being approved by the testimony of faith, received not the promise; god providing some better thing for us, that they should not be perfected without us.

and therefore we also having so great a cloud of witnesses over our head, laying aside every weight and sin which surrounds us, let us run by patience to the fight proposed to us: looking on jesus, the author and finisher of faith, who having joy set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and now sitteth on the right hand of the throne of god. for think diligently upon him that endured such opposition from sinners against himself; that you be not wearied, fainting in your minds. for you have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin: and you have forgotten the consolation, which speaketh to you, as unto children, saying: my son, neglect not the discipline of the lord; neither be thou wearied whilst thou art rebuked by him. for whom the lord loveth, he chastiseth; and he scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. persevere under discipline. god dealeth with you as with his sons; for what son is there, whom the father doth not correct? but if you be without chastisement, whereof all are made partakers, then are you bastards, and not sons. moreover we have had fathers of our flesh, for instructors, and we revered them: shall we not much more obey the father of spirits, and live? and they indeed for a few days, according to their own pleasure, instructed us: but he, for our profit, that we might receive his sanctification. now all chastisement for the present indeed seemeth not to bring with it joy, but sorrow: but afterwards it will yield, to them that are exercised by it, the most peaceable fruit of justice. wherefore lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees, and make straight steps with your feet: that no one, halting, may go out of the way; but rather be healed. follow peace with all men, and holiness: without which no man shall see god. looking diligently, lest any man be wanting to the grace of god; lest any root of bitterness springing up do hinder, and by it many be defiled. lest there be any fornicator, or profane person, as esau; who for one mess, sold his first birthright. for know ye that afterwards, when he desired to inherit the benediction, he was rejected; for he found no place of repentance, although with tears he had sought it. for you are not come to a mountain that might be touched, and a burning fire, and a whirlwind, and darkness, and storm, and the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words, which they that heard excused themselves, that the word might not be spoken to them: for they did not endure that which was said: and if so much as a beast shall touch the mount, it shall be stoned. and so terrible was that which was seen, mooses said: i am frightened, and tremble. but you are come to mount sion, and to the city of the living god, the heavenly jerusalem, and to the company of many thousands of angels, and to the church of the firstborn, who are written in the heavens, and to god the judge of all, and to the spirits of the just made perfect, and to jesus the mediator of the new testament, and to the sprinkling of blood which speaketh better than that of abel. see that you refuse him not that speaketh. for if they escaped not who refused him that spoke upon the earth, much more shall not we, that turn away from him that speaketh to us from heaven. whose voice then moved the earth; but now he promiseth, saying: yet once more, and i will move not only the earth, but heaven also. and in that he saith, yet once more, he signifieth the translation of the moveable things as made, that those things may remain which are immoveable. therefore receiving an immoveable kingdom, we have grace; whereby let us serve, pleasing god, with fear and reverence. for our god is a consuming fire.

let the charity of the brotherhood abide in you. and hospitality do not forget; for by this some, being not aware of it, have entertained angels. remember them

that are in bands, as if you were bound with them; and them that labour, as being yourselves also in the body. marriage honourable in all, and the bed undefiled. for fornicators and adulterers god will judge. let your manners be without covetousness, contented with such things as you have; for he hath said: i will not leave thee, neither will i forsake thee. so that we may confidently say: the lord is my helper: i will not fear what man shall do to me. remember your prelates who have spoken the word of god to you; whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation, jesus christ, yesterday, and to day; and the same for ever. be not led away with various and strange doctrines. for it is best that the heart be established with grace, not with meats; which have not profited those that walk in them. we have an altar, whereof they have no power to eat who serve the tabernacle. for the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the holies by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp. wherefore jesus also, that he might sanctify the people by his own blood, suffered without the gate. let us go forth therefore to him without the camp, bearing his reproach. for we have not here a lasting city, but we seek one that is to come. by him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise always to god, that is to say, the fruit of lips confessing to his name. and do not forget to do good, and to impart; for by such sacrifices god's favour is obtained. obey your prelates, and be subject to them. for they watch as being to render an account of your souls; that they may do this with joy, and not with grief. for this is not expedient for you. pray for us. for we trust we have a good conscience, being willing to behave ourselves well in all things. and i beseech you the more to do this, that i may be restored to you the sooner. and may the god of peace, who brought again from the dead the great pastor of the sheep, our lord jesus christ, in the blood of the everlasting testament, fit you in all goodness, that you may do his will; doing in you that which is well pleasing in his sight, through jesus christ, to whom is glory for ever and ever. amen. and i beseech you, brethren, that you suffer this word of consolation. for i have written to you in a few words. know ye that our brother timothy is set at liberty: with whom (if he come shortly) i will see you. salute all your prelates, and all the saints. the brethren from italy salute you. grace be with you all. amen.

james the servant of god, and of our lord jesus christ, to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad, greeting. my brethren, count it all joy, when you shall fall into divers temptations; knowing that the trying of your faith worketh patience. and patience hath a perfect work; that you may be perfect and entire, failing in nothing. but if any of you want wisdom, let him ask of god, who giveth to all men abundantly, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him. but let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, which is moved and carried about by the wind. therefore let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the lord. a double minded man is inconstant in all his ways. but let the brother of low condition glory in his exaltation: and the rich, in his being low; because as the flower of the grass shall he pass away. for the sun rose with a burning heat, and parched the grass, and the flower thereof fell off, and the beauty of the shape thereof perished: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways. blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been proved, he shall receive a crown of life, which god hath promised to them that love him. let no man, when he is tempted, say that he is tempted by god. for god is not a tempter of evils, and he tempteth no man. but every man is tempted by his own concupiscence, being drawn away and allured. then when concupiscence hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin. but sin, when it is completed, begetteth death. do not err, therefore, my dearest brethren. every best gift, and every perfect gift, is from above, coming down from the father of lights, with whom there is no change, nor shadow of alteration. for of his own will hath he begotten us by the word of truth, that we might be some beginning of his creatures. you know, my dearest brethren. and let every man be swift to hear, but slow to speak, and slow to anger. for the anger of man worketh not the justice of god. wherefore casting away all uncleanness, and abundance of naughtiness, with meekness receive the ingrafted word, which is able to save your souls. but be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. for if a man be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he shall be compared to a man beholding his own countenance in a glass. for he beheld himself, and went his way, and presently forgot what manner of man he was. but he that hath looked into the perfect law of liberty, and hath continued therein, not becoming a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work; this man shall be blessed in his deed. and if any man think himself to be religious, not bridling his tongue, but deceiving his own heart, this man's religion is vain. religion clean and undefiled before god and the father, is this: to visit the fatherless and widows in their tribulation: and to keep one's self unspotted from this world.

my brethren, have not the faith of our lord jesus christ of glory with respect of persons. for if there shall come into your assembly a man having a golden ring, in fine apparel, and there shall come in also a poor man in mean attire, and you have respect to him that is clothed with the fine apparel, and shall say to him: sit thou here well; but say to the poor man: stand thou there, or sit under my footstool: do you not judge within yourselves, and are become judges of unjust thoughts? hearken, my dearest brethren: hath not god chosen the poor in this world, rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom which god hath promised to them that love him? but you have dishonoured the poor man. do not the rich oppress you by might? and do not they draw you before the judgment seats? do not they blaspheme the good name that is invoked upon you? if then you fulfil the royal law, according to the scriptures, thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself; you do well. but if you have respect to persons, you commit sin, being reproved by the law as transgressors. and whosoever shall keep the whole law, but offend in one point, is become guilty of all. for he that said, thou shalt not commit adultery, said also, thou shalt not kill. now if thou do not commit adultery, but shalt kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law. so speak ye, and so do, as being to be judged by the law of liberty. for judgment without mercy to him that hath not done mercy. and mercy exalteth itself above judgment. what shall it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but hath not works? shall faith be able to save him? and if a brother or sister be naked, and want daily food: and one of you say to them: go in peace, be ye warmed and filled; yet give them not those things that are necessary for the body, what shall it profit? so faith also, if it have not works, is dead in itself. but some man will say: thou hast faith, and i have works: shew me thy faith without works; and i will shew thee, by works, my faith. thou believest that there is one god. thou dost well: the devils also believe and tremble. but wilt thou know, o vain man, that faith without works is dead? was not abraham our father justified by works, offering up isaac his son upon the altar? seest thou, that faith did co-operate with his works; and by works faith was made perfect? and the scripture was fulfilled, saying: abraham believed god, and it was reputed to him to justice, and he was called the friend of god. do you see that by works a man is justified; and not by faith only? and in like manner also rahab the harlot, was not she justified by works, receiving the messengers, and sending them out another way? for even as the body without the spirit is dead; so also faith without works is dead.

be ye not many masters, my brethren, knowing that you receive the greater judgment. for in many things we all offend. if any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man. he is able also with a bridle to lead about the whole body. for if we put bits into the mouths of horses, that they may obey us, and we turn about their whole body. behold also ships, whereas they are great, and are driven by strong winds, yet are they turned about with a small helm, whithersoever the force of the governor willeth. even so the tongue is indeed a little member, and boasteth great things. behold how small a fire kindleth a great wood. and the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity. the tongue is placed among our members, which defileth the whole body, and inflameth the wheel of our nativity, being set on fire by hell. for every nature of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of the rest, is tamed, and hath been tamed, by the nature of man: but the tongue no man can tame, an unquiet evil, full of deadly poison. by it we bless god and the father: and by it we curse men, who are made after the likeness of god. out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. my brethren, these things ought not so to be. doth a fountain send forth, out of the same hole, sweet and bitter water? can the fig tree, my brethren, bear grapes; or the vine, figs? so neither can the salt water yield sweet. who is a wise man, and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew, by a good conversation, his work in the meekness of wisdom. but if you have bitter zeal, and there be contentions in your hearts; glory not, and be not liars against the truth. for this is not wisdom, descending from above: but earthly, sensual, devilish. for where envying and contention is, there is inconstancy, and every evil work. but the wisdom, that is from above, first indeed is chaste, then peaceable, modest, easy to be persuaded, consenting to the good, full of mercy and good fruits, without judging, without dissimulation. and the fruit of justice is sown in peace, to them that make peace.

from whence are wars and contentions among you? are they not hence, from your concupiscences, which war in your members? you covet, and have not: you kill, and envy, and can not obtain. you contend and war, and you have not, because you ask not. you ask, and receive not; because you ask amiss: that you may consume it on your concupiscences. adulterers, know you not that the friendship of this world is the enemy of god? whosoever therefore will be a friend of this world, becometh an enemy of god. or do you think that the scripture saith in vain: to envy doth the spirit covet which dwelleth in you? but he giveth greater grace. wherefore he saith: god resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble. be subject therefore to god, but resist the devil, and he will fly from you. draw nigh to god, and he will draw nigh to you. cleanse your hands, ye sinners: and purify your hearts, ye double minded. be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned into mourning, and your joy into sorrow. be humbled in the sight of the lord, and he will exalt you. detract not one another, my brethren. he that detracteth his brother, or he that judgeth his brother, detracteth the law, and judgeth the law. but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge. there is one lawgiver, and judge, that is able to destroy and to deliver. but who art thou that judgest thy neighbour? behold, now you that say: to day or to morrow we will go into such a city, and there we will spend a year, and will traffic, and make our gain. whereas you know not what shall be on the morrow. for what is your life? it is a vapour which appeareth for a little while, and afterwards shall vanish away. for that you should say: if the lord will, and if we shall live, we will do this or that. but now you rejoice in your arrogancies. all such rejoicing is wicked. to him therefore who knoweth to do good, and doth it not, to him it is sin.

go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl in your miseries, which shall come upon you. your riches are corrupted: and your garments are moth-eaten. your gold and silver is cankered: and the rust of them shall be for a testimony against you, and shall eat your flesh like fire. you have stored up to yourselves wrath against the last days. behold the hire of the labourers, who have reaped down your fields, which by fraud has been kept back by you, crieth: and the cry of them hath entered into the ears of the lord of sabaoth. you have feasted upon earth: and in riotousness you have nourished your hearts, in the day of slaughter. you have condemned and put to death the just one, and he resisted you not. be patient therefore, brethren, until the coming of the lord. behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth: patiently bearing till he receive the early and latter rain. be you therefore also patient, and strengthen your hearts: for the coming of the lord is at hand. grudge not, brethren, one against another, that you may not be judged. behold the judge standeth before the door. take, my brethren, for an example of suffering evil, of labour and patience, the prophets, who spoke in the name of the lord. behold, we account them blessed who have endured. you have heard of the patience of job, and you have seen the end of the lord, that the lord is merciful and compassionate. but above all things, my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, nor by the earth, nor by any other oath. but let your speech be, yea, yea: no, no: that you fall not under judgment. is any of you sad? let him pray. is he cheerful in mind? let him sing. is any man sick among you? let him bring in the priests of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the lord. and the prayer of faith shall save the sick man: and the lord shall raise him up: and if he be in sins, they shall be forgiven him. confess therefore your sins one to another: and pray one for another, that you may be saved. for the continual prayer of a just man availeth much. elias was a man passible like unto us: and with prayer he prayed that it might not rain upon the earth, and it rained not for three years and six months. and he prayed again: and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit. my brethren, if any of you err from the truth, and one convert him: he must know that he who causeth a sinner to be converted from the error of his way, shall save his soul from death, and shall cover a multitude of sins.

peter, an apostle of jesus christ, to the strangers dispersed through pontus, galatia, cappadocia, asia, and bithynia, elect, according to the foreknowledge of god the father, unto the sanctification of the spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of jesus christ: grace unto you and peace be multiplied. blessed be the god and father of our lord jesus christ, who according to his great mercy hath regenerated us unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of jesus christ from the dead, unto an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that can not fade, reserved in heaven for you, who, by the power of god, are kept by faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time. wherein you shall greatly rejoice, if now you must be for a little time made sorrowful in divers temptations: that the trial of your faith (much more precious than gold which is tried by the fire) may be found unto praise and glory and honour at the appearing of jesus christ: whom having not seen, you love: in whom also now, though you see him not, you believe: and believing shall rejoice with joy unspeakable and glorified; receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls. of which salvation the prophets have inquired and diligently searched, who prophesied of the grace to come in you. searching what or what manner of time the spirit of christ in them did signify: when it foretold those sufferings that are in christ, and the glories that should follow: to whom it was revealed, that not to themselves, but to you they ministered those things which are now declared to you by them that have preached the gospel to you, the holy ghost being sent down from heaven, on whom the angels desire to look. wherefore having the loins of your mind girt up, being sober, trust perfectly in the grace which is offered you in the revelation of jesus christ, as children of obedience, not fashioned according to the former desires of your ignorance: but according to him that hath called you, who is holy, be you also in all manner of conversation holy: because it is written: you shall be holy, for i am holy. and if you invoke as father him who, without respect of persons, judgeth according to every one's work: converse in fear during the time of your sojourning here. knowing that you were not redeemed with corruptible things as gold or silver, from your vain conversation of the tradition of your fathers: but with the precious blood of christ, as of a lamb unspotted and undefiled, foreknown indeed before the foundation of the world, but manifested in the last times for you, who through him are faithful in god, who raised him up from the dead, and hath given him glory, that your faith and hope might be in god. purifying your souls in the obedience of charity, with a brotherly love, from a sincere heart love one another earnestly: being born again not of corruptible seed, but incorruptible, by the word of god who liveth and remaineth for ever. for all flesh is as grass; and all the glory thereof as the flower of grass. the grass is withered, and the flower thereof is fallen away. but the word of the lord endureth for ever. and this is the word which by the gospel hath been preached unto you.

wherefore laying away all malice, and all guile, and dissimulations, and envies, and all detractions, as newborn babes, desire the rational milk without guile, that thereby you may grow unto salvation: if so be you have tasted that the lord is sweet. unto whom coming, as to a living stone, rejected indeed by men, but chosen and made honourable by god: be you also as living stones built up, a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to god by jesus christ. wherefore it is said in the scripture: behold, i lay in sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious. and he that shall believe in him, shall not be confounded. to you therefore that believe, he is honour: but to them that believe not, the stone which the builders rejected, the same is made the head of the corner: and a stone of stumbling, and a rock of scandal, to them who stumble at the word, neither do believe, whereunto also they are set. but you are a chosen generation, a kingly priesthood, a holy nation, a purchased people: that you may declare his virtues, who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light: who in time past were not a people: but are now the people of god. who had not obtained mercy; but now have obtained mercy. dearly beloved, i beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, to refrain yourselves from carnal desires which war against the soul, having your conversation good among the gentiles: that whereas they speak against you as evildoers, they may, by the good works, which they shall behold in you, glorify god in the day of visitation. be ye subject therefore to every human creature for god's sake: whether it be to the king as excelling; or to governors as sent by him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of the good: for so is the will of god, that by doing well you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men: as free, and not as making liberty a cloak for malice, but as the servants of god. honour all men. love the brotherhood. fear god. honour the king. servants, be subject to your masters with all fear, not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward. for this is thankworthy, if for conscience towards god, a man endure sorrows, suffering wrongfully. for what glory is it, if committing sin, and being buffeted for it, you endure? but if doing well you suffer patiently; this is thankworthy before god. for unto this are you called: because christ also suffered for us, leaving you an example that you should follow his steps. who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth. who, when he was reviled, did not revile: when he suffered, he threatened not: but delivered himself to him that judged him unjustly. who his own self bore our sins in his body upon the tree: that we, being dead to sins, should live to justice: by whose stripes you were healed. for you were as sheep going astray; but you are now converted to the shepherd and bishop of your souls.

in like manner also let wives be subject to their husbands: that if any believe not the word, they may be won without the word, by the conversation of the wives. considering your chaste conversation with fear. whose adorning let it not be the outward plaiting of the hair, or the wearing of gold, or the putting on of apparel: but the hidden man of the heart in the incorruptibility of a quiet and a meek spirit, which is rich in the sight of god. for after this manner heretofore the holy women also, who trusted in god, adorned themselves, being in subjection to their own husbands: as sara obeyed abraham, calling him lord: whose daughters you are, doing well, and not fearing any disturbance. ye husbands, likewise dwelling with them according to knowledge, giving honour to the female as to the weaker vessel, and as to the co-heirs of the grace of life: that your prayers be not hindered. and in fine, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, being lovers of the brotherhood, merciful, modest, humble: not rendering evil for evil, nor railing for railing, but contrariwise, blessing: for unto this are you called, that you may inherit a blessing. for he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile. let him decline from evil, and do good: let him seek after peace and pursue it: because the eyes of the lord are upon the just, and his ears unto their prayers: but the countenance of the lord upon them that do evil things. and who is he that can hurt you, if you be zealous of good? but if also you suffer any thing for justice' sake, blessed are ye. and be not afraid of their fear, and be not troubled. but sanctify the lord christ in your hearts, being ready always to satisfy every one that asketh you a reason of that hope which is in you. but with modesty and fear, having a good conscience: that whereas they speak evil of you, they may be ashamed who falsely accuse your good conversation in christ. for it is better doing well (if such be the will of god) to suffer, than doing ill. because christ also died once for our sins, the just for the unjust: that he might offer us to god, being put to death indeed in the flesh, but enlivened in the spirit, in which also coming he preached to those spirits that were in prison: which had been some time incredulous, when they waited for the patience of god in the days of noe, when the ark was a building: wherein a few, that is, eight souls, were saved by water. whereunto baptism being of the like form, now saveth you also: not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the examination of a good conscience towards god by the resurrection of jesus christ. who is on the right hand of god, swallowing down death, that we might be made heirs of life everlasting: being gone into heaven, the angels and powers and virtues being made subject to him.

christ therefore having suffered in the flesh, be you also armed with the same thought: for he that hath suffered in the flesh, hath ceased from sins: that now he may live the rest of his time in the flesh, not after the desires of men, but according to the will of god. for the time past is sufficient to have fulfilled the will of the gentiles, for them who have walked in riotousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and unlawful worshipping of idols. wherein they think it strange, that you run not with them into the same confusion of riotousness, speaking evil of you. who shall render account to him, who is ready to judge the living and the dead. for, for this cause was the gospel preached also to the dead: that they might be judged indeed according to men, in the flesh; but may live according to god, in the spirit. but the end of all is at hand. be prudent therefore, and watch in prayers. but before all things have a constant mutual charity among yourselves: for charity covereth a multitude of sins. using hospitality one towards another, without murmuring, as every man hath received grace, ministering the same one to another: as good stewards of the manifold grace of god. if any man speak, let him speak, as the words of god. if any man minister, let him do it, as of the power, which god administereth: that in all things god may be honoured through jesus christ: to whom is glory and empire for ever and ever. amen. dearly beloved, think not strange the burning heat which is to try you, as if some new thing happened to you; but if you partake of the sufferings of christ, rejoice that when his glory shall be revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. if you be reproached for the name of christ, you shall be blessed: for that which is of the honour, glory, and power of god, and that which is his spirit, resteth upon you. but let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or a railer, or a coveter of other men's things. but if as a christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify god in that name. for the time is, that judgment should begin at the house of god. and if first at us, what shall be the end of them that believe not the gospel of god? and if the just man shall scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? wherefore let them also that suffer according to the will of god, commend their souls in good deeds to the faithful creator.

the ancients therefore that are among you, i beseech, who am myself also an ancient, and a witness of the sufferings of christ: as also a partaker of that glory which is to be revealed in time to come: feed the flock of god which is among you, taking care of it, not by constraint, but willingly, according to god: not for filthy lucre's sake, but voluntarily: neither as lording it over the clergy, but being made a pattern of the flock from the heart. and when the prince of pastors shall appear, you shall receive a never fading crown of glory. in like manner, ye young men, be subject to the ancients. and do you all insinuate humility one to another, for god resisteth the proud, but to the humble he giveth grace. be you humbled therefore under the mighty hand of god, that he may exalt you in the time of visitation: casting all your care upon him, for he hath care of you. be sober and watch: because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, goeth about seeking whom he may devour. whom resist ye, strong in faith: knowing that the same affliction befalls your brethren who are in the world.

but the god of all grace, who hath called us into his eternal glory in christ jesus, after you have suffered a little, will himself perfect you, and confirm you, and establish you. to him be glory and empire for ever and ever. amen. by sylvanus, a faithful brother unto you, as i think, i have written briefly: beseeching and testifying that this is the true grace of god, wherein you stand. the church that is in babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you: and so doth my son mark. salute one another with a holy kiss. grace be to all you, who are in christ jesus. amen.

simon peter, servant and apostle of jesus christ, to them that have obtained equal faith with us in the justice of our god and saviour jesus christ. grace to you and peace be accomplished in the knowledge of god and of christ jesus our lord: as all things of his divine power which appertain to life and godliness, are given us, through the knowledge of him who hath called us by his own proper glory and virtue. by whom he hath given us most great and precious promises: that by these you may be made partakers of the divine nature: flying the corruption of that concupiscence which is in the world. and you, employing all care, minister in your faith, virtue; and in virtue, knowledge; and in knowledge, abstinence; and in abstinence, patience; and in patience, godliness; and in godliness, love of brotherhood; and in love of brotherhood, charity. for if these things be with you and abound, they will make you to be neither empty nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our lord jesus christ. for he that hath not these things with him, is blind, and groping, having forgotten that he was purged from his old sins. wherefore, brethren, labour the more, that by good works you may make sure your calling and election. for doing these things, you shall not sin at any time. for so an entrance shall be ministered to you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our lord and saviour jesus christ. for which cause i will begin to put you always in remembrance of these things: though indeed you know them, and are confirmed in the present truth. but i think it meet as long as i am in this tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance. being assured that the laying away of this my tabernacle is at hand, according as our lord jesus christ also hath signified to me. and i will endeavour, that you frequently have after my decease, whereby you may keep a memory of these things. for we have not by following artificial fables, made known to you the power, and presence of our lord jesus christ; but we were eyewitnesses of his greatness. for he received from god the father, honour and glory: this voice coming down to him from the excellent glory: this is my beloved son, in whom i am well pleased; hear ye him. and this voice we heard brought from heaven, when we were with him in the holy mount. and we have the more firm prophetic word: whereunto you do well to attend, as to a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts: understanding this first, that no prophecy of scripture is made by private interpretation. for prophecy came not by the will of man at any time: but the holy men of god spoke, inspired by the holy ghost.

but there were also false prophets among the people, even as there shall be among you lying teachers, who shall bring in sects of perdition, and deny the lord who bought them: bringing upon themselves swift destruction. and many shall follow their riotousnesses, through whom the way of truth shall be

evil spoken of. and through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you. whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their perdition slumbereth not. for if god spared not the angels that sinned, but delivered them, drawn down by infernal ropes to the lower hell, unto torments, to be reserved unto judgment: and spared not the original world, but preserved noe, the eighth person, the preacher of justice, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly. and reducing the cities of the sodomites, and of the gomorrhites, into ashes, condemned them to be overthrown, making them an example to those that should after act wickedly. and delivered just lot, oppressed by the injustice and lewd conversation of the wicked. for in sight and hearing he was just: dwelling among them, who from day to day vexed the just soul with unjust works. the lord knoweth how to deliver the godly from temptation, but to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be tormented. and especially them who walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government, audacious, self willed, they fear not to bring in sects, blaspheming. whereas angels who are greater in strength and power, bring not against themselves a railing judgment. but these men, as irrational beasts, naturally tending to the snare and to destruction, blaspheming those things which they know not, shall perish in their corruption, receiving the reward of their injustice, counting for a pleasure the delights of a day: stains and spots, sporting themselves to excess, rioting in their feasts with you: having eyes full of adultery and of sin that ceaseth not: alluring unstable souls, having their heart exercised with covetousness, children of malediction: leaving the right way they have gone astray, having followed the way of balaam of bosor, who loved the wages of iniquity, but had a check of his madness, the dumb beast used to the yoke, which speaking with man's voice, forbade the folly of the prophet. these are fountains without water, and clouds tossed with whirlwinds, to whom the mist of darkness is reserved. for, speaking proud words of vanity, they allure by the desires of fleshly riotousness, those who for a little while escape, such as converse in error: promising them liberty, whereas they themselves are the slaves of corruption. for by whom a man is overcome, of the same also he is the slave. for if, flying from the pollutions of the world, through the knowledge of our lord and saviour jesus christ, they be again entangled in them and overcome: their latter state is become unto them worse than the former. for it had been better for them not to have known the way of justice, than after they have known it, to turn back from that holy commandment which was delivered to them. for, that of the true proverb has happened to them: the dog is returned to his vomit: and, the sow that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire.

behold this second epistle i write to you, my dearly beloved, in which i stir up by way of admonition your sincere mind: that you may be mindful of those words which i told you before from the holy prophets, and of your apostles, of the precepts of the lord and saviour. knowing this first, that in the last days there shall come deceitful scoffers, walking after their own lusts, saying: where is his promise or his coming? for since the time that the fathers slept, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. for this they are wilfully ignorant of, that the heavens were before, and the earth out of water, and through water, consisting by the word of god. whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished. but the heavens and the earth which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of the ungodly men. but of this one thing be not ignorant, my beloved, that one day with the lord is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. the lord delayeth not his promise, as some imagine, but dealeth patiently for your sake, not willing that any should perish, but that all should return to penance. but the day of the lord shall come as a thief, in which the heavens shall pass away with great violence, and the elements shall be melted with heat, and the earth and the works which are in it, shall be burnt up. seeing then that all these things are to be dissolved, what manner of people ought you to be in holy conversation and godliness? looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of the lord, by which the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with the burning heat? but we look for new heavens and a new earth according to his promises, in which justice dwelleth. wherefore, dearly beloved, waiting for these things, be diligent that you may be found before him unspotted and blameless in peace. and account the longsuffering of our lord, salvation; as also our most dear brother paul, according to the wisdom given him, hath written to you: as also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are certain things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, to their own destruction. you therefore, brethren, knowing these things before, take heed, lest being led aside by the error of the unwise, you fall from your own steadfastness. but grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our lord and saviour jesus christ. to him be glory both now and unto the day of eternity. amen.

that which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, of the word of life: for the life was manifested; and we have seen and do bear witness, and declare unto you the life eternal, which was with the father, and hath appeared to us: that which we have seen and have heard, we declare unto you, that you also may have fellowship with us, and our fellowship may be with the father, and with his son jesus christ. and these things we write to you, that you may rejoice, and your joy may be full. and this is the declaration which we have heard from him, and declare unto you: that god is light, and in him there is no darkness. if we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth. but if we walk in the light, as he also is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of jesus christ his son cleanseth us from all sin. if we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. if we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all iniquity. if we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

my little children, these things i write to you, that you may not sin. but if any man sin, we have an advocate with the father, jesus christ the just: and he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for those of the whole world. and by this we know that we have known him, if we keep his commandments. he who saith that he knoweth him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. but he that keepeth his word, in him in very deed the charity of god is perfected; and by this we know that we are in him. he that saith he abideth in him, ought himself also to walk, even as he walked. dearly beloved, i write not a new commandment to you, but an old commandment which you had from the beginning. the old commandment is the word which you have heard. again a new commandment i write unto you, which thing is true both in him and in you; because the darkness is passed, and the true light now shineth. he that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now. he that loveth his brother, abideth in the light, and there is no scandal in him. but he that hateth his brother, is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth; because the darkness hath blinded his eyes. i write unto you, little children, because your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake. i write unto you, fathers, because you have known him, who is from the beginning. i write unto you, young men, because you have overcome the wicked one. i write unto you, babes, because you have known the father. i write unto you, young men, because you are strong, and the word of god abideth in you, and you have overcome the wicked one. love not the world, nor the things which are in the world. if any man love the world, the charity of the father is not in him. for all that is in the world, is the concupiscence of the flesh, and the concupiscence of the eyes, and the pride of life, which is not of the father, but is of the world. and the world passeth away, and the concupiscence thereof: but he that doth the will of god, abideth for ever. little children, it is the last hour; and as you have heard that antichrist cometh, even now there are become many antichrists: whereby we know that it is the last hour. they went out from us, but they were not of us. for if they had been of us, they would no doubt have remained with us; but that they may be manifest, that they are not all of us. but you have the unction from the holy one, and know all things. i have not written to you as to them that know not the truth, but as to them that know it: and that no lie is of the truth. who is a liar, but he who denieth that jesus is the christ? this is antichrist, who denieth the father, and the son. whosoever denieth the son, the same hath not the father. he that confesseth the son, hath the father also. as for you, let that which you have heard from the beginning, abide in you. if that abide in you, which you have heard from the beginning, you also shall abide in the son, and in the father. and this is the promise which he hath promised us, life everlasting. these things have i written to you, concerning them that seduce you. and as for you, let the unction, which you have received from him, abide in you. and you have no need that any man teach you; but as his unction teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie. and as it hath taught you, abide in him. and now, little children, abide in him, that when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be confounded by him at his coming. if you know, that he is just, know ye, that every one also, who doth justice, is born of him.

behold what manner of charity the father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called, and should be the sons of god. therefore the world knoweth not us, because it knew not him. dearly beloved, we are now the sons of god; and it hath not yet appeared what we shall be. we know, that, when he shall appear, we shall be like to him: because we shall see him as he is. and every one that hath this hope in him, sanctifieth himself, as he also is holy. whosoever committeth sin committeth also iniquity; and sin is iniquity. and you know that he appeared to take away our sins, and in him there is no sin. whosoever abideth in him, sinneth not; and whosoever sinneth, hath not seen him, nor known him. little children, let no man deceive you. he that doth justice is just, even as he is just. he that committeth sin is of the devil: for the devil sinneth from the beginning. for this purpose, the son of god appeared, that he might destroy the works of the devil. whosoever is born of god, committeth not sin: for his seed abideth in him, and he can not sin, because he is born of god. in this the children of god are manifest, and the children of the devil. whosoever is not just, is not of god, nor he that loveth not his brother. for this is the declaration, which you have heard from the beginning, that you should love one another. not as cain, who was of the wicked one, and killed his brother. and wherefore did he kill him? because his own works were wicked: and his brother's just. wonder not, brethren, if the world hate you. we know that we have passed from death to life, because we love the brethren. he that loveth not, abideth in death. whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer. and you know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in himself. in this we have known the charity of god, because he hath laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren. he that hath the substance of this world, and shall see his brother in need, and shall shut up his bowels from him: how doth the charity of god abide in him? my little children, let us not love in word, nor in tongue, but in deed, and in truth. in this we know that we are of the truth: and in his sight shall persuade our hearts. for if our heart reprehend us, god is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things. dearly beloved, if our heart do not reprehend us, we have confidence towards god: and whatsoever we shall ask, we shall receive of him: because we keep his commandments, and do those things which are pleasing in his sight. and this is his commandment, that we should believe in the name of his son jesus christ: and love one another, as he hath given commandment unto us. and he that keepeth his commandments, abideth in him, and he in him. and in this we know that he abideth in us, by the spirit which he hath given us.

dearly beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits if they be of god: because many false prophets are gone out into the world. by this is the spirit of god known. every spirit which confesseth that jesus christ is come in the flesh, is of god: and every spirit that dissolveth jesus, is not of god: and this is antichrist, of whom you have heard that he cometh, and he is now already in the world. you are of god, little children, and have overcome him. because greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world. they are of the world: therefore of the world they speak, and the world heareth them. we are of god. he that knoweth god, heareth us. he that is not of god, heareth us not. by this we know the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error. dearly beloved, let us love one another, for charity is of god. and every one that loveth, is born of god, and knoweth god. he that loveth not, knoweth not god: for god is charity. by this hath the charity of god appeared towards us, because god hath sent his only begotten son into the world, that we may live by him. in this is charity: not as though we had loved god, but because he hath first loved us, and sent his son to be a propitiation for our sins. my dearest, if god hath so loved us; we also ought to love one another. no man hath seen god at any time. if we love one another, god abideth in us, and his charity is perfected in us. in this we know that we abide in him, and he in us: because he hath given us of his spirit. and we have seen, and do testify, that the father hath sent his son to be the saviour of the world. whosoever shall confess that jesus is the son of god, god abideth in him, and he in god. and we have known, and have believed the charity, which god hath to us. god is charity: and he that abideth in charity, abideth in god, and god in him. in this is the charity of god perfected with us, that we may have confidence in the day of judgment: because as he is, we also are in this world. fear is not in charity: but perfect charity casteth out fear, because fear hath pain. and he that feareth, is not perfected in charity. let us therefore love god, because god first hath loved us. if any man say, i love god, and hateth his brother; he is a liar. for he that loveth not his brother, whom he seeth, how can he love god, whom he seeth not? and this commandment we have from god, that he, who loveth god, love also his brother.

whosoever believeth that jesus is the christ, is born of god. and every one that loveth him who begot, loveth him also who is born of him. in this we know that we love the children of god: when we love god, and keep his commandments. for this is the charity of god, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not heavy. for whatsoever is born of god, overcometh the world: and this is the victory which overcometh the world, our faith. who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that jesus is the son of god? this is he that came by water and blood, jesus christ: not by water only, but by water and blood. and it is the spirit which testifieth, that christ is the truth. and there are three who give testimony in heaven, the father, the word, and the holy ghost. and these three are one. and there are three that give testimony on earth: the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three are one. if we receive the testimony of men, the testimony of god is greater. for this is the testimony of god, which is greater, because he hath testified of his son. he that believeth in the son of god, hath the testimony of god in himself. he that believeth not the son, maketh him a liar: because he believeth not in the testimony which god hath testified of his son. and this is the testimony, that god hath given to us eternal life. and this life is in his son. he that hath the son, hath life. he that hath not the son, hath not life. these things i write to you, that you may know that you have eternal life, you who believe in the name of the son of god. and this is the confidence which we have towards him: that, whatsoever we shall ask according to his will, he heareth us. and we know that he heareth us whatsoever we ask: we know that we have the petitions which we request of him. he that knoweth his brother to sin a sin which is not to death, let him ask, and life shall be given to him, who sinneth not to death. there is a sin unto death: for that i say not that any man ask. all iniquity is sin. and there is a sin unto death. we know that whosoever is born of god, sinneth not: but the generation of god preserveth him, and the wicked one toucheth him not. we know that we are of god, and the whole world is seated in wickedness. and we know that the son of god is come: and he hath given us understanding that we may know the true god, and may be in his true son. this is the true god and life eternal. little children, keep yourselves from idols. amen.

the ancient to the lady elect, and her children, whom i love in the truth, and not i only, but also all they that have known the truth, for the sake of the truth which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever. grace be with you, mercy, and peace from god the father, and from christ jesus the son of the father; in truth and charity. i was exceeding glad, that i found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment from the father. and now i beseech thee, lady, not as writing a new commandment to thee, but that which we have had from the beginning, that we love one another. and this is charity, that we walk according to his commandments. for this is the commandment, that, as you have heard from the beginning, you should walk in the same: for many seducers are gone out into the world, who confess not that jesus christ is come in the flesh: this is a seducer and an antichrist. look to yourselves, that you lose not the things which you have wrought: but that you may receive a full reward. whosoever revolteth, and continueth not in the doctrine of christ, hath not god. he that continueth in the doctrine, the same hath both the father and the son. if any man come to you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into the house nor say to him, god speed you. for he that saith unto him, god speed you, communicateth with his wicked works. having more things to write unto you, i would not by paper and ink: for i hope that i shall be with you, and speak face to face: that your joy may be full. the children of thy sister elect salute thee.

the ancient to the dearly beloved gaius, whom i love in truth. dearly beloved, concerning all things i make it my prayer that thou mayest proceed prosperously, and fare well as thy soul doth prosperously. i was exceedingly glad when the brethren came and gave testimony to the truth in thee, even as thou walkest in the truth. i have no greater grace than this, to hear that my children walk in truth. dearly beloved, thou dost faithfully whatever thou dost for the brethren, and that for strangers, who have given testimony to thy charity in the sight of the church: whom thou shalt do well to bring forward on their way in a manner worthy of god. because, for his name they went out, taking nothing of the gentiles. we therefore ought to receive such, that we may be fellow helpers of the truth. i had written perhaps to the church: but diotrephes, who loveth to have the pre-eminence among them, doth not receive us. for this cause, if i come, i will advertise his works which he doth, with malicious words prating against us. and as if these things were not enough for him, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and them that do receive them he forbiddeth, and casteth out of the church. dearly beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. he that doth good, is of god: he that doth evil, hath not seen god. to demetrius testimony is given by all, and by the truth itself, yea and we also give testimony: and thou knowest that our testimony is true. i had many things to write unto thee: but i would not by ink and pen write to thee. but i hope speedily to see thee, and we will speak mouth to mouth. peace be to thee. our friends salute thee. salute the friends by name.

jude, the servant of jesus christ, and brother of james: to them that are beloved in god the father, and preserved in jesus christ, and called. mercy unto you, and peace, and charity be fulfilled. dearly beloved, taking all care to write unto you concerning your common salvation, i was under a necessity to write unto you: to beseech you to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints. for certain men are secretly entered in, (who were written of long ago unto this judgment,) ungodly men, turning the grace of our lord god into riotousness, and denying the only sovereign ruler, and our lord jesus christ. i will therefore admonish you, though ye once knew all things, that jesus, having saved the people out of the land of egypt, did afterwards destroy them that believed not: and the angels who kept not their principality, but forsook their own habitation, he hath reserved under darkness in everlasting chains, unto the judgment of the great day. as sodom and gomorrha, and the neighbouring cities, in like manner, having given themselves to fornication, and going after other flesh, were made an example, suffering the punishment of eternal fire. in like manner these men also defile the flesh, and despise dominion, and blaspheme majesty. when michael the archangel, disputing with the devil, contended about the body of moyses, he durst not bring against him the judgment of railing speech, but said: the lord command thee. but these men blaspheme whatever things they know not: and what things soever they naturally know, like dumb beasts, in these they are corrupted. woe unto them, for they have gone in the way of cain: and after the error of balaam they have for reward poured out themselves, and have perished in the contradiction of core. these are spots in their banquets, feasting together without fear, feeding themselves, clouds without water, which are carried about by winds, trees of the autumn, unfruitful, twice dead, plucked up by the roots, raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own confusion; wandering stars, to whom the storm of darkness is reserved for ever. now of these enoch also, the seventh from adam, prophesied, saying: behold, the lord cometh with thousands of his saints, to execute judgment upon all, and to reprove all the ungodly for all the works of their ungodliness, whereby they have done ungodly, and of all the hard things which ungodly sinners have spoken against god. these are murmurers, full of complaints, walking according to their own desires, and their mouth speaketh proud things, admiring persons for gain's sake. but you, my dearly beloved, be mindful of the words which have been spoken before by the apostles of our lord jesus christ, who told you, that in the last time there should come mockers, walking according to their own desires in ungodlinesses. these are they, who separate themselves, sensual men, having not the spirit. but you, my beloved, building yourselves upon you most holy faith, praying in the holy ghost, keep yourselves in the love of god, waiting for the mercy of our lord jesus christ, unto life everlasting. and some indeed reprove, being judged: but others save, pulling them out of the fire. and on others have mercy, in fear, hating also the spotted garment which is carnal. now to him who is able to preserve you without sin, and to present you spotless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, in the coming of our lord jesus christ, to the only god our saviour through jesus christ our lord, be glory and magnificence, empire and power, before all ages, and now, and for all ages of ages. amen.

the book of the generation of jesus christ, the son of david, the son of abraham: abraham begot isaac. and isaac begot jacob. and jacob begot judas and his brethren. and judas begot phares and zara of thamar. and phares begot esron. and esron begot aram. and aram begot aminadab. and aminadab begot naasson. and naasson begot salmon. and salmon begot booz of rahab. and booz begot obed of ruth. and obed begot jesse. and jesse begot david the king. and david the king begot solomon, of her that had been the wife of urias. and solomon begot roboam. and roboam begot abia. and abia begot asa. and asa begot josaphat. and josaphat begot joram. and joram begot ozias. and ozias begot joatham. and joatham begot achaz. and achaz begot ezechias. and ezechias begot manasses. and manasses begot amon. and amon begot josias. and josias begot jechonias and his brethren in the transmigration of babylon. and after the transmigration of babylon, jechonias begot salathiel. and salathiel begot zorobabel. and zorobabel begot abiud. and abiud begot eliacim. and eliacim begot azor. and azor begot sadoc. and sadoc begot achim. and achim begot eliud. and eliud begot eleazar. and eleazar begot mathan. and mathan begot jacob. and jacob begot joseph the husband of mary, of whom was born jesus, who is called christ. so all the generations, from abraham to david, are fourteen generations. and from david to the transmigration of babylon, are fourteen generations: and from the transmigration of babylon to christ are fourteen generations. now the generation of christ was in this wise. when as his mother mary was espoused to joseph, before they came together, she was found with child, of the holy ghost. whereupon joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing publicly to expose her, was minded to put her away privately. but while he thought on these things, behold the angel of the lord appeared to him in his sleep, saying: joseph, son of david, fear not to take unto thee mary thy wife, for that which is conceived in her, is of the holy ghost. and she shall bring forth a son: and thou shalt call his name jesus. for he shall save his people from their sins. now all this was done that it might be fulfilled which the lord spoke by the prophet, saying: behold a virgin shall be with child, and bring forth a son, and they shall call his name emmanuel, which being interpreted is, god with us. and joseph rising up from sleep, did as the angel of the lord had commanded him, and took unto him his wife. and he knew her not till she brought forth her firstborn son: and he called his name jesus.

when jesus therefore was born in bethlehem of juda, in the days of king herod, behold, there came wise men from the east to jerusalem. saying, where is he that is born king of the jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to adore him. and king herod hearing this, was troubled, and all jerusalem with him. and assembling together all the chief priests and the scribes of the people, he inquired of them where christ should be born. but they said to him: in bethlehem of juda. for so it is written by the prophet: and thou bethlehem the land of juda art not the least among the princes of juda: for out of thee shall come forth the captain that shall rule my people israel. then herod, privately calling the wise men, learned diligently of them the time of the star which appeared to them; and sending them into bethlehem, said: go and diligently inquire after the child, and when you have found him, bring me word again, that i also may come to adore him. who having heard the king, went their way; and behold the star which they had seen in the east, went before them, until it came and stood over where the child was. and seeing the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. and entering into the house, they found the child with mary his mother, and falling down they adored him; and opening their treasures, they offered him gifts; gold, frankincense, and myrrh. and having received an answer in sleep that they should not return to herod, they went back another way into their country. and after they were departed, behold an angel of the lord appeared in sleep to joseph, saying: arise, and take the child and his mother, and fly into egypt: and be there until i shall tell thee. for it will come to pass that herod will seek the child to destroy him. who arose, and took the child and his mother by night, and retired into egypt: and he was there until the death of herod: that it might be fulfilled which the lord spoke by the prophet, saying: out of egypt have i called my son. then herod perceiving that he was deluded by the wise men, was exceeding angry; and sending killed all the men children that were in bethlehem, and in all the borders thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men. then was fulfilled that which was spoken by jeremias the prophet, saying: a voice in rama was heard, lamentation and great mourning; rachel bewailing her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not. but when herod was dead, behold an angel of the lord appeared in sleep to joseph in egypt, saying: arise, and take the child and his mother, and go into the land of israel. for they are dead that sought the life of the child. who arose, and took the child and his mother, and came into the land of israel. but hearing that archelaus reigned in judea in the room of herod his father, he was afraid to go thither: and being warned in sleep retired into the quarters of galilee. and coming he dwelt in a city called nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was said by prophets: that he shall be called a nazarene.

and in those days cometh john the baptist preaching in the desert of judea. and saying: do penance: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. for this is he that was spoken of by isaias the prophet, saying: a voice of one crying in the desert, prepare ye the way of the lord, make straight his paths. and the same john had his garment of camels' hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins: and his meat was locusts and wild honey. then went out to him jerusalem and all judea, and all the country about jordan: and were baptized by him in the jordan, confessing their sins. and seeing many of the pharisees and sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them: ye brood of vipers, who hath shewed you to flee from the wrath to come? bring forth therefore fruit worthy of penance. and think not to say within yourselves, we have abraham for our father. for i tell you that god is able of these stones to raise up children to abraham. for now the axe is laid to the root of the trees. every tree therefore that doth not yield good fruit, shall be cut down, and cast into the fire. i indeed baptize you in the water unto penance, but he that shall come after me, is mightier than i, whose shoes i am not worthy to bear; he shall baptize you in the holy ghost and fire. whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly cleanse his floor and gather his wheat into the barn; but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire. then cometh jesus from galilee to the jordan, unto john, to be baptized by him. but john stayed him, saying: i ought to be baptized by thee, and comest thou to me? and jesus answering, said to him: suffer it to be so now. for so it becometh us to fulfill all justice. then he suffered him. and jesus being baptized, forthwith came out of the water: and lo, the heavens were opened to him: and he saw the spirit of god descending as a dove, and coming upon him. and behold a voice from heaven, saying: this is my beloved son, in whom i am well pleased.

then jesus was led by the spirit into the desert, to be tempted by the devil. and when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, afterwards he was hungry. and the tempter coming said to him: if thou be the son of god, command that these stones be made bread. who answered and said: it is written, not in bread alone doth man live, but in every word that proceedeth from the mouth of god. then the devil took him up into the holy city, and set him upon the pinnacle of the temple, and said to him: if thou be the son of god, cast thyself down, for it is written: that he hath given his angels charge over thee, and in their hands shall they bear thee up, lest perhaps thou dash thy foot against a stone. jesus said to him: it is written again: thou shalt not tempt the lord thy god. again the devil took him up into a very high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them, and said to him: all these will i give thee, if falling down thou wilt adore me. then jesus saith to him: begone, satan: for it is written, the lord thy god shalt thou adore, and him only shalt thou serve. then the devil left him; and behold angels came and ministered to him. and when jesus had heard that john was delivered up, he retired into galilee: and leaving the city nazareth, he came and dwelt in capharnaum on the sea coast, in the borders of zabulon and nephthalim; that it might be fulfilled which was said by isaias the prophet: land of zabulon and land of nephthalim, the way of the sea beyond the jordan, galilee of the gentiles: the people that sat in darkness, hath seen great light: and to them that sat in the region of the shadow of death, light is sprung up. from that time jesus began to preach, and to say: do penance, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. and jesus walking by the sea of galilee, saw two brethren, simon who is called peter, and andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers). and he saith to them: come ye after me, and i will make you to be fishers of men. and they immediately leaving their nets, followed him. and going on from thence, he saw other two brethren, james the son of zebedee, and john his brother, in a ship with zebedee their father, mending their nets: and he called them. and they forthwith left their nets and father, and followed him. and jesus went about all galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom: and healing all manner of sickness and every infirmity, among the people. and his fame went throughout all syria, and they presented to him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and such as were possessed by devils, and lunatics, and those that had palsy, and he cured them: and much people followed him from galilee, and from decapolis, and from jerusalem, and from judea, and from beyond the jordan.

and seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain, and when he was set down, his disciples came unto him. and opening his mouth, he taught them, saying: blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. blessed are the meek: for they shall possess the land. blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. blessed are they that hunger and thirst after justice: for they shall have their fill. blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. blessed are the clean of heart: for they shall see god. blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called children of god. blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. blessed are ye when they shall revile you, and persecute you, and speak all that is evil against you, untruly, for my sake: be glad and rejoice, for your reward is very great in heaven. for so they persecuted the prophets that were before you. you are the salt of the earth. but if the salt lose its savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is good for nothing any more but to be cast out, and to be trodden on by men. you are the light of the world. a city seated on a mountain cannot be hid. neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but upon a candlestick, that it may shine to all that are in the house. so let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your father who is in heaven. do not think that i am come to destroy the law, or the prophets. i am not come to destroy, but to fulfill. for amen i say unto you, till heaven and earth pass, one jot, or one tittle shall not pass of the law, till all be fulfilled. he therefore that shall break one of these least commandments, and shall so teach men, shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven. but he that shall do and teach, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. for i tell you, that unless your justice abound more than that of the scribes and pharisees, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. you have heard that it was said to them of old: thou shalt not kill. and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment. but i say to you, that whosoever is angry with his brother, shall be in danger of the judgment. and whosoever shall say to his brother, raca, shall be in danger of the council. and whosoever shall say, thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. if therefore thou offer thy gift at the altar, and there thou remember that thy brother hath any thing against thee; leave there thy offering before the altar, and go first to be reconciled to thy brother: and then coming thou shalt offer thy gift. be at agreement with thy adversary betimes, whilst thou art in the way with him: lest perhaps the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. amen i say to thee, thou shalt not go out from thence till thou repay the last farthing. you have heard that it was said to them of old: thou shalt not commit adultery. but i say to you, that whosoever shall look on a woman to lust after her, hath already committed adultery with her in his heart. and if thy right eye scandalize thee, pluck it out and cast it from thee. for it is expedient for thee that one of thy members should perish, rather than that thy whole body be cast into hell. and if thy right hand scandalize thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is expedient for thee that one of thy members should perish, rather than that thy whole body be cast into hell. and it hath been said, whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a bill of divorce. but i say to you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, excepting for the cause of fornication, maketh her to commit adultery: and he that shall marry her that is put away, committeth adultery. again you have heard that it was said to them of old, thou shalt not forswear thyself: but thou shalt perform thy oaths to the lord. but i say to you not to swear at all, neither by heaven, for it is the throne of god: nor by the earth, for it is his footstool: nor by jerusalem, for it is the city of the great king: neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black. but let your speech be yea, yea: no, no: and that which is over and above these, is of evil. you have heard that it hath been said, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. but i say to you not to resist evil: but if one strike thee on thy right cheek, turn to him also the other: and if a man will contend with thee in judgment, and take away thy coat, let go thy cloak also unto him. and whosoever will force thee one mile, go with him other two, give to him that asketh of thee and from him that would borrow of thee turn not away. you have heard that it hath been said, thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thy enemy. but i say to you, love your enemies: do good to them that hate you: and pray for them that persecute and calumniate you: that you may be the children of your father who is in heaven, who maketh his sun to rise upon the good, and bad, and raineth upon the just and the unjust. for if you love them that love you, what reward shall you have? do not even the publicans this? and if you salute your brethren only, what do you more? do not also the heathens this? be you therefore perfect,

take heed that you do not your justice before men, to be seen by them: otherwise you shall not have a reward of your father who is in heaven. therefore when thou dost an almsdeed, sound not a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may be honoured by men. amen i say to you, they have received their reward. but when thou dost alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doth. that thy alms may be in secret, and thy father who seeth in secret will repay thee. and when ye pray, you shall not be as the hypocrites, that love to stand and pray in the synagogues and corners of the streets, that they may be seen by men: amen i say to you, they have received their reward. but thou when thou shalt pray, enter into thy chamber, and having shut the door, pray to thy father in secret: and thy father who seeth in secret will repay thee. and when you are praying, speak not much, as the heathens. for they think that in their much speaking they may be heard. be not you therefore like to them, for your father knoweth what is needful for you, before you ask him. thus therefore shall you pray: our father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. thy kingdom come. thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. give us this day our superabundant bread. and forgive us our debts, as we also forgive our debtors. and lead us not into temptation. but deliver us from evil. amen. for if you will forgive men their offences, your heavenly father will forgive you also your offences. but if you will not forgive men, neither will your father forgive you your offences. and when you fast, be not as the hypocrites, sad. for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. amen i say to you, they have received their reward. but thou, when thou fastest anoint thy head, and wash thy face; that thou appear not to men to fast, but to thy father who is in secret: and thy father who seeth in secret, will repay thee. lay not up to yourselves treasures on earth: where the rust, and moth consume, and where thieves break through and steal. but lay up to yourselves treasures in heaven: where neither the rust nor moth doth consume, and where thieves do not break through, nor steal. for where thy treasure is, there is thy heart also. the light of thy body is thy eye. if thy eye be single, thy whole body shall be lightsome. but if thy eye be evil thy whole body shall be darksome. if then the light that is in thee, be darkness: the darkness itself how great shall it be! no man can serve two masters. for either he will hate the one, and love the other: or he will sustain the one, and despise the other. you cannot serve god and mammon. therefore i say to you, be not solicitous for your life, what you shall eat, nor for your body, what you shall put on. is not the life more than the meat: and the body more than the raiment? behold the birds of the air, for they neither sow, nor do they reap, nor gather into barns: and your heavenly father feedeth them. are not you of much more value than they? and which of you by taking thought, can add to his stature by one cubit? and for raiment why are you solicitous? consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they labour not, neither do they spin. but i say to you, that not even solomon in all his glory was arrayed as one of these. and if the grass of the field, which is to day, and to morrow is cast into the oven, god doth so clothe: how much more you, o ye of little faith? be not solicitous therefore, saying, what shall we eat: or what shall we drink, or wherewith shall we be clothed? for after all these things do the heathens seek. for your father knoweth that you have need of all these things. seek ye therefore first the kingdom of god, and his justice, and all these things shall be added unto you. be not therefore solicitous for to morrow; for the morrow will be solicitous for itself. sufficient for the day is the evil thereof.

judge not, that you may not be judged, for with what judgment you judge, you shall be judged: and with what measure you mete, it shall be measured to you again. any why seest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye; and seest not the beam that is in thy own eye? or how sayest thou to thy brother: let me cast the mote out of thy eye; and behold a beam is in thy own eye? thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam in thy own eye, and then shalt thou see to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye. give not that which is holy to dogs; neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest perhaps they trample them under their feet, and turning upon you, they tear you. ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and you shall find: knock, and it shall be opened to you. for every one that asketh, receiveth: and he that seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened. or what man is there among you, of whom if his son shall ask bread, will he reach him a stone? or if he shall ask him a fish, will he reach him a serpent? if you then being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children: how much more will your father who is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him? all things therefore whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do you also to them. for this is the law and the prophets. enter ye in at the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there are who go in thereat. how narrow is the gate, and strait is the way that leadeth to life: and few there are that find it! beware of false prophets, who come to you in the clothing of sheep, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. by their fruits you shall know them. do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit, and the evil tree bringeth forth evil fruit. a good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can an evil tree bring forth good fruit. every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit, shall be cut down, and shall be cast into the fire. wherefore by their fruits you shall know them. not every one that saith to me, lord, lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doth the will of my father who is in heaven, he shall enter into the kingdom of heaven. many will say to me in that day: lord, lord, have not we prophesied in thy name, and cast out devils in thy name, and done many miracles in thy name? and then will i profess unto them, i never knew you: depart from me, you that work iniquity. every one therefore that heareth these my words, and doth them, shall be likened to a wise man that built his house upon a rock, and the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and they beat upon that house, and it fell not, for it was founded on a rock. and every one that heareth these my words, and doth them not, shall be like a foolish man that built his house upon the sand, and the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and they beat upon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall thereof. and it came to pass when jesus had fully ended these words, the people were in admiration at his doctrine. for he was teaching them as one having power, and not as the scribes and pharisees.

and when he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him: and behold a leper came and adored him, saying: lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. and jesus stretching forth his hand, touched him, saying: i will, be thou made clean. and forthwith his leprosy was cleansed. and jesus saith to him: see thou tell no man: but go, shew thyself to the priest, and offer the gift which moyses commanded for a testimony unto them. and when he had entered into capharnaum, there came to him a centurion, beseeching him, and saying, lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, and is grievously tormented. and jesus saith to him: i will come and heal him. and the centurion making answer, said: lord, i am not worthy that thou shouldst enter under my roof: but only say the word, and my servant shall be healed. for i also am a man subject to authority, having under me soldiers; and i say to this, go, and he goeth, and to another, come, and he cometh, and to my servant, do this, and he doeth it. and jesus hearing this, marvelled; and said to them that followed him: amen i say to you, i have not found so great faith in israel. and i say to you that many shall come from the east and the west, and shall sit down with abraham, and isaac, and jacob in the kingdom of heaven: but the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into the exterior darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. and jesus said to the centurion: go, and as thou hast believed, so be it done to thee. and the servant was healed at the same hour. and when jesus was come into peter's house, he saw his wife's mother lying, and sick of a fever: and he touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she arose and ministered to them. and when evening was come, they brought to him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word: and all that were sick he healed: that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet isaias, saying: he took our infirmities, and bore our diseases. and jesus seeing great multitudes about him, gave orders to pass over the water. and a certain scribe came and said to him: master, i will follow thee whithersoever thou shalt go.

and jesus saith to him: the foxes have holes, and the birds of the air nests: but the son of man hath not where to lay his head. and another of his disciples said to him: lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. but jesus said to him: follow me, and let the dead bury their dead. and when he entered into the boat, his disciples followed him: and behold a great tempest arose in the sea, so that the boat was covered with waves, but he was asleep. and they came to him, and awaked him, saying: lord, save us, we perish. and jesus saith to them: why are you fearful, o ye of little faith? then rising up he commanded the winds, and the sea, and there came a great calm. but the men wondered, saying: what manner of man is this, for the winds and the sea obey him? and when he was come on the other side of the water, into the country of the gerasens, there met him two that were possessed with devils, coming out of the sepulchres, exceeding fierce, so that none could pass by that way. and behold they cried out, saying: what have we to do with thee, jesus son of god? art thou come hither to torment us before the time? and there was, not far from them, an herd of many swine feeding. and the devils besought him, saying: if thou cast us out hence, send us into the herd of swine. and he said to them: go. but they going out went into the swine, and behold the whole herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea: and they perished in the waters. and they that kept them fled: and coming into the city, told every thing, and concerning them that had been possessed by the devils. and behold the whole city went out to meet jesus, and when they saw him, they besought him that he would depart from their coasts.

and entering into a boat, he passed over the water and came into his own city. and behold they brought to him one sick of the palsy lying in a bed. and jesus, seeing their faith, said to the man sick of the palsy: be of good heart, son, thy sins are forgiven thee. and behold some of the scribes said within themselves: he blasphemeth. and jesus seeing their thoughts, said: why do you think evil in your hearts? whether is easier, to say, thy sins are forgiven thee: or to say, arise, and walk? but that you may know that the son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then said he to the man sick of palsy,) arise, take up thy bed, and go into thy house. and he arose, and went into his house. and the multitude seeing it, feared, and glorified god that gave such power to men. and when jesus passed on from hence, he saw a man sitting in the custom house, named matthew; and he saith to him: follow me. and he rose up and followed him. and it came to pass as he was sitting at meat in the house, behold many publicans and sinners came, and sat down with jesus and his disciples. and the pharisees seeing it, said to his disciples: why doth your master eat with publicans and sinners? but jesus hearing it, said: they that are in health need not a physician, but they that are ill. go then and learn what this meaneth, i will have mercy and not sacrifice. for i am not come to call the just, but sinners. then came to him the disciples of

john, saying: why do we and the pharisees fast often, but thy disciples do not fast? and jesus said to them: can the children of the bridegroom mourn, as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then they shall fast. and nobody putteth a piece of raw cloth unto an old garment. for it taketh away the fullness thereof from the garment, and there is made a greater rent. neither do they put new wine into old bottles. otherwise the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish. but new wine they put into new bottles: and both are preserved. and he was speaking these things unto them, behold a certain ruler came up, and adored him, saying: lord, my daughter is even now dead; but come, lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live. and jesus rising up followed him, with his disciples. and behold a woman who was troubled with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment. for she said within herself: if i shall touch only his garment, i shall be healed. but jesus turning and seeing her, said: be of good heart, daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole. and the woman was made whole from that hour. and when jesus was come into the house of the ruler, and saw the minstrels and the multitude making a rout, he said: give place, for the girl is not dead, but sleepeth. and they laughed him to scorn. and when the multitude was put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand. and the maid arose. and the fame hereof went abroad into all that country. and as jesus passed from thence, there followed him two blind men crying out and saying, have mercy on us, o son of david. and when he was come to the house, the blind men came to him. and jesus saith to them, do you believe, that i can do this unto you? they say to him, yea, lord. then he touched their eyes, saying, according to your faith, be it done unto you. and their eyes were opened, and jesus strictly charged them, saying, see that no man know this. but they going out, spread his fame abroad in all that country. and when they were gone out, behold they brought him a dumb man, possessed with a devil. and after the devil was cast out, the dumb man spoke, and the multitudes wondered, saying, never was the like seen in israel. but the pharisees said, by the prince of devils he casteth out devils. and jesus went about all the cities, and towns, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every disease, and every infirmity. and seeing the multitudes, he had compassion on them: because they were distressed, and lying like sheep that have no shepherd. then he saith to his disciples, the harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few. pray ye therefore the lord of the harvest, that he send forth labourers into his harvest.

and having called his twelve disciples together, he gave them power over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of diseases, and all manner of infirmities. and the names of the twelve apostles are these: the first, simon who is called peter, and andrew his brother, james the son of zebedee, and john his brother, philip and bartholomew, thomas and matthew the publican, and james the son of alpheus, and thaddeus, simon the cananean, and judas iscariot, who also betrayed him. these twelve jesus sent: commanding them, saying: go ye not into the way of the gentiles, and into the city of the samaritans enter ye not. but go ye rather to the lost sheep of the house of israel. and going, preach, saying: the kingdom of heaven is at hand. heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out devils: freely have you received, freely give. do not possess gold, nor silver, nor money in your purses: nor scrip for your journey, nor two coats, nor shoes, nor a staff; for the workman is worthy of his meat. and into whatsoever city or town you shall enter, inquire who in it is worthy, and there abide till you go thence. and when you come into the house, salute it, saying: peace be to this house. and if that house be worthy, your peace shall come upon it; but if it be not worthy, your peace shall return to you. and whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words: going forth out of that house or city shake off the dust from your feet. amen i say to you, it shall be more tolerable for the land of sodom and gomorra in the day of judgment, than for that city. behold i send you as sheep in the midst of wolves. be ye therefore wise as serpents and simple as doves. but beware of men. for they will deliver you up in councils, and they will scourge you in their synagogues. and you shall be brought before governors, and before kings for my sake, for a testimony to them and to the gentiles: but when they shall deliver you up, take no thought how or what to speak: for it shall be given you in that hour what to speak. for it is not you that speak, but the spirit of your father that speaketh in you. the brother also shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the son: and the children shall rise up against their parents, and shall put them to death. and you shall be hated by all men for my name's sake: but he that shall persevere unto the end, he shall be saved. and when they shall persecute you in this city, flee into another. amen i say to you, you shall not finish all the cities of israel, till the son of man come. the disciple is not above the master, nor the servant above his lord. it is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. if they have called the goodman of the house beelzebub, how much more them of his household? therefore fear them not. for nothing is covered that shall not be revealed: nor hid, that shall not be known. that which i tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light: and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the housetops. and fear ye not them that kill the body, and are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him that can destroy both soul and body in hell. are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and not one of them shall fall on the ground without your father. but the very hairs of your head are all numbered. fear not therefore: better are you than many sparrows. every one therefore that shall confess me before men, i will also confess him before my father who is in heaven. but he that shall deny me before men, i will also deny him before my father who is in heaven. do not think that i came to send peace upon earth: i came not to send peace, but the sword. for i came to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter in law against her mother in law. and as a man's enemies shall be they of his own household. he that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me. and he that taketh not up his cross, and followeth me, is not worthy of me. he that findeth his life, shall lose it: and he that shall lose his life for me, shall find it. he that receiveth you, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me. he that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet, shall receive the reward of a prophet: and he that receiveth a just man in the name of a just man, shall receive the reward of a just man. and whosoever shall give to drink to one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, amen i say to you, he shall not lose his reward.

and it came to pass, when jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he passed from thence, to teach and preach in their cities. now when john had heard in prison the works of christ: sending two of his disciples he said to him: art thou he that art to come, or look we for another? and jesus making answer said to them: go and relate to john what you have heard and seen. the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead rise again, the poor have the gospel preached to them. and blessed is he that shall not be scandalized in me. and when they went their way, jesus began to say to the multitudes concerning john: what went you out into the desert to see? a reed shaken with the wind? but what went you out to see? a man clothed in soft garments? behold they that are clothed in soft garments, are in the houses of kings. but what went you out to see? a prophet? yea i tell you, and more than a prophet. for this is he of whom it is written: behold i send my angel before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee. amen i say to you, there hath not risen among them that are born of women a greater than john the baptist: yet he that is the lesser in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. and from the days of john the baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent bear it away. for all the prophets and the law prophesied until john: and if you will receive it, he is elias that is to come. he that hath ears to hear, let him hear. but whereunto shall i esteem this generation to be like? it is like to children sitting in the market place. who crying to their companions say: we have piped to you, and you have not danced: we have lamented, and you have not mourned. for john came neither eating nor drinking; and they say: he hath a devil. the son of man came eating and drinking, and they say: behold a man that is a glutton and a wine drinker, a friend of publicans and sinners. and wisdom is justified by her children. then began he to upbraid the cities wherein were done the most of his miracles, for that they had not done penance. woe to thee, corozain, woe to thee, bethsaida: for if in tyre and sidon had been wrought the miracles that have been wrought in you, they had long ago done penance in sackcloth and ashes. but i say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for tyre and sidon in the day of judgment, than for you. and thou capernaum, shalt thou be exalted up to heaven? thou shalt go down even unto hell. for if in sodom had been wrought the miracles that have been wrought in thee, perhaps it had remained unto this day. but i say unto you, that it shall be more tolerable for the land of sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee. at that time jesus answered and said: i confess to thee, o father, lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to the little ones. yea, father; for so hath it seemed good in thy sight. all things are delivered to me by my father. and no one knoweth the son, but the father: neither doth any one know the father, but the son, and he to whom it shall please the son to reveal him. come to me, all you that labour, and are burdened, and i will refresh you. take up my yoke upon you, and learn of me, because i am meek, and humble of heart: and you shall find rest to your souls. for my yoke is sweet and my burden light.

at that time jesus went through the corn on the sabbath: and his disciples being hungry, began to pluck the ears, and to eat. and the pharisees seeing them, said to him: behold thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do on the sabbath days. but he said to them: have you not read what david did when he was hungry, and they that were with him: how he entered into the house of god, and did eat the loaves of proposition, which it was not lawful for him to eat, nor for them that were with him, but for the priests only? or have ye not read in the law, that on the sabbath days the priests in the temple break the sabbath, and are without blame? but i tell you that there is here a greater than the temple. and if you knew what this meaneth: i will have mercy, and not sacrifice: you would never have condemned the innocent. for the son of man is lord even of the sabbath. and when he has passed from thence, he came into their synagogues. and behold there was a man who had a withered hand, and they asked him, saying: is it lawful to heal on the sabbath days? that they might accuse him. but he said to them: what man shall there be among you, that hath one sheep: and if the same fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not take hold on it and lift it up? how much better is a man than a sheep? therefore it is lawful to do a good deed on the sabbath days. then he saith to the man: stretch forth thy hand; and he stretched it forth, and it was restored to health even as the other. and the pharisees going out made a consultation against him, how they might destroy him. but jesus knowing it, retired from thence: and many followed him, and he healed them all. and he charged them that they should not make him known. that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by isaias the prophet, saying: behold my servant whom i have chosen, my beloved in whom my soul hath been well pleased. i will put my spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the gentiles. he shall not contend, nor cry out, neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets. the bruised reed he shall not break: and smoking flax he shall not extinguish: till he send forth judgment unto victory. and in his name the gentiles shall hope. then was offered to him one possessed with a devil, blind and dumb: and he healed him, so that he spoke and saw. and all the multitudes were amazed, and said: is not this the son of david? but the pharisees hearing it, said: this man casteth not out the devils but by beelzebub the prince of the devils. and jesus knowing their thoughts, said to them: every kingdom divided against itself shall be made desolate: and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand. and if satan cast out satan, he is divided against himself: how then shall his kingdom stand? and if i by beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. but if i by the spirit of god cast out devils, then is the kingdom of god come upon you. or how can any one enter into the house of the strong, and rifle his goods, unless he first bind the strong? and then he will rifle his house. he that is not with me, is against me: and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth. therefore i say to you: every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven men, but the blasphemy of the spirit shall not be forgiven. and whosoever shall speak a word against the son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but he that shall speak against the holy ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in the world to come. either make the tree good and its fruit good: or make the tree evil, and its fruit evil. for by the fruit the tree is known. o generation of vipers, how can you speak good things, whereas you are evil? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. a good man out of a good treasure bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of an evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. but i say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall render an account for it in the day of judgment. for by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned. then some of the scribes and pharisees answered him, saying: master we would see a sign from thee. who answering said to them: an evil and adulterous generation seeketh a sign: and a sign shall not be given it, but the sign of jonas the prophet. for as jonas was in the whale's belly three days and three nights: so shall the son of man be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights. the men of ninive shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they did penance at the preaching of jonas. and behold a greater than jonas here. the queen of the south shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of solomon, and behold a greater than solomon here. and when an unclean spirit is gone out of a man he walketh through dry places seeking rest, and findeth none. then he saith: i will return into my house from whence i came out. and coming he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished. then he goeth, and take with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man in made worse than the first. so shall it be also to this wicked generation. as he was yet speaking to the multitudes, behold his mother and his brethren stood without, seeking to speak to him. and one said unto him: behold thy mother and thy brethren stand without, seeking thee. but he answering him that told him, said: who is my mother, and who are my brethren? and stretching forth his hand towards his disciples, he said: behold my mother and my brethren. for whosoever shall do the will of my father, that is in heaven, he is my brother, and sister, and mother.

the same day jesus going out of the house, sat by the sea side. and great multitudes were gathered unto him, so that he went up into a boat and sat: and all the multitude stood on the shore. and he spoke to them many things in parables, saying: behold the sower went forth to sow. and whilst he soweth some fell by the way side, and the birds of the air came and ate them up. and other some fell upon stony ground, where they had not much earth: and they sprung up immediately, because they had no deepness of earth. and when the sun was up they were scorched: and because they had not root, they withered away. and others fell among thorns: and the thorns grew up and choked them. and others fell upon good ground: and they brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, and some thirtyfold. he that hath ears to hear, let him hear. and his disciples came and said to him: why speakest thou to them in parables? who answered and said to them: because to you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven: but to them it is not given. for he that hath, to him shall be given, and he shall abound: but he that hath not, from him shall be taken away that also which he hath. therefore do i speak to them in parables: because seeing they see not, and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. and the prophecy of isaias is fulfilled in them, who saith: by hearing you shall hear, and shall not understand: and seeing you shall see, and shall not perceive. for the heart of this people is grown gross, and with their ears they have been dull of hearing, and their eyes they have shut: lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and be converted, and i should lead them. but blessed are your eyes, because they see, and your ears, because they hear. for, amen, i say to you, many prophets and just men have desired to see the things that you see, and have not seen them, and to hear the things that you hear and have not heard them. hear you therefore the parable of the sower. when any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, there cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart: this is he that received the seed by the way side. and he that received the seed upon stony ground, is he that heareth the word, and immediately receiveth it with joy. yet hath he not root in himself, but is only for a time: and when there ariseth tribulation and persecution because of the word, he is presently scandalized. and he that received the seed among thorns, is he that heareth the word, and the care of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choketh up the word, and he becometh fruitless. but he that received the seed upon good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth, and beareth fruit, and yieldeth the one an hundredfold, and another sixty, and another thirty. another parable he proposed to them, saying: the kingdom of heaven is likened to a man that sowed good seeds in his field. but while men were asleep, his enemy came and oversowed cockle among the wheat and went his way. and when the blade was sprung up, and had brought forth fruit, then appeared also the cockle. and the servants of the Goodman of the house coming said to him: sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? whence then hath it cockle? and he said to them: an enemy hath done this. and the servants said to him: wilt thou that we go and gather it up? and he said: no, lest perhaps gathering up the cockle, you root up the wheat also together with it. suffer both to grow until the harvest, and in the time of the harvest i will say to the reapers: gather up first the cockle, and bind it into bundles to burn, but the wheat gather ye into my barn. another parable he proposed unto them, saying: the kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field. which is the least indeed of all seeds; but when it is grown up, it is greater than all herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come, and dwell in the branches thereof. another parable he spoke to them: the kingdom of heaven is like to leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, until the whole was leavened. all these things jesus spoke in parables to the multitudes: and without parables he did not speak to them. that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: i will open my mouth in parables, i will utter things hidden from the foundation of the world. then having sent away the multitudes, he came into the house, and his disciples came to him, saying: expound to us the parable of the cockle of the field. who made answer and said to them: he that soweth the good seed, is the son of man. and the field, is the world. and the good seed are the children of the kingdom. and the cockle, are the children of the wicked one. and the enemy that sowed them, is the devil. but the harvest is the end of the world. and the reapers are the angels. even as cockle therefore is gathered up, and burnt with fire: so shall it be at the end of the world. the son of man shall send his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all scandals, and them that work iniquity. and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. then shall the just shine as the sun, in the kingdom of their father. he that hath ears to hear, let him hear. the kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hidden in a field. which a man having found, hid it, and for joy thereof goeth, and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field. again the kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant seeking good pearls. who when he had found one pearl of great price, went his way, and sold all that he had, and bought it. again the kingdom of heaven is like to a net cast into the sea, and gathering together of all kind of fishes. which, when it was filled, they drew out, and sitting by the shore, they chose out the good into vessels, but the bad they cast forth. so shall it be at the end of the world. the angels shall go out, and shall separate the wicked from among the just. and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. have ye understood all these things? they say to him: yes. he said unto them: therefore every scribe instructed in the kingdom of heaven, is like to a man that is a householder, who bringeth forth out of his treasure new things and old. and it came to pass: when jesus had finished these parables, he passed from thence. and coming into his own country, he taught them in their synagogues, so that they wondered and said: how came this man by this wisdom and miracles? is not this the carpenter's son? is not his mother called mary, and his brethren james, and joseph, and simon, and jude: and his sisters, are they not all with us? whence therefore hath he all these things? and they were scandalized in his regard. but jesus said to them: a prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house. and he wrought not many miracles there, because of their unbelief.

at the time herod the tetrarch heard the fame of jesus. and he said to his servants: this is john the baptist: he is risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works shew forth themselves in him. for herod had apprehended john and bound him, and put him into prison, because of herodias, his brother's wife. for john said to him: it is not lawful for thee to have her. and having a mind to put him to death, he feared the people: because they esteemed him as a prophet. but on herod's birthday, the daughter of herodias danced before them: and pleased herod. whereupon he promised with an oath, to give her whatsoever she would ask of him. but she being instructed before by her mother, said: give me here in a dish the head of john the baptist. and the king was struck sad: yet because of his oath, and for them that sat with him at table, he commanded it to be given. and he sent, and beheaded john in the prison. and his head was brought in a dish: and it was given to the damsel, and she brought it to her mother. and his disciples came and took the body, and buried it, and came and told jesus. which when jesus had heard, he retired from thence by boat, into a desert place apart, and the multitudes having heard of it, followed him on foot out of the cities. and he coming forth saw a great multitude, and had compassion on them, and healed their sick. and when it was evening, his disciples came to him, saying: this is a desert place, and the hour is now past: send away the multitudes, that going into the towns, they may buy themselves victuals. but jesus said to them, they have no need to go: give you them to eat. they answered him: we have not here, but five loaves, and two fishes. he said to them: bring them hither to me. and when he had commanded the multitudes to sit down upon the grass, he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitudes. and they did all eat, and were filled. and they took up what remained, twelve full baskets of fragments. and the number of them that did eat, was five thousand men, besides women and children. and forthwith jesus obliged his disciples to go up into the boat, and to go before him over the water, till he dismissed the people. and having dismissed the multitude, he went into a mountain alone to pray. and when it was evening, he was there alone. but the boat in the midst of the sea was tossed with the waves: for the wind was contrary. and in the fourth watch of the night, he came to them walking upon the sea. and they seeing him walk upon the sea, were troubled, saying: it is an apparition. and they cried out for fear. and immediately jesus spoke to them, saying: be of good heart: it is i, fear ye not. and peter making answer, said: lord, if it be thou, bid me come to thee upon the waters. and he said: come. and peter going down out of the boat, walked upon the water to come to jesus. but seeing the wind strong, he was afraid: and when he began to sink, he cried out, saying: lord, save me. and immediately jesus stretching forth his hand took hold of him, and said to him: o thou of little faith, why didst thou doubt? and when they were come up into the boat, the wind ceased. and they that were in the boat came and adored him, saying: indeed thou art the son of god. and having passed the water, they came into the country of genesar. and when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent into all that country, and brought to him all that were diseased. and they besought him that they might touch but the hem of his garment. and as many as touched, were made whole.

then came to him from jerusalem scribes and pharisees, saying: why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the ancients? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread. but he answering, said to them: why do you also transgress the commandment of god for your tradition? for god said: honour thy father and mother: and: he that shall curse father or mother, let him die the death. but you say: whosoever shall say to father or mother, the gift whatsoever proceedeth from me, shall profit thee. and he shall not honour his father or his mother: and you have made void the commandment of god for your tradition. hypocrites, well hath isaias prophesied of you, saying: this people honoureth me with their lips: but their heart is far from me. and in vain do they worship me, teaching doctrines and commandments of men. and having called together the multitudes unto him, he said to them: hear ye and understand. not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man: but what cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man. then came his disciples, and said to him: dost thou know that the pharisees, when they heard this word, were scandal-

ized? but he answering them, said: every plant which my heavenly father hath not planted, shall be rooted up. let them alone: they are blind, and leaders of the blind. and if the blind lead the blind, both will fall into the pit. and peter answering, said to him: expound to us this parable. but he said: are you also yet without understanding? do you not understand, that whatsoever entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the privy? but the things which proceed out of the mouth, come forth from the heart, and those things defile a man. for from the heart come forth evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, blasphemies. these are the things that defile a man. but to eat with unwashed hands doth not defile a man. and jesus went from thence, and retired into the coasts of tyre and sidon. and behold a woman of canaan who came out of those coasts, crying out, said to him: have mercy on me, o lord, thou son of david: my daughter is grievously troubled by the devil. who answered her not a word. and his disciples came and besought him, saying: send her away, for she crieth after us: and he answering, said: i was not sent but to the sheep that are lost of the house of israel. but she came and adored him, saying: lord, help me. who answering, said: it is not good to take the bread of the children, and to cast it to the dogs. but she said: yea, lord; for the whelps also eat of the crumbs that fall from the table of their masters. then jesus answering, said to her: o woman, great is thy faith: be it done to thee as thou wilt: and her daughter was cured from that hour. and when jesus had passed away from thence, he came nigh the sea of galilee. and going up into a mountain, he sat there. and there came to him great multitudes, having with them the dumb, the blind, the lame, the maimed, and many others: and they cast them down at his feet, and he healed them: so that the multitudes marvelled seeing the dumb speak, the lame walk, and the blind see: and they glorified the god of israel. and jesus called together his disciples, and said: i have compassion on the multitudes, because they continue with me now three days, and have not what to eat, and i will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way. and the disciples say unto him: whence then should we have so many loaves in the desert, as to fill so great a multitude? and jesus said to them: how many loaves have you? but they said: seven, and a few little fishes. and he commanded the multitude to sit down upon the ground. and taking the seven loaves and the fishes, and giving thanks, he brake, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the people. and they did all eat, and had their fill. and they took up seven baskets full, of what remained of the fragments. and they that did eat, were four thousand men, beside children and women. and having dismissed the multitude, he went up into a boat, and came into the coasts of magedan.

and there came to him the pharisees and sadducees tempting: and they asked him to shew them a sign from heaven. but he answered and said to them:

when it is evening, you say, it will be fair weather, for the sky is red. and in the morning: to day there will be a storm, for the sky is red and lowering. you know then how to discern the face of the sky: and can you not know the signs of the times? a wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign: and a sign shall not be given it, but the sign of jonas the prophet. and he left them, and went away. and when his disciples were come over the water, they had forgotten to take bread. who said to them: take heed and beware of the leaven of the pharisees and sadducees. but they thought within themselves, saying: because we have taken no bread. and jesus knowing it, said: why do you think within yourselves, o ye of little faith, for that you have no bread? do you not yet understand, neither do you remember the five loaves among five thousand men, and how many baskets you took up? nor the seven loaves among four thousand men, and how many baskets you took up? why do you not understand that it was not concerning the bread i said to you: beware of the leaven of the pharisees and sadducees? then they understood that he said not that they should beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the pharisees and sadducees. and jesus came into the quarters of cesarea philippi: and he asked his disciples, saying: whom do men say that the son of man is? but they said: some john the baptist, and other some elias, and others jeremias, or one of the prophets. jesus saith to them: but whom do you say that i am? simon peter answered and said: thou art christ, the son of the living god. and jesus answering, said to him: blessed art thou, simon barjona: because flesh and blood hath not revealed it to thee, but my father who is in heaven. and i say to thee: that thou art peter; and upon this rock i will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. and i will give to thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven. and whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth, it shall be bound also in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth, it shall be loosed also in heaven. then he commanded his disciples, that they should tell no one that he was jesus the christ. from that time jesus began to shew to his disciples, that he must go to jerusalem, and suffer many things from the ancients and scribes and chief priests, and be put to death, and the third day rise again. and peter taking him, began to rebuke him, saying: lord, be it far from thee, this shall not be unto thee. who turning, said to peter: go behind me, satan, thou art a scandal unto me: because thou savourest not the things that are of god, but the things that are of men. then jesus said to his disciples: if any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. for he that will save his life, shall lose it: and he that shall lose his life for my sake, shall find it. for what doth it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his own soul? or what exchange shall a man give for his soul? for the son of man shall come in the glory of his father with his angels: and then will he render to every man according to his works. amen i say to you, there are some of them that stand here, that shall not taste death, till they see the son of man coming in his kingdom.

and after six days jesus taketh unto him peter and james, and john his brother, and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart: and he was transfigured before them. and his face did shine as the sun: and his garments became white as snow. and behold there appeared to them moyses and elias talking with him. and peter answering, said to jesus: lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for moyses, and one for elias. and as he was yet speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them: and lo, a voice out of the cloud, saying: this is my beloved son, in whom i am well pleased: hear ye him. and the disciples hearing, fell upon their face, and were very much afraid. and jesus came and touched them: and said to them, arise, and fear not. and they lifting up their eyes saw no one but only jesus. and as they came down from the mountain, jesus charged them, saying: tell the vision to no man, till the son of man be risen from the dead. and his disciples asked him, saying: why then do the scribes say that elias must come first? but he answering, said to them: elias indeed shall come, and restore all things. but i say to you, that elias is already come, and they knew him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they had a mind. so also the son of man shall suffer from them. then the disciples understood, that he had spoken to them of john the baptist. and when he was come to the multitude, there came to him a man falling down on his knees before him, saying: lord, have pity on my son, for he is a lunatic, and suffereth much: for he falleth often into the fire, and often into the water. and i brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. then jesus answered and said: o unbelieving and perverse generation, how long shall i be with you? how long shall i suffer you? bring him hither to me. and jesus rebuked him, and the devil went out of him, and the child was cured from that hour. then came the disciples to jesus secretly, and said: why could not we cast him out? jesus said to them: because of your unbelief. for, amen i say to you, if you have faith as a grain of mustard seed, you shall say to this mountain, remove from hence hither, and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible to you. but this kind is not cast out but by prayer and fasting. and when they abode together in galilee, jesus said to them: the son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of men: and they shall kill him, and the third day he shall rise again. and they were troubled exceedingly. and when they were come to capharnaum, they that recieved the didrachmas, came to peter and said to him: doth not your master pay the didrachmas? he said: yes. and when he was come into the house, jesus prevented him, saying: what is thy opinion, simon? the kings of the earth, of whom do they receive tribute or custom? of their own children, or of strangers? and he said: of strangers. jesus said to him: then the children are free. but that we may not scandalize them, go to the sea, and cast in a hook: and that fish which shall first come up, take: and when thou hast opened its mouth, thou shalt find a stater: take that, and give it to them

at that hour the disciples came to jesus, saying: who thinkest thou is the greater in the kingdom of heaven? and jesus calling unto him a little child, set him in the midst of them, and said: amen i say to you, unless you be converted, and become as little children, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, he is the greater in the kingdom of heaven. and he that shall receive one such little child in my name, receiveth me. but he that shall scandalize one of these little ones that believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone should be hanged about his neck, and that he should be drowned in the depth of the sea. woe to the world because of scandals. for it must needs be that scandals come: but nevertheless woe to that man by whom the scandal cometh. and if thy hand, or thy foot scandalize thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee. it is better for thee to go into life maimed or lame, than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into everlasting fire. and if thy eye scandalize thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee. it is better for thee having one eye to enter into life, than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire. see that you despise not one of these little ones: for i say to you, that their angels in heaven always see the face of my father who is in heaven. for the son of man is come to save that which was lost. what think you? if a man have an hundred sheep, and one of them should go astray: doth he not leave the ninety-nine in the mountains, and go to seek that which is gone astray? and if it so be that he find it: amen i say to you, he rejoiceth more for that, than for the ninety-nine that went not astray. even so it is not the will of your father, who is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish. but if thy brother shall offend against thee, go, and rebuke him between thee and him alone. if he shall hear thee, thou shalt gain thy brother. and if he will not hear thee, take with thee one or two more: that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may stand. and if he will not hear them: tell the church. and if he will not hear the church, let him be to thee as the heathen and publican. amen i say to you, whatsoever you shall bind upon earth, shall be bound also in heaven; and whatsoever you shall loose upon earth, shall be loosed also in heaven. again i say to you, that if two of you shall consent upon earth, concerning any thing whatsoever they shall ask, it shall be done to them by my father who is in heaven. for where there are two or three gathered together in my name, there am i in the midst of them. then came peter unto him and said: lord, how often shall my brother offend against me, and i forgive him? till seven times? jesus saith to him: i say not to thee, till seven times; but till seventy times seven times. therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened to a king, who would take an account of his servants. and when he had begun to take the account, one was brought to him, that owed him ten thousand talents. and as he had not wherewith to pay it, his lord commanded that he should be sold, and his wife and children and all that he had, and payment to be made. but that servant falling down, besought him, saying: have patience with me, and i will pay thee all. and the lord of that servant being moved with pity, let him go and forgave him the debt. but when that servant was gone out, he found one of his fellow servants that owed him an hundred pence: and laying hold of him, throttled him, saying: pay what thou owest. and his fellow servant falling down, besought him, saying: have patience with me, and i will pay thee all. and he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he paid the debt. now his fellow servants seeing what was done, were very much grieved, and they came and told their lord all that was done. then his lord called him; and said to him: thou wicked servant, i forgave thee all the debt, because thou besoughtest me: shouldst not thou then have had compassion also on thy fellow servant, even as i had compassion on thee? and his lord being angry, delivered him to the torturers until he paid all the debt. so also shall my heavenly father do to you, if you forgive not every one his brother from your hearts.

and it came to pass when jesus had ended these words, he departed from galilee, and came into the coasts of judea, beyond jordan. and great multitudes followed him: and he healed them there. and there came to him the pharisees tempting him, and saying: is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? who answering, said to them: have ye not read, that he who made man from the beginning, made them male and female? and he said: for this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they two shall be in one flesh. therefore now they are not two, but one flesh. what therefore god hath joined together, let no man put asunder. they say to him: why then did moyses command to give a bill of divorce, and to put away? he saith to them: because moyses by reason of the hardness of your heart permitted you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. and i say to you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and he that shall marry her that is put away, committeth adultery. his disciples say unto him: if the case of a man with his wife be so, it is not expedient to marry. who said to them: all men take not this word, but they to whom it is given. for there are eunuchs, who were born so from their mother's womb: and there are eunuchs, who were made so by men: and there are eunuchs, who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven. he that can take, let him take it. then were little children presented to him, that he should impose hands upon them and pray. and the disciples rebuked them. but jesus said to them: suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come to me: for the kingdom of heaven is for such. and when he had imposed hands upon them, he departed from thence. and behold one came and said to him: good master, what good shall i do that i may have life everlasting? who said to him: why asketh

thou me concerning good? one is good, god. but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments. he said to him: which? and jesus said: thou shalt do no murder, thou shalt not commit adultery, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false witness. honour thy father and thy mother: and, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. the young man saith to him: all these i have kept from my youth, what is yet wanting to me? jesus saith to him: if thou wilt be perfect, go sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come follow me. and when the young man had heard this word, he went away sad: for he had great possessions. then jesus said to his disciples: amen, i say to you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. and again i say to you: it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven. and when they had heard this, the disciples wondered very much, saying: who then can be saved? and jesus beholding, said to them: with men this is impossible: but with god all things are possible. then peter answering, said to him: behold we have left all things, and have followed thee: what therefore shall we have? and jesus said to them: amen, i say to you, that you, who have followed me, in the regeneration, when the son of man shall sit on the seat of his majesty, you also shall sit on twelve seats judging the twelve tribes of israel. and every one that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall possess life everlasting. and many that are first, shall be last: and the last shall be first.

the kingdom of heaven is like to an householder, who went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard. and having agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard. and going about the third hour, he saw others standing in the market place idle. and he said to them: go you also into my vineyard, and i will give you what shall be just. and they went their way. and again he went out about the sixth and the ninth hour, and did in like manner. but about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing, and he saith to them: why stand you here all the day idle? they say to him: because no man hath hired us. he saith to them: go you also into my vineyard. and when evening was come, the lord of the vineyard saith to his steward: call the labourers and pay them their hire, beginning from the last even to the first. when therefore they were come, that came about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny. but when the first also came, they thought that they should receive more: and they also received every man a penny. and receiving it they murmured against the master of the house, saying: these last have worked but one hour, and thou hast made them equal to us, that have borne the burden of the day and the heats. but he answering said to one of them: friend, i do thee no wrong: didst thou not agree with me for a penny? take what is thine, and go thy way: i will also give to this last even as to thee. or, is it not lawful for me to do what i will? is thy eye evil, because i am good? so shall the last be first, and the first last. for many are called, but few chosen. and jesus going up to jerusalem, took the twelve disciples apart, and said to them: behold we go up to jerusalem, and the son of man shall be betrayed to the chief priests and the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death. and shall deliver him to the gentiles to be mocked, and scourged, and crucified, and the third day he shall rise again. then came to him the mother of the sons of zebedee with her sons, adoring and asking something of him. who said to her: what wilt thou? she saith to him: say that these my two sons may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left, in thy kingdom. and jesus answering, said: you know not what you ask. can you drink the chalice that i shall drink? they say to him: we can. he saith to them: my chalice indeed you shall drink; but to sit on my right or left hand, is not mine to give to you, but to them for whom it is prepared by my father. and the ten hearing it, were moved with indignation against the two brethren. but jesus called them to him, and said: you know that the princes of the gentiles lord it over them; and they that are the greater, exercise power upon them. it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be the greater among you, let him be your minister: and he that will be first among you, shall be your servant. even as the son of man is not come to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a redemption for many. and when they went out from jericho, a great multitude followed him. and behold two blind men sitting by the way side, heard that jesus passed by, and they cried out, saying: o lord, thou son of david, have mercy on us. and the multitude rebuked them that they should hold their peace. but they cried out the more, saying: o lord, thou son of david, have mercy on us. and jesus stood, and called them, and said: what will ye that i do to you? they say to him: lord, that our eyes be opened. and jesus having compassion on them, touched their eyes. and immediately they saw, and followed him.

and when they drew nigh to jerusalem, and were come to bethphage, unto mount olivet, then jesus sent two disciples, saying to them: go ye into the village that is over against you, and immediately you shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them and bring them to me. and if any man shall say anything to you, say ye, that the lord hath need of them: and forthwith he will let them go. now all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: tell ye the daughter of sion: behold thy king cometh to thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of her that is used to the yoke. and the disciples going, did as jesus commanded them. and they brought the ass and the colt, and laid their garments upon them, and made him sit thereon. and a very great multitude spread their garments in the way: and others cut boughs from the trees, and strewed them in the way: and the multitudes that went before and that followed, cried, saying: hosanna to the son of david: blessed is he that cometh in the name of the lord: hosanna in the highest. and when he was come into jerusalem, the whole city was moved, saying: who is this? and the people said: this is jesus the prophet, from nazareth of galilee. and jesus went into the temple of god, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the chairs of them that sold doves: and he saith to them: it is written, my house shall be called the house of prayer; but you have made it a den of thieves. and there came to him the blind and the lame in the temple; and he healed them. and the chief priests and scribes, seeing the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying: hosanna to the son of david; were moved with indignation. and said to him: hearest thou what these say? and jesus said to them: yea, have you never read: out of the mouth of infants and of sucklings thou hast perfected praise? and leaving them, he went out of the city into bethania, and remained there. and in the morning, returning into the city, he was hungry. and seeing a certain fig tree by the way side, he came to it, and found nothing on it but leaves only, and he saith to it: may no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. and immediately the fig tree withered away. and the disciples seeing it wondered, saying: how is it presently withered away? and jesus answering, said to them: amen, i say to you, if you shall have faith, and stagger not, not only this of the fig tree shall you do, but also if you shall say to this mountain, take up and cast thyself into the sea, it shall be done. and in all things whatsoever you shall ask in prayer, believing, you shall receive. and when he was come into the temple, there came to him, as he was teaching, the chief priests and ancients of the people, saying: by what authority dost thou these things? and who hath given thee this authority? jesus answering, said to them: i also will ask you one word, which if you shall tell me, i will also tell you by what authority i do these things. the baptism of john, whence was it? from heaven or from men? but they thought within themselves, saying: if we shall say, from heaven, he will say to us: why then did you not believe him? but if we shall say, from men, we are afraid of the multitude: for all held john as a prophet. and answering jesus, they said: we know not. he also said to them: neither do i tell you by what authority i do these things. but what think you? a certain man had two sons; and coming to the first, he said: son, go work to day in my vineyard. and he answering, said: i will not. but afterwards, being moved with repentance, he went. and coming to the other, he said in like manner. and he answering, said: i go, sir; and he went not. which of the two did the father's will? they say to him: the first. jesus saith to them: amen i say to you, that the publicans and the harlots shall go into the kingdom of god before you. for john came to you in the way of justice, and you did not believe him. but the publicans and the harlots believed him: but you, seeing it, did not even afterwards repent, that you might believe him. hear ye another parable. there was a man an householder, who planted a vineyard, and made a hedge round about it, and dug in it a press, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen; and went into a strange country. and when the time of the fruits drew nigh, he sent his servants to the husbandmen that they might receive the fruits thereof. and the husbandmen laying hands on his servants, beat one, and killed another, and stoned another. again he sent other servants more than the former; and they did to them in like manner. and last of all he sent to them his son, saying: they will reverence my son. but the husbandmen seeing the son, said among themselves: this is the heir: come, let us kill him, and we shall have his inheritance. and taking him, they cast him forth out of the vineyard, and killed him. when therefore the lord of the vineyard shall come, what will he do to those husbandmen? they say to him: he will bring those evil men to an evil end; and will let out his vineyard to other husbandmen, that shall render him the fruit in due season. jesus saith to them: have you never read in the scriptures: the stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner? by the lord this has been done; and it is wonderful in our eyes. therefore i say to you, that the kingdom of god shall be taken from you, and shall be given to a nation yielding the fruits thereof. and whosoever shall fall on this stone, shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it shall grind him to powder. and when the chief priests and pharisees had heard his parables, they knew that he spoke of them. and seeking to lay hands on him, they feared the multitudes: because they held him as a prophet.

and jesus answering, spoke again in parables to them, saying: the kingdom of heaven is likened to a king, who made a marriage for his son. and he sent his servants, to call them that were invited to the marriage; and they would not come. again he sent other servants, saying: tell them that were invited, behold, i have prepared my dinner; my beeves and fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come ye to the marriage. but they neglected, and went their own ways, one to his farm, and another to his merchandise. and the rest laid hands on his servants, and having treated them contumeliously, put them to death. but when the king had heard of it, he was angry, and sending his armies, he destroyed those murderers, and burnt their city. then he saith to his servants: the marriage indeed is ready; but they that were invited were not worthy. go ye therefore into the highways; and as many as you shall find, call to the marriage. and his servants going forth into the ways, gathered together all that they found, both bad and good: and the marriage was filled with guests. and the king went in to see the guests: and he saw there a man who had not on a wedding garment. and he saith to him: friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment? but he was silent. then the king said to the waiters: bind his hands and feet, and cast him into the exterior darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. for many are called, but few are chosen. then the pharisees going, consulted among themselves how to insnare him in his speech. and they sent to him their disciples with the herodians, saying: master, we know that thou art a true speaker, and teachest the way of god in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou dost not regard the person of men. tell us therefore what dost thou think, is it lawful to give tribute to caesar, or not? but jesus knowing their wickedness, said: why do you tempt me, ye hypocrites? shew me the coin of the tribute. and they offered him a penny. and jesus saith to them: whose image and inscription is this? they say to him: caesar's. then he saith to them: render therefore to caesar the things that are caesar's; and to god, the things that are god's. and hearing this they wondered, and leaving him, went their ways. that day there came to him the sadducees, who say there is no resurrection; and asked him, saying: master, moyses said: if a man die having no son, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up issue to his brother. now there were with us seven brethren: and the first having married a wife, died; and not having issue, left his wife to his brother. in like manner the second, and the third, and so on to the seventh. and last of all the woman died also. at the resurrection therefore whose wife of the seven shall she be? for they all had her. and jesus answering, said to them: you err, not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of god. for in the resurrection they shall neither marry nor be married; but shall be as the angels of god in heaven. and concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read that which was spoken by god, saying to you: i am the god of abraham, and the god of isaac, and the god of jacob? he is not the god of the dead, but of the living. and the multitudes hearing it, were in admiration at his doctrine. but the pharisees hearing that he had silenced the sadducees, came together: and one of them, a doctor of the law, asking him, tempting him: master, which is the greatest commandment in the law? jesus said to him: thou shalt love the lord thy god with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind. this is the greatest and the first commandment. and the second is like to this: thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. on these two commandments dependeth the whole law and the prophets. and the pharisees being gathered together, jesus asked them, saying: what think you of christ? whose son is he? they say to him: david's. he saith to them: how then doth david in spirit call him lord, saying: the lord said to my lord, sit on my right hand, until i make thy enemies thy footstool? if david then call him lord, how is he his son? and no man was able to answer him a word; neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

then jesus spoke to the multitudes and to his disciples, saying: the scribes and the pharisees have sitten on the chair of moyses. all things therefore whatsoever they shall say to you, observe and do: but according to their works do ye not; for they say, and do not. for they bind heavy and insupportable burdens, and lay them on men's shoulders; but with a finger of their own they will not move them. and all their works they do for to be seen of men. for they make their phylacteries broad, and enlarge their fringes. and they love the first places at feasts, and the first chairs in the synagogues, and salutations in the market place, and to be called by men, rabbi. but be not you called rabbi. for one is your master; and all you are brethren. and call none your father upon earth; for one is your father, who is in heaven. neither be ye called masters; for one is your master, christ. he that is the greatest among you shall be your servant. and whosoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled: and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted. but woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites; because you shut the kingdom of heaven against men, for you yourselves do not enter in; and those that are going in, you suffer not to enter. woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites: because you devour the houses of widows, praying long prayers. for this you shall receive the greater judgment. woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites; because you go round about the sea and the land to make one proselyte; and when he is made, you make him the child of hell twofold more than yourselves. woe to you blind guides, that say, whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing; but he that shall swear by the gold of the temple, is a debtor. ye foolish and blind; for whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that sanctifieth the gold? and whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gift that is upon it, is a debtor. ye blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that sanctifieth the gift? he therefore that sweareth by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things that are upon it: and whosoever shall swear by temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth in it: and he that sweareth by heaven, sweareth by the throne of god, and by him that sitteth thereon. woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites; because you tithe mint, and anise, and cummin, and have left the weightier things of the law; judgment, and mercy, and faith. these things you ought to have done, and not to leave those undone. blind guides, who strain out a gnat, and swallow a camel. woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites; because you make clean the outside of the cup and of the dish, but within you are full of rapine and uncleanness. thou blind pharisee, first make clean the inside of the cup and of the dish, that the outside may become clean. woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites; because you are like to whited sepulchres, which outwardly appear to men beautiful, but within are full of dead men's bones, and of all filthiness. so you also outwardly indeed appear to men just; but inwardly you are full of hypocrisy and iniquity. woe to you scribes and pharisees, hypocrites; that build the sepulchres of the prophets, and adorn the monuments of the just, and say: if we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets. wherefore you are witnesses against yourselves, that you are the sons of them that killed the prophets. fill ye up then the measure of your fathers. you serpents, generation of vipers, how will you flee from the judgment of hell? therefore behold i send to you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them you will put to death and crucify, and some you will scourge in your synagogues, and persecute from city to city: that upon you may come all the just blood that hath been shed upon the earth, from the blood of abel the just, even unto the blood of zacharias the son of barachias, whom you killed between the temple and the altar. amen i say to you, all these things shall come upon this generation. jerusalem, jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee, how often would i have gathered together thy children, as the hen doth gather her chickens under her wings, and thou wouldest not? behold, you house shall be left to you, desolate. for i say to you, you shall not see me henceforth till you say: blessed is he that cometh in the name of the lord.

and jesus being come out of the temple, went away. and his disciples came to shew him the buildings of the temple. and he answering, said to them: do you see all these things? amen i say to you there shall not be left here a stone upon a stone that shall not be destroyed. and when he was sitting on mount olivet, the disciples came to him privately, saying: tell us when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the consummation of the world? and jesus answering, said to them: take heed that no man seduce you: for many will come in my name saying, i am christ: and they will seduce many. and you shall hear of wars and rumours of wars. see that ye be not troubled. for these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. for nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be pestilences, and famines, and earthquakes in places: now all these are the beginnings of sorrows. then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall put you to death: and you shall be hated by all nations for my name's sake. and then shall many be scandalized: and shall betray one another: and shall hate one another. and many false prophets shall rise, and shall seduce many. and because iniquity hath abounded, the charity of many shall grow cold. but he that shall persevere to the end, he shall be saved. and this gospel of the kingdom, shall be preached in the whole world, for a testimony to all nations, and then shall the consummation come. when therefore you shall see the abomination of desolation, which was spoken of by daniel the prophet, standing in the holy place: he that readeth let him understand. then they that are in judea, let them flee to the mountains: and he that is on the housetop, let him not come down to take any thing out of his house: and he that is in the field, let him not go back to take his coat. and woe to them that are with child, and that give suck in those days. but pray that your flight be not in the winter, or on the sabbath. for there shall be then great tribulation, such as hath not been from the beginning of the world until now, neither shall be. and unless those days had been shortened, no flesh should be saved: but for the sake of the elect those days shall be shortened. then if any man shall say to you: lo here is christ, or there, do not believe him. for there shall arise false christs and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders, insomuch as to deceive (if possible) even the elect. behold i have told it to you, beforehand. if therefore they shall say to you: behold he is in the desert, go ye not out: behold he is in the closets, believe it not. for as lightning cometh out of the east, and appeareth even into the west: so shall the coming of the son of man be. wheresoever the body shall be, there shall the eagles also be gathered together. and immediately after the tribulation of those days, the sun shall be darkened and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven shall be moved: and then shall appear the sign of the son of man in heaven: and then shall all tribes of the earth mourn: and they shall see the son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with much power and majesty. and he shall send his angels with a trumpet, and a great voice: and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from the farthest parts of the heavens to the utmost bounds of them. and from the fig tree learn a parable: when the branch thereof is now tender, and the leaves come forth, you know that summer is nigh. so you also, when you shall see all these things, know ye that it is nigh, even at the doors. amen i say to you, that this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done. heaven and earth shall pass, but my words shall not pass. but of that day and hour no one knoweth, not the angels of heaven, but the father alone. and as in the days of noe, so shall also the coming of the son of man be. for as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, even till that day in which noe entered into the ark, and they knew not till the flood came, and took them all away; so also shall the coming of the son of man be. then two shall be in the field: one shall be taken, and one shall be left. two women shall be grinding at the mill: one shall be taken, and one shall be left. watch ye therefore, because ye know not what hour your lord will come. but know this ye, that if the Goodman of the house knew at what hour the thief would come, he would certainly watch, and would not suffer his house to be broken open. wherefore be you also ready, because at what hour you know not the son of man will come. who, thinkest thou, is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath appointed over his family, to give them meat in season. blessed is that servant, whom when his lord shall come he shall find so doing. amen i say to you, he shall place him over all his goods. but if that evil servant shall say in his heart: my lord is long a coming: and shall begin to strike his fellow servants, and shall eat and drink with drunkards: the lord of that servant shall come in a day that he hopeth not, and at an hour that he knoweth not: and shall separate him, and appoint his portion with the hypocrites. there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

then shall the kingdom of heaven be like to ten virgins, who taking their lamps went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride. and five of them were foolish, and five wise. but the five foolish, having taken their lamps, did not take oil with them: but the wise took oil in their vessels with the lamps. and the bridegroom tarrying, they all slumbered and slept. and at midnight there was a cry made: behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet him. then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps. and the foolish said to the wise: give us of your oil, for our lamps are gone out. the wise answered, saying: lest perhaps there be not enough for us and for you, go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves. now whilst they went to buy, the bridegroom came: and they that were ready, went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut. but at last come also the other virgins, saying: lord, lord, open to us. but he answering said: amen i say to you, i know you not. watch ye therefore, because you know not the day nor the hour. for even as a man going into a far country, called his servants, and delivered to them his goods; and to one he gave five talents, and to another two, and to another one, to every one according to his proper ability: and immediately he took his journey. and he that had received the five talents, went his way, and traded with the same, and gained other five. and in like manner he that had received the two, gained other two. but he that had received the one, going his way digged into the earth, and hid his lord's money. but after a long time the lord of those servants came, and reckoned with them. and he that had received the five talents coming, brought other five talents, saying: lord, thou didst deliver to me five talents, behold i have gained other five over and above. his lord said to him: well done, good and faithful servant, because thou hast been faithful over a few things, i will place thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord. and he also that had received the two talents came and said: lord, thou deliverdst two talents to me: behold i have gained other two. his lord said to him: well done, good and faithful servant: because thou hast been faithful over a few things, i will place thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord. but he that had received the one talent, came and said: lord, i know that thou art a hard man; thou reapest where thou hast not sown, and gatherest where thou hast not strewed. and being afraid i went and hid thy talent in the earth: behold here thou hast that which is thine. and his lord answering, said to him: wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that i reap where i sow not, and gather where i have not strewed: thou oughtest therefore to have committed my money to the bankers, and at my coming i should have received my own with usury. take ye away therefore the talent from him, and give it to him that hath ten talents. for to every one that hath shall be given, and he shall abound: but from him that hath not, that also which he seemeth to have shall be taken away. and the unprofitable servant cast ye out into the exterior darkness. there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. and when the son of man shall come in his majesty, and all the angels with him, then shall he sit upon the seat of his majesty. and all nations shall be gathered together before him, and he shall separate them one from another, as the shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats: and he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on his left. then shall the king say to them that shall be on his right hand: come, ye blessed of my father, possess you the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. for i was hungry, and you gave me to eat; i was thirsty, and you gave me to drink; i was a stranger, and you took me in: naked, and you covered me: sick, and you visited me: i was in prison, and you came to me. then shall the just answer him, saying: lord, when did we see thee hungry, and fed thee; thirsty, and gave thee drink? and when did we see thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and covered thee? or when did we see thee sick or in prison, and came to thee? and the king answering, shall say to them: amen i say to you, as long as you did it to one of these my least brethren, you did it to me. then he shall say to them also that shall be on his left hand: depart from me, you cursed, into everlasting fire which was prepared for the devil and his angels. for i was hungry, and you gave me not to eat: i was thirsty, and you gave me not to drink. i was a stranger, and you took me not in: naked, and you covered me not: sick and in prison, and you did not visit me. then they also shall answer him, saying: lord, when did we see thee hungry, or thirsty, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister to thee? then he shall answer them, saying: amen i say to you, as long as you did it not to one of these least, neither did you do it to me. and these shall go into everlasting punishment: but the just, into life everlasting.

and it came to pass, when jesus had ended all these words, he said to his disciples: you know that after two days shall be the pasch, and the son of man shall be delivered up to be crucified: then were gathered together the chief priests and ancients of the people into the court of the high priest, who was called caiphas: and they consulted together, that by subtilty they might apprehend jesus, and put him to death. but they said: not on the festival day, lest perhaps there should be a tumult among the people. and when jesus was in bethania, in the house of simon the leper, there came to him a woman having an alabaster box of precious ointment, and poured it on his head as he was at table. and the disciples seeing it, had indignation, saying: to what purpose is this waste? for this might have been sold for much, and given to the poor. and jesus knowing it, said to them: why do you trouble this woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me. for the poor you have always with you: but me you have not always. for she in pouring this ointment upon my body, hath done it for my burial. amen i say to you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which she hath done, shall be told for a memory of her. then went

one of the twelve, who was called judas iscariot, to the chief priests, and said to them: what will you give me, and i will deliver him unto you? but they appointed him thirty pieces of silver. and from thenceforth he sought opportunity to betray him. and on the first day of the azymes, the disciples came to jesus, saying: where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the pasch? but jesus said: go ye into the city to a certain man, and say to him: the master saith, my time is near at hand, with thee i make the pasch with my disciples. and the disciples did as jesus appointed to them, and they prepared the pasch. but when it was evening, he sat down with his twelve disciples. and whilst they were eating, he said: amen i say to you, that one of you is about to betray me. and they being very much troubled, began every one to say: is it i, lord? but he answering, said: he that dipperth his hand with me in the dish, he shall betray me. the son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the son of man shall be betrayed: it were better for him, if that man had not been born. and judas that betrayed him, answering, said: is it i, rabbi? he saith to him: thou hast said it. and whilst they were at supper, jesus took bread, and blessed, and broke: and gave to his disciples, and said: take ye, and eat. this is my body. and taking the chalice, he gave thanks, and gave to them, saying: drink ye all of this. for this is my blood of the new testament, which shall be shed for many unto remission of sins. and i say to you, i will not drink from henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when i shall drink it with you new in the kingdom of my father. and a hymn being said, they went out unto mount olivet. then jesus said to them: all you shall be scandalized in me this night. for it is written: i will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be dispersed. but after i shall be risen again, i will go before you into galilee. and peter answering, said to him: although all shall be scandalized in thee, i will never be scandalized. jesus said to him: amen i say to thee, that in this night before the cock crow, thou wilt deny me thrice. peter saith to him: yea, though i should die with thee, i will not deny thee. and in like manner said all the disciples. then jesus came with them into a country place which is called getsemani; and he said to his disciples: sit you here, till i go yonder and pray. and taking with him peter and the two sons of zebedee, he began to grow sorrowful and to be sad. then he saith to them: my soul is sorrowful even unto death: stay you here, and watch with me. and going a little further, he fell upon his face, praying, and saying: my father, if it be possible, let this chalice pass from me. nevertheless not as i will, but as thou wilt. and he cometh to his disciples, and findeth them asleep, and he saith to peter: what? could you not watch one hour with me? watch ye, and pray that ye enter not into temptation. the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh weak. again the second time, he went and prayed, saying: my father, if this chalice may not pass away, but i must drink it, thy will be done. and he cometh again and findeth them sleeping: for their eyes were heavy. and leaving them, he went again: and he prayed the third time, saying the selfsame word. then he cometh to his disciples, and saith to them: sleep ye now and take your rest; behold the hour is at hand, and the son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of sinners. rise, let us go: behold he is at hand that will betray me. as he yet spoke, behold judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and clubs, sent from the chief priests and the ancients of the people. and he that betrayed him, gave them a sign, saying: whomsoever i shall kiss, that is he, hold him fast. and forthwith coming to jesus, he said: hail, rabbi. and he kissed him. and jesus said to him: friend, whereto art thou come? then they came up, and laid hands on jesus, and held him. and behold one of them that were with jesus, stretching forth his hand, drew out his sword: and striking the servant of the high priest, cut off his ear. then jesus saith to him: put up again thy sword into its place: for all that take the sword shall perish with the sword. thinkest thou that i cannot ask my father, and he will give me presently more than twelve legions of angels? how then shall the scriptures be fulfilled, that so it must be done? in that same hour jesus said to the multitudes: you are come out as it were to a robber with swords and clubs to apprehend me. i sat daily with you, teaching in the temple, and you laid not hands on me. now all this was done, that the scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. then the disciples all leaving him, fled. but they holding jesus led him to caiphas the high priest, where the scribes and the ancients were assembled. and peter followed him afar off, even to the court of the high priest. and going in, he sat with the servants, that he might see the end. and the chief priests and the whole council sought false witness against jesus, that they might put him to death: and they found not, whereas many false witnesses had come in. and last of all there came two false witnesses: and they said: this man said, i am able to destroy the temple of god, and after three days to rebuild it. and the high priest rising up, said to him: answerest thou nothing to the things which these witness against thee? but jesus held his peace. and the high priest said to him: i adjure thee by the living god, that thou tell us if thou be the christ the son of god. jesus saith to him: thou hast said it. nevertheless i say to you, hereafter you shall see the son of man sitting on the right hand of the power of god, and coming in the clouds of heaven. then the high priests rent his garments, saying: he hath blasphemed; what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now you have heard the blasphemy: what think you? but they answering, said: he is guilty of death. then did they spit in his face, and buffeted him: and others struck his face with the palms of their hands, saying: prophesy unto us, o christ, who is he that struck thee? but peter sat without in the court: and there came to him a servant maid, saying: thou also wast with jesus the galilean. but he denied before them all, saying: i know not what thou sayest. and as he went out of the gate, another maid saw him, and she saith to them that were there: this man also was with jesus of nazareth. and again he denied with an oath, i know not the man. and after a little while they came that stood by, and said to peter: surely thou also art one of them; for even thy speech doth discover thee. then he began to curse and to swear that he knew not the man. and immediately the cock crew. and peter remembered the word of jesus which he had said: before the cock crow, thou wilt deny me thrice. and going forth, he wept bitterly.

and when morning was come, all the chief priests and ancients of the people took counsel against jesus, that they might put him to death. and they brought him bound, and delivered him to pontius pilate the governor. then judas, who betrayed him, seeing that he was condemned, repenting himself, brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and ancients, saying: i have sinned in betraying innocent blood. but they said: what is that to us? look thou to it. and casting down the pieces of silver in the temple, he departed: and went and hanged himself with an halter. but the chief priests having taken the pieces of silver, said: it is not lawful to put them into the corbana, because it is the price of blood. and after they had consulted together, they bought with them the potter's field, to be a burying place for strangers. for this cause the field was called haceldama, that is, the field of blood, even to this day. then was fulfilled that which was spoken by jeremias the prophet, saying: and they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was prized, whom they prized of the children of israel. and they gave them unto the potter's field, as the lord appointed to me. and jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, saying: art thou the king of the jews? jesus saith to him: thou sayest it. and when he was accused by the chief priests and ancients, he answered nothing. then pilate saith to him: dost not thou hear how great testimonies they allege against thee? and he answered him to never a word; so that the governor wondered exceedingly. now upon the solemn day the governor was accustomed to release to the people one prisoner, whom they would. and he had then a notorious prisoner, that was called barabbas. they therefore being gathered together, pilate said: whom will you that i release to you, barabbas, or jesus that is called christ? for he knew that for envy they had delivered him. and as he was sitting in the place of judgment, his wife sent to him, saying: have thou nothing to do with that just man; for i have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him. but the chief priests and ancients persuaded the people, that they should ask barabbas, and make jesus away. and the governor answering, said to them: whether will you of the two to be released unto you? but they said, barabbas. pilate saith to them: what shall i do then with jesus that is called christ? they say all: let him be crucified. the governor said to them: why, what evil hath he done? but they cried out the more, saying: let him be crucified. and pilate seeing that he prevailed nothing, but that rather a tumult was made; taking water washed his hands before the people, saying: i am innocent of the blood of this just man; look you to it. and the whole people answering, said: his blood be upon us and our children. then he released to them barabbas, and having scourged jesus, delivered him unto them to be crucified. then the soldiers of the governor taking jesus into the hall, gathered together unto him the whole band; and stripping him, they put a scarlet cloak about him. and plating a crown of thorns, they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand, and bowing the knee before him, they mocked him, saying: hail, king of the jews. and spitting upon him, they took the reed, and struck his head. and after they had mocked him, they took off the cloak from him, and put on him his own garments, and led him away to crucify him. and going out, they found a man of cyrene, named simon: him they forced to take up his cross. and they came to the place that is called golgotha, which is the place of calvary. and they gave him wine to drink mingled with gall. and when he had tasted, he would not drink. and after they had crucified him, they divided his garments, casting lots; that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: they divided my garments among them; and upon my vesture they cast lots. and they sat and watched him. and they put over his head his cause written: this is jesus the king of the jews. then were crucified with him two thieves: one on the right hand, and one on the left. and they that passed by, blasphemed him, wagging their heads, and saying: vah, thou that destroyest the temple of god, and in three days dost rebuild it: save thy own self: if thou be the son of god, come down from the cross. in like manner also the chief priests, with the scribes and ancients, mocking, said: he saved others; himself he cannot save. if he be the king of israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him. he trusted in god; let him now deliver him if he will have him; for he said: i am the son of god. and the selfsame thing the thieves also, that were crucified with him, reproached him with. now from the sixth hour there was darkness over the whole earth, until the ninth hour. and about the ninth hour jesus cried with a loud voice, saying: eli, eli, lamma sabacthani? that is, my god, my god, why hast thou forsaken me? and some that stood there and heard, said: this man calleth elias. and immediately one of them running took a sponge, and filled it with vinegar; and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink. and the others said: let be, let us see whether elias will come to deliver him. and jesus again crying with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost. and behold the veil of the temple was rent in two from the top even to the bottom, and the earth quaked, and the rocks were rent. and the graves were opened: and many bodies of the saints that had slept arose, and coming out of the tombs after his resurrection, came into the holy city, and appeared to many. now the centurion and they that were with him watching jesus, having seen the earthquake, and the things that were done, were sore afraid, saying: indeed this was the son of god. and there were there many women afar off, who had followed jesus from galilee, ministering unto him: among whom was mary magdalen, and mary the mother of james and joseph, and the mother of the sons of zebedee. and when it was evening, there came a certain rich man of arimathea, named joseph, who also himself was a disciple of jesus. he went to pilate, and asked the body of jesus. then pilate commanded that the body should be delivered. and joseph taking the body, wrapped it up in a clean linen cloth. and laid it in his own new monument, which he had hewed out in a rock. and he rolled a great stone to the door of the monument, and went his way. and there was there mary magdalen, and the other mary sitting over against the sepulchre. and the next day, which followed the day of preparation, the chief priests and the pharisees came together to pilate, saying: sir, we have remembered, that that seducer said, while he was yet alive: after three days i will rise again. command therefore the sepulchre to be guarded until the third day: lest perhaps his disciples come and steal him away, and say to the people: he is risen from the dead; and the last error shall be worse than the first. pilate saith to them: you have a guard; go, guard it as you know. and they departing, made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone, and setting guards.

and in the end of the sabbath, when it began to dawn towards the first day of the week, came mary magdalen and the other mary, to see the sepulchre. and behold there was a great earthquake. for an angel of the lord descended from heaven, and coming, rolled back the stone, and sat upon it. and his countenance was as lightning, and his raiment as snow. and for fear of him, the guards were struck with terror, and became as dead men. and the angel answering, said to the women: fear not you; for i know that you seek jesus who was crucified. he is not here, for he is risen, as he said. come, and see the place where the lord was laid. and going quickly, tell ye his disciples that he is risen: and behold he will go before you into galilee; there you shall see him. lo, i have foretold it to you. and they went out quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy, running to tell his disciples. and behold jesus met them, saying: all hail. but they came up and took hold of his feet, and adored him. then jesus said to them: fear not. go, tell my brethren that they go into galilee, there they shall see me. who when they were departed, behold some of the guards came into the city, and told the chief priests all things that had been done. and they being assembled together with the ancients, taking counsel, gave a great sum of money to the soldiers, saying: say you, his disciples came by night, and stole him away when we were asleep. and if the governor shall hear this, we will persuade him, and secure you. so they taking the money, did as they were taught: and this word was spread abroad among the jews even unto this day. and the eleven disciples went into galilee, unto the mountain where jesus had appointed them. and seeing them they adored: but some doubted. and jesus coming, spoke to them, saying: all power is given to me in heaven and in earth. going therefore, teach ye all nations; baptizing them in the name of the father, and of the son, and of the holy ghost. teaching them to observe all things whatsoever i have commanded you: and behold i am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world.

the beginning of the gospel of jesus christ, the son of god. as it is written in isaia's prophet: behold i send my angel before thy face, who shall prepare the way before thee. a voice of one crying in the desert: prepare ye the way of the lord, make straight his paths. john was in the desert baptizing, and preaching the baptism of penance, unto remission of sins. and there went out to him all the country of judea, and all they of jerusalem, and were baptized by him in the river of jordan, confessing their sins. and john was clothed with camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins; and he ate locusts and wild honey. and he preached, saying: there cometh after me one mightier than i, the latchet of whose shoes i am not worthy to stoop down and loose. i have baptized you with water; but he shall baptize you with the holy ghost. and it came to pass, in those days, jesus came from nazareth of galilee, and was baptized by john in the jordan. and forthwith coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the spirit as a dove descending, and remaining on him. and there came a voice from heaven: thou art my beloved son; in thee i am well pleased. and immediately the spirit drove him out into the desert. and he was in the desert forty days and forty nights, and was tempted by sathan; and he was with beasts, and the angels ministered to him. and after that john was delivered up, jesus came into galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of god, and saying: the time is accomplished, and the kingdom of god is at hand: repent, and believe the gospel. and passing by the sea of galilee, he saw simon and andrew his brother, casting nets into the sea (for they were fishermen). and jesus said to them: come after me, and i will make you to become fishers of men. and immediately leaving their nets, they followed him. and going on from thence a little farther, he saw james the son of zebedee, and john his brother, who also were mending their nets in the ship: and forthwith he called them. and leaving their father zebedee in the ship with his hired men, they followed him. and they entered into capharnaum, and forthwith upon the sabbath days going into the synagogue, he taught them. and they were astonished at his doctrine. for he was teaching them as one having power, and not as the scribes. and there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit; and he cried out, saying: what have we to do with thee, jesus of nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? i know who thou art, the holy one of god. and jesus threatened him, saying: speak no more, and go out of the man. and the unclean spirit tearing him, and crying out with a loud voice, went out of him. and they were all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying: what thing is this? what is this new doctrine? for with power he commandeth even the unclean spirits, and they obey him. and the fame of him was spread forthwith into all the country of galilee. and immediately going out of the synagogue they came into the house of simon and andrew, with james and john. and simon's wife's mother lay in a fit of a fever: and forthwith they tell him of

her. and coming to her, he lifted her up, taking her by the hand; and immediately the fever left her, and she ministered unto them. and when it was evening, after sunset, they brought to him all that were ill and that were possessed with devils. and all the city was gathered together at the door. and he healed many that were troubled with divers diseases; and he cast out many devils, and he suffered them not to speak, because they knew him. and rising very early, going out, he went into a desert place: and there he prayed. and simon, and they that were with him, followed after him. and when they had found him, they said to him: all seek for thee. and he saith to them: let us go into the neighbouring towns and cities, that i may preach there also; for to this purpose am i come. and he was preaching in their synagogues, and in all galilee, and casting out devils. and there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down said to him: if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. and jesus having compassion on him, stretched forth his hand; and touching him, saith to him: i will. be thou made clean. and when he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was made clean. and he strictly charged him, and forthwith sent him away. and he saith to him: see thou tell no one; but go, shew thyself to the high priest, and offer for thy cleansing the things that moyses commanded, for a testimony to them. but he being gone out, began to publish and to blaze abroad the word: so that he could not openly go into the city, but was without in desert places: and they flocked to him from all sides.

and again he entered into capharnaum after some days. and it was heard that he was in the house, and many came together, so that there was no room; no, not even at the door; and he spoke to them the word. and they came to him, bringing one sick of the palsy, who was carried by four. and when they could not offer him unto him for the multitude, they uncovered the roof where he was; and opening it, they let down the bed wherein the man sick of the palsy lay. and when jesus had seen their faith, he saith to the sick of the palsy: son, thy sins are forgiven thee. and there were some of the scribes sitting there, and thinking in their hearts: why doth this man speak thus? he blasphemeth. who can forgive sins, but god only? which jesus presently knowing in his spirit, that they so thought within themselves, saith to them: why think you these things in your hearts? which is easier, to say to the sick of the palsy: thy sins are forgiven thee; or to say: arise, take up thy bed, and walk? but that you may know that the son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy,) i say to thee: arise, take up thy bed, and go into thy house. and immediately he arose; and taking up his bed, went his way in the sight of all; so that all wondered and glorified god, saying: we never saw the like. and he went forth again to the sea side; and all the multitude came to him, and he taught them. and when he was passing by, he saw levi the son of alpheus sitting at the receipt of custom; and he saith to him: follow me. and rising up, he followed him. and it came to pass, that as he sat at meat in his house, many publicans and sinners sat down together with jesus and his disciples. for they were many, who also followed him. and the scribes and the pharisees, seeing that he ate with publicans and sinners, said to his disciples: why doth your master eat and drink with publicans and sinners? jesus hearing this, saith to them: they that are well have no need of a physician, but they that are sick. for i came not to call the just, but sinners. and the disciples of john and the pharisees used to fast; and they come and say to him: why do the disciples of john and of the pharisees fast; but thy disciples do not fast? and jesus saith to them: can the children of the marriage fast, as long as the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast. but the days will come when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them; and then they shall fast in those days. no man seweth a piece of raw cloth to an old garment: otherwise the new piecing taketh away from the old, and there is made a greater rent. and no man putteth new wine into old bottles: otherwise the wine will burst the bottles, and both the wine will be spilled, and the bottles will be lost. but new wine must be put into new bottles. and it came to pass again, as the lord walked through the corn fields on the sabbath, that his disciples began to go forward, and to pluck the ears of corn. and the pharisees said to him: behold, why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful? and he said to them: have you never read what david did when he had need, and was hungry himself, and they that were with him? how he went into the house of god, under abithar the high priest, and did eat the loaves of proposition, which was not lawful to eat but for the priests, and gave to them who were with him? and he said to them: the sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath. therefore the son of man is lord of the sabbath also.

and he entered again into the synagogue, and there was a man there who had a withered hand. and they watched him whether he would heal on the sabbath days; that they might accuse him. and he said to the man who had the withered hand: stand up in the midst. and he saith to them: is it lawful to do good on the sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy? but they held their peace. and looking round about on them with anger, being grieved for the blindness of their hearts, he saith to the man: stretch forth thy hand. and he stretched it forth: and his hand was restored unto him. and the pharisees going out, immediately made a consultation with the herodians against him, how they might destroy him. but jesus retired with his disciples to the sea; and a great multitude followed him from galilee and judea, and from jerusalem, and from idumea, and from beyond the jordan. and they about tyre and sidon, a great multitude, hearing the things which he did, came to him. and he spoke to his disciples that a small ship should wait on him because of the multitude, lest they should throng him. for he healed many, so that they pressed upon him for to touch him, as many as had evils. and the unclean spirits, when they saw him, fell down before him: and they cried, saying: thou art the son of god. and he strictly charged them that they should not make him known. and going up into a mountain, he called unto him whom he would himself: and they came to him. and he made that twelve should be with him, and that he might send them to preach. and he gave them power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils. and to simon he gave the name peter: and james the son of zebedee, and john the brother of james; and he named them boanerges, which is, the sons of thunder: and andrew and philip, and bartholomew and matthew, and thomas and james of alpheus, and thaddeus, and simon the cananean: and judas iscariot, who also betrayed him. and they come to a house, and the multitude cometh together again, so that they could not so much as eat bread. and when his friends had heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him. for they said: he is become mad. and the scribes who were come down from jerusalem, said: he hath beelzebub, and by the prince of devils he casteth out devils. and after he had called them together, he said to them in parables: how can satan cast out satan? and if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. and if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand. and if satan be risen up against himself, he is divided, and cannot stand, but hath an end. no man can enter into the house of a strong man and rob him of his goods, unless he first bind the strong man, and then shall he plunder his house. amen i say to you, that all sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and the blasphemies wherewith they shall blaspheme: but he that shall blaspheme against the holy ghost, shall never have forgiveness, but shall be guilty of an everlasting sin. because they said: he hath an unclean spirit. and his mother and his bretheren came; and standing without, sent unto him, calling him. and the multitude sat about him; and they say to him: behold thy mother and thy brethren without seek for thee. and answering them, he said: who is my mother and my brethren? and looking round about on them who sat about him, he saith: behold my mother and my brethren. for whosoever shall do the will of god, he is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

and again he began to teach by the sea side; and a great multitude was gathered together unto him, so that he went up into a ship, and sat in the sea; and all the multitude was upon the land by the sea side. and he taught them many things in parables, and said unto them in his doctrine: hear ye: behold, the sower went out to sow. and whilst he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the birds of the air came and ate it up. and other some fell upon stony ground, where it had not much earth; and it shot up immediately, because it had no depth of earth. and when the sun was risen, it was scorched; and because it had no root, it withered away. and some fell among thorns; and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit. and some fell upon good ground; and brought forth fruit that grew up, and increased and yielded, one thirty, another sixty, and another a hundred. and he said: he that hath ears to hear, let him hear. and when he was alone, the twelve that were with him asked him the parable. and he said to them: to you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of god: but to them that are without, all things are done in parables: that seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand: lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them. and he saith to them: are you ignorant of this parable? and how shall you know all parables? he that soweth, soweth the word. and these are they by the way side, where the word is sown, and as soon as they have heard, immediately satan cometh and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts. and these likewise are they that are sown on the stony ground: who when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with joy. and they have no root in themselves, but are only for a time: and then when tribulation and persecution ariseth for the word they are presently scandalized. and others there are who are sown among thorns: these are they that hear the word, and the cares of the world, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts after other things entering in choke the word, and it is made fruitless. and these are they who are sown upon the good ground, who hear the word, and receive it, and yield fruit, the one thirty, another sixty, and another a hundred. and he said to them: doth a candle come in to be put under a bushel, or under a bed? and not to be set on a candlestick? for there is nothing hid, which shall not be made manifest: neither was it made secret, but that it may come abroad. if any man have ears to hear, let him hear. and he said to them: take heed what you hear. in what measure you shall mete, it shall be measured to you again, and more shall be given to you. for he that hath, to him shall be given: and he that hath not, that also which he hath shall be taken away from him. and he said: so is the kingdom of god, as if a man should cast seed into the earth, and should sleep, and rise, night and day, and the seed should spring, and grow up whilst he knoweth not. for the earth of itself bringeth forth fruit, first the blade, then the ear, afterwards the full corn in the ear. and when the fruit is brought forth, immediately he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come. and he said: to what shall we liken the kingdom of god? or to what parable shall we compare it? it is as a grain of mustard seed: which when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that are in the earth: and when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches, so that the birds of the air may dwell under the shadow thereof. and with many such parables, he spoke to them the word, according as they were able to hear. and without parable he did not speak unto them; but apart, he explained all things to his disciples. and he saith to them that day, when evening was come: let us pass over to the other side. and sending away the multitude, they take him even as he was in the ship: and there were other ships with him. and there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that the ship was filled. and he was in the hinder part of the ship, sleeping upon a pillow; and they awake him, and say to him: master, doth it not concern thee that we perish? and rising up, he rebuked the wind, and said to the sea: peace, be still. and the wind ceased: and there was made a great calm. and he said to them: why are you fearful? have you not faith yet? and they feared exceedingly: and they said one to another: who is this (thinkest thou) that both wind and sea obey him?

and they came over the strait of the sea into the country of the gerasens. and as he went out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the monuments a man with an unclean spirit, who had his dwelling in the tombs, and no man now could bind him, not even with chains. for having been often bound with fetters and chains, he had burst the chains, and broken the fetters in pieces, and no one could tame him. and he was always day and night in the monuments and in the mountains, crying and cutting himself with stones. and seeing jesus afar off, he ran and adored him. and crying with a loud voice, he said: what have i to do with thee, jesus the son of the most high god? i adjure thee by god that thou torment me not. for he said unto him: go out of the man, thou unclean spirit. and he asked him: what is thy name? and he saith to him: my name is legion, for we are many. and he besought him much, that he would not drive him away out of the country. and there was there near the mountain a great herd of swine, feeding. and the spirits besought him, saying: send us into the swine, that we may enter into them. and jesus immediately gave them leave. and the unclean spirits going out, entered into the swine: and the herd with great violence was carried headlong into the sea, being about two thousand, and were stifled in the sea. and they that fed them fled, and told it in the city and in the fields. and they went out to see what was done: and they came to jesus, and they see him that was troubled with the devil, sitting, clothed, and well in his wits, and they were afraid. and they that had seen it, told them, in what manner he had been dealt with who had the devil; and concerning the swine. and they began to pray him that he would depart from their coasts. and when he went up into the ship, he that had been troubled with the devil, began to beseech him that he might be with him. and he admitted him not, but saith to him: go into thy house to thy friends, and tell them how great things the lord hath done for thee, and hath had mercy on thee. and he went his way, and began to publish in decapolis how great things jesus had done for him: and all men wondered. and when jesus had passed again in the ship over the strait, a great multitude assembled together unto him, and he was nigh unto the sea. and there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue named jairus: and seeing him, falleth down at his feet. and he besought him much, saying: my daughter is at the point of death, come, lay thy hand upon her, that she may be safe, and may live. and he went with him, and a great multitude followed him, and they thronged him. and a woman who was under an issue of blood twelve years, and had suffered many things from many physicians; and had spent all that she had, and was nothing the better, but rather worse, when she had heard of jesus, came in the crowd behind him, and touched his garment. for she said: if i shall touch but his garment, i shall be whole. and forthwith the fountain of her blood was dried up, and she felt in her body that she was healed of the evil. and immediately jesus knowing in himself the virtue that had proceeded from him, turning to the multitude, said: who hath touched my garments? and his disciples said to him: thou seest the multitude thronging thee, and savest thou who hath touched me? and he looked about to see her who had done this. but the woman fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth. and he said to her: daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be thou whole of thy disease. while he was yet speaking, some come from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying: thy daughter is dead: why dost thou trouble the master any further? but jesus having heard the word that was spoken, saith to the ruler of the synagogue: fear not, only believe. and he admitted not any man to follow him, but peter, and james, and john the brother of james. and they come to the house of the ruler of the synagogue; and he seeth a tumult, and people weeping and wailing much. and going in, he saith to them: why make you this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but sleepeth. and they laughed him to scorn. but he having put them all out, taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damsel was lying. and taking the damsel by the hand, he saith to her: talitha cumi, which is, being interpreted: damsel (i say to thee) arise. and immediately the damsel rose up, and walked: and she was twelve years old: and they were astonished with a great astonishment. and he charged them strictly that no man should know it: and commanded that something should be given her to eat.

and going out from thence, he went into his own country; and his disciples followed him. and when the sabbath was come, he began to teach in the synagogue: and many hearing him were in admiration at his doctrine, saying: how came this man by all these things? and what wisdom is this that is given to him, and such mighty works as are wrought by his hands? is not this the carpenter, the son of mary, the brother of james, and joseph, and jude, and simon? are not also his sisters here with us? and they were scandalized in regard of him. and jesus said to them: a prophet is not without honor, but in his own country, and in his own house, and among his own kindred. and he could not do any miracles there, only that he cured a few that were sick, laying his hands upon them. and he wondered because of their unbelief, and he went through the villages round about teaching. and he called the twelve; and began to send them two and two, and gave them power over unclean spirits. and he commanded them that they should take nothing for the way, but a staff only: no scrip, no bread, nor money in their purse, but to be shod with sandals, and that they should not put on two coats. and he said to them: whosoever you shall enter into an house, there abide till you depart from that place. and whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear you; going forth from thence, shake off the dust from your feet for a testimony to them. and going forth they preached that men should do penance: and they cast out many devils, and anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them. and king herod heard, (for his name was made manifest,) and he said: john the baptist is risen again from the dead, and therefore mighty works shew forth themselves in him. and others said: it is elias. but others said: it is a prophet, as one of the prophets. which herod hearing, said: john whom i beheaded, he is risen again from the dead. for herod himself had sent and apprehended john, and bound him in prison for the sake of herodias the wife of philip his brother, because he had married her. for john said to herod: it is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife. now herodias laid snares for him: and was desirous to put him to death, and could not. for herod feared john, knowing him to be a just and holy man: and kept him, and when he heard him, did many things: and he heard him willingly. and when a convenient day was come, herod made a supper for his birthday, for the princes, and tribunes, and chief men of galilee. and when the daughter of the same herodias had come in, and had danced, and pleased herod, and them that were at table with him, the king said to the damsel: ask of me what thou wilt, and i will give it thee. and he swore to her: whatsoever thou shalt ask i will give thee, though it be the half of my kingdom. who when she was gone out, said to her mother, what shall i ask? but she said: the head of john the baptist. and when she was come in immediately with haste to the king, she asked, saying: i will that forthwith thou give me in a dish, the head of john the baptist. and the king was struck sad. yet because of his oath, and because of them that were with him at table, he would not displease her: but sending an executioner, he commanded that his head should be brought in a dish. and he beheaded him in the prison, and brought his head in a dish: and gave it to the damsel, and the damsel gave it to her mother. which his disciples hearing came, and took his body, and laid it in a tomb. and the apostles coming together unto jesus, related to him all things that they had done and taught. and he said to them: come apart into a desert place, and rest a little. for there were many coming and going: and they had not so much as time to eat. and going up into a ship, they went into a desert place apart. and they saw them going away, and many knew: and they ran flocking thither on foot from all the cities, and were there before them. and jesus going out saw a great multitude: and he had compassion on them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd, and he began to teach them many things. and when the day was now far spent, his disciples came to him, saying: this is a desert place, and the hour is now past: send them away, that going into the next villages and towns, they may buy themselves meat to eat. and he answering said to them: give you them to eat. and they said to him: let us go and buy bread for two hundred pence, and we will give them to eat. and he saith to them: how many loaves have you? go and see. and when they knew, they say: five, and two fishes and he commanded them that they should make them all sit down by companies upon the green grass. and they sat down in ranks, by hundreds and by fifties. and when he had taken the five loaves, and the two fishes: looking up to heaven, he blessed, and broke the loaves, and gave to his disciples to set before them: and the two fishes he divided among them all. and they all did eat, and had their fill. and they took up the leavings, twelve full baskets of fragments, and of the fishes. and they that did eat, were five thousand men. and immediately he obliged his disciples to go up into the ship, that they might go before him over the water to bethsaida, whilst he dismissed the people. and when he had dismissed them, he went up to the mountain to pray. and when it was late, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and himself alone on the land. and seeing them labouring in rowing, (for the wind was against them,) and about the fourth watch of the night, he cometh to them walking upon the sea, and he would have passed by them. but they seeing him walking upon the sea, thought it was an apparition, and they cried out. for they all saw him, and were troubled. and immediately he spoke with them, and said to them: have a good heart, it is i, fear ye not. and he went up to them into the ship, and the wind ceased: and they were far more astonished within themselves: for they understood not concerning the loaves; for their heart was blinded. and when they had passed over, they came into the land of genezareth, and set to the shore. and when they were gone out of the ship, immediately they knew him: and running through that whole country, they began to carry about in beds those that were sick, where they heard he was. and whithersoever he entered, into towns or into villages or cities, they laid the sick in the streets, and besought him that they might touch but the hem of his garment: and as many as touched him were made whole.

and there assembled together unto him the pharisees and some of the scribes, coming from jerusalem. and when they had seen some of his disciples eat bread with common, that is, with unwashed hands, they found fault. for the pharisees, and all the jews eat not without often washing their hands, holding the tradition of the ancients: and when they come from the market, unless they be washed, they eat not: and many other things there are that have been delivered to them to observe, the washings of cups and of pots, and of brazen vessels, and of beds. and the pharisees and scribes asked him: why do not thy disciples walk according to the tradition of the ancients, but they eat bread with common hands? but he answering, said to them: well did isaias prophesy of you hypocrites, as it is written: this people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. and in vain to they worship me, teaching doctrines and precepts of men. for leaving the commandment of god, you hold the tradition of men, the washing of pots and of cups: and many other things you do like to these. and he said to them: well do you make void the commandment of god, that you may keep your own tradition. for moyses said: honor thy father and thy mother; and he that shall curse father or mother, dying let him die. but you say: if a man shall say to his father or mother, corban, (which is a gift,) whatsoever is from me, shall profit thee. and further you suffer him not to do any thing for his father or mother, making void the word of god by your own tradition, which you have given forth. and many other such like things you do. and calling again the multitude unto him, he said to them: hear ye me all, and understand. there is nothing from without a man that entering into him, can defile him. but the things which come from a man, those are they that defile a man. if any man have ears to hear, let him hear. and when he was come into the house from the multitude, his disciples asked him the parable. and he saith to them: so are you also without knowledge? understand you not that every thing from without, entering into a man cannot defile him: because it entereth not into his heart, but goeth into the belly, and goeth out into the privy, purging all meats? but he said that the things which come out from a man, they defile a man. for from within out of the heart of men proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness. all these evil things come from within, and defile a man. and rising from thence he went into the coasts of tyre and sidon: and entering into a house, he would that no man should know it, and he could not be hid. for a woman as soon as she heard of him, whose daughter had an unclean spirit, came in and fell down at his feet. for the woman was a gentile, a syrophenician born. and she besought him that he would cast forth the devil out of her daughter. who said to her: suffer first the children to be filled: for it is not good to take the bread of the children, and cast it to the dogs. but she answered and said to him: yea, lord; for the whelps also eat under the table of the crumbs of the children. and he said to her: for this saying go thy way, the devil is gone out of thy daughter. and when she was come into her house, she found the girl lying upon the bed, and that the devil was gone out. and again going out of the coasts of tyre, he came by sidon to the sea of galilee, through the midst of the coasts of decapolis. and they bring to him one deaf and dumb; and they besought him that he would lay his hand upon him. and taking him from the multitude apart, he put his fingers into his ears, and spitting, he touched his tongue: and looking up to heaven, he groaned, and said to him: ephpheta, which is, be thou opened. and immediately his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spoke right. and he charged them that they should tell no

man. but the more he charged them, so much the more a great deal did they publish it. and so much the more did they wonder, saying: he hath done all things well; he hath made both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.

in those days again, when there was a great multitude, and had nothing to eat; calling his disciples together, he saith to them: i have compassion on the multitude, for behold they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat. and if i shall send them away fasting to their home, they will faint in the way; for some of them came from afar off. and his disciples answered him: from whence can any one fill them here with bread in the wilderness? and he asked them: how many loaves have ye? who said: seven. and taking the seven loaves, giving thanks, he broke, and gave to his disciples for to set before them; and they set them before the people. and they had a few little fishes; and he blessed them, and commanded them to be set before them. and they did eat and were filled; and they took up that which was left of the fragments, seven baskets. and they that had eaten were about four thousand; and he sent them away. and immediately going up into a ship with his disciples, he came into the parts of dalmanutha. and the pharisees came forth, and began to question with him, asking him a sign from heaven, tempting him. and sighing deeply in spirit, he saith: why doth this generation seek a sign? amen, i say to you, a sign shall not be given to this generation. and leaving them, he went up again into the ship, and passed to the other side of the water. and they forgot to take bread; and they had but one loaf with them in the ship. and he charged them, saying: take heed and beware of the leaven of the pharisees, and of the leaven of herod. and they reasoned among themselves, saying: because we have no bread. which jesus knowing, saith to them: why do you reason, because you have no bread? do you not yet know nor understand? have you still your heart blinded? having eyes, see you not? and having ears, hear you not? neither do you remember. when i broke the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took you up? they say to him, twelve. when also the seven loaves among four thousand, how many baskets of fragments took you up? and they say to him, seven. and he said to them: how do you not yet understand? and they came to bethsaida; and they bring to him a blind man, and they besought him that he would touch him. and taking the blind man by the hand, he led him out of the town; and spitting upon his eyes, laying his hands on him, he asked him if he saw any thing. and looking up, he said: i see men as it were trees, walking. after that again he laid his hands upon his eyes, and he began to see, and was restored, so that he saw all things clearly. and he sent him into his house, saying: go into thy house, and if thou enter into the town, tell nobody. and jesus went out, and his disciples, into the towns of caesarea philippi. and in the way, he asked his disciples, saying to them:

whom do men say that i am? who answered him, saying: john the baptist; but some elias, and others as one of the prophets. then he saith to them: but whom do you say that i am? peter answering said to him: thou art the christ. and he strictly charged them that they should not tell any man of him. and he began to teach them, that the son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected by the ancients and by the high priests, and the scribes, and be killed: and after three days rise again. and he spoke the word openly. and peter taking him, began to rebuke him. who turning about and seeing his disciples, threatened peter, saying: go behind me, satan, because thou savorest not the things that are of god, but that are of men. and calling the multitude together with his disciples, he said to them: if any man will follow me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. for whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel, shall save it. for what shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul? for he that shall be ashamed of me, and of my words, in this adulterous and sinful generation: the son of man also will be ashamed of him, when he shall come in the glory of his father with the holy angels.

and he said to them: amen i say to you, that there are some of them that stand here, who shall not taste death, till they see the kingdom of god coming in power. and after six days jesus taketh with him peter and james and john, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves, and was transfigured before them. and his garments became shining and exceeding white as snow, so as no fuller upon earth can make white. and there appeared to them elias with moyses; and they were talking with jesus. and peter answering, said to jesus: rabbi, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for moyses, and one for elias. for he knew not what he said: for they were struck with fear. and there was a cloud overshadowing them: and a voice came out of the cloud, saying: this is my most beloved son; hear ye him. and immediately looking about, they saw no man any more, but jesus only with them. and as they came down from the mountain, he charged them not to tell any man what things they had seen, till the son of man shall be risen again from the dead. and they kept the word to themselves; questioning together what that should mean, when he shall be risen from the dead. and they asked him, saying: why then do the pharisees and scribes say that elias must come first? who answering, said to them: elias, when he shall come first, shall restore all things; and as it is written of the son of man, that he must suffer many things and be despised. but i say to you, that elias also is come, (and they have done to him whatsoever they would,) as it is written of him. and coming to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the scribes disputing with them. and presently all the people seeing jesus, were astonished and struck with fear; and running to him, they saluted him. and he asked them: what do you question about among you? and one of the multitude, answering, said: master, i have brought my son to thee, having a dumb spirit. who, wheresoever he taketh him, dasheth him, and he foameth, and gnasheth with the teeth, and pineth away; and i spoke to thy disciples to cast him out, and they could not. who answering them, said: o incredulous generation, how long shall i be with you? how long shall i suffer you? bring him unto me. and they brought him. and when he had seen him, immediately the spirit troubled him; and being thrown down upon the ground, he rolled about foaming. and he asked his father: how long time is it since this hath happened unto him? but he said: from his infancy: and oftentimes hath he cast him into the fire and into waters to destroy him. but if thou canst do any thing, help us, having compassion on us. and jesus saith to him: if thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth. and immediately the father of the boy crying out, with tears said: i do believe, lord: help my unbelief. and when jesus saw the multitude running together, he threatened the unclean spirit, saying to him: deaf and dumb spirit, i command thee, go out of him; and enter not any more into him. and crying out, and greatly tearing him, he went out of him, and he became as dead, so that many said: he is dead. but jesus taking him by the hand, lifted him up; and he arose. and when he was come into the house, his disciples secretly asked him: why could not we cast him out? and he said to them: this kind can go out by nothing, but by prayer and fasting. and departing from thence, they passed through galilee, and he would not that any man should know it. and he taught his disciple, and said to them: the son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and after that he is killed, he shall rise again the third day. but they understood not the word, and they were afraid to ask him. and they came to capharnaum. and when they were in the house, he asked them: what did you treat of in the way? but they held their peace, for in the way they had disputed among themselves, which of them should be the greatest. and sitting down, he called the twelve, and saith to them: if any man desire to be first, he shall be the last of all, and the minister of all. and taking a child, he set him in the midst of them. whom when he had embraced, he saith to them: whosoever shall receive one such child as this in my name, receiveth me. and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me. john answered him, saying: master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, who followeth not us, and we forbade him. but jesus said: do not forbid him. for there is no man that doth a miracle in my name, and can soon speak ill of me. for he that is not against you, is for you. for whosoever shall give you to drink a cup of water in my name, because you belong to christ: amen i say to you, he shall not lose his reward. and whosoever shall scandalize one of these little ones that believe in me; it were better for him that a millstone were hanged around his neck, and he were cast into the sea. and if thy hand scandalize thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life, maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into unquenchable fire: where there worm dieth not, and the fire is not extinguished. and if thy foot scandalize thee, cut it off. it is better for thee to enter lame into life everlasting, than having two feet, to be cast into the hell of unquenchable fire: where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not extinguished. and if thy eye scandalize thee, pluck it out. it is better for thee with one eye to enter into the kingdom of god, than having two eyes to be cast into the hell of fire: where the worm dieth not, and the fire is not extinguished. for every one shall be salted with fire: and every victim shall be salted with salt. salt is good. but if the salt became unsavory; wherewith will you season it? have salt in you, and have peace among you.

and rising up from thence, he cometh into the coasts of judea beyond the jordan: and the multitudes flock to him again. and as he was accustomed, he taught them again. and the pharisees coming to him asked him: is it lawful for a man to put away his wife? tempting him. but he answering, saith to them: what did moyses command you? who said: moyses permitted to write a bill of divorce, and to put her away. to whom jesus answering, said: because of the hardness of your heart he wrote you that precept. but from the beginning of the creation, god made them male and female. for this cause a man shall leave his father and mother; and shall cleave to his wife. and they two shall be in one flesh. therefore now they are not two, but one flesh. what therefore god hath joined together, let not man put asunder. and in the house again his disciples asked him concerning the same thing. and he saith to them: whosoever shall put away his wife and marry another, committeth adultery against her. and if the wife shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery. and they brought to him young children, that he might touch them. and the disciples rebuked them that brought them. whom when jesus saw, he was much displeased, and saith to them: suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of god. amen i say to you, whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of god as a little child, shall not enter into it. and embracing them, and laying his hands upon them, he blessed them. and when he was gone forth into the way, a certain man running up and kneeling before him, asked him, good master, what shall i do that i may receive life everlasting? and jesus said to him, why callest thou me good? none is good but one, that is god. thou knowest the commandments: do not commit adultery, do not kill, do not steal, bear not false witness, do no fraud, honour thy father and mother. but he answering, said to him: master, all these things i have observed from my youth. and jesus looking on him, loved him, and said to him: one thing is wanting unto thee: go, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me. who being struck sad at that saying, went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions. and jesus looking round about, saith to his disciples: how hardly shall they that have riches, enter into the kingdom of god! and the disciples were astonished at his words. but jesus again answering, saith to them: children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches, to enter into the kingdom of god? it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of god. who wondered the more, saying among themselves: who then can be saved? and jesus looking on them, saith: with men it is impossible; but not with god: for all things are possible with god. and peter began to say unto him: behold, we have left all things, and have followed thee. jesus answering, said: amen i say to you, there is no man who hath left house or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or children, or lands, for my sake and for the gospel, who shall not receive an hundred times as much, now in this time; houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecutions: and in the world to come life everlasting. but many that are first, shall be last: and the last, first, and they were in the way going up to jerusalem: and jesus went before them, and they were astonished; and following were afraid. and taking again the twelve, he began to tell them the things that should befall him. saying: behold we go up to jerusalem, and the son of man shall be betrayed to the chief priests, and to the scribes and ancients, and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the gentiles. and they shall mock him, and spit on him, and scourge him, and kill him: and the third day he shall rise again. and james and john the sons of zebedee, come to him, saying: master, we desire that whatsoever we shall ask, thou wouldst do it for us: but he said to them: what would you that i should do for you? and they said: grant to us, that we may sit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory. and jesus said to them: you know not what you ask. can you drink of the chalice that i drink of: or be baptized with the baptism wherewith i am baptized? but they said to him: we can. and jesus saith to them: you shall indeed drink of the chalice that i drink of: and with the baptism wherewith i am baptized, you shall be baptized. but to sit on my right hand, or on my left, is not mine to give to you, but to them for whom it is prepared. and the ten hearing it, began to be much displeased at james and john. but jesus calling them, saith to them: you know that they who seem to rule over the gentiles, lord it over them: and their princes have power over them. but it is not so among you: but whosoever will be greater, shall be your minister. and whosoever will be first among you, shall be the servant of all. for the son of man also is not come to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a redemption for many. and they came to jericho: and as he went out of jericho, with his disciples, and a very great multitude, bartimeus the blind man, the son of timeus, sat by the way side begging. who when he had heard, that it was jesus of nazareth, began to cry out, and to say: jesus son of david, have mercy on me. and many rebuked him, that he might hold his peace; but he cried a great deal the more: son of david, have mercy on me. and jesus, standing still, commanded him to be called. and they call the blind man, saying to him: be of better comfort: arise, he calleth thee. who casting off his garment leaped up, and came to him. and jesus answering, said to him: what wilt thou that i should do to thee? and the blind man said to him: rabboni, that i may see. and jesus saith to him: go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole. and immediately he saw, and followed him in the way.

and when they were drawing near to jerusalem and to bethania at the mount of olives, he sendeth two of his disciples, and saith to them: go into the village that is over against you, and immediately at your coming in thither, you shall find a colt tied, upon which no man yet hath sat: loose him, and bring him. and if any man shall say to you, what are you doing? say ye that the lord hath need of him: and immediately he will let him come hither. and going their way, they found the colt tied before the gate without, in the meeting of two ways: and they loose him. and some of them that stood there, said to them: what do you loosing the colt? who said to them as jesus had commanded them; and they let him go with them. and they brought the colt to jesus; and they lay their garments on him, and he sat upon him. and many spread their garments in the way: and others cut down boughs from the trees, and strewed them in the way. and they that went before and they that followed, cried, saying: hosanna, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the lord. blessed be the kingdom of our father david that cometh: hosanna in the highest. and he entered into jerusalem, into the temple: and having viewed all things round about, when now the eventide was come, he went out to bethania with the twelve. and the next day when they came out from bethania, he was hungry. and when he had seen afar off a fig tree having leaves, he came if perhaps he might find any thing on it. and when he was come to it, he found nothing but leaves. for it was not the time for figs. and answering he said to it: may no man hereafter eat fruit of thee any more for ever. and his disciples heard it. and they came to jerusalem. and when he was entered into the temple, he began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the chairs of them that sold doves. and he suffered not that any man should carry a vessel through the temple; and he taught, saying to them: is it not written, my house shall be called the house of prayer to all nations? but you have made it a den of thieves. which when the chief priests and the scribes had heard, they sought how they might destroy him. for they feared him, because the whole multitude was in admiration at his doctrine. and when evening was come, he went forth out of the city. and when they passed by in the morning they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots. and peter remembering, said to him: rabbi, behold the fig tree, which thou didst curse, is withered away. and jesus answering, saith to them: have the faith of god. amen i say to you, that whosoever shall say to this mountain, be thou removed and be cast into the sea, and shall not stagger in his heart, but believe, that whatsoever he saith shall be done; it shall be done unto him. therefore i say unto you, all things, whatsoever you ask when ye pray, believe that you shall receive; and they shall come unto you. and when you shall stand to pray, forgive, if you have aught against any man; that your father also, who is in heaven, may forgive you your sins. but if you will not forgive, neither will your father that is in heaven, forgive you your sins. and they come again to jerusalem. and when he was walking in the temple, there come to him the chief priests and the scribes and the ancients, and they say to him: by what authority dost thou these things? and who hath given thee this authority that thou shouldst do these things? and jesus answering, said to them: i will also ask you one word, and answer you me, and i will tell you by what authority i do these things. the baptism of john, was it from heaven, or from men? answer me. but they thought with themselves, saying: if we say, from heaven; he will say, why then did you not believe him? if we say, from men, we fear the people. for all men counted john that he was a prophet indeed. and they answering, say to jesus: we know not. and jesus answering, saith to them: neither do i tell you by what authority i do these things.

and he began to speak to them in parables: a certain man planted a vineyard and made a hedge about it, and dug a place for the winefat, and built a tower, and let it to husbandmen; and went into a far country. and at the season he sent to the husbandmen a servant to receive of the husbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard. who having laid hands on him, beat him, and sent him away empty. and again he sent to them another servant; and him they wounded in the head, and used him reproachfully. and again he sent another, and him they killed: and many others, of whom some they beat, and others they killed. therefore having yet one son, most dear to him; he also sent him unto them last of all, saying: they will reverence my son. but the husbandmen said one to another: this is the heir; come let us kill him; and the inheritance shall be ours. and laying hold on him, they killed him, and cast him out of the vineyard. what therefore will the lord of the vineyard do? he will come and destroy those husbandmen; and will give the vineyard to others. and have you not read this scripture, the stone which the builders rejected, the same is made the head of the corner: by the lord has this been done, and it is wonderful in our eyes. and they sought to lay hands on him, but they feared the people. for they knew that he spoke this parable to them. and leaving him, they went their way. and they sent to him some of the pharisees and of the herodians; that they should catch him in his words. who coming, say to him: master, we know that thou art a true speaker, and carest not for any man; for thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest the way of god in truth. is it lawful to give tribute to caesar; or shall we not give it? who knowing their wiliness, saith to them: why tempt you me? bring me a penny that i may see it. and they brought it him. and he saith to them: whose is this image and inscription? they say to him, caesar's. and jesus answering, said to them: render therefore to caesar the things that are caesar's, and to god the things that are god's. and they marvelled at him. and there came to him the sadducees, who say there is no resurrection; and they asked him, saying: master, moyses wrote unto us, that if any man's brother die, and leave his wife behind him, and leave no children, his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed to his brother. now there were seven brethren; and the first took a wife, and died leaving no issue. and the second took her, and died: and neither did he leave any issue. and the third in like manner. and the seven all took her in like manner; and did not leave issue. last of all the woman also died. in the resurrection therefore, when they shall rise again, whose wife shall she be of them? for the seven had her to wife. and jesus answering, saith to them: do ye not therefore err, because you know not the scriptures, nor the power of god? for when they shall rise again from the dead, they shall neither marry, nor be married, but are as the angels in heaven. and as concerning the dead that they rise again, have you not read in the book of moyses, how in the bush god spoke to him, saying: i am the god of abraham, and the god of isaac, and the god of jacob? he is not the god of the dead, but of the living. you therefore do greatly err. and there came one of the scribes that had heard them reasoning together, and seeing that he had answered them well, asked him which was the first commandment of all. and jesus answered him: the first commandment of all is, hear, o israel: the lord thy god is one god. and thou shalt love the lord thy god, with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind, and with thy whole strength. this is the first commandment. and the second is like to it: thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. there is no other commandment greater than these. and the scribe said to him: well, master, thou hast said in truth, that there is one god, and there is no other besides him. and that he should be loved with the whole heart, and with the whole understanding, and with the whole soul, and with the whole strength; and to love one's neighbour as one's self, is a greater thing than all holocausts and sacrifices. and jesus seeing that he had answered wisely, said to him: thou art not far from the kingdom of god. and no man after that durst ask him any question. and jesus answering, said, teaching in the temple: how do the scribes say, that christ is the son of david? for david himself saith by the holy ghost: the lord said to my lord, sit on my right hand, until i make thy enemies thy footstool. david therefore himself calleth him lord, and whence is he then his son? and a great multitude heard him gladly. and he said to them in his doctrine: beware of the scribes, who love to walk in long robes, and to be saluted in the marketplace, and to sit in the first chairs, in the synagogues, and to have the highest places at suppers: who devour the houses of widows under the pretence of long prayer: these shall receive greater judgment. and jesus sitting over against the treasury, beheld how the people cast money into the treasury, and many that were rich cast in much. and there came a certain poor widow, and she cast in two mites, which make a farthing. and calling his disciples together, he saith to them: amen i say to you, this poor widow hath cast in more than all they who have cast into the treasury. for all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want cast in all she had, even her whole living.

and as he was going out of the temple, one of his disciples said to him: master, behold what manner of stones and what buildings are here. and jesus answering, said to him: seest thou all these great buildings? there shall not be left a stone upon a stone, that shall not be thrown down. and as he sat on the mount of olivet over against the temple, peter and james and john and andrew asked him apart: tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign when all these things shall begin to be fulfilled? and jesus answering, began to say to them, take heed lest any man deceive you. for many shall come in my name, saying, i am he; and they shall deceive many. and when you shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, fear ye not. for such things must needs be, but the end is not yet. for nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be earthquakes in divers places, and famines. these things are the beginning of sorrows. but look to yourselves. for they shall deliver you up to councils, and in the synagogues you shall be beaten, and you shall stand before governors and kings for my sake, for a testimony unto them. and unto all nations the gospel must first be preached. and when they shall lead you and deliver you up, be not thoughtful beforehand what you shall speak; but whatsoever shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye. for it is not you that speak, but the holy ghost. and the brother shall betray his brother unto death, and the father his son; and children shall rise up against the parents, and shall work their death. and you shall be hated by all men for my name's sake. but he that shall endure unto the end, he shall be saved. and when you shall see the abomination of desolation, standing where it ought not: he that readeth let him understand: then let them that are in judea, flee unto the mountains: and let him that is on the housetop, not go down into the house, nor enter therein to take any thing out of the house: and let him that shall be in the field, not turn back to take up his garment. and woe to them that are with child, and that give suck in those days. but pray ye, that these things happen not in winter. for in those days shall be such tribulations, as were not from the beginning of the creation which god created until now, neither shall be. and unless the lord had shortened the days, no flesh should be saved: but for the sake of the elect which he hath chosen, he hath shortened the days. and then if any man shall say to you, lo, here is christ; lo, he is here: do not believe. for there will rise up false christs and false prophets, and they shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce (if it were possible) even the elect. take ye heed therefore; behold i have foretold you all things. but in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light. and the stars of heaven shall be falling down, and the powers that are in heaven, shall be moved. and then shall they see the son of man coming in the clouds, with great power and glory. and then shall he send his angels, and shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from the uttermost part of the earth to the uttermost part of heaven. now of the fig tree learn ye a parable. when the branch thereof is now tender, and the leaves are come forth, you know that summer is very near. so you also when you shall see these things come to pass, know ye that it is very nigh, even at the doors. amen i say to you, that this generation shall not pass, until all these things be done. heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away. but of that day or hour no man knoweth, neither the angels in heaven, nor the son, but the father. take ye heed, watch and pray. for ye know not when the time is. even as a man who going into a far country, left his house; and gave authority to his servants over every work, and commanded the porter to watch. watch ye therefore, (for you know not when the lord of the house cometh: at even, or at midnight, or at the cock-crowing, or in the morning,) lest coming on a sudden, he find you sleeping. and what i say to you, i say to all: watch.

now the feast of the pasch, and of the azymes was after two days; and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might by some wile lay hold on him, and kill him. but they said: not on the festival day, lest there should be a tumult among the people. and when he was in bethania, in the house of simon the leper, and was at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of precious spikenard: and breaking the alabaster box, she poured it out upon his head. now there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said: why was this waste of the ointment made? for this ointment might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, and given to the poor. and they murmured against her. but jesus said: let her alone, why do you molest her? she hath wrought a good work upon me. for the poor you have always with you: and whensoever you will, you may do them good: but me you have not always. she hath done what she could: she is come beforehand to anoint my body for burial. amen, i say to you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which she hath done, shall be told for a memorial of her. and judas iscariot, one of the twelve, went to the chief priests, to betray him to them. who hearing it were glad; and they promised him they would give him money. and he sought how he might conveniently betray him. now on the first day of the unleavened bread, when they sacrificed the pasch, the disciples say to him: whither wilt thou that we go, and prepare for thee to eat the pasch? and he sendeth two of his disciples, and saith to them: go ye into the city; and there shall meet you a man carrying a pitcher of water, follow him; and whithersoever he shall go in, say to the master of the house, the master saith, where is my refectory, where i may eat the pasch with my disciples? and he will shew you a large dining room furnished; and there prepare ye for us. and his disciples went their way, and came into the city; and they found as he had told them, and they prepared the pasch. and when evening was come, he cometh with the twelve. and when they were at table and eating, jesus saith: amen i say to you, one of you that eateth with me shall betray me. but they began to be sorrowful, and to say to him one by one: is it i? who saith to them: one of the twelve, who dippeth with me his hand in the dish. and the son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the son of man shall be betrayed. it were better for him, if that man had not been born. and whilst they were eating, jesus took bread; and blessing, broke, and gave to them, and said: take ye. this is my body. and having taken the chalice, giving thanks, he gave it to them. and they all drank of it. and he said to them: this is my blood of the new testament, which shall be shed for many. amen i say to you, that i will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day when i shall drink it new in the kingdom of god. and when they had said an hymn, they went forth to the mount of olives. and jesus saith to them: you will all be scandalized in my regard this night; for it is written, i will strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be dispersed. but after i shall be risen again, i will go before you into galilee. but peter saith to him: although all shall be scandalized in thee, yet not i. and jesus saith to him: amen i say to thee, to day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. but he spoke the more vehemently: although i should die together with thee, i will not deny thee. and in like manner also said they all. and they came to a farm called gethsemani. and he saith to his disciples: sit you here, while i pray. and he taketh peter and james and john with him; and he began to fear and to be heavy. and he saith to them: my soul is sorrowful even unto death; stay you here, and watch. and when he was gone forward a little, he fell flat on the ground; and he prayed, that if it might be, the hour might pass from him. and he saith: abba, father, all things are possible to thee: remove this chalice from me; but not what i will, but what thou wilt. and he cometh, and findeth them sleeping. and he saith to peter: simon, sleepest thou? couldst thou not watch one hour? watch ye, and pray that you enter not into temptation. the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. a going away again, he prayed, saying the same words. and when he returned, he found them again asleep, (for their eyes were heavy,) and they knew not what to answer him. and he cometh the third time, and saith to them: sleep ye now, and take your rest. it is enough: the hour is come: behold the son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of sinners. rise up, let us go. behold, he that will betray me is at hand. and while he was yet speaking, cometh judas iscariot, one of the twelve: and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and the scribes and the ancients. and he that betrayed him, had given them a sign, saying: whomsoever i shall kiss, that is he; lay hold on him, and lead him away carefully. and when he was come, immediately going up to him, he saith: hail, rabbi; and he kissed him. but they laid hands on him, and held him. an one of them that stood by, drawing a sword, struck a servant of the chief priest, and cut off his ear. and jesus answering, said to them: are you come out as to a robber, with swords and staves to apprehend me? i was daily with you in the temple teaching, and you did not lay hands on me. but that the scriptures may be fulfilled. then his disciples leaving him, all fled away. and a certain young man followed him, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body; and they laid hold on him. but he, casting off the linen cloth, fled from them naked. and they brought jesus to the high priest; and all the priests and the scribes and the ancients assembled together. and peter followed him from afar off, even into the court of the high priest; and he sat with the servants at the fire, and warmed himself. and the chief priests and all the council sought for evidence against jesus, that they might put him to death, and found none. for many bore false witness against him, and their evidences were not agreeing. and some rising up, bore false witness against him, saying: we heard him say, i will destroy this temple made with hands, and within three days i will build another not made with hands. and their witness did not agree. and the high priest rising up in the midst, asked jesus, saying: answerest thou nothing to the things that are laid to thy charge by these men? but he held his peace, and answered nothing. again the high priest asked him, and said to him: art thou the christ the son of the blessed god? and jesus said to him: i am. and you shall see the son of man sitting on the right hand of the power of god, and coming with the clouds of heaven. then the high priest rending his garments, saith: what need we any further witnesses? you have heard the blasphemy. what think you? who all condemned him to be guilty of death. and some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him: prophesy: and the servants struck him with the palms of their hands. now when peter was in the court below, there cometh one of the maidservants of the high priest. and when she had seen peter warming himself, looking on him she saith: thou also wast with jesus of nazareth. but he denied, saying: i neither know nor understand what thou sayest. and he went forth before the court; and the cock crew. and again a maidservant seeing him, began to say to the standers by: this is one of them. but he denied again. and after a while they that stood by said again to peter: surely thou art one of them; for thou art also a galilean. but he began to curse and to swear, saying: i know not this man of whom you speak. and immediately the cock crew again. and peter remembered the word that jesus had said unto him: before the cock crow twice, thou shalt thrice deny me. and he began to weep.

and straightway in the morning, the chief priests holding a consultation with the ancients and the scribes and the whole council, binding jesus, led him away, and delivered him to pilate. and pilate asked him: art thou the king of the jews? but he answering, saith to him: thou sayest it. and the chief priests accused him in many things. and pilate again asked him, saying: answerest thou nothing? behold in how many things they accuse thee. but jesus still answered nothing; so that pilate wondered. now on the festival day he was wont to release unto them one of the prisoners, whomsoever they demanded. and there was one called barabbas, who was put in prison with some seditious men, who in the sedition had committed murder. and when the multitude was come up, they began to desire that he would do, as he had ever done unto them. and pilate answered them, and said: will you that i release to you the king of the jews? for he knew that the chief priests had delivered him up out of envy. but the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release barabbas to them. and pilate again answering, saith to them: what will you then that i do to the king of the jews? but they again cried out: crucify him. and pilate saith to them: why, what evil hath he done? but they cried out the more: crucify him. and so pilate being willing to satisfy the people, released to them barabbas, and delivered up jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified. and the soldiers led him away into the court of the palace, and they called together the whole band: and they clothe him with purple, and plating a crown of thorns, they put it upon him. and they began to salute him: hail, king of the jews. and they struck his head with a reed: and they did spit on him. and bowing their knees, they adored him. and after they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own garments on him, and they led him out to crucify him. and they forced one simon a cyrenian who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of alexander and of rufus, to take up his cross. and they bring him into the place called golgotha, which being interpreted is, the place of calvary, and they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh; but he took it not. and crucifying him, they divided his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take. and it was the third hour, and they crucified him. and the inscription of his cause was written over: the king of the jews. and with him they crucify two thieves; the one on his right hand, and the other on his left. and the scripture was fulfilled, which saith: and with the wicked he was reputed. and they that passed by blasphemed him, wagging their heads, and saying: vah, thou that destroyest the temple of god, and in three days buildest it up again; save thyself, coming down from the cross. in like manner also the chief priests mocking, said with the scribes one to another: he saved others; himself he cannot save. let christ the king of israel come down now from the cross, that we may see and believe. and they that were crucified with him reviled him. and when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole earth until the ninth hour. and at the ninth hour, jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying: eloi, eloi, lamma sabac-thani? which is, being interpreted, my god, my god, why hast thou forsaken me? and some of the standers by hearing, said: behold he calleth elias. and one running and filling a sponge with vinegar, and putting it upon a reed, gave him to drink, saying: stay, let us see if elias come to take him down. and jesus having cried out with a loud voice, gave up the ghost. and the veil of the temple was rent in two, from the top to the bottom. and the centurion who stood over against him, seeing that crying out in this manner he had given up the ghost, said: indeed this man was the son of god. and there were also women looking on afar off: among whom was mary magdalen, and mary the mother of james the less and of joseph, and salome: who also when he was in galilee followed him, and ministered to him, and many other women that came up with him to jerusalem. and when evening was now come, (because it was the parasceve, that is, the day before the sabbath,) joseph of arimathea, a noble counsellor, who was also himself looking for the kingdom of god, came and went in boldly to pilate, and begged the body of jesus. but pilate wondered that he should be already dead. and sending for the centurion, he asked him if he were already dead. and when he had understood it by the centurion, he gave the body to joseph. and joseph buying fine linen, and taking him down, wrapped him up in the fine linen, and laid him in a sepulchre which was hewed out of a rock. and he rolled a stone to the door of the sepulchre. and mary magdalen, and mary the mother of joseph, beheld where he was laid.

and when the sabbath was past, mary magdalen, and mary the mother of james, and salome, bought sweet spices, that coming, they might anoint jesus. and very early in the morning, the first day of the week, they come to the sepulchre, the sun being now risen. and they said one to another: who shall roll us back the stone from the door of the sepulchre? and looking, they saw the stone rolled back. for it was very great. and entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed with a white robe: and they were astonished. who saith to them: be not affrighted; you seek jesus of nazareth, who was crucified: he is risen, he is not here, behold the place where they laid him. but go, tell his disciples and peter that he goeth before you into galilee; there you shall see him, as he told you. but they going out, fled from the sepulchre. for a trembling and fear had seized them: and they said nothing to any man; for they were afraid. but he rising early the first day of the week, appeared first to mary magdalen, out of whom he had cast seven devils. she went and told them that had been with him, who were mourning and weeping. and they hearing that he was alive, and had been seen by her, did not believe. and after that he appeared in another shape to two of them walking, as they were going into the country. and they going told it to the rest: neither did they believe them. at length

he appeared to the eleven as they were at table: and he upbraided them with their incredulity and hardness of heart, because they did not believe them who had seen him after he was risen again. and he said to them: go ye into the whole world, and preach the gospel to every creature. he that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved: but he that believeth not shall be condemned. and these signs shall follow them that believe: in my name they shall cast out devils: they shall speak with new tongues. they shall take up serpents; and if they shall drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them: they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover. and the lord jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of god. but they going forth preached every where: the lord working withal, and confirming the word with signs that followed.

forasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a narration of the things that have been accomplished among us; according as they have delivered them unto us, who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and ministers of the word: it seemed good to me also, having diligently attained to all things from the beginning, to write to thee in order, most excellent theophilus, that thou mayest know the verity of those words in which thou hast been instructed. there was in the days of herod, the king of judea, a certain priest named zachary, of the course of abia; and his wife was of the daughters of aaron, and her name elizabeth. and they were both just before god, walking in all the commandments and justifications of the lord without blame. and they had no son, for that elizabeth was barren, and they both were well advanced in years. and it came to pass, when he executed the priestly function in the order of his course before god, according to the custom of the priestly office, it was his lot to offer incense, going into the temple of the lord. and all the multitude of the people was praying without, at the hour of incense. and there appeared to him an angel of the lord, standing on the right side of the altar of incense. and zachary seeing him, was troubled, and fear fell upon him. but the angel said to him: fear not, zachary, for thy prayer is heard; and thy wife elizabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name john: and thou shalt have joy and gladness, and many shall rejoice in his nativity. for he shall be great before the lord; and shall drink no wine nor strong drink: and he shall be filled with the holy ghost, even from his mother's womb. and he shall convert many of the children of israel to the lord thy god. and he shall go before him in the spirit and power of elias; that he may turn the hearts of the fathers unto the children, and the incredulous to the wisdom of the just, to prepare unto the lord a perfect people. and zachary said to the angel: whereby shall i know this? for i am an old man, and my wife is advanced in years. and the angel answering, said to him: i am gabriel, who stand before god: and am sent to speak to thee, and to bring thee these good tidings. and behold, thou shalt be dumb, and shalt not be able to speak until the day wherein these things shall come to pass, because thou hast not believed my words, which shall be fulfilled in their time. and the people were waiting for zachary; and they wondered that he tarried so long in the temple. and when he came out, he could not speak to them: and they understood that he had seen a vision in the temple. and he made signs to them, and remained dumb. and it came to pass, after the days of his office were accomplished, he departed to his own house. and after those days, elizabeth his wife conceived, and hid herself five months, saying: thus hath the lord dealt with me in the days wherein he hath had regard to take away my reproach among men. and in the sixth month, the angel gabriel was sent from god into a city of galilee, called nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was joseph, of the house of david; and the virgin's name was mary. and the angel being come in, said unto her: hail, full of grace, the lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. who having heard, was troubled at his saying, and thought with herself what manner of salutation this should be. and the angel said to her: fear not, mary, for thou hast found grace with god. behold thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and shalt bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name jesus. he shall be great, and shall be called the son of the most high; and the lord god shall give unto him the throne of david his father; and he shall reign in the house of jacob for ever. and of his kingdom there shall be no end. and mary said to the angel: how shall this be done, because i know not man? and the angel answering, said to her: the holy ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the most high shall overshadow thee. and therefore also the holy which shall be born of thee shall be called the son of god. and behold thy cousin elizabeth, she also hath conceived a son in her old age; and this is the sixth month with her that is called barren: because no word shall be impossible with god. and mary said: behold the handmaid of the lord; be it done to me according to thy word. and the angel departed from her. and mary rising up in those days, went into the hill country with haste into a city of juda. and she entered into the house of zachary, and saluted elizabeth. and it came to pass, that when elizabeth heard the salutation of mary, the infant leaped in her womb. and elizabeth was filled with the holy ghost: and she cried out with a loud voice, and said: blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb. and whence is this to me, that the mother of my lord should come to me? for behold as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in my ears, the infant in my womb leaped for joy. and blessed art thou that hast believed, because those things shall be accomplished that were spoken to thee by the lord. and mary said: my soul doth magnify the lord. and my spirit hath rejoiced in god my saviour. because he hath regarded the humility of his handmaid; for behold from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. because he that is mighty, hath done great things to me; and holy is his name. and his mercy is from generation unto generations, to them that fear him. he hath shewed might in his arm: he hath scattered the proud in the conceit of their heart. he hath put down the mighty from their seat, and hath exalted the humble. he hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away. he hath received israel his servant, being mindful of his mercy: as he spoke to our fathers, to abraham and to his seed for ever. and mary abode with her about three months; and she returned to her own house. now elizabeth's full time of being delivered was come, and she brought forth a son. and her neighbours and kinsfolks heard that the lord had shewed his great mercy towards her, and they congratulated with her. and it came to pass, that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child, and they called him by his father's name zachary. and his mother answering, said: not so; but he shall be called john. and they said to her: there is none of thy kindred that is called by this name. and they made signs to his father, how he would have him called. and demanding a writing table, he wrote, saying: john is his name. and they all wondered. and immediately his mouth was opened, and his tongue loosed, and he spoke, blessing god. and fear came upon all their neighbours; and all these things were noised abroad over all the hill country of judea. and all they that had heard them laid them up in their heart, saying: what an one, think ye, shall this child be? for the hand of the lord was with him. and zachary his father was filled with the holy ghost; and he prophesied, saying: blessed be the lord god of israel; because he hath visited and wrought the redemption of his people: and hath raised up an horn of salvation to us, in the house of david his servant: as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets, who are from the beginning: salvation from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us: to perform mercy to our fathers, and to remember his holy testament, the oath, which he swore to abraham our father, that he would grant to us, that being delivered from the hand of our enemies, we may serve him without fear, in holiness and justice before him, all our days. and thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the lord to prepare his ways: to give knowledge of salvation to his people, unto the remission of their sins: through the bowels of the mercy of our god, in which the orient from on high hath visited us: to enlighten them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death: to direct our feet into the way of peace. and the child grew, and was strengthened in spirit; and was in the deserts until the day of his manifestation to israel.

and it came to pass, that in those days there went out a decree from caesar augustus, that the whole world should be enrolled. this enrolling was first made by cyrinus, the governor of syria. and all went to be enrolled, every one into his own city. and joseph also went up from galilee, out of the city of nazareth into judea, to the city of david, which is called bethlehem: because he was of the house and family of david, to be enrolled with mary his espoused wife, who was with child. and it came to pass, that when they were there, her days were accomplished, that she should be delivered. and she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him up in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. and there were in the same country shepherds watching, and keeping the night watches over their flock. and behold an angel of the lord stood by them, and the brightness of god shone round about them; and they feared with a great fear. and the angel said to them: fear not; for, behold, i bring you good tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people: for, this day, is born to you a saviour, who is christ the lord, in the city of david. and this shall be a sign unto you. you shall find the infant wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in a manger. and suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly army, praising god, and saying: glory to god in the highest; and on earth peace to men of good will. and it came to pass, after the angels departed from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another: let us go over to bethlehem, and let us see this word that is come to pass, which the lord hath shewed to us. and they came with haste; and they found mary and joseph, and the infant lying in the manger. and seeing, they understood of the word that had been spoken to them concerning this child. and all that heard, wondered; and at those things that were told them by the shepherds. but mary kept all these words, pondering them in her heart. and the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising god, for all the things they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them. and after eight days were accomplished, that the child should be circumcised, his name was called jesus, which was called by the angel, before he was conceived in the womb. and after the days of her purification, according to the law of moyses, were accomplished, they carried him to jerusalem, to present him to the lord: as it is written in the law of the lord: every male opening the womb shall be called holy to the lord: and to offer a sacrifice, according as it is written in the law of the lord, a pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons: and behold there was a man in jerusalem named simeon, and this man was just and devout, waiting for the consolation of israel; and the holy ghost was in him. and he had received an answer from the holy ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen the christ of the lord. and he came by the spirit into the temple. and when his parents brought in the child jesus, to do for him according to the custom of the law, he also took him into his arms, and blessed god, and said: now thou dost dismiss thy servant, o lord, according to thy word in peace; because my eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples: a light to the revelation of the gentiles, and the glory of thy people israel. and his father and mother were wondering at those things which were spoken concerning him. and simeon blessed them, and said to mary his mother: behold this child is set for the fall, and for the resurrection of many in israel, and for a sign which shall be contradicted; and thy own soul a sword shall pierce, that, out of many hearts, thoughts may be revealed. and there was one anna, a prophetess, the daughter of phanuel, of the tribe of aser; she was far advanced in years, and had lived with her husband seven years from her virginity. and she was a widow until fourscore and four years; who departed not from the temple, by fastings and prayers serving night and day. now she, at the same hour, coming in, confessed to the lord; and spoke of him to all that looked for the redemption of israel. and after they had performed all things according to the law of the lord, they returned into galilee, to their city nazareth. and the child grew, and waxed strong, full of wisdom; and the grace of god was in him. and his parents went every year to jerusalem, at the solemn day of the pasch, and when he was twelve years old, they going up into jerusalem, according to the custom of the feast, and having fulfilled the days, when they returned, the child jesus remained in jerusalem; and his parents knew it not. and thinking that he was in the company, they came a day's journey, and sought him among their kinsfolks and acquaintance. and not finding him, they returned into jerusalem, seeking him. and it came to pass, that, after three days, they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, hearing them, and asking them questions. and all that heard him were astonished at his wisdom and his answers. and seeing him, they wondered. and his mother said to him: son, why hast thou done so to us? behold thy father and i have sought thee sorrowing. and he said to them: how is it that you sought me? did you not know, that i must be about my father's business? and they understood not the word that he spoke unto them. and he went down with them, and came to nazareth, and was subject to them. and his mother kept all these words in her heart. and jesus advanced in wisdom, and age, and grace with god and men.

now in the fifteenth year of the reign of tiberius caesar, pontius pilate being governor of judea, and herod being tetrarch of galilee, and philip his brother tetrarch of iturea, and the country of trachonitis, and lysanias tetrarch of abilina; under the high priests annas and caiphas; the word of the lord was made unto john, the son of zachary, in the desert. and he came into all the country about the jordan, preaching the baptism of penance for the remission of sins; as it was written in the book of the sayings of isaias the prophet: a voice of one crying in the wilderness: prepare ye the way of the lord, make straight his paths. every valley shall be filled; and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight; and the rough ways plain; and all flesh shall see the salvation of god. he said therefore to the multitudes that went forth to be baptized by him: ye offspring of vipers, who hath shewed you to flee from the wrath to come? bring forth therefore fruits worthy of penance; and do not begin to say, we have abraham for our father. for i say unto you, that god is able of these stones to raise up children to abraham. for now the axe is laid to the root of the trees. every tree therefore that bringeth not forth good fruit, shall be cut down and cast into the fire. and the people asked him, saying: what then shall we do? and he answering, said to them: he that hath two coats, let him give to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do in like manner. and the publicans also came to be baptized, and said to him: master, what shall we do? but he said to them: do nothing more than that which is appointed you. and the soldiers also asked him, saying: and what shall we do? and he said to them: do violence to no man; neither calumniate any man; and be content with your pay. and as the people were of opinion, and all were thinking in their hearts of john, that perhaps he might be the christ; john answered, saying unto all: i indeed baptize you with water; but there shall come one mightier than i, the latchet of whose shoes i am not worthy to loose: he shall baptize you with the holy ghost, and with fire: whose fan is in his hand, and he will purge his floor, and will gather the wheat into his barn; but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire. and many other things exhorting, did he preach to the people. but herod the tetrarch, when he was reproved by him for herodias, his brother's wife, and for all the evils which herod had done; he added this also above all, and shut up john in prison. now it came to pass, when all the people were baptized, that jesus also being baptized and praying, heaven was opened; and the holy ghost descended in a bodily shape, as a dove upon him; and a voice came from heaven: thou art my beloved son; in thee i am well pleased. and jesus himself was beginning about the age of thirty years; being (as it was supposed) the son of joseph, who was of heli, who was of mathat, who was of levi, who was of melchi, who was of janne, who was of joseph, who was of mathathias, who was of amos, who was of nahum, who was of hesli, who was of nagee, who was of mahath, who was of mathathias, who was of semei, who was of joseph, who was of juda, who was of joanna, who was of reza, who was of zorobabel, who was of salathiel, who was of neri, who was of melchi, who was of addi, who was of cosan, who was of helmadan, who was of her, who was of jesus, who was of eliezzer, who was of jorim, who was of mathat, who was of levi, who was of simeon, who was of judas, who was of joseph, who was of jona, who was of eliakim, who was of melea, who was of menna, who was of mathatha, who was of nathan, who was of david, who was of jesse, who was of obed, who was of booz, who was of salmon, who was of naasson, who was of aminadab, who was of aram, who was of esron, who was of phares, who was of judas, who was of jacob, who was of isaac, who was of abraham, who was of thare, who was of nachor, who was of sarug, who was of ragau, who was of phaleg, who was of heber, who was of sale, who was of cainan, who was of arphaxad, who was of sem, who was of noe, who was of lamech, who was of mathusale, who was of enoch, who was of Jared, who was of malaleel, who was of cainan, who was of henos, who was of seth, who was of adam, who was of god.

and jesus being full of the holy ghost, returned from the jordan, and was led by the spirit into the desert, for the space of forty days; and was tempted by the devil. and he ate nothing in those days; and when they were ended, he was hungry. and the devil said to him: if thou be the son of god, say to this stone that it be made bread. and jesus answered him: it is written, that man liveth not by bread alone, but by every word of god. and the devil led him into a high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time; and he said to him: to thee will i give all this power, and the glory of them; for to me they are delivered, and to whom i will, i give them. if thou therefore wilt adore before me, all shall be thine. and jesus answering said to him: it is written: thou shalt adore the lord thy god, and him only shalt thou serve. and he brought him to jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and he said to him: if thou be the son of god, cast thyself from hence. for it is written, that he hath given his angels charge over thee, that they keep thee. and that in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest perhaps thou dash thy foot against a stone. and jesus answering, said to him: it is said: thou shalt not tempt the lord thy god. and all the temptation being ended, the devil departed from him for a time. and jesus returned in the power of the spirit, into galilee, and the fame of him went out through the whole country. and he taught in their synagogues, and was magnified by all. and he came to nazareth, where he was brought up: and he went into the synagogue, according to his custom, on the sabbath day; and he rose up to read. and the book of isaias the prophet was delivered unto him. and as he unfolded the book, he found the place where it was written: the spirit of the lord is upon me. wherefore he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor, he hath sent me to heal the contrite of heart, to preach deliverance to the captives, and sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the lord, and the day of reward. and when he had folded the book, he restored it to the minister, and sat down. and the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on him. and he began to say to them: this day is fulfilled this scripture in your ears. and all gave testimony to him: and they wondered at the words of grace that proceeded from his mouth, and they said: is not this the son of joseph? and he said to them: doubtless you will say to me this similitude: physician, heal thyself: as great things as we have heard done in capernaum, do also here in thy own country. and he said: amen i say to you, that no prophet is accepted in his own country. in truth i say to you, there were many widows in the days of elias in israel, when heaven was shut up three years and six months, when there was a great famine throughout all the earth. and to none of them was elias sent, but to sarepta of sidon, to a widow woman. and there were many lepers in israel in the time of eliseus the prophet: and none of them was cleansed but naaman the syrian. and all they in the synagogue, hearing these things, were filled with anger. and they rose up and thrust him out of the city; and they brought him to the brow of the hill, whereon their city was built, that they might cast him down headlong. but he passing through the midst of them, went his way. and he went down into capernaum, a city of galilee, and there he taught them on the sabbath days. and they were astonished at his doctrine: for his speech was with power. and in the synagogue there was a man who had an unclean devil, and he cried out with a loud voice, saying: let us alone, what have we to do with thee, jesus of nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? i know thee who thou art, the holy one of god. and jesus rebuked him, saying: hold thy peace, and go out of him. and when the devil had thrown him into the midst, he went out of him, and hurt him not at all. and there came fear upon all, and they talked among themselves, saying: what word is this, for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they go out? and the fame of him was published into every place of the country. and jesus rising up out of the synagogue, went into simon's house. and simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever, and they besought him for her. and standing over her, he commanded the fever, and it left her. and immediately rising, she ministered to them. and when the sun was down, all they that had any sick with divers diseases, brought them to him. but he laying his hands on every one of them, healed them. and devils went out from many, crying out and saying: thou art the son of god. and rebuking them he suffered them not to speak, for they knew that he was christ. and when it was day, going out he went into a desert place, and the multitudes sought him, and came unto him: and they stayed him that he should not depart from them. to whom he said: to other cities also i must preach the kingdom of god: for therefore am i sent. and he was preaching in the synagogues of galilee.

and it came to pass, that when the multitudes pressed upon him to hear the word of god, he stood by the lake of genesareth, and saw two ships standing by the lake: but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets. and going into one of the ships that was simon's, he desired him to draw back a little from the land. and sitting he taught the multitudes out of the ship. now when he had ceased to speak, he said to simon: launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught. and simon answering said to him: master, we have labored all the night, and have taken nothing: but at thy word i will let down the net. and when they had done this, they enclosed a very great multitude of fishes, and their net broke. and they beckoned to their partners that were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. and they came, and filled both the ships, so that they were almost sinking. which when simon peter saw, he fell down at jesus' knees, saying: depart from me, for i am a sinful man, o lord. for he was wholly astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken. and so were also james and john the sons of zebedee, who were simon's partners. and jesus saith to simon: fear not: from henceforth thou shalt catch men. and having brought their ships to land, leaving all things, they followed him. and it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy, who seeing jesus, and falling on his face, besought him, saying: lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. and stretching forth his hand, he touched him, saying: i will. be thou cleansed. and immediately the leprosy departed from him. and he charged him that he should tell no man, but, go, shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing according as moyses commanded, for a testimony to them. but the fame of him went abroad the more, and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities. and he retired into the desert, and prayed. and it came to pass on a certain day, as he sat teaching, and it came to pass on a certain day, as he sat teaching, that there were also pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, that were come out of every town of galilee, and judea and jerusalem: and the power of the lord was to heal them. and behold, men brought in a bed

a man, who had the palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him. and when they could not find by what way they might bring him in, because of the multitude, they went up upon the roof, and let him down through the tiles with his bed into the midst before jesus. whose faith when he saw, he said: man, thy sins are forgiven thee. and the scribes and pharisees began to think, saying: who is this who speaketh blasphemies? who can forgive sins, but god alone? and when jesus knew their thoughts, answering, he said to them: what is it you think in your hearts? which is easier to say, thy sins are forgiven thee; or to say, arise and walk? but that you may know that the son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy,) i say to thee, arise, take up thy bed, and go into thy house. and immediately rising up before them, he took up the bed on which he lay; and he went away to his own house, glorifying god. and all were astonished; and they glorified god. and they were filled with fear, saying: we have seen wonderful things to day. and after these things he went forth, and saw a publican named levi, sitting at the receipt of custom, and he said to him: follow me. and leaving all things, he rose up and followed him. and levi made him a great feast in his own house; and there was a great company of publicans, and of others, that were at table with them. but the pharisees and scribes murmured, saying to his disciples: why do you eat and drink with publicans and sinners? and jesus answering, said to them: they that are whole, need not the physician: but they that are sick. i came not to call the just, but sinners to penance. and they said to him: why do the disciples of john fast often, and make prayers, and the disciples of the pharisees in like manner; but thine eat and drink? to whom he said: can you make the children of the bridegroom fast, whilst the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, then shall they fast in those days. and he spoke also a similitude to them: that no man putteth a piece from a new garment upon an old garment; otherwise he both rendeth the new, and the piece taken from the new agreeth not with the old. and no man putteth new wine into old bottle: otherwise the new wine will break the bottles, and it will be spilled, and the bottles will be lost. but new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved. and no man drinking old, hath presently a mind to new: for he saith, the old is better.

and it came to pass on the second first sabbath, that as he went through the corn fields, his disciples plucked the ears, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands. and some of the pharisees said to them: why do you that which is not lawful on the sabbath days? and jesus answering them, said: have you not read so much as this, what david did, when himself was hungry, and they that were with him: how he went into the house of god, and took and ate the bread of proposition, and gave to them that were with him, which is not lawful to eat but only for the priests? and he said to them: the son of man is lord also of the sabbath. and it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue, and taught. and there was a man, whose right hand was withered. and the scribes and pharisees watched if he would heal on the sabbath; that they might find an accusation against him. but he knew their thoughts; and said to the man who had the withered hand: arise, and stand forth in the midst. and rising he stood forth. then jesus said to them: i ask you, if it be lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil; to save life, or to destroy? and looking round about on them all, he said to the man: stretch forth thy hand. and he stretched it forth: and his hand was restored. and they were filled with madness; and they talked one with another, what they might do to jesus. and it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and he passed the whole night in the prayer of god. and when day was come, he called unto him his disciples; and he chose twelve of them (whom also he named apostles): simon, whom he surnamed peter, and andrew his brother, james and john, philip and bartholomew, matthew and thomas, james the son of alpheus, and simon who is called zelotes, and jude, the brother of james, and judas iscariot, who was the traitor. and coming down with them, he stood in a plain place, and the company of his disciples, and a very great multitude of people from all judaea and jerusalem, and the sea coast both of tyre and sidon, who were come to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases. and they that were troubled with unclean spirits, were cured. and all the multitude sought to touch him, for virtue went out from him, and healed all. and he, lifting up his eyes on his disciples, said: blessed are ye poor, for yours is the kingdom of god. blessed are ye that hunger now: for you shall be filled. blessed are ye that weep now: for you shall laugh. blessed shall you be when men shall hate you, and when they shall separate you, and shall reproach you, and cast out your name as evil, for the son of man's sake. be glad in that day and rejoice; for behold, your reward is great in heaven. for according to these things did their fathers to the prophets. but woe to you that are rich: for you have your consolation. woe to you that are filled: for you shall hunger. woe to you that now laugh: for you shall mourn and weep. woe to you when men shall bless you: for according to these things did their fathers to the false prophets. but i say to you that hear: love your enemies, do good to them that hate you. bless them that curse you, and pray for them that calumniate you. and to him that striketh thee on the one cheek, offer also the other. and him that taketh away from thee thy cloak, forbid not to take thy coat also. give to every one that asketh thee, and of him that taketh away thy goods, ask them not again. and as you would that men should do to you, do you also to them in like manner. and if you love them that love you, what thanks are to you? for sinners also love those that love them. and if you do good to them who do good to you, what thanks are to you? for sinners also do this. and if you lend to them of whom you hope to receive, what thanks are to you? for sinners also lend to sinners, for to receive as much. but

love ye your enemies: do good, and lend, hoping for nothing thereby: and your reward shall be great, and you shall be the sons of the highest; for he is kind to the unthankful, and to the evil. be ye therefore merciful, as your father also is merciful. judge not, and you shall not be judged. condemn not, and you shall not be condemned. forgive, and you shall be forgiven. give, and it shall be given to you: good measure and pressed down and shaken together and running over shall they give into your bosom. for with the same measure that you shall mete withal, it shall be measured to you again. and he spoke also to them a similitude: can the blind lead the blind? do they not both fall into the ditch? the disciple is not above his master: but every one shall be perfect, if he be as his master. and why seest thou the mote in thy brother's eye: but the beam that is in thy own eye thou considerest not? or how canst thou say to thy brother: brother, let me pull the mote out of thy eye, when thou thyself seest not the beam in thy own eye? hypocrite, cast first the beam out of thy own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to take out the mote from thy brother's eye. for there is no good tree that bringeth forth evil fruit; nor an evil tree that bringeth forth good fruit. for every tree is known by its fruit. for men do not gather figs from thorns; nor from a bramble bush do they gather the grape. a good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth that which is evil. for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. and why call you me, lord, lord; and do not the things which i say? every one that cometh to me, and heareth my words, and doth them, i will shew you to whom he is like. he is like to a man building a house, who digged deep, and laid the foundation upon a rock. and when a flood came, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and it could not shake it; for it was founded on a rock. but he that heareth, and doth not, is like to a man building his house upon the earth without a foundation: against which the stream beat vehemently, and immediately it fell, and the ruin of that house was great.

and when he had finished all his words in the hearing of the people, he entered into capharnaum. and the servant of a certain centurion, who was dear to him, being sick, was ready to die. and when he had heard of jesus, he sent unto him the ancients of the jews, desiring him to come and heal his servant. and when they came to jesus, they besought him earnestly, saying to him: he is worthy that thou shouldest do this for him. for he loveth our nation; and he hath built us a synagogue. and jesus went with them. and when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent his friends to him, saying: lord, trouble not thyself; for i am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof. for which cause neither did i think myself worthy to come to thee; but say the word, and my servant shall be healed. for i also am a man subject to authority, having under me soldiers: and i say to one, go, and he goeth; and to another, come, and he

cometh; and to my servant, do this, and he doth it. which jesus hearing, marvelled: and turning about to the multitude that followed him, he said: amen i say to you, i have not found so great faith, not even in israel. and they who were sent, being returned to the house, found the servant whole who had been sick. and it came to pass afterwards, that he went into a city that is called naim; and there went with him his disciples, and a great multitude. and when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold a dead man was carried out, the only son of his mother; and she was a widow: and a great multitude of the city was with her. whom when the lord had seen, being moved with mercy towards her, he said to her: weep not. and he came near and touched the bier. and they that carried it, stood still. and he said: young man, i say to thee, arise, and he that was dead, sat up, and began to speak. and he gave him to his mother. and there came a fear on them all: and they glorified god, saying: a great prophet is risen up among us: and, god hath visited his people. and this rumour of him went forth throughout all judea, and throughout all the country round about. and john's disciples told him of all these things. and john called to him two of his disciples, and sent them to jesus, saying: art thou he that art to come; or look we for another? and when the men were come unto him, they said: john the baptist hath sent us to thee, saying: art thou he that art to come; or look we for another? (and in that same hour, he cured many of their diseases, and hurts, and evil spirits: and to many that were blind he gave sight.) and answering, he said to them: go and relate to john what you have heard and seen: the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are made clean, the deaf hear, the dead rise again, to the poor the gospel is preached: and blessed is he whosoever shall not be scandalized in me. and when the messengers of john were departed, he began to speak to the multitudes concerning john. what went ye out into the desert to see? a reed shaken with the wind? but what went you out to see? a man clothed in soft garments? behold they that are in costly apparel and live delicately, are in the houses of kings. but what went you out to see? a prophet? yea, i say to you, and more than a prophet. this is he of whom it is written: behold i send my angel before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee. for i say to you: amongst those that are born of women, there is not a greater prophet than john the baptist. but he that is the lesser in the kingdom of god, is greater than he. and all the people hearing, and the publicans, justified god, being baptized with john's baptism. but the pharisees and the lawyers despised the counsel of god against themselves, being not baptized by him. and the lord said: whereunto then shall i liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like? they are like to children sitting in the marketplace, and speaking one to another, and saying: we have piped to you, and you have not danced: we have mourned, and you have not wept. for john the baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and you say: he hath a devil. the son of man is come eating and drinking: and you say: behold a man that is a glutton and a drinker of wine, a friend of publicans and sinners. and wisdom is justified by all her children. and one of the pharisees desired him to eat with him. and he went into the house of the pharisee, and sat down to meat. and behold a woman that was in the city, a sinner, when she knew that he sat at meat in the pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment; and standing behind at his feet, she began to wash his feet, with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment. and the pharisee, who had invited him, seeing it, spoke within himself, saying: this man, if he were a prophet, would know surely who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him, that she is a sinner. and jesus answering, said to him: simon, i have somewhat to say to thee. but he said: master, say it. a certain creditor had two debtors, the one who owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty. and whereas they had not wherewith to pay, he forgave them both. which therefore of the two loveth him most? simon answering, said: i suppose that he to whom he forgave most. and he said to him: thou hast judged rightly. and turning to the woman, he said unto simon: dost thou see this woman? i entered into thy house, thou gavest me no water for my feet; but she with tears hath washed my feet, and with her hairs hath wiped them. thou gavest me no kiss; but she, since she came in, hath not ceased to kiss my feet. my head with oil thou didst not anoint; but she with ointment hath anointed my feet. wherefore i say to thee: many sins are forgiven her, because she hath loved much. but to whom less is forgiven, he loveth less. and he said to her: thy sins are forgiven thee. and they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves: who is this that forgiveth sins also? and he said to the woman: thy faith hath made thee safe, go in peace.

and it came to pass afterwards, that he travelled through the cities and towns, preaching and evangelizing the kingdom of god; and the twelve with him: and certain women who had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities; mary who is called magdalen, out of whom seven devils were gone forth, and joanna the wife of chusa, herod's steward, and susanna, and many others who ministered unto him of their substance. and when a very great multitude was gathered together, and hastened out of the cities unto him, he spoke by a similitude. the sower went out to sow his seed. and as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it. and other some fell upon a rock: and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it had no moisture. and other some fell among thorns, and the thorns growing up with it, choked it. and other some fell upon good ground; and being sprung up, yielded fruit a hundredfold. saying these things, he cried out: he that hath ears to hear, let him hear. and his disciples asked him what this parable might be. to whom he said: to you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of god; but to the rest in parables, that seeing they may not see, and hearing they may not understand. now the parable is this: the seed is the word of god. and they by the way side are they that hear; then the devil cometh, and taketh the word out of their heart, lest believing they should be saved. now they upon the rock, are they who when they hear, receive the word with joy: and these have no roots; for they believe for a while, and in time of temptation, they fall away. and that which fell among thorns, are they who have heard, and going their way, are choked with the cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and yield no fruit. but that on the good ground, are they who in a good and perfect heart, hearing the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit in patience. now no man lighting a candle covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it upon a candlestick, that they who come in may see the light. for there is not any thing secret that shall not be made manifest, nor hidden, that shall not be known and come abroad. take heed therefore how you hear. for whosoever hath, to him shall be given: and whosoever hath not, that also which he thinketh he hath, shall be taken away from him. and his mother and brethren came unto him; and they could not come at him for the crowd. and it was told him: thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee. who answering, said to them: my mother and my brethren are they who hear the word of god, and do it. and it came to pass on a certain day that he went into a little ship with his disciples, and he said to them: let us go over to the other side of the lake. and they launched forth. and when they were sailing, he slept; and there came down a storm of wind upon the lake, and they were filled, and were in danger. and they came and awaked him, saying: master, we perish. but he arising, rebuked the wind and the rage of the water; and it ceased, and there was a calm. and he said to them: where is your faith? who being afraid, wondered, saying one to another: who is this, (think you), that he commandeth both the winds and the sea, and they obey him? and they sailed to the country of the gerasens, which is over against galilee. and when he was come forth to the land, there met him a certain man who had a devil now a very long time, and he wore no clothes, neither did he abide in a house, but in the sepulchres. and when he saw jesus, he fell down before him; and crying out with a loud voice, he said: what have i to do with thee, jesus, son of the most high god? i beseech thee, do not torment me. for he commanded the unclean spirit to go out of the man. for many times it seized him, and he was bound with chains, and kept in fetters; and breaking the bonds, he was driven by the devil into the deserts. and jesus asked him, saying: what is thy name? but he said: legion; because many devils were entered into him. and they besought him that he would not command them to go into the abyss. and there was there a herd of many swine feeding on the mountain; and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. and he suffered them. the devils therefore went out of the man, and entered into the swine; and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were stifled. which when they that fed them saw done, they fled away, and told it in the city and in the villages.

and they went out to see what was done; and they came to jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at his feet, clothed, and in his right mind; and they were afraid. and they also that had seen, told them how he had been healed from the legion. and all the multitude of the country of the gerasens besought him to depart from them; for they were taken with great fear. and he, going up into the ship, returned back again. now the man, out of whom the devils were departed, besought him that he might be with him. but jesus sent him away, saying: return to thy house, and tell how great things god hath done to thee. and he went through the whole city, publishing how great things jesus had done to him. and it came to pass, that when jesus was returned, the multitude received him: for they were all waiting for him. and behold there came a man whose name was jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue: and he fell down at the feet of jesus, beseeching him that he would come into his house: for he had an only daughter, almost twelve years old, and she was dying. and it happened as he went, that he was thronged by the multitudes. and there was a certain woman having an issue of blood twelve years, who had bestowed all her substance on physicians, and could not be healed by any. she came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment; and immediately the issue of her blood stopped. and jesus said: who is it that touched me? and all denying, peter and they that were with him said: master, the multitudes throng and press thee, and dost thou say, who touched me? and jesus said: somebody hath touched me; for i know that virtue is gone out from me. and the woman seeing that she was not hid, came trembling, and fell down before his feet, and declared before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was immediately healed. but he said to her: daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole; go thy way in peace. as he was yet speaking, there cometh one to the ruler of the synagogue, saying to him: thy daughter is dead, trouble him not. and jesus hearing this word, answered the father of the maid: fear not; believe only, and she shall be safe. and when he was come to the house, he suffered not any man to go in with him, but peter and james and john, and the father and mother of the maiden. and all wept and mourned for her. but he said: weep not; the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. and they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead. but he taking her by the hand, cried out, saying: maid, arise. and her spirit returned, and she arose immediately. and he bid them give her to eat. and her parents were astonished, whom he charged to tell no man what was done.

then calling together the twelve apostles, he gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. and he sent them to preach the kingdom of god, and to heal the sick. and he said to them: take nothing for your journey; neither staff, nor scrip, nor bread, nor money; neither have two coats. and whatsoever house you shall enter into, abide there, and depart not from thence. and whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off even the dust of your feet, for a testimony against them. and going out, they went about through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where. now herod, the tetrarch, heard of all things that were done by him; and he was in a doubt, because it was said by some, that john was risen from the dead: but by other some, that elias had appeared; and by others, that one of the old prophets was risen again. and herod said: john i have beheaded; but who is this of whom i hear such things? and he sought to see him. and the apostles, when they were returned, told him all they had done. and taking them, he went aside into a desert place, apart, which belongeth to bethsaida. which when the people knew, they followed him; and he received them, and spoke to them of the kingdom of god, and healed them who had need of healing. now the day began to decline. and the twelve came and said to him: send away the multitude, that going into the towns and villages round about, they may lodge and get victuals; for we are here in a desert place. but he said to them: give you them to eat. and they said: we have no more than five loaves and two fishes; unless perhaps we should go and buy food for all this multitude. now there were about five thousand men. and he said to his disciples: make them sit down by fifties in a company. and they did so; and made them all sit down. and taking the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, and blessed them; and he broke, and distributed to his disciples, to set before the multitude. and they did all eat, and were filled. and there were taken up of fragments that remained to them, twelve baskets. and it came to pass, as he was alone praying, his disciples also were with him: and he asked them, saying: whom do the people say that i am? but they answered, and said: john the baptist; but some say elias; and others say that one of the former prophets is risen again. and he said to them: but whom do you say that i am? simon peter answering, said: the christ of god. but he strictly charging them, commanded they should tell this to no man. saying: the son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected by the ancients and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and the third day rise again. and he said to all: if any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me. for whosoever will save his life, shall lose it; for he that shall lose his life for my sake, shall save it. for what is a man advantaged, if he gain the whole world, and lose himself, and cast away himself? for he that shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him the son of man shall be ashamed, when he shall come in his majesty, and that of his father, and of the holy angels. but i tell you of a truth: there are some standing here that shall not taste death, till they see the kingdom of god. and it came to pass about eight days after these words, that he took peter, and james, and john, and went up into a mountain to pray. and whilst he prayed, the shape of his countenance was altered, and his raiment became white and glittering. and behold two men were talking with him. and they were moyses and elias, appearing in majesty. and they spoke of his

decease that he should accomplish in jerusalem. but peter and they that were with him were heavy with sleep. and waking, they saw his glory, and the two men that stood with him. and it came to pass, that as they were departing from him, peter saith to jesus: master, it is good for us to be here; and let us make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for moyses, and one for elias; not knowing what he said. and as he spoke these things, there came a cloud, and overshadowed them; and they were afraid, when they entered into the cloud. and a voice came out of the cloud, saying: this is my beloved son; hear him. and whilst the voice was uttered, jesus was found alone. and they held their peace, and told no man in those days any of these things which they had seen. and it came to pass the day following, when they came down from the mountain, there met him a great multitude. and behold a man among the crowd cried out, saying: master, i beseech thee, look upon my son, because he is my only one. and lo, a spirit seizeth him, and he suddenly crieth out, and he throweth him down and teareth him, so that he foameth; and bruising him, he hardly departeth from him. and i desired thy disciples to cast him out, and they could not. and jesus answering, said: o faithless and perverse generation, how long shall i be with you, and suffer you? bring hither thy son. and as he was coming to him, the devil threw him down, and tore him. and jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and cured the boy, and restored him to his father. and all were astonished at the mighty power of god. but while all wondered at all the things he did, he said to his disciples: lay you up in your hearts these words, for it shall come to pass, that the son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men. but they understood not this word; and it was hid from them, so that they perceived it not. and they were afraid to ask him concerning this word. and there entered a thought into them, which of them should be greater. but jesus seeing the thoughts of their heart, took a child and set him by him, and said to them: whosoever shall receive this child in my name, receiveth me; and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth him that sent me. for he that is the lesser among you all, he is the greater. and john, answering, said: master, we saw a certain man casting out devils in thy name, and we forbade him, because he followeth not with us. and jesus said to him: forbid him not; for he that is not against you, is for you. and it came to pass, when the days of his assumption were accomplishing, that he steadfastly set his face to go to jerusalem. and he sent messengers before his face; and going, they entered into a city of the samaritans, to prepare for him. and they received him not, because his face was of one going to jerusalem. and when his disciples james and john had seen this, they said: lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them? and turning, he rebuked them, saying: you know not of what spirit you are. the son of man came not to destroy souls, but to save. and they went into another town. and it came to pass, as they walked in the way, that a certain man said to him: i will follow thee whithersoever thou goest. jesus said to him: the foxes have holes, and the birds of the air nests; but the son of man hath not where to lay his head. but he said to another: follow me. and he said: lord, suffer me first to go, and to bury my father. and jesus said to him: let the dead bury their dead: but go thou, and preach the kingdom of god. and another said: i will follow thee, lord; but let me first take my leave of them that are at my house. jesus said to him: no man putting his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of god.

and after these things the lord appointed also other seventy-two: and he sent them two and two before his face into every city and place whither he himself was to come. and he said to them: the harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few. pray ye therefore the lord of the harvest, that he send labourers into his harvest. go: behold i send you as lambs among wolves. carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way. into whatsoever house you enter, first say: peace be to this house. and if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon him; but if not, it shall return to you. and in the same house, remain, eating and drinking such things as they have: for the labourer is worthy of his hire. remove not from house to house. and into what city soever you enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you. and heal the sick that are therein, and say to them: the kingdom of god is come nigh unto you. but into whatsoever city you enter, and they receive you not, going forth into the streets thereof, say: even the very dust of your city that cleaveth to us, we wipe off against you. yet know this, that the kingdom of god is at hand. i say to you, it shall be more tolerable at that day for sodom, than for that city. woe to thee, corozain, woe to thee, bethsaida. for if in tyre and sidon had been wrought the mighty works that have been wrought in you, they would have done penance long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. but it shall be more tolerable for tyre and sidon at the judgement, than for you. and thou, capharnaum, which art exalted unto heaven, thou shalt be thrust down to hell. he that heareth you, heareth me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth me; and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me. and the seventy-two returned with joy, saying: lord, the devils also are subject to us in thy name. and he said to them: i saw satan like lightening falling from heaven. behold, i have given you power to tread upon serpents and scorpions, and upon all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall hurt you. but yet rejoice not in this, that spirits are subject unto you; but rejoice in this, that your names are written in heaven. in that same hour, he rejoiced in the holy ghost, and said: i confess to thee, o father, lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hidden these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to little ones. yea, father, for so it hath seemed good in thy sight. all things are delivered to me by my father; and no one knoweth who the son is, but the father; and who the father is, but the son, and to whom the son will reveal him.

and turning to his disciples, he said: blessed are the eyes that see the things which you see. for i say to you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see the things that you see, and have not seen them; and to hear the things that you hear, and have not heard them. and behold a certain lawyer stood up, tempting him, and saying, master, what must i do to possess eternal life? but he said to him: what is written in the law? how readeest thou? he answering, said: thou shalt love the lord thy god with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind: and thy neighbour as thyself. and he said to him: thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live. but he willing to justify himself, said to jesus: and who is my neighbour? and jesus answering, said: a certain man went down from jerusalem to jericho, and fell among robbers, who also stripped him, and having wounded him went away, leaving him half dead. and it chanced, that a certain priest went down the same way: and seeing him, passed by. in like manner also a levite, when he was near the place and saw him, passed by. but a certain samaritan being on his journey, came near him; and seeing him, was moved with compassion. and going up to him, bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine: and setting him upon his own beast, brought him to an inn, and took care of him. and the next day he took out two pence, and gave to the host, and said: take care of him; and whatsoever thou shalt spend over and above, i, at my return, will repay thee. which of these three, in thy opinion, was neighbour to him that fell among the robbers? but he said: he that shewed mercy to him. and jesus said to him: go, and do thou in like manner. now it came to pass as they went, that he entered into a certain town: and a certain woman named martha, received him into her house. and she had a sister called mary, who sitting also at the lord's feet, heard his word. but martha was busy about much serving, who stood and said: lord, hast thou no care that my sister hath left me alone to serve? speak to her therefore, that she help me. and the lord answering, said to her: martha, martha, thou art careful, and art troubled about many things: but one thing is necessary. mary hath chosen the best part, which shall not be taken away from her.

and it came to pass, that as he was in a certain place praying, when he ceased, one of his disciples said to him: lord, teach us to pray, as john also taught his disciples. and he said to them: when you pray, say: father, hallowed be thy name. thy kingdom come. give us this day our daily bread. and forgive us our sins, for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. and lead us not into temptation. and he said to them: which of you shall have a friend, and shall go to him at midnight, and shall say to him: friend, lend me three loaves, because a friend of mine is come off his journey to me, and i have not what to set before him. and he from within should answer, and say: trouble me not, the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; i cannot rise and give thee. yet if he shall continue knocking, i say to you, although he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend; yet, because of his importunity, he will rise, and give him as many as he needeth. and i say to you, ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and you shall find: knock, and it shall be opened to you. for every one that asketh, receiveth; and he that seeketh, findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened. and which of you, if he ask his father bread, will he give him a stone? or a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent? or if he shall ask an egg, will he reach him a scorpion? if you then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your father from heaven give the good spirit to them that ask him? and he was casting out a devil, and the same was dumb: and when he had cast out the devil, the dumb spoke: and the multitudes were in admiration at it: but some of them said: he casteth out devils by beelzebub, the prince of devils. and others tempting, asked of him a sign from heaven. but he seeing their thoughts, said to them: every kingdom divided against itself, shall be brought to desolation, and house upon house shall fall. and if satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because you say, that through beelzebub i cast out devils. now if i cast out devils by beelzebub; by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. but if i by the finger of god cast out devils; doubtless the kingdom of god is come upon you. when a strong man armed keepeth his court, those things are in peace which he possesseth. but if a stronger than he come upon him, and overcome him; he will take away all his armour wherein he trusted, and will distribute his spoils: he that is not with me, is against me; and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth. when the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through places without water, seeking rest; and not finding, he saith: i will return into my house whence i came out. and when he is come, he findeth it swept and garnished. then he goeth and taketh with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and entering in they dwell there. and the last state of that man becomes worse than the first. and it came to pass, as he spoke these things, a certain woman from the crowd, lifting up her voice, said to him: blessed is the womb that bore thee, and the paps that gave thee suck. but he said: yea rather, blessed are they who hear the word of god, and keep it. and the multitudes running together, he began to say: this generation is a wicked generation: it asketh a sign, and a sign shall not be given it, but the sign of jonas the prophet. for as jonas was a sign to the ninivites; so shall the son of man also be to this generation. the queen of the south shall rise in the judgment with the men of this generation, and shall condemn them: because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of solomon; and behold more than solomon here. the men of ninive shall rise in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it; because they did penance at the preaching of jonas; and behold more than jonas here. no man lighteth a candle, and putteth it in a hidden place, more under a bushel; but upon a candlestick, that they that come in, may see the light. the light of thy body is thy eye. if thy eye be single, thy whole body will be lightsome: but if it be evil, thy body also will be darksome. take heed therefore, that the light which is in thee, be not darkness. if then thy whole body be lightsome, having no part of darkness; the whole shall be lightsome; and as a bright lamp, shall enlighten thee. and as he was speaking, a certain pharisee prayed him, that he would dine with him. and he going in, sat down to eat. and the pharisee began to say, thinking within himself, why he was not washed before dinner. and the lord said to him: now you pharisees make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter; but your inside is full of rapine and iniquity. ye fools, did not he that made that which is without, make also that which is within? but yet that which remaineth, give alms; and behold, all things are clean unto you. but woe to you, pharisees, because you tithe mint and rue and every herb; and pass over judgment, and the charity of god. now these things you ought to have done, and not to leave the other undone. woe to you, pharisees, because you love the uppermost seats in the synagogues, and salutations in the marketplace. woe to you, because you are as sepulchres that appear not, and men that walk over are not aware. and one of the lawyers answering, saith to him: master, in saying these things, thou reproachest us also, but he said: woe to you lawyers also, because you load men with burdens which they cannot bear, and you yourselves touch not the packs with one of your fingers. woe to you who build the monuments of the prophets: and your fathers killed them. truly you bear witness that you consent to the doings of your fathers: for they indeed killed them, and you build their sepulchres. for this cause also the wisdom of god said: i will send to them prophets and apostles; and some of them they will kill and persecute. that the blood of all the prophets which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation, from the blood of abel unto the blood of zacharias, who was slain between the altar and the temple: yea i say to you, it shall be required of this generation. woe to you lawyers, for you have taken away the key of knowledge: you yourselves have not entered in, and those that were entering in, you have hindered. and as he was saying these things to them, the pharisees and the lawyers began violently to urge him, and to oppress his mouth about many things, lying in wait for him, and seeking to catch something from his mouth, that they might accuse him.

and when great multitudes stood about him, so that they trod one upon another, he began to say to his disciples: beware ye of the leaven of the pharisees, which is hypocrisy. for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed: nor hidden, that shall not be known. for whatsoever things you have spoken in darkness, shall be published in the light: and that which you have spoken in the ear in the chambers, shall be preached on the housetops. and i say to you, my friends: be not afraid of them who kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. but i will shew you whom you shall fear: fear ye him, who after he hath killed, hath power to cast into hell. yea, i say to you, fear him. are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before god? yea, the very hairs of your head are all numbered. fear not therefore: you are of more value than many sparrows. and i say to you, whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the son of man also confess before the angels of god. but he that shall deny me before men, shall be denied before the angels of god. and whosoever speaketh a word against the son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but to him that shall blaspheme against the holy ghost, it shall not be forgiven. and when they shall bring you into the synagogues, and to magistrates and powers, be not solicitous how or what you shall answer, or what you shall say; for the holy ghost shall teach you in the same hour what you must say. and one of the multitude said to him: master, speak to my brother that he divide the inheritance with me. but he said to him: man, who hath appointed me judge, or divider, over you? and he said to them: take heed and beware of all covetousness; for a man's life doth not consist in the abundance of things which he possesseth. and he spoke a similitude to them, saying: the land of a certain rich man brought forth plenty of fruits. and he thought within himself, saying: what shall i do, because i have no room where to bestow my fruits? and he said: this will i do: i will pull down my barns, and will build greater; and into them will i gather all things that are grown to me, and my goods. and i will say to my soul: soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years take thy rest; eat, drink, make good cheer. but god said to him: thou fool, this night do they require thy soul of thee: and whose shall those things be which thou hast provided? so is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich towards god. and he said to his disciples: therefore i say to you, be not solicitous for your life, what you shall eat; nor for your body, what you shall put on. the life is more than the meat, and the body is more than the raiment. consider the ravens, for they sow not, neither do they reap, neither have they storehouse nor barn, and god feedeth them. how much are you more valuable than they? and which of you, by taking thought, can add to his stature one cubit? if then ye be not able to do so much as the least thing, why are you solicitous for the rest? consider the lilies, how they grow: they labour not, neither do they spin. but i say to you, not even solomon in all his glory was clothed like one of these. now if god clothe in this manner the grass that is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more you, o ye of little faith? and seek not you what you shall eat, or what you shall drink: and be not lifted up on high. for all these things do the nations of the world seek. but your father knoweth that you have need of these things. but seek ye first the kingdom of god and his justice, and all these things shall be added unto you. fear not, little flock, for it hath pleased your father to give you a kingdom. sell what you possess and give alms. make to yourselves bags which grow not old, a treasure in heaven which faileth not: where no thief approacheth, nor moth corrupteth. for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. let your loins be girt, and lamps burning in your hands. and you yourselves like to men who wait for their lord, when he shall return from the wedding; that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open to him immediately. blessed are those servants, whom the lord when he cometh, shall find watching. amen i say to you, that he will gird himself, and make them sit down to meat, and passing will minister unto them. and if he shall come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants. but this know ye, that if the householder did know at what hour the thief would come, he would surely watch, and would not suffer his house to be broken open. be you then also ready: for at what hour you think not, the son of man will come. and peter said to him: lord, dost thou speak this parable to us, or likewise to all? and the lord said: who (thinkest thou) is the faithful and wise steward, whom his lord setteth over his family, to give them their measure of wheat in due season? blessed is that servant, whom when his lord shall come, he shall find so doing. verily i say to you, he will set him over all that he possesseth. but if that servant shall say in his heart: my lord is long a coming; and shall begin to strike the menservants and maidservants, and to eat and to drink and be drunk: the lord of that servant will come in the day that he hopeth not, and at the hour that he knoweth not, and shall separate him, and shall appoint him his portion with unbelievers. and that servant who knew the will of his lord, and prepared not himself, and did not according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes. but he that knew not, and did things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes. and unto whomsoever much is given, of him much shall be required: and to whom they have committed much, of him they will demand the more. i am come to cast fire on the earth; and what will i, but that it be kindled? and i have a baptism wherewith i am to be baptized: and how am i straitened until it be accomplished? think ye, that i am come to give peace on earth? i tell you, no; but separation. for there shall be from henceforth five in one house divided: three against two, and two against three. the father shall be divided against the son, and the son against his father, the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother, the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law. and he said also to the multitudes: when you see a cloud rising from the west, presently you say: a shower is coming: and so it happeneth: and when ye see the south wind blow, you say: there will be heat: and it cometh to pass. you hypocrites, you know how to discern the face of the heaven and of the earth: but how is it that you do not discern this time? and why even of yourselves, do you not judge that which is just? and when thou goest with thy adversary to the prince, whilst thou art in the way, endeavour to be delivered from him: lest perhaps he draw thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the exacter, and the exacter cast thee into prison. i say to thee, thou shalt not go out and there were present, at that very time, some that told him of the galileans, whose blood pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. and he answering, said to them: think you that these galileans were sinners above all the men of galilee, because they suffered such things? no, i say to you: but unless you shall do penance, you shall all likewise perish. or those eighteen upon whom the tower fell in siloe, and slew them: think you, that they also were debtors above all the men that dwelt in jerusalem? no, i say to you; but except you do penance, you shall all likewise perish. he spoke also this parable: a certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit on it, and found none. and he said to the dresser of the vineyard: behold, for these three years i come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and i find none. cut it done therefore: why cumbereth it the ground? but he answering, said to him: lord, let it alone this year also, until i dig about it, and dung it. and if happily it bear fruit: but if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down. and he was teaching in their synagogue on their sabbath. and behold there was a woman, who had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years: and she was bowed together, neither could she look upwards at all. whom when jesus saw, he called her unto him, and said to her: woman, thou art delivered from thy infirmity. and he laid his hands upon her, and immediately she was made straight, and glorified god. and the ruler of the synagogue (being angry that jesus had healed on the sabbath) answering, said to the multitude: six days there are wherein you ought to work. in them therefore come, and be healed; and not on the sabbath day. and the lord answering him, said: ye hypocrites, doth not every one of you, on the sabbath day, loose his ox or his ass from the manger, and lead them to water? and ought not this daughter of abraham, whom satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day? and when he said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the things that were gloriously done by him. he said therefore: to what is the kingdom of god like, and whereunto shall i resemble it? it is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his garden, and it grew and became a great tree, and the birds of the air lodged in the branches thereof. and again he said: whereunto shall i esteem the kingdom of god to be like? it is like to leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened. and he went through the cities and towns teaching, and making his journey to jerusalem. and a certain man said to him: lord, are they few that are saved? but he said to them: strive to enter by the narrow gate; for many, i say to you, shall seek to enter, and shall not be able. but when the master of the house shall be gone in, and shall shut the door, you shall begin to stand without, and knock at the door, saying: lord, open to us. and he answering, shall say to you: i know you not, whence you are. then you shall begin to say: we have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. and he shall say to you: i know you not, whence you are: depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when you shall see abraham and isaac and jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of god, and you yourselves thrust out. and there shall come from the east and the west, and the north and the south; and shall sit down in the kingdom of god. and behold, they are last that shall be first; and they are first that shall be last. the same day, there came some of the pharisees, saying to him: depart, and get thee hence, for herod hath a mind to kill thee. and he said to them: go and tell that fox, behold, i cast out devils, and do cures to day and to morrow, and the third day i am consummated. nevertheless i must walk to day and to morrow, and the day following, because it cannot be that a prophet perish, out of jerusalem. jerusalem, jerusalem, that killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent to thee, how often would i have gathered thy children as the bird doth her brood under her wings, and thou wouldest not? behold your house shall be left to you desolate. and i say to you, that you shall not see me till the time come, when you shall say: blessed is he that cometh in the name of the lord.

and it came to pass, when jesus went into the house of one of the chief of the pharisees, on the sabbath day, to eat bread, that they watched him. and behold, there was a certain man before him that had the dropsy. and jesus answering, spoke to the lawyers and pharisees, saying: is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day? but they held their peace. but he taking him, healed him, and sent him away. and answering them, he said: which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a pit, and will not immediately draw him out, on the sabbath day? and they could not answer him to these things. and he spoke a parable also to them that were invited, marking how they chose the first seats at the table, saying to them: when thou art invited to a wedding, sit not down in the first place, lest perhaps one more honourable than thou be invited by him: and he that invited thee and him, come and say to thee, give this man place: and then thou begin with shame to take the lowest place. but when thou art invited, go, sit down in the lowest place; that when he who invited thee, cometh, he may say to thee: friend, go up higher. then shalt thou have glory before them that sit at table with thee. because every one that exalteth himself, shall be humbled; and he that humbleth himself, shall be exalted. and he said to him also that had invited him: when thou make a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, nor thy kinsmen, nor thy neighbours who are rich; lest perhaps they also invite thee again, and a recompense be made to thee. but when thou make a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind; and thou shalt be blessed, because they have not wherewith to make thee recompense: for recompense shall be made thee at the resurrection of the just. when one of them that sat at table with him, had heard these things, he said to him: blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of god. but he said to him: a certain man made a great supper, and invited many. and he sent his servant at the hour of supper to say to them that were invited, that they should come, for now all things are ready. and they began all at once to make excuse. the first said to him: i have bought a farm, and i must needs go out and see it: i pray thee, hold me excused. and another said: i have bought five yoke of oxen, and i go to try them: i pray thee, hold me excused. and another said: i have married a wife, and therefore i cannot come. and the servant returning, told these things to his lord. then the master of the house, being angry, said to his servant: go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the feeble, and the blind, and the lame. and the servant said: lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. and the lord said to the servant: go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. but i say unto you, that none of those men that were invited, shall taste of my supper. and there went great multitudes with him. and turning, he said to them: if any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. and whosoever doth not carry his cross and come after me, cannot be my disciple. for which of you having a mind to build a tower, doth not first sit down, and reckon the charges that are necessary, whether he have wherewithal to finish it: lest, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that see it begin to mock him, saying: this man began to build, and was not able to finish. or what king, about to go to make war against another king, doth not first sit down, and think whether he be able, with ten thousand, to meet him that, with twenty thousand, cometh against him? or else, whilst the other is yet afar off, sending an embassy, he desireth conditions of peace. so likewise every one of you that doth not renounce all that he possesseth, cannot be my disciple. salt is good. but if the salt shall lose its savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned? it is neither profitable for the land nor for the dunghill, but shall be cast out. he that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

now the publicans and sinners drew near unto him to hear him. and the pharisees and the scribes murmured, saying: this man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them. and he spoke to them this parable, saying: what man of you that hath an hundred sheep: and if he shall lose one of them, doth he not leave the ninety-nine in the desert, and go after that which was lost, until he find it? and when he hath found it, lay it upon his shoulders, rejoicing: and coming home, call together his friends and neighbours, saying to them: rejoice with me, because i have found my sheep that was lost? i say to you, that even so there shall be joy in heaven upon one sinner that doth penance, more than upon ninety-nine just who need not penance. or what woman having ten groats; if she lose one groat, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently until she find it? and when she hath found it, call together her friends and neighbours, saying: rejoice with me, because i have found the groat which i had lost. so i say to you, there shall be joy before the angels of god upon one sinner doing penance. and he said: a certain man had two sons: and the younger of them said to his father: father, give me the portion of substance that falleth to me. and he divided unto them his substance. and not many days after, the younger son, gathering all together, went abroad into a far country: and there wasted his substance, living riotously. and after he had spent all, there came a mighty famine in that country; and he began to be in want. and he went and cleaved to one of the citizens of that country. and he sent him into his farm to feed swine. and he would fain have filled his belly with the husks the swine did eat; and no man gave unto him. and returning to himself, he said: how many hired servants in my father's house abound with bread, and i here perish with hunger? i will arise, and will go to my father, and say to him: father, i have sinned against heaven, and before thee: i am not worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants. and rising up he came to his father. and when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and was moved with compassion, and running to him fell upon his neck, and kissed him. and the son said to him: father, i have sinned against heaven, and before thee, i am not now worthy to be called thy son. and the father said to his servants: bring forth quickly the first robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet: and bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it, and let us eat and make merry: because this my son was dead, and is come to life again: was lost, and is found. and they began to be merry. now his elder son was in the field, and when he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing: and he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant. and he said to him: thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe. and he was angry, and would not go in. his father therefore coming out began to entreat him. and he answering, said to his father: behold, for so many years do i serve thee, and i have never transgressed thy commandment, and yet thou hast never given me a kid to make merry with my friends: but as soon as this thy son is come, who hath devoured his substance with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf. but he said to him: son, thou art always with me, and all i have is thine. but it was fit that we should make merry and be glad, for this thy brother was dead and is come to life again; he was lost, and is found.

and he said also to his disciples: there was a certain rich man who had a steward: and the same was accused unto him, that he had wasted his goods. and he called him, and said to him: how is it that i hear this of thee? give an account of thy stewardship: for now thou canst be steward no longer. and the steward said within himself: what shall i do, because my lord taketh away from me the stewardship? to dig i am not able; to beg i am ashamed. i know what i will do, that when i shall be removed from the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses. therefore calling together every one of his lord's debtors, he said to the first: how much dost thou owe my lord? but he said: an hundred barrels of oil. and he said to him: take thy bill and sit down quickly, and write fifty. then he said to another: and how much dost thou owe? who said: an hundred quarters of wheat. he said to him: take thy bill, and write eighty. and the lord commended the unjust steward, forasmuch as he had done wisely: for the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light. and i say to you: make unto you friends of the mammon of iniquity; that when you shall fail, they may receive you into everlasting dwellings. he that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in that which is greater: and he that is unjust in that which is little, is unjust also in that which is greater. if then you have not been faithful in the unjust mammon; who will trust you with that which is the true? and if you have not been faithful in that which is another's; who will give you that which is your own? no servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or he will hold to the one, and despise the other. you cannot serve god and mammon. now the pharisees, who were covetous, heard all these things: and they derided him. and he said to them: you are they who justify yourselves before men, but god knoweth your hearts; for that which is high to men, is an abomination before god. the law and the prophets were until john; from that time the kingdom of god is preached, and every one useth violence towards it. and it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one tittle of the law to fall. every one that putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and he that marrieth her that is put away from her husband, committeth adultery. there was a certain rich man, who was clothed in purple and fine linen; and feasted sumptuously every day. and there was a certain beggar, named lazarus, who lay at his gate, full of sores, desiring to be filled with the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table, and no one did give him; moreover the dogs came, and licked his sores. and it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into abraham's bosom. and the rich man also died: and he was buried in hell, and lifting up his eyes when he was in torments, he saw abraham afar off, and lazarus in his bosom: and he cried, and said: father abraham, have mercy on me, and send lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, to cool my tongue: for i am tormented in this flame. and abraham said to him: son, remember that thou didst receive good things in thy lifetime, and likewise lazareth evil things, but now he is comforted; and thou art tormented. and besides all this, between us and you, there is fixed a great chaos: so that they who would pass from hence to you, cannot, nor from thence come hither. and he said: then, father, i beseech thee, that thou wouldst send him to my father's house, for i have five brethren, that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torments. and abraham said to him: they have mooses and the prophets; let them hear them. but he said: no, father abraham: but if one went to them from the dead, they will do penance. and he said to him: if they hear not mooses and the prophets, neither will they believe, if one rise again from the dead.

and he said to his disciples: it is impossible that scandals should not come: but woe to him through whom they come. it were better for him, that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should scandalize one of these little ones. take heed to yourselves. if thy brother sin against thee, reprove him: and if he do penance, forgive him. and if he sin against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day be converted unto thee, saying, i repent; forgive him. and the apostles said to the lord: increase our faith. and the lord said: if you had faith like to a grain of mustard seed, you might say to this mulberry tree, be thou rooted up, and be thou transplanted into the sea: and it would obey you. but which of you having a servant ploughing, or feeding cattle, will say to him, when he is come from the field: immediately go, sit down to meat: and will not rather say to him: make ready my supper, and gird thyself, and serve me, whilst i eat and drink, and afterwards thou shalt eat and drink? doth he thank that servant, for doing the things which he commanded him? i think not. so you also, when you shall have done all these things that are commanded you, say: we are unprofitable servants; we have done that which we ought to do. and it came to pass, as he was going to jerusalem, he passed through the midst of samaria and galilee. and as he entered into a certain town, there met him ten men that were lepers, who stood afar off; and lifted up their voice, saying: jesus, master, have mercy on us. whom when he saw, he said: go, shew yourselves to the priests. and it came to pass, as they went, they were made clean. and one of them, when he saw that he was made clean, went back, with a loud voice glorifying god. and he fell on his face before his feet, giving thanks: and this was a samaritan. and jesus answering, said, were not ten made clean? and where are the nine? there is no one found to return and give glory to god, but this stranger. and he said to him: arise, go thy way; for thy faith hath made thee whole. and being asked by the pharisees, when the kingdom of god should come? he answered them, and said: the kingdom of god cometh not with observation: neither shall they say: behold here, or behold there. for lo, the kingdom of god is within you. and he said to his disciples: the days will come, when you shall desire to see one day of the son of man; and you shall not see it. and they will say to you: see here, and see there. go ye not after, nor follow them: for as the lightening that lighteneth from under heaven, shineth unto the parts that are under heaven, so shall the son of man be in his day. but first he must suffer many things, and be rejected by this generation. and as it came to pass in the days of noe, so shall it be

also in the days of the son of man. they did eat and drink, they married wives, and were given in marriage, until the day that noe entered into the ark: and the flood came and destroyed them all. likewise as it came to pass, in the days of lot: they did eat and drink, they bought and sold, they planted and built. and in the day that lot went out of sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all. even thus shall it be in the day when the son of man shall be revealed. in that hour, he that shall be on the housetop, and his goods in the house, let him not go down to take them away: and he that shall be in the field, in like manner, let him not return back. remember lot's wife. whosoever shall seek to save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose it, shall preserve it. i say to you: in that night there shall be two men in one bed; the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left. two women shall be grinding together: the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left: two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left. they answering, say to him: where, lord? who said to them: whosoever the body shall be, thither will the eagles also be gathered together.

and he spoke also a parable to them, that we ought always to pray, and not to faint, saying: there was a judge in a certain city, who feared not god, nor regarded man. and there was a certain widow in that city, and she came to him, saying: avenge me of my adversary. and he would not for a long time. but afterwards he said within himself: although i fear not god, nor regard man, yet because this widow is troublesome to me, i will avenge her, lest continually coming she weary me. and the lord said: hear what the unjust judge saith. and will not god revenge his elect who cry to him day and night: and will he have patience in their regard? i say to you, that he will quickly revenge them. but yet the son of man, when he cometh, shall he find, think you, faith on earth? and to some who trusted in themselves as just, and despised others, he spoke also this parable: two men went up into the temple to pray: the one a pharisee, and the other a publican. the pharisee standing, prayed thus with himself: o god, i give thee thanks that i am not as the rest of men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, as also is this publican. i fast twice in a week: i give tithes of all that i possess. and the publican, standing afar off, would not so much as lift up his eyes towards heaven; but struck his breast, saying: o god, be merciful to me a sinner. i say to you, this man went down into his house justified rather than the other: because every one that exalteth himself, shall be humbled: and he that humbleth himself, shall be exalted. and they brought unto him also infants, that he might touch them. which when the disciples saw, they rebuked them. but jesus, calling them together, said: suffer children to come to me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of god. amen, i say to you: whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of god as a child, shall not enter into it. and a certain ruler asked him, saying: good master, what shall i do to possess everlasting life? and jesus said to him: why dost thou call me good? none is good but god alone. thou knowest the commandments: thou shalt not kill: thou shalt not commit adultery: thou shalt not steal: thou shalt not bear false witness: honour thy father and mother. who said: all these things have i kept from my youth. which when jesus had heard, he said to him: yet one thing is wanting to thee: sell all whatever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me. he having heard these things, became sorrowful; for he was very rich. and jesus seeing him become sorrowful, said: how hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of god. for it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of god. and they that heard it, said: who then can be saved? he said to them: the things that are impossible with men, are possible with god. then peter said: behold, we have left all things, and have followed thee. who said to them: amen, i say to you, there is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of god's sake, who shall not receive much more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting. then jesus took unto him the twelve, and said to them: behold, we go up to jerusalem, and all things shall be accomplished which were written by the prophets concerning the son of man. for he shall be delivered to the gentiles, and shall be mocked, and scourged, and spit upon: and after they have scourged him, they will put him to death; and the third day he shall rise again. and they understood none of these things, and this word was hid from them, and they understood not the things that were said. now it came to pass, when he drew nigh to jericho, that a certain blind man sat by the way side, begging. and when he heard the multitude passing by, he asked what this meant, and they told him, that jesus of nazareth was passing by. and he cried out, saying: jesus, son of david, have mercy on me. and they that went before, rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried out much more: son of david, have mercy on me. and jesus standing, commanded him to be brought unto him. and when he was come near, he asked him, saying: what wilt thou that i do to thee? but he said: lord, that i may see. and jesus said to him: receive thy sight: thy faith hath made thee whole. and immediately he saw, and followed him, glorifying god. and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise to god.

and entering in, he walked through jericho. and behold, there was a man named zacheus, who was the chief of the publicans, and he was rich. and he sought to see jesus who he was, and he could not for the crowd, because he was low of stature. and running before, he climbed up into a sycamore tree, that he might see him; for he was to pass that way. and when jesus was come to the place, looking up, he saw him, and said to him: zacheus, make haste and come down; for this day i must abide in thy house.

and he made haste and came down; and received him with joy. and when all saw it, they murmured, saying, that he was gone to be a guest with a man that was a sinner. but zacheus standing, said to the lord: behold, lord, the half of my goods i give to the poor; and if i have wronged any man of any thing, i restore him fourfold. jesus said to him: this day is salvation come to this house, because he also is a son of abraham. for the son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. as they were hearing these things, he added and spoke a parable, because he was nigh to jerusalem, and because they thought that the kingdom of god should immediately be manifested. he said therefore: a certain nobleman went into a far country, to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. and calling his ten servants, he gave them ten pounds, and said to them: trade till i come. but his citizens hated him: and they sent an embassy after him, saying: we will not have this man to reign over us. and it came to pass, that he returned, having received the kingdom: and he commanded his servants to be called, to whom he had given the money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading. and the first came, saying: lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds. and he said to him: well done, thou good servant, because thou hast been faithful in a little, thou shalt have power over ten cities. and the second came, saying: lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds. and he said to him: be thou also over five cities. and another came, saying: lord, behold here is thy pound, which i have kept laid up in a napkin; for i feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up what thou didst not lay down, and thou reapest that which thou didst not sow. he saith to him: out of thy own mouth i judge thee, thou wicked servant. thou knewest that i was an austere man, taking up what i laid not down, and reaping that which i did not sow: and why then didst thou not give my money into the bank, that at my coming, i might have exacted it with usury? and he said to them that stood by: take the pound away from him, and give it to him that hath ten pounds. and they said to him: lord, he hath ten pounds. but i say to you, that to every one that hath shall be given, and he shall abound: and from him that hath not, even that which he hath, shall be taken from him. but as for those my enemies, who would not have me reign over them, bring them hither, and kill them before me. and having said these things, he went before, going up to jerusalem. and it came to pass, when he was come nigh to bethphage and bethania, unto the mount called olivet, he sent two of his disciples, saying: go into the town which is over against you, at your entering into which you shall find the colt of an ass tied, on which no man ever hath sitten: loose him, and bring him hither. and if any man shall ask you: why do you loose him? you shall say thus unto him: because the lord hath need of his service. and they that were sent, went their way, and found the colt standing, as he had said unto them. and as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said to them: why loose you the colt? but they said: because the lord hath need of him. and they brought him to jesus.

and casting their garments on the colt, they set jesus thereon. and as he went, they spread their clothes underneath in the way. and when he was now coming near the descent of mount olivet, the whole multitude of his disciples began with joy to praise god with a loud voice, for all the mighty works they had seen, saying: blessed be the king who cometh in the name of the lord, peace in heaven, and glory on high! and some of the pharisees, from amongst the multitude, said to him: master, rebuke thy disciples. to whom he said: i say to you, that if these shall hold their peace, the stones will cry out. and when he drew near, seeing the city, he wept over it, saying: if thou also hadst known, and that in this thy day, the things that are to thy peace; but now they are hidden from thy eyes. for the days shall come upon thee, and thy enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and straiten thee on every side, and beat thee flat to the ground, and thy children who are in thee: and they shall not leave in thee a stone upon a stone: because thou hast not known the time of thy visitation. and entering into the temple, he began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought. saying to them: it is written: my house is the house of prayer. but you have made it a den of thieves. and he was teaching daily in the temple. and the chief priests and the scribes and the rulers of the people sought to destroy him: and they found not what to do to him: for all the people were very attentive to hear him.

and it came to pass, that on one of the days, as he was teaching the people in the temple, and preaching the gospel, the chief priests and the scribes, with the ancients, met together, and spoke to him, saying: tell us, by what authority dost thou these things? or, who is he that hath given thee this authority? and jesus answering, said to them: i will also ask you one thing. answer me: the baptism of john, was it from heaven, or of men? but they thought within themselves, saying: if we shall say, from heaven: he will say: why then did you not believe him? but if we say, of men, the whole people will stone us: for they are persuaded that john was a prophet. and they answered, that they knew not whence it was. and jesus said to them: neither do i tell thee by what authority i do these things. and he began to speak to the people this parable: a certain man planted a vineyard, and let it out to husbandmen: and he was abroad for a long time. and at the season he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard. who, beating him, sent him away empty. and again he sent another servant. but they beat him also, and treating him reproachfully, sent him away empty. and again he sent the third: and they wounded him also, and cast him out. then the lord of the vineyard said: what shall i do? i will send my beloved son: it may be, when they see him, they will reverence him. whom when the husbandmen saw, they thought within themselves, saying: this is the heir, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours. so casting him out of the vineyard, they killed him. what therefore will the lord of the vineyard do to them? he will come, and will destroy these husbandmen, and will give the vineyard to others. which they hearing, said to him: god forbid. but he looking on them, said: what is this then that is written, the stone, which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner? whosoever shall fall upon that stone, shall be bruised: and upon whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder. and the chief priests and the scribes sought to lay hands on him the same hour: but they feared the people, for they knew that he spoke this parable to them. and being upon the watch, they sent spies, who should feign themselves just, that they might take hold of him in his words, that they might deliver him up to the authority and power of the governor. and they asked him, saying: master, we know that thou speakest and teachest rightly: and thou dost not respect any person, but teachest the way of god in truth. is it lawful for us to give tribute to caesar, or no? but he considering their guile, said to them: why tempt you me? shew me a penny. whose image and inscription hath it? they answering, said to him, caesar's. and he said to them: render therefore to caesar the things that are caesar's: and to god the things that are god's. and they could not reprehend his word before the people: and wondering at his answer, they held their peace. and there came to him some of the sadducees, who deny that there is any resurrection, and they asked him, saying: master, moyses wrote unto us, if any man's brother die, having a wife, and he leave no children, that his brother should take her to wife, and raise up seed unto his brother. there were therefore seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and died without children. and the next took her to wife, and he also died childless. and the third took her. and in like manner all the seven, and they left no children, and died. last of all the woman died also. in the resurrection therefore, whose wife of them shall she be? for all the seven had her to wife. and jesus said to them: the children of this world marry, and are given in marriage: but they that shall be accounted worthy of that world, and of the resurrection from the dead, shall neither be married, nor take wives. neither can they die any more: for they are equal to the angels, and are the children of god, being the children of the resurrection. now that the dead rise again, moyses also shewed, at the bush, when he called the lord, the god of abraham, and the god of isaac, and the god of jacob; for he is not the god of the dead, but of the living: for all live to him. and some of the scribes answering, said to him: master, thou hast said well. and after that they durst not ask him any more questions. but he said to them: how say they that christ is the son of david? and david himself saith in the book of psalms: the lord said to my lord, sit thou on my right hand, till i make thy enemies thy footstool. david then calleth him lord: and how is he his son? and in the hearing of all the people, he said to his disciples: beware of the scribes, who desire to walk in long robes, and love salutations in the marketplace, and the first chairs in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts: who devour the houses of widows, feigning long prayer. these shall receive

and looking on, he saw the rich men cast their gifts into the treasury. and he saw also a certain poor widow casting in two brass mites. and he said: verily i say to you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all: for all these have of their abundance cast into the offerings of god: but she of her want, hath cast in all the living that she had. and some saying of the temple, that it was adorned with goodly stones and gifts, he said: these things which you see, the days will come in which there shall not be left a stone upon a stone that shall not be thrown down. and they asked him, saying: master, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign when they shall begin to come to pass? who said: take heed you be not seduced; for many will come in my name, saying, i am he; and the time is at hand: go ye not therefore after them. and when you shall hear of wars and seditions, be not terrified: these things must first come to pass; but the end is not yet presently. then he said to them: nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. and there shall be great earthquakes in divers places, and pestilences, and famines, and terrors from heaven; and there shall be great signs. but before all these things, they will lay their hands upon you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and into prisons, dragging you before kings and governors, for my name's sake. and it shall happen unto you for a testimony. lay it up therefore into your hearts, not to meditate before how you shall answer: for i will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all your adversaries shall not be able to resist and gainsay. and you shall be betrayed by your parents and brethren, and kinsmen and friends; and some of you they will put to death. and you shall be hated by all men for my name's sake. but a hair of your head shall not perish. in your patience you shall possess your souls. and when you shall see jerusalem compassed about with an army; then know that the desolation thereof is at hand. then let those who are in judaea, flee to the mountains; and those who are in the midst thereof, depart out: and those who are in the countries, not enter into it. for these are the days of vengeance, that all things may be fulfilled, that are written. but woe to them that are with child, and give suck in those days; for there shall be great distress in the land, and wrath upon this people. and they shall fall by the edge of the sword; and shall be led away captives into all nations; and jerusalem shall be trodden down by the gentiles; till the times of the nations be fulfilled. and there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, by reason of the confusion of the roaring of the sea and of the waves; men withering away for fear, and expectation of what shall come upon the whole world. for the powers of heaven shall be moved; and then they shall see the son of man coming in a cloud, with great power and majesty. but when these things begin to come to pass, look up, and lift up your heads, because your redemption is at hand. and he spoke to them in a similitude. see the fig tree, and all the trees: when they now shoot forth their fruit, you know that summer is nigh; so you also, when you shall see these things come to pass, know that the kingdom of god is at hand. amen, i say to you, this generation shall not pass away, till all things be fulfilled. heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away. and take heed to yourselves, lest perhaps your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness, and the cares of this life, and that day come upon you suddenly. for as a snare shall it come upon all that sit upon the face of the whole earth. watch ye, therefore, praying at all times, that you may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that are to come, and to stand before the son of man. and in the daytime, he was teaching in the temple; but at night, going out, he abode in the mount that is called olivet. and all the people came early in the morning to him in the temple, to hear him.

now the feast of unleavened bread, which is called the pasch, was at hand. and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might put jesus to death: but they feared the people. and satan entered into judas, who was surnamed iscariot, one of the twelve. and he went, and discoursed with the chief priests and the magistrates, how he might betray him to them. and they were glad, and covenanted to give him money. and he promised. and he sought opportunity to betray him in the absence of the multitude. and the day of the unleavened bread came, on which it was necessary that the pasch should be killed. and he sent peter and john, saying: go, and prepare for us the pasch, that we may eat. but they said: where wilt thou that we prepare? and he said to them: behold, as you go into the city, there shall meet you a man carrying a pitcher of water: follow him into the house where he entereth in. and you shall say to the goodman of the house: the master saith to thee, where is the guest chamber, where i may eat the pasch with my disciples? and he will shew you a large dining room, furnished; and there prepare. and they going, found as he had said to them, and made ready the pasch. and when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him. and he said to them: with desire i have desired to eat this pasch with you, before i suffer. for i say to you, that from this time i will not eat it, till it be fulfilled in the kingdom of god. and having taken the chalice, he gave thanks, and said: take, and divide it among you: for i say to you, that i will not drink of the fruit of the vine, till the kingdom of god come. and taking bread, he gave thanks, and brake; and gave to them, saying: this is my body, which is given for you. do this for a commemoration of me. in like manner the chalice also, after he had supped, saying: this is the chalice, the new testament in my blood, which shall be shed for you. but yet behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table. and the son of man indeed goeth, according to that which is determined: but yet, woe to that man by whom he shall be betrayed. and they began to inquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing. and there was also a strife amongst them, which of them should seem to be the greater. and he said to them: the kings of the gentiles lord it over them; and they that have power over them, are called beneficent. but you not so: but he that is the greater among you, let him become as the younger; and he that is the leader, as he that serveth. for which is greater, he that sitteth at table, or he that serveth? is it not he that sitteth at table? but i am in the midst of you, as he that serveth: and you are they who have continued with me in my temptations: and i dispose to you, as my father hath disposed to me, a kingdom; that you may eat and drink at my table, in my kingdom: and may sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of israel. and the lord said: simon, simon, behold satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but i have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and thou, being once converted, confirm thy brethren. who said to him: lord, i am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death. and he said: i say to thee, peter, the cock shall not crow this day, till thou thrice deniest that thou knowest me. and he said to them: when i sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, did you want anything? but they said: nothing. then said he unto them: but now he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise a scrip; and he that hath not, let him sell his coat, and buy a sword. for i say to you, that this that is written must yet be fulfilled in me: and with the wicked was he reckoned. for the things concerning me have an end. but they said: lord, behold here are two swords. and he said to them, it is enough. and going out, he went, according to his custom, to the mount of olives. and his disciples also followed him. and when he was come to the place, he said to them: pray, lest ye enter into temptation. and he was withdrawn away from them a stone's cast; and kneeling down, he prayed, saying: father, if thou wilt, remove this chalice from me: but yet not my will, but thine be done. and there appeared to him an angel from heaven, strengthening him. and being in an agony, he prayed the longer. and his sweat became as drops of blood, trickling down upon the ground. and when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow. and he said to them: why sleep you? arise, pray, lest you enter into temptation. as he was yet speaking, behold a multitude; and he that was called judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near to jesus, for to kiss him. and jesus said to him: judas, dost thou betray the son of man with a kiss? and they that were about him, seeing what would follow, said to him: lord, shall we strike with the sword? and one of them struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. but jesus answering, said: suffer ye thus far. and when he had touched his ear, he healed him. and jesus said to the chief priests, and magistrates of the temple, and the ancients, that were come unto him: are ye come out, as it were against a thief, with swords and clubs? when i was daily with you in the temple, you did not stretch forth your hands against me: but this is your hour, and the power of darkness. and apprehending

him, they led him to the high priest's house. but peter followed afar off. and when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were sitting about it, peter was in the midst of them. whom when a certain servant maid had seen sitting at the light, and had earnestly beheld him, she said: this man also was with him. but he denied him, saying: woman, i know him not. and after a little while, another seeing him, said: thou also art one of them. but peter said: o man, i am not. and after the space, as it were of one hour, another certain man affirmed, saying: of a truth, this man was also with him; for he is also a galilean. and peter said: man, i know not what thou sayest. and immediately, as he was yet speaking, the cock crew. and the lord turning looked on peter. and peter remembered the word of the lord, as he had said: before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. and peter going out, wept bitterly. and the men that held him, mocked him, and struck him. and they blindfolded him, and smote his face. and they asked him, saying: prophesy, who is it that struck thee? and blaspheming, many other things they said against him. and as soon as it was day, the ancients of the people, and the chief priests and scribes, came together; and they brought him into their council, saying: if thou be the christ, tell us. and he saith to them: if i shall tell you, you will not believe me. and if i shall also ask you, you will not answer me, nor let me go. but hereafter the son of man shall be sitting on the right hand of the power of god. then said they all: art thou then the son of god? who said: you say that i am. and they said: what need we any further testimony? for we ourselves have heard it from his own mouth.

and the whole multitude of them rising up, led him to pilate. and they began to accuse him, saying: we have found this man perverting our nation, and forbidding to give tribute to caesar, and saying that he is christ the king. and pilate asked him, saying: art thou the king of the jews? but he answering, said: thou sayest it. and pilate said to the chief priests and to the multitudes: i find no cause in this man. but they were more earnest, saying: he stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all judea, beginning from galilee to this place. but pilate hearing galilee, asked if the man were of galilee? and when he understood that he was of herod's jurisdiction, he sent him away to herod, who was also himself at jerusalem, in those days. and herod, seeing jesus, was very glad; for he was desirous of a long time to see him, because he had heard many things of him; and he hoped to see some sign wrought by him. and he questioned him in many words. but he answered him nothing. and the chief priests and the scribes stood by, earnestly accusing him. and herod with his army set him at nought, and mocked him, putting on him a white garment, and sent him back to pilate. and herod and pilate were made friends, that same day; for before they were enemies one to another. and pilate, calling together the chief priests, and the magistrates, and the people, said to them: you have presented unto me this man, as one that perverteth the people; and behold i, having examined him before you, find no cause in this man, in those things wherein you accuse him. no, nor herod neither. for i sent you to him, and behold, nothing worthy of death is done to him. i will chastise him therefore, and release him. now of necessity he was to release unto them one upon the feast day. but the whole multitude together cried out, saying: away with this man, and release unto us barabbas: who, for a certain sedition made in the city, and for a murder, was cast into prison. and pilate again spoke to them, desiring to release jesus. but they cried again, saying: crucify him, crucify him. and he said to them the third time: why, what evil hath this man done? i find no cause of death in him. i will chastise him therefore, and let him go. but they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified; and their voices prevailed. and pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required. and he released unto them him who for murder and sedition, had been cast into prison, whom they had desired; but jesus he delivered up to their will. and as they led him away, they laid hold of one simon of cyrene, coming from the country; and they laid the cross on him to carry after jesus. and there followed him a great multitude of people, and of women, who bewailed and lamented him. but jesus turning to them, said: daughters of jerusalem, weep not over me; but weep for yourselves, and for your children. for behold, the days shall come, wherein they will say: blessed are the barren, and the wombs that have not borne, and the paps that have not given suck. then shall they begin to say to the mountains: fall upon us; and to the hills: cover us. for if in the green wood they do these things, what shall be done in the dry? and there were also two other malefactors led with him to be put to death. and when they were come to the place which is called calvary, they crucified him there; and the robbers, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. and jesus said: father, forgive them, for they know not what they do. but they, dividing his garments, cast lots. and the people stood beholding, and the rulers with them derided him, saying: he saved others; let him save himself, if he be christ, the elect of god. and the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, and saying: if thou be the king of the jews, save thyself. and there was also a superscription written over him in letters of greek, and latin, and hebrew: this is the king of the jews. and one of those robbers who were hanged, blasphemed him, saying: if thou be christ, save thyself and us. but the other answering, rebuked him, saying: neither dost thou fear god, seeing thou art condemned under the same condemnation? and we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this man hath done no evil. and he said to jesus: lord, remember me when thou shalt come into thy kingdom. and jesus said to him: amen i say to thee, this day thou shalt be with me in paradise. and it was almost the sixth hour; and there was darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. and the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. and jesus crying out with a loud voice, said: father, into thy hands i commend my spirit. and saying this, he gave up the ghost. now the centurion, seeing what was done, glorified god, saying: indeed this was a just man. and all the multitude of them that were come together to that sight, and saw the things that were done, returned striking their breasts. and all his acquaintance, and the women that had followed him from galilee, stood afar off, beholding these things. and behold there was a man named joseph, who was a counsellor, a good and just man, (the same had not consented to their counsel and doings;) of arimathea, a city of judea; who also himself looked for the kingdom of god. this man went to pilate, and begged the body of jesus. and taking him down, he wrapped him in fine linen, and laid him in a sepulchre that was hewed in stone, wherein never yet any man had been laid. and it was the day of the paraseve, and the sabbath drew on. and the women that were come with him from galilee, following after, saw the sepulchre, and how his body was laid. and returning, they prepared spices and ointments; and on the sabbath day they rested, according to the commandment.

and on the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came to the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared. and they found the stone rolled back from the sepulchre. and going in, they found not the body of the lord jesus. and it came to pass, as they were astonished in their mind at this, behold, two men stood by them, in shining apparel. and as they were afraid, and bowed down their countenance towards the ground, they said unto them: why seek you the living with the dead? he is not here, but is risen. remember how he spoke unto you, when he was in galilee, saying: the son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again. and they remembered his words. and going back from the sepulchre, they told all these things to the eleven, and to all the rest. and it was mary magdalen, and joanna, and mary of james, and the other women that were with them, who told these things to the apostles. and these words seemed to them as idle tales; and they did not believe them. but peter rising up, ran to the sepulchre, and stooping down, he saw the linen cloths laid by themselves; and went away wondering in himself at that which was come to pass. and behold, two of them went, the same day, to a town which was sixty furlongs from jerusalem, named emmaus. and they talked together of all these things which had happened. and it came to pass, that while they talked and reasoned with themselves, jesus himself also drawing near, went with them. but their eyes were held, that they should not know him. and he said to them: what are these discourses that you hold one with another as you walk, and are sad? and the one of them, whose name was cleophas, answering, said to him: art thou only a stranger to jerusalem, and hast not known the things that have been done there in these days? to whom he said: what things? and they said: concerning jesus of nazareth, who was a prophet, mighty in work and

word before god and all the people; and how our chief priests and princes delivered him to be condemned to death, and crucified him. but we hoped, that it was he that should have redeemed israel: and now besides all this, to day is the third day since these things were done. yea and certain women also of our company affrighted us, who before it was light, were at the sepulchre, and not finding his body, came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, who say that he is alive. and some of our people went to the sepulchre, and found it so as the women had said, but him they found not. then he said to them: o foolish, and slow of heart to believe in all things which the prophets have spoken. ought not christ to have suffered these things, and so to enter into his glory? and beginning at moyses and all the prophets, he expounded to them in all the scriptures, the things that were concerning him. and they drew night to the town, whither they were going: and he made as though he would go farther. but they constrained him; saying: stay with us, because it is towards evening, and the day is now far spent. and he went in with them. and it came to pass, whilst he was at table with them, he took bread, and blessed, and brake, and gave to them. and their eyes were opened, and they knew him: and he vanished out of their sight. and they said one to the other: was not our heart burning within us, whilst he spoke in this way, and opened to us the scriptures? and rising up, the same hour, they went back to jerusalem: and they found the eleven gathered together, and those that were staying with them, saying: the lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to simon. and they told what things were done in the way; and how they knew him in the breaking of the bread. now whilst they were speaking these things, jesus stood in the midst of them, and saith to them: peace be to you; it is i, fear not. but they being troubled and frightened, supposed that they saw a spirit. and he said to them: why are you troubled, and why do thoughts arise in your hearts? see my hands and feet, that it is i myself; handle, and see: for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as you see me to have. and when he had said this, he shewed them his hands and feet. but while they yet believed not, and wondered for joy, he said: have you any thing to eat? and they offered him a piece of a broiled fish, and a honeycomb. and when he had eaten before them, taking the remains, he gave to them. and he said to them: these are the words which i spoke to you, while i was yet with you, that all things must needs be fulfilled, which are written in the law of moyses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me. then he opened their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures. and he said to them: thus it is written, and thus it behoved christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead, the third day: and that penance and remission of sins should be preached in his name, unto all nations, beginning at jerusalem. and you are witnesses of these things. and i send the promise of my father upon you: but stay you in the city till you be endued with power from on high. and he led them out as far as bethania: and lifting up his hands, he blessed them. and it came to pass, whilst he blessed them, he departed from them, and was carried up to heaven. and they adoring went back into jerusalem with great joy. and they were always in the temple, praising and blessing god. amen.

the former treatise i made, o theophilus, of all things which jesus began to do and to teach, until the day on which, giving commandments by the holy ghost to the apostles whom he had chosen, he was taken up. to whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion, by many proofs, for forty days appearing to them, and speaking of the kingdom of god. and eating together with them, he commanded them, that they should not depart from jerusalem, but should wait for the promise of the father, which you have heard (saith he) by my mouth. for john indeed baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the holy ghost, not many days hence. they therefore who were come together, asked him, saying: lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to israel? but he said to them: it is not for you to know the times or moments, which the father hath put in his own power: but you shall receive the power of the holy ghost coming upon you, and you shall be witnesses unto me in jerusalem, and in all judea, and samaria, and even to the uttermost part of the earth. and when he had said these things, while they looked on, he was raised up: and a cloud received him out of their sight. and while they were beholding him going up to heaven, behold two men stood by them in white garments. who also said: ye men of galilee, why stand you looking up to heaven? this jesus who is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, as you have seen him going into heaven. then they returned to jerusalem from the mount that is called olivet, which is high jerusalem, within a sabbath day's journey. and when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode peter and john, james and andrew, philip and thomas, bartholomew and matthew, james of alpheus, and simon zelotes, and jude the brother of james. all these were persevering with one mind in prayer with the women, and mary the mother of jesus, and with his brethren. in those days peter rising up in the midst of the brethren, said: (now the number of persons together was about an hundred and twenty:) men, brethren, the scripture must needs be fulfilled, which the holy ghost spoke before by the mouth of david concerning judas, who was the leader of them that apprehended jesus: who was numbered with us, and had obtained part of this ministry. and he indeed hath possessed a field of the reward of iniquity, and being hanged, burst asunder in the midst: and all his bowels gushed out. and it became known to all the inhabitants of jerusalem: so that the same field was called in their tongue, haceldama, that is to say, the field of blood. for it is written in the book of psalms: let their habitation become desolate, and let there be none to dwell therein. and his bishopric let another take. wherefore of these men who have companied with us all the time that the lord jesus came in and went out among us, beginning from the baptism of john, until the day wherein he was taken up from us, one of these must be made a witness with us of his resurrection. and they appointed two, joseph, called barsabas, who was surnamed justus, and matthias. and praying, they said:

thou, lord, who knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen, to take the place of this ministry and apostleship, from which judas hath by transgression fallen, that he might go to his own place. and they gave them lots, and the lot fell upon matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

and when the days of the pentecost were accomplished, they were all together in one place: and suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty wind coming, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting. and there appeared to them parted tongues as it were of fire, and it sat upon every one of them: and they were all filled with the holy ghost, and they began to speak with divers tongues, according as the holy ghost gave them to speak. now there were dwelling at jerusalem, jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven. and when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded in mind, because that every man heard them speak in his own tongue. and they were all amazed, and wondered, saying: behold, are not all these, that speak, galileans? and how have we heard, every man our own tongue wherein we were born? parthians, and medes, and elamites, and inhabitants of mesopotamia, judea, and cappadocia, pontus and asia, phrygia, and pamphylia, egypt, and the parts of libya about cyrene, and strangers of rome, jews also, and proselytes, cretes, and arabs: we have heard them speak in our own tongues the wonderful works of god. and they were all astonished, and wondered, saying one to another: what meaneth this? but others mocking, said: these men are full of new wine. but peter standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and spoke to them: ye men of judea, and all you that dwell in jerusalem, be this known to you, and with your ears receive my words. for these are not drunk, as you suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day: but this is that which was spoken of by the prophet joel: and it shall come to pass, in the last days, (saith the lord,) i will pour out of my spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams. and upon my servants indeed, and upon my handmaids will i pour out in those days of my spirit, and they shall prophesy. and i will shew wonders in the heaven above, and signs on the earth beneath: blood and fire, and vapour of smoke. the sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and manifest day of the lord come. and it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call upon the name of the lord, shall be saved. ye men of israel, hear these words: jesus of nazareth, a man approved of god among you, by miracles, and wonders, and signs, which god did by him, in the midst of you, as you also know: this same being delivered up, by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of god, you by the hands of wicked men have crucified and slain. whom god hath raised up, having loosed the sorrows of hell, as it was impossible that he should be holden by it. for david saith concerning him: i foresaw the lord before my face: because he is at my right hand, that i may not be moved. for this my heart hath been glad, and any tongue hath rejoiced: moreover my flesh also shall rest in hope. because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, nor suffer thy holy one to see corruption. thou hast made known to me the ways of life: thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance. ye men, brethren, let me freely speak to you of the patriarch david; that he died, and was buried; and his sepulchre is with us to this present day. whereas therefore he was a prophet, and knew that god hath sworn to him with an oath, that of the fruit of his loins one should sit upon his throne. foreseeing this, he spoke of the resurrection of christ. for neither was he left in hell, neither did his flesh see corruption. this jesus hath god raised again, whereof all we are witnesses. being exalted therefore by the right hand of god, and having received of the father the promise of the holy ghost, he hath poured forth this which you see and hear. for david ascended not into heaven; but he himself said: the lord said to my lord, sit thou on my right hand, until i make thy enemies thy footstool. therefore let all the house of israel know most certainly, that god hath made both lord and christ, this same jesus, whom you have crucified. now when they had heard these things, they had compunction in their heart, and said to peter, and to the rest of the apostles: what shall we do, men and brethren? but peter said to them: do penance, and be baptized every one of you in the name of jesus christ, for the remission of your sins: and you shall receive the gift of the holy ghost. for the promise is to you, and to your children, and to all that are far off, whosoever the lord our god shall call. and with very many other words did he testify and exhort them, saying: save yourselves from this perverse generation. they therefore that received his word, were baptized; and there were added in that day about three thousand souls. and they were persevering in the doctrine of the apostles, and in the communication of the breaking of bread, and in prayers. and fear came upon every soul: many wonders also and signs were done by the apostles in jerusalem, and there was great fear in all. and all they that believed, were together, and had all things common. their possessions and goods they sold, and divided them to all, according as every one had need. and continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, they took their meat with gladness and simplicity of heart; praising god, and having favour with all the people. and the lord increased daily together such as should be saved.

now peter and john went up into the temple at the ninth hour of prayer. and a certain man who was lame from his mother's womb, was carried: whom they laid every day at the gate of the temple, which is called beautiful, that he might ask alms of them that went into the temple. he, when he had seen peter and john about to go into the temple, asked to receive an alms. but peter with john fastening his eyes upon him, said: look upon us. but he looked earnestly upon them, hoping that he should receive something of them. but peter said: silver and gold i have none; but what i have, i give thee: in the name of jesus christ of nazareth, arise, and walk. and taking him by the right hand, he lifted him up, and forthwith his feet and soles received strength. and he leaping up, stood, and walked, and went in with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising god. and all the people saw him walking and praising god. and they knew him, that it was he who sat begging alms at the beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened to him. and as he held peter and john, all the people ran to them to the porch which is called solomon's, greatly wondering. but peter seeing, made answer to the people: ye men of israel, why wonder you at this? or why look you upon us, as if by our strength or power we had made this man to walk? the god of abraham, and the god of isaac, and the god of jacob, the god of our fathers, hath glorified his son jesus, whom you indeed delivered up and denied before the face of pilate, when he judged he should be released. but you denied the holy one and the just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you. but the author of life you killed, whom god hath raised from the dead, of which we are witnesses. and in the faith of his name, this man, whom you have seen and known, hath his name strengthened; and the faith which is by him, hath given this perfect soundness in the sight of you all. and now, brethren, i know that you did it through ignorance, as did also your rulers. but those things which god before had shewed by the mouth of all the prophets, that his christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled. be penitent, therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out. that when the times of refreshment shall come from the presence of the lord, and he shall send him who hath been preached unto you, jesus christ, whom heaven indeed must receive, until the times of the restitution of all things, which god hath spoken by the mouth of his holy prophets, from the beginning of the world. for moyses said: a prophet shall the lord your god raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me: him you shall hear according to all things whatsoever he shall speak to you. and it shall be, that every soul which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people. and all the prophets, from samuel and afterwards, who have spoken, have told of these days. you are the children of the prophets, and of the testament which god made to our fathers, saying to abraham: and in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed. to you first god, raising up his son, hath sent him to bless you; that every one may convert himself from his wickedness.

and as they were speaking to the people, the priests, and the officer of the temple, and the sadducees, came upon them, being grieved that they taught the people, and preached in jesus the resurrection from the dead: and they laid hands upon them, and put them in hold till the next day; for it was now evening. but many of them who had heard the word, believed; and the number of the men was made five thousand. and it came to pass on the morrow, that their princes, and ancients, and scribes, were gathered together in jerusalem; and annas the high priest, and caiphas, and john, and alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest. and setting them in the midst, they asked: by what power, or by what name, have you done this? then peter, filled with the holy ghost, said to them: ye princes of the people, and ancients, hear: if we this day are examined concerning the good deed done to the infirm man, by what means he hath been made whole: be it known to you all, and to all the people of israel, that by the name of our lord jesus christ of nazareth, whom you crucified, whom god hath raised from the dead, even by him this man standeth here before you whole. this is the stone which was rejected by you the builders, which is become the head of the corner. neither is there salvation in any other. for there is no other name under heaven given to men, whereby we must be saved. now seeing the constancy of peter and of john, understanding that they were illiterate and ignorant men, they wondered; and they knew them that they had been with jesus. seeing the man also who had been healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it. but they commanded them to go aside out of the council; and they conferred among themselves, saying: what shall we do to these men? for indeed a known miracle hath been done by them, to all the inhabitants of jerusalem: it is manifest, and we cannot deny it. but that it may be no farther spread among the people, let us threaten them that they speak no more in this name to any man. and calling them, they charged them not to speak at all, nor teach in the name of jesus. but peter and john answering, said to them: if it be just in the sight of god, to hear you rather than god, judge ye. for we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard. but they threatening, sent them away, not finding how they might punish them, because of the people; for all men glorified what had been done, in that which had come to pass. for the man was above forty years old, in whom that miraculous cure had been wrought. and being let go, they came to their own company, and related all that the chief priests and ancients had said to them. who having heard it, with one accord lifted up their voice to god, and said: lord, thou art he that didst make heaven and earth, the sea, and all things that are in them. who, by the holy ghost, by the mouth of our father david, thy servant, hast said: why did the gentiles rage, and the people meditate vain things? the kings of the earth stood up, and the princes assembled together against the lord and his christ. for of a truth there assembled together in this city against thy holy child jesus, whom thou hast anointed, herod, and pontius pilate, with the gentiles and the people of israel, to do what thy hand and thy counsel decreed to be done. and now, lord, behold their threatenings, and grant unto thy servants, that with all confidence they may speak thy word, by stretching forth thy hand to cures, and signs, and wonders to be done by the name of thy holy son jesus. and when they had prayed, the place was moved wherein they were assembled; and they were all filled with the holy ghost, and they spoke the word of god with confidence. and the multitude of believers had but one heart and one soul: neither did any one say that aught of the things which he possessed, was his own; but all things were common unto them. and with great power did the apostles give testimony of the resurrection of jesus christ our lord; and great grace was in them all. for neither was there any one needy among them. for as many as were owners of lands or houses, sold them, and brought the price of the things they sold, and laid it down before the feet of the apostles. and distribution was made to every one, according as he had need. and joseph, who, by the apostles, was surnamed barnabas, (which is, by interpretation, the son of consolation,) a levite, a cyprian born, having land, sold it, and brought the price, and laid it at the feet of the apostles.

but a certain man named ananias, with saphira his wife, sold a piece of land, and by fraud kept back part of the price of the land, his wife being privy thereunto: and bringing a certain part of it, laid it at the feet of the apostles. but peter said: ananias, why hath satan tempted thy heart, that thou shouldst lie to the holy ghost, and by fraud keep part of the price of the land? whilst it remained, did it not remain to thee? and after it was sold, was it not in thy power? why hast thou conceived this thing in thy heart? thou hast not lied to men, but to god. and ananias hearing these words, fell down, and gave up the ghost. and there came great fear upon all that heard it. and the young men rising up, removed him, and carrying him out, buried him. and it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what had happened, came in. and peter said to her: tell me, woman, whether you sold the land for so much? and she said: yea, for so much. and peter said unto her: why have you agreed together to tempt the spirit of the lord? behold the feet of them who have buried thy husband are at the door, and they shall carry thee out. immediately she fell down before his feet, and gave up the ghost. and the young men coming in, found her dead: and carried her out, and buried her by her husband. and there came great fear upon the whole church, and upon all that heard these things. and by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people. and they were all with one accord in solomon's porch. but of the rest no man durst join himself unto them; but the people magnified them. and the multitude of men and women who believed in the lord, was more increased: insomuch that they brought forth the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that when peter came, his shadow at the least, might overshadow any of them, and they might be delivered from their infirmities. and there came also together to jerusalem a multitude out of the neighboring cities, bringing sick persons, and such as were troubled with unclean spirits; who were all healed. then the high priest rising up, and all they that were with him, (which is the heresy of the sadducees,) were filled with envy. and they laid hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison. but an angel of the lord by night opening the doors of the prison, and leading them out, said: go, and standing speak in the temple to the people all the words of this life. who having heard this, early in the morning, entered into the temple, and taught. and the high priest coming, and they that were with him, called together the council, and all the ancients of the children of israel; and they sent to the prison to have them brought. but when the ministers came, and opening the prison, found them not there, they returned and told, saying: the prison indeed we found shut with all diligence, and the keepers standing before the doors; but opening it, we found no man within. now when the officer of the temple and the chief priests heard these words, they were in doubt concerning them, what would come to pass. but one came and told them: behold, the men whom you put in prison are in the temple standing, and teaching the people. then went the officer with the ministers, and brought them without violence; for they feared the people, lest they should be stoned. and when they had brought them, they set them before the council. and the high priest asked them, saying: commanding we commanded you, that you should not teach in this name; and behold, you have filled jerusalem with your doctrine, and you have a mind to bring the blood of this man upon us. but peter and the apostles answering, said: we ought to obey god, rather than men. the god of our fathers hath raised up jesus, whom you put to death, hanging him upon a tree. him hath god exalted with his right hand, to be prince and saviour, to give repentance to israel, and remission of sins. and we are witnesses of these things and the holy ghost, whom god hath given to all that obey him. when they had heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they thought to put them to death. but one in the council rising up, a pharisee, named gamaliel, a doctor of the law, respected by all the people, commanded the men to be put forth a little while. and he said to them: ye men of israel, take heed to yourselves what you intend to do, as touching these men. for before these days rose up theodas, affirming himself to be somebody, to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain; and all that believed him were scattered, and brought to nothing. after this man, rose up judas of galilee, in the days of the enrolling, and drew away the people after him: he also perished; and all, even as many as consented to him, were dispersed. and now, therefore, i say to you, refrain from these men, and let them alone; for if this council or this work be of men, it will come to nought; but if it be of god, you cannot overthrow it, lest perhaps you be found even to fight against god. and they consented to him. and calling in the apostles, after they had scourged them, they charged them that they should not speak at all in the name of jesus; and they dismissed them. and they indeed went from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were accounted worthy to suffer reproach for the name of jesus. and every day they ceased not in the temple, and from house to house, to teach and preach christ jesus.

and in those days, the number of the disciples increasing, there arose a murmuring of the greeks against the hebrews, for that their widows were neglected in the daily ministration. then the twelve calling together the multitude of the disciples, said: it is not reason that we should leave the word of god, and serve tables. wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of good reputation, full of the holy ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business. but we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word. and the saying was liked by all the multitude. and they chose stephen, a man full of faith, and of the holy ghost, and philip, and prochorus, and nicanor, and timon, and parmenas, and nicolas, a proselyte of antioch. these they set before the apostles; and they praying, imposed hands upon them. and the word of the lord increased; and the number of the disciples was multiplied in jerusalem exceedingly: a great multitude also of the priests obeyed the faith. and stephen, full of grace and fortitude, did great wonders and signs among the people. now there arose some of that which is called the synagogue of the libertines, and of the cyrenians, and of the alexandrians, and of them that were of cilicia and asia, disputing with stephen. and they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit that spoke. then they suborned men to say, they had heard him speak words of blasphemy against moyses and against god. and they stirred up the people, and the ancients, and the scribes; and running together, they took him, and brought him to the council. and they set up false witnesses, who said: this man ceaseth not to speak words against the holy place and the law. for we have heard him say, that this jesus of nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the traditions which moyses delivered unto us. and all that sat in the council, looking on him, saw his face as if it had been the face of an angel.

and at that time there was raised a great persecution against the church which was at jerusalem; and they were all dispersed through the countries of judea, and samaria, except the apostles. and devout men took order for stephen's funeral, and made great mourning over him. but saul made havock of the church, entering in from house to house, and dragging away men and women, committed them to prison. they therefore that were dispersed, went about preaching the word of god. and philip going down to the city of samaria, preached christ unto them. and the people with one accord were attentive to those things which were said by philip, hearing, and seeing the miracles which he did. for many of them who had unclean spirits, crying with a loud voice, went out. and many, taken with the palsy, and that were lame, were healed. there was therefore great joy in that city. now there was a certain man named simon, who before had been a magician in that city, seducing the people of samaria, giving out that he was some great one: to whom they all gave ear, from the least to the greatest, saying: this man is the power of god, which is called great. and they were attentive to him, because, for a long time, he had bewitched them with his magical practices. but when they had believed philip preaching of the kingdom of god, in the name of jesus christ, they were baptized, both men and women. then simon himself believed also; and being baptized, he adhered to philip. and being astonished, wondered to see the signs and exceeding great miracles which were done. now when the apostles, who were in jerusalem, had heard that samaria had received the word of god, they sent unto them peter and john. who, when they were come, prayed for them, that they might receive the holy ghost. for he was not as yet come upon any of them; but they were only baptized in the name of the lord jesus. then they laid their hands upon them, and they received the holy ghost. and when simon saw, that by the imposition of the hands of the apostles, the holy ghost was given, he offered them money, saying: give me also this power, that on whomsoever i shall lay my hands, he may receive the holy ghost. but peter said to him: keep thy money to thyself, to perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of god may be purchased with money. thou hast no part nor lot in this matter. for thy heart is not right in the sight of god. do penance therefore for this thy wickedness; and pray to god, that perhaps this thought of thy heart may be forgiven thee. for i see thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bonds of iniquity. then simon answering, said: pray you for me to the lord, that none of these things which you have spoken may come upon me. and they indeed having testified and preached the word of the lord, returned to jerusalem, and preached the gospel to many countries of the samaritans. now an angel of the lord spoke to philip, saying: arise, go towards the south, to the way that goeth down from jerusalem into gaza: this is desert. and rising up, he went. and behold a man of ethiopia, an eunuch, of great authority under candace the queen of the ethiopians, who had charge over all her treasures, had come to jerusalem to adore. and he was returning, sitting in this chariot, and reading isaias the prophet. and the spirit said to philip: go near, and join thyself to this chariot. and philip running thither, heard him reading the prophet isaias. and he said: thinkest thou that thou understandest what thou readest? who said: and how can i, unless some man shew me? and he desired philip that he would come up and sit with him. and the place of the scripture which he was reading was this: he was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb without voice before his shearer, so openeth he not his mouth. in humility his judgment was taken away. his generation who shall declare, for his life shall be taken from the earth? and the eunuch answering philip, said: i beseech thee, of whom doth the prophet speak this? of himself, or of some other man? then philip, opening his mouth, and beginning at this scripture, preached unto him jesus. and as they went on their way, they came to a certain water; and the eunuch said: see, here is water: what doth hinder me from being baptized? and philip said: if thou believest with all thy heart, thou mayest. and he answering, said: i believe that jesus christ is the son of god. and he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they went down into the water, both philip and the eunuch: and he baptized him. and when they were come up out of the water, the spirit of the lord took away philip; and the eunuch saw him no more. and he went on his way rejoicing. but philip was found in azotus; and passing through, he preached the gospel to all the cities, till he came to caesarea.

high priest, and asked of him letters to damascus, to the synagogues: that if he found any men and women of this way, he might bring them bound to jerusalem. and as he went on his journey, it came to pass that he drew nigh to damascus; and suddenly a light from heaven shined round about him. and falling on the ground, he heard a voice saying to him: saul, saul, why persecutest thou me? who said: who art thou, lord? and he: i am jesus whom thou persecutest. it is hard for thee to kick against the goad. and he trembling and astonished, said: lord, what wilt thou have me to do? and the lord said to him: arise, and go into the city, and there it shall be told thee what thou must do. now the men who went in company with him, stood amazed, hearing indeed a voice, but seeing no man. and saul arose from the ground; and when his eyes were opened, he saw nothing. but they leading him by the hands, brought him to damascus. and he was there three days, without sight, and he did neither eat nor drink. now there was a certain disciple at damascus, named ananias. and the lord said to him in a vision: ananias. and he said: behold i am here, lord. and the lord said to him: arise, and go into the street that is called stait, and seek in the house of judas, one named saul of tarsus. for behold he prayeth. (and he saw a man named ananias coming in, and putting his hands upon him, that he might receive his sight.) but ananias answered: lord, i have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints in jerusalem. and here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all that invoke thy name. and the lord said to him: go thy way; for this man is to me a vessel of election, to carry my name before the gentiles, and kings, and the children of israel. for i will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake. and ananias went his way, and entered into the house. and laying his hands upon him, he said: brother saul, the lord jesus hath sent me, he that appeared to thee in the way as thou camest; that thou mayest receive thy sight, and be filled with the holy ghost. and immediately there fell from his eyes as it were scales, and he received his sight; and rising up, he was baptized. and when he had taken meat, he was strengthened. and he was with the disciples that were at damascus, for some days. and immediately he preached jesus in the synagogues, that he is the son of god. and all that heard him, were astonished, and said: is not this he who persecuted in jerusalem those that called upon this name: and came hither for that intent, that he might carry them bound to the chief priests? but saul increased much more in strength, and confounded the jews who dwelt at damascus, affirming that this is the christ. and when many days were passed, the jews consulted together to kill him. but their laying in wait was made known to saul. and they watched the gates also day and night, that they might kill him. but the disciples taking him in the night, conveyed him away by the wall, letting him down in a basket. and when he was come into jerusalem, he essayed to join himself to the disciples; and they all were afraid of him, not believing that he was a disciple. but barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and told them how he had seen the lord, and that he had spoken to him; and how in damascus he had dealt confidently in the name of jesus. and he was with them coming in and going out in jerusalem, and dealing confidently in the name of the lord. he spoke also to the gentiles, and disputed with the greeks; but they sought to kill him. which when the brethren had known, they brought him down to caesarea, and sent him away to tarsus. now the church had peace throughout all judea, and galilee, and samaria; and was edified, walking in the fear of the lord, and was filled with the consolation of the holy ghost. and it came to pass that peter, as he passed through, visiting all, came to the saints who dwelt at lydda. and he found there a certain man named eneas, who had kept his bed for eight years, who was ill of the palsy. and peter said to him: eneas, the lord jesus christ healeth thee: arise, and make thy bed. and immediately he arose. and all that dwelt at lydda and saron, saw him: who were converted to the lord. and in joppe there was a certain disciple named tabitha, which by interpretation is called dorcas. this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did. and it came to pass in those days that she was sick, and died. whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber. and forasmuch as lydda was nigh to joppe, the disciples hearing that peter was there, sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not be slack to come unto them. and peter rising up, went with them. and when he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber. and all the widows stood about him weeping, and shewing him the coats and garments which dorcas made them. and they all being put forth, peter kneeling down prayed, and turning to the body, he said: tabitha, arise. and she opened her eyes; and seeing peter, she sat up. and giving her his hand, he lifted her up. and when he had called the saints and the widows, he presented her alive. and it was made known throughout all joppe; and many believed in the lord. and it came to pass, that he abode many days in joppe, with one simon a tanner.

and there was a certain man in caesarea, named cornelius, a centurion of that which is called the italian band; a religious man, and fearing god with all his house, giving much alms to the people, and always praying to god. this man saw in a vision manifestly, about the ninth hour of the day, an angel of god coming in unto him, and saying to him: cornelius. and he, beholding him, being seized with fear, said: what is it, lord? and he said to him: thy prayers and thy alms are ascended for a memorial in the sight of god. and now send men to joppe, and call hither one simon, who is surnamed peter: he lodgeth with one simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side. he will tell thee what thou must do. and when the angel who spoke to him was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a soldier who feared the lord, of them that were under him. to whom when he had related all, he sent them to joppe. and on the next day, whilst they were going on their journey, and drawing nigh to the city, peter went up to the higher parts of the house to pray, about the sixth hour. and being hungry, he was desirous to taste somewhat. and as they were preparing, there came upon him an ecstasy of mind. and he saw the heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending, as it were a great linen sheet let down by the four corners from heaven to the earth: wherein were all manner of fourfooted beasts, and creeping things of the earth, and fowls of the air. and there came a voice to him: arise, peter; kill and eat. but peter said: far be it from me; for i never did eat any thing that is common and unclean. and the voice spoke to him again the second time: that which god hath cleansed, do not thou call common. and this was done thrice; and presently the vessel was taken up into heaven. now, whilst peter was doubting within himself, what the vision that he had seen should mean, behold the men who were sent from cornelius, inquiring for simon's house, stood at the gate. and when they had called, they asked, if simon, who is surnamed peter, were lodged there. and as peter was thinking of the vision, the spirit said to him: behold three men seek thee. arise, therefore, get thee down and go with them, doubting nothing: for i have sent them. then peter, going down to the men, said: behold, i am he whom you seek; what is the cause for which you are come? who said: cornelius, a centurion, a just man, and one that feareth god, and having good testimony from all the nation of the jews, received an answer of an holy angel, to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee. then bringing them in, he lodged them. and the day following he arose, and went with them: and some of the brethren from joppe accompanied him. and the morrow after, he entered into caesarea. and cornelius waited for them, having called together his kinsmen and special friends. and it came to pass, that when peter was come in, cornelius came to meet him, cornelius came to meet him, and falling at his feet adored. but peter lifted him up, saying: arise, i myself also am a man. and talking with him, he went in, and found many that were come together. and he said to them: you know how abominable it is for a man that is a jew, to keep company or to come unto one of another nation: but god hath shewed to me, to call no man common or unclean. for which cause, making no doubt, i came when i was sent for. i ask, therefore, for what cause you have sent for me? and cornelius said: four days ago, unto this hour, i was praying in my house, at the ninth hour, and behold a man stood before me in white apparel, and said: cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thy alms are had in remembrance in the sight of god. send therefore to joppe, and call hither simon, who is surnamed peter: he lodgeth in the house of simon a tanner, by the sea side. immediately therefore i sent to thee: and thou hast done well in coming. now therefore all we are present in thy sight, to hear all things whatsoever are commanded thee by the lord. and peter opening his mouth, said: in very deed i perceive, that god is not a respecter of persons. but in every nation, he that feareth him, and worketh justice, is acceptable to him. god sent the word to the children of israel, preaching peace by jesus christ: (he is lord of all.) you know the word which hath been published through all judea:

for it began from galilee, after the baptism which john preached, jesus of nazareth: how god anointed him with the holy ghost, and with power, who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed by the devil, for god was with him. and we are witnesses of all things that he did in the land of the jews and in jerusalem, whom they killed, hanging him upon a tree. him god raised up the third day, and gave him to be made manifest, not to all the people, but to witnesses preordained by god, even to us, who did eat and drink with him after he arose again from the dead; and he commanded us to preach to the people, and to testify that it is he who was appointed by god, to be judge of the living and of the dead. to him all the prophets give testimony, that by his name all receive remission of sins, who believe in him. while peter was yet speaking these words, the holy ghost fell on all them that heard the word. and the faithful of the circumcision, who came with peter, were astonished, for that the grace of the holy ghost was poured out upon the gentiles also. for they heard them speaking with tongues, and magnifying god. then peter answered: can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, who have received the holy ghost, as well as we? and he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the lord jesus christ. then they desired him to tarry with them some days.

and the apostles and brethren, who were in judea, heard that the gentiles also had received the word of god. and when peter was come up to jerusalem, they that were of the circumcision contended with him, saying: why didst thou go in to men uncircumcised, and didst eat with them? but peter began and declared to them the matter in order, saying: i was in the city of joppe praying, and i saw in an ecstasy of mind a vision, a certain vessel descending, as it were a great sheet let down from heaven by four corners, and it came even unto me. into which looking, i considered, and saw fourfooted creatures of the earth, and beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air: and i heard also a voice saying to me: arise, peter; kill and eat. and i said: not so, lord; for nothing common or unclean hath ever entered into my mouth. and the voice answered again from heaven: what god hath made clean, do not thou call common. and this was done three times: and all were taken up again into heaven. and behold, immediately there were three men come to the house wherein i was, sent to me from caesarea. and the spirit said to me, that i should go with them, nothing doubting. and these six brethren went with me also: and we entered into the man's house. and he told us how he had seen an angel in his house, standing, and saying to him: send to joppe, and call hither simon, who is surnamed peter, who shall speak to thee words, whereby thou shalt be saved, and all thy house. and when i had begun to speak, the holy ghost fell upon them, as upon us also in the beginning. and i remembered the word of the lord, how that he said: john indeed baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the holy ghost. if then god gave them the same grace, as to us also who believed in the lord jesus christ; who was i, that could withstand god? having heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified god, saying: god then hath also to the gentiles given repentance unto life. now they who had been dispersed by the persecution that arose on occasion of stephen, went about as far as phenice and cyprus and antioch, speaking the word to none, but to the jews only. but some of them were men of cyprus and cyrene, who, when they were entered into antioch, spoke also to the greeks, preaching the lord jesus. and the hand of the lord was with them: and a great number believing, were converted to the lord. and the tidings came to the ears of the church that was at jerusalem, touching these things: and they sent barnabas as far as antioch. who, when he was come, and had seen the grace of god, rejoiced: and he exhorted them all with purpose of heart to continue in the lord. for he was a good man, and full of the holy ghost and of faith. and a great multitude was added to the lord. and barnabas went to tarsus to seek saul: whom, when he had found, he brought to antioch. and they conversed there in the church a whole year; and they taught a great multitude, so that at antioch the disciples were first named christians. and in these days there came prophets from jerusalem to antioch: and one of them named agabus, rising up, signified by the spirit, that there should be a great famine over the whole world, which came to pass under claudius. and the disciples, every man according to his ability, purposed to send relief to the brethren who dwelt in judea: which also they did, sending it to the ancients, by the hands of barnabas and saul.

and at the same time, herod the king stretched forth his hands, to afflict some of the church. and he killed james, the brother of john, with the sword. and seeing that it pleased the jews, he proceeded to take up peter also. now it was in the days of the azymes. and when he had apprehended him, he cast him into prison, delivering him to four files of soldiers to be kept, intending, after the pasch, to bring him forth to the people. peter therefore was kept in prison. but prayer was made without ceasing by the church unto god for him. and when herod would have brought him forth, the same night peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison. and behold an angel of the lord stood by him: and a light shined in the room: and he striking peter on the side, raised him up, saying: arise quickly. and the chains fell off from his hands. and the angel said to him: gird thyself, and put on thy sandals. and he did so. and he said to him: cast thy garment about thee, and follow me. and going out, he followed him, and he knew not that it was true which was done by the angel: but thought he saw a vision. and passing through the first and the second ward, they came to the iron gate that leadeth to the city, which of itself opened to them. and going out, they passed on through one street: and immediately the angel departed from him. and peter coming to himself, said: now i know in very deed, that the lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the jews. and considering, he came to the house of mary the mother of john, who was surnamed mark, where many were gathered together and praying. and when he knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came to hearken, whose name was rhode. and as soon as she knew peter's voice, she opened not the gate for joy, but running in she told that peter stood before the gate. but they said to her: thou art mad. but she affirmed that it was so. then said they: it is his angel. but peter continued knocking. and when they had opened, they saw him, and were astonished. but he beckoning to them with his hand to hold their peace, told how the lord had brought him out of prison, and he said: tell these things to james, and to the brethren. and going out, he went into another place. now when day was come, there was no small stir among the soldiers, what was become of peter. and when herod had sought for him, and found him not; having examined the keepers, he commanded they should be put to death; and going down from judea to caesarea, he abode there. and he was angry with the tyrians and the sidonians. but they with one accord came to him, and having gained blastus, who was the king's chamberlain, they desired peace, because their countries were nourished by him. and upon a day appointed, herod being arrayed in kingly apparel, sat in the judgment seat, and made an oration to them. and the people made acclamation, saying: it is the voice of a god, and not of a man. and forthwith an angel of the lord struck him, because he had not given the honour to god: and being eaten up by worms, he gave up the ghost. but the word of the lord increased and multiplied. and barnabas and saul returned from jerusalem, having fulfilled their ministry, taking with them john, who was surnamed mark.

now there were in the church which was at antioch, prophets and doctors, among whom was barnabas, and simon who was called niger, and lucius of cyrene, and manahan, who was the foster brother of herod the tetrarch, and saul. and as they were ministering to the lord, and fasting, the holy ghost said to them: separate me saul and barnabas, for the work whereunto i have taken them. then they, fasting and praying, and imposing their hands upon them, sent them away. so they being sent by the holy ghost, went to seleucia: and from thence they sailed to cyprus. and when they were come to salamina, they preached the word of god in the synagogues of the jews. and they had john also in the ministry. and when they had gone through the whole island, as far as paphos, they found a certain man, a magician, a false prophet, a jew, whose name was bar-jesu: who was with the proconsul sergius paulus, a prudent man. he sending for barnabas and saul, desired to hear the word of god. but elymas the magician (for so his name is interpreted) withstood them, seeking to turn away the proconsul from the faith. then saul, otherwise

paul, filled with the holy ghost, looking upon him, said: o full of all guile, and of all deceit, child of the devil, enemy of all justice, thou ceaseest not to pervert the right ways of the lord. and now behold, the hand of the lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a time. and immediately there fell a mist and darkness upon him, and going about, he sought some one to lead him by the hand. then the proconsul, when he had seen what was done, believed, admiring at the doctrine of the lord. now when paul and they that were with him had sailed from paphos, they came to perge in paphlagonia. and john departing from them, returned to jerusalem. but they passing through perge, came to antioch in pisidia: and entering into the synagogue on the sabbath day, they sat down. and after the reading of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent to them, saying: ye men, brethren, if you have any word of exhortation to make to the people, speak. then paul rising up, and with his hand bespeaking silence, said: ye men of israel, and you that fear god, give ear. the god of the people of israel chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they were sojourners in the land of egypt, and with an high arm brought them out from thence, and for the space of forty years endured their manners in the desert. and destroying seven nations in the land of chanaan, divided their land among them, by lot, as it were, after four hundred and fifty years: and after these things, he gave unto them judges, until samuel the prophet. and after that they desired a king: and god gave them saul the son of cis, a man of the tribe of benjamin, forty years. and when he had removed him, he raised them up david to be king: to whom giving testimony, he said: i have found david, the son of jesse, a man according to my own heart, who shall do all my wills. of this man's seed god according to his promise, hath raised up to israel a saviour, jesus: john first preaching, before his coming, the baptism of penance to all the people of israel. and when john was fulfilling his course, he said: i am not he, whom you think me to be: but behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet i am not worthy to loose. men, brethren, children of the stock of abraham, and whosoever among you fear god, to you the word of this salvation is sent. for they that inhabited jerusalem, and the rulers thereof, not knowing him, nor the voices of the prophets, which are read every sabbath, judging him have fulfilled them. and finding no cause of death in him, they desired of pilate, that they might kill him. and when they had fulfilled all things that were written of him, taking him down from the tree, they laid him in a sepulchre. but god raised him up from the dead the third day: who was seen for many days, by them who came up with him from galilee to jerusalem, who to this present are his witnesses to the people. and we declare unto you, that the promise which was made to our fathers, this same god hath fulfilled to our children, raising up jesus, as in the second psalm also is written: thou art my son, this day have i begotten thee. and to shew that he raised him up from the dead, not to return now any more to corruption, he said thus: i will give you the holy things of david faithful. and therefore, in another place also, he saith: thou shalt not suffer thy holy one to see corruption. for david, when he had served in his generation, according to the will of god, slept: and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption. but he whom god hath raised from the dead, saw no corruption. be it known therefore to you, men, brethren, that through him forgiveness of sins is preached to you: and from all the things, from which you could not be justified by the law of moyses. in him every one that believeth, is justified. beware, therefore, lest that come upon you which is spoken in the prophets: behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for i work a work in your days, a work which you will not believe, if any man shall tell it you. and as they went out, they desired them, that on the next sabbath, they would speak unto them these words. and when the synagogue was broken up, many of the jews, and of the strangers who served god, followed paul and barnabas: who speaking to them, persuaded them to continue in the grace of god. but the next sabbath day, the whole city almost came together, to hear the word of god. and the jews seeing the multitudes, were filled with envy, and contradicted those things which were said by paul, blaspheming. then paul and barnabas said boldly: to you it behoved us first to speak the word of god: but because you reject it, and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, behold we turn to the gentiles. for so the lord hath commanded us: i have set thee to be the light of the gentiles; that thou mayest be for salvation unto the utmost part of the earth. and the gentiles hearing it, were glad, and glorified the word of the lord: and as many as were ordained to life everlasting, believed. and the word of the lord was published throughout the whole country. but the jews stirred up religious and honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and raised persecution against paul and barnabas: and cast them out of their coasts. but they, shaking off the dust of their feet against them, came to iconium. and the disciples were filled with joy and with the holy ghost.

and it came to pass in iconium, that they entered together into the synagogue of the jews, and so spoke that a very great multitude both of the jews and of the greeks did believe. but the unbelieving jews stirred up and incensed the minds of the gentiles against the brethren. a long time therefore they abode there, dealing confidently in the lord, who gave testimony to the word of his grace, granting signs and wonders to be done by their hands. and the multitude of the city was divided; and some of them indeed held with the jews, but some with the apostles. and when there was an assault made by the gentiles and the jews with their rulers, to use them contumeliously, and to stone them: they understanding it, fled to lystra, and derbe, cities of lycaonia, and to the whole country round about, and were there preaching the gospel. and there sat a certain man at lystra, impotent in his feet, a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked. this same heard paul speaking. who looking upon him, and seeing that he had faith to be healed, said with a loud voice: stand upright on thy feet. and he leaped up, and walked. and when the multitudes had seen what paul had done, they lifted up their voice in the lycaonian tongue, saying: the gods are come down to us in the likeness of men; and they called barnabas, jupiter: but paul, mercury; because he was chief speaker. the priest also of jupiter that was before the city, bringing oxen and garlands before the gate, would have offered sacrifice with the people. which, when the apostles barnabas and paul had heard, rending their clothes, they leaped out among the people, crying, and saying: ye men, why do ye these things? we also are mortals, men like unto you, preaching to you to be converted from these vain things, to the living god, who made the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and all things that are in them: who in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways. nevertheless he left not himself without testimony, doing good from heaven, giving rains and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness. and speaking these things, they scarce restrained the people from sacrificing to them. now there came thither certain jews from antioch, and iconium: and persuading the multitude, and stoning paul, drew him out of the city, thinking him to be dead. but as the disciples stood round about him, he rose up and entered into the city, and the next day he departed with barnabas to derbe. and when they had preached the gospel to that city, and had taught many, they returned again to lystra, and to iconium, and to antioch: confirming the souls of the disciples, and exhorting them to continue in the faith: and that through many tribulations we must enter into the kingdom of god. and when they had ordained to them priests in every church, and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the lord, in whom they believed. and passing through pisidia, they came into pamphylia. and having spoken the word of the lord in perge, they went down into attalia: and thence they sailed to antioch, from whence they had been delivered to the grace of god, unto the work which they accomplished. and when they were come, and had assembled the church, they related what great things god had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith to the gentiles. and they abode no small time with the disciples.

and some coming down from judea, taught the brethren: that except you be circumcised after the manner of moyses, you cannot be saved. and when paul and barnabas had no small contest with them, they determined that paul and barnabas, and certain others of the other side, should go up to the apostles and priests to jerusalem about this question. they therefore being brought on their way by the church, passed through phenice, and samaria, relating the conversion of the gentiles; and they caused great joy to all the brethren. and when they were come to jerusalem, they were received by the church, and by the apostles and ancients, declaring how great things god had done with them. but there arose some of the

sect of the pharisees that believed, saying: they must be circumcised, and be commanded to observe the law of moyses. and the apostles and ancients assembled to consider of this matter. and when there had been much disputing, peter, rising up, said to them: men, brethren, you know, that in former days god made choice among us, that by my mouth the gentiles should hear the word of the gospel, and believe. and god, who knoweth the hearts, gave testimony, giving unto them the holy ghost, as well as to us; and put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith. now therefore, why tempt you god to put a yoke upon the necks of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we have been able to bear? but by the grace of the lord jesus christ, we believe to be saved, in like manner as they also. and all the multitude held their peace; and they heard barnabas and paul telling what great signs and wonders god had wrought among the gentiles by them. and after they had held their peace, james answered, saying: men, brethren, hear me. simon hath related how god first visited to take of the gentiles a people to his name. and to this agree the words of the prophets, as it is written: after these things i will return, and will rebuild the tabernacle of david, which is fallen down; and the ruins thereof i will rebuild, and i will set it up: that the residue of men may seek after the lord, and all nations upon whom my name is invoked, saith the lord, who doth these things. to the lord was his own work known from the beginning of the world. for which cause i judge that they, who from among the gentiles are converted to god, are not to be disquieted. but that we write unto them, that they refrain themselves from the pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood. for moyses of old time hath in every city them that preach him in the synagogues, where he is read every sabbath. then it pleased the apostles and ancients, with the whole church, to choose men of their own company, and to send to antioch, with paul and barnabas, namely, judas, who was surnamed barsabas, and silas, chief men among the brethren. writing by their hands: the apostles and ancients, brethren, to the brethren of the gentiles that are at antioch, and in syria and cilicia, greeting. forasmuch as we have heard, that some going out from us have troubled you with words, subverting your souls; to whom we gave no commandment: it hath seemed good to us, being assembled together, to choose out men, and to send them unto you, with our well beloved barnabas and paul: men that have given their lives for the name of our lord jesus christ. we have sent therefore judas and silas, who themselves also will, by word of mouth, tell you the same things. for it hath seemed good to the holy ghost and to us, to lay no further burden upon you than these necessary things: that you abstain from things sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication; from which things keeping yourselves, you shall do well. fare ye well. they therefore being dismissed, went down to antioch; and gathering together the multitude, delivered the epistle. which when they had read, they rejoiced for the consolation. but judas and silas, being prophets also themselves, with many words comforted the brethren, and confirmed them. and after they had spent some time there, they were let go with peace by the brethren, unto them that had sent them. but it seemed good unto silas to remain there; and judas alone departed to jerusalem. and paul and barnabas continued at antioch, teaching and preaching, with many others, the word of the lord. and after some days, paul said to barnabas: let us return and visit our brethren in all the cities wherein we have preached the word of the lord, to see how they do. and barnabas would have taken with them john also, that was surnamed mark; but paul desired that he (as having departed from them out of pamphylia, and not gone with them to the work) might not be received. and there arose a dissension, so that they departed one from another; and barnabas indeed taking mark, sailed to cyprus. but paul choosing silas, departed, being delivered by the brethren to the grace of god. and he went through syria and cilicia, confirming the churches, commanding them to keep the precepts of the apostles and the ancients.

and he came to derbe and lystra. and behold, there was a certain disciple there named timothy, the son of a jewish woman that believed; but his father was a gentile. to this man the brethren that were in lystra and iconium, gave a good testimony. him paul would have to go along with him: and taking him he circumcised him, because of the jews who were in those places. for they all knew that his father was a gentile. and as they passed through the cities, they delivered unto them the decrees for to keep, that were decreed by the apostles and ancients who were at jerusalem. and the churches were confirmed in faith, and increased in number daily. and when they had passed through phrygia, and the country of galatia, they were forbidden by the holy ghost to preach the word in asia. and when they were come into mysia, they attempted to go into bythynia, and the spirit of jesus suffered them not. and when they had passed through mysia, they went down to troas. and a vision was shewed to paul in the night, which was a man of macedonia standing and beseeching him, and saying: pass over into macedonia, and help us. and as soon as he had seen the vision, immediately we sought to go into macedonia, being assured that god had called us to preach the gospel to them. and sailing from troas, we came with a straight course to samothracia, and the day following to neapolis; and from thence to philippi, which is the chief city of part of macedonia, a colony. and we were in this city some days conferring together. and upon the sabbath day, we went forth without the gate by a river side, where it seemed that there was prayer; and sitting down, we spoke to the women that were assembled. and a certain woman named lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of thyatira, one that worshipped god, did hear: whose heart the lord opened to attend to those things which were said by paul. and when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying: if you have

judged me to be faithful to the lord, come into my house, and abide there. and she constrained us. and it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain girl, having a pythonical spirit, met us, who brought to her masters much gain by divining. this same following paul and us, cried out, saying: these men are the servants of the most high god, who preach unto you the way of salvation. and this she did many days. but paul being grieved, turned, and said to the spirit: i command thee, in the name of jesus christ, to go out from her. and he went out the same hour. but her masters, seeing that the hope of their gain was gone, apprehending paul and silas, brought them into the marketplace to the rulers. and presenting them to the magistrates, they said: these men disturb our city, being jews; and preach a fashion which it is not lawful for us to receive nor observe, being romans. and the people ran together against them; and the magistrates rending off their clothes, commanded them to be beaten with rods. and when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the gaoler to keep them diligently. who having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks. and at midnight, paul and silas praying, praised god. and they that were in prison, heard them. and suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken. and immediately all the doors were opened, and the bands of all were loosed. and the keeper of the prison, awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the doors of the prison open, drawing his sword, would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled. but paul cried with a loud voice, saying: do thyself no harm, for we all are here. then calling for a light, he went in, and trembling, fell down at the feet of paul and silas. and bringing them out, he said: masters, what must i do, that i may be saved? but they said: believe in the lord jesus, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. and they preached the word of the lord to him and to all that were in his house. and he, taking them the same hour of the night, washed their stripes, and himself was baptized, and all his house immediately. and when he had brought them into his own house, he laid the table for them, and rejoiced with all his house, believing god. and when the day was come, the magistrates sent the serjeants, saying, let those men go. and the keeper of the prison told these words to paul: the magistrates have sent to let you go; now therefore depart, and go in peace. but paul said to them: they have beaten us publicly, uncondemned, men that are romans, and have cast us into prison: and now do they thrust us out privately? not so; but let them come, and let us out ourselves. and the serjeants told these words to the magistrates. and they were afraid, hearing that they were romans. and coming, they besought them; and bringing them out, they desired them to depart out of the city. and they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of lydia; and having seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

and when they had passed through amphipolis and apollonia, they came to thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the jews. and paul, according to his custom, went in unto them; and for three sabbath days he reasoned with them out of the scriptures: declaring and insinuating that the christ was to suffer, and to rise again from the dead; and that this is jesus christ, whom i preach to you. and some of them believed, and were associated to paul and silas; and of those that served god, and of the gentiles a great multitude, and of noble women not a few. but the jews, moved with envy, and taking unto them some wicked men of the vulgar sort, and making a tumult, set the city in an uproar; and besetting jason's house, sought to bring them out unto the people. and not finding them, they drew jason and certain brethren to the rulers of the city, crying: they that set the city in an uproar, are come hither also; whom jason hath received; and these all do contrary to the decrees of caesar, saying that there is another king, jesus. and they stirred up the people, and the rulers of the city hearing these things, and having taken satisfaction of jason and of the rest, they let them go. but the brethren immediately sent away paul and silas by night unto berea. who, when they were come thither, went into the synagogue of the jews. now these were more noble than those in thessalonica, who received the word with all eagerness, daily searching the scriptures, whether these things were so. and many indeed of them believed, and of honourable women that were gentiles, and of men not a few. and when the jews of thessalonica had knowledge that the word of god was also preached by paul at berea, they came thither also, stirring up and troubling the multitude. and then immediately the brethren sent away paul, to go unto the sea; but silas and timothy remained there. and they that conducted paul, brought him as far as athens; and receiving a commandment from him to silas and timothy, that they should come to him with all speed, they departed. now whilst paul waited for them at athens, his spirit was stirred within him, seeing the city wholly given to idolatry. he disputed, therefore, in the synagogue with the jews, and with them that served god, and in the marketplace, every day with them that were there. and certain philosophers of the epicureans and of the stoics disputed with him; and some said: what is it, that this word sower would say? but others: he seemeth to be a setter forth of new gods; because he preached to them jesus and the resurrection. and taking him, they brought him to the areopagus, saying: may we know what this new doctrine is, which thou speakest of? for thou bringest in certain new things to our ears. we would know therefore what these things mean. (now all the athensians, and strangers that were there, employed themselves in nothing else, but either in telling or in hearing some new thing.) but paul standing in the midst of the areopagus, said: ye men of athens, i perceive that in all things you are too superstitious. for passing by, and seeing your idols, i found an altar also, on which was written: to the unknown god. what therefore you worship, without knowing it, that i preach to you: god, who made the world, and all things therein; he, being lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is he served with men's hands, as though he needed any thing; seeing it is he who giveth to all life, and breath, and all things: and hath made of one, all mankind, to dwell upon the whole face of the earth, determining appointed times, and the limits of their habitation. that they should seek god, if happily they may feel after him or find him, although he be not far from every one of us: for in him we live, and move, and are; as some also of your own poets said: for we are also his offspring. being therefore the offspring of god, we must not suppose the divinity to be like unto gold, or silver, or stone, the graving of art, and device of man. and god indeed having winked at the times of this ignorance, now declareth unto men, that all should every where do penance. because he hath appointed a day wherein he will judge the world in equity, by the man whom he hath appointed; giving faith to all, by raising him up from the dead. and when they had heard of the resurrection of the dead, some indeed mocked, but others said: we will hear thee again concerning this matter. so paul went out from among them. but certain men adhering to him, did believe; among whom was also dionysius, the areopagite, and a woman named damaris, and others with them.

after these things, departing from athens, he came to corinth. and finding a certain jew, named aquila, born in pontus, lately come from italy, with priscilla his wife, (because that claudius had commanded all jews to depart from rome,) he came to them. and because he was of the same trade, he remained with them, and wrought; (now they were tentmakers by trade.) and he reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, bringing in the name of the lord jesus; and he persuaded the jews and the greeks. and when silas and timothy were come from macedonia, paul was earnest in preaching, testifying to the jews, that jesus is the christ. but they gainsaying and blaspheming, he shook his garments, and said to them: your blood be upon your own heads; i am clean: from henceforth i will go unto the gentiles. and departing thence, he entered into the house of a certain man, named titus justus, one that worshipped god, whose house was adjoining to the synagogue. and crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the lord, with all his house; and many of the corinthians hearing, believed, and were baptized. and the lord said to paul in the nights, by a vision: do not fear, but speak; and hold not thy peace, because i am with thee: and no man shall set upon thee, to hurt thee; for i have much people in this city. and he stayed there a year and six months, teaching among them the word of god. but when gallio was proconsul of achaia, the jews with one accord rose up against paul, and brought him to the judgment seat, saying: this man persuadeth men to worship god contrary to the law. and when paul was beginning to open his mouth, gallio said to the jews: if it were some matter of injustice, or an heinous deed, o jews, i should with reason bear with you. but if they be questions of word and names, and of your law, look you to it: i will not be judge of such things. and he drove them from the judgment seat. and all laying hold on sosthenes, the ruler of the synagogue, beat him before the judgment seat; and gallio cared for none of those things. but paul, when he had stayed yet many days, taking his leave of the brethren, sailed thence into syria (and with him priscilla and aquila), having shorn his head in cenchrae: for he had a vow. and he came to ephesus, and left them there. but he himself entering into the synagogue, disputed with the jews. and when they desired him, that he would tarry a longer time, he consented not; but taking his leave, and saying: i will return to you again, god willing, he departed from ephesus. and going down to caesarea, he went up to jerusalem, and saluted the church, and so came down to antioch. and after he had spent some time there, he departed, and went through the country of galatia and phrygia, in order, confirming all the disciples. now a certain jew, named apollo, born at alexandria, an eloquent man, came to ephesus, one mighty in the scriptures. this man was instructed in the way of the lord; and being fervent in spirit, spoke, and taught diligently the things that are of jesus, knowing only the baptism of john. this man therefore began to speak boldly in the synagogue. whom when priscilla and aquila had heard, they took him to them, and expounded to him the way of the lord more diligently. and whereas he was desirous to go to achaia, the brethren exhorting, wrote to the disciples to receive him. who, when he was come, helped them much who had believed. for with much vigour he convinced the jews openly, shewing by the scriptures, that jesus is the christ.

and it came to pass, while apollo was at corinth, that paul having passed through the upper coasts, came to ephesus, and found certain disciples. and he said to them: have you received the holy ghost since ye believed? but they said to him: we have not so much as heard whether there be a holy ghost. and he said: in what then were you baptized? who said: in john's baptism. then paul said: john baptized the people with the baptism of penance, saying: that they should believe in him who was to come after him, that is to say, in jesus. having heard these things, they were baptized in the name of the lord jesus. and when paul had imposed his hands on them, the holy ghost came upon them, and they spoke with tongues and prophesied. and all the men were about twelve. and entering into the synagogue, he spoke boldly for the space of three months, disputing and exhorting concerning the kingdom of god. but when some were hardened, and believed not, speaking evil of the way of the lord, before the multitude, departing from them, he separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one tyrannus. and this continued for the space of two years, so that all they who dwelt in asia, heard the word of the lord, both jews and gentiles. and god wrought by the hand of paul more than common miracles. so that even there were brought from his body to the sick, handkerchiefs and aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the wicked spirits went out of them. now some also of the jewish exorcists who went about, attempted to invoke over them that had evil spirits, the name of the lord jesus, saying: i conjure you by jesus, whom paul preacheth. and there were certain men, seven sons of sceva, a jew, a chief priest, that did this. but the wicked spirit, answering, said to them: jesus i know, and paul i know; but who are you? and the man in whom the wicked spirit was, leaping upon them, and mastering them both, prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. and this became known to all the jews and the gentiles that dwelt at ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the lord jesus was magnified. and many of them that believed, came confessing and declaring their deeds. and many of them who had followed curious arts, brought together their books, and burnt them before all; and counting the price of them, they found the money to be fifty thousand pieces of silver. so mightily grew the word of god, and was confirmed. and when these things were ended, paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through macedonia and achaia, to go to jerusalem, saying: after i have been there, i must see rome also. and sending into macedonia two of them that ministered to him, timothy and erastus, he himself remained for a time in asia. now at that time there arose no small disturbance about the way of the lord. for a certain man named demetrius, a silversmith, who made silver temples for diana, brought no small gain to the craftsmen; whom he calling together, with the workmen of like occupation, said: sirs, you know that our gain is by this trade; and you see and hear, that this paul by persuasion hath drawn away a great multitude, not only of ephesus, but almost of all asia, saying: they are not gods which are made by hands. so that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought, but also the temple of great diana shall be reputed for nothing; yea, and her majesty shall begin to be destroyed, whom all asia and the world worshippeth. having heard these things, they were full of anger, and cried out, saying: great is diana of the ephesians. and the whole city was filled with confusion; and having caught gaius and aristarchus, men of macedonia, paul's companions, they rushed with one accord into the theatre. and when paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not. and some also of the rulers of asia, who were his friends, sent unto him, desiring that he would not venture himself into the theatre. now some cried one thing, some another. for the assembly was confused, and the greater part knew not for what cause they were come together. and they drew forth alexander out of the multitude, the jews thrusting him forward. and alexander beckoning with his hand for silence, would have given the people satisfaction. but as soon as they perceived him to be a jew, all with one voice, for the space of about two hours, cried out: great is diana of the ephesians. and when the town clerk had appeased the multitudes, he said: ye men of ephesus, what man is there that knoweth not that the city of the ephesians is a worshipper of the great diana, and of jupiter's offspring. for as much therefore as these things cannot be contradicted, you ought to be quiet, and to do nothing rashly. for you have brought hither these men, who are neither guilty of sacrilege, nor of blasphemy against your goddess. but if demetrius and the craftsmen that are with him, have a matter against any man, the courts of justice are open, and there are proconsuls: let them accuse one another. and if you inquire after any other matter, it may be decided in a lawful assembly. for we are even in danger to be called in question for this day's uproar, there being no man guilty (of whom we may give account) of this concourse. and when he had said these things, he dismissed the assembly.

and after the tumult was ceased, paul calling to him the disciples, and exhorting them, took his leave, and set forward to go into macedonia. and when he had gone over those parts, and had exhorted them with many words, he came into greece; where, when he had spent three months, the jews laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into syria; so he took a resolution to return through macedonia. and there accompanied him sopater the son of pyrrhus, of berea; and of the thessalonians, aristarchus, and secundus, and gaius of derbe, and timothy; and of asia, tychicus and trophimus. these going before, stayed for us at troas. but we sailed from philippi after the days of the azymes, and came to them to troas in five days, where we abode seven days. and on the first day of the week, when we were assembled to break bread, paul discoursed with them, being to depart on the morrow: and he continued his speech until midnight. and there were a great number of lamps in the upper chamber where we were assembled. and a certain young man named eutychus, sitting on the window, being oppressed with a deep sleep, (as paul was long preaching,) by occasion of his sleep fell from the third loft down, and was taken up dead. to whom, when paul had gone down, he laid himself upon him, and embracing him, said: be not troubled, for his soul is in him. then going up, and breaking bread and tasting, and having talked a long time to them, until daylight, so he departed. and they brought the youth alive, and were not a little comforted. but we, going aboard the ship, sailed to assos, being there to take in paul; for so he had appointed, himself purposing to travel by land. and when he had met with us at assos, we took him in, and came to mitylene. and sailing thence, the day following we came over against chios; and the next day we arrived at samos; and the day following we came to miletus. for paul had determined to sail by ephesus, lest he should be stayed any time in asia. for he hasted, if it were possible for him, to keep the day of pentecost at jerusalem. and sending from miletus to ephesus, he called the ancients of the church. and when they were come to him, and were together, he said to them: you know from the first day that i came into asia, in what manner i have been with you, for all the time, serving the lord with all humility, and with tears, and temptations which befell me by the conspiracies of the jews; how i have kept back nothing that was profitable to you, but have preached it to you, and taught you publicly, and from house to house, testifying both to jews and gentiles penance towards god, and faith in our lord jesus christ. and now, behold, being bound in the spirit, i go to jerusalem: not knowing the things which shall befall me there: save that the holy ghost in every city witnesseth to me, saying: that bands and afflictions wait for me at jerusalem. but i fear none of these things, neither do i count my life more precious than myself, so that i may consummate my course and the ministry of the word which i received from the lord jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of god. and now behold, i know that all you, among whom i have gone preaching the kingdom of god, shall see my face no more. wherefore i take you to witness this day, that i am clear from the blood of all men; for i have not spared to declare unto you all the counsel of god. take heed to yourselves, and to the whole flock, wherein the holy ghost hath placed you bishops, to rule the church of god, which he hath purchased with his own blood. i know that, after my departure, ravening wolves will enter in among you, not sparing the flock. and of your own selves shall arise men speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them. therefore watch, keeping in memory, that for three years i ceased not, with tears to admonish every one of you night and day. and now i commend you to god, and to the word of his grace, who is able to build up, and to give an inheritance among all the sanctified. i have not coveted any man's silver, gold, or apparel, as you yourselves know: for such things as were needful for me and them that are with me, these hands have furnished. i have shewed you all things, how that so labouring you ought to support the weak, and to remember the word of the lord jesus, how he said: it is a more blessed thing to give, rather than to receive. and when he had said these things, kneeling down, he prayed with them all. and there was much weeping among them all; and falling on the neck of paul, they kissed him, being grieved most of all for the word which he had said, that they should see his face no more. and they brought him on his way to the ship.

and when it came to pass that, being parted from them, we set sail, we came with a straight course to coos, and the day following to rhodes, and from thence to patara. and when we had found a ship sailing over to phenice, we went aboard, and set forth. and when we had discovered cyprus, leaving it on the left hand, we sailed into syria, and came to tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden. and finding disciples, we tarried there seven days: who said to paul through the spirit, that he should not go up to jerusalem. and the days being expired, departing we went forward, they all bringing us on our way, with their wives and children, till we were out of the city: and we kneeled down on the shore, and we prayed. and when we had bid one another farewell, we took ship; and they returned home. but we having finished the voyage by sea, from tyre came down to ptolemais: and saluting the brethren, we abode one day with them. and the next day departing, we came to caesarea. and entering into the house of philip the evangelist, who was one of the seven, we abode with him. and he had four daughters, virgins, who did prophesy. and as we tarried there for some days, there came from judea a certain prophet, named agabus. who, when he was come to us, took paul's girdle: and binding his own feet and hands, he said: thus saith the holy ghost: the man whose girdle this is, the jews shall bind in this manner in jerusalem, and shall deliver him into the hands of the gentiles. which when we had heard, both we and they that were of that place, desired him that he would not go up to jerusalem. then paul answered, and said: what do you mean weeping and afflicting my heart? for i am ready not only to be bound, but to die also in jerusalem, for the name of the lord jesus. and when we could not persuade him, we ceased, saying: the will of the lord be done. and after those days, being prepared, we went up to jerusalem. and there went also with us some of the disciples from caesarea, bringing with them one mnason a cyprian, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge. and when we were come to jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly. and the day following, paul went in with us unto james; and all the ancients were assembled. whom when he had saluted, he related particularly what things god had wrought among the gentiles by his ministry. but they hearing it, glorified god, and said to him: thou seest, brother, how many thousands there are among the jews that have believed: and they are all zealous for the law. now they have heard of thee that thou teachest those jews, who are among the gentiles, to depart from moyses: saying, that they ought not to circumcise their children, nor walk according to the custom. what is it therefore? the multitude must needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come. do therefore this that we say to thee. we have four men, who have a vow on them. take these, and sanctify thyself with them: and bestow on them, that they may shave their heads: and all will know that the things which they have heard of thee, are false; but that thou thyself also walkest keeping the law. but as touching the gentiles that believe, we have written, decreeing that they should only refrain themselves from that which has been offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication. then paul took the men, and the next day being purified with them, entered into the temple, giving notice of the accomplishment of the days of purification, until an oblation should be offered for every one of them. but when the seven days were drawing to an end, those jews that were of asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people, and laid hands upon him, crying out: men of israel, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place; and moreover hath brought in gentiles into the temple, and hath violated this holy place. (for they had seen trophimus the ephesian in the city with him, whom they supposed that paul had brought into the temple.) and the whole city was in an uproar: and the people ran together. and taking paul, they drew him out of the temple, and immediately the doors were shut. and as they went about to kill him, it was told the tribune of the band, that all jerusalem was in confusion. who, forthwith taking with him soldiers and centurions, ran down to them. and when they saw the tribune and the soldiers they left off beating paul. then the tribune coming near, took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains: and demanded who he was, and what he had done. and some cried one thing, some another, among the multitude. and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the castle. and when he was come to the stairs, it fell out that he was carried by the soldiers, because of the violence of the people. for the multitude of the people followed after, crying: away with him. and as paul was about to be brought into the castle, he saith to the tribune: may i speak something to thee? who said: canst thou speak greek? art not thou that egyptian who before these days didst raise a tumult, and didst lead forth into the desert four thousand men that were murderers? but paul said to him: i am a jew of tarsus in cilicia, a citizen of no mean city. and i beseech thee, suffer me to speak to the people. and when he had given him leave, paul standing on the stairs, beckoned with his hand to the people. and a great silence being made, he spoke unto them in the hebrew tongue, saying:

men, brethren, and fathers, hear ye the account which i now give unto you. (and when they heard that he spoke to them in the hebrew tongue, they kept the more silence.) and he saith: i am a jew, born at tarsus in cilicia, but brought up in this city, at the feet of gamaliel, taught according to the truth of the law of the fathers, zealous for the law, as also all you are this day: who persecuted this way unto death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women. as the high priest doth bear me witness, and all the ancients: from whom also receiving letters to the brethren, i went to damascus, that i might bring them bound from thence to jerusalem to be punished. and it came to pass, as i was going, and drawing nigh to damascus at midday, that suddenly from heaven there shone round about me a great light: and falling on the ground, i heard a voice saying to me: saul, saul, why persecutest thou me? and i answered: who art thou, lord? and he said to me: i am jesus of nazareth, whom thou persecutest. and they that were with me, saw indeed the light, but they heard not the voice of him that spoke with me. and i said: what shall i do, lord? and the lord said to me: arise, and go to damascus; and there it shall be told thee of all things that thou must do. and whereas i did not see for the brightness of that light, being led by the hand by my companions, i came to damascus. and one ananias, a man according to the law, having testimony of all the jews who dwelt there, coming to me, and standing by me, said to me: brother saul, look up. and i the same hour looked upon him. but he said: the god of our fathers hath preordained thee that thou shouldst know his will, and see the just one, and shouldst hear the voice from his mouth. for thou shalt be his witness to all men, of those things which thou hast seen and heard. and now why tarriest thou? rise up, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, invoking his name. and it came to pass, when i was come again to jerusalem, and was praying in the temple, that i was in a trance, and saw him saying unto me: make haste, and get thee quickly out of jerusalem; because they will not receive thy testimony concerning me. and i said: lord, they know that i cast into prison, and beat in every synagogue, them that believed in thee. and when the blood of stephen thy witness was shed, i stood by and consented, and kept the garments of them that killed him. and he said to me: go, for unto the gentiles afar off, will i send thee. and they heard him until this word, and then lifted up their voice, saying: away with such an one from the earth; for it is not fit that he should live. and as they cried out and threw off their garments, and cast dust into the air, the tribune commanded him to be brought into the castle, and that he should be scourged and tortured: to know for what cause they did so cry out against him. and when they had bound him with thongs, paul saith to the centurion that stood by him: is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a roman, and uncondemned? which the centurion hearing, went to the tribune, and told him, saying: what art thou about to do? for this man is a roman citizen. and the tribune coming, said to him: tell me, art thou a roman? but he said: yea. and the tribune answered: i obtained the being free of this city with a great sum. and paul said: but i was born so. immediately therefore they departed from him that were about to torture him. the tribune also was afraid after he understood that he was a roman citizen, and because he had bound him. but on the next day, meaning to know more diligently for what cause he was accused by the jews, he loosed him, and commanded the priests to come together, and all the council: and bringing forth paul, he set him before

and paul looking upon the council, said: men, brethren, i have conversed with all good conscience before god until this present day. and the high priest ananias commanded them that stood by him to strike him on the mouth. then paul said to him: god shall strike thee, thou whited wall. for sittest thou to judge me according to the law, and contrary to the law commandest me to be struck? and they that stood by said: dost thou revile the high priest of god? and paul said: i knew not, brethren, that he is the high priest. for it is written: thou shalt not speak evil of the prince of thy people. and paul knowing that the one part were sadducees, and the other pharisees, cried out in the council: men, brethren, i am a pharisee, the son of pharisees: concerning the hope and resurrection of the dead i am called in question. and when he had so said, there arose a dissension between the pharisees and the sadducees; and the multitude was divided. for the sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit: but the pharisees confess both. and there arose a great cry. and some of the pharisees rising up, strove, saying: we find no evil in this man. what if a spirit hath spoken to him, or an angel? and when there arose a great dissension, the tribune fearing lest paul should be pulled in pieces by them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and to take him by force from among them, and to bring him into the castle. and the night following the lord standing by him, said: be constant; for as thou hast testified of me in jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at rome. and when day was come, some of the jews gathered together, and bound themselves under a curse, saying, that they would neither eat, nor drink, till they killed paul. and they were more than forty men that had made this conspiracy. who came to the chief priests and the ancients, and said: we have bound ourselves under a great curse that we will eat nothing till we have slain paul. now therefore do you with the council signify to the tribune, that he bring him forth to you, as if you meant to know something more certain touching him. and we, before he come near, are ready to kill him. which when paul's sister's son had heard, of their lying in wait, he came and entered into the castle and told paul. and paul, calling to him one of the centurions, said: bring this young man to the tribune, for he hath some thing to tell him. and he taking him, brought him to the tribune, and said: paul, the prisoner, desired me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath some thing to say to thee. and the tribune taking him by the hand, went aside with him privately, and asked him: what is it that thou hast to tell me? and he said: the jews have agreed to desire thee, that thou wouldst bring forth paul to morrow into the council, as if they meant to inquire some thing more certain touching him. but do not thou give credit to them; for there lie in wait for him more than forty men of them, who have bound themselves by oath neither to eat, nor to drink, till they have killed him: and they are now ready, looking for a promise from thee. the tribune therefore dismissed the young man, charging him that he should tell no man, that he had made known these things unto him. then having called two centurions, he said to them: make ready two hundred soldiers to go as far as caesarea, and seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen for the third hour of the night: and provide beasts, that they may set paul on, and bring him safe to felix the governor. (for he feared lest perhaps the jews might take him away by force and kill him, and he should afterwards be slandered, as if he was to take money.) and he wrote a letter after this manner: claudius lysias to the most excellent governor, felix, greeting. this man being taken by the jews, and ready to be killed by them, i rescued coming in with an army, understanding that he is a roman: and meaning to know the cause which they objected unto him, i brought him forth into their council. whom i found to be accused concerning questions of their law; but having nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bands. and when i was told of ambushes that they had prepared for him, i sent him to thee, signifying also to his accusers to plead before thee. farewell. then the soldiers, according as it was commanded them, taking paul, brought him by night to antipatris. and the next day, leaving the horsemen to go with him, they returned to the castle. who, when they were come to caesarea, and had delivered the letter to the governor, did also present paul before him. and when he had read it, and had asked of what province he was, and understood that he was of cilia; i will hear thee, said he, when thy accusers come. and he commanded him to be kept in herod's judgment hall.

and after five days the high priest ananias came down, with some of the ancients, and one tertullus an orator, who went to the governor against paul. and paul being called for, tertullus began to accuse him, saying: whereas through thee we live in much peace, and many things are rectified by thy providence, we accept it always and in all places, most excellent felix, with all thanksgiving. but that i be no further tedious to thee, i desire thee of thy clemency to hear us in few words. we have found this to be a pestilent man, and raising seditions among all the jews throughout the world, and author of the sedition of the sect of the nazarenes. who also hath gone about to profane the temple: whom, we having apprehended, would also have judged according to our law. but lysias the tribune coming upon us, with great violence took him away out of our hands; commanding his accusers to come to thee: of whom thou mayest thyself, by examination, have knowledge of all these things, whereof we accuse him. and the jews also added, and said that these things were so. then paul answered, (the governor making a sign to him to speak:) knowing that for many years thou hast been judge over this nation, i will with good courage answer for myself. for thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days, since i went up to adore in jerusalem: and neither in the temple did they find me disputing with any man, or causing any concourse of the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city: neither can they prove unto thee the things whereof they now accuse me. but this i confess to thee, that according to the way, which they call a heresy, so do i serve the father and my god, believing all things which are written in the law and the prophets: having hope in god, which these also themselves look for, that there shall be a resurrection of the just and unjust. and herein do i endeavour to have always a conscience without offence toward god, and towards men. now after many years, i came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings, and vows. in which i was found purified in the temple: neither with multitude, nor with tumult. but certain jews of asia, who ought to be present before thee, and to accuse, if they had any thing against me:

or let these men themselves say, if they found in me any iniquity, when standing before the council, except it be for this one voice only that i cried, standing among them, concerning the resurrection of the dead am i judged this day by you. and felix put them off, having most certain knowledge of this way, saying: when lysias the tribune shall come down, i will hear you. and he commanded a centurion to keep him, and that he should be easy, and that he should not prohibit any of his friends to minister unto him. and after some days, felix, coming with drusilla his wife, who was a jew, sent for paul, and heard of him the faith, that is in christ jesus. and as he treated of justice, and chastity, and of the judgment to come, felix being terrified, answered: for this time, go thy way: but when i have a convenient time, i will send for thee. hoping also withal, that money should be given him by paul; for which cause also oftentimes sending for him, he spoke with him. but when two years were ended, felix had for successor portius festus. and felix being willing to shew the jews a pleasure, left paul bound.

now when festus was come into the province, after three days, he went up to jerusalem from caesarea. and the chief priests, and principal men of the jews, went unto him against paul: and they besought him, requesting favour against him, that he would command him to be brought to jerusalem, laying wait to kill him in the way. but festus answered: that paul was kept in caesarea, and that he himself would very shortly depart thither. let them, therefore, saith he, among you that are able, go down with me, and accuse him, if there be any crime in the man. and having tarried among them no more than eight or ten days, he went down to caesarea, and the next day he sat in the judgment seat; and commanded paul to be brought. who being brought, the jews stood about him, who were come down from jerusalem, objecting many and grievous causes, which they could not prove; paul making answer for himself: neither against the law of the jews, nor against the temple, nor against caesar, have i offended in any thing. but festus, willing to shew the jews a pleasure, answering paul, said: wilt thou go up to jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me? then paul said: i stand at caesar's judgment seat, where i ought to be judged. to the jews i have done no injury, as thou very well knowest. for if i have injured them, or have committed any thing worthy of death, i refuse not to die. but if there be none of these things whereof they accuse me, no man may deliver me to them: i appeal to caesar. then festus having conferred with the council, answered: hast thou appealed to caesar? to caesar shalt thou go. and after some days, king agrippa and bernice came down to caesarea to salute festus. and as they tarried there many days, festus told the king of paul, saying: a certain man was left prisoner by felix. about whom, when i was at jerusalem, the chief priests, and the ancients of the jews, came unto me, desiring condemnation against him. to whom i answered: it is not the custom of the romans to condemn any man, before that he who is accused have his accusers present, and have liberty to make his answer, to clear himself of the things laid to his charge. when therefore they were come hither, without any delay, on the day following, sitting in the judgment seat, i commanded the man to be brought. against whom, when the accusers stood up, they brought no accusation of things which i thought ill of: but had certain questions of their own superstition against him, and of one jesus deceased, whom paul affirmed to be alive. i therefore being in a doubt of this manner of question, asked him whether he would go to jerusalem, and there be judged of these things. but paul appealing to be reserved unto the hearing of augustus, i commanded him to be kept, till i might send him to caesar. and agrippa said to festus: i would also hear the man, myself. to morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him. and on the next day, when agrippa and bernice were come with great pomp, and had entered into the hall of audience, with the tribunes, and principal men of the city, at festus' commandment, paul was brought forth. and festus saith: king agrippa, and all ye men who are here present with us, you see this man, about whom all the multitude of the jews dealt with me at jerusalem, requesting and crying out that he ought not to live any longer. yet have i found nothing that he hath committed worthy of death. but forasmuch as he himself hath appealed to augustus, i have determined to send him. of whom i have nothing certain to write to my lord. for which cause i have brought him forth before you, and especially before thee, o king agrippa, that examination being made, i may have what to write. for it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not to signify the things laid to his charge.

then agrippa said to paul: thou art permitted to speak for thyself. then paul stretching forth his hand, began to make his answer. i think myself happy, o king agrippa, that i am to answer for myself this day before thee, touching all the things whereof i am accused by the jews. especially as thou knowest all, both customs and questions that are among the jews: wherefore i beseech thee to hear me patiently. and my life indeed from my youth, which was from the beginning among my own nation in jerusalem, all the jews do know: having known me from the beginning (if they will give testimony) that according to the most sure sect of our religion i lived a pharisee. and now for the hope of the promise that was made by god to the fathers, do i stand subject to judgment: unto which, our twelve tribes, serving night and day, hope to come. for which hope, o king, i am accused by the jews. why should it be thought a thing incredible, that god should raise the dead? and i indeed did formerly think, that i ought to do many things contrary to the name of jesus of nazareth. which also i did at jerusalem, and many of the saints did i shut up in prison, having received authority of the chief priests: and when they were put to death, i brought the sentence. and oftentimes punishing them, in every synagogue, i compelled them to blaspheme: and being yet more mad against them, i persecuted them even unto foreign cities. whereupon when i was going to damascus with authority and permission of the chief priest, at midday, o king, i saw in the way a light from heaven above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me, and them that were in company with me. and when we were all fallen down on the ground, i heard a voice speaking to me in the hebrew tongue: saul, saul, why persecutest thou me? it is hard for thee to kick against the goad. and i said: who art thou, lord? and the lord answered: i am jesus whom thou persecutest. but rise up, and stand upon thy feet: for to this end have i appeared to thee, that i may make thee a minister, and a witness of those things which thou hast seen, and of those things wherein i will appear to thee, delivering thee from the people, and from the nations, unto which now i send thee: to open their eyes, that they may be converted from darkness to light, and from the power of satan to god, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and a lot among the saints, by the faith that is in me. whereupon, o king agrippa, i was not incredulous to the heavenly vision: but to them first that are at damascus, and at jerusalem, and unto all the country of judea, and to the gentiles did i preach, that they should do penance, and turn to god, doing works worthy of penance. for this cause the jews, when i was in the temple, having apprehended me, went about to kill me, but being aided by the help of god, i stand unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying no other thing than those which the prophets, and moyses did say should come to pass: that christ should suffer, and that he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and should shew light to the people, and to the gentiles. as he spoke these things, and made his answer, festus said with a loud voice: paul, thou art beside thyself: much learning doth make thee mad. and paul said: i am not mad, most excellent festus, but i speak words of truth and soberness. for the king knoweth of these things, to whom also i speak with confidence. for i am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him. for neither was any of these things done in a corner. believest thou the prophets, o king agrippa? i know that thou believest. and agrippa said to paul: in a little thou persuadest me to become a christian. and paul said: i would to god, that both in a little and in much, not only thou, but also all that hear me, this day, should become such as i also am, except these bands. and the king rose up, and the governor, and bernice, and they that sat with them. and when they were gone aside, they spoke among themselves, saying: this man hath done nothing worthy of death or of bands. and agrippa said to festus: this man might have been set at liberty, if he had not appealed to caesar.

and when it was determined that he should sail into italy, and that paul, with the other prisoners, should be delivered to a centurion, named julius, of the band augusta, going on board a ship of adrumetum, we launched, meaning to sail by the coasts of asia, aristarchus, the macedonian of thessalonica, continuing with us. and the day following we came to sidon. and julius treating paul courteously, permitted him to go to his friends, and to take care of himself. and when we had launched from thence, we sailed under cyprus, because the winds were contrary. and sailing over the sea of cilicia, and pamphylia, we came to lystra, which is in lycia: and there the centurion finding a ship of alexandria sailing into italy, removed us into it. and when for many days we had sailed slowly, and were scarce come over against gnidus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed near crete by salmone: and with much ado sailing by it, we came into a certain place, which is called good-havens, nigh to which was the city of thalassa. and when much time was spent, and when sailing now was dangerous, because the fast was now past, paul comforted them, saying to them: ye men, i see that the voyage beginneth to be with injury and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives. but the centurion believed the pilot and the master of the ship, more than those things which were said by paul. and whereas it was not a commodious haven to winter in, the greatest part gave counsel to sail thence, if by any means they might reach phenice to winter there, which is a haven of crete, looking towards the southwest and northwest. and the south wind gently blowing, thinking that they had obtained their purpose, when they had loosed from asson, they sailed close by crete. but not long after, there arose against it a tempestuous wind, called euroquilo. and when the ship was caught, and could not bear up against the wind, giving up the ship to the winds, we were driven. and running under a certain island, that is called cauda, we had much work to come by the boat. which being taken up, they used helps, undergirding the ship, and fearing lest they should fall into the quicksands, they let down the sail yard, and so were driven. and we being mightily tossed with the tempest, the next day they lightened the ship. and the third day they cast out with their own hands the tackling of the ship. and when neither sun nor stars appeared for many days, and no small storm lay on us, all hope of our being saved was now taken away. and after they had fasted a long time, paul standing forth in the midst of them, said: you should indeed, o ye men, have hearkened unto me, and not have loosed from crete, and have gained this harm and loss. and now i exhort you to be of good cheer. for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but only of the ship. for an angel of god, whose i am, and whom i serve, stood by me this night, saying: fear not, paul, thou must be brought before caesar; and behold, god hath given thee all them that sail with thee. wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer; for i believe god that it shall so be, as it hath been told me. and we must come unto a certain island. but after the fourteenth night was come, as we were sailing in adria, about midnight, the shipmen deemed that they discovered some country. who also sounding, found twenty fathoms; and going on a little further, they found fifteen fathoms. then fearing lest we should fall upon rough places, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day. but as the shipmen sought to fly out of the ship, having let down the boat into the sea, under colour, as though they would have cast anchors out of the forepart of the ship, paul said to the centurion, and to the soldiers: except these stay in the ship, you cannot be saved. then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off. and when it began to be light, paul besought them all to take meat, saying: this day is the fourteenth day that you have waited, and continued fasting, taking nothing. wherefore i pray you to take some meat for your health's sake; for there shall not an hair of the head of any of you perish. and when he had said these things, taking bread, he gave thanks to god in the sight of them all; and when he had broken it, he began to eat. then were they all of better cheer, and they also took some meat. and we were in all in the ship, two hundred threescore and sixteen souls. and when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, casting the wheat into the sea. and when it was day, they knew not the land; but they discovered a certain creek that had a shore, into which they minded, if they could, to thrust in the ship. and when they had taken up the anchors, they committed themselves to the sea, loosing withal the rudder bands; and hoisting up the mainsail to the wind, they made towards shore. and when we were fallen into a place where two seas met, they run the ship aground; and the forepart indeed, sticking fast, remained unmoveable: but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the sea. and the soldiers' counsel was, that they should kill the prisoners, lest any of them, swimming out, should escape. but the centurion, willing to save paul, forbade it to be done; and he commanded that they who could swim, should cast themselves first into the sea, and save themselves, and get to land. And the rest, some they carried on boards, and some on those things that belonged to the ship. and so it came to pass, that every soul got safe to land.

and when we had escaped, then we knew that the island was called melita. but the barbarians shewed us no small courtesy. for kindling a fire, they refreshed us all, because of the present rain, and of the cold. and when paul had gathered together a bundle of sticks, and had laid them on the fire, a viper coming out of the heat, fastened on his hand. and when the barbarians saw the beast hanging on his hand, they said one to another: undoubtedly this man is a murderer, who though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance doth not suffer him to live. and he indeed shaking off the beast into the fire, suffered no harm. but they supposed that he would begin to swell up, and that he would suddenly fall down and die. but expecting long, and seeing that there came no harm to him, changing their minds, they said, that he was a god. now in these places were possessions of the chief man of the island, named publius, who receiving us, for three days entertained us courteously. and it happened that the father of publius lay sick of a fever, and of a bloody flux. to whom paul entered in; and when he had prayed, and laid his hands on him, he healed him. which being done, all that had diseases in the island, came and were healed: who also honoured us with many honours, and when we were to set sail, they laded us with such things as were necessary. and after three months, we sailed in a ship of alexandria, that had wintered in the island, whose sign was the castors. and when we were come to syracusa, we tarried there three days. from thence, compassing by the shore, we came to rhegium: and after one day, the south wind blowing, we came the second day to puteoli; where, finding brethren, we were desired to tarry with them seven days: and so we went to rome. and from thence, when the brethren had heard of us, they came to meet us as far as appii forum, and the three taverns: whom when paul saw, he gave thanks to god, and took courage. and when we were come to rome, paul was suffered to dwell by himself, with a soldier that kept him. and after the third day, he called together the chief of the jews. and when they were assembled, he said to them: men, brethren, i, having done nothing against the people, or the custom of our fathers, was delivered prisoner from jerusalem into the hands of the romans; who, when they had examined me, would have released me, for that there was no cause of death in me; but the jews contradicting it, i was constrained to appeal unto caesar; not that i had any thing to accuse my nation of. for this cause therefore i desired to see you, and to speak to you. because that for the hope of israel, i am bound with this chain. but they said to him: we neither received letters concerning thee from judea, neither did any of the brethren that came hither, relate or speak any evil of thee. but we desire to hear of thee what thou thinkest; for as concerning this sect, we know that it is every where contradicted. and when they had appointed him a day, there came very many to him unto his lodgings; to whom he expounded, testifying the kingdom of god, and persuading them concerning jesus, out of the law of moises and the prophets, from morning until evening. and some believed the things that were said; but some believed not. and when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, paul speaking this one word: well did the holy ghost speak to our fathers by isaias the prophet, saying: go to this people, and say to them: with the ear you shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing you shall see, and shall not perceive. for the heart of this people is grown gross, and with their ears have they heard heavily, and their eyes they have shut; lest perhaps they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and i should heal them. be it known therefore to you, that this salvation of god is sent to the gentiles, and they will hear it. and when he had said these things, the jews went out from him, having much reasoning among themselves. and he remained two whole years in his own hired lodging; and he received all that came in to him, preaching the kingdom of god, and teaching the things which concern the lord jesus christ, with all confidence, without prohibition.

in the beginning was the word, and the word was with god, and the word was god. the same was in the beginning with god. all things were made by him: and without him was made nothing that was made. in him was life, and the life was the light of men. and the light shineth in darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend it. there was a man sent from god, whose name was john. this man came for a witness, to give testimony of the light, that all men might believe through him. he was not the light, but was to give testimony of the light. that was the true light, which enlighteneth every man that cometh into this world. he was in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not. he came unto his own, and his own received him not. but as many as received him, he gave them power to be made the sons of god, to them that believe in his name. who are born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of god. and the word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we saw his glory, the glory as it were of the only begotten of the father,) full of grace and truth. john beareth witness of him, and crieth out, saying: this was he of whom i spoke: he that shall come after me, is preferred before me: because he was before me. and of his fulness we all have received, and grace for grace. for the law was given by moyses; grace and truth came by jesus christ. no man hath seen god at any time: the only begotten son who is in the bosom of the father, he hath declared him. and this is the testimony of john, when the jews sent from jerusalem priests and levites to him, to ask him: who art thou? and he confessed, and did not deny: and he confessed: i am not the christ. and they asked him: what then? art thou elias? and he said: i am not. art thou the prophet? and he answered: no. they said therefore unto him: who art thou, that we may give an answer to them that sent us? what sayest thou of thyself? he said: i am the voice of one crying out in the wilderness, make straight the way of the lord, as said the prophet isaias. and they that were sent, were of the pharisees. and they asked him, and said to him: why then dost thou baptize, if thou be not christ, nor elias, nor the prophet? john answered them, saying: i baptize with water; but there hath stood one in the midst of you, whom you know not. the same is he that shall come after me, who is preferred before me: the latchet of whose shoe i am not worthy to loose. these things were done in bethania, beyond the jordan, where john was baptizing. the next day, john saw jesus coming to him, and he saith: behold the lamb of god, behold him who taketh away the sin of the world. this is he, of whom i said: after me there cometh a man, who is preferred before me: because he was before me. and i knew him not, but that he may be made manifest in israel, therefore am i come baptizing with water. and john gave testimony, saying: i saw the spirit coming down, as a dove from heaven, and he remained upon him. and i knew him not; but he who sent me to baptize with water, said to me: he upon whom thou shalt see the spirit descending, and remaining upon him, he it is that baptizeth with the holy ghost. and i saw, and i gave testimony, that this is the son of god. the next day again john stood, and two of his disciples. and beholding jesus walking, he saith: behold the lamb of god. and the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed jesus. and jesus turning, and seeing them following him, saith to them: what seek you? who said to him, rabbi, (which is to say, being interpreted, master,) where dwellest thou? he saith to them: come and see. they came, and saw where he abode, and they stayed with him that day: now it was about the tenth hour. and andrew, the brother of simon peter, was one of the two who had heard of john, and followed him. he findeth first his brother simon, and saith to him: we have found the messias, which is, being interpreted, the christ. and he brought him to jesus. and jesus looking upon him, said: thou art simon the son of jona: thou shalt be called cephas, which is interpreted peter. on the following day, he would go forth into galilee, and he findeth philip. and jesus saith to him: follow me. now philip was of bethsaida, the city of andrew and peter. philip findeth nathanael, and saith to him: we have found him of whom moyses in the law, and the prophets did write, jesus the son of joseph of nazareth. and nathanael said to him: can any thing of good come from nazareth? philip saith to him: come and see. jesus saw nathanael coming to him: and he saith of him: behold an israelite indeed, in whom there is no guile. nathanael saith to him: whence knowest thou me? jesus answered, and said to him: before that philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, i saw thee. nathanael answered him, and said: rabbi, thou art the son of god, thou art the king of israel. jesus answered, and said to him: because i said unto thee, i saw thee under the fig tree, thou believest: greater things than these shalt thou see. and he saith to him: amen, amen i say to you, you shall see the heaven opened, and the angels of god ascending and descending upon the son of man.

and the third day, there was a marriage in cana of galilee: and the mother of jesus was there. and jesus also was invited, and his disciples, to the marriage. and the wine failing, the mother of jesus saith to him: they have no wine. and jesus saith to her: woman, what is that to me and to thee? my hour is not yet come. his mother saith to the waiters: whatsoever he shall say to you, do ye. now there were set there six waterpots of stone, according to the manner of the purifying of the jews, containing two or three measures apiece. jesus saith to them: fill the waterpots with water. and they filled them up to the brim. and jesus saith to them: draw out now, and carry to the chief steward of the feast. and they carried it. and when the chief steward had tasted the water made wine, and knew not whence it was, but the waiters knew who had drawn the water; the chief steward calleth the bridegroom, and saith to him: every man at first setteth forth good wine, and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse. but thou hast kept the good wine until now. this beginning of miracles did jesus in cana of galilee; and manifested his glory, and his disciples believed in him. after this he went down to capharnaum, he and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: and they remained there not many days. and the pasch of the jews was at hand, and jesus went up to jerusalem. and he found in the temple them that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting. and when he had made, as it were, a scourge of little cords, he drove them all out of the temple, the sheep also and the oxen, and the money of the changers he poured out, and the tables he overthrew. and to them that sold doves he said: take these things hence, and make not the house of my father a house of traffic. and his disciples remembered, that it was written: the zeal of thy house hath eaten me up. the jews, therefore, answered, and said to him: what sign dost thou shew unto us, seeing thou dost these things? jesus answered, and said to them: destroy this temple, and in three days i will raise it up. the jews then said: six and forty years was this temple in building; and wilt thou raise it up in three days? but he spoke of the temple of his body. when therefore he was risen again from the dead, his disciples remembered, that he had said this, and they believed the scripture, and the word that jesus had said. now when he was at jerusalem, at the pasch, upon the festival day, many believed in his name, seeing his signs which he did. but jesus did not trust himself unto them, for that he knew all men, and because he needed not that any should give testimony of man: for he knew what was in man.

and there was a man of the pharisees, named nicodemus, a ruler of the jews. this man came to jesus by night, and said to him: rabbi, we know that thou art come a teacher from god; for no man can do these signs which thou dost, unless god be with him. jesus answered, and said to him: amen, amen i say to thee, unless a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of god. nicodemus saith to him: how can a man be born when he is old? can he enter a second time into his mother's womb, and be born again? jesus answered: amen, amen i say to thee, unless a man be born again of water and the holy ghost, he cannot enter into the kingdom of god. that which is born of the flesh, is flesh; and that which is born of the spirit, is spirit. wonder not, that i said to thee, you must be born again. the spirit breatheth where he will; and thou hearest his voice, but thou knowest not whence he cometh, and whither he goeth: so is every one that is born of the spirit. nicodemus answered, and said to him: how can these things be done? jesus answered, and said to him: art thou a master in israel, and knowest not these things? amen, amen i say to thee, that we speak what we know, and we testify what we have seen, and you receive not our testimony. if i have spoken to you earthly things, and you believe not; how will you believe, if i shall speak to you heavenly things? and no man hath ascended into heaven, but he that descended from heaven, the son of man who is in heaven. and as moyses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so must the son of man be lifted up: that whosoever believeth in him, may not perish; but may have life everlasting. for god so loved the world, as to give his only begotten son; that whosoever believeth in him, may not perish, but may have life everlasting. for god sent not his son into the world, to judge the world, but that the world may be saved by him. he that believeth in him is not judged. but he that doth not believe, is already judged: because he believeth not in the name of the only begotten son of god. and this is the judgment: because the light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than the light: for their works were evil. for every one that doth evil hateth the light, and cometh not to the light, that his works may not be reproved. but he that doth truth, cometh to the light, that his works may be made manifest, because they are done in god. after these things jesus and his disciples came into the land of judea: and there he abode with them, and baptized. and john also was baptizing in ennon near salim; because there was much water there; and they came and were baptized. for john was not yet cast into prison. and there arose a question between some of john's disciples and the jews concerning purification: and they came to john, and said to him: rabbi, he that was with thee beyond the jordan, to whom thou gavest testimony, behold he baptizeth, and all men come to him. john answered, and said: a man cannot receive any thing, unless it be given him from heaven. you yourselves do bear me witness, that i said, i am not christ, but that i am sent before him. he that hath the bride, is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, who standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth with joy because of the bridegroom's voice. this my joy therefore is fulfilled. he must increase, but i must decrease. he that cometh from above, is above all. he that is of the earth, of the earth he is, and of the earth he speaketh. he that cometh from heaven, is above all. and what he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth: and no man receiveth his testimony. he that hath received his testimony, hath set to his seal that god is true. for he whom god hath sent, speaketh the words of god: for god doth not give the spirit by measure. the father loveth the son: and he hath given all things into his hand. he that believeth in the son, hath life everlasting; but he that believeth not the son, shall not see life; but the wrath of god abideth on him.

when jesus therefore understood that the pharisees had heard that jesus maketh more disciples, and baptizeth more than john, (though jesus himself did not baptize, but his disciples,) he left judea, and went again into galilee. and he was of necessity to pass through samaria. he cometh therefore to a city of samaria, which is called sichar, near the land which jacob gave to his son joseph. now jacob's well was there. jesus therefore being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well. it was about the sixth hour. there cometh a woman of samaria, to draw water. jesus saith to her: give me to drink. for his disciples were gone into the city to buy meats. then that samaritan woman saith to him: how dost thou, being a jew, ask of me to drink, who am a samaritan woman? for the jews do not communicate with the samaritans. jesus answered, and said to her: if thou didst know the gift of god, and who he is that saith to thee, give me to drink; thou perhaps wouldst have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water. the woman saith to him: sir, thou hast nothing wherein to draw, and the well is deep; from whence then hast thou living water? art thou greater than our father jacob, who gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle? jesus answered, and said to her: whosoever drinketh of this water, shall thirst again; but he that shall drink of the water that i will give him, shall not thirst for ever: but the water that i will give him, shall become in him a fountain of water, springing up into life everlasting. the woman saith to him: sir, give me this water, that i may not thirst, nor come hither to draw. jesus saith to her: go, call thy husband, and come hither. the woman answered, and said: i have no husband. jesus said to her: thou hast said well, i have no husband: for thou hast had five husbands: and he whom thou now hast, is not thy husband. this thou hast said truly. the woman saith to him: sir, i perceive that thou art a prophet. our fathers adored on this mountain, and you say, that at jerusalem is the place where men must adore. jesus saith to her: woman, believe me, that the hour cometh, when you shall neither on this mountain, nor in jerusalem, adore the father. you adore that which you know not: we adore that which we know; for salvation is of the jews. but the hour cometh, and now is, when the true adorers shall adore the father in spirit and in truth. for the father also seeketh such to adore him. god is a spirit; and they that adore him, must adore him in spirit and in truth. the woman saith to him: i know that the messias cometh (who is called christ); therefore, when he is come, he will tell us all things. jesus saith to her: i am he, who am speaking with thee. and immediately his disciples came; and they wondered that he talked with the woman. yet no man said: what seekest thou? or, why talkest thou with her? the woman therefore left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men there: come, and see a man who has told me all things whatsoever i have done. is not he the christ? they went therefore out of the city, and came unto him. in the mean time the disciples prayed him, saying: rabbi, eat. but he said to them: i have meat to eat, which you know not. the disciples therefore said one to another: hath any man brought him to eat? jesus saith to them: my meat is to do the will of him that sent me, that i may perfect his work. do you not say, there are yet four months, and then the harvest cometh? behold, i say to you, lift up your eyes, and see the countries; for they are white already to harvest. and he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life everlasting: that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, may rejoice together. for in this is the saying true: that it is one man that soweth, and it is another that reapeth. i have sent you to reap that in which you did not labour: others have laboured, and you have entered into their labours. now of that city

many of the samaritans believed in him, for the word of the woman giving testimony: he told me all things whatsoever i have done. so when the samaritans were come to him, they desired that he would tarry there. and he abode there two days. and many more believed in him because of his own word. and they said to the woman: we now believe, not for thy saying: for we ourselves have heard him, and know that this is indeed the saviour of the world. now after two days, he departed thence, and went into galilee. for jesus himself gave testimony that a prophet hath no honour in his own country. and when he was come into galilee, the galileans received him, having seen all the things he had done at jerusalem on the festival day; for they also went to the festival day. he came again therefore into cana of galilee, where he made the water wine. and there was a certain ruler, whose son was sick at capharnaum. he having heard that jesus was come from judea into galilee, went to him, and prayed him to come down, and heal his son; for he was at the point of death. jesus therefore said to him: unless you see signs and wonders, you believe not. the ruler saith to him: lord, come down before that my son die. jesus saith to him: go thy way; thy son liveth. the man believed the word which jesus said to him, and went his way. and as he was going down, his servants met him; and they brought word, saying, that his son lived. he asked therefore of them the hour wherein he grew better. and they said to him: yesterday, at the seventh hour, the fever left him. the father therefore knew, that it was at the same hour that jesus said to him, thy son liveth; and himself believed, and his whole house. this is again the second miracle that jesus did, when he was come out of judea into galilee.

after these things was a festival day of the jews, and jesus went up to jerusalem. now there is at jerusalem a pond, called probatica, which in hebrew is named bethsaida, having five porches. in these lay a great multitude of sick, of blind, of lame, of withered; waiting for the moving of the water. and an angel of the lord descended at certain times into the pond; and the water was moved. and he that went down first into the pond after the motion of the water, was made whole, of whatsoever infirmity he lay under. and there was a certain man there, that had been eight and thirty years under his infirmity. him when jesus had seen lying, and knew that he had been now a long time, he saith to him: wilt thou be made whole? the infirm man answered him: sir, i have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pond. for whilst i am coming, another goeth down before me. jesus saith to him: arise, take up thy bed, and walk. and immediately the man was made whole: and he took up his bed, and walked. and it was the sabbath that day. the jews therefore said to him that was healed: it is the sabbath; it is not lawful for thee to take up thy bed. he answered them: he that made me whole, he said to me, take up thy bed, and walk. they asked him therefore: who is that man who said to thee, take up thy bed, and walk? but he who was healed, knew not who it was; for jesus went aside from the multitude standing in the place. afterwards, jesus findeth him in the temple, and saith to him: behold thou art made whole: sin no more, lest some worse thing happen to thee. the man went his way, and told the jews, that it was jesus who had made him whole. therefore did the jews persecute jesus, because he did these things on the sabbath. but jesus answered them: my father worketh until now; and i work. hereupon therefore the jews sought the more to kill him, because he did not only break the sabbath, but also said god was his father, making himself equal to god. then jesus answered, and said to them: amen, amen, i say unto you, the son cannot do any thing of himself, but what he seeth the father doing: for what things soever he doth, these the son also doth in like manner. for the father loveth the son, and sheweth him all things which himself doth: and greater works than these will he shew him, that you may wonder. for as the father raiseth up the dead, and giveth life: so the son also giveth life to whom he will. for neither doth the father judge any man, but hath given all judgment to the son. that all men may honour the son, as they honour the father. he who honoureth not the son, honoureth not the father, who hath sent him. amen, amen i say unto you, that he who heareth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath life everlasting; and cometh not into judgment, but is passed from death to life. amen, amen i say unto you, that the hour cometh, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the son of god, and they that hear shall live. for as the father hath life in himself, so he hath given the son also to have life in himself: and he hath given him power to do judgment, because he is the son of man. wonder not at this; for the hour cometh, wherein all that are in the graves shall hear the voice of the son of god. and they that have done good things, shall come forth unto the resurrection of life; but they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of judgment. i cannot of myself do any thing. as i hear, so i judge: and my judgment is just; because i seek not my own will, but the will of him that sent me. if i bear witness of myself, my witness is not true. there is another that beareth witness of me; and i know that the witness which he witnesseth of me is true. you sent to john, and he gave testimony to the truth, but i receive not testimony from man: but i say these things, that you may be saved. he was a burning and a shining light: and you were willing for a time to rejoice in his light. but i have a greater testimony than that of john: for the works which the father hath given me to perfect; the works themselves, which i do, give testimony of me, that the father hath sent me. and the father himself who hath sent me, hath given testimony of me: neither have you heard his voice at any time, nor seen his shape. and you have not his word abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him you believe not. search the scriptures, for you think in them to have life everlasting; and the same are they that give testimony of me. and you will not come to me that you may have life. i receive glory not from men. but i know you, that you have not the love of god in you. i am come in the name of my father, and you receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him you will receive. how can you believe, who receive glory one from another: and the glory which is from god alone, you do not seek? think not that i will accuse you to the father. there is one that accuseth you, moyses, in whom you trust. for if you did believe moyses, you would perhaps believe me also; for he wrote of me. but if you do not believe his writings, how will you believe my words?

after these things jesus went over the sea of galilee, which is that of tiberias. and a great multitude followed him, because they saw the miracles which he did on them that were diseased. jesus therefore went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples. now the pasch, the festival day of the jews, was near at hand. when jesus therefore had lifted up his eyes, and seen that a very great multitude cometh to him, he said to philip: whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat? and this he said to try him; for he himself knew what he would do. philip answered him: two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one may take a little. one of his disciples, andrew, the brother of simon peter, saith to him: there is a boy here that hath five barley loaves, and two fishes; but what are these among so many? then jesus said: make the men sit down. now there was much grass in the place. the men therefore sat down, in number about five thousand. and jesus took the loaves: and when he had given thanks, he distributed to them that were set down. in like manner also of the fishes, as much as they would. and when they were filled, he said to his disciples: gather up the fragments that remain, lest they be lost. they gathered up therefore, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above to them that had eaten. now those men, when they had seen what a miracle jesus had done, said: this is of a truth the prophet, that is to come into the world. jesus therefore, when he knew that they would come to take him by force, and make him king, fled again into the mountain himself alone. and when evening was come, his disciples went down to the sea. and when they had gone up into a ship, they went over the sea to capharnaum; and it was now dark, and jesus was not come unto them. and the sea arose, by reason of a great wind that blew. when they had rowed therefore about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they see jesus walking upon the sea, and drawing nigh to the ship, and they were afraid. but he saith to them: it is i; be not afraid. they were willing therefore to take him into the ship; and presently the ship was at the land to which they were going. the next day, the multitude that stood on the other side of the sea, saw that there was no other ship there but one, and that jesus had not entered into the ship with his disciples, but that his disciples were gone away alone. but other ships came in from tiberias; nigh unto the place where they had eaten the bread, the lord giving thanks. when therefore the multitude saw that jesus was not there, nor his disciples, they took shipping, and came to capharnaum, seeking for jesus. and when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said to him: rabbi, when camest thou hither? jesus answered them, and said: amen, amen i say to you, you seek me, not because you have seen miracles, but because you did eat of the loaves, and were filled. labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that which endureth unto life everlasting, which the son of man will give you. for him hath god, the father, sealed. they said therefore unto him: what shall we do, that we may work the works of god? jesus answered, and said to them: this is the work of god, that you believe in him whom he hath sent. they said therefore to him: what sign therefore dost thou shew, that we may see, and may believe thee? what dost thou work? our fathers did eat manna in the desert, as it is written: he gave them bread from heaven to eat. then jesus said to them: amen, amen i say to you; moyses gave you not bread from heaven, but my father giveth you the true bread from heaven. for the bread of god is that which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life to the world. they said therefore unto him: lord, give us always this bread. and jesus said to them: i am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall not hunger: and he that believeth in me shall never thirst. but i said unto you, that you also have seen me, and you believe not. all that the father giveth to me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me, i will not cast out. because i came down from heaven, not to do my own will, but the will of him that sent me. now this is the will of the father who sent me: that of all that he hath given me, i should lose nothing; but should raise it up again in the last day. and this is the will of my father that sent me: that every one who seeth the son, and believeth in him, may have life everlasting, and i will raise him up in the last day. the jews therefore murmured at him, because he had said: i am the living bread which came down from heaven. and they said: is not this jesus, the son of joseph, whose father and mother we know? how then saith he, i came down from heaven? jesus therefore answered, and said to them: murmur not among yourselves. no man can come to me, except the father, who hath sent me, draw him; and i will raise him up in the last day. it is written in the prophets: and they shall all be taught of god. every one that hath heard of the father, and hath learned, cometh to me. not that any man hath seen the father; but he who is of god, he hath seen the father. amen, amen i say unto you: he that believeth in me, hath everlasting life. i am the bread of life. your fathers did eat manna in the desert, and are dead. this is the bread which cometh down from heaven; that if any man eat of it, he may not die. i am the living bread which came down from heaven. if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever; and the bread that i will give, is my flesh, for the life of the world. the jews therefore strove among themselves, saying: how can this man give us his flesh to eat? then jesus said to them: amen, amen i say unto you: except you eat the flesh of the son of man, and drink his blood, you shall not have life in you. he that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath everlasting life: and i will raise him up in the last day. for my flesh is meat indeed:

and my blood is drink indeed. he that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, abideth in me, and i in him. as the living father hath sent me, and i live by the father; so he that eateth me, the same also shall live by me. this is the bread that came down from heaven. not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead. he that eateth this bread, shall live for ever. these things he said, teaching in the synagogue, in capharnaum. many therefore of his disciples, hearing it, said: this saying is hard, and who can hear it? but jesus, knowing in himself, that his disciples murmured at this, said to them: doth this scandalize you? if then you shall see the son of man ascend up where he was before? it is the spirit that quickeneth: the flesh profiteth nothing. the words that i have spoken to you, are spirit and life. but there are some of you that believe not. for jesus knew from the beginning, who they were that did not believe, and who he was, that would betray him. and he said: therefore did i say to you, that no man can come to me, unless it be given him by my father. after this many of his disciples went back; and walked no more with him. then jesus said to the twelve: will you also go away? and simon peter answered him: lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life. and we have believed and have known, that thou art the christ, the son of god. jesus answered them: have not i chosen you twelve; and one of you is a devil? now he meant judas iscariot, the son of simon: for this same was about to betray him, whereas he was one of the twelve.

after these things jesus walked in galilee; for he would not walk in judea, because the jews sought to kill him. now the jews' feast of tabernacles was at hand. and his brethren said to him: pass from hence, and go into judea; that thy disciples also may see thy works which thou dost. for there is no man that doth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly. if thou do these things, manifest thyself to the world. for neither did his brethren believe in him. then jesus said to them: my time is not yet come; but your time is always ready. the world cannot hate you; but me it hateth: because i give testimony of it, that the works thereof are evil. go you up to this festival day, but i go not up to this festival day: because my time is not accomplished. when he had said these things, he himself stayed in galilee. but after his brethren were gone up, then he also went up to the feast, not openly, but, as it were, in secret. the jews therefore sought him on the festival day, and said: where is he? and there was much murmuring among the multitude concerning him. for some said: he is a good man. and others said: no, but he seduceth the people. yet no man spoke openly of him, for fear of the jews. now about the midst of the feast, jesus went up into the temple, and taught. and the jews wondered, saying: how doth this man know letters, having never learned? jesus answered them, and said: my doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. if any man do the will of him; he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of god, or whether i speak of myself. he that speaketh of himself, seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh the glory of him that sent him, he is true, and there is no injustice in him. did moyses not give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? why seek you to kill me? the multitude answered, and said: thou hast a devil; who seeketh to kill thee? jesus answered, and said to them: one work i have done; and you all wonder: therefore, moyses gave you circumcision (not because it is of moyses, but of the fathers;) and on the sabbath day you circumcise a man. if a man receive circumcision on the sabbath day, that the law of moyses may not be broken; are you angry at me because i have healed the whole man on the sabbath day? judge not according to the appearance, but judge just judgment. some therefore of jerusalem said: is not this he whom they seek to kill? and behold, he speaketh openly, and they say nothing to him. have the rulers known for a truth, that this is the christ? but we know this man, whence he is: but when the christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is. jesus therefore cried out in the temple, teaching, and saying: you both know me, and you know whence i am: and i am not come of myself; but he that sent me, is true, whom you know not. i know him, because i am from him, and he hath sent me. they sought therefore to apprehend him: and no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come. but of the people many believed in him, and said: when the christ cometh, shall he do more miracles, than these which this man doth? the pharisees heard the people murmuring these things concerning him: and the rulers and pharisees sent ministers to apprehend him. jesus therefore said to them: yet a little while i am with you: and then i go to him that sent me. you shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where i am, thither you cannot come. the jews therefore said among themselves: whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto the dispersed among the gentiles, and teach the gentiles? what is this saying that he hath said: you shall seek me, and shall not find me; and where i am, you cannot come? and on the last, and great day of the festivity, jesus stood and cried, saying: if any man thirst, let him come to me, and drink. he that believeth in me, as the scripture saith, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water. now this he said of the spirit which they should receive, who believed in him: for as yet the spirit was not given, because jesus was not yet glorified. of that multitude therefore, when they had heard these words of his, some said: this is the prophet indeed. others said: this is the christ. but some said: doth the christ come out of galilee? doth not the scripture say: that christ cometh of the seed of david, and from bethlehem the town where david was? so there arose a dissension among the people because of him. and some of them would have apprehended him: but no man laid hands on him. the ministers therefore came to the chief priests and the pharisees. and they said to them: why have you not brought him? the ministers answered: never did man speak like this man. the pharisees therefore answered them: are you also seduced? hath any one of the rulers believed in him, or of the pharisees? but this multitude, that knoweth not the law, are accursed. nicodemus said to them, (he that came to him by night, who was one of them;) doth our law judge any man, unless it first hear him, and know what he doth? they answered, and said to him: art thou also a galilean? search the scriptures, and see, that out of galilee a prophet riseth not. and every man returned to his own house.

and jesus went unto mount olivet. and early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came to him, and sitting down he taught them. and the scribes and the pharisees bring unto him a woman taken in adultery: and they set her in the midst, and said to him: master, this woman was even now taken in adultery. now moyses in the law commanded us to stone such a one. but what sayest thou? and this they said tempting him, that they might accuse him. but jesus bowing himself down, wrote with his finger on the ground. when therefore they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said to them: he that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. and again stooping down, he wrote on the ground. but they hearing this, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest. and jesus alone remained, and the woman standing in the midst. then jesus lifting up himself, said to her: woman, where are they that accused thee? hath no man condemned thee? who said: no man, lord. and jesus said: neither will i condemn thee. go, and now sin no more. again therefore, jesus spoke to them, saying: i am the light of the world: he that followeth me, walketh not in darkness, but shall have the light of life. the pharisees therefore said to him: thou givest testimony of thyself: thy testimony is not true. jesus answered, and said to them: although i give testimony of myself, my testimony is true: for i know whence i came, and whither i go: but you know not whence i come, or whither i go. you judge according to the flesh: i judge not any man. and if i do judge, my judgment is true: because i am not alone, but i and the father that sent me. and in your law it is written, that the testimony of two men is true. i am one that give testimony of myself: and the father that sent me giveth testimony of me. they said therefore to him: where is thy father? jesus answered: neither me do you know, nor my father: if you did know me, perhaps you would know my father also. these words jesus spoke in the treasury, teaching in the temple: and no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come. again therefore jesus said to them: i go, and you shall seek me, and you shall die in your sin. whither i go, you cannot come. the jews therefore said: will he kill himself, because he said: whither i go, you cannot come? and he said to them: you are from beneath, i am from above. you are of this world, i am not of this world. therefore i said to you, that you shall die in your sins. for if you believe not that i am he, you shall die in your sin. they said therefore to him: who art thou? jesus said to them: the beginning, who also speak unto you. many things i have to speak and to judge of you. but he that sent me, is true: and the things i have heard of him, these same i speak in the world. and they understood not, that he called god his father. jesus therefore said to them: when you shall have lifted up the son of man, then shall you know, that i am he, and that i do nothing of myself, but as the father hath taught me, these things i speak: and he that sent me, is with me, and he hath not left me alone: for i do always the things that please him. when he spoke these things, many believed in him. then jesus said to those jews, who believed him: if you continue in my word, you shall be my disciples indeed. and you shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. they answered him: we are the seed of abraham, and we have never been slaves to any man: how sayest thou: you shall be free? jesus answered them: amen, amen i say unto you: that whosoever committeth sin, is the servant of sin. now the servant abideth not in the house for ever; but the son abideth for ever. if therefore the son shall make you free, you shall be free indeed. i know that you are the children of abraham: but you seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you. i speak that which i have seen with my father: and you do the things that you have seen with your father. they answered, and said to him: abraham is our father. jesus saith to them: if you be the children of abraham, do the works of abraham. but now you seek to kill me, a man who have spoken the truth to you, which i have heard of god. this abraham did not. you do the works of your father. they said therefore to him: we are not born of fornication: we have one father, even god. jesus therefore said to them: if god were your father, you would indeed love me. for from god i proceeded, and came; for i came not of myself, but he sent me: why do you not know my speech? because you cannot hear my word. you are of your father the devil, and the desires of your father you will do. he was a murderer from the beginning, and he stood not in the truth; because truth is not in him. when he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father thereof. but if i say the truth, you believe me not. which of you shall convince me of sin? if i say the truth to you, why do you not believe me? he that is of god, heareth the words of god. therefore you hear them not, because you are not of god. the jews therefore answered, and said to him: do not we say well that thou art a samaritan, and hast a devil? jesus answered: i have not a devil: but i honour my father, and you have dishonoured me. but i seek not my own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth. amen, amen i say to you: if any man keep my word, he shall not see death for ever. the jews therefore said: now we know that thou hast a devil. abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest: if any man keep my word, he shall not taste death for ever. art thou greater than our father abraham, who is dead? and the prophets are dead. whom dost thou make thyself? jesus answered: if i glorify myself, my glory is nothing. it is my father that glorifieth me, of whom you say that he is your god. and you have not known him, but i know him. and if i shall say that i know him not, i shall be like to you, a liar. but i do know him, and do keep his word. abraham your father rejoiced that he might see my day: he saw it, and was glad. the jews therefore said to him: thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen abraham? jesus said to them: amen, amen i say to you, before abraham was made, i am. they took up stones therefore to cast at him. but jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple.

and jesus passing by, saw a man, who was blind from his birth: and his disciples asked him: rabbi, who hath sinned, this man, or his parents, that he should be born blind? jesus answered: neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents; but that the works of god should be made manifest in him. i must work the works of him that sent me, whilst it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work. as long as i am in the world, i am the light of the world. when he had said these things, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and spread the clay on his eyes, and said to him: go, wash in the pool of siloe, which is interpreted, sent. he went therefore, and washed, and he came seeing. the neighbours therefore, and they who had seen him before that he was a beggar, said: is not this he that sat and begged? some said: this is he. but others said: no, but he is like him. but he said: i am he. they said therefore to him: how were thy eyes opened? he answered: that man that is called jesus made clay, and anointed my eyes, and said to me: go to the pool of siloe, and wash. and i went, i washed, and i see. and they said to him: where is he? he saith: i know not. they bring him that had been blind to the pharisees. now it was the sabbath, when jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes. again therefore the pharisees asked him, how he had received his sight. but he said to them: he put clay upon my eyes, and i washed, and i see. some therefore of the pharisees said: this man is not of god, who keepeth not the sabbath. but others said: how can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? and there was a division among them. they say therefore to the blind man again: what sayest thou of him that hath opened thy eyes? and he said: he is a prophet. the jews then did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and had received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight, and asked them, saying: is this your son, who you say was born blind? how then doth he now see? his parents answered them, and said: we know that this is our son, and that he was born blind: but how he now seeth, we know not; or who hath opened his eyes, we know not: ask himself: he is of age, let him speak for himself. these things his parents said, because they feared the jews: for the jews had already agreed among themselves, that if any man should confess him to be christ, he should be put out of the synagogue. therefore did his parents say: he is of age, ask himself. they therefore called the man again that had been blind, and said to him: give glory to god. we know that this man is a sinner. he said therefore to them: if he be a sinner, i know not: one thing i know, that whereas i was blind, now i see. they said then to him: what did he to thee? how did he open thy eyes? he answered them: i have told you already, and you have heard: why would you hear it again? will you also become his disciples? they reviled him therefore, and said: be thou his disciple; but we are the disciples of moyses. we know that god spoke to moyses: but as to this man, we know not from whence he is. the man answered, and said to them: why, herein is a wonderful thing, that you know not from whence he is, and he hath opened my eyes. now we know that god doth not hear sinners: but if a man be a server of god, and doth his will, him he heareth. from the beginning of the world it hath not been heard, that any man hath opened the eyes of one born blind. unless this man were of god, he could not do any thing. they answered, and said to him: thou wast wholly born in sins, and dost thou teach us? and they cast him out. jesus heard that they had cast him out: and when he had found him, he said to him: dost thou believe in the son of god? he answered, and said: who is he, lord, that i may believe in him? and jesus said to him: thou hast both seen him; and it is he that talketh with thee. and he said: i believe, lord. and falling down, he adored him. and jesus said: for judgment i am come into this world; that they who see not, may see; and they who see, may become blind. and some of the pharisees, who were with him, heard: and they said unto him: are we also blind? jesus said to them: if you were blind, you should not have sin: but now you say: we see. your sin remaineth.

amen, amen i say to you: he that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up another way, the same is a thief and a robber. but he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. to him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. and when he hath let out his own sheep, he goeth before them: and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice. but a stranger they follow not, but fly from him, because they know not the voice of strangers. this proverb jesus spoke to them. but they understood not what he spoke to them. jesus therefore said to them again: amen, amen i say to you, i am the door of the sheep. all others, as many as have come, are thieves and robbers: and the sheep heard them not. i am the door. by me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved: and he shall go in, and go out, and shall find pastures. the thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy. i am come that they may have life, and may have it more abundantly. i am the good shepherd. the good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep. but the hireling, and he that is not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and flieth: and the wolf catcheth, and scattereth the sheep: and the hireling flieth, because he is a hireling: and he hath no care for the sheep. i am the good shepherd; and i know mine, and mine know me. as the father knoweth me, and i know the father: and i lay down my life for my sheep. and other sheep i have, that are not of this fold: them also i must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd. therefore doth the father love me: because i lay down my life, that i may take it again. no man taketh it away from me: but i lay it down of myself, and i have power to lay it down: and i have power to take it up again. this commandment have i received of my father. a dissension rose again among the jews for these words. and many of them said: he hath a devil, and is mad: why hear you him? others said: these are not the words of one that hath a devil: can a devil open the eyes of the blind? and it was the feast of the dedication at jerusalem: and it was winter. and jesus walked in the temple, in solomon's porch. the jews therefore came round about him, and said to him: how long dost thou hold our souls in suspense? if thou be the christ, tell us plainly. jesus answered them: i speak to you, and you believe not: the works that i do in the name of my father, they give testimony of me. but you do not believe, because you are not of my sheep. my sheep hear my voice: and i know them, and they follow me. and i give them life everlasting; and they shall not perish for ever, and no man shall pluck them out of my hand. that which my father hath given me, is greater than all: and no one can snatch them out of the hand of my father. i and the father are one. the jews then took up stones to stone him. jesus answered them: many good works i have shewed you from my father; for which of these works do you stone me? the jews answered him: for a good work we stone thee not, but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, maketh thyself god. jesus answered them: is it not written in your law: i said you are gods? if he called them gods, to whom to word of god was spoken, and the scripture cannot be broken; do you say of him whom the father hath sanctified and sent into the world: thou blasphemest, because i said, i am the son of god? if i do not the works of my father, believe me not. but if i do, though you will not believe me, believe the works: that you may know and believe that the father is in me, and i in the father. they sought therefore to take him; and he escaped out of their hands. and he went again beyond the jordan, into that place where john was baptizing first; and there he abode. and many resorted to him, and they said: john indeed did no sign. but all things whatsoever john said of this man, were true. and many believed in him.

now there was a certain man sick, named lazarus, of bethania, of the town of mary and martha her sister. (and mary was she that anointed the lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair: whose brother lazarus was sick.) his sisters therefore sent to him, saying: lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick. and jesus hearing it, said to them: this sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of god: that the son of god may be glorified by it. now jesus loved martha, and her sister mary, and lazarus. when he had heard therefore that he was sick, he still remained in the same place two days. then after that, he said to his disciples: let us go into judea again. the disciples say to him: rabbi, the jews but now sought to stone thee: and goest thou thither again? jesus answered: are there not twelve hours of the day? if a man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world: but if he walk in the night, he stumbleth, because the light is not in him. these things he said; and after that he said to them: lazarus our friend sleepeth; but i go that i may awake him out of sleep. his disciples therefore said: lord, if he sleep, he shall do well. but jesus spoke of his death; and they thought that he spoke of the repose of sleep. then therefore jesus said to them plainly: lazarus is dead. and i am glad, for your sakes, that i was not there, that you may believe: but let us go to him. thomas therefore, who is called didymus, said to his fellow disciples: let us also go, that we may die with him. jesus therefore came, and found that he had been four days already in the grave. (now bethania was near jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off.) and many of the jews were come to martha and mary, to comfort them concerning their brother. martha therefore, as soon as she heard that jesus had come, went to meet him: but mary sat at home. martha therefore said to jesus: lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. but now also i know that whatsoever thou wilt ask of god, god will give it thee. jesus saith to her: thy brother shall rise again. martha saith to him: i know that he shall rise again, in the resurrection at the last day. jesus said to her: i am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, although he be dead, shall live: and every one that liveth, and believeth in me, shall not die for ever. believest thou this? she saith to him: yea, lord, i have believed that thou art christ the son of the living god, who art come into this world. and when she had said these things, she went, and called her sister mary secretly, saying: the master is come, and calleth for thee. she, as soon as she heard this, riseth quickly, and cometh to him. for jesus was not yet come into the town: but he was still in that place where martha had met him. the jews therefore, who were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw mary that she rose up speedily and went out, followed her, saying: she goeth to the grave to weep there. when mary therefore was come where jesus was, seeing him, she fell down at his feet, and saith to him: lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. jesus, therefore, when he saw her weeping, and the jews that were come with her, weeping, groaned in the spirit, and troubled himself, and said: where have you laid him? they say to him: lord, come and see. and jesus wept. the jews therefore said: behold how he loved him. but some of them said: could not he that opened the eyes of the man born blind, have caused that this man should not die? jesus therefore again groaning in himself, cometh to the sepulchre. now it was a cave; and a stone was laid over it. jesus saith: take away the stone. martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith to him: lord, by this time he stinketh, for he is now of four days. jesus saith to her: did not i say to thee, that if thou believe, thou shalt see the glory of god? they took therefore the stone away. and jesus lifting up his eyes said: father, i give thee thanks that thou hast heard me. and i knew that thou hearest

me always; but because of the people who stand about have i said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me. when he had said these things, he cried with a loud voice: lazarus, come forth. and presently he that had been dead came forth, bound feet and hands with winding bands; and his face was bound about with a napkin. jesus said to them: loose him, and let him go. many therefore of the jews, who were come to mary and martha, and had seen the things that jesus did, believed in him. but some of them went to the pharisees, and told them the things that jesus had done. the chief priests therefore, and the pharisees, gathered a council, and said: what do we, for this man doth many miracles? if we let him alone so, all will believe in him; and the romans will come, and take away our place and nation. but one of them, named caiphas, being the high priest that year, said to them: you know nothing. neither do you consider that it is expedient for you that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not. and this he spoke not of himself: but being the high priest of that year, he prophesied that jesus should die for the nation. and not only for the nation, but to gather together in one the children of god, that were dispersed. from that day therefore they devised to put him to death. wherefore jesus walked no more openly among the jews; but he went into a country near the desert, unto a city that is called ephrem, and there he abode with his disciples. and the pasch of the jews was at hand; and many from the country went up to jerusalem, before the pasch to purify themselves. they sought therefore for jesus; and they discoursed one with another, standing in the temple: what think you that he is not come to the festival day? and the chief priests and pharisees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he was, he should tell, that they might apprehend him.

jesus therefore, six days before the pasch, came to bethania, where lazarus had been dead, whom jesus raised to life. and they made him a supper there: and martha served: but lazarus was one of them that were at table with him. mary therefore took a pound of ointment of right spikenard, of great price, and anointed the feet of jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair; and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment. then one of his disciples, judas iscariot, he that was about to betray him, said: why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor? now he said this, not because he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief, and having the purse, carried the things that were put therein. jesus therefore said: let her alone, that she may keep it against the day of my burial. for the poor you have always with you; but me you have not always. a great multitude therefore of the jews knew that he was there; and they came, not for jesus' sake only, but that they might see lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. but the chief priests thought to kill lazarus also: because many of the jews, by reason of him, went away, and believed in jesus. and on the next day, a great multitude that was to come to the festival day, when they had heard that jesus was coming to jerusalem, took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried: hosanna, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the lord, the king of israel. and jesus found a young ass, and sat upon it, as it is written: fear not, daughter of sion: behold, thy king cometh, sitting on an ass's colt. these things his disciples did not know at the first; but when jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things to him. the multitude therefore gave testimony, which was with him, when he called lazarus out of the grave, and raised him from the dead. for which reason also the people came to meet him, because they heard that he had done this miracle. the pharisees therefore said among themselves: do you see that we prevail nothing? behold, the whole world is gone after him. now there were certain gentiles among them, who came up to adore on the festival day. these therefore came to philip, who was of bethsaida of galilee, and desired him, saying: sir, we would see jesus. philip cometh, and telleth andrew. again andrew and philip told jesus. but jesus answered them, saying: the hour is come, that the son of man should be glorified. amen, amen i say to you, unless the grain of wheat falling into the ground die, itself remaineth alone. but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. he that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world, keepeth it unto life eternal. if any man minister to me, let him follow me; and where i am, there also shall my minister be. if any man minister to me, him will my father honour. now is my soul troubled. and what shall i say? father, save me from this hour. but for this cause i came unto this hour. father, glorify thy name. a voice therefore came from heaven: i have both glorified it, and will glorify it again. the multitude therefore that stood and heard, said that it thundered. others said: an angel spoke to him. jesus answered, and said: this voice came not because of me, but for your sakes. now is the judgment of the world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. and i, if i be lifted up from the earth, will draw all things to myself. (now this he said, signifying what death he should die.) the multitude answered him: we have heard out of the law, that christ abideth for ever; and how sayest thou: the son of man must be lifted up? who is this son of man? jesus therefore said to them: yet a little while, the light is among you. walk whilst you have the light, that the darkness overtake you not. and he that walketh in darkness, knoweth not whither he goeth. whilst you have the light, believe in the light, that you may be the children of light. these things jesus spoke; and he went away, and hid himself from them. and whereas he had done so many miracles before them, they believed not in him: that the saying of isaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he said: lord, who hath believed our hearing? and to whom hath the arm of the lord been revealed? therefore they could not believe, because isaias said again: he hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and i should heal them. these things said isaias, when he saw his glory, and spoke of him. however, many of the chief men also believed in him; but because of the pharisees they did not confess him, that they might not be cast out of the synagogue. for they loved the glory of men more than the glory of god. but jesus cried, and said: he that believeth in me, doth not believe in me, but in him that sent me. and he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me. i am come a light into the world; that whosoever believeth in me, may not remain in darkness. and if any man hear my words, and keep them not, i do not judge him: for i came not to judge the world, but to save the world. he that despiseth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him; the word that i have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day. for i have not spoken of myself; but the father who sent me, he gave me commandment what i should say, and what i should speak. and i know that his commandment is life everlasting. the things therefore that i speak, even as the father said unto me, so do i speak.

before the festival day of the pasch, jesus knowing that his hour was come, that he should pass out of this world to the father: having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them unto the end. and when supper was done, (the devil having now put into the heart of judas iscariot, the son of simon, to betray him,) knowing that the father had given him all things into his hands, and that he came from god, and goeth to god; he riseth from supper, and layeth aside his garments, and having taken a towel, girded himself. after that, he putteth water into a basin, and began to wash the feet of the disciples, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded. he cometh therefore to simon peter. and peter saith to him: lord, dost thou wash my feet? jesus answered, and said to him: what i do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. peter saith to him: thou shalt never wash my feet. jesus answered him: if i wash thee not, thou shalt have no part with me. simon peter saith to him: lord, not only my feet, but also my hands and my head. jesus saith to him: he that is washed, needeth not but to wash his feet, but is clean wholly. and you are clean, but not all. for he knew who he was that would betray him; therefore he said: you are not all clean. then after he had washed their feet, and taken his garments, being set down again, he said to them: know you what i have done to you? you call me master, and lord; and you say well, for so i am. if then i being your lord and master, have washed your feet; you also ought to wash one another's feet. for i have given you an example, that as i have done to you, so you do also. amen, amen i say to you: the servant is not greater than his lord; neither is the apostle greater than he that sent him. if you know these things, you shall be blessed if you do them. i speak not of you all: i know whom i have chosen. but that the scripture may be fulfilled: he that eateth bread with me, shall lift up his heel against me. at present i tell you, before it come to pass: that when it shall come to pass, you may believe that i am he. amen, amen i say to you, he that receiveth whomsoever i send, receiveth me; and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me. when jesus had said these things, he was troubled in spirit; and he testified, and said: amen, amen i say to you, one of you shall betray me. the disciples therefore looked one upon another, doubting of whom he spoke. now there was leaning on jesus' bosom one of his disciples, whom jesus loved. simon peter therefore beckoned to him, and said to him: who is it of whom he speaketh? he therefore, leaning on the breast of jesus, saith to him: lord, who is it? jesus answered: he it is to whom i shall reach bread dipped. and when he had dipped the bread, he gave it to judas iscariot, the son of simon. and after the morsel, satan entered into him. and jesus said to him: that which thou dost, do quickly. now no man at the table knew to what purpose he said this unto him. for some thought, because judas had the purse, that jesus had said to him: buy those things which we have need of for the festival day: or that he should give something to the poor. he therefore having received the morsel, went out immediately. and it was night. when he therefore was gone out, jesus said: now is the son of man glorified, and god is glorified in him. if god be glorified in him, god also will glorify him in himself; and immediately will he glorify him. little children, yet a little while i am with you. you shall seek me; and as i said to the jews: whither i go you cannot come; so i say to you now. a new commandment i give unto you: that you love one another, as i have loved you, that you also love one another. by this shall all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love one for another. simon peter saith to him: lord, whither goest thou? jesus answered: whither i go, thou canst not follow me now; but thou shalt follow hereafter. peter saith to him: why cannot i follow thee now? i will lay down my life for thee. jesus answered him: wilt thou lay down thy life for me? amen, amen i say to thee, the cock shall not crow, till thou deny me thrice.

let not your heart be troubled. you believe in god, believe also in me. in my father's house there are many mansions. if not, i would have told you: because i go to prepare a place for you. and if i shall go, and prepare a place for you, i will come again, and will take you to myself; that where i am, you also may be. and whither i go you know, and the way you know. thomas saith to him: lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way? jesus saith to him: i am the way, and the truth, and the life. no man cometh to the father, but by me. if you had known me, you would without doubt have known my father also: and from henceforth you shall know him, and you have seen him. philip saith to him: lord, shew us the father, and it is enough for us. jesus saith to him: have i been so long a time with you; and have you not known me? philip, he that seeth me seeth the father also. how sayest thou, shew us the father? do you not believe, that i am in the father, and the father in me? the words that i speak to you, i speak not of myself. but the father who abideth in me, he doth the works. believe you not that i am in the father, and the father in me? otherwise believe for the very works' sake. amen, amen i say to you, he that believeth in me, the works that i do, he also shall do; and greater than these shall he do. because i go to the father: and whatsoever you shall ask the father in my name, that will i do: that the father may be glorified in the son. if you shall ask me any thing in my name, that i will do. if you love me, keep my commandments. and i will ask the father, and he shall give you another paraclete, that he may abide with you for ever. the spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, nor knoweth him: but you shall know him; because he shall abide with you, and shall be in you. i will not leave you orphans, i will come to you. yet a little while: and the world seeth me no more. but you see me: because i live, and you shall live. in that day you shall know, that i am in my father, and you in me, and i in you. he that hath my commandments, and keepeth them; he it is that loveth me. and he that loveth me, shall be loved of my father: and i will love him, and will manifest myself to him. judas saith to him, not the iscariot: lord, how is it, that thou wilt manifest thyself to us, and not to the world? jesus answered, and said to him: if any one love me, he will keep my word, and my father will love him, and we will come to him, and will make our abode with him. he that loveth me not, keepeth not my words. and the word which you have heard, is not mine; but the father's who sent me. these things have i spoken to you, abiding with you. but the paraclete, the holy ghost, whom the father will send in my name, he will teach you all things, and bring all things to your mind, whatsoever i shall have said to you. peace i leave with you, my peace i give unto you: not as the world giveth, do i give unto you. let not your heart be troubled, nor let it be afraid. you have heard that i said to you: i go away, and i come unto you. if you loved me, you would indeed be glad, because i go to the father: for the father is greater than i. and now i have told you before it comes to pass: that when it shall come to pass, you may believe. i will not now speak many things with you. for the prince of this world cometh, and in me he hath not any thing. but that the world may know, that i love the father: and as the father hath given me commandment, so do i: arise, let us go hence.

i am the true vine; and my father is the husbandman. every branch in me, that beareth not fruit, he will take away: and every one that beareth fruit, he will purge it, that it may bring forth more fruit. now you are clean by reason of the word, which i have spoken to you. abide in me, and i in you. as the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, unless it abide in the vine, so neither can you, unless you abide in me. i am the vine; you the branches: he that abideth in me, and i in him, the same beareth much fruit: for without me you can do nothing. if any one abide not in me, he shall be cast forth as a branch, and shall wither, and they shall gather him up, and cast him into the fire, and he burneth. if you abide in me, and my words abide in you, you shall ask whatever you will, and it shall be done unto you. in this is my father glorified; that you bring forth very much fruit, and become my disciples. as the father hath loved me, i also have loved you. abide in my love. if you keep my commandments, you shall abide in my love; as i also have kept my father's commandments, and do abide in his love. these things i have spoken to you, that my joy may be in you, and your joy may be filled. this is my commandment, that you love one another, as i have loved you. greater love than this no man hath, that a man lay down his life for his friends. you are my friends, if you do the things that i command you. i will not now call you servants: for the servant knoweth not what his lord doth. but i have called you friends: because all things whatsoever i have heard of my father, i have made known to you. you have not chosen me: but i have chosen you; and have appointed you, that you should go, and should bring forth fruit; and your fruit should remain: that whatsoever you shall ask of the father in my name, he may give it you. these things i command you, that you love one another. if the world hate you, know ye, that it hath hated me before you. if you had been of the world, the world would love its own: but because you are not of the world, but i have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you. remember my word that i said to you: the servant is not greater than his master. if they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you: if they have kept my word, they will keep yours also. but all these things they will do to you for my name's sake: because they know not him who sent me. if i had not come, and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but now they have no excuse for their sin. he that hateth me, hateth my father also. if i had not done among them the works that no other man hath done, they would not have sin; but now they have both seen and hated both me and my father. but that the word may be fulfilled which is written in their law: they hated me without cause. but when the paraclete cometh, whom i will send you from the father, the spirit of truth, who proceedeth from the father, he shall give testimony of me. and you shall give testimony, because you are with me from the beginning.

these things have i spoken to you, that you may not be scandalized. they will put you out of the synagogues: yea, the hour cometh, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doth a service to god. and these things will they do to you; because they have not known the father, nor me. but these things i have told you, that when the hour shall come, you may remember that i told you of them. but i told you not these things from the beginning, because i was with you. and now i go to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me: whether goest thou? but because i have spoken these things to you, sorrow hath filled your heart. but i tell you the truth: it is expedient to you that i go: for if i go not, the paraclete will not come to you; but if i go, i will send him to you. and when he is come, he will convince the world of sin, and of justice, and of judgment. of sin: because they believed not in me. and of justice: because i go to the father; and you shall see me no longer. and of judgment: because the prince of this world is already judged. i have yet many things to say to you: but you cannot bear them now. but when he, the spirit of truth, is come, he will teach you all truth. for he shall not speak of himself; but what things soever he shall hear, he shall speak; and the things that are to come, he shall shew you. he shall glorify me; because he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it to you. all things whatsoever the father hath, are mine. therefore i said, that he shall receive of mine, and shew it to you. a little while, and now you shall not see me; and again a little while, and you shall see me: because i go to the father. then some of the disciples said one to another: what is this that he saith to us: a little while, and you shall not see me; and again a little while, and you shall see me, and, because i go to the father? they said therefore: what is this that he saith, a little while? we know not what he speaketh. and jesus knew that they had a mind to ask him; and he said to them: of this do you inquire among yourselves, because i said: a little while, and you shall not see me; and again a little while, and you shall see me? amen, amen i say to you, that you shall lament and weep, but the world shall rejoice; and you shall be made sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. a woman, when she is in labour, hath sorrow, because her hour is come; but when she hath brought forth the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world. so also you now indeed have sorrow; but i will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice; and your joy no man shall take from you. and in that day you shall not ask me any thing. amen, amen i say to you: if you ask the father any thing in my name, he will give it you. hitherto you have not asked any thing in my name. ask, and you shall receive; that your joy may be full. these things i have spoken to you in proverbs. the hour cometh, when i will no more speak to you in proverbs, but will shew you plainly of the father. in that day you shall ask in my name; and i say not to you, that i will ask the father for you: for the father himself loveth you, because you have loved me, and have believed that i came out from god. i came forth from the father, and am come into the world: again i leave the world, and i go to the father. his disciples say to him: behold, now thou speakest plainly, and speakest no proverb. now we know that thou knowest all things, and thou needest not that any man should ask thee. by this we believe that thou camest forth from god. jesus answered them: do you now believe? behold, the hour cometh, and it is now come, that you shall be scattered every man to his own, and shall leave me alone; and yet i am not alone, because the father is with me. these things i have spoken to you, that in me you may have peace. in the world you shall have distress: but have confidence, i have overcome the world.

these things jesus spoke, and lifting up his eyes to heaven, he said: father, the hour is come, glorify thy son, that thy son may glorify thee. as thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he may give eternal life to all whom thou hast given him. now this is eternal life: that they may know thee, the only true god, and jesus christ, whom thou hast sent. i have glorified thee on the earth; i have finished the work which thou gavest me to do. and now glorify thou me, o father, with thyself, with the glory which i had, before the world was, with thee. i have manifested thy name to the men whom thou hast given me out of the world. thine they were, and to me thou gavest them; and they have kept thy word. now they have known, that all things which thou hast given me, are from thee: because the words which thou gavest me, i have given to them; and they have received them, and have known in very deed that i came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didst send me. i pray for them: i pray not for the world, but for them whom thou hast given me: because they are thine: and all my things are thine, and thine are mine; and i am glorified in them. and now i am not in the world, and these are in the world, and i come to thee. holy father, keep them in thy name whom thou has given me; that they may be one, as we also are. while i was with them, i kept them in thy name. those whom thou gavest me have i kept; and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition, that the scripture may be fulfilled. and now i come to thee; and these things i speak in the world, that they may have my joy filled in themselves. i have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world; as i also am not of the world. i pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that thou shouldst keep them from evil. they are not of the world, as i also am not of the world. sanctify them in truth. thy word is truth. as thou hast sent me into the world, i also have sent them into the world. and for them do i sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified in truth. and not for them only do i pray, but for them also who through their word shall believe in me; that they all may be one, as thou, father, in me, and i in thee; that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me. and the glory which thou hast given me, i have given to them; that they may be one, as we also are one: i in them, and thou in me; that they may be made perfect in one: and the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast also loved me. father, i will that where i am, they also whom thou hast given me may be with me; that they may see my glory which thou hast given me, because thou hast loved me before the creation of the world. just father, the world hath not known thee; but i have known thee: and these have known that thou hast sent me. and i have made known thy name to them, and will make it known; that the love wherewith thou hast loved me, may be in them, and i in them.

when jesus had said these things, he went forth with his disciples over the brook cedron, where there was a garden, into which he entered with his disciples. and judas also, who betrayed him, knew the place; because jesus had often resorted thither together with his disciples. judas therefore having received a band of soldiers and servants from the chief priests and the pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons. jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said to them: whom seek ye? they answered him: jesus of nazareth. jesus saith to them: i am he. and judas also, who betrayed him, stood with them. as soon therefore as he had said to them: i am he; they went backward, and fell to the ground. again therefore he asked them: whom seek ye? and they said, jesus of nazareth. jesus answered, i have told you that i am he. if therefore you seek me, let these go their way. that the word might be fulfilled which he said: of them whom thou hast given me, i have not lost any one. then simon peter, having a sword, drew it, and struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. and the name of the servant was malchus. jesus therefore said to peter: put up thy sword into the scabbard. the chalice which my father hath given me, shall i not drink it? then the band and the tribune, and the servants of the jews, took jesus, and bound him: and they led him away to annas first, for he was father in law to caiphas, who was the high priest of that year. now caiphas was he who had given the counsel to the jews: that it was expedient that one man should die for the people. and simon peter followed jesus, and so did another disciple. and that disciple was known to the high priest, and went in with jesus into the court of the high priest. but peter stood at the door without. the other disciple therefore, who was known to the high priest, went out, and spoke to the portress, and brought in peter. the maid therefore that was portress, saith to peter: art not thou also one of this man's disciples? he saith: i am not. now the servants and ministers stood at a fire of coals, because it was cold, and warmed themselves. and with them was peter also, standing, and warming himself. the high priest therefore asked jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine. jesus answered him: i have spoken openly to the world: i have always taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither all the jews resort; and in secret i have spoken nothing. why asketh thou me? ask them who have heard what i have spoken unto them: behold they know what things i have said. and when he had said these things, one of the servants standing by, gave jesus a blow, saying: answerest thou the high priest so? jesus answered him: if i have spoken evil, give testimony of the evil; but if well, why striketh thou me? and annas sent him bound to caiphas the high priest. and simon peter was standing, and warming himself. they said therefore to him: art not thou also one of his disciples? he denied it, and said: i am not. one of the servants of the high priest (a kinsman to him whose ear peter cut off) saith to him: did i not see thee in the garden with him? again therefore peter denied; and immediately the cock crew. then they led jesus from caiphas to the governor's hall. and it was morning; and they went not into the hall, that they might not be defiled, but that they might eat the pasch. pilate therefore went out to them, and said: what accusation bring you against this man? they answered, and said to him: if he were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered him up to thee. pilate therefore said to them: take him you, and judge him according to your law. the jews therefore said to him: it is not lawful for us to put any man to death; that the word of jesus might be fulfilled, which he said, signifying what death he should die. pilate therefore went into the hall again, and called jesus, and said to him: art thou the king of the jews? jesus answered: sayest thou this thing of thyself, or have others told it thee of me? pilate answered: am i a jew? thy own nation, and the chief priests, have delivered thee up to me: what hast thou done? jesus answered: my kingdom is not of this world. if my kingdom were of this world, my servants would certainly strive that i should not be delivered to the jews: but now my kingdom is not from hence. pilate therefore said to him: art thou a king then? jesus answered: thou sayest that i am a king. for this was i born, and for this came i into the world; that i should give testimony to the truth. every one that is of the truth, heareth my voice. pilate saith to him: what is truth? and when he said this, he went out again to the jews, and saith to them: i find no cause in him. but you have a custom that i should release one unto you at the pasch: will you, therefore, that i release unto you the king of the jews? then cried they all again, saying: not this man, but barabbas. now barabbas was a robber.

then therefore, pilate took jesus, and scourged him. and the soldiers plating a crown of thorns, put it upon his head; and they put on him a purple garment. and they came to him, and said: hail, king of the jews; and they gave him blows. pilate therefore went forth again, and saith to them: behold, i bring him forth unto you, that you may know that i find no cause in him. (jesus therefore came forth, bearing the crown of thorns and the purple garment.) and he saith to them: behold the man. when the chief priests, therefore, and the servants, had seen him, they cried out, saying: crucify him, crucify him. pilate saith to them: take him you, and crucify him: for i find no cause in him. the jews answered him: we have a law; and according to the law he ought to die, because he made himself the son of god. when pilate therefore had heard this saying, he feared the more. and he entered into the hall again, and he said to jesus: whence art thou? but jesus gave him no answer. pilate therefore saith to him: speakest thou not to me? knowest thou not that i have power to crucify thee, and i have power to release thee? jesus answered: thou shouldst not have any power against me, unless it were given thee from above. therefore, he that hath delivered me to thee, hath the greater sin. and

from henceforth pilate sought to release him. but the jews cried out, saying: if thou release this man, thou art not caesar's friend. for whosoever maketh himself a king, speaketh against caesar. now when pilate had heard these words, he brought jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat, in the place that is called lithostrotos, and in hebrew gabbatha. and it was the parasceve of the pasch, about the sixth hour, and he saith to the jews: behold your king. but they cried out: away with him; away with him; crucify him. pilate saith to them: shall i crucify your king? the chief priests answered: we have no king but caesar. then therefore he delivered him to them to be crucified. and they took jesus, and led him forth. and bearing his own cross, he went forth to that place which is called calvary, but in hebrew golgotha. where they crucified him, and with him two others, one on each side, and jesus in the midst. and pilate wrote a title also, and he put it upon the cross. and the writing was: jesus of nazareth, the king of the jews. this title therefore many of the jews did read: because the place where jesus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in hebrew, in greek, and in latin. then the chief priests of the jews said to pilate: write not, the king of the jews; but that he said, i am the king of the jews. pilate answered: what i have written, i have written. the soldiers therefore, when they had crucified him, took his garments, (and they made four parts, to every soldier a part,) and also his coat. now the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout. they said then one to another: let us not cut it, but let us cast lots for it, whose it shall be; that the scripture might be fulfilled, saying: they have parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture they have cast lot. and the soldiers indeed did these things. now there stood by the cross of jesus, his mother, and his mother's sister, mary of cleophas, and mary magdalen. when jesus therefore had seen his mother and the disciple standing whom he loved, he saith to his mother: woman, behold thy son. after that, he saith to the disciple: behold thy mother. and from that hour, the disciple took her to his own. afterwards, jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, said: i thirst. now there was a vessel set there full of vinegar. and they, putting a sponge full of vinegar and hyssop, put it to his mouth. jesus therefore, when he had taken the vinegar, said: it is consummated. and bowing his head, he gave up the ghost. then the jews, (because it was the parasceve,) that the bodies might not remain on the cross on the sabbath day, (for that was a great sabbath day,) besought pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. the soldiers therefore came; and they broke the legs of the first, and of the other that was crucified with him. but after they were come to jesus, when they saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs. but one of the soldiers with a spear opened his side, and immediately there came out blood and water. and he that saw it, hath given testimony, and his testimony is true. and he knoweth that he saith true; that you also may believe. for these things were done, that the scripture might be fulfilled: you shall not break a bone of him. and again another scripture saith: they shall look on him whom they pierced. and after these things, joseph of arimathea (because he was a disciple of jesus, but secretly for fear of the jews) besought pilate that he might take away the body of jesus. and pilate gave leave. he came therefore, and took the body of jesus. and nicodemus also came, (he who at the first came to jesus by night,) bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight. they took therefore the body of jesus, and bound it in linen cloths, with the spices, as the manner of the jews is to bury. now there was in the place where he was crucified, a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein no man yet had been laid. there, therefore, because of the paraseve of the jews, they laid jesus, because the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

and on the first day of the week, mary magdalen cometh early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre; and she saw the stone taken away from the sepulchre. she ran, therefore, and cometh to simon peter, and to the other disciple whom jesus loved, and saith to them: they have taken away the lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him. peter therefore went out, and that other disciple, and they came to the sepulchre. and they both ran together, and that other disciple did outrun peter, and came first to the sepulchre. and when he stooped down, he saw the linen cloths lying; but yet he went not in. then cometh simon peter, following him, and went into the sepulchre, and saw the linen cloths lying, and the napkin that had been about his head, not lying with the linen cloths, but apart, wrapped up into one place. then that other disciple also went in, who came first to the sepulchre: and he saw, and believed. for as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead. the disciples therefore departed again to their home. but mary stood at the sepulchre without, weeping. now as she was weeping, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre, and she saw two angels in white, sitting, one at the head, and one at the feet, where the body of jesus had been laid. they say to her: woman, why weepest thou? she saith to them: because they have taken away my lord; and i know not where they have laid him. when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw jesus standing; and she knew not that it was jesus. jesus saith to her: woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? she, thinking it was the gardener, saith to him: sir, if thou hast taken him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and i will take him away. jesus saith to her: mary. she turning, saith to him: rabboni (which is to say, master). jesus saith to her: do not touch me, for i am not yet ascended to my father. but go to my brethren, and say to them: i ascend to my father and to your father, to my god and your god. mary magdalen cometh, and telleth the disciples: i have seen the lord, and these things he said to me. now when it was late that same day, the first of the week, and the doors were shut, where the disciples were gathered together, for fear of the jews, jesus came and stood in the midst, and said to them: peace be to you. and when he had said this, he shewed them his hands and his side. the disciples therefore were glad, when they saw the lord. he said therefore to them again: peace be to you. as the father hath sent me, i also send you. when he had said this, he breathed on them; and he said to them: receive ye the holy ghost. whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained. now thomas, one of the twelve, who is called didymus, was not with them when jesus came. the other disciples therefore said to him: we have seen the lord. but he said to them: except i shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the place of the nails, and put my hand into his side, i will not believe. and after eight days again his disciples were within, and thomas with them. jesus cometh, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said: peace be to you. then he saith to thomas: put in thy finger hither, and see my hands; and bring hither thy hand, and put it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing. thomas answered, and said to him: my lord, and my god. jesus saith to him: because thou hast seen me, thomas, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed. many other signs also did jesus in the sight of his disciples, which are not written in this book. but these are written, that you may believe that jesus is the christ, the son of god: and that believing, you may have life in his name.

after this, jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of tiberias. and he shewed himself after this manner. there were together simon peter, and thomas, who is called didymus, and nathanael, who was of cana of galilee, and the sons of zebedee, and two others of his disciples. simon peter saith to them: i go a fishing. they say to him: we also come with thee. and they went forth, and entered into the ship: and that night they caught nothing. but when the morning was come, jesus stood on the shore: yet the disciples knew not that it was jesus. jesus therefore said to them: children, have you any meat? they answered him: no. he saith to them: cast the net on the right side of the ship, and you shall find. they cast therefore; and now they were not able to draw it, for the multitude of fishes. that disciple therefore whom jesus loved, said to peter: it is the lord. simon peter, when he heard that it was the lord, girt his coat about him, (for he was naked,) and cast himself into the sea. but the other disciples came in the ship, (for they were not far from the land, but as it were two hundred cubits,) dragging the net with fishes. as soon then as they came to land, they saw hot coals lying, and a fish laid thereon, and bread. jesus saith to them: bring hither of the fishes which you have now caught. simon peter went up, and drew the net to land, full of great fishes, one hundred and fifty-three. and although there were so many, the net was not broken. jesus saith to them: come, and dine. and

none of them who were at meat, durst ask him: who art thou? knowing that it was the lord. and jesus cometh and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish in like manner. this is now the third time that jesus was manifested to his disciples, after he was risen from the dead. when therefore they had dined, jesus saith to simon peter: simon son of john, lovest thou me more than these? he saith to him: yea, lord, thou knowest that i love thee. he saith to him: feed my lambs. he saith to him again: simon, son of john, lovest thou me? he saith to him: yea, lord, thou knowest that i love thee. he saith to him: feed my lambs. he said to him the third time: simon, son of john, lovest thou me? peter was grieved, because he had said to him the third time: lovest thou me? and he said to him: lord, thou knowest all things: thou knowest that i love thee. he said to him: feed my sheep. amen, amen i say to thee, when thou wast younger, thou didst gird thyself, and didst walk where thou wouldst. but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldst not. and this he said, signifying by what death he should glorify god. and when he had said this, he saith to him: follow me. peter turning about, saw that disciple whom jesus loved following, who also leaned on his breast at supper, and said: lord, who is he that shall betray thee? him therefore when peter had seen, he saith to jesus: lord, and what shall this man do? jesus saith to him: so i will have him to remain till i come, what is it to thee? follow thou me. this saying therefore went abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die. and jesus did not say to him: he should not die; but, so i will have him to remain till i come, what is it to thee? this is that disciple who giveth testimony of these things, and hath written these things; and we know that his testimony is true. but there are also many other things which jesus did; which, if they were written every one, the world itself, i think, would not be able to contain the books that should be written.

the revelation of jesus christ, which god gave unto him, to make known to his servants the things which must shortly come to pass: and signified, sending by his angel to his servant john, who hath given testimony to the word of god, and the testimony of jesus christ, what things soever he hath seen. blessed is he, that readeth and heareth the words of this prophecy; and keepeth those things which are written in it; for the time is at hand. john to the seven churches which are in asia. grace be unto you and peace from him that is, and that was, and that is to come, and from the seven spirits which are before his throne, and from jesus christ, who is the faithful witness, the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth, who hath loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us a kingdom, and priests to god and his father, to him be glory and empire for ever and ever. amen. behold, he cometh with the clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also that pierced him. and all the tribes of the earth shall bewail themselves because of him. even so. amen. i am alpha and omega, the beginning and the end, saith the lord god, who is, and who was, and who is to come, the almighty. i john, your brother and your partner in tribulation, and in the kingdom, and patience in christ jesus, was in the island, which is called patmos, for the word of god, and for the testimony of jesus. i was in the spirit on the lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, saying: what thou seest, write in a book, and send to the seven churches which are in asia, to ephesus, and to smyrna, and to pergamus, and to thyatira, and to sardis, and to philadelphia, and to laodicea. and i turned to see the voice that spoke with me. and being turned, i saw seven golden candlesticks: and in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks, one like to the son of man, clothed with a garment down to the feet, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle. and his head and his hairs were white, as white wool, and as snow, and his eyes were as a flame of fire, and his feet like unto fine brass, as in a burning furnace. and his voice as the sound of many waters. and he had in his right hand seven stars. and from his mouth came out a sharp two edged sword: and his face was as the sun shineth in his power. and when i had seen him, i fell at his feet as dead. and he laid his right hand upon me, saying: fear not. i am the first and the last, and alive, and was dead, and behold i am living for ever and ever, and have the keys of death and of hell. write therefore the things which thou hast seen, and which are, and which must be done hereafter. the mystery of the seven stars, which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches. and the seven candlesticks are the seven churches.

unto the angel of the church of ephesus write: these things saith he, who holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven

golden candlesticks: i know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them that are evil, and thou hast tried them, who say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars: and thou hast patience, and hast endured for my name, and hast not fainted. but i have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first charity. be mindful therefore from whence thou art fallen: and do penance, and do the first works. or else i come to thee, and will move thy candlestick out of its place, except thou do penance. but this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the nicolaites, which i also hate. he, that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches: to him, that overcometh, i will give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of my god. and to the angel of the church of smyrna write: these things saith the first and the last, who was dead, and is alive: i know thy tribulation and thy poverty, but thou art rich: and thou art blasphemed by them that say they are jews and are not, but are the synagogue of satan. fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer. behold, the devil will cast some of you into prison that you may be tried: and you shall have tribulation ten days. be thou faithful until death: and i will give thee the crown of life. he, that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches: he that shall overcome, shall not be hurt by the second death. and to the angel of the church of pergamus write: these things, saith he, that hath the sharp two edged sword: i know where thou dwellest, where the seat of satan is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith. even in those days when antipas was my faithful witness, who was slain among you, where satan dwelleth. but i have against thee a few things: because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of balaam, who taught balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of israel, to eat, and to commit fornication: so hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the nicolaites. in like manner do penance: if not, i will come to thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. he, that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches: to him that overcometh, i will give the hidden manna, and will give him a white counter, and in the counter, a new name written, which no man knoweth, but he that receiveth it. and to the angel of the church of thyatira write: these things saith the son of god, who hath his eyes like to a flame of fire, and his feet like to fine brass. i know thy works, and thy faith, and thy charity, and thy ministry, and thy patience, and thy last works which are more than the former. but i have against thee a few things: because thou sufferest the woman jezebel, who calleth herself a prophetess, to teach, and to seduce my servants, to commit fornication, and to eat of things sacrificed to idols. and i gave her a time that she might do penance, and she will not repent of her fornication. behold, i will cast her into a bed: and they that commit adultery with her shall be in very great tribulation, except they do penance from their deeds. and i will kill her children with death, and all the churches shall know that i am he that searcheth the reins and hearts, and i will give to every one of you according to your works. but to you i say, and to the rest who are at thyatira: whosoever have not this doctrine, and who have not known the depths of satan, as they say, i will not put upon you any other burthen. yet that, which you have, hold fast till i come. and he that shall overcome, and keep my works unto the end, i will give him power over the nations. and he shall rule them with a rod of iron, and as the vessel of a potter they shall be broken, as i also have received of my father: and i will give him the morning star. he that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches.

and to the angel of the church of sardis, write: these things saith he, that hath the seven spirits of god, and the seven stars: i know thy works, that thou hast the name of being alive: and thou art dead. be watchful and strengthen the things that remain, which are ready to die. for i find not thy works full before my god. have in mind therefore in what manner thou hast received and heard: and observe, and do penance. if then thou shalt not watch, i will come to thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know at what hour i will come to thee. but thou hast a few names in sardis, which have not defiled their garments: and they shall walk with me in white, because they are worthy. he that shall overcome, shall thus be clothed in white garments, and i will not blot out his name out of the book of life, and i will confess his name before my father, and before his angels. he that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches. and to the angel of the church of philadelphia, write: these things saith the holy one and the true one, he that hath the key of david; he that openeth, and no man shutteth; shutteth, and no man openeth: i know thy works. behold, i have given before thee a door opened, which no man can shut: because thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name. behold, i will bring of the synagogue of satan, who say they are jews, and are not, but do lie. behold, i will make them to come and adore before thy feet. and they shall know that i have loved thee. because thou hast kept the word of my patience, i will also keep thee from the hour of the temptation, which shall come upon the whole world to try them that dwell upon the earth. behold, i come quickly: hold fast that which thou hast, that no man take thy crown. he that shall overcome, i will make him a pillar in the temple of my god; and he shall go out no more; and i will write upon him the name of my god, and the name of the city of my god, the new jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my god, and my new name. he that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches. and to the angel of the church of laodicea, write: these things saith the amen, the faithful and true witness, who is the beginning of the creation of god: i know thy works, that thou art neither cold, nor hot. i would thou wert cold, or hot. but because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold, nor hot, i will begin to vomit thee out of my mouth. because thou sayest: i am rich, and made wealthy, and have need of nothing: and knowest not,

that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked. i counsel thee to buy of me gold fire tried, that thou mayest be made rich; and mayest be clothed in white garments, and that the shame of thy nakedness may not appear; and anoint thy eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see. such as i love, i rebuke and chastise. be zealous therefore, and do penance. behold, i stand at the gate, and knock. if any man shall hear my voice, and open to me the door, i will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. to him that shall overcome, i will give to sit with me in my throne: as i also have overcome, and am set down with my father in his throne. he that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith to the churches.

after these things i looked, and behold a door was opened in heaven, and the first voice which i heard, as it were, of a trumpet speaking with me, said: come up hither, and i will shew thee the things which must be done hereafter. and immediately i was in the spirit: and behold there was a throne set in heaven, and upon the throne one sitting. and he that sat, was to the sight like the jasper and the sardine stone; and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald. and round about the throne were four and twenty seats; and upon the seats, four and twenty ancients sitting, clothed in white garments, and on their heads were crowns of gold. and from the throne proceeded lightnings, and voices, and thunders; and there were seven lamps burning before the throne, which are the seven spirits of god. and in the sight of the throne was, as it were, a sea of glass like to crystal; and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four living creatures, full of eyes before and behind. and the first living creature was like a lion: and the second living creature like a calf: and the third living creature, having the face, as it were, of a man: and the fourth living creature was like an eagle flying. and the four living creatures had each of them six wings; and round about and within they are full of eyes. and they rested not day and night, saying: holy, holy, holy, lord god almighty, who was, and who is, and who is to come. and when those living creatures gave glory, and honour, and benediction to him that sitteth on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever; the four and twenty ancients fell down before him that sitteth on the throne, and adored him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying: thou art worthy, o lord our god, to receive glory, and honour, and power: because thou hast created all things; and for thy will they were, and have been created.

and i saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne, a book written within and without, sealed with seven seals. and i saw a strong angel, proclaiming with a loud voice: who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? and no man was able, neither in heaven, nor on earth, nor under the earth, to open the book, nor to look on it. and i wept much, because no man was found worthy to open the book, nor to see it. and one of the ancients said to me: weep not; behold the lion of the tribe of juda, the root of david, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof. and i saw: and behold in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the ancients, a lamb standing as it were slain, having seven horns and seven eyes: which are the seven spirits of god, sent forth into all the earth. and he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat on the throne. and when he had opened the book, the four living creatures, and the four and twenty ancients fell down before the lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints: and they sung a new canticle, saying: thou art worthy, o lord, to take the book, and to open the seals thereof; because thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to god, in thy blood, out of every tribe, and tongue, and people, and nation. and hast made us to our god a kingdom and priests, and we shall reign on the earth. and i beheld, and i heard the voice of many angels round about the throne, and the living creatures, and the ancients; and the number of them was thousands of thousands, saying with a loud voice: the lamb that was slain is worthy to receive power, and divinity, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and benediction. and every creature, which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them: i heard all saying: to him that sitteth on the throne, and to the lamb, benediction, and honour, and glory, and power, for ever and ever. and the four living creatures said: amen. and the four and twenty ancients fell down on their faces, and adored him that liveth for ever and ever.

and i saw that the lamb had opened one of the seven seals, and i heard one of the four living creatures, as it were the voice of thunder, saying: come, and see. and i saw: and behold a white horse, and he that sat on him had a bow, and there was a crown given him, and he went forth conquering that he might conquer. and when he had opened the second seal, i heard the second living creature, saying: come, and see. and there went out another horse that was red: and to him that sat thereon, it was given that he should take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another, and a great sword was given to him. and when he had opened the third seal, i heard the third living creature saying: come, and see. and behold a black horse, and he that sat on him had a pair of scales in his hand. and i heard as it were a voice in the midst of the four living creatures, saying: two pounds of wheat for a penny, and thrice two pounds of barley for a penny, and see thou hurt not the wine and the oil. and when he had opened the fourth seal, i heard the voice of the fourth living creature, saying: come, and see. and behold a pale horse, and he that sat upon him, his name was death, and hell followed him. and power was given to him over the four parts of the earth, to kill with sword, with famine, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth. and when he had opened the fifth seal, i saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of god, and for the testimony which they held. and they cried with a loud voice, saying: how long, o lord (holy and true) dost thou not judge and revenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? and white robes were given to every one of them one; and it was said to them, that they should rest for a little time, till their fellow servants, and their brethren, who are to be slain, even as they, should be filled up. and i saw, when he had opened the sixth seal, and behold there was a great earthquake, and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair: and the whole moon became as blood: and the stars from heaven fell upon the earth, as the fig tree casteth its green figs when it is shaken by a great wind: and the heaven departed as a book folded up: and every mountain, and the islands were moved out of their places. and the kings of the earth, and the princes, and tribunes, and the rich, and the strong, and every bondman, and every freeman, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of mountains: and they say to the mountains and the rocks: fall upon us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth upon the throne and from the wrath of the lamb: for the great day of their wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand?

after these things, i saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that they should not blow upon the earth, nor upon the sea, nor on any tree. and i saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun, having the sign of the living god; and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, saying: hurt not the earth, nor the sea, nor the trees, till we sign the servants of our god in their foreheads. and i heard the number of them that were signed, an hundred forty-four thousand were signed, of every tribe of the children of israel. of the tribe of juda, were twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of ruben, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of gad, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of aser, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of nephthali, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of manasses, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of simeon, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of levi, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of issachar, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of zabulon, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of joseph, twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of benjamin, twelve thousand signed. after this i saw a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and tribes, and peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne, and in sight of the lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands: and they cried with a loud voice, saying: salvation to our god, who sitteth upon the throne, and to the lamb. and all the angels stood round about the throne, and the ancients, and the four living creatures; and they fell down before the throne upon their faces, and adored god, saying: amen. benediction, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, honour, and power, and strength to our god for ever and ever. amen. and one of the ancients answered, and said to me: these that are clothed in white robes, who are they? and whence came they? and i said to him: my lord, thou knowest. and he said to me: these are they who are come out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and have made them white in the blood of the lamb. therefore they are before the throne of god, and they serve him day and night in his temple: and he, that sitteth on the throne, shall dwell over them. they shall no more hunger nor thirst, neither shall the sun fall on them, nor any heat. for the lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, shall rule them, and shall lead them to the fountains of the waters of life, and god shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

and when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven, as it were for half an hour. and i saw seven angels standing in the presence of god; and there were given to them seven trumpets. and another angel came, and stood before the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given to him much incense, that he should offer of the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar, which is before the throne of god. and the smoke of the incense of the prayers of the saints ascended up before god from the hand of the angel. and the angel took the censer, and filled it with the fire of the altar, and cast it on the earth, and there were thunders and voices and lightnings, and a great earthquake. and the seven angels, who had the seven trumpets, prepared themselves to sound the trumpet. and the first angel sounded the trumpet, and there followed hail and fire, mingled with blood, and it was cast on the earth, and the third part of the earth was burnt up, and the third part of the trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up. and the second angel sounded the trumpet: and as it were a great mountain, burning with fire, was cast into the sea, and the third part of the sea became blood: and the third part of those creatures died, which had life in the sea, and the third part of the ships was destroyed. and the third angel sounded the trumpet, and a great star fell from heaven, burning as it were a torch, and it fell on the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters: and the name of the star is called wormwood. and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter. and the fourth angel sounded the trumpet, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars, so that the third part of them was darkened, and the day did not shine for a third part of it, and the night in like manner. and i beheld, and heard the voice of one eagle flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice: woe, woe, woe to the inhabitants of the earth: by reason of the

and the fifth angel sounded the trumpet, and i saw a star fall from heaven upon the earth, and there was given to him the key of the bottomless pit. and he opened the bottomless pit: and the smoke of the pit arose, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened with the smoke of the pit. and from the smoke of the pit there came out locusts upon the earth. and power was given to them, as the scorpions of the earth have power: and it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, nor any green thing, nor any tree: but only the men who have not the sign of god on their foreheads. and it was given unto them that they should not kill them; but that they should torment them five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion when he striketh a man. and in those days men shall seek death, and shall not find it: and they shall desire to die, and death shall fly from them. and the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle: and on their heads were, as it were, crowns like gold: and their faces were as the faces of men. and they had hair as the hair of women; and their teeth were as lions: and they had breastplates as breastplates of iron, and the noise of their wings was as the noise of chariots and many horses running to battle. and they had tails like to scorpions, and there were stings in their tails; and their power was to hurt men five months. and they had over them a king, the angel of the bottomless pit; whose name in hebrew is abaddon, and in greek apollyon; in latin exterminans, one woe is past, and behold there come yet two woes more hereafter. and the sixth angel sounded the trumpet: and i heard a voice from the four horns of the great altar, which is before the eyes of god, saying to the sixth angel, who had the trumpet: loose the four angels, who are bound in the great river euphrates. and the four angels were loosed, who were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year: for to kill the third part of men. and the number of the army of horsemen was twenty thousand times ten thousand. and i heard the number of them. and thus i saw the horses in the vision: and they that sat on them, had breastplates of fire and of hyacinth and of brimstone, and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions: and from their mouths proceeded fire, and smoke, and brimstone. and by these three plagues was slain the third part of men, by the fire and by the smoke and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths. for the power of the horses is in their mouths, and in their tails. for, their tails are like to serpents, and have heads: and with them they hurt. and the rest of the men, who were not slain by these plagues, did not do penance from the works of their hands, that they should not adore devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and wood, which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk: neither did they penance from their murders, nor from their sorceries, nor from their fornication, nor from their

and i saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and a rainbow was on his head, and his face was as the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire. and he had in his hand a little book open: and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot upon the earth. and he cried with a loud voice as when a lion roareth. and when he had cried, seven thunders uttered their voices. and when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, i was about to write: and i heard a voice from heaven saying to me: seal up the things which the seven thunders have spoken; and write them not. and the angel, whom i saw standing upon the sea and upon the earth, lifted up his hand to heaven, and he swore by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and the things which are therein; and the earth, and the things which are in it; and the sea, and the things which are therein: that time shall be no longer. but in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound the trumpet, the mystery of god shall be finished, as he hath declared by his servants the prophets. and i heard a voice from heaven again speaking to me, and saying: go, and take the book that is open, from the hand of the angel who standeth upon the sea, and upon the earth. and i went to the angel, saying unto him, that he should give me the book. and he said to me: take the book, and eat it up: and it shall make thy belly bitter, but in thy mouth it shall be sweet as honey. and i took the book from the hand of the angel, and ate it up: and it was in my mouth, sweet as honey: and when i had eaten it, my belly was bitter. and he said to me: thou must prophesy again to many nations, and peoples, and tongues, and kings.

and there was given me a reed like unto a rod: and it was said to me: arise, and measure the temple of god, and the altar and them that adore therein. but the court, which is without the temple, cast out, and measure it not: because it is given unto the gentiles, and the holy city they shall tread under foot two and forty months: and i will give unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred sixty days, clothed in sackcloth. these are the two olive trees, and the two candlesticks, that stand before the lord of the earth. and if any man will hurt them, fire shall come out of their mouths, and shall devour their enemies. and if any man will hurt them, in this manner must he be slain. these have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and they have power over waters to turn them into blood, and to strike the earth with all plagues as often as they will. and when they shall have finished their testimony, the beast, that ascendeth out of the abyss, shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them. and their bodies shall lie in the streets of the great city, which is called spiritually, sodom and egypt, where their lord also was crucified. and they of the tribes, and peoples, and tongues, and nations, shall see their bodies for three days and a half: and they shall not suffer their bodies to be laid in sepulchres. and they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry: and shall send gifts one to another, because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt upon the earth. and after three days and a half, the spirit of life from god entered into them. and they stood upon their feet, and great fear fell upon them that saw them. and they heard a great voice from heaven, saying to them: come up hither. and they went up to heaven in a cloud: and their enemies saw them. and at that hour there was made a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell: and there were slain in the earthquake names of men seven thousand: and the rest were cast into a fear, and gave glory to the god of heaven. the second woe is past: and behold the third woe will come quickly. and the seventh angel sounded the trumpet: and there were great voices in heaven, saying: the kingdom of this world is become our lord's and his christ's, and he shall reign for ever and ever. amen. and the four and twenty ancients, who sit on their seats in the sight of god, fell on their faces and adored god, saying: we give thee thanks, o lord god almighty, who art, and who wast, and who art to come: because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and thou hast reigned. and the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest render reward to thy servants the prophets and the saints, and to them that fear thy name, little and great, and shouldest destroy them who have corrupted the earth. and the temple of god was opened in heaven: and the ark of his testament was seen in his temple, and there were lightnings, and voices, and an earthquake, and great hail.

and a great sign appeared in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars: and being with child, she cried travailling in birth, and was in pain to be delivered. and there was seen another sign in heaven: and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads, and ten horns: and on his head seven diadems: and his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman who was ready to be delivered; that, when she should be delivered, he might devour her son. and she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with an iron rod: and her son was taken up to god, and to his throne. and the woman fled into the wilderness, where she had a place prepared by god, that there they should feed her a thousand two hundred sixty days. and there was a great battle in heaven, michael and his angels fought with the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels: and they prevailed not, neither was their place found any more in heaven. and that great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, who is called the devil and satan, who seduceth the whole world; and he was cast unto the earth, and his angels were thrown down with him. and i heard a loud voice in heaven, saying: now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our god, and the power of his christ: because the accuser of our brethren is cast forth, who accused them before our god day and night. and they overcame him by the blood of the lamb, and by the word of the testimony, and they loved not their lives unto death. therefore rejoice, o heavens, and you that dwell therein. woe to the earth, and to the sea, because the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, knowing that he hath but a short time. and when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman, who brought forth the man child: and there were given to the woman two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the desert unto her place, where she is nourished for a time and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent. and the serpent cast out of his mouth after the woman, water as it were a river; that he might cause her to be carried away by the river. and the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the river, which the dragon cast out of his mouth. and the dragon was angry against the woman: and went to make war with the rest of her seed, who keep the commandments of god, and have the testimony of jesus christ.

and he stood upon the sand of the sea. and i saw a beast coming up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten diadems, and upon his heads names of blasphemy. and the beast, which i saw, was like to a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion. and the dragon gave him his own strength, and great power. and i saw one of his heads as it were slain to death: and his death's wound was healed. and all the earth was in admiration after the beast. and they adored the dragon, which gave power to the beast: and they adored the beast, saying: who is like to the beast? and who shall be able to fight with him? and there was given to him a mouth speaking great things, and blasphemies: and power was given to him to do two and forty months. and he opened his mouth unto blasphemies against god, to blaspheme his name, and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven. and it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them. and power was given him over every tribe, and people, and tongue, and nation. and all the dwell upon the earth adored him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the lamb, which was slain from the beginning of the world. if any man have an ear, let him hear. he that shall lead into captivity, shall go into captivity: he that shall kill by the sword, must be killed by the sword. here is the patience and the faith of the saints. and i saw another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns, like a lamb, and he spoke as a dragon. and he executed all the power of the former beast in his sight;

and he caused the earth, and them that dwell therein, to adore the first beast, whose wound to death was healed. and he did great signs, so that he made also fire to come down from heaven unto the earth in the sight of men. and he seduced them that dwell on the earth, for the signs, which were given him to do in the sight of the beast, saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make the image of the beast, which had the wound by the sword, and lived. and it was given him to give life to the image of the beast, and that the image of the beast should speak; and should cause, that whosoever will not adore the image of the beast, should be slain. and he shall make all, both little and great, rich and poor, freemen and bondmen, to have a character in their right hand, or on their foreheads. and that no man might buy or sell, but he that hath the character, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. here is wisdom. he that hath understanding, let him count the number of the beast. for it is the number of a man: and the number of him is six hundred sixty-six.

and i beheld, and lo a lamb stood upon mount sion, and with him an hundred forty-four thousand, having his name, and the name of his father, written on their foreheads. and i heard a voice from heaven, as the noise of many waters, and as the voice of great thunder; and the voice which i heard, was as the voice of harpers, harping on their harps. and they sung as it were a new canticle, before the throne, and before the four living creatures, and the ancients; and no man could say the canticle, but those hundred forty-four thousand, who were purchased from the earth. these are they who were not defiled with women: for they are virgins. these follow the lamb whithersoever he goeth. these were purchased from among men, the firstfruits to god and to the lamb: and in their mouth there was found no lie; for they are without spot before the throne of god. and i saw another angel flying through the midst of heaven, having the eternal gospel, to preach unto them that sit upon the earth, and over every nation, and tribe, and tongue, and people: saying with a loud voice: fear the lord, and give him honour, because the hour of his judgment is come; and adore ye him, that made heaven and earth, the sea, and the fountains of waters. and another angel followed, saying: that great babylon is fallen, is fallen; which made all nations to drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication. and the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice: if any man shall adore the beast and his image, and receive his character in his forehead, or in his hand; he also shall drink of the wine of the wrath of god, which is mingled with pure wine in the cup of his wrath, and shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the sight of the holy angels, and in the sight of the lamb. and the smoke of their torments shall ascend up for ever and ever: neither have they rest day nor night, who have adored the beast, and his image, and whoever receiveth the character of his name. here is the patience of the saints, who keep the commandments of god, and the faith of jesus. and i heard a voice from heaven, saying to me: write: blessed are the dead, who die in the lord. from henceforth now, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labours; for their works follow them. and i saw, and behold a white cloud; and upon the cloud one sitting like to the son of man, having on his head a crown of gold, and in his hand a sharp sickle. and another angel came out from the temple crying with a loud voice to him that sat upon the cloud: thrust in thy sickle, and reap, because the hour is come to reap: for the harvest of the earth is ripe. and he that sat on the cloud thrust his sickle into the earth, and the earth was reaped. and another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle. and another angel came out from the altar, who had power over fire; and he cried with a loud voice to him that had the sharp sickle, saying: thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vineyard of the earth; because the grapes thereof are ripe. and the angel thrust in his sharp sickle into the earth, and gathered the vineyard of the earth, and cast it into the great press of the wrath of god: and the press was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the press, up to the horses' bridles, for a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

and i saw another sign in heaven, great and wonderful: seven angels having the seven last plagues. for in them is filled up the wrath of god. and i saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire, and them that had overcome the beast, and his image, and the number of his name, standing on the sea of glass, having the harps of god: and singing the canticle of moyses, the servant of god, and the canticle of the lamb, saying: great and wonderful are thy works, o lord god almighty; just and true are thy ways, o king of ages. who shall not fear thee, o lord, and magnify thy name? for thou only art holy: for all nations shall come, and shall adore in thy sight, because thy judgments are manifest. and after these things i looked; and behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened: and the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, clothed with clean and white linen, and girt about the breasts with golden girdles. and one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden vials, full of the wrath of god, who liveth for ever and ever. and the temple was filled with smoke from the majesty of god, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

and i heard a great voice out of the temple, saying to the seven angels: go, and pour out the seven vials of the wrath of god upon the earth. and the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth, and there fell a sore and grievous wound upon men, who had the character of the beast; and upon them that adored

the image thereof. and the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea, and there came blood as it were of a dead man; and every living soul died in the sea. and the third poured out his vial upon the rivers and the fountains of waters; and there was made blood. and i heard the angel of the waters saying: thou art just, o lord, who art, and who wast, the holy one, because thou hast judged these things: for they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy. and i heard another, from the altar, saying: yea, o lord god almighty, true and just are thy judgments. and the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun, and it was given unto him to afflict men with heat and fire: and men were scorched with great heat, and they blasphemed the name of god, who hath power over these plagues, neither did they penance to give him glory. and the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast; and his kingdom became dark, and they gnawed their tongues for pain: and they blasphemed the god of heaven, because of their pains and wounds, and did not penance for their works. and the sixth angel poured out his vial upon that great river euphrates; and dried up the water thereof, that a way might be prepared for the kings from the rising of the sun. and i saw from the mouth of the dragon, and from the mouth of the beast, and from the mouth of the false prophet, three unclean spirits like frogs. for they are the spirits of devils working signs, and they go forth unto the kings of the whole earth, to gather them to battle against the great day of the almighty god. behold, i come as a thief. blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame. and he shall gather them together into a place, which in hebrew is called armagedon. and the seventh angel poured out his vial upon the air, and there came a great voice out of the temple from the throne, saying: it is done. and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunders, and there was a great earthquake, such an one as never had been since men were upon the earth, such an earthquake, so great. and the great city was divided into three parts; and the cities of the gentiles fell. and great babylon came in remembrance before god, to give her the cup of the wine of the indignation of his wrath. and every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. and great hail, like a talent, came down from heaven upon men: and men blasphemed god for the plague of the hail: because it was exceeding great.

and there came one of the seven angels, who had the seven vials, and spoke with me, saying: come, i will shew thee the condemnation of the great harlot, who sitteth upon many waters, with whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication; and they who inhabit the earth, have been made drunk with the whine of her whoredom. and he took me away in spirit into the desert. and i saw a woman sitting upon a scarlet coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. and the woman was clothed round about with purple and scarlet, and gilt with gold, and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand, full of the abomination and filthiness of her fornication. and on her forehead a name was written: a mystery; babylon the great, the mother of the fornications, and the abominations of the earth. and i saw the woman drunk with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of jesus. and i wondered, when i had seen her, with great admiration. and the angel said to me: why dost thou wonder? i will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast which carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns. the beast, which thou sawest, was, and is not, and shall come up out of the bottomless pit, and go into destruction: and the inhabitants on the earth (whose names are not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world) shall wonder, seeing the beast that was, and is not. and here is the understanding that hath wisdom. the seven heads are seven mountains, upon which the woman sitteth, and they are seven kings: five are fallen, one is, and the other is not yet come: and when he is come, he must remain a short time. and the beast which was, and is not: the same also is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into destruction. and the ten horns which thou sawest, are ten kings, who have not yet received a kingdom, but shall receive power as kings one hour after the beast. these have one design: and their strength and power they shall deliver to the beast. these shall fight with the lamb, and the lamb shall overcome them, because he is lord of lords, and king of kings, and they that are with him are called, and elect, and faithful. and he said to me: the waters which thou sawest, where the harlot sitteth, are peoples, and nations, and tongues. and the ten horns which thou sawest in the beast: these shall hate the harlot, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and shall burn her with fire. for god hath given into their hearts to do that which pleaseth him: that they give their kingdom to the beast, till the words of god be fulfilled. and the woman which thou sawest, is the great city, which hath kingdom over the kings of the earth.

and after these things, i saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power: and the earth was enlightened with his glory. and he cried out with a strong voice, saying: babylon the great is fallen, is fallen; and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every unclean spirit, and the hold of every unclean and hateful bird: because all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication; and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her; and the merchants of the earth have been made rich by the power of her delicacies. and i heard another voice from heaven, saying: go out from her, my people; that you be not partakers of her sins, and that you receive not of her plagues. for her sins have reached unto heaven, and the lord hath remembered her iniquities. render to her as she also hath rendered to you; and double unto her double according to her works: in the cup wherein she hath mingled, mingle ye double unto her. as much as she hath glorified herself, and lived in delicacies, so much torment and sorrow give ye to her; because she saith in her heart: i sit a queen, and am no widow; and sorrow i shall not see. therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine, and she shall be burnt with the fire; because god is strong, who shall judge her. and the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication, and lived in delicacies with her, shall weep, and bewail themselves over her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning: standing afar off for fear of her torments, saying: alas! alas! that great city babylon, that mighty city: for in one hour is thy judgment come. and the merchants of the earth shall weep, and mourn over her: for no man shall buy their merchandise any more. merchandise of gold and silver, and precious stones; and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all thyine wood, and all manner of vessels of ivory, and all manner of vessels of precious stone, and of brass, and of iron, and of marble, and cinnamon, and odours, and ointment, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and slaves, and souls of men. and the fruits of the desire of thy soul are departed from thee, and all fat and goodly things are perished from thee, and they shall find them no more at all. the merchants of these things, who were made rich, shall stand afar off from her, for fear of her torments, weeping and mourning. and saying: alas! alas! that great city, which was clothed with fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and was gilt with gold, and precious stones, and pearls. for in one hour are so great riches come to nought; and every shipmaster, and all that sail into the lake, and mariners, and as many as work in the sea, stood afar off. and cried, seeing the place of her burning, saying: what city is like to this great city? and they cast dust upon their heads, and cried, weeping and mourning, saying: alas! alas! that great city, wherein all were made rich, that had ships at sea, by reason of her prices: for in one hour she is made desolate. rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for god hath judged your judgment on her. and a mighty angel took up a stone, as it were a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying: with such violence as this shall babylon, that great city, be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all. and the voice of harpers, and of musicians, and of them that play on the pipe, and on the trumpet, shall no more be heard at all in thee; and no craftsman of any art whatsoever shall be found any more at all in thee; and the sound of the mill shall be heard no more at all in thee; and the light of the lamp shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth, for all nations have been deceived by thy enchantments. and in her was found the blood of prophets and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth.

after these things i heard as it were the voice of much people in heaven, saying: alleluia. salvation, and glory, and power is to our god, for true and just are his judgments, who hath judged the great harlot which corrupted the earth with her fornication, and hath revenged the blood of his servants, at her hands. and again they said: alleluia. and her smoke ascendeth for ever and ever. and the four and twenty ancients, and the four living creatures fell down and adored god that sitteth upon the throne, saying: amen; alleluia. and a voice came out from the throne, saying: give praise to our god, all ye his servants; and you that fear him, little and great. and i heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of great thunders, saying, alleluia: for the lord our god the almighty hath reigned. let us be glad and rejoice, and give glory to him; for the marriage of the lamb is come, and his wife hath prepared herself. and it is granted to her that she should clothe herself with fine linen, glittering and white. for the fine linen are the justifications of saints. and he said to me: write: blessed are they that are called to the marriage supper of the lamb. and he saith to me: these words of god are true. and i fell down before his feet, to adore him. and he saith to me: see thou do it not: i am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren, who have the testimony of jesus. adore god. for the testimony of jesus is the spirit of prophecy. and i saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called faithful and true, and with justice doth he judge and fight. and his eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many diadems, and he had a name written, which no man knoweth but himself. and he was clothed with a garment sprinkled with blood; and his name is called, the word of god. and the armies that are in heaven followed him on white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean. and out of his mouth proceedeth a sharp two edged sword; that with it he may strike the nations. and he shall rule them with a rod of iron; and he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness of the wrath of god the almighty. and he hath on his garment, and on his thigh written: king of kings, and lord of lords. and i saw an angel standing in the sun, and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the birds that did fly through the midst of heaven: come, gather yourselves together to the great supper of god: that you may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of tribunes, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all freemen and bondmen, and of little and of great. and i saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies gathered together to make war with him that sat upon the horse, and with his army. and the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet, who wrought signs before him, wherewith he seduced them who received the character of the beast, and who adored his image. these two were cast alive into the pool of fire, burning with brimstone. and the rest were slain by the sword of him that sitteth upon the horse, which proceedeth out of his mouth;

and i saw an angel coming down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit, and a great chain in his hand. and he laid hold on the dragon the old serpent, which is the devil and satan, and bound him for a thousand years. and he cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should no more seduce the nations, till the thousand years be finished. and after that, he must be loosed a little time. and i saw seats; and they sat upon them; and judgment was given unto them; and the souls of them that were beheaded for the testimony of jesus, and for the word of god, and who had not adored the beast nor his image, nor received his character on their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with christ a thousand years. the rest of the dead lived not, till the thousand years were finished. this is the first resurrection. blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection. in these the second death hath no power; but they shall be priests of god and of christ; and shall reign with him a thousand years. and when the thousand years shall be finished, satan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall go forth, and seduce the nations, which are over the four quarters of the earth, gog, and magog, and shall gather them together to battle, the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. and they came upon the breadth of the earth, and encompassed the camp of the saints, and the beloved city. and there came down fire from god out of heaven, and devoured them; and the devil, who seduced them, was cast into the pool of fire and brimstone, where both the beast and the false prophet shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever. and i saw a great white throne, and one sitting upon it, from whose face the earth and heaven fled away, and there was no place found for them. and i saw the dead, great and small, standing in the presence of the throne, and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged by those things which were written in the books, according to their works. and the sea gave up the dead that were in it, and death and hell gave up their dead that were in them; and they were judged every one according to their works. and hell and death were cast into the pool of fire. this is the second death. and whosoever was not found written in the book of life, was cast into the pool of fire.

and i saw a new heaven and a new earth. for the first heaven and the first earth was gone, and the sea is now no more. and i john saw the holy city, the new jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from god, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. and i heard a great voice from the throne, saying: behold the tabernacle of god with men, and he will dwell with them. and they shall be his people; and god himself with them shall be their god. and god shall wipe away all tears from their eyes: and death shall be no more, nor mourning, nor crying, nor sorrow shall be any more, for the former things are passed away. and he that sat on the throne, said: behold, i make all things new. and he said to me: write, for these words are most faithful and true. and he said to me: it is done. i am alpha and omega; the beginning and the end. to him that thirsteth, i will give of the fountain of the water of life, freely. he that shall overcome shall possess these things, and i will be his god; and he shall be my son. but the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, they shall have their portion in the pool burning with fire and brimstone, which is the second death. and there came one of the seven angels, who had the vials full of the seven last plagues, and spoke with me, saying: come, and i will shew thee the bride, the wife of the lamb. and he took me up in spirit to a great and high mountain: and he shewed me the holy city jerusalem coming down out of heaven from god, having the glory of god, and the light thereof was like to a precious stone, as to the jasper stone, even as crystal. and it had a wall great and high, having twelve gates, and in the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of israel. on the east, three gates: and on the north, three gates: and on the south, three gates: and on the west, three gates. and the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them, the twelve names of the twelve apostles of the lamb. and he that spoke with me, had a measure of a reed of gold, to measure the city and the gates thereof, and the wall. and the city lieth in a foursquare, and the length thereof is as great as the breadth: and he measured the city with the golden reed for twelve thousand furlongs, and the length and the height and the breadth thereof are equal. and he measured the wall thereof an hundred and forty-four cubits, the measure of a man, which is of an angel. and the building of the wall thereof was of jasper stone: but the city itself pure gold, like to clear glass. and the foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with all manner of precious stones. the first foundation was jasper: the second, sapphire: the third, a chalcedony: the fourth, an emerald: the fifth, sardonyx: the sixth, sardius: the seventh, chrysolite: the eighth, beryl: the ninth, a topaz: the tenth, a chrysoprasus: the eleventh, a jacinth: the twelfth, an amethyst. and the twelve gates are twelve pearls, one to each: and every several gate was of one several pearl. and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass. and i saw no temple therein. for the lord god almighty is the temple thereof, and the lamb. and the city hath no need of the sun, nor of the moon, to shine in it. for the glory of god hath enlightened it, and the lamb is the lamp thereof. and the nations shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth shall bring their glory and honour into it. and the gates thereof shall not be shut by day: for there shall be no night there. and they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it. there shall not enter into it any thing defiled, or that worketh abomination or maketh a lie, but they that are written in the book of

and he showed me a river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding from the throne of god and of the lamb. in the midst of the street thereof, and on both sides of the river, was the tree of life, bearing twelve fruits, yielding its fruits every month, and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. and there shall be no curse any more; but the throne of god and of the lamb shall be in it, and his servants shall serve him. and they shall see his face: and his name shall be on their foreheads. and night shall be no more: and they shall not need the light of the lamp, nor the light of the sun, because the lord god shall enlighten them, and they shall reign for ever and ever. and he said to me: these words are most faithful and true. and the lord god of the spirits of the prophets sent his angel to shew his servants the things which must be done shortly. and, behold i come quickly. blessed is he that keepeth the words of the prophecy of this book. and i, john, who have heard and seen these things. and after i had heard and seen, i fell down to adore before the feet of the angel, who shewed me these things. and he said to me: see thou do it not: for i am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them that keep the words of the prophecy of this book. adore god. and he saith to me: seal not the words of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand. he that hurteth, let him hurt still: and he that is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is just, let him be justified still: and he that is holy, let him be sanctified still. behold, i come quickly; and my reward is with me, to render to every man according to his works. i am alpha and omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end. blessed are they that wash their robes in the blood of the lamb: that they may have a right to the tree of life, and may enter in by the gates into the city. without are dogs, and sorcerers, and unchaste, and murderers, and servers of idols, and every one that loveth and maketh a lie. i jesus have sent my angel, to testify to you these things in the churches. i am the root and stock of david, the bright and morning star. and the spirit and the bride say: come. and he that heareth, let him say: come. and he that thirsteth, let him come: and he that will, let him take the water of life, freely. for i testify to every one that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book: if any man shall add to these things, god shall add unto him the plagues written in this book. and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, god shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from these things that are written in this book. he that giveth testimony of these things, saith, surely i come quickly: amen. come, lord jesus. the grace of our lord jesus christ be with you all. amen.
